Warren Commission will discuss example of Monday morning quarterbacking in discussion of report on assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, has said the FBI failed to notify the Secret Service of the names of some of whom are traveling abroad, were not successful.

Hoover believed over on these and other matters, including "bleeding heart judges" and a lengthy interview Wednesday with a group of women reporters.

Hoover charged that the FBI director went off the safety of the president's life.

Hoover appeared before the panel on Monday and testified that the FBI was doing "a very bad job" of protecting the president.

Rev. King Hits Back At Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has blasted the Warren Commission as "unfair and unjust" and called Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. "the most notorious liar in the country."

Oldest Navy Yard To Be Eliminated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional sources said today the Brooklyn, N.Y., Navy yards are among those selected by the Defense Department for shutdown.

A well-placed source here said two other bases in New York—the Brooklyn Army Terminal which employs about 2,000 persons and Ft. Jay on Governor's Island also are among the bases slated for closing.

The Brooklyn yard employs about 8,000 workers and New York members of Congress have said a shutdown of the bases would have a serious economic impact.

Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York City, who has been a vocal opponent of the yard's closure, said he would introduce legislation to keep it open.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., announced earlier that he would introduce legislation to keep the yard open.

1,200 More U.S. Men Join Viet Nam Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States sent another 1,200 military men to Vietnam this month, officials disclosed today. More American air transport units also have been thrown into the struggle.

The disclosures came less than 24 hours after it was announced that Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor will fly back to Washington to open a sweeping review of the South Vietnamese situation with President Johnson.

The additional manpower brings the total number of U.S. troops in Vietnam to about 160,000. The review is expected to last several weeks.

Hollywood Search Widens For New Comedy Subjects

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The latest batch of film comedies can handle comedy with expertise, evidence of how far Hollywood is traveling in search of subject matter. The movies concern the Pacific war, re-education and football in the Near East, and the results are mixed.

"Father Goose" is the best of the lot, thanks to the consummate artistry of the old master, Cary Grant. This time he is playing an unloving, screwing South Seas escapade, but doesn't let the disguise fool you. Beneath that stubble is the same suave Grant.

The plot is a natural for comedy. Grant is a confirmed misanthrope, is tricked into becoming a coast-guarder after the Japanese drive through the South Pacific. Who should fall into his charge but a prim schoolteacher, Leslie Caron, with a covey of young girls.

As with all recent Grant films, this one has been put together with expert care, embodying just the right amount of adventure, laughs, scenery, sentiment and a soap opera. About all it lacks is that precious element of surprise that denotes inspired comedy.

Ralph Nelson, who wrote such warm humanity in "Lilies of the Field," continues his winning ways with "Father Goose." Leslie Caron makes a welcome return to American films, and Trevor Howard is a proper foil for the British commander for whom Grant is an unwilling hero.

ILL-TIMED TRIP
KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Grant is great, which is no surprise. Maybe now he'll draw that Oscar recognition that is long overdue.

Considering the talent that went into "Goodbye, Charlie," it is curious that the film isn't a

New Armies Of Africa Gain Power

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Africa's fledgling armies are flexing their muscles rapidly becoming a major force in the continent's nations.

Tunisian governments are becoming more aware of dependence on the military and the threat created by their growing power.

Today independent Africa with a per capita income of $122.50 supports some 400,000 armed men grouped in 35 armies. South Africa, with its white government and army, is not included in the statistics.

Total estimated military budgets of the independent African nations, without South Africa, is about $10 billion.

There are an estimated 1,300 war planes in Africa, many manned by foreign pilots in the service of African governments.

The quest for prestige and fear of conflicts with neighbors are the main motives behind the creation of armies by the struggling African nations. But with the armies usually comes the threat of military coup.

Over the past four years, a dozen military polices shook the continent. Some were successful and some were quashed with the help of the former colonizers.

The most dramatic is the case of Togo, whose president, Sylvanus Olympio, was overthrown in 1963 by disgruntled soldiers demanding an increase of the army's token armed forces.

In East Africa, British commando and airborne troops quashed revolts by the fledgling Washington bureaucracy, called Tanganyika. The governments were kept in power but the problem remained.

In the West African country of Gabon, a French paratroop base reinstated in power President Leon Mba after a brief military revolt.

In Dahomey, a military junta took over but subsequently turned the power over to civilians.

There were attempted assassinations and revolts by the military in Tunisia, Niger and Liberia.

Many governments decided to collaborate closely with their military as the best possible formula of survival. Such are the cases of Algeria, whose President Ahmed Ben Bella leans heavily on Defense Minister Houari Boumedienne and the army; and Morocco, where King Hassan II recently appointed two generals to his cabinet.

Almost everywhere in Africa, young officers are clamoring for buildup of troops, for action. Frontier disputes between African nations have sparked brief wars in Chad's 400 troops.

The continent's 300,000-man force, backed by Soviet-made tanks and jet bombers, to Chad's 400 troops.

After Egypt, Algeria and Tunisia, the 300,000-man force, backed by Soviet-made tanks and jet bombers, to Chad's 400 troops.

All in all, the African nations have formed at least the nucleus of armed forces, generally with the help of former colonizers.

The presence of foreign officers and advisers has been diminishing, however. In Ghana, where in 1960 British officers commanded companies and platoons, only a few British advisers remained in the general staff.

Dry Season May Expand Laos Fight

TOKYO (AP) — With the dry season setting in and its roads firming up again, Laos' internal strife appears headed for more fighting between the Pathet Lao and the royal government.

Patet Lao chief Prince Souphanouvong in a statement broadcast last week claimed "force fighting" already is raging and a "large-scale war is being expanded throughout Laos."

As usual, taking the role of the aggressor party, the Communist leader charged that the Laotian army, with American support, had been attacking Pathet Lao-held areas.

And he said he had half-brother, Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, "who has capitulated to and conspired with the above acts of the United States and its lackeys to bear no small part of the responsibility."

