Coins Loot Found In Depot Locker

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — Detectives looked in a locker in the Bridgeport railroad station last night and found a coin collection valued at $30,000.

It was part of the loot taken from the home of Arthur Almbinder of Wantagh, N.Y. last Monday night, police said. Also taken was jewelry valued at $20,000 and $4,700 in cash.

Six men have been arrested in connection with the robbery. Some of the jewelry and $2,350 of the money have been recovered but the rest of the loot is still unaccounted for, police said.

Patrick Chenero, 44, and Thomas Hill, 18, both of Monroe, a town north of Bridgeport, were arrested Saturday night. Chenero is the father of two youths already accused in the robbery.

Another son of Chenero, Patrick, 20, was arrested in Mineola, N.Y. last Tuesday with Frank Richey, 21, of Bridgeport. They were charged with first degree robbery.

The coin collection was recovered when two Nassau County, N.Y. detectives, Sgt. John Farley and Lincoln Wangerlin, received anonymous phone calls that the collection was in the locker and the locker key was hidden in the men's room of the railroad station.

The detectives had been staying in Bridgeport in the investigation of the Long Island robbery.

Quarter of N.Y. Pupils In Boycott—'A Fizzle'

Pickets march in front of Seward Park High School on New York's lower East Side today in boycott of city's public school system. (AP Photofax.)

50 Per Cent Participation Was Expected

NEW YORK (AP)—An estimated quarter of New York City's million pupils boycotted the nation's largest public school system today demanding total racial integration.

The participation in the one-day demonstration was about half that anticipated by boycott leaders. The chairman of the board of Education, James B. Donovan, called it "mostly a fizzle."

Children remained away from classes because of "a regular campaign of intimidation," Donovan asserted. Donovan did not report the amount of absenteeism among the million-pupil school system.

A boycott spokesman, however, estimated participation at 282,000 children, about half what the movement leaders had anticipated.

There are about 440,000 Negro and Puerto Rican children in the public schools. Efforts to keep the children away from schools were like offering them candy and ice cream, Donovan said.

The Citywide Committee set up "freedom schools" in churches throughout the city to keep the pupils off the streets. Dick Gregory, the Negro comedian, flew here from Atlanta, Ga., and told one of the classes of his experiences in the racial movement in the South.

A spot check indicated poor attendance at the one-day schools. Even at the public schools with almost empty classrooms there was some attendance by Negro and Puerto Rican children.

"We just wanted to come to school," said two Negro boys among the 570 pupils attending Haaren High School, a boy's high on the West Side of Manhattan. Its enrollment of 1,800 is about equally divided among white, Negro and Puerto Rican.

But the city's 850 schools remained open in the face of the demonstration—even those institutions with high absenteeism and some teachers marching in the civil rights picket lines. Shortly after class bells rang, authorities reported about 2,700 pickets outside 300 schools. This

Mrs. Oswald Quizzed by Warren Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Warren Commission, investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, began today its secret interrogation of Marina Oswald, 22, widow of the accused slayer.

Brought to Washington on Sunday, Mrs. Oswald was escorted by Secret Service agents this morning to the headquarters of the presidential commission to undergo at least one day of questioning on the movements and activities of Lee Harvey Oswald, the professed Marxist who was slain two days after Kennedy was shot Nov. 22 in Dallas, Tex.

Slender, unsmiling, dressed in black, Mrs. Oswald stared at reporters and cameramen as she was brought into the commission.

May Versus Pinney

State GOP Faces Extended Warfare

HAMDEN (AP)—The prospect of extended intra-party warfare faced Connecticut Republicans today after Edwin H. May's weekend barrage against the leadership of GOP State Chairman A. Searle Pinney.

Pinney, who refused to comment on May's insistence that he must go, has already said he would seek re-election in July. May said he would definitely not seek the chairmanship. There were strong indications he will support Howard Hausman of New Britain, Republican legislative commissioner.

The job of choosing a chairman belongs to the State Central Committee, which votes at the close of the Republican convention June 12-13. Committee members, under recently changed party rules, will be elected by town committees in single town senatorial districts and, by town chairmen and vice chairmen in multi-town districts.

As a result, there is a possibility of primary fights between the two forces in some towns in an effort to gain control of the town committees.

May, former Republican chairman and an unsuccessful gubernatorial nominee in 1962, opened his assault on Pinney at a news conference Saturday. "A majority of Republicans lack confidence in the leadership of our present state Republican chairman," May said.

