Columbia Lake Project Would Cover 185 Acres

Property owners on Lake Rd. in West St. have been approached by Thomas Fagan Jr., regarding the possibility of a new lake in town. Fagan has been working on the proposed lake for over two years and in addition to buying land and filling there, he is planning to approach government officials on the right and privileges involved in forming a corporation of property owners in the area. The site covers approximately 185 acres and would have a circumference of 300 feet. He said that plans could be made to enlarge the lake although any dam built would have to meet the specifications of the State Water Resources Commission. Other owners involved include John Andrychowski, John Polak, Carl Robinson, and Mrs. Eugene Hennessy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Bial, Abraham and Israel Rubin and Edward Merritt.

Emotions High on Proposal To Span Long Island Sound

By JOHN FOLEY
NEW LONDON (AP) — A proposal to span Long Island Sound with a $200 million bridge has become an emotion-charged issue in three states. The determination demonstrated by supporters of the span seems matched in intensity by its opponents. The bridge would run from Orient Point on Long Island to Fishers Island and split there into two spans, one to Groton, Conn., and the other to Watch Hill, R.I. Parts of the bridge would be placed on embankments, viaducts and small islands along the way. The total distance to Connecticut would be 18 miles and to Rhode Island 24 miles. The Long Island Sound Bridge Commission, formed privately in 1962, has announced it will seek endorsement of the project from governors and members of congress from New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island. "From a technical and engineering standpoint, it does not present any insurmountable obstacles," said Leonard Favio of New York, the committee's consulting engineer. "If there is this kind of feasibility of the span, which has suggested. Lt. Gov. Edward P. Grogan of Rhode Island said he would like a long and hard look at where it is really needed, namely to improve the transportation of thousands of our wage earners. "This fantastic project may someday be built, but not in our lifetime." Pavio is a bridge-building engineer and can just see his visioning this as one of the great projects of his career—a monument to him. Grogan noted that rates at $1 per passenger car and $5 for commercial vehicles are suggested by the Pavio group. "No commuter could afford this," he said. "This bridge would just give Long Island access to our New England markets." State Rep. Philip A. Doran, R-Berlin, an aviation engineer, has become the standard bearer for the opposition. He is chairman of the Long Island Sound Protection Committee. Doran owns a summer home at Groton Long Point. Many members of his committee are concerned about the effects the bridge would have on the value of their property. Doran says they will reserve judgment until a more detailed study of the project has been made or until submitted making it a part of the federal highway system. Sen. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island has asked the Bureau of Public Roads to study the Sheik Bader Mulla thinks Kuwait is great. Lounging in his bungalow at Beverly Hills, Calif., hotel, the 27-year-old sheik explained the wide and beyond imagination beyond belief. A square foot of Kuwait costs as much as your Manhattan. "Bader handles his family's business affairs, including commissions for several big American oil firms." He said he has six or eight cars, homes in Kuwait, Beirut and London, but only one wife and no income tax. Movie producer Otto Preminger, a Jew, has received the Grand Cross of Merit from the Knights of the Holy Sepulcher, a Roman Catholic order. Preminger was cited at the ceremony in Rome for his picture "The Cardinal," reportedly based on the life of Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York. "There's no room for frustrated middle aged women who feel bored, restless and cheated with their lives," says Margaret Clapp, president of Wellesley College. Miss Clapp said girls too often spend their lives through only to the point when they live happily ever after. "This, she said in a speech at Providence, R.I., they are not prepared to cope with the years which follow their period of motherhood. Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada says, the United States would be wise to consider any Canadian government proposal as friendly. "We are so friendly that we feel we can criticize the United States like a Texas does—and in the same idiom," he said. In a speech in the United States in New York City, Pearson said the Canadian government's first responsibility is the protection of the national interest of its own people. "We should not forget that Canadian national interests cannot be considered and safeguarded apart from yours," he added. MOUSE SPACE HERO FLORENCE, Colo. # Here's the Issue Before the Electorate Next Tuesday