"The situation in Laos, which has already been half-brother, Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, "who has capitulated to and conspired with the above acts of the United States and its lackeys to bear no small part of the responsibility."

When East played low, South got to his hand with the queen of hearts and a diamond, and West's club in dummy. He continued with the queen of hearts, a heart ruff, and a diamond, and West's club in dummy.

Daily Questions
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player bids two diamonds. You hold Spades, E-7-4; Hearts, J-10-9-8; Diamonds, 10-9-8; Clubs, 2-7-4.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. This is a very poor hand, but the heart support is good. If you fail to bid at this inexpensive contract you may be shut out for the entire hand. One bid and only three hearts. But none of this is a surprise to East. It was natural for South to play as he did, and East could see that the play would work.

East can defeat the contract by making the right play at the second trick. South is marked with Q-K-Q of diamonds for a sure trick. East could see that the play would work.

Souphanouvong charged that 30 battalions of infantry, artillery and armored units totaling 100,000 men of the Laotian army and a large number of aircraft were "conducting a large-scale attack" against Pathet Lao-occupied areas.

LOOK AHEAD TO FIND DEFENSE TEAM VICTORS

In most hands it's easy to look ahead to your opponent's natural line of play. If this will work for him, look for an unusual natural line of play. You seldom find what you don't look for.

Junk Takers Big Menace In Offices

NEW YORK (AP) — Office thievery is a growing problem today.

Big industries steal their big and small secrets from each other. Spies in business may make more money than spies in government. But most office thieves merely are novelty hunters — junk takers.

My desk has been invaded by them too often, and I feel they are an ordeal and an unnecessary nuisance.

Most people keep immaculate desks. They live as if they were going to die. They die overnight, the newcomer who took their place the next morning would face a mirror nervously.

I live another way. I believe a clean desk is the sign of a practical mind.

Most people lock their desks. I don't. I leave my desk unlocked and piled daily higher with a clutter of wastepapers, postponed decisions and unanswered letters.

This is why it puzzles me that I am more often a victim of office thievery than those who keep their desks locked and piled daily higher with a clutter of wastepapers, postponed decisions and unanswered letters.

I hate to think that an international ring of office espionage artists is employing my desk for a training ground, but now I see can I explain that.

My letters from admiring old ladies have been ruthlessly opened and peered into.

So have been the follow-up letters from their husbands saying: "No matter what my wife wrote you, you try to sell her anything. I'll tell you right now that I'll not be financially responsible."

So have been my invitations to cocktail parties to celebrate a new tractor, or to judge the vocal excellence of a troupe of visiting canaries.

Careless as I am, I still resent the fact that any office thief should purloin from my desk such as the following:

My unmailed encouraging note to Gen. Cluter, before the Battle of the Little Big Horn in 1876. "Just keep on herding those Indians, George, and you'll be back in Washington as a protein-enriched cold drink."

A very postcard from William Jennings Bryan following his defeat for the presidency in 1908, after earlier losing in 1896 and 1900. "Well, you can win them all, kid!"

The telegram I sent to a man named Ford. "If you ask my advice, Henry, don't put your trust in a four-wheeled vehicle just because it wears out more tires. The big future is in a three-wheeled car."

And the advice I gave to Tom Edison: "What's the use of putting a light inside a closed light bulb — if it makes it just that much harder to reach with a match?"

The trouble with an office thief is that he usually steals something that isn't at all important to him but may be to the one he preys upon. And it comes to a disorderly desk as a three-wheeled car.

The less there is worth stealing, the more he takes — stumpy because it is there.

There isn't much glory in rob-

Only 2 Bishops Have Reached Golden Jubilee

BAKERS, Ore. — Only one cardinal and one archbishop among the United States Catholic bishops have lived to observe the 50th anniversary of their consecration.

Archbishop Peter R. Kenrick of St. Louis, 54 years and four months.

Bishop Francis P. Leppig of Baker found also a study course in 1910 that Catholic bishops in this country on the average live 21 years after their consecration to age 85.

Torrington Fire

TORRINGTON (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. DeLia and their six children were rescued today by a neighbor and firefighter from a two-story house.

The family was awakened by the explosion of a gas furnace in the living room of the 1 1/2 story colonial structure.

While firemen were being summoned, the DeLias and their children made their way to the roof after finding exits blocked by intense heat and smoke.

A neighbor, George Morris, furnished a ladder as the family was making its way down to safety. Fire arrived to complete the rescue.

Fire Chief Henry J. Rougeau said the fire started in the living room and swept through the rest of the house.

Heavy automotive parts lay strewn on the ground after the pickup truck carrying the parts and the car collided yesterday afternoon on Rt. 44A in Bolton.

Police said the truck, headed south, struck the left lane and struck the Addy vehicle. William LaPlante of Phoenix, Ariz., was driver of the truck, was treated for leg injury.

Vatican Refutes New Charge Controversy Begins Again Over Pope Pius' War Action

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic bishops of the United States came into their own at the almost-finished third session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, leading the debate on several major topics and reflecting traditional American views.

American prelates have spoken out in St. Peter's Basilica at the current session of the council, expressing their views on the church's position on birth control, nuclear war, and the rights of the individual.

Cardinal Spellman of New York arrived in Rome late afternoon of Wednesday. He spoke out on several matters as the council's modern world problems agenda, and asked that the document not be weakened.

The schema represents the basic hopes of this "Vatican Council," he said.

Cardinal Spellman spoke again Nov. 17, expressing approval of a schema on birth control and nuclear war, but cautioned against seeking too much renovation in their rules.

Cardinal Spellman and Bishop John R. Hughes of New York were asked for a larger role for Catholic laymen during the council's work on the last day.

The American bishops were silent during the debate of the church's position on birth control and nuclear war, and several European and the Montreal Cardinal Paul-Emile LeGardeur, president of the council, took the floor.

The Americans pressed for all-out condemnation of racial discrimination when the modern world schema arrived at a discussion of human dignity.

