Why Doesn't the World Love Us?

We Americans, as individuals, as a people, as a nation, really want to be loved by everybody.

It disappoints us when this doesn't happen to us.
It baffles us.

Perhaps, if we should feel ourselves being misjudged and unappreciated too long by too many people, it would harden and embitter us that we would really become somebody nobody would ever love.

But, at the moment, we are still in the stunned yet hopeful stage.
Why don't people everywhere love us for the nice, generous, kindly, democratic people we really are?

Why don't people everywhere know our motives for the relatively pure motives they really are?
Why is it that, at almost any given day of the news, we find anti-American demonstrations going on somewhere?

Why is it that we seem to lack popularity everywhere when we think we are fighting battles for the people?
What special charm lotion do Communist agents and representatives wear that they seem to get along better socially in the jungles of the world than we do?

There are, of course, many relatively easy answers to such questions. However nice we may be, we are also rich and powerful, and the world's richest and most powerful. Just being that attracts jealousy and resentment and envy and hatred.

Being the world's richest and most powerful people, we are not always completely skilled in the business of hiding the fact that we ourselves know it. We sometimes, even in some of our finest acts and policies, betray our own realization of how big and great and good we are, and that sharpens existing resentments.

Not only are other people, everywhere around the world, lamentably elemental and human and incapable of rising to certain levels of perception.
We ourselves have in some of our finest ability always to see ourselves as others may be seeing us.

Where the presence of some other nation on the soil of another nation may be imperialism or colonialism, our own presence in a similar situation is benevolence.

When other nations take over territory not belonging to them, we call that territorial expansion. When we take over territory, we call it a temporary requirement of our own national security.
It happens to be quite true, in reality, that we are relatively civilized and restrained in our resorts to acts and policies which might be classified with imperialism or colonialism. But we are close enough to the conduct of others to make our own bland assumption that we are totally different from them ring false to many people in the world.

We are rich and powerful. We are human. We haven't the full, sharp capacity to see ourselves as others do.
On top of all this, we do, believe it or not, make an occasional mistake in the world. Once again, we suffer more from our mistakes than others do, partly because we seem to think so very well of ourselves and partly because in some holier than others attitude, and partly, again, because we are, always, that big powerful target.

Among all these explanations and rationalizations of why it may be that people everywhere don't love us as much as they should, there are some things which are going to eliminate or cure. We can't repeal our own side and our nation's position of power; we can't perfect our human beings, either ourselves or those with whom we must deal in the world; we can't expect perfect wisdom which would not only do the right thing but also make it seem the right thing to everybody.

There is no miracle cure. And, if we are going to keep functioning, we have to stop worrying so much about whether other people love us.

If there is one simple but audacious way to do it, it is to make sure that we do some effort, a continually increasing effort, an effort which insists continually on its own experience, to please our

Manchester Evening Herald

MANCHESTER EVENING HERALD, MANCHESTER, CONN., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1964

On land, and on sea, on Route 128 outside Boston, in the heavy sea, fog lanes off the New Jersey coast, fog was a killer over the holiday season.

Up on Route 128, where heavy fog and accidents involved by one violation of fog involved 100 cars, killed two humans, and injured 33 more.

Down off New Jersey, an accident at sea caused by fog and fog in two, and took at least 19 human lives.

In each instance, the most modern of man's machines, equipped with man's present ultimate in safety precautions, came to disaster.

In each instance, the ultimate failure was human. Some human individual failed to read and react promptly and sanely to conditions which should in themselves have been a warning.

There are American Automobile Association rules for driving in fog. They go like this: "Creeper. Drive with low beam headlights; the high beams bounce back or up, and the light should be on the road. Signal stop frequently by touching the brake pedal."

Get out of the fog at a greatly reduced speed.
For these rules, one might substitute a single rule even simpler. It would read "stop." It would mean never drive in fog at all.

But the rules themselves are dangerous, and especially dangerous when one can never be sure that everybody else is following the same rules. To stop in fog may not be to avoid danger, but to precipitate it. To slow down in fog may get clipped from the rear and start the chain reaction everybody wants to avoid.

Often, in fact, it must seem the lesser danger still to try to keep going at a normal rate of speed on the guess that that will be quite likely to be what other people are doing too and may constitute the best chance for everybody to get through.

