Ninety-six Years Shift View of Seward Folly

By W. B. RAGDALE Jr. WASHINGTON (AP)—Ninety-six years ago Saturday the United States paid Russia $7.5 million for Alaska—then Russian America. A few years ago, just after Alaska became the 49th state, Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov said:

"We'd give you $200 million for it, but I don't suppose you would sell. We have a proverb in Russia, if something has fallen off a cart, it is lost forever."

When Russia gave up Alaska in 1867 after holding it for 126 years, many Americans thought $7.5 million was far too much to pay for what they considered as an ice-bound wasteland.

There were rumors that the Russian minister had bribed high officials to secure congressional approval of the deal.

Wise dubbed it "Seward's folly" and "Johnson's polar bear farm" and one writer described an imaginary visit to Alaska:

"I visited all of the important points along the coast and found them covered with ice, and very slippery indeed; I don't think an enemy could ever get a foothold on these slopes."

In the mid-1800s, Russia's czarist government realized it couldn't defend Alaska if war came and the colony would fall eventually either to the United States or Great Britain, and Russia preferred having it belong to the United States.

Sen. Charles Sumner of Massachusetts said shortly after the Senate ratified the purchase treaty that Russia had "winked and stripped herself of all our possessions in the Northwest in order to gain her strength for her struggle with England for control of Asia."

Russia had looked upon Alaska as an investment rather than a colony. The Russian American Oil held exclusive franchises to exploit the wealth.

Mismanagement had brought the company to the verge of bankruptcy when the czar refused to renew the franchise in 1867. The Russians felt they had drained the country of most of its resources.

The treaty was signed at 4 a.m. March 30 and immediately sent to the Senate. It was ratified April 9.

Congress appropriated no money for payment before it adjourned, but Russian-U.S. relations were so cordial that Alaska was handed over anyway on Oct. 18.

Efforts to appropriate the money were stalled by the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson in early 1868. It took an unlikely coalition of Johnson supporters and the man who had just tried to remove the president from office to win 113-43 approval of the House by July 14, 1868.

This strange partnership resulted in rumors that Stoeckl had bribed key officials. After the payment, reports indicate that some $150,000 of the $7.2 million never reached Russia.

When he left the country a few months later Stoeckl said he was sick of the corruption of congressmen and other public officials in the United States.

These rumors gained new life in 1905 upon discovery of a memo by President Johnson detailing a conversation with Seward Sept. 6, 1864, in a phone.

Johnson said Seward told him Stoeckl had admitted paying $200,000 to Charles F. Forsyth, owner of the Philadelphia Press, for his newspaper's support of the Alaska purchase appropriation. Forsyth had been an ally of Johnson.

Ralph Korngold, a recent biographer of House Leader Thaddeus Stevens, said Seward was "an old gossip to whom the satisfaction of telling a sensational story meant more than a man's reputation."

Korngold said there also were rumors current at the time that Seward had received $200,000.

In December 1868, testifying before a House committee investigating the rumors, Seward said, "I know nothing whatever of the use the minister made of the fund. I know of no payment to anybody by him, or of any application of the funds which he received. In regard to all these charges President Johnson detailing a conversation with Seward Sept. 6, 1864, in a phone.

Figures to Replace Letters In Dial System on April 7

Seven-figure telephone numbers and a new long distance dialing system will be introduced to Manchester and Rockville telephone customers beginning Sunday, April 7.

D. Lloyd Hobson, Manchester manager of the Southern New England Telephone Co., says that seven-figure telephone numbers are being assigned to new telephones going into service in the area, and that new dial stickers would be provided to home users and installed by the telephone company on dial and business phones.

According to Hobson, all number calling is being introduced because it provides more telephone number combinations in the present two-letter and five-figure combination.

In most cases, he said, customers will find the first two letters of their present telephone numbers have been translated into the corresponding numbers on the dial. Thus the prefix for the exchange, MI, becomes 84, followed by the conventional five-digit telephone number.

A change in long distance dialing will also be effective April 7. Instead of dialing "11" for long distance calls, a telephone user will only have to dial "1" and the complete telephone number.