By PHENIXA FISKE
On Tuesday, Nov. 12, Manchester's voters will be asked to register their approval or disapproval of three proposed bond issues, with a total face value, exclusive of interest charges, of about $1,415,000. Two of the proposed bond issues are for additions to schools, at Highland Park and Keeney St., and are endorsed by both political parties. The third is for a highway improvement program, and is being offered by the Democrats in majority of the town's board of directors, but is being opposed by the Republican minority. The Republicans assert that highway construction and re-surfacing falls into the "maintenance" category, and so does not warrant bond financing and suggest a pay-as-you-go plan of their own. Both parties claim that their particular programs are adequate starts toward a thorough-going road repair. Both also claim that only the method of financing they propose can be counted on to hold the tax line. At the same time, the town's general manager, Richard Marston, standing on one side of the political spot, predicts a sure increase next year in Manchester's present 2 1/2 mill tax rate, no matter what happens. Two questions remain: Can Manchester legally afford a bond issue, and if so, where does the tax rate look as though it is going? The answer to the first question, at least on the surface, is yes. Manchester is well within the borrowing limits that the state imposes on municipalities. However, if this is, however, remains up to the individual to judge for himself, based on the town's tax picture. The Bond Limit Under state law, as amended by the 1963 State Legislature, Manchester's borrowing limit depends on the kind of borrowing it does. In fiscal 1962, the town may borrow $1 million for school and sewer construction and all other general government, school costs and retiring the town's indebtedness. In fiscal 1963, the rate was 36 mills; in 1964 it was 36.9

counter with this issue came out of the plot depended upon a series of intricate maneuvers by which the Diem brothers were brought to rely upon presented with a general to bring troops into Saigon to have them there for the suppression of any possible revolt against the Diem brothers. The Diem brothers did appear, the general they thought was there to help them to the rescue, but he had already been captured by the plotters. Later, on, when the Diem brothers had been deserted by just about everybody, the general they had trusted got on the phone and told them he was with them. At that point, we imagine his fellow plotters may have had their doubts about him, but he kept his watch on him, to make sure he didn't execute one more of his own men. It was a tight race to get the Diem brothers to the airport and get them out of the country. But he kept the faith, and after the revolt was successful, the plotters promoted him to be a general.

But, as we come to think of it, our men of the CIA have designed and authored such a plot after another that we have to wonder if they could have let us know of most any television drama of palace intrigues.

A Remarkable Vote
 When an election miracle occurs that is merely another way of saying that faith in the common sense of average people has been restored.

There was such a miracle of common sense on the state of New Jersey Tuesday.

What happened was that the voters of the state went to the polls and looked at the man in the Santa Claus proposition right in the face and turned it down.

The proposition was that they raise themselves $750,000,000 in a special bond issue to give themselves a quick easy infusion of state spending for all kinds of worthy purposes, many of them of the nature for which public policy normally levies current taxes.

To pay off this $750,000,000 bond issue, the proposition was the state would assign the toll revenues from the New Jersey Turnpike from the date when the Turnpike is scheduled to have paid for itself, in the year 1972, all the way to the year 2002, in the next century.

There was more here in the proposition. Not only would the issuance of such bonds and such perpetuation of tolls for revenue on the Turnpike, relieve the state of any immediate necessity to vote itself either a sales tax or an income tax, which, to date, it has none.

It was also obvious that much of this financial burden would not be imposed upon New Jersey people at all, but be picked up by travelers and tourists who would be paying a constantly large share of the tolls on the Turnpike.

What if, for such a $750,000,000 surpluse, the tolls also had to be kept on to provide the $500,000,000 in interest the bonds would cost, so that the total toll would add up to one and a quarter billion of dollars?

Fortunately, although this proposition was originated and floated and supported, most strenuously, by their own Governor, the people of New Jersey were not without some ability to consider the issue for themselves. The State League of Women Voters led off the criticism. The Chamber of Commerce joined it. Even the Americans for Democratic Action opposed the bond issue plan being pushed by the Democratic governor. But the most powerful opposition right down in the political arena came from the Republicans who finally, despite their fears that nobody could resist such a Santa Claus proposition, decided to oppose the proposition at the polls.

There were two results. The proposed $750,000,000 bond issue, voted on in two sections, was defeated in both votes, by some 144,000 and some 203,000 votes out of a million and three quarter votes cast on the issue.

By this vote the people of New Jersey declared their majority adherence to two principles. One was that tolls, even when collected from strangers, should be for the project on which they are being collected, not for perpetual general revenue purposes. Another was that bonding is inevitably the most expensive way of doing anything and that it is especially over-expensive and unprofitable when it is employed for what should normally be routine recurrent public expenses.

