administration's bill is an expected southern filibuster. Wednesday, those who would shut off debate picked up the support of Republican Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire.

Cotton said in a statement he will vote to end debate "after sufficient time has been given to the issues to be clearly drawn and thoroughly considered."

An AF of M survey earlier this month indicated the civil rights forces cannot count on marshaling the required two-thirds of the votes to shut off debate. At that time a question mark hung over Cotton's position. He is the top Republican on the Senate Commerce Committee, which will study the bill.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chairman of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that holds civil rights hearings, told a reporter he does not desire to lead the start of a hearing on the administration's package bill.

The North Carolina Democrat said hearings afford the best opportunity to bring before the Senate and the public "the foolish things" and the broad grants of power embodied in the legislation.

Town to Aid In Defining Good Schools

The Manchester school system next year will participate in an experimental program to study a proposed system of accreditation of Connecticut public schools.

This was the decision of a board of education last night after hearing the recommendations of the accreditation committee.

The board, headed by William H. Curtis, had been authorized by the board to attend a meeting June 12 in the office of Dr. William J. Sanders, state commissioner of education, to discuss the program.

Manchester is one of about 20 Connecticut school systems which have been invited to help test the accreditation standards which the State Department of Education is preparing.

A set of standards is necessary for all schools, Commissioner Sanders said, because Connecticut law requires towns to maintain "good schools," but does not define what good schools are.

The proposed program, initiated in 1961, has been developed and reviewed by two citizens' conferences on education, and on June 8 was approved by the State board.

Now the program will move into the two-year experimental phase of which Manchester will become part. During this period, participants will criticize and sug-

Three Ending, Three Start Internships

Three doctors will be completing their one-year rotating internship and three others will begin theirs on July 1 at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Finishing their internship are Dr. Paul Marshall, who has accepted an anesthesiology residency at the Portland Medical Center in Maine; Dr. W. O. Van Meter, who will start a residency in neurosurgery in New York City; and Dr. J. J. Guarino, who is joining Dr. Joseph Masarova's office, 52 Park St.

Starting a one-year internship is Dr. Alberto Vera from the Virgin Islands, a Graduate of the University of Santo Domingo; Dr. Constantine Mariphas from Rocky Hill, a graduate of Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich., and Dr. Ruben Palacios, a Cuban refugee who attended the University of Havana.

South Windsor Next School Needed in '65 Board Finds

No new school need be ready until Sept. 4, 1965, according to projections submitted to the board of education by School Supt. Metc. B. Woodmansee.

Woodmansee will make further studies of enrollment to determine the size of the school proposed for the fall of 1965, and submit his report to the board at its July 15 meeting.

The critical area in school population in 1964-65 school year would be the Wapping Elementary School.

There will be one spare room in Pleasant Valley School, according to projections in 1964-65. If Union Elementary is overcrowded, the library can be used as a classroom. The only problem is that at this time would be in Wapping, where it is believed there will be one room short. However, no room could be moved from Wapping to the high school, forcing a new school until the next year.

There is an estimated enrollment of 280 for the high school. Twenty-five entering ninth graders may go to East Catholic High School, leaving a total enrollment of 255. The seventh and eighth graders from Pleasant Valley (107 pupils) will lack of room.

Woodmansee said that even though his estimates were on an enrollment figure with no allowances for population growth, there is still leeway for growth in the class size. He therefore concluded that the number of rooms estimated is fairly accurate.

The subject of trailers being used as a temporary measure in 1964 was not discussed. Three schools for the projected school population.

It was noted that trailers could not be used for this coming school year to avoid double sessions in 1965 unless more are needed.

Woodmansee said that, when setting up the bus schedule for next year, he will attempt to make more uniform the opening and closing of all schools. These schedules will be completed, he said, by mid-July.

Department Heads Named

Mass Am. Duffy was named department head of mathematics for Grades 7 through 12, and Francis Case was appointed department head of English for the same grades. They will coordinate the work within their departments, and develop the curriculum for their subjects. They will still teach the same number of classes as previously.

The superintendent noted that the Supreme Court has recently ruled that is unconstitutional to require Bible reading and the recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools. The board's action requiring a minute of silent prayer "does not seem to be in conflict with this ruling because no specific prayer is required," he said.