Cardinal Ruffini of Washington was applauded in the council hall when he said that the council should be a "council of the people" and not just a council of bishops.

Hebron Fellowship At Service Out of State

The Congressional Senior Pilgrim Fellowship went to Westbury, N.Y., Sunday, leaving at 4 p.m. for a meeting with the youth Fellowship of the Central Baptist Church and sharing with them in the evening service. The Junior High P.F. met Sunday evening at 7 in the Hebron First Congregational Church.

During the coming holiday season the men and women of the Fellowship will combine their singing routine. They will meet again this Thursday at 8:30, in the Hebron First Congregational Church.

Parties are again planned for the winter. The first will be served Friday at the Hebron Church from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Tickets will be by advance sale only. The supper is sponsored by the Hebron Sunday school and proceeds go toward carrying on the maintenance of Sunday school work.

Guest Preacher

The Rev. Dr. Nathaniel Mann Gupill, minister of the Congregational Church, will be guest preacher at all three worship services Sunday at Center Church, Arno Merced street. His topic will be "God's Aristocracy." Worship services are at 8, 10 and 11 a.m.

The Rev. Dr. Gupill is a native of Deer Isle, Maine. His father was also a minister and had been a long-time superintendent of the Maine Seacoast Missionary Society. The Rev. Dr. Gupill has held assignments in Massachusetts and Maine since his ordination. He has written numerous pamphlets and articles in religious journals and has served as editor of the Minister's Quarterly.

In his present position, he exercises pastoral concern for the welfare of more than 300 members of the Conference. He also serves as president of the Missionary Society of Connecticut and president of the trustees of the Fund for Ministers.

Snowy Owl Invading Eastern U.S. Areas

LINCOLN, Mass. (AP) — It's a vintage year for the great snowy owl. "We are being invaded; it isn't a migration," says Wesley Hanley of the Massachusetts Audubon Society. The big bird, which has a wingspread of more than five feet, is normally happy to stay in the arctic. Within the past few days, however, the society has received reports of some 60 sightings in New England. They also have been seen as far south as the Carolinas.

Two days ago one was shot illegally in Belvidere, N.J. when it perched atop a television antenna. It is never legal to shoot the bird in Massachusetts, but some states do not have it on the prohibited list because the bird is so scarce it never occurred to the lawmakers.

Ornithologists believe the snowy owl is forced out of the Arctic when his chief food supply, the lemming, is scarce. Lemmings, mouse-like creatures, are notorious for a boom and bust life cycle. In Scandinavian countries they have been

Big Swings In Market Raise Query

AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — After several weeks of steady gains, the stock market is beginning to wobble again. And its wide swings raise the question of whether the public is coming back in.

Most small investors apparently stayed on the sidelines during the brief upturn in late summer, so that only the professionals cleaned the profit.

And even this week's liveliness on the exchanges seems to observers more the work of pros and the institutions than of the little fellow. This is because the big volume of trading has been traceable to interest in a few individual stocks, which usually in those where some specific news seemed to be affecting them.

Labor troubles on the one hand, and reports that they will soon be over on the other, have moved the market sharply down.

Price increases in some commodities, particularly metals, have bolstered a belief stubbornly held by many stock traders that another inflationary swing will get started in a few more months. And this has interested the bulls.

The election went as Wall Street expected, but confidence in the idea found the market will be the aim of the government, and many about climb.

In spite of all this, the little fellow still may be in the presence known as he did in the bull market of 1961. And many think that the shelving of that lot of people, especially novices, took in 1962 as a result of the binge of the year before is still keeping the public out.

Memories aren't supposed to be that long. But they seem to be for many who lost heavily two years ago.

Wall street has no foolproof proof as to just how many investors are buying or how much they are buying. Brokers watch the odd lot figures for one indication. Since odd lots are those bought or sold in less than 100 share quantities, it is assumed that such activities are the little fellow. But this is still just an assumption.

The odd lot figures during the late summer upturn in the market showed more selling orders than buying. This has changed now and then of late, but not enough to be convincing.

Another thing that brokers watch in the interest in stocks of new companies or little known ones, or those touted as having growth potential.

There has been no such speculative rush in this field as in the bull market of 1961. Both government and private economists are glad there has been no such effort that means another 1962-type market crash.

But any sign of revived speculative interest — as contrasted to the interest in blue chips that has characterized the market of recent weeks — is being watched for both by the financial community and by the authorities who might move in to discourage it.

A rising stock market in itself causes few qualms. A speculative rush which sucks in the little fellow definitely does.

New England Vignettes

BOSTON (AP)—New England's finest is finished in cedar and pine. In Barre, Vt., a log cabin that sits on a wooded hill just past a covered bridge is not a sign of pioneer settlers.

The cabin and the rare covered bridge are among the new structures by Barre, both built by Robert Robbins, a granite contractor by trade.

Appropriately, he and his wife and their two small sons call the home "The Robbins Nest."

Mrs. Robbins said she and her husband wanted a home of their own "and since neither of us likes to do it in houses, we agreed that a log cabin would be the outside of cedar logs which Robbins had shipped in from Houlton, Maine. The interior was finished in pine and the setting authentically rustic.

Working evenings and weekends, Robbins hand-sanded every log used inside. The ceiling beams not only were sanded, but were treated to give the aged look.

To overcome the problem of spanning a stream that flows between the five-room house and Route 202, the Robbins built a covered bridge. The 50-foot floor spans were shipped by boat from California to Vermont and then over the road to Barre.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbins are proud members now of the National Association of Inland Preservation of Covered Bridges.

On the living room of the house is a huge bear rug. Robbins said he recently sold it to a collector who earned his house and plans shortly to let his cows, also in the barn from which he was elected. Meanwhile, he has a pair of horses from the town's stable.

Other jobs include stewardess on a chartered plane which flies to seven countries, tour guide in Brazil and help on geological and archeological expeditions.