One wishes the voters of New Jersey for such astute and honest.

The second result of their election was that the state of New Jersey is now in a position to be able to pay its bills.

Lately—in terms of years—we have developed something of an off-beat pleasure in being out in the rain. To be honest about it, the kind of rain we like is the gentle, persuasive kind, not the pelting, violent type. When we can have this kind of rain in the summer, we do not mind in the least if it gradually soaks its way through whatever garden garb we may be wearing. In the fall, we like to keep the water off our skin, except for hands and face, and keep up a sort of equilibrium between whatever damp chill may be seeping into our clothing and the heat of the sun around the neck. A fall rain is our favorite of all rains. Mainly because it is because unlike the rain of winter, which may mean flood, or that of spring, which means that shores which have to be done in that season will be pelted up on us, or that of summer, which means that grass and weeds will grow and need to be cut, or that of autumn never catch us in any urgency.

There is, during or after autumn rain, nothing that has to be done. We can, therefore, go out in it and in nothing more than putter around our yard, or garden, or pond, or stream, and yet need to do no more actual putting than is required to give token assent to our being outdoors at all.

Sometimes our effort of devotion goes into something so beautiful and glorious and excitingly peaceful that just a walk in the rain. But we have, in recent years, as we say, developed a growing optimism to take it. We have succeeded in making it, we think, something of a modern substitute for earlier days when, in fall rains, we would sit in a corn crib hunking

Experience Counts
 Just being old doesn't make one better unless he takes each bit of new experience, adds it to past experiences and passes it along to younger generations.

We've been doing just that for 89 years at Watkins. In 1874 we started as a funeral service. Today's Watkins-West Funeral Service has grown from a small beginning to its modern, facilities at 142 East Center Street.

Two years after its founding, Watkins entered the home furnishing field and three stores later, finds us in our big, beautiful modern Colonial building at 855 Main Street.

We opened our first music store in Hartford in 1905. Today's store at 241 Asylum Street is the world's oldest Steinway Piano agency! (Music at 17 Oak St., Manchester, also).

As all our affiliates grow older, we grow richer in the knowledge and experience that means better service to you.

Christians Ponder Ways Toward Unity
 By GEORGE W. CORNELL, L.
 Associated Press Religion Writer

A big hope and a big question mark—focused on the idea of unity—fills today among the world's churches.

It is spreading like an irresistible prairie fire, says Lutheran Bishop Hans Lyle of Hannover, Germany.

In opening the session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, Pope Paul VI said a main aim was the "bringing together of all Christians in unity."

A few weeks earlier, a gathering in Montreal, Canada, of the ecumenical and Orthodox churches around the world declared: "We are on the way to Christian unity."

To many people, however, the question arises: Just what would that mean? What organizational framework would it involve? How would it be done?

The fact is that as yet the church leaders do not know precisely. They are probing for the answer.

"We are not yet of a common mind on the interpretation and the means of achieving the goal," says the World Council of Churches, a cooperative body of most major Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Old Catholic churches.

At the same time, the ecumenical—Christian unity—movement has arrived at certain rudimentary premises and guiding standards.

The primary aid underlying basis for all is the underlying Christ, and his call and prayers for oneness in him. "As we count nearer to him," the world council says, "we count nearer to one another." urged Pope Paul VI.

"The church is conformed to the living Christ."

The movement also has reached numerous other general principles about the nature of the unity sought.

It does not imply simple uniformity of organization, type of expression, say the world council, adding that it does mean tangible, functional connections.

It is a "manifest or visible unity, not something hidden," said a conference of most American churches.

The Rev. Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft of Geneva, Switzerland, the world council's general secretary, says, "We have no more right to say that unity can be overcome by invisible unity while we continue to live practically in disunity, than to say that we can overcome our sins invisibly, while we continue to commit them."

On the other hand, he says, "It is a dangerous misunderstanding to think that the only alternative to disunity is a monolithic, centralized and imperialist super-church, a sort of ecclesiastical Leviathan."

There must be diversity in worship practice, organization and even different forms of area

Toten Gets Holiday
 Municipal employees, as well as those of the board of education, will be able to enjoy a three-day holiday this weekend.

Since Veterans' Day will be celebrated next Monday, all schools and town offices will be closed, and only emergency services will be handled by the highway, garbage, auxiliary sewer and water departments.