His statement came after a meeting of some 125 supporters from throughout Connecticut. The session had been chaired by Atty. John Shea of Manchester, GOP town chairman and campaign manager for May's 1962 bid for the gubernatorial nomination.

GOP Hits Conkling

HARTFORD (AP) — State Finance Commissioner George C. Conkling is a "shadow governor," says Connecticut Republican Chairman A. Searle Pinney.

Pinney said in a weekend statement that Conkling has tried to do things of "questionable legality" that have "obviously been in opposition to the best interests of the State of Connecticut."

Gov. John N. Dempsey "has permitted the commissioner to pursue this course without interference," Pinney charged in the latest GOP attack on Conkling.

Pinney did not say what things were of "questionable legality."

Viet Cong Raids American Billet

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Two Communist guerrillas were killed and one U.S. officer wounded today in the first Viet Cong raid on an American military compound since 1959.

Maj. Gen. Charles J. Timmes, commander of the U.S. Military Advisory Assistance Command in Viet Nam, flew to the mountain city of Kontum, 260 miles northeast of Saigon, to present the Army Commendation Medal to the soldier who killed the guerrillas, Spec. 4 Gale D. Fynn of Fowler, Kan.

The award is the highest that Timmes is authorized to give without reference to a higher command.

The grenade attack was made at 4:30 a.m. on the headquarters of a detachment of 130 U.S. officers and men in Kontum. It was the most daring Viet Cong exploit against an American unit since terrorists in 1969 invaded a movie performance at an American billet and killed a U.S. major and a sergeant with grenades and machine-gun fire.

Fynn was on sentry duty because nine Vietnamese Civil Guards stationed at the compound had deserted. It was believed they might have been involved in the plan to attack the compound.

Under cover of darkness, four guerrillas cut their way through a barbed wire fence around the compound.

While one guerrilla stood guard at the fence, three others ran toward a building housing field grade officers, who range in rank from major through colonel.

Security Boss Takes Life in German Jail

DORTMUND, Germany (AP) — Ewald Peters, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's chief security officer, hanged himself during the night in the jail where he was being held on suspicion of war crimes, the state prosecutor's office announced today.

The prosecutor's office said Peters used a bed sheet for a rope and tied it to the window of his cell.

Peters had made the security arrangements for Erhard's trip to visit President Johnson in Texas last December as well as for his recent visits to London and Rome. He was arrested in Bonn last Friday after he returned from Rome with the chancellor.

He was being held in the Bonn jail on suspicion of taking part in mass killing of Jews in the Soviet Union during World War II.

Peters was one of two leading members of Erhard's government accused of war crimes. The government is investigating Communist charges that Refuge Minister Hans Krueger committed such crimes during the Nazi occupation of Poland.

Krueger resigned Saturday, saying he had committed no crimes but did not want to damage the government.

Details of the charges against Peters were not made public. However, a government official said he had been the head of a police unit.

He had been investigated in 1960 by the Central War Crimes Office at Ludwigsburg but not.

Divorced or separated couples have special tax problems on alimony and support payments.

Tax Primer 5 When Marriage Fails

By C. W. SHOENEMAN, Newspaper Enterprise Assn. (Fifth of 10 Articles) Along with its human wreckage, a marriage broken by divorce or separation leaves a host of tax problems and confusion. This article will tell how to handle alimony and support payments on 1963 tax returns.

A man who itemizes deductions may deduct alimony or separate maintenance payments as they are defined in the tax law.

He may not deduct payments which have been specifically designated as support for minor children.

Shuttle Plane Burns, 10 Die

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A crippled South Central Airlines passenger plane crashed and burned immediately after take off today, killing all aboard the twin-engine craft. Ten persons were believed in the plane.

An eye witness said the plane was about 200 feet in the air when its left engine failed and the plane turned over on its left side and plunged to the edge of the runway.

Several persons ran from the airport and tried frantically to tear off the plane door but heat drove them back.

"We were trying to get the door open but it was too hot," said Miss Jo Ann Rowell, a secretary. "We could see two people inside. They were burning."

Miss Rowell said she went outside the terminal when she heard the engine falter. She said she knew then there was trouble.

Space Experts Sift Tapes To Trace Ranger Failure

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Space scientists sifted through coded tapes today in a search for the reason why spacecraft Ranger 6 plunged into the moon with its cameras blind to the wonders of the lunar landscape.

The agonizing end to a 66-hour flight came at 1:24 a.m. Sunday when Ranger 6 reached its historic rendezvous—and six television cameras aboard wouldn't function.

