WASHINGTON (AP)—The epic Senate civil rights battle is under way with Southerners vowing "no compromise" and launching a slow-down that is a preview of the full-blown filibuster still to come.

As debate enters its second day today Senate leaders said they would not try to speed matters up with extra-long sessions this week.

Southern senators responded by indicating their initial speeches would not run too long. Both sides made plain in the first skirmish Monday they were ready to fight in a showdown, no matter how long it takes—and it may take months.

Under debate today is the first stage of the Senate legislative process—the motion of Democratic leader Mike Mansfield to proceed to consideration of the 10-point civil rights bill passed by the House.

Several Dixie senators were prepared to speak against this bill today. The Southerners would allow the motion to pass by the middle of next week. Once the bill is taken up, it is subject to amendment and the real battle will be on.

Justices Uphold Policeman Who Killed a Suspect

HARTFORD (AP)—A police officer may use deadly force to effect an arrest if he is reasonably certain a felony has been committed and feels there is no other way to prevent an escape.

This was the ruling of the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors after it examined the case of Hartford Policeman Robert Donlin who on April 20, 1963 shot and killed John Martyn of Wetherfield.

Martyn was killed as he attempted to jump over a fence as Officer Donlin was chasing him. The policeman said he felt Martyn had stolen the car he was driving.

The high court ruled that Martyn's conduct in attempting to escape was "voluntarily and without justification."

It had been argued that Officer Donlin knew only that Martyn had committed a motor vehicle violation since all he saw of him was Martyn speeding by his parked cruiser.

The policeman gave chase and was outdistanced by Martyn but later spotted him running out of an alleyway. He gave chase and shot him as he was going over the fence.

The court ruled that Donlin acted in self-defense. It also pointed out that Martyn had stolen the car. "He would be shot," the court said.

The court also distinguished a claim by the plaintiff, Martin P. Martyn, who brought civil action against the policeman and the City of Hartford for his death. He claimed that Donlin was acting in a reckless manner and also had had reasonable cause to believe that it was necessary under the circumstances to use deadly force to make the arrest.

The high court noted that Donlin acted in self-defense. It also pointed out that Martyn had stolen the car. "He would be shot," the court said.

Write-Ins and Snowstorm Early Factors in Primary

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—A swirling snowstorm and early write-in votes for Henry Cabot Lodge and Richard M. Nixon compounded the Republican riddle today as New Hampshire voters cast their ballots in the nation's lead-off presidential primary.

With seven votes, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater held a one vote edge, but Lodge was right behind him as a trickle of voters wrote in the name of the GOP nomination.

Goldwater's name was on the ballot, Lodge's and Nixon's were not.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who like Goldwater, has been stumping New Hampshire all winter, had three votes and Nixon had five write-in ballots.

These early votes were from voters edge, but Lodge was right behind him as a trickle of voters wrote in the name of the GOP nomination.

Figures Show 4.5 Million Underrated Jobless Total

WASHINGTON (AP)—The real unemployment total may be closer to 4.5 million than the 3.5 million figure shown in latest official statistics.

The new figures, presented to Congress along with President Johnson's report on manpower, include persons "out in the labor force" in addition to the unemployed.

It is the first such set of figures that have been able to get up to date on the true extent of unemployment, a substantial number of whom are active seeking work.

Union spokesmen have estimated that the real unemployment total may be closer to 4.5 million than the 3.5 million figure shown in latest official statistics.

Woman Talks Convict into Surrendering

MUNITH, Mich. (AP)—"I never talked so much in my life," said Marian Poxon, 46-year-old housewife, after she persuaded an escaped convict to surrender.

"I talked to him like he was my son," she said. "He needed help."

Mrs. Poxon, a small, plumpish woman, talked convicted former Lester B. Dione, 35, into giving himself up after a hectic flighting period Monday.

A threatened kidnaping, two home break-ins, and a high-speed auto ride with Mrs. Poxon as the wheel praying for police interception figured in the series of events.

A state police alarm was out. Mrs. Poxon was up.

An unusual woman, Mrs. Poxon said, contacted her after she had fled from a Michigan state prison farm, had emerged from a barn hide-out in midtown.

With a red bandanna handkerchief over her face, she broke into the home of Constable Poxon, 28, and his wife to join the U.S. Marshal's delegation of eight for the presidential plane.

Johnson planned to fly to Dallas from Kansas City, Mo., and visit Johnson at the White House before the late afternoon takeoff from Andrews Air Force Base.

The Weather Bureau held to its prediction that the stage here would reach 66 feet by Thursday, and said the crest probably would be higher. The stage was 62 feet at 8 a.m. and rising at three-tenths of a foot an hour. Flood stage is 62 feet. The crest here was 62 feet on March 7.

