HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—Thirty-four survivors of the broken Greek tanker Amphialos arrived in Halifax early today aboard a Canadian warship after a dramatic rescue from the stormy North Atlantic.

Two members of the 38-man Greek crew perished after the 15,800-ton tanker split in two under the battering of gale winds and 20-foot waves off the Nova Scotia coast Saturday. Five of the survivors were taken to a hospital on stretchers.

Capt. Stamatis Polonis, the Amphialos' skipper, said he and his men clung for hours to a rail of the stern section until they were picked up Sunday afternoon by the Canadian destroyer escort Athabaskan. A 300-foot bow section of the 680-foot ship floated away and sank.

The survivors were wrapped in navy blankets as they left the Canadian warship. Most appeared cheerful but tired. They shook hands with the Canadian sailors and in broken English expressed their gratitude.

Asked to confirm the number of men aboard his ship, Polonis said briskly, "We had 38. Now we have 34."

The rescue followed a chance observation by a Canadian air force plane during a training mission.

Men Ride 'Shotgun' For Florida Railway

EDITOR'S NOTE — Last month, four freight trains of the Florida East Coast Railway were derailed by dynamite. Now the line, operating despite a strike, sends armed guards ahead of the trains. Two were accompanied by an Associated Press writer.

By BERNARD GAVER
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — James Alley got into the rail car, slipped a bone-handled 38-caliber Smith & Wesson from his holster and placed it on the seat.

His partner, Wilkes Dorriety, put a mahogany-handled pistol alongside Alley's.

Alley shifted the vehicle gear into drive and began another tour "riding shotgun for the railroad."

Alley and Dorriety are among the men who ride the Florida

East Coast Railway tracks ahead of freight trains, which were blasted by dynamite four times last month. They are like infantry scouts, or the shotgun guards who rode the stage coaches of the old West.

Since the first dynamiting, Feb. 9, the two men concentrate on detecting signs of dynamite. "Watch the rails," Alley said. "And if you see a wire on it, hang on."

The sole beneficiary of her deathbed will, John Rees, notified the late author's lawyer, Bernard I. Snieron of Laconia, Sunday that he is giving up his claim.

Snieron said Rees' action might result in an agreement to reinstate the terms of an earlier will.

McAlister Autopsy Scheduled

WILTON (AP) — Richard McAlister and Edward McNally were afraid that a resident state trooper was going to find out what happened to McAlister's father.

That was why the two decided to flee to Texas. The police said this weekend.

McAlister, 18, McNally, 17, are accused of shooting Wilton High School senior John Shinnear Feb. 23 to get a car for the trip.

State police said they admitted that slaying and the slaying attack on Paul Harbor.

William Quaintance, the trooper, did have his suspicions, but Quaintance said this weekend he had nothing solid to base them on.

Nevertheless, last September, a few days after McAlister had reported his father's disappearance, state police searched cellars, woods and wells, on the chance there might be a body.

Authorities finally found the remains Saturday in a shallow grave in a wooded section of West Redding. The approximate location had been pointed out by McAlister and McNally, state police said.

The North Carolina Republican Convention has endorsed Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for the presidential nomination, but declined to instruct its four-at-large delegates to support him until he releases them.

Dempsey Against Special Session

HARTFORD (AP) — A special General Assembly session on redistricting "would be a waste of time and taxpayers' money," Governor Dempsey said today, unless the Republicans are willing to revamp both Houses of the state legislature and the state's congressional districts.

He added he is ready to call a special session "whenever I am given an indication that the Republican party is ready to make a sincere effort to give the public proper representation in its government."

The governor and the Democrats want to reapportion the State Senate and the House on a population basis in line with a federal court decision.

The Republicans want only to revamp the Senate where they are in a minority.

The governor's comments came after he received a letter from GOP leaders, delivered at the capitol this morning, which called for a special session and set forth the party's plans for redistricting.

The letter—signed by GOP State Chairman A. Searle Pinney, House Speaker J. Tyler Patterson, one-time Majority Leader Louis Padula and Senate Minority Leader Peter P. Mariani—said that any special session of the General Assembly should take these steps:

—Create six congressional districts of approximately equal population to replace the present five districts and one at-large seat.

—Set up state senatorial districts "of substantially equal population."

The letter urged, however, that no General Assembly action be taken for reapportioning the House.