Experts at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here, who controlled the spacecraft's voyage, hope to find out what went wrong by Feb. 28—the probable date of the launching of Ranger 7.

Laboratory directors went ahead with plans for Ranger 7's flight—an identical photo mission—pointing out that the Ranger series is designed to gather information needed for manned U.S. landings planned later this decade.

PROPOSES TUNNEL GROTON (AP) — Marine contractor Clarence B. Sharp of Groton has proposed construction of a 10-mile tunnel under Long Island Sound between Rocky Neck and Orient Point, Long Island, as an alternative to the proposed 23-mile bridge crossing from Orient Point to Napatree Point south of Westerly, R. I.

Sharp, well known as a bridge sub-stage builder, says a tunnel between the two points would cost an estimated $70 million against an estimated $280 million for the bridge. Residents of Watch Hill, R. I., and Groton Long Point are fighting plans for the bridge proposed by the Tri-State Bridge Committee.

LINERS HIT PIERS NEW YORK (AP) — Two ocean liners, including the world's largest, crashed into their piers today while docking without the aid of straddle tugs. In both incidents, damage to the ships and piers was slight and no one was hurt.

On her first attempt the Queen Elizabeth, biggest passenger craft afloat, knocked out a small portion of the pier's roof and broke windows on a movable cargo door. The second try was successful except for a minor broadside bump. The Italian liner Cristoforo Colombo, carrying 525 passengers from Italy, struck her Hudson River berth, damaging two steel girders on the pier's upper deck. Shortly afterward, the liner tied up successfully.

SHIPPING TIED UP BOSTON (AP)—A strike by ship watchmen, employed to guard cargoes, tied up shipping in Boston harbor today. The walkout halted cargo work on 13 ships, including one which was ready to load wheat for the Soviet Union. About 275 watchmen were involved. Their walkout killed some 1,500 longshoremen and 400 other dock workers. James Boylan, business agent for the union, said the issue is the number of paid holidays and seniority provisions.

THE WAY HEARD IT

by John Gruber

A gentleman recently appeared at the harp with a young daughter who was at an age where young youngsters start "taking lessons" and she had her heart set on the harp as the instrument of her choice. Not knowing anything about the instrument, her father turned to me for information, which I was happy to supply.

The gentleman, who is reasonably musical, was no more ignorant than the average when it came to this instrument, which is not really understood at all by most music-lovers and concert goers, so it occurred to me that that of you might like to know something about the harp, which consequently became the subject of this column.

Right off the bat let me say that this is no instrument for a youngster to start on. For one thing, you have to be full grown in order to negotiate the hand-stands which will be encountered in a harp, and without tuition, costs up to $3,000. Even a used likely to set well with a beginner. The best harps in the world are made in Germany by Lyon and Healy, who also have warehouses in New York on 6th and 7th Ave., so if I haven't discouraged you already, you know where to go. They once had a place in Boston on Tremont St., near Boylston, but I'm quite certain it no longer exists.

The French piano concert of Pleyel at Cie also makes a good harp, and if you want to run around Paris, you can't do it better than a Pleyel. There is also a cheaper harp, but I forgot its name. At one time Wurrlitzer made harps in this country, but they weren't up to the Lyon and Healy or Pleyel standard. It will be 30 years old or more.

Unless the piano, the harp has no equivalent of "black keys." Instead of 12 notes to the scale (the chromatic scale), the harp has only 7 (the diatonic scale) and it is tuned in true pitch, not the "tempered" pitch of the piano. The harp has 7 pedals on the scale, one for each note of the scale. In the first position, the strings are controlled by "letting" the middle position they are "sharp." Thus with 47 strings, it is possible to produce 141 different pitches on the harp, in a compass of 6 1/2 octaves. The harp is a stringed instrument which produces 141 different pitches on the harp, in a compass of 6 1/2 octaves.

If you think the harp and "Blat" are the same pitch, get acquainted with the harp and you will be surprised to find the difference for you. The notes are the same on keyboard instruments but the harp is actually exactly in tune.

The mechanism for changing pitch runs up through the front pillar on the harp, which is the frame of the instrument. (Ancient harps, like those of the Egyptians had no such pillar, and undoubtedly evolved from the tuning of a low harp, which was the mechanism concealed by brass plates, run through the front pillar of the instrument, properly called the "harmonic curve.")

On the left hand, the harp has 14 ingenious little mechanisms which shorten the strings. In the "letting" position none is in use; in the "letting" position the mechanism comes into play while in the "sharp" position the lower ones are called the "comb."