Shea Grills Rome On Quiz of Darwin

State Police Major Samuel Rome said today in Toland County Superior Court that he was never informed defense attorneys were trying to reach him during a weekend when Roy F. Darwin was in state police custody.

At a heated preliminary hearing in Darwin's first degree murder trial, Maj. Rome said he received no messages lastly that Darwin's attorneys wanted to speak to him.

Rome replied, "I just can't explain it."

Maj. Rome, occasionally vying his face with a handkerchief, was on the witness stand for almost three hours the morning of a hearing to determine if two alleged confessions by Darwin were admissible in the trial. Maj. Rome headed police investigation in the murder of 17-year-old Hope Holaday of Bolton.

Defense attorneys contend that the alleged confessions should not be admitted, charging that they were not given voluntarily and that Darwin was denied his right to counsel.

Maj. Rome said he was in communication with his superior, Lt. John F. Shea, at the time.

Shea asked, "Did you communicate with Darwin?"

Freight Plane Falls, Three Die in Boston

BOSTON (AP)—A Bick Airways Inc. freight plane plunged out of a steep climb crashed into a Boston waterfront lumber terminal today, killing its crew of three.

A lumber yard work gang had passed the crash scene just before the plane fell from the sky, a report that two yard workers had been killed. However, all three crew members were accounted for later.

Bick Airways said the plane out of New York and crashed in a field, Conn., normally carried cargo.

The DC-4, four-engine aircraft attempting an instrument landing, came out of a lowering sky in a steep and a half-gale into the Castle Island waterfront terminal across the harbor from Logan International Airport where the craft was to have landed.

Hundreds of onlookers, apparently part of the plane's cargo, were scattered over a wide area.

Rains Swell Ohio River to Record Level

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Ohio River continued to surge today toward its fourth highest level in history, the highest since 1945. A Weather Bureau forecast that heavy rains of the past 10 days would taper off somewhat in areas upstream from Cincinnati brought a bit of good cheer to the inundated areas.

But the situation was uncertain to get worse before it starts to get better, particularly in the 200-plus miles of the river below Cincinnati.

The Weather Bureau held to its prediction that the stage here would reach 66 feet by Thursday, and said the crest probably would be higher. The stage was 62 feet at 8 a.m. and rising at three-tenths of a foot an hour. Flood stage is 62 feet. The crest here was 62 feet on March 7.

Proud Carrier Enterprise Termed a White Elephant

Carrier Division 3 employs the old Enterprise as his flagship. He is a young flying officer on the old Enterprise, the Big E.

For sentiment's sake, the new Enterprise has only five port holes in her hull, all taken from the old Enterprise. They grace the cabin of the new giant's skipper, Capt. Frederick H. Miller, a native of Kansas City, Mo.

But tradition does not win the old Enterprise. She is a 200-ton nuclear-powered, 86,200-ton ship new maneuvering in the Mediterranean with her 301 planes and surface escorts, constituting the most sophisticated weapons system in the world, with 400 crew members and a wide spectrum of military responses.

Shea Grills Rome On Quiz of Darwin

Stafford took looking for the state police official.

Maj. Rome admitted that he learned on Dec. 8 that Darwin was reported to have been arrested on charges that day Darwin's three attorneys accompanied the defendant to an inspection at the Vernon Public Safety Building.

Maj. Rome said that when Darwin was picked up the following day on a coroner's warrant and taken to the state police station.

"Was he allowed to make the phone call?" Shea asked.

"No," Rome replied.

Rome said that after Darwin was brought to the station, he did not ask for a telephone call.

Maj. Rome declared that just before a final return test was administered to Darwin on Feb. 10, police brought into the room a man who said he saw Darwin in the state police building.

Under defense questioning, Maj. Rome admitted the man was a member of the state trooper driving in rough clothing who was seen in the vicinity of the state police building on the night Darwin was arrested.

Maj. Rome said that the man was identified as Robert J. Shea, Jr., a 4-ft 6-in. man with a mustache and a goatee.

"This was a man to shake this man?" Shea asked.

"This was one of those things that is a matter of a guilty person," Major Rome said. "What I know is that I got the truth from Roy Darwin," he said.

"Were you trying to calm him down and relax him in preparation for the test, Atty. Shea asked.

"I had in mind to get the truth from Darwin," he said. "I didn't want to make him feel guilty."

Atty. Shea reminded Maj. Rome that Darwin had also been in the state police building on the night Darwin was arrested.

"My job was not to relax or unnerve him," Maj. Rome replied.