"The people of Connecticut understand," the GOP said, "that the state House of Representatives is constituted exactly as our state constitution provides for. Combined with the state's basic society on population, this creates the same kind of balanced, two-house system under which the U.S. Senate and House function."

A federal court ruled last month that both houses of the state legislature are unconstitutional. The GOP now plans to appeal this decision to the Supreme Court and said that, until the high tribunal acts, "it would clearly be a dereliction to the people of Connecticut to attempt any reapportionment in a special legislative session."

Asserting that both parties are agreed to the need for reapportioning Senatorial and Congressional districts, the Republicans declared, "we see no reason why the composition of such districts cannot be speedily determined if all concerned work on the problem in good faith."

Scranton Says He'd Refuse Nod for Vice Presidency

EDITOR'S NOTE — For months, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton has figured in speculation about the Republican presidential nomination.

How does he feel about it now that the convention is only four and a half months away? He gives his views in this exclusive interview.

By JACK BELL
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton said today that after giving the matter the "deep thought" suggested by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, he hopes to avoid contesting for the Republican presidential nomination.

Moreover, Scranton said in an Associated Press interview, he would decline to vice president if it were offered to him by his party. He had not previously made such a flat statement.

Scranton, by his state's constitution to a single term as governor ending in January 1967, is regarded as a likely compromise choice for first place in this year's national ticket by Republicans seeking a party moderate with appeal to big city voters to oppose President Johnson.

Following is the text of Scranton's answers.

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Victims of a British airliner crash were to be recovered from an Alpine ravine today and brought to Innsbruck for an attempt at identification.

Helicopters took Austrian rescue teams to the charred wreckage of the four-engine Bristol Britannia between two peaks Sunday after a U.S. Air Force search plane spotted the blackened tail fin sticking out of the snow.

Austrian officials said the airliner, trying to land through fog at Innsbruck Airport, slammed into 8,800-foot Mt. Gamslahner Spitz southeast of the resort

Plane Struck Peak East of Nevada Lake

TAHOE VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Air searchers found the wreckage today of a four-engine plane that crashed into a Sierra peak, east of Lake Tahoe, killing all 85 persons aboard.

A doctor, taken by helicopter to the remote scene at the 8,800-foot level of a snowy mountain, confirmed there were no survivors.

The Paradise Airlines Constellation vanished in a snowstorm Sunday while carrying 81 passengers and a crew of five to Nevada's casinos and ski resorts on a flight from San Jose, Calif.

An airline official at Tahoe Airport, destination of the flight, said the plane hit the peak with such force that wreckage was scattered over a large area.

The pilot, caught in a snowstorm while nearing the airport, had radioed he was "holding" but the airline spokesman said: "I would say he was on his way to Reno when he hit."

Plans were made to send in helicopters to remove the bodies.

Lt. Col. Alexander S. Sherry, deputy commander of the Western Air Rescue Center, Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., told an airport news conference the wreckage was spotted just west of the hamlet of Genoa, Nev.

Just before the conference, a helicopter pilot told The Associated Press the wreckage was found 200 feet below the top of a rugged peak among those which rise up to 10,000 feet or more in the ski and gambling playland around Lake Tahoe.

The mountain where California's biggest air tragedy occurred is named Genoa Peak.

The spotting helicopter was one of 17 which flew out today over the rugged wilderness scene near the site of the 1960 Squaw Valley winter Olympics.

A ground party in snow tractors headed for the wreckage.

It was reported to be midway between Zephyr Cove and Genoa east of the glittering 25-by-12 mile lake.

The Constellation wreckage was first seen by Capt. Leroy

$100,000 REWARD
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Association of American Railroads today offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of dynamiters who wrecked a Florida East Coast Railway train on Feb. 28. The offer was disclosed in telegrams the association sent to President Johnson and Gov. Farris Bryant of Florida. Daniel P. Loomis, association president, said the organization's board of directors authorized the reward. The telegrams praised Johnson for ordering the FBI to investigate the dynamite attacks on the strike-bound Florida line, and criticized the savagery of the attacks. The Feb. 28 explosion was the fifth in less than three weeks. Both the striking nonoperating unions and the rail management have condemned the dynamitings.