Just as Roman Catholicism already includes various schools of theology, such as Thomist and Augustinian, there might be other theological emphases in one church.

Some churches have cited the United States, each with its own character and initiatives, yet all part of one mass and one faith, the lines of a unified church, with perhaps a "Church of Pennsylvania," a "Church of Oklahoma" and elsewhere.

The world council, in describing the kind of unity sought, offers this broad picture: All Christians in each place being in "one fully committed fellowship, holding the one apostolic faith, practicing the one gospel, breaking the one bread, joining in common prayers, and having a corporate life reaching out in witness and service to all."

As yet there is no blueprint for achieving it, and immense difficulties remain.

But predominantly, churches make to make unity in Christ more of a concrete, working reality.

 For many years, the story of cultural life in Manchester seemed to be that we had the people and the state but lacked the auditorium.

Then, in response to what seemed a real community need, we made Bailey Auditorium part of the new high school.

Since then, the story of cultural life in Manchester has sometimes been that we have the auditorium, all right, but not the events and the people to fill it.

One of the fine new we have made of the Bailey Auditorium has been the Community Concert Series. Only the other night, Celia John Greber was moved to enthusiasm for the quality of the artist presented there, as the opening event of this year's concert series. But the fact is that this is also the last year for the series. Subscriptions have ebbed; what should be and what could be a regular feature of Manchester life, bringing a variety of talents and cultural experiences to Manchester every year, is going to disappear, temporarily at least. One hopes that a community concert series will eventually reorganize itself in Manchester, and become the success it should be.

There was, in the course of the first community concert series, a symphony orchestra played in Manchester for the first time in this town's history. It was an evening of genuine pleasure and excitement.

Perhaps it was the pleasure and excitement of that evening which led John Greber to the gay and venturesome idea of creating, among the non-professional musicians of the Manchester area, the organization now known as the Manchester Civic Orchestra. Its performances in the past two seasons have been occasions of fine listening for its amateur members, of warm and intimate pleasure for its friendly audiences. To The Herald, its financial sponsorship of the community endeavor has been an opportunity and a pleasure. The Herald continues in that role.

In addition, the Civic Orchestra, as it prepares to open a new season, with the distinguished Vytautas Marjotaitis as its new conductor, is seeking additional sponsorship from a list of Manchester people who have been asked to serve as patrons for the Orchestra. The assurance of present support, and future life which such an institution deserves can only come from instant and committed on the part of a good number of Manchester individuals. We think it is a worth while cause. It is one guarantee—of which we should have more—that there will be light and sound and faces in Bailey Auditorium on at least some evenings of the year. We hope that those who have been invited to the patron's role will consider it a pleasant and constructive part of their life in Manchester to respond favorably.

Red Cargo Fleet Surpassing U.S.'s, Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union's merchant fleet is expanding rapidly while the U.S. cargo fleet is deteriorating, a Senate study reports.

The study by the staff of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee was made public today. It said the Soviet Union is embarked on a maritime expansion program that in "a very few years will make her one of the foremost seapowers in the world."

"It is all too evident that the Soviet Union recognizes the importance of the sea, and seapower in all its many facets," figures prominently in its plans to dominate the world," the report declared.

The study focused on what it termed an enormous merchant ship construction program designed to double the size of the Soviet 1960 fleet by 1965. It said that by 1970, and achieve a five to six-fold increase by 1980.

In 1961 and 1962, the staff report said, the Soviet Union increased its fleet from 873 to 1,000 ships and increased its total tonnage from 49,28,000 to 1,922,000. The number of American merchant ships decreased meanwhile from 864 to 848 and tonnage dropped from 13,840,000 to 12,810,000.

"The deterioration of the U.S. merchant fleet has not yet been sufficiently recognized by the government," let "the study said.

It declared that "a strong, modern American merchant marine is essential to provide logistic support to our armed forces in time of national emergency and to insure that the United States has access to world markets and vital raw materials in time of peace."

Nun Sings Tunes To Raise Money

NEW YORK (AP)—A Belgian nun and some American sisters are turning popular tunes into dollars for their Roman Catholic orders.

Unlike such groups as the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, which sticks to hymns, the sisters are recording popular discs.

In the forefront is Sister Bourque, who specializes in French folk songs. Since last August, she has sold 200,000 albums, called "The Singing Nun,"—mostly of her haunting "Dominique."