With the new system, long distance calls in Connecticut need dial only "1" then the complete telephone number they are calling.

For out of state calls, customers need dial "1" plus the three-digit area code and the complete number.

By dialing "1" the customer automatically informs the dial equipment that he is making a long distance call. The call is then routed through the direct distance dialing equipment and the necessary information automatically recorded for billing.

Firing Dispute Halts Printing Of Inquirer

He said the telegram said "any members refusing or failing to comply with the above mandate will be suspended as members of the International Typographical Union with loss of all benefits of membership."

Hobson said the discharged employee was fired for neglect of duty and abusive conduct toward a foreman. He disputed a union claim the man was conducting union business, charging the man was not a legal union officer.

Wednesday's Inquirer said the newspaper's daily circulation was more than 60,000.

The Daily Pennsylvania, campus newspaper at the University of Pennsylvania, said it planned to run off several thousand extra copies today and sell them in Center City.

Engravers to Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for striking photographers meet today with the publishers of eight newspapers—the first scheduled contact between the two groups since members of the APE-CIO Photographers Union Local 1 struck the industry by rejecting settlement terms that their leaders had expected them to accept.

The action by the union, which has 320 members on the papers, prolonged New York's newspaper shutdown, now in its 112th day.

Frank McGowan, president of the New York local, asked for the meeting Thursday, and Mayor Robert F. Wagner—who had come up with the terms that the photographers' rank and file rejected—obtained agreement from the publishers to meet.

McGowan presumably was acting on a mandate from some 300 engravers who overrode their leadership Wednesday night and turned down the terms by a vote of 191-131.

Publishers are on record as unwilling to go beyond a 12.68 a week two-year contract package accepted by other unions, including printers whose Dec. 8 strike spurred the newspaper shutdown.

For the engravers, the proposed pact provided a $4.80 increase in wages and fringe benefits the first year and $6.12 the second. The strike benefits included a cut in the 26 1/2-hour work week to 24 hours—but only for the overnight shift and in the second year of the contract.

The rank and file's chief dissatisfaction concerned their demand for a 35-hour week at once on all night printers whose Dec. 8 strike spurred the newspaper shutdown.

The engravers' rejection came as nearly 20,000 other newspaper employees prepared to return the night shift last Sunday, ending the 26 1/2-hour work week to 24 hours—but only for the overnight shift and in the second year of the contract.

Wagner Charges GOP Is Bankrupt Party

Thirteen Manchester Democrats last night were among about 1,500 party loyal who heard the Republican party charged as "bankrupt" and their own party cheered for past victories and for victories they hope are imminent.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City was the main speaker at the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner at Hartford's Stalder-Hilton.

Proceeds from the $100-a-plate affair will bring an estimated $500,000 into the Democratic coffers.

"The Republican party is bankrupt in ideas. It is bankrupt in ideals. It is bankrupt in both principles and programs," said Mayor Wagner. "It is bankrupt in its ability to put forth high caliber candidates for office and to support programs and services the people really want and need."

Sen. Ribicoff said that while the dinner was a celebration of Democratic wins it also marked the beginning of the 1968 campaign. Gov. Dempsey praised the two U.S. senators and also called for support on his medical-dental school plan.

The Manchester Democrats attending the affair were Reps. Steve Cavagnaro and Paul Grobert, Mayor Francis Mahoney, Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings, Young Democrats President Arnold Klasi, Sheriff Clarence Foley.

Alan Norman Connolly, an official with the State Fish and Game Department; Town Clerk Edward Tomasko; Miss Barbara Coleman, a member of the town committee's executive board; Mrs. Mary Denevianka, an employee of the Democratic State Central Committee; Mrs. Mae Vennard, Neil Ellis and G. Leo Hogan.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians say their language is being taught in 30 capitalist countries and in some of the new countries of Asia and Africa.

Citing examples, the State Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries reports that Russian is being taught in over 100 schools in France and 20 in Britain. In Japan, a report said, more than 2,000 persons are studying the Russian language.