SHELVE SHELTERS
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Armed Service subcommittee voted 4 to 1 today to shelve the administration's $199.6-million fallout shelter program. Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he and Sens. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio and Glenn Beall, R-Md., voted to defer action. While Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C. voted to report the bill, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who was absent, will be given an opportunity to vote later.

MACARTHUR IN HOSPITAL
WASHINGTON (AP) — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur flew here from New York today and was immediately taken to Walter Reed Hospital for "observation of abdominal complaints." The five-star general walked off the military airplane and entered a limousine for the trip to the hospital. His military plane had landed at Washington National Airport. A hospital spokesman said he had no further details immediately on the general's condition.

Cancer Kills Mrs. Wagner, Mayor's Wife

NEW YORK (AP)—Susan Wagner, wife of Mayor Robert F. Wagner, died today.

Mrs. Wagner, 54, had been ailing about 10 months. Earlier today her doctor reported her critically ill with lung cancer.

She died at the mayoral home, Gracie Mansion.

Deputy Mayor Edward F. Cannagh Jr. and City Council President Paul R. Screevan, who were with the mayor at Gracie Mansion, ordered the city's flags to be flown at half staff for a mourning period of 30 days.

The Wagners have two sons, Robert Jr., a junior at Harvard; and Duncan, a student at a prep school. Both are at home now.

Hotel Owner Pleads Fifth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward Levinson, Las Vegas hotel and gambling casino operator, refused to testify in a Senate subcommittee hearing today, protesting that federal agents had tapped his telephone and had invaded the hearing room to subpoena him.

Levinson, object of a wide-spread search by the committee showed up at the office of the Senate Rules Committee early today and volunteered to testify.

Service of the summons in a Senate building, purportedly by an Internal Revenue Service agent, drew stinging criticism from Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., presiding at the hearing.

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"
by John Ruber

Sometimes I get thoroughly fed up with opera singers. Nobody else in the music business gets away with quite so much as these pampered stars. The more famous (or notorious) they are, the more pampered they are, and the more pampered they are, the more demanding they become.

Personally, I think the height of demanding is being done by Joan Sutherland. The Connecticut Opera Association has just signed her for an appearance in "Parsifal" next season, and from what Mr. H. Paul Lowenberg, president, tells me, the contract is a beauty-fer.

In the first place, she has to sing a Macbeth in Gounod's famous masterpiece, so nobody knows whether or not she's any good in the role. Yet she is demanding, and will receive $7,000 for a single performance of the part at the Bushnell. You can see why she is so demanding. Her husband must be engaged as a conductor. He's not very compe-tant, but he's the only one who seems to get along with her. His name is Richard Boyngne and he is responsible for Miss Sutherland's being where she is. (He has to have two or three of her, which, more or less, he does.)

Management rushes to placate them so as to placate the public. It's a vicious circle. The work of the opera stars is to perform. Management rushes to placate them so as to placate the public. It's a vicious circle. The work of the opera stars is to perform.

Bolton Liguori to Attend Meeting by PBC

Superintendent Philip C. Liguori is expected to attend the public building commission meeting on Monday, March 2, at 7:30 p.m. at the PBC headquarters, 300 State St.

According to PBC chairman Douglas Cheney, the PBC has $138,800 allocated for the purchase of movable equipment by the board of education. This figure includes $4,000 which was originally for furnishing the cafeteria-auditorium, deleted by the board.

At last week's school board meeting, Liguori said that the work of it is that management would not hold on to the equipment.

He said that the school board should be given the right to pick the rest of the equipment. He said that the school board should be given the right to pick the rest of the equipment.

Four Breaks On Weekend

A break into the Lucky Laundry, sometime between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Saturday, resulted in a $100,000 loss. The break was in the form of a "dollar bill" change vending machine.

The break was one of four - two in businesses and two in private homes - reported during the weekend hours in which thieves took cash, jewelry and other valuables.

Isaac Snyder, operator of the laundry, reported the break at his 13 Maple St. firm. He told police that a metal box, containing the money, was also taken from the machine.

John D. LaBelle, who is part of the Police Arrests, also reported a break at the Pilsa Cola Laundry, 101 Elm St. Saturday afternoon.

Joseph Dubanowski, 181 Glenfield St. Saturday afternoon reported a break into his home. He said that a man entered his home through a window and stole a television set and a radio.

Samuel Zepkin at 35 South St. Saturday night returned home to find a man in his home. He said that the man stole a television set and a radio.