She agreed to record the album called "The Singing Nun," only after she was guaranteed anonymity. "Sister Bourque" is a pseudonym.

"A couple of more artists like her," signed a press agent, "and we'll be out of business."

The 60 singing sisters of Mount St. Mary College at Newburgh, N.Y., have cleared more than $100,000 with their album, entitled "The Singing Nuns." Other popular tunes include such popular standards as "I'll Never Walk Alone," "Climb Every Mountain," "White Christmas," "The Sound of Music" and "Let It Be Your Umbrella."

Probably the first nun to earn money for their order with popular music was the Jesus and Mary Choral Group of Hyattsville, Md. This 17-voice choir has cut five albums since 1960, and all have sold well.

Mother Marie Laetitia directs the singing but Mother Mary Immaculata handles business affairs and promotion. Among her must reading are such "Billboard" and "Cashbox" listings as "The Fan Alley publications as 'Billboard' and 'Cashbox'."

There's at least one precedent for using secular songs to further the work of the church. Seven years ago, famed jazz saxophonist Benny Brown, who had retired to become a monk, took up his alto horn and cut an album with Eddie Condon's New York band. Proceeds of the album, entitled "Brother Martin," went to Brown's order for missionary work in Africa.

State Man Wins $79,660 at Race

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Joseph Mariano, 32, a bartender from Waterbury, Conn., and a once-a-week bettor, hit the twin double for $79,660 on his $2 investment Wednesday night.

He was the only one among the 12,052 harness racing adherents at Roosevelt Raceway who had the winning combination. It was the highest payoff ever at a thoroughbred and standardized track.

The previous record was the $68,228.90 twin double at the Suffolk Downs flat course Oct. 18, 1962. The previous high twin double at a trotting track was $37,116.10 last Aug. 18 at Monticello Raceway.

A twin double might be described as a double daily double. A fan buys a $2 ticket on his choices to win the sixth and seventh races. If he is successful, the valid ticket must be exchanged before the start of the eighth race, when the bettor denotes his selections for the eighth and ninth races.

Altogether, Mariano bought 30 twin double tickets for a total outlay of $60.

Mariano drives from Waterbury every Wednesday night for the races.

"What's he going to do with the money?"

"Well, I'm going to help out my married daughter with a new house she's building," Mariano said. "And then I'm going to invest some of it. Oh yeah, there's taxes, too."

threatening one halted before they started. And although the aggressive purposes of Moscow and Peking remained unchanged, the rolling advance of communism came to a stop."

On the final page, in reporting his decision to run again as the candidate for "my personal political ambition," Eisenhower's theme is the same:

"We had converted the United States of America from a nation at war to a nation at peace, productive and happy."

Before turning back to that Friday-the-20 White House dinner in January 1956, there is an interesting background in the book on what Eisenhower's early thinking was regarding second terms.

He discusses that in January 1953 he wanted to write into his inaugural address a declaration that he would serve only one term. Advisers talked him out of that, saying it would be a political mistake at that stage.

But 13 months later the President wrote brother Milton that if ever he showed any signs of interest in running for re-election, "please call in a copy machine—or even the electric fan—feel there can be no showing made that my duty extends beyond a one-time performance."

And Republican seers wonder today whether Eisenhower

Car Gets Push Hits Other Car

Police last night charged Warren A. Brown, 26, of 106 Deming st., with failure to grant the right of way at a private drive and failure to carry a driver's license.

The arrest followed an investigation of a two-car collision on Main St., in which Brown was driving a 1952 Buick Wildcat and the other car was a 1952 Chevrolet driven by Walter C. Rau, 26, of 2600 Main St., who was driving a 1952 Chevrolet.

Brown was ordered to appear in court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Viet Nam Events Rekindle Memories for Stevenson

The events of the last few days in Viet Nam have rekindled, for a Manchester resident, memories of his tour of duty in that strife-torn country in 1960, under the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group program (MAAG).

Herbert J. Stevenson, insurance man, deputy registrar of voters, alternate member of the voting board of appeals and Democratic chairman of the 8th District, who in 1960 was a captain in the regular Army, served as aide-de-camp to Brig. Gen. Daniel L. Meyers in South Viet Nam "in an advisory capacity to persons running the government."