Only 23 students earned more than $1,000 during the summer. The highest paid was a sophomore who ran her own day camp and averaged $225 a week.

The remainder of the 1,650 students—473—did exactly what they spent the summer doing. They spent the summer on a standardized achievement test and one can go on almost indefinitely quoting statistics showing the correlation between illiteracy and the crime rate.

The name was withheld, but one girl at Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass., spent her summer vacation working as an artist's model in Paris. She was one of 1,151 students at the girls' college who earned at least $1,000 working during the summer vacation. Another girl said she was bagged in the foot of the stairs leading to the upstairs bedrooms.

Board Chairman Jesse Rice says there have been complaints that many riders have turned the new $100,000 pedestrian ways into bridge paths.

The matter came to a head when a woman complained that she was forced to wheel her baby carriage off the sidewalk to make way for a horseback rider.

Republican Alderman Douglass Carver of Burlington, Vt., is a man without a home—but not without a building lot—and thereby hangs a local legal problem.

The city charter says that "if any alderman shall remove out of the ward for which he may have been elected, his office thereupon becomes vacant."

Carver said he recently sold at the girls' college who earned

at least $1,000 working during the summer vacation. Another girl said she was bagged in the foot of the stairs leading to the upstairs bedrooms.

Citrus Leaflet Liked Overseas

LOS ANGELES — Demand in Europe for a leaflet promoting United States citrus fruits was so great that the California Citrus League is ready to put greater emphasis on citrus' nutritional value.

The first leaflet, a reprint of a four-page, four-color section that has the volume of trading has been traceable to interest in a few individual stocks, which usually in those where some specific news seemed to be affecting them.

Labor troubles on the one hand, and reports that they will soon be over on the other, have moved the market sharply down.

Price increases in some commodities, particularly metals, have bolstered a belief stubbornly held by many stock traders that another inflationary swing will get started in a few more months. And this has interested the bulls.

The election went as Wall Street expected, but confidence in the idea found the market will be the aim of the government, and many about climb.

In spite of all this, the little fellow still may be in the presence known as he did in the bull market of 1961. And many think that the shelving of that lot of people, especially novices, took in 1962 as a result of the binge of the year before is still keeping the public out.

Memories aren't supposed to be that long. But they seem to be for many who lost heavily two years ago.

Wall street has no foolproof proof as to just how many investors are buying or how much they are buying. Brokers watch the odd lot figures for one indication. Since odd lots are those bought or sold in less than 100 share quantities, it is assumed that such activities are the little fellow. But this is still just an assumption.

The odd lot figures during the late summer upturn in the market showed more selling orders than buying. This has changed now and then of late, but not enough to be convincing.

Another thing that brokers watch in the interest in stocks of new companies or little known ones, or those touted as having growth potential.

There has been no such speculative rush in this field as in the bull market of 1961. Both government and private economists are glad there has been no such effort that means another 1962-type market crash.

But any sign of revived speculative interest — as contrasted to the interest in blue chips that has characterized the market of recent weeks — is being watched for both by the financial community and by the authorities who might move in to discourage it.

A rising stock market in itself causes few qualms. A speculative rush which sucks in the little fellow definitely does.

Teenage Queen Gets Back Home

BALTIMORE (AP) — Petie Carolyn Mignini, picked last week as Miss Teen-Age America, returned to her hometown of Baltimore on Wednesday.

When Miss Mignini, 17, of Catonsville, stepped from the altar at Friendship International Airport, about 250 screaming teenagers waving blue and white pom-poms and holding signs proclaiming their affection nearly crashed the teen-age queen's three huge bunches of roses.

It took police nearly 30 minutes to assist Carolyn and her mother to a waiting car. "It's wonderful. I'm just so happy," Carolyn beamed when asked how she felt.

Her father was just as happy. "After all, I've been keeping house for a week," he said. Carolyn's mother had accompanied her on the Dallas trip.

Connecticut Yankee

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak: Not even Clyma, of course, was infallible. But if you want to know whether a budget had a real prospect of being balanced, or whether a claimant was real, or whether the explanation of some damaged item was authentic or an exercise in deliberate obfuscation on the part of somebody who knew enough about figures to manipulate them, and for their general worthiness, and this formed his private index. But the only judgment the public saw was his clinical and dispassionate presentation and analysis of fact and figure. And it was this judgment which the politicians and especially the financial officials of the state came to trust and respect. He was the unofficial watchdog of the state treasury, the unofficial public auditor, the unofficial finance commissioner, and this formed his private index.

Ruth Millet
ARE WOMEN HELPLESS IN EMERGENCIES?

"Women are better travelers than men," says one of America's better known travel agents. He admits that women are truer than men about little things — but when real inconveniences come along and plans have to be abandoned or changed, then women settle down much more quickly than men to accept with good grace the necessity for making the best out of a bad situation.

This bit of information may be hard for the average man to believe — since a man likes to think of himself as a Mr. Fixit, who is equal to any situation, and to regard women as helpless creatures who go to places in real emergencies. But women know better. Women spend their lives smoothing things over for men. Secretaries do this in offices — wives at home.

In order to keep men happy, women are always ready to figure a way out of what seems like a hopeless situation. When a plan goes wrong, they can quickly come up with an alternate plan. When nothing can be done about a situation, they know how to convince a man that things may not be as bad as they look and that anyway there's no use worrying about a problem that nothing can be done about.

That's the way women's minds work — at home and on the job. Because women are above all practical and being practical they either look for a quick solution to a problem or, if nothing can be done about it — there's no use worrying.

If that's the way women react in everyday living — it's only natural that they react the same way when they are traveling — and consequently make better travelers than men.

But though women know all this — it isn't likely that many men will admit it. For men like to think of themselves as the practical-minded sex. And women are just practical enough to let them think whatever makes them happy.

Venezuelans Put Price on Rebel Heads

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuela's government has placed a total price of $22,000 (200,000 bolivars) on the heads of 16 guerrilla leaders.