Board Today Airs Charter Revisions

The board of directors meets in special session at 8 tonight in the hearing room of the Municipal Building to reject, accept or amend a variety of proposed charter revisions, ranging from the removal of the city manager to the creation of a new department.

The meeting is open to the public, but under the board's ruling any public will not be permitted to speak.

All of the charter revisions to be considered tonight have been proposed by the 1963-64 Charter Revision Commission (CRC), which was set up by the city council in 1963.

The revisions include the creation of a new department, the removal of the city manager, and the creation of a new department.

New Files Asked By Probate Court

Manchester Probate Court is one of the few governmental units for which the town needs appropriate new salaries or wages for the forthcoming fiscal year.

And it is one of the only units which is not really a town function for which the town must appropriate operating funds.

The probate courts in Connecticut - which administer the settlement of estates - are state governed, like all other courts.

The pilot, Lt. Laurie Friesen, spotted an oil slick about 10 miles off the coast of Halifax, presumably from the sunken boat. He saw two ships, Friesen said. The nearest was a navy tug, the Athabaskan, and about eight miles away was another ship, the Canadian navy ship, the Victoria.

The Athabaskan's skipper, Cmdr. Peter R. Hinton of Victoria, said a lookout spotted the floating stern at a few minutes after the plane's report. Two lifeboats were seen to weak in the distance. The Athabaskan's side, Canadian sailors scrambled down and aided them aboard.

The rescue of the men on the stern was the windward of the wreck and put two swimmers into the water with two life rafts. Hinton said, they tried to edge the stern but the stern was driven back by the waves.

"We put our whaleboat in the water," Hinton continued, "but the coxswain reported by radio it was too rough for him to get to the stern."

The destroyer escort then drew closer to the floating stern. Hinton described it as a risky maneuver because the wreck was drifting at about 4 1/2 knots.

A line was used to haul a life raft to the wreck. The 18 men, including the captain, said down a rope into the raft and were pulled toward the warship.

"They behaved in a very remarkable fashion," Hinton said. "A Canadian seaman, Donald McAlister, was the first to be pulled overboard and was rescued by the Athabaskan's side."

The Greek sailors were exhausted when they were pulled aboard, but none appeared seriously injured.

"All injured," Hinton said, "were suffering from the cold, but even those treated in sick bay seemed to be pretty good apart," said Alpert, a petty officer on duty in the Athabaskan's sick bay.

The Amphibious, sailing under the Liberian flag, was on route from the Dutch island of Aruba in the Caribbean with cruise oil for a refinery at Dartmouth, N.S. She was built in Norfolk, Va., in 1948.

She is owned by the Navis Vreclis Co. of Rotterdam, Holland.

The Canadian navy said another destroyer escort, the Crest, was awaiting word from the Greek whether to sink the stern by gunfire.

LUANDA, Angola (AP)—The U.S. ambassador to Portugal, George Anderson, is studying Angola today to begin a three-day tour of Angola and Mozambique.

Relations between Portugal and the United States had become strained because of Portugal's support of the Portuguese army against the guerrillas in northern Angola.

The Lisbon government opposes aid by American organizations to the guerrillas with the Congo, which they feel is close to being influenced by Washington.

The pilot, Lt. Laurie Friesen, spotted an oil slick about 10 miles off the coast of Halifax, presumably from the sunken boat. He saw two ships, Friesen said. The nearest was a navy tug, the Athabaskan, and about eight miles away was another ship, the Canadian navy ship, the Victoria.

The Athabaskan's skipper, Cmdr. Peter R. Hinton of Victoria, said a lookout spotted the floating stern at a few minutes after the plane's report. Two lifeboats were seen to weak in the distance. The Athabaskan's side, Canadian sailors scrambled down and aided them aboard.

The rescue of the men on the stern was the windward of the wreck and put two swimmers into the water with two life rafts. Hinton said, they tried to edge the stern but the stern was driven back by the waves.

"We put our whaleboat in the water," Hinton continued, "but the coxswain reported by radio it was too rough for him to get to the stern."

The destroyer escort then drew closer to the floating stern. Hinton described it as a risky maneuver because the wreck was drifting at about 4 1/2 knots.

A line was used to haul a life raft to the wreck. The 18 men, including the captain, said down a rope into the raft and were pulled toward the warship.