Similarly at sea the routine safety rules demand moderate speeds and advise not only constant reading of radar, but plotting of route by radar. And the intricate rule might seem to be to halt all movement whatsoever, and to try and lie becalmed until the fog lifts.

Again, however, the captain of a ship, given his option, would be almost certain to want to have his own ship under way and responsive to its helm so that, in case of the approach of another ship, he would at least have a chance of maneuvering to escape.

To face the ultimate quandary, one ought to state this: Once you are in fog, on highway or on high sea, you are in situations beyond the control of either human being or instrument or safety device; whatever you do is a gamble. Only the adoption, on both land and sea, of some code which permits so rigorous that universal compliance could be counted upon—with this code forbidding all movement while the danger lasts—would seem to have a real chance of riding fog or its danger.

Until there is some such code, the story of what happens in fog, on land and at sea, will continue to be a story of what kind of gambler individual human beings have taken, with nobody ever knowing just what kind of gamble might be right for the particular situation.

How many persons wanted their time reading the books that we call them, but it is obvious the books had little or no effect on the outcome of the election. It seems quite likely that those who read the books and took them seriously were more convinced by the books and more so were merely fortifying views already held. If there were converts, they were few and far between. Which is a tribute to the good sense of Americans, but it is also a tribute to the good sense of the voters who are entirely competent to judge such material for what it is—L.A. VOIS POST-DISPATCH

Feast of Lights Starts Sunday

NEW YORK (AP)—In millions of Jewish homes tomorrow night, a candle or an orange-colored bulb will be lit, signifying the start of the Festival of Lights, otherwise known as Hanukkah.

Monday night, two lights will shine; on the third night, three and so on until on the eighth and final night of the holiday, eight lights are burning.

Jewish children customarily receive presents on one or all of these nights.

Hanukkah has its origins in the defeat of a Greek army some 2,000 years ago by a small band of Jewish fighters and in their subsequent triumphant entry into Jerusalem. According to legend, as the Jews were cleansing the holy temple there for its rededication, they found a container with only enough oil to light their work for one day. But the oil in the lamp miraculously burned for eight days.

Results in a duplicate bridge game last night at the basement rooms at 39 School St. are: North-South, Mr. and Mrs. James LeSure, first; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Crockett, second and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Perry, third.

Also, East-West, Frank Conneron and G. M. Perry, first; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Morgenter, second; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barton, third.

The game is sponsored by the Manchester YWCA and played each Friday at 7:45 p.m. The public is invited.

Minor Crashes Occur in Town

No police action nor injuries were reported in two minor accidents which occurred last night.

According to police, Robert P. Kocher, 19, of Rockville, while slowing down for a left turn on W. Center St. near Cooper St., was struck from behind by a car driven by Edward L. Carini Jr., 18, of Bolton. The accident occurred about 11 p.m.

Police also reported that Armando Pesce, 70, of 14 Ridgely St., while attempting to back out of a parking place, locked his car with a car belonging to Francis E. Barlow, 48, of 50 Spring St. A wrecker was summoned to separate the two cars. The incident occurred at 6:45 p.m. on Main St. near Oak St.

Crash Fatal

SALISBURY (AP)—One youth was killed and three others were critically injured early today when a car packed with 10 young men crashed on Route 44.

The vehicle went out of control on a curve and hurled against a tree, boulders and a culvert.

Most of the occupants were from the Winsted area. Peter Starzyk, 17, of Winsted was killed in the smashup. Those admitted to Sharon Hospital in critical condition were identified as Allen Weed, 15, Eugene Balthazar, 18, and John Fecto, 17, all of Winsted.

Fecto was driving when the accident occurred, state police said.

SPEBS Keep Songs Alive

By HOWIE HOLOMB Keeping the songs of America alive is the professed goal of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. That worthy society's Hartford Chapter took another huge step toward that purpose last night with the first half of its 19th annual Grand Festival of Harmony.

A near capacity crowd at Hartford's Bushnell Memorial saw four of America's top Barber Shop Quartets, the Hartford Chapter Chorus, the Village Charmers and assorted other folks turn in a successful, highly entertaining program.