The lower ones are a 1/4 change of keys, and allow chromatic passages to the point where the harp is in a new key. This is not much against the instrument in older music, but presents very severe problems in the music of Wagner and Liszt. The harp is frequently employed in the orchestra. One of the best harps in the world is in the hands of the harpist in the orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera.

Wagner once called for 7 harps in the Rheingold at the end of the first act. You seldom get it, and actually the harp is that it fingers alike in all keys, so little intricate that only have to learn one scale, and only a couple of arpeggios. The word "arpeggio" incidentally, comes from the harp, whose Italian name is "arpa," whence, "arpeggio" or "arpeggiando" referring to broken chords. On the other hand, little intricate will have to learn many questions and for the most part seemed satisfied with the answers.

Non-resident English teachers from another school raised questions on the function of guidance person, and where does the responsibility of the school end. He also asked, are we teaching enough about the work in social studies to terminate the children to think. The questions were not resolved.

St. Maurice Notes The executive board of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine of St. Maurice Church will meet tonight at 8 in the church auditorium. Teachers in the parish school of religion will meet tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. for a rehearsal for the musical recital for a few years.

Incidentally, while the public usually thinks of harpists as being feminine, the best harpists are men. Among them are Marcel Grandjany, Hubert Jullien, Charles Zeller, Edward Vito, and Alfred Ziegler, also that in alphabetical order.

Bolton School Board Considers Names to Avoid Confusion

Items to be taken up under new business when the board of education meets Wednesday include renaming of Bolton elementary school and the naming of the high school gym and library.

At the January board meeting when the Bolton Junior-Senior High School was named, Chairman Harold Williams suggested that the name of the elementary school be changed so that there would be no "Bolton" schools, or three, if another elementary school is built. With a long agenda facing them, it is probable that the board will not get to this question Wednesday.

The meeting will be preceded by an executive session at 7:15 p.m. at which teacher-union reports will be made by administration. The regular meeting will start at 8 with a review of the bidding and the access to records policy, and action on the principal and assistant principal salary schedule.

One of the main items of business will be adoption of the "Bolton" name for the new high school. At the last meeting, Supt. Philip Liguori spoke of 40-minute periods, 45-minute periods, and the like, all of which must have board approval.

He mentioned at the meeting that he will have an experienced person as a candidate for social studies teacher in the new school. In his report Wednesday, he will also discuss the progress of bidding on movable equipment, and the purchase of textbooks.

High School Information The board will also discuss the proposed new high school. Liguori said that he hoped for a full-time guidance counselor by August 1 of the school year. He asked the previous board of education for a $10,000 appropriation for a guidance counselor and a guidance counselor's assistant.

WASHINGTON (AP) - In the news from Washington: WHEAT: Announcement is expected early this week of the sale of 20 million bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union. The offer is believed to be Carter, Inc., a major Minneapolis concern.

Some 7.4 million bushels of durum wheat are thought to be part of the deal. The Agricultural Department has agreed to pay export subsidies averaging 7.5 cents a bushel on the durum wheat.

The subsidy compares with an average of 7.0 cents a bushel to be paid on about 13 million bushels of durum sold to the Soviet Union by the Continental Grain Co. of Minneapolis and New York. Smaller amounts of durum sold to other countries have ranged as low as 4.6 cents a bushel.

The department says a rise in durum prices accounts for the 7.5 cent subsidy. The fact that subsidies on Soviet wheat are running considerably higher than those on wheat sold elsewhere has led to congressional complaints that the department is paying too much for wheat.

CHANGES URGED: A five-man advisory committee urged the United States Information Agency to adopt a 10-point program for the improvement of the agency's U.S.A. general support. Headed by the former U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, J. Leonard Reich of station WWS, Atlanta.

Vote of 48-45 Seen Victory For Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate narrowly beat down today a proposal to allow a special income tax credit for parents putting their children through college.

The vote — 48 to 45 — was a major victory for the Johnson administration which had marshaled all of its force to try to defeat the proposal.

Democratic leaders said the cost of the college tax credit would be so great that, if adopted, it probably would be necessary to cut back on the individual income tax rate reductions in the bill.

The proposal was debated for four hours, sometimes heatedly, before the Senate adjourned at 8:08 p.m. after a session of more than 10 hours.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today's session two hours early to get in more legislation before the session.

Opponents of the amendment would not benefit the poor families which pay little or no taxes.

They contended also that most of the support for it came from private schools and that these would simply raise their tuition charges and thus wipe out any benefit to parents.