"They behaved in a very remarkable fashion," Hinton said. "A Canadian seaman, Donald McAlister, was the first to be pulled overboard and was rescued by the Athabaskan's side."

The Greek sailors were exhausted when they were pulled aboard, but none appeared seriously injured.

"All injured," Hinton said, "were suffering from the cold, but even those treated in sick bay seemed to be pretty good apart," said Alpert, a petty officer on duty in the Athabaskan's sick bay.

The Amphibious, sailing under the Liberian flag, was on route from the Dutch island of Aruba in the Caribbean with cruise oil for a refinery at Dartmouth, N.S. She was built in Norfolk, Va., in 1948.

She is owned by the Navis Vreclis Co. of Rotterdam, Holland.

The Canadian navy said another destroyer escort, the Crest, was awaiting word from the Greek whether to sink the stern by gunfire.

How do I enter?

Glad you asked. Easiest thing in the world. Just complete this sentence: "I think every W-F-T (World's Fair Traveler) should cross the border into Connecticut because..."

Take as few words as you want to finish. (But, please don't take any more than 25.) Write on stationary, note paper, last week's laundry list. Neatness doesn't count a bit, just so long as the judges can read what you write.

What do I say?

Say anything that you think will get a traveler to the World's Fair to point his car north toward Connecticut. (Train, plane, bus or boat will do.) Tell him the things to see and do here. Tell him why you're keen on Connecticut. Tell him how you feel about this 5,008 square miles of paradise. (After all, would you want him to go to Cairo without driving another hour to see the Pyramids?)

When do I start?

Just as soon as you can find a typewriter, a pencil with a point or that ballpoint pen that kids were using last night. If you prefer, use your own paper. Or clip out the entry blank on the bottom of this contest announcement. But be sure to mail your entry by April 22, 1964. Save a stamp and return your entry with your telephone bill, or send it separately to: W-F-T Contest, Box 1457, New Haven, Connecticut, 06506.

500 Prizes!... 500 Winners!

First Prize - An expense-free V.I.P. week end for two in New York. Using the Waldorf-Astoria as headquarters, winners will be treated to V.I.P. tours of the World's Fair grounds and exhibits. From breakfast in bed, meals at top restaurants, theater tickets and special Fair tours, this is truly an "on the cuff" week-end stay and tour of the Fair. In addition to the V.I.P. week end, the winner will select any three of these Connecticut-made prizes... Hitchcock furniture, International silver, Bigelow-Sanford rugs, Pedersen golf clubs, Stanley Home Workshop tools and Concord convertible sofas. An added bonus: by including the name of an out-of-state friend on the entry, the winner will be able to treat two W-F-T friends to a week's paid vacation in Connecticut. (Perfect way to bring them over the border!)

Official Rules:

Complete this statement in 25 words or less: "I think every W-F-T (World's Fair Traveler) should cross the border into Connecticut because..." Some Redrafting Indicated

The Board of Directors meets tonight in one more consideration of the proposed changes in the Manchester Town Charter proposed by the Charter Revision Commission.

By this time, as a result of public hearings and some public study, two major reasons for either rejection or extensive and intensive reconsideration have developed.

It is to be hoped, for the first thing, that no one in any position of legislative or political responsibility will really choose to champion such a gutting of the principles and the system of government Manchester now maintains.

But, regardless of its supposed purpose, the proposed Charter Revision quite obviously ought to be held up and revised for technical purposes of improved and more accurate draftsmanship.

One graphic illustration of this kind of need has appeared in the matter of elections to the Board of Education, where the Charter Revision Commission has, innocently enough, proposed freeing into the Charter a legal impossibility.

maneuver in his rice paddy. They will give him a lie detector test to determine whether he is really a farmer.

Until the lie detectors do arrive on the scene in sufficient force our effort in South Vietnam must, of course, continue to suffer some handicaps from the natural talents of the East for the intractable mystery. But as soon as we get a proper fleet of lie detectors in operation, and a few computers or data processors to correlate their findings, we will at least have the satisfaction of knowing that it is nobody but fooling us, it would have to be ourselves.

Fixed Price "Free Enterprise"

The Conservative government in Britain has submitted to Commons a bill which would abolish retail price fixing by manufacturers. It is a rather mild prescription of free enterprise, since it would still permit the manufacturer to fix a maximum price above which his articles could not be sold.