Practical Agendas

The summer schedule for school principals—their elementary working month—includes a study of several topics. Priority will be given to topics involving curriculum development, particularly mathematics. The subjects include: familiarization with the new mathematics program; development of new cumulative record cards; scheduling of special teachers; discussion of science course of study; suggested standardized time schedule for curriculum areas in Grades 1-6; discussion of penmanship curriculum; standardization of forms used in schools for taking attendance.

Other items which may be studied are: improvement of teacher evaluation form and discussion of procedures and practices; familiarization with policies of the board of education; in-service training for 1968-69; development of evaluative procedures for elementary school French program; discussion of educational television utilization for elementary schools; supervision of custodians within individual buildings.

American Legion Notes

Mr. Frank Rosen received two cash awards for publicity at the American Legion First District meeting. One award was for his history of the Abe E. Miller American Legion Auxiliary, and the other was for his unit publicity book.

The Auxiliary also received the gold traveling cup for best attendance at district meetings for the seventh consecutive time. This cup is awarded on a monthly basis.

What is needed, he said of contracts with the government, "is that standards be developed for determining the ability of contractors to comply in advance of contract award—standards which will apply to subcontract relationships, referral arrangements and apprentice programs to insure that the sources from which the building tradesmen will be drawn afford equal opportunity to all."

His standards will be issued shortly. They will spell out in detail the most important aspects of the contractor's obligation to take "affirmative action." Once adopted, these standards will provide the basis for intensive compliance activities in contract by program if necessary.

In launching the administration's bill on its course through Congress, Sen. Kennedy was subjected to detailed, legislative questioning, mostly by Republicans.

The chief criticism was aimed at a proposal to ban racial discrimination in hotels, restaurants and other places serving the public.

Rep. John V. Lindsay, N.Y., a leader of the GOP civil rights bloc in the House, said in a hearing he thought Kennedy had "acquitted himself very well."

Lindsay expressed disappointment, however, that Kennedy had not even read the 41 Republican civil rights bills introduced last January. He said additional bills put in this month, most of them covering the same ground as the bill outlined by the President last week.

The chief disagreement between Kennedy and the Republicans was over the public accommodations section. The administration is relying chiefly on the federal power to regulate interstate commerce, while the GOP favors pinning any action to the 14th Amendment of the Constitution. At the heart of this agreement is the traditional Republican opposition to any expansion of federal power in the private enterprise sector.

Rep. Charles McNair, Ohio, said GOP membership aid will give too much power to the attorney general, falls to cover discriminatory practices in labor unions and includes proposals already in the law.

Kennedy showed a willingness to compromise on details. He said a suggestion by chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., to set a minimum volume of business below which law "has a lot of merit," and he promised to help set a cutoff line.

On the Senate side of the Capitol the chief obstacle to the ad-

WASHINGTON—Gov. Robert F. Kennedy runs into opposition to proposal to ban discrimination in hotels, restaurants and other places of public accommodation when he asks Congress to pass administration's civil rights bill.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says he will offer an amendment to the administration's proposal to deny National Labor Relations Board other benefits to unions that practice discrimination.

Victory on First Ballot Swanson Beats Pearl For 8th District Post

Victor E. Swanson of 30 Hudson St. last night was elected president of the Eighth District on the first ballot, marking his return to North End government life after a two year absence.

The former district president (1964) and tax collector (1966-67) garnered 113 votes as against his nearest opponent, Director Burton D. Pearl, who received 47 votes. Bernard August, a third candidate, had 18 votes of the total 178 cast.

A tax rate of 2.5 mills, as recommended by the board of directors, was approved by vote, as was the proposed budget of $79,000.

The largest turnout of voters in recent years, with the majority backing a businessman and city council member endorsed slate, voted three-year directors post to James Trivigno of 118 Cambridge St. and William M. Hamilton of 203 Oakland St.

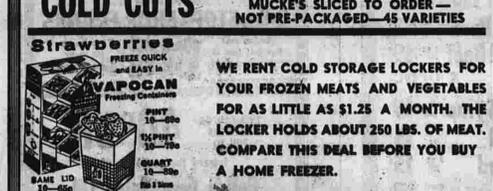

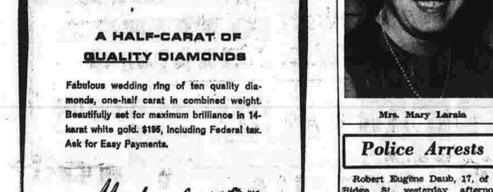

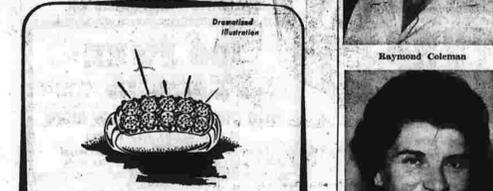

Trivigno, a North End business man, was elected president of the district on a first ballot count of 129 to 68.