Yesterday, when the hearing got underway, State Police Maj. Rome was called to the stand to testify on the state police's handling of Darwin's case.

On that day, Maj. Rome said, Darwin contacted the state police headquarters in Hartford on Dec. 8.

Dr. William J. Dwyer of Bloomfield was called after Darwin suffered a weak spell and nearly passed out. Dr. Dwyer called to the witness stand and said the defendant complained of a pain in his right side, but examination revealed nothing.

The doctor said he found two superficial wounds on Darwin's torso.

"Is this indicative of someone who has had a seizure?" Atty. Shea asked.

"Yes," replied Dr. Dwyer.

Dr. Dwyer said Darwin was sitting when he first saw him. He said the defendant appeared tense and occasionally nervous.

During a second examination, Dr. Dwyer noticed head tremors of Darwin.

"You couldn't really classify the defendant as a normal, well person?" Atty. Shea asked.

"No," the doctor replied. "I was normal at the time I examined him."

"Did you make a statement regarding Darwin's condition?" Atty. Shea asked.

"Yes, I said I could find no gross physical abnormalities," Dr. Dwyer replied.

Earlier in the hearing, State Police Lt. Donald Paige said that at the time he was with Darwin the defendant appeared to be well. Lt. Paige, who was with Darwin several times during the weekend, said he heard no threats or promises made to the defendant.

The police official said there was mainly "general conversation" between himself and Darwin. On one occasion, Lt. Paige admitted under defense questioning, the conversation turned to sex.

The police official said he asked Darwin, while the two were having supper, about his sexual experience before and after his marriage.

Dorland County Coroner Bernard J. Ackerman, who also took the stand, said he had known Darwin who Darwin was being held between Dec. 6 and while Darwin was detained under a coroner's warrant. He told the court that he never went to see Darwin or examine him.

"I called to see him," he said. "I was the state police official who arrested Darwin." He seemed surprised that he had been called to testify.

Atty. Smith, counsel for the state, asked Maj. Rome if Darwin was treated with courtesy. "No," Rome replied.

Maj. Rome revealed that a confession was drawn up by Darwin on Dec. 10, 1963, and signed "Roy Darwin" and signed to complete the signature.

"It's sign if I can say say

Hebron 3 Appointed To Unit for Salary Study

Maj. Rome said Darwin told him.

"Roy, I can't make any deal with you," Maj. Rome said he replied to Darwin when he tried to tear up the last page of the confession.

On the morning of Sunday, Dec. 8, Darwin agreed to sign the state police confession, said Maj. Rome said that because of Darwin's cooperative attitude that morning he decided to take him out to Vernon and Toland to re-examine the crime.

But he had succeeded, his motion would not have been debatable and the first round of Southern speeches would have been knocked out.

But the Dixie contingent, led by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., actually got away by various parliamentary stratagems. The majority leader then was forced to offer his motion at a time when it was debatable, in that status until voted on.

Russell, who killed much of the morning hour with a speech, said he would not be able to know how far-reaching the bill would be.

The Georgian described parts of the bill as "a step toward legislation in history, including the North and South." He warned there would be "no compromise" in the time that had arrived when the Senate is about to take up the bill.

It should be inexcusable for the Senate to shut it aside," he said and added that "racial equality are among the oldest of the rights of man."

TDC Refuses to Consider Job Office Move Dispute

The Town Development Commission (TDC) last night refused to consider the proposed move of the Connecticut Unemployment Service offices from Main St. to the Shopping Parkade...

The board last Tuesday had bypassed any action on the matter by referring it to the TDC.

The matter had been brought up for discussion at the board's meeting by Republican Director Francis DellaFera, who questioned the reasons for the state agency's proposed move from Main St. offices in an Alexander Jarvis-owned building on downtown Main St. to space being leased in the Manchester Shopping Parkade from the First Hartford Realty Co.

The board of directors was reluctant to pursue the discussion, mainly on the basis that it was a dispute between two local companies, and did not involve a move from town and consequently that it was not a concern of the town's government.

It had unanimously approved a motion by Republican Director Harlan Taylor to ask the TDC to look into the reasons for the move.

TDC Chairman Alfred Werber, employed by Jarvis, did not sit in on last night's deliberations, having withdrawn because of "conflict of interests."

The meeting was conducted by Atty. Joseph A. Conit, the agency's secretary.

The TDC members were unable to get a foothold on the dispute, since, as Atty. Conit stated, "We have never been officially notified by the board of directors of our involvement in the matter. We don't know what they want us to do, nor do we have any information but what we have read in the newspapers."

Discussion concerned itself with whether the TDC had any jurisdiction or authority to investigate the reasons for the move, with Republican members