But it does threaten a touch of free enterprise, just the same. In a country where, for a very long time, has been operating on the theory that real competition is wasteful and that the thing to do is give well established firms a regular and understood share of the market, and let things stand that way forever.

It is interesting—and another of those developments which lends spice and variety to living in these times—that Britain should think of heading the way toward a greater retail free enterprise, while the United States, the purported home of rugged individualism and the open marketplace, displays a continuing taste for the government management of relations between retailers and consumers.

The proposal down in New York state, for instance, that a law be passed abolishing the state regulation of the price of liquor, so that one liquor store could compete with one another, and so that the consumers could get the benefit of lower prices occasionally—this proposal is given almost no chance of passage.

Any similar proposal to restore freedom of liquor prices in Connecticut by repealing the law which makes it a crime for any liquor store to sell a bottle at less than the price which would also be certain to bring out a powerful lobby.

There is no single session of the state legislature, or of Congress, which does not receive a host of proposals putting iron clad fixes on the price of this or that.

Usually, in this country, the argument used for such proposals is that such regulation of prices is necessary in order to prevent the large chains from gaining a monopoly control of the market. But once the price regulation has been obtained, it really serves to create a monopoly for those in business when it was obtained, and the real ultimate target of any monopoly, the one who pays in the end, is always the consumer.

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — There's no need these days to poll voters. If you ask Barry Goldwater he will tell you he has no doubts about his own support.

Certainly, the Goldwater men are making no predictions of victory in the March 10 Presidential primary election. They expect the vote will be about evenly split between Goldwater and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Gov. Rockefeller.

QUESTION: Is this forecast a sign of a psychological tactic that John F. Kennedy used to advantage in 1960? Or are the Goldwater leaders here really worried?

ANSWER: Some of both, but more genuine worry than poor timing, as witness the following.

Sen. Norris Cotton, the No. 1 Republican in New Hampshire's most powerful legislature here, set off this week on a surprise visit to New York City.

Cotton's purpose: To put all his prestige squarely on the chest, but I doubt he will get it. He is a Republican, and other top Republicans who came out early for Goldwater—the man of New Hampshire's Republicanism—have almost as much as Goldwater himself.

"Right now I'd have to say that it's nip and tuck, though the odds are going to pick up in these last 10 days and come out a winner." What gives Hansen's word an authoritative ring is that he is running as an alternate delegate on the Goldwater slate.

In the picture-postcard town of Warner, Town Moderator Waldo Bigelow squinted his blue eyes against the brilliant snow outside and confessed that none of the candidates had quizzed the pulse of his town.

"There's so many of them in this election that it's hard to keep 'em all straight. I have 600 Republican voters on my list, but I don't think I know more than 300 will actually vote."

AMATEURISH OPENING LEAD GIVES CONTRACT TO DECLARER

When you're telling a beginner how to choose his opening bid you always begin with his partner's suit. If your partner has bid lead his suit, he may have bid it for the sole purpose of telling you the lead.

Neither side vulnerable. Opening lead—Right of Clubs. West obediently led the ace of clubs. His partner had bid Clubs and West was a law-abiding citizen. Still, this amateurish opening lead gave South the contract.

North's refusal to stay in no-trump made it clear that the dummy would show up with a ruffing power.

Partner opens with one heart and the declarer has a trump. You bid Spades, Q-7-6; Hearts, Q-8-7; Diamonds, K-8-3; Clubs, 8-7.

What do you say? Answer: Bid two hearts. The excellent trump support is a worthy reward for a weak response.

Senators Debate Administration's Economic Policy public opinion criticism running almost three times as long as the majority document.

The Democratic majority found special encouragement in the timing of the tax out enacted last week, saying it "well compensated" the existing expansion instead of being called upon to contract recession.

The Democrats said Johnson has shown that economies can be made while still increasing spending on vital national needs and they especially praised defense economies. But they also said: "An increase in unemployment is not a good price to pay for balancing the budget."

"The reduction will not be effective in reducing the present high unemployment if federal expenditures are not reduced," the majority wrote, arguing that the government is so active in reducing the present high unemployment in federal spending.

A Grown-Up City

NEW YORK — The status of Pope Pius XII is life size. He sits in the white garments of the head of the Roman Catholic Church, in a museum case in the rear of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Yesterday at 11 a.m. people kept walking over and looking at the statue and reading the scroll in the museum case.