Stealing the show were the veterans of two previous festivals, the fabulous four Schmitt Brothers from Two Rivers, Wis. It's one of the heaviest quartets in the society and certainly one of the best. Their dual language (English and German) rendition of Brahms' Lullaby was the highlight of a fun-filled evening.

From the moment MC Bill Gourd opened the show until the strains of "Keep America Singing," theme of the SPEBSOSA faded into the night, the appreciative audience was well entertained.

In addition to the Schmitts, the guest quartets included the Sun Tones from Florida, the Imposers from Chicago and the host society's razzny Top Hats.

Songs ranged from the aforementioned "Brahms Lullaby" to that greatest of Barber Shop ballads, "Sweet Adeline" to current show tunes such as "Hey, Look Me Over" and "Hello Dolly."

Theme of this year's show is "The Gay 90's Era," the acts, which include an amusement park, a barber shop and a scene in old New York, are as good if not better than ever.

And to prove progress has been made in the world, even four lovely ladies got into the act — the Village Charmers. That's something that wouldn't have happened in the Gay 90's. The Charmers include two Manchester ladies — Mary Jane Crandall and Edna Gordon.

MC Gourd and "Big Jack" Grant share a series of between-act skits that weave a sort of continuity through the first half of the show.

Paul Schmitt took over at mid-point to lead some community singing which he does quite well. And, by the way, if the funny Smothers Brothers ever need a third, he's their boy.

The second half of the two-night production is scheduled tonight at 8. Tickets are reported scarce but it's well worth the scramble if you can find a couple.

It's a show for all the family. Despite the fact there's not a single frog, watusi, twist or what ever new sort of dance has turned up in the last four or five minutes, the young folks will enjoy themselves, too. And it might prove a new experience for them, going back to the time when music was music.

All in all, another feather in the cap of the Hartford Chapter, SPEBSOSA. Long may it and America keep singing.

TV Notebook

NEW YORK (NEA)—Harry Guardino is an offbeat leading man who is playing the toughest role in television. As the Reporter, in the CBS-TV series, he comes under constant scrutiny from newspaper reporters who are inclined to hoot at scenes involving a kindly, but indecisive city editor, and a reporter who never seems to get to his typewriter to write.

Guardino, when asked why he accepted a series, replied, "Money. I had turned down many, because the money wasn't right and the scripts weren't right. This one came along with a script that was right, and money that was definitely right."

A moody, good-looking man with a reputation as a thorough performer, Guardino has found there isn't time to build a character in the haste of television production.

Character Happens

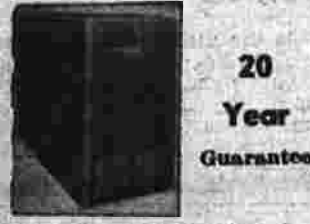

"I find the only way to act in television is to work off your own resources rather than delve into the reasons why I am doing whatever I am doing. I only ask for reasonable continuity in the writing. I really have no idea what Danny Taylor, the role I play, is like. I like to see a character happen. Each script has him in a different situation, so he can run a gamut in each show. I like to see emotions happen during the moment at

Richard Boone Eyes TV Series in Hawaii

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's the hardest thing in the world to convince the networks that a television series can be made entirely in Hawaii," said Richard Boone. "Those boys think the natives still wear rings in their noses."

But Boone is a resolute man, and he intends to realize his dream of bringing a full-scale movie operation to the 50th state.

His opening wedge: A television series in color to star—Richard Boone.

"Naturally I'd have to be in it, so I can sell it to the networks," said the veteran of three series. "I don't mind. I spent a lot of years building up this name. I might as well cash in on it."

The series would be the beginning of what he hopes will be a self-sustaining tropical Hollywood. Last week he entertained Hawaiian backers of his proposed two-stage studio and had them inspect facilities at CBS' television center which would serve as prototypes. The money-men are willing, said Boone, and he expects to be making an announcement about building.

"After we get the series rolling, we'll go after feature production," he said. "This year there were seven features shot in Hawaii—four Americans and three Japanese. Our stages would be mighty attractive to producers."

A home town boy, Boone left the city of his birth last summer to take up permanent residence in Hawaii. The results have exceeded his hopes, he remarked. He and his wife have found good friends in the islands, and his son has adjusted well to Punahou School.