Most of them lead village-raiding bands in the western state of Falcon, on the coast. Castro-armed weapons were discovered last year.

Air Force planes recently dropped thousands of leaflets to peasants of the Falcon mountains listing the 16 guerrillas and a reward for information leading to the capture of each.

Douglas Bravo, believed to be a triggerman for dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez during the 1950s who has since turned Communist, rates the highest price: $6,000.

Bravo was convicted in the assassination of Col. Carlos Delgado Chalbaud in 1952 which gave Perez Jimenez sole control of the dictatorship until he was ousted in 1958. But Bravo escaped from prison.

The guerrillas include Cuban-trained professional terrorists, former high school and university students who were recruited on campuses, and former non-political bandits of the type which troubled the rugged terrain of Falcon even before Fidel Castro came to power.

The reward idea comes after more than two years of skirmishes between the guerrillas and Army and police patrols, leaving hundreds of dead and wounded on both sides.

So far the guerrillas have made little progress in winning support of the peasants. Their usual raid pattern is to lock up town authorities in their own jail and paint houses with slogans of the FALN, the Armed Forces of National Liberation, an imitation of Castro's 26th of July movement.

Patrols of the Army and police have had slow success in chasing the raiders, but more than 200 have been captured in the past two years. Many have been court-martialed and sentenced to terms ranging up to the maximum 30 years. Venezuela has no death penalty.

Polly's Pointers

Neat Telephone Holder

By POLLY CRAMER, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY:—I just finished the week's ironing and had so much fun doing it that I am looking forward to ironing next week. I had to leave my ironing to answer the telephone and as I talked I kept wishing for some way to free my hands so I could continue to iron. I had a wire coat hanger, bent the two sides together and cut just enough to fit comfortably over my shoulder. Keep bending until it feels right. I secured the telephone receiver to the shoulder holder with two rubber bands. With the telephone snugly in place at my ear, I can talk and iron at the same time. I secured the telephone receiver to the shoulder holder with two rubber bands. With the telephone snugly in place at my ear, I can talk and iron at the same time. I secured the telephone receiver to the shoulder holder with two rubber bands. With the telephone snugly in place at my ear, I can talk and iron at the same time.

DEAR POLLY:—I keep an ordinary curtain hook, with a sharp point, handy in my pouch. It is "sworn" on the index finger and used to rip seams.

I always scurry around to straighten up when company is coming. As a great help for fast cleanup, I fill an old window spray bottle with a mild mixture of liquid cleanser and water. With this in one hand and a soft rag in the other, I can remove marks from the walls and do quick spot cleaning jobs in a jiffy. I really read and heed the columns.

GIRLS—Margaret's letter reminded me of a woman who would always answer her doorbell with dust rag in hand when her house did look as spotless as a queen as she would like. Then she would say she was just starting to do her cleaning.

—POLLY

DEAR POLLY:—My idea is for boys who want to control their hair when they start letting it grow after having had a crew cut. A fine nylon skull cap can be made out of the top of one of mother's old hose. Tie the stocking off about seven, eight or more inches from the top, all according to the size needed. Use a loop hook. Cut off the rest of the stocking. After shampooing, wear this until the hair is dry. —MRS. C.J.T.

DEAR POLLY:—When I come to the bottom of a can of baking powder or cocoa I put the lid on tightly, turn the can upside down and open the other end with a can opener to get all the contents out of the can.—MRS. I. E.

GIRLS—I have never been able to get all the cocoa out of a can, so thanks, Mrs. I.E. That is another little annoyance out of the way.—POLLY

Wild West Aim
Probably Bad

NEW YORK—Were the cowboys, drovers, and ranchers of the Old West good shots? As it happens, old ammunition, invoices from the Chisholm Trail show surprisingly low sales in relation to the number of gun owners in the territories.

The conclusion: Most oldtime cowboys had little shooting practice—and probably wouldn't have hit their hats with accuracy.

Elks Visit Crippled Children

Two Speakers Say Housing Key to Minority Problem

Arthur Johnson, director of the critical area of desegregation and civil rights for the City of Hartford, warned last night that "unless cities like Hartford find an answer to their burgeoning minority problems, central cities will become abandoned, with surrounding towns, such as Manchester, the escape valves for non-integrated groups." Speaking at Temple Beth Shalom, at a meeting on "Civil Rights" sponsored by the local B'nai B'rith Lodge and Auxiliary, Johnson said, "Democracy itself is at stake—integration in the large cities will increase the democratic principles so vital to our economic strength, while non-integration will destroy the principles so dear to all Americans." "Decent housing," Johnson said, "is the key to the minority problem, be it Negro, Jewish or whatever. Minorities must be released from their ghettos, to be permitted to live in neighborhoods with other Americans, so that they may participate in the day-by-day happenings that build a democratic society." He said that help must come "from all citizens of good faith, not through lip service alone, but through the examples and teachings offered to their children, who will be the architects of our future society." Arthur Spiegel of New Haven, state director of B'nai B'rith's Anti-Defamation League, who also spoke last night, agreed that "housing is

Decor and Faces Different
But Farewell Spirit Stays

SAF. FRANCISCO (AP) — The Top became such a traditional gathering place for departing servicemen that the government installed a one-way mirror in the ceiling above the bar. A government agent then watched guests to determine if any of the men were being pumped for information by possible subversives.
Today, the husband is in jail. To one wife he is Theodore J. Smith; to the other, he is James B. Ellis.
He married his first wife, Jacqueline, 22, a model, May 12, 1961, using the Ellis alias. In May 1962, she left him for a modeling job in New York City.
Two months later, Smith, 25, a house painter, met a girl named Elaine, a secretary. They were married as Mr. & Mrs. Theodore J. Smith — six months later and lived happily in Chicago until last April.
Then a Chicago friend telephone acquaintance of Elaine Smith, prior to leaving for his next assignment in Europe.
The husband came home one night after work and found Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Smith waiting for him.
"Jacqueline Smith put it, 'He was quite upset and begged one of us to stay with him.'
After both wives told Theodore what they thought of him, he returned to New York City and two months later, Elaine Smith, 21, got together with Mrs. Ellis to talk about their problem. They decided to room together.
Theodore was arrested in Chicago on a parole violation charge when he was charged of bigamy filed by his two wives. They came to Chicago Tuesday after learning of his whereabouts.
Elaine said she had filed an annulment proceeding. Jacqueline plans to file divorce charges against Smith.