Each article of clothing on the figure on his Holiness, the said, "was worn by him on the last day before his fatal illness and has been so authenticated by those at Castel Gandolfo when he died. During his pontificate His Holiness presented the ring and the pastoral crozier which he had so often worn as a gift to His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman."

The status has been in St. Patrick's for some time. It is going to remain for longer than that, and remain in a prominent position, because it will have considered Cardinal Spellman's comments about a play called "The Deputy," which is playing at the Brooks Atkinson Theater.

"The Deputy" deals with Pope Pius XII's silence while Hitler murdered 6 million European Jews. It goes beyond this, too, and points out how human beings, faced with the need to make a decision on something like the murder of Jews or the plight of the Negro, so often at last make no decision at all. But this theme, in this production, winds up almost a terrible week with the Pope as a terrible weakling who was more concerned with Vatican for the school year than with the Jews who were being murdered.

Patrick's play has been shown, the actor says, "but I have never seen it. In Paris, people jumped on the Negro and dragged him in his underwear, 2,000 torch-carriers marched through the streets of London, demonstrators made threats all over the world. The play has become an international event. Now it is in New York. It is a Catholic and has in its cathedral, only blocks away from the theater, a statue of Pope Pius XII which people look at with reverence.

Of course, when "The Deputy" opened in last Wednesday night in the heart of this city, there was not enough excitement even to notice a demonstration in the streets. The demonstrators are in demand. The state should study setting up a two-year course leading to a degree.

Meriden is not, and will not be, the fortunate future of capable of doing the job as well as the state could, or instead of doing it at all. — MERIDEN RECORD.

Question for Today

A bad case will ever be supported by bad means and bad methods—Thomas F. Bay, the English author.

A Thought for Today

God so loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. (John 3:16).

Humankind's struggle for a better life is not going to be successful unless we are willing to develop love of God and his neighbor regardless of race or creed. Prejudices and hatreds will be conquered by the achievement of truly united nations made not warring, but dependent upon faith in God and love of man.

This is a huge, grown-up city which is too busy out-making itself.

Officials at the Inmanville tower said radio messages from the plane showed the pilot had everything ready for a landing and the aircraft was off course.

Mormons Set Chapel Plans

A $250,000 church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints planned for construction this summer at Hilltown Rd. and Woodside St.
The 500 members of the Hartford Mormon congregation recently split its membership, and some 250 members east of the Connecticut River will build the new church.

Rev. Bradley Installed by Minister Unit

Yesterday, the Tolland County Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers met at the Andover church, heard a paper prepared by him and a discussion of his theological views.
The paper was entitled, "The Prophetic Element of our Judeo-Christian Tradition."

Q. How about presidential office?
A. I said that I would accept a nomination for president if I were offered it. I would not accept it if offered to me.

Foreigners Aided

WASHINGTON - Attractive bilingual young Indians now meet foreign travelers at most major United States airports as part of a U.S. Immigration Service program to make visitors feel welcome and thereby encourage tourism.
The receptionists help cut red tape, ally fears, and assist in many other ways.

John Hay Fellow

Kendall R. Richardson of 11 Nye St., a teacher of social studies at Glastonbury High School, is one of 96 public school teachers who have been awarded John Hay Fellowships for 1964-65.
The awards were announced today by Dr. Charles Keller, director of the John Hay Fellow Program. Financed since 1959 by the Ford Foundation, the program this year will provide more than $500,000 in grants to 96 teachers chosen to spend a year's study in the humanities at one of 50 universities in the United States and Canada.

Farmer Has Power

WASHINGTON - Engineers now in use on United States farms have a total horsepower of 100,000,000 - more than the combined power of mechanical engines and turbines of all the country's factories, private planes, trains, ships and mines.

Clutch Firm Hiring, Union Not Worried

While striking union employees at Carlyle-Johnson Machine Co. on Main St. dig in for a long fight, the plant has started to hire replacements, A. R. Hutchings, company vice president, said today the plant has hired "several" new employees and expects to hire more.

Hutchings declined to say how many men he was working in the shop, but said production is on a limited basis. Before the strike started Feb. 4, there were 46 employees in the shop. It was learned that the one worker who is not a member of Local 281, Union of International Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, has returned to work.