Stevenson said that his members voted the participants in last week's coup, since "our mission brought us into contact with all elements of the military-controlled government."

He recalls the country as being very primitive, in which the upper class spoke French, while the predominantly uneducated masses of people utilized a form of pig-latin-Chinese.

Stevenson, who served in the U.S. Navy from 1946 to 1947, enlisted in the regular Army in 1948 with the rank of second lieutenant and served in Japan and Korea during the Korean

School Board Balks At College Bylaws

The board of education last night refused to give a proposed set of bylaws for the new Manchester Community College the "quick approval" urged by the College's Citizens Advisory Council. Instead, they were turned over to a board sub-committee for further study.

The bylaws, drafted by a committee headed by Atty. Gen. Garry, member of the Citizens Advisory Council, were presented to the board by Garry and Matthew M. Moriarty, CAC chairman, but their request for quick action on the bylaws met strong opposition from William R. Schaffer, Atty. William Collins, and Atty. John S. Rottner.

The main points of disagreement centered around provisions in the bylaws which call for the advisory council to become the "chief policy-making body" for the college and to give the power to elect future members to the council.

These would mean that the CAC the main power over the college.

Said Rottner: "I am unalterably opposed to any feature of the bylaws which would make this council self-perpetuating."

Moriarty, however, countered that the council feels just as strongly that "we should be self-perpetuating because we want to keep this council out of politics."

Moriarty, who spoke first in presenting the case for the bylaws to the board last night, told them that the CAC's bylaws committee had drawn them in the form like those of the Norwalk Community College, the only other similar two-year community college in the state.

He said that in studying the case of the Norwalk College, the committee has found that the Norwalk bylaws were drawn in the form like those of the Norwalk Community College, the only other similar two-year community college in the state.

Moriarty then turned the presentation over to Garry, who said the committee found no objection to the bylaws because "until two or three years ago there was no such thing as a community college in Connecticut."

Moriarty also turned the presentation over to Garry, who said the committee found no objection to the bylaws because "until two or three years ago there was no such thing as a community college in Connecticut."

Loyalty Sunday Set at Emanuel

Loyalty Sunday will be observed at Emanuel Lutheran Church Sunday at which time all members of the congregation will have the privilege of making their pledge for 1964. The stewardship committee, under the direction of Robert Herrickson, chairman, has made plans for the day's activities. Members who do not make their pledge in church will be visited.

The Rev. C. Henry Anderson, pastor, will commission participants of the visitations at both services. Herbert Huffield will speak to the congregation at the 9 a.m. service and Herbert Bengtson at 10:30. Both are members of the stewardship committee.

Tonight at 7:30 the stewardship committee and the chorale will meet in Luther Hall for a meeting to plan for the day's activities. The Rev. Anderson will lead the devotional period, and the Rev. Marvin T. Peterson will speak on "A Stewardship." Eric S. Anderson, treasurer of the church, will explain details of the budget and the needs of the congregation, and Heron will outline the plan for visitation. Mrs. Thomas Jones and her committee will serve refreshments.

PAKISTAN CLASHES SPREAD KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Student-police clashes spread Wednesday to three main cities of West Pakistan—Lahore, Lyallpur and Rawalpindi.

Punjab University and colleges in Lahore and Lyallpur were closed.

In Rawalpindi over 2,000 students clashed with the police. There were injuries on both sides. College buildings were damaged.

Box yourself in.

The Volkswagen Station Wagon looks like a box because it's built like a box. It lets you store the most possible stuff in the least possible space.

The fact is, the VW carries more than the biggest regular wagons, even though it's 4 feet shorter.

The VW's floor plan looks like any nice little room, except it has 8 chairs, 21 windows, 5 doors and a high ceiling.

You can't see the engine because it's in the back, out of the way.

If you aren't cautious, you may never see the engine. It rarely sees oil because of the design. And it's cooled, so there's no water or antifreeze!

But the real fun comes when you climb into the box and get behind the wheel. Ahead of you, there's nothing but view. It's head and shoulders above other cars.

Behind you, there's nothing but space. It looks a mile long, but it's really only 9 inches longer than the Volkswagen Sedan.

So you can park it like the Sedan.

And like the Sedan, you get a lot of extras (fresh-air heater/defroster, 4-speed stick shift, etc.) at no extra cost.

Volkswagen's got everything they could think of into it.

So will you.