The actor has returned for a film role, starring with Charlton Heston in a medieval epic, "War Lord." He has mixed feelings about the assignment.

"The script is one of the best I have ever read," he commented. "But talk about slow—the shooting just seems to go on and on."

"I was thinking it was the longest project I've ever been on when Chuck Heston happened to remark that it was going the fastest of any picture he remembers. Then I realized our points of view. He was thinking in terms of 'Ben-Hur' and 'The Ten Commandments' and I was harking to television schedules."

Nielsen Picks The Big Ten

NEW YORK (AP)—The national Nielsen ratings, television's semi-official measure of programs' success or failure, were made public this week. They cover a two-week period, including Election Day.

The ten most popular programs—exclusive of NBC's election night coverage, which won the lion's share of the audience—were listed by Nielsen in this order: "Bonanza," "Bewitched," "Ed Sullivan Show," "Red Skelton Show," "Dick Van Dyke Show," "Peyton Place" Thursday night episodes, "The Virginian," "Andy Griffith Show," "The Addams Family" and "The Munsters" in a tie.

Year's Best Recalls Few Good Shows

NEW YORK (AP) — The time of the year has come when some television publications are sending out ballots so that television writers and columnists may vote for their choices for the year's "best" in various program categories.

I have looked back over my television calendar, noting programs I have watched since January 1, and I find that there were appallingly few memorable moments among all those hours.

Once again, however, I would pick "The Defenders" as the best series. It has its ups and downs, but usually it has, at least, a recognizable point of view and it is invariably a professional job. Most impressive single program of the past 10 and one-half months has been, I think, "The Louvre" last week.

Dick Van Dyke and Danny Kaye split my vote for "best television performer," although "The Danny Kaye Show" must share my top honors in the variety category with "Hollywood Palace."

"Bonanza," the perennially front-running horse opera, is probably the most interesting Western week in and week out.

Lucille Ball still has no television peer in her special area of comedy while Bob Hope remains king in his. Andy Williams is the most engaging vocalist and his program, in color, is a delight to the eye.

Robert Vaughn of "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." and Jim Nabors of "Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C." are the two brightest new male series stars, while Elizabeth Montgomery of "Bewitched" must take the blue ribbon in the distaff comedy division.

"Today" is for me, far and away the most interesting daytime program; Walter Cronkite the easiest newscaster to listen to night after night.

The most interesting commercial is that one we saw so often during the political broadcasts, showing the automobile tire rolling melodically across hill and dale.

Juliet Prowse Confesses She's Unable to Do the Frug

NEW YORK (AP) — It may come as a surprise to many and a comfort to some, but Juliet Prowse can not do the Frug.

The Frug, for the benefit of travelers just back from four years in Tibet, is a dance craze, lineal descendant of the Twist. Along with entertainment spots called "Discotheques," where the customers amuse themselves by dancing to recorded music, the Frug and related dances have soared to heights of popularity equaled by another generation's interest in speak-easies and the Charleston.

"It is a very strange thing," said Miss Prowse, who has risen to fame and fortune by virtue of her exciting, fancy footwork. "I can do the Mashed Potato and the Watusi, but the Frug — no."

"It would worry me except that I've heard other dancers say the same thing. I guess the Frug is for nondancers," she said.

Miss Prowse, who is tall, beautiful and has proved she can speak — with a slight British accent, endowment of her British South African birth and study in England — and sing, suffers, she says, from the same old problem of Hollywood type-casting.

"They say, 'Oh, she's just a dancer' when I'm up for a part," she complained. "That's why I'm excited about a television pilot — for a comedy series — I've just made. I play a movie star who is married to an Air Force man and we live in a quonset hut. I don't do any dancing at all."

Meanwhile, Juliet's dancing career keeps her busy with night club appearances, television guest shots and motion picture roles.

She makes her home in Beverly Canyon in Los Angeles, won't talk about her relationship with Frank Sinatra, loves to cook, tries to practice dancing an hour or so a day and often goes back to school for concentration practice.

"There's some competition there," she said. "You see someone doing something well and it challenges you. No dancer should stay away from classes for too long."