Meanwhile, about "two or three" union members have gotten new full-time jobs, according to Hutchings, chief steward. He said a number of others are working at part-time jobs during the strike.

The union struck the local manufacturer of friction clutches on Feb. 4 after the sides failed to agree on the first contract between company and union. Hutchings said he is not worried over the company move to replace the strikers. He declared the employees have agency rights, and will return to their jobs when a contract is signed.

But in a letter sent all striking employees last week the company said it would seek permanent replacements for any strikers who did not return to work by today. None have returned.

The company maintained in the letter that it has the right to replace any employee who does not return to work. The newly-hired employees are on a 30-day trial basis after which they will either be dismissed or become permanent employees, Hutchings said.

Kiebasia said picketers would "definitely" not block anyone who applied for a job at the plant. Asked if the union was providing compensation for the workers, Kiebasia said the union "was taking care of the fellows." He declined to give any figures.

Hutchings said the meeting was cancelled because of a strike. Richard Wilson, company counsel, wanted time to study the union proposal. He said a meeting would be arranged as soon as the attorney completed his study of the proposals.

The company and union have not met at the bargaining table since Feb. 14. On that day, the company claims, union representatives walked out on the meeting.

Hotel Owner Pleads Fifth. (Continued from Page One) man with a summons, Cannon Levinson handed the summons to the committee, to be photographed, Cannon said, although he did not at once indicate for what purpose.

Testimony from Levinson was scheduled for today's hearing. After questioning by William Kenor, a Chicago meat dealer, Kenor said he had imported meat from a slaughterhouse in Mexico, which was the property of the late Beniguel. The committee said last week it had $2,000 in assets.

Both Levinson and Sigelbaum are stockholders in the Service Corp., a vending machine company in which Baker has a 50 percent interest. They also have been linked with Baker's purchase of stock in a recently chartered bank here.

100 Registered At 5-Day Clinic

Close to 100 persons last night attended the first session of the Five-Day-Stop-Smoking Clinic at Hill Junior High School. The clinic, which will continue at 7:30 tonight through Thursday, is being sponsored by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the National Health Foundation, and is free and open to the public.

The attendance, last night, was evenly divided between men and women, and included about 25 teenagers, most of whom said they were not smokers, but were concerned with the problem. About 60 of the people present registered for the full course, and promised to return tonight.

O. J. Mills, pastor of the Hartford Church of the "Bay, said Day Adventists, leader of the clinic, said that registration is still open, and that people may attend any or all of the sessions. At last night's meeting members were shown emphasizing the harmful effects of smoking, and personal-control booklets were distributed, designed to guide non-smokers through the first stages of their resolved change.

Plane Finally Free. MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An Air Force amphibian plane that had been grounded for a film capsule from a Cape Kennedy missile finally took off Sunday after wallowing around in rough seas for five days. The plane, attached to the 4th Air Rescue Squadron at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., ran into bad weather after the launch of Feb. 25. The next four days the amphibian plane was used most of its fuel taxing around trying to find a favorable place and time to take off.

The Coast Guard cutter Holyoke, which had been grounded since morning and it took off the Grand Bahama Island.

Dr. Reynolds Book Author

Dr. Ferris Reynolds, minister of Second Congregational Church from 1935 to 1946, is the author of a new book, "Philosophic Problems of Religion." He is chairman of the department of philosophy and religion at Eliot (N. C.) College. The book is scheduled for publication in the spring by the Odyssey Press of New York.

The 350-page book was written and designed for college uppermen and graduate students in the fields of philosophy and theology. It deals with specific problems of interpreting religion, such as the problem of knowledge, the use of language, and the problem of immortality.

Dr. Reynolds had a book published in 1952 entitled "An Adventure With People," published by the Christian Education Press. The book is still being recommended by the International Council of Religious Education for use in adult education classes. He has also written many other articles for church and Sunday School use.

The author is listed in Who's Who in America and Who's Who Who in America and Who's Who Who in America.

Builders Sought By Train Club

The Model H.O. Train Club located at the East Side Center and sponsored by the recreation department is in need of men and boys to help complete a track layout. This layout is better than three-quarters completed, but some of the men in charge have since been obligated to attend to other personal matters.

The clubroom will be open on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 6 to 8. All interested in helping with this club may drop in either or both of these nights.