Hankinson, a Boy Scout official and volunteer fireman in the district, out-scored his lone first ballot opponent, Robert Harrison of 115, by a 122 to 61 ballot count.

Raymond Coleman of 13 Lyall St. won a one-year directorship (unexpired) by open vote.

In other personnel matters, the board accepted two resignations from the board of directors.

Leslie La Fond, who had been hired two months ago as a high school guidance counselor, he will become assistant to the director of admissions at the University of New Hampshire.

Bieu Seeks Prison Release, Contends Evidence Illegal

Earl C. Bieu, formerly of 100 Spruce St., now serving an 8 to 20 year term in Wetherfield State Prison for armed robbery, has filed a writ of habeas corpus for release.

Bieu, along with his brother Robert, was convicted of holding the Colonial Oak Package Store, Manchester, on Dec. 2, 1960. Both brothers had escaped from police, but later surrendered.

It was the opinion of the committee that, based on the evidence that was obtained illegally, a hearing was set for Tuesday, July 2, at 10:30 a.m.

On June 30 of that year, the State Board of Sentence Review declined Bieu's petition for a shorter sentence.

The petition of habeas corpus was filed in Federal Court, Hartford, by Atty. Raymond Devlin Jr., who was appointed by Judge T. Emmett Clark to Bieu's public defender.

More than 800,000 persons - 40 per cent of them children under 6 - are accidentally poisoned every year in this country, according to a U.S. National Health survey.

Police Arrests

Robert Eugene Deak, 17, of 8 Ridge St., yesterday afternoon was arrested and charged with violation of probation. The arrest was made by Manchester Police on a warrant issued by Superior Court at Hartford. The youth was turned over to a Superior Court probation officer. Nature of the violation was not reported.

Atty. John D. LaBelle, district counsel, was moderator for the meeting.

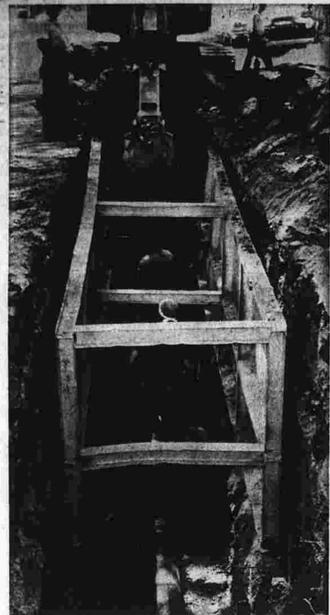

Immediately following the election in the district, the youth was turned over to a Superior Court probation officer. Nature of the violation was not reported.

Hackmatack Sewer Nears Completion
Work is nearly completed on the Hackmatack St. sewer project, consisting of two collector lines reaching east and west to Hackmatack from a central collector going north to the town system near Hartford St. According to Lawrence Wilford, acting superintendent of the town water department, the longer west leg should be ready by the end of the week; the shorter east leg is yet to go. The work is being done by Jarvis Construction Co. The steel framework in the trench was developed by Jarvis to protect workers from potential cave-ins. When a section is complete and the shovel has opened a new trench, the frame is pulled up by a derrick and moved to the next section. (Special photo by Herald.)

MEDICINE RECOMMENDS STANDARDS FOR BOXING
By Wayne G. Brandstead, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Accidental deaths occur in almost any sport, but the impact of boxing that gives it its bad name is that of the injuries incurred can properly be called accidental.

This is because, unlike football or baseball, boxing is a sport in which the avowed purpose of the contestants is to batter the opponent senseless.

Those who would defend the sport claim that it helps to keep many fit, and turns them away from mischievous gangs. Medical authorities are coming more and more to believe that there are better ways of accomplishing this purpose.

The best that can be said for boxing, is that, along with teaching these boys how to inflict injury on others, it does help train them in how to avoid injury to themselves and defend themselves in an unprovoked fight.

Blows below the belt were outlawed long ago and are not tolerated by fight fans; yet such blows, although painful, have never been fatal. It is much more important to outlaw blows to the head because, aside from producing cauliflower ears and flattened noses, there are the blows that cause concussions, the punch drunk state, and death. Often it is not any one blow or bout, but an accumulation of minor brain injuries, that leads a boxer to suffer from dizziness, loss of memory, blurred vision, and persistent headaches.