Wives Share Same Spouse, One Apartment

CHICAGO (AP) — Theodore J. Smith's two wives are the best of friends. They even share an apartment.
It wasn't always like that. In fact, when they first met they didn't hit it off until they found they had a mutual interest: the same husband.

Hobbyists Save Sugar Wrappers

MUNICH — A growing number of German hobbyists are collecting sugar-cube wrappers. At a recent "international" hobby congress held near Augsburg, Germany, keen demand was shown for old wrappers, particularly one dated 1928.
Cafes and hotels in southern France have introduced a series of wrappers in which each carries a separate sign of the zone. A Hamburg schoolteacher has 85,000 different wrappers.

It Played a Big Part in Town History

This Grant Reel is an odd-looking contraption with really only one use — making silk skeins. The water-powered reel is part of the Cheney Bros. exhibit at the Lutz Junior Museum, and is still in good working shape. It was invented by Mr. Grant in 1885, about 40 years after he began working for Cheney Bros. His work was simple. After the silk had been unwound from spools on the floor onto the diamond-shaped skein-

Yule Decorations Going Up
With the Christmas season scheduled to begin officially this week after Thanksgiving, decorations are beginning to appear along Main St. and at the Center.
Lou Paorello, a lighting contractor from New Haven, yesterday began installing strings of lights on the evergreen in front of the Municipal Building.
The lights are scheduled to be lit at an informal ceremony Nov. 27—the day after Thanksgiving—by Mayor Francis J. Mahoney.
Chairman of the retail division is William Malcomson of Michael's Jeweler, Main St. The lights on the white pine in front of the Municipal Building are being strung up with the help of a rented skyworker — a truck-mounted device capable of lifting a man 50 feet into the air. Group to See Figure Drawing Gabriel A. Martinez Trecce of Gloucester will present a figure drawing demonstration at a meeting of the Manchester Fine Art Association tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant.
A graduate of fine art and commercial art in Argentina and a demonstrator in Buenos Aires, Martinez has painted many pictures. He has a fine studio in Gloucester and teaches in the Gloucester and East Hartford guilds. He also has a free lance advertising studio in Hartford.
Pictures of the month will be chosen and refreshments will be served. The meeting is open to the public.

Guest Artist Sings Songs By Strauss
By JOHN GRUBER
The Richard Strauss centennial was observed last night by the Hartford Symphony with a program whose second half was comprised entirely of songs by the celebrated composer who would have been 100 years old had he lived until the past June. Arthur Winograd conducted, with Lois Marshall, soprano, as guest artist.
Miss Marshall sang the four songs Strauss composed in 1885 after a hiatus of many years during which he had quite abandoned the song-form. As is usual with Strauss' writings for female voice, these songs comprise some very lovely soundscapes. Her voice, particularly adapted to the conventionalities of vocal production, gave a little attention to the problems of the voice, that it was a sympathetic range of dynamics. Her breathing was so good that it seemed as if she were singing with very poor results. This sympathy reached its climax in the word "tausend-jahrlich" which is German for "thousand-year." She sang it three times for the word, once before it, and once after each syllable so that it emerged as "tau, sent-jahr." This has an entire meaning in German. Had she been singing in English, it would have been "a thousand-year old," which is just as senseless. I admit Mr. Strauss stretched his voice over a considerable distance, but a first rate singer should have been able to negotiate it in one breath.
Still, the songs were the high point of the evening. Forced to point somebody's else interpretation, Mr. Winograd and the orchestra delivered some perfectly gorgeous sounds by way of Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration" which followed was nothing like so well done.
This is a work that definitely shows its age. While some of the other Strauss tone poems, notably, "Don Juan," "Till Eulenspiegel," and "Don Quixote" are still fresh and vigorous, "Death and Transfiguration" is dated as "Mendelssohn's spring song." Had there been motion pictures when it was being written, it would have been an excellent score to support the action on the screen, but it is scarcely above the grade of music in importance. Strauss was a very uneven composer, however much he may be adulated in Munich even today.
The first half of the program consisted of Haydn's Symphonies No. 88 and Dvorak's Symphonic Variations. Mr. Winograd used the full string section, but this time with some justice since Haydn wrote this particular symphony for a French organist known as the "Concertino." Haydn wrote this music in 1781, and it is a pity that he was not able to see it performed. He died in 1809.

Guest Artist Sings Songs By Strauss

By JOHN GRUBER
The Richard Strauss centennial was observed last night by the Hartford Symphony with a program whose second half was comprised entirely of songs by the celebrated composer who would have been 100 years old had he lived until the past June. Arthur Winograd conducted, with Lois Marshall, soprano, as guest artist.
Miss Marshall sang the four songs Strauss composed in 1885 after a hiatus of many years during which he had quite abandoned the song-form. As is usual with Strauss' writings for female voice, these songs comprise some very lovely soundscapes. Her voice, particularly adapted to the conventionalities of vocal production, gave a little attention to the problems of the voice, that it was a sympathetic range of dynamics. Her breathing was so good that it seemed as if she were singing with very poor results. This sympathy reached its climax in the word "tausend-jahrlich" which is German for "thousand-year." She sang it three times for the word, once before it, and once after each syllable so that it emerged as "tau, sent-jahr." This has an entire meaning in German. Had she been singing in English, it would have been "a thousand-year old," which is just as senseless. I admit Mr. Strauss stretched his voice over a considerable distance, but a first rate singer should have been able to negotiate it in one breath.
Still, the songs were the high point of the evening. Forced to point somebody's else interpretation, Mr. Winograd and the orchestra delivered some perfectly gorgeous sounds by way of Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration" which followed was nothing like so well done.

Yule Decorations Going Up

With the Christmas season scheduled to begin officially this week after Thanksgiving, decorations are beginning to appear along Main St. and at the Center.
Lou Paorello, a lighting contractor from New Haven, yesterday began installing strings of lights on the evergreen in front of the Municipal Building.
The lights are scheduled to be lit at an informal ceremony Nov. 27—the day after Thanksgiving—by Mayor Francis J. Mahoney.
Chairman of the retail division is William Malcomson of Michael's Jeweler, Main St. The lights on the white pine in front of the Municipal Building are being strung up with the help of a rented skyworker — a truck-mounted device capable of lifting a man 50 feet into the air. 18 Roommates Share Prison Death Watch

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Death lives in a steel-barred cell in a closely guarded wing of Kilby Prison. It has 18 roommates.

Twelve condemned Negroes and six white men, convicted of murder or rape, wait as their numbered days fade away. Under the courts or Gov. George C. Wallace intervenes, they are doomed to die in a ghoulish yellow electric chair.

Some have been in the death cell for years, living from reprieve to reprieve. Some, newly convicted, have just begun to wait it out.

Three convicted as killers and one as a rapist, have exhausted their remedies in court, and now only the hope of mercy from the governor separates them from death.

The 18 others have appeals pending in the courts. In Alabama, all death sentences automatically are reviewed by the State Supreme Court, and sometimes by federal judges as well.

The governor has the power to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment. By refusing to intervene further after the execution had been delayed 11 times, Wallace ordered a white man, James W. Coburn, to die for a robbery in which a woman was slain.

In every other death case awaiting his verdict, the governor has put off the decision. He once sold a condemned man during a clemency hearing. "I have agonized over such matters, but it is a decision the governor must make."

That was last Sept. 8, when a Negro, Caliph Washington, 24, of Birmingham, was sentenced to die for a robbery in which a woman was slain.

Three times since then, Wallace has left the Negro slayer's fate in doubt by granting three and four-week reprieves, without announcing his ultimate verdict. Washington, who was convicted of killing a white policeman at Lipscomb, Ala., near Birmingham when he was 18, now is under sentence to die Nov. 30.

Since he first walked into the death cell on Jan. 26, 1960, the Negro's execution has been postponed 12 times — by former Gov. John Patterson, by Wallace, and by the courts.

Some of his reprieves have come only hours before he was to die. Coburn's execution a few moments after midnight last Sept. 4 was the first electrocution in Alabama in more than two years.

When Wallace became governor in January 1963, seven men were waiting in death row. One, Coburn, has been electrocuted; another won a new trial and received a life term.

Fifteen others doomed by trial juries have come into prison since Wallace took office. Of the 18 in death cells now five white men and nine Negroes still have a chance to beat the sentence in court. But for Caliph Washington, Lawrence Taylor, William Bowen and Dreyway Aaron, it is up to the governor to say whether they live. Bowen is white; the other three are Negroes.

"This is a very solemn and awesome duty," Wallace told The Associated Press recently. "Any governor would read this duty and responsibility. But it's something the governor has to face under the law."

Washington has had his clemency hearing before the governor; the other three whose appeals have been turned down by the courts likewise will get a chance to talk with the chief executive face to face before he takes final action.

In making the grim decision, Wallace will be guided by these basic facts: Washington says he killed Police Sgt. James B. Clark in a scuffle and that he didn't mean to hurt the officer. The state says it was deliberate. Taylor was convicted of killing a 7-year-old Negro girl in Talladega County by holding her head under water until she drowned. Taylor is scheduled to die next Feb. 18.

Bowen was sentenced to death for killing a woman, Janice Thrower, in Madison County. He dies Dec. 4 unless Wallace intervenes again.

Aaron was tried for raping a white woman at her home near Montgomery and is under sentence to die Feb. 5. Four white men convicted of killing an elderly soft drink salesman, Leonard Chippeper, and tossing his body into a well at his home near Cuba, Ala., last December are among those awaiting court action on their appeals.

REAR were arrested after Chippeper and his wife were found in the well. Mrs. Chippeper survived.

The other white man in death row in James Milford Duncan, 34, father of 13 children. He was convicted of killing an 18-month-old girl who was sexually molested after being taken from a room at a Dadeville motel where Duncan was employed in February, 1963.

The Negroes are: Roosevelt Howard, convicted of killing a white at a tavern; Robert Swain, convicted of raping a white woman; Billy Houston, convicted of killing a white state game warden; Frank Lee Fulsbaker, convicted of raping a white woman; and James R. Hinton, convicted of killing a white man.

Talks Stress Worth Of Town Colleges

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON JR.
"A community that has a college is a better community than one that doesn't" is the view of a state official on higher education.

Dr. Mowat G. Fraser, chief of the bureau of Higher Education of the State Department of Education, spoke of the benefits of community colleges yesterday at the first meeting of the Connecticut Association for Community Colleges. The conference was held in Norwalk.

Three hundred and thirty-five representatives and survey committees gathered from all corners of the state to begin or continue efforts on behalf of community colleges.

These aspiring communities and Manchester and Norwalk were given encouragement on the state level by the two keynote speakers.

Atty. Frank Ahearn announced that an invitation had been issued to the Connecticut Water Co. to attend the board's next meeting to discuss conditions in South Windsor.

Regarding the recent water problem in Avon, Atty. Ahearn reported that the situation had not been resolved.

The education and recreation committee was instructed to keep in touch with the board of education and exchange information on the issue of public kindergartens.

The council placed three items on its agenda: discussion of revisions to the ordinance regarding increasing membership of the capital goals committee.

The National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test will be given at the school on Dec. 11, 12 and 13.