It is doubtful, however, that the fight fans would support recommended rules or legislation that would prohibit blows to the head because that is precisely what the sport claim that it helps to keep many fit, and turns them away from mischievous gangs. Medical authorities are coming more and more to believe that there are better ways of accomplishing this purpose.

The best that can be said for boxing, is that, along with teaching these boys how to inflict injury on others, it does help train them in how to avoid injury to themselves and defend themselves in an unprovoked fight.

of outlawing boxing, they have made the following recommendations:

A thorough medical examination of each contestant before he enters the ring.

A physician present at all bouts, with authority to stop the fight.

Opponent to be declared the winner when a contestant sustains more than one knock-down in any one round.

Automatic suspension of any contestant who is knocked out or severely injured, until physician O.K.'s resumption of boxing.

Adoption of shock-absorbing ring padding under the canvas.

Required use of headgear and mouthpieces.

Training to assure the maximum protection that goes with good condition.

Referees familiar with and alert to the health hazards inherent in boxing.

Observance of these recommendations will not eliminate all injuries in the ring, but they will go a long way to reduce the number and seriousness of such injuries.

P.O. Dedication Scheduled Soon

The new Buckland post office building will be dedicated and opened soon, according to Olin Gerich, its postmaster.

Gerich reports that regional post office officials have inspected the building and that he has not heard of any necessary corrections.

The Buckland Post Office occupies space in Gerich's garage and service station on Tolland Pike. The new building is just east of the present office.

Gerich says that he is very pleased with the roominess and modern facilities of the new structure, and that mail service for the area will benefit greatly from the improvements.

Mrs. George W. Hunt, 27 Green Rd., assisted by her daughter Nancy, prepared Strawberry Supreme, a recipe they make often during the height of the strawberry season. This and a recipe for Red Velvet Cookies, were given to Mrs. Hunt by her mother, Mrs. Martin Johnson of Boston, Mass.

MRS. GEORGE W. HUNT AND NANCY

- 1 quart fresh strawberries
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 pound marshmallows
- 1 pint heavy cream
- Stem and wash berries and wash.
- Add sugar. Place mixture in saucepan and bring to boil. Remove from range. Dip shears in cold water and cut marshmallows in quarters. Put them in berry mixture and let stand until cool or overnight. Whip cream until stiff. Stir strawberries and marshmallows mixture until well blended, fold in whipped cream, and place in refrigerator to chill. Strawberries may be used, if sweetened, omit sugar. This recipe makes 10 generous servings.

Red Velvet Cookies
1/2 cup white granulated sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup butter or 1/2 cup shortening and 1/2 cup margarine
1 egg slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk or raising
Cream butter, add sugar and egg. Sift in dry ingredients. Add vanilla and milk. Form in balls, wrap in foil or waxed paper and put in refrigerator for several hours, or overnight. Slice thin. Bake on cookie sheet for eight minutes in 350 degree oven. This recipe makes about four dozen cookies.

Board Hikes Tuition Rates

The board of education last night set tuition rates for out-of-town pupils for the 1968-69 school year.

Rates for high school and junior high school pupils will be $830, and for elementary pupils, $450. This year's costs were $810 and $438, respectively.

Douglas Pierce, business manager for the board, explained that the tuition is arrived at through a formula worked out by the board last year. It is based on the average cost of operation plus an overhead factor of 10 per cent. Actual dollar costs under this formula totaled $628.84 at the secondary level and $433.22 at the elementary level, Pierce said.

Pierce also reported on the cost of heating and lighting the old Howland Technical School building on School St. A report had been requested by the board in an effort to determine operating costs for the building, which is used by the Teen Center, the Golden Age Group and the Senior Citizens.

But Pierce had to talk in terms of the whole complex of buildings at School Square. This was necessary, he said, because heat is applied by a common heating plant to many buildings in the area. These include the old Franklin, Main, and Burnard buildings, as well as the technical school, the school used by the School St. fire house, and the Army & Navy Club.

The non-educational users are billed on a proportional basis, he said. The technical school and the East Side Yec, while classified non-educational users, have their costs assumed by the board of education. Noting that the technical school used only 12 per cent of a heat-utilities bill approximating $3,600 this year, board members included the whole matter as being too complicated and involving 156 small amounts to warrant further deliberation.