The board of directors, at its Dec. 1 meeting, will hold public hearings on two proposed additional appropriations for the current year.

President Meets Poster Boy

Richie Barnes, 8, poster boy for the National Association for Retarded Children, meets President Johnson at the White House.

There was more than grief in Dallas that week of a year ago when the president of the United States met with a young boy who had been born with a physical handicap.

Some of the thoughts which arose out of the other panels followed.

William E. Buckley, of the Manchester Citizens Council, said that following the high school building pattern, smaller industrial buildings would be needed.

By 1970, Dr. Fraser predicted, 15,000 students ready and eager to enter the labor force will be seeking a job.

Dr. Warren Stoker of the Manchester Citizens Advisory Council, said that the goal of a community college is to provide a broad-based education.

Dr. George Sabornie, chief of the state department of education, said that the goal of a community college is to provide a broad-based education.

Council Hears Kindergarten Backers

Some 80 residents appeared before the town council last night to show support for public kindergartens.

Atty. Leo J. Barrett, representing the petition committee, introduced the resolution at the eight speakers.

After the presentation, the mayor complimented the speakers on their "polished" presentation.

The board of education must first decide whether South Windsor should have public kindergartens.

Dallas Still Remembers Well Though a Year Has Gone By

Fired Tuesday, Gilchrist Rehired After Admitting He Was a Bad Boy

Six Boston Pats Back, Two Ailing

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Cookie Gilchrist, fired Tuesday from his $30,000 job as fullback for the American Football League's Buffalo Bills, was back on the payroll today after admitting he had been a bad boy.

Player of Week Honors to Parilli

NEW YORK (AP)—Babe Parilli, the 34-year-old Sweet Kentucky Babe of the Boston Patriots, wrecked the Buffalo Bills' nine-game winning streak and became the Associated Press' Player of the Week in the American Football League.

CAN'T TEAR AWAY—Bob Lilly of Dallas, 74, top, has a hand on Charlie Bivins, 49, of Chicago, but his not a solid one, and it cost Bivins a shirt. Below, Buffalo's Bob Smith, 20, and Ralph Baker, 51, of the New York Jets play tug-of-war with each other's shirts. Baker finally won.

Unpredictable Major Hoople Selects Yale by 13 Points

Truly, friends, this is the week you can lose the form sheets out the window. Traditional rivals, with little regard for records, statistics or national rankings, will collide head-on with only one guarantee—the dope bucket will be bootied with reckless abandon.

Among these traditional battles are the Ohio State-Michigan, Harvard-Yale, Oklahoma-Nebraska, Penn. State-Francisburg, Kentucky-Tennessee, Oregon-Oregon State, Washington-Washington State, and the U.C.L.A.-Southern California games.

Tire City

when there's no snow on the road (like about 90% of the winter) it's a great high-speed tire.

Did you ever stop to think that a snow tire spends about 90% of its life on snowless roads? It's a fact. You're glad you've got 'em on when you're driving on a snow-covered back road. But when you hit the main road, which is usually plowed right after a snowfall, snow tires can be something of a nuisance. Especially at high speeds. That's where the U.S. Royal Winterdier comes in.

Australian Runner Threat in Five

106 Enter to Date, One from California

By EARL YOST

Entry blanks from Maine to California and as far away as Australia have been received for the 28th annual Five Mile Road Race in Manchester Thanksgiving morning. Race sponsors, Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, are confident that they will attract at least 150 runners who will answer the starter's gun one week from today at 10:30 on Main St.

Fellow hailing from the longest distance from Manchester in the United States who plans on running and who has filed an entry is Tom Patton of South Pasadena, Calif. Patton is a student at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H., and is a member of the cross country team. Dan McKinley, who will represent with the cross country team, will be making their debut in the Silk Town Run. McKinley has been the No. 1 runner in the South Carolina state college competition this year.

Coach Wesman Baskin said he will be accompanied to the Manchester race by Ken Smith, a local product, and the No. 2 man with South Carolina this year. Smith, now a senior, is a local resident at Manchester. He has been matriculating at South Carolina.

Second from Down-Under: Crombie is the second Australian to compete here. Alan Ross, from Melbourne, ran in the 1963 event over Manchester streets. Ross also ran under the colors of South Carolina. The Australian runs 10 miles daily, in approximately 54 minutes. Last week he set a new record in the Atlantic Coast Conference Cross-Country Championship. Earlier he won the South Carolina State Cross-Country title.

Smith, tall and handsome, has won two individual medals in his career. He placed second three times and gained a third, fourth and fifth place other years.

Once Questionable, Now Most Valuable

Honor DiMaggio On Birthday In Frisco

By EARL YOST

BALTIMORE (AP)—Brooks Robinson, who was told as a youth he had a questionable future in baseball, is the American League's Most Valuable Player for 1964.

Robinson said Wednesday night after his landslide victory was announced. The Baltimore third baseman whose heroics almost carried the Orioles to a pennant, drove in 100 runs and hit 20 home runs in 150 games.

DiMaggio's 36th birthday was celebrated with a party at the Baltimore Hilton Hotel. The party was held in the ballroom and was attended by many of the Orioles.

Two Local Racers Will Win Turkeys

By EARL YOST

Although the annual Five Mile Road Race in Manchester on Thanksgiving morning has often been referred to as the Turkey Day Road Race, turkeys, as far as the race is concerned, were never given winners until 1956. And then, turkeys were supplied only to the first three finishers.

Individual awards, plus three medals, trophies and two turkey legs were given to the first three finishers. The turkey legs were given to the first three finishers.

From all appearances, the 1964 holiday trot looks as the best ever, if that is possible.

AAU Refusing to Bow

NEW YORK (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union, refusing to "bow to... any threat," has struck back at the National Collegiate Athletic Association in the renewal of the war over control of track and field in the United States.

The AAU, contending it has the right to sanction open season events, called the NCAA action "an unnecessary and unwarranted boycott."