Russians Reject Plan For Financing of UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union today rejected a compromise formula put forward by Secretary-General U. Thant in the hope of avoiding a U.S.-Soviet confrontation on U.N. financing.

Word of the Soviet decision came shortly after Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko met U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk for a luncheon discussion of this and other problems before the U.N. General Assembly opening Tuesday.

Thant proposed to the four big powers last week that they agree to postpone all important matters until after the first of the year so that there would be no occasion to question the voting rights of the Soviet Union. The United States and others contend that the Soviets cannot vote because of their back debts.

"In connection with reports published in the American press to the effect that important matters on the agenda of the U.N. General Assembly should be postponed for a long period or indefinitely, the Soviet delegation deems it necessary to state that it categorically opposes such views. The Soviet delegation believes that the General Assembly should start and continue its work in accordance with normal procedures and that all important matters should be deliberated in the usual manner."

The Soviet delegation issued a statement this morning saying: "In connection with reports published in the American press to the effect that important matters on the agenda of the U.N. General Assembly should be postponed for a long period or indefinitely, the Soviet delegation deems it necessary to state that it categorically opposes such views. The Soviet delegation believes that the General Assembly should start and continue its work in accordance with normal procedures and that all important matters should be deliberated in the usual manner."

Shortly before the Rusk-Gromyko luncheon session at Rusk's hotel suite, Thant met separately with the American secretary of state and the Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

The foreign minister of the United Arab Republic, Mahmoud Riad, called on Rusk to express his concern over the prospective showdown.

Mahmoud told newsmen after seeing Rusk that the United Arab Republic sees the financial fight as an important political issue. While the United Nations "needs the money to be effective," he said, it would be weakened without collecting funds if certain powers are deprived of their vote.

The U.A.R. envoy was expressing views similar to many of the smaller, neutralist nations at the United Nations on the prospect of applying the U.N. charter's Article 19.

Under that article, the Soviets stand to lose their vote in the General Assembly because they have fallen more than two years behind in their dues. The Kremlin has refused to pay more than $52 million for U.N. peace-keeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East.

Dempsey Names Group to Study Teen Drinking

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. John Dempsey announced today appointment of an inter-departmental committee to coordinate studies of the problems of teen-age drinking.

The coordinating group was first suggested at a meeting of state officials with Trinity College spokesman following demonstrations when use of liquor on the campus was banned recently.

John P. Lukens, coordinator of the State Commission on Youth Services, will be asked to serve as convener and executive secretary of the group, which the governor said is hoped to "eliminate duplication" and come up with specific proposals for educational techniques.

Others on the interdepartmental body will be Health Commissioner Franklin M. Foote; Arthur M. Lewis, head of the Teen-Age Liquor Law Coordinating Committee; and Ernest A. Shepherd, Chief of the Division of Alcoholism of the State Department of Mental Health.

Other departments will be invited to participate, including the State Safety Commission and the State Department of Education. But the governor stressed that the interdepartmental group is to study not merely teen-age drinking and driving problems, but "all the educational efforts in this field."

He said he hopes the study will "review what has been done and determine what needs to be done."

Sir Winston 90, In Sound Health

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill climbed out of bed on his 90th birthday today, creaky of limb but sound of health.

"He's very well," said Sir Winston's doctor and long personal friend, Lord Moran, "and I can tell you something else — he still enjoys his daily cigar."

Lord Moran, could have added that Britain's wartime leader still enjoys his daily brandy.

Sir Winston began his birthday celebration by leaving his bed shortly before noon. Assisted by a male nurse — for he is very feeble — he dressed slowly and went downstairs at his London home in Hyde Park Gate to be greeted by his secretaries, servants and plainclothes detectives.

Earlier, Lady Churchill, 79, Sir Winston's Darling Clementine, greeted him with a birthday kiss and the light breakfast which her husband always enjoys with the newspapers.

After receiving the good wishes of his staff, Sir Winston faced the messages and gifts that poured in from all over the world. A message from Queen Elizabeth II, sent with a bouquet, was given to him first.

There were thousands more including messages from President Johnson and ex-Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman.

Britain's Post Office Department estimated Sir Winston would receive a minimum of 60,000 greetings before the end of the day.

Not all bore formal addresses. On the outside of one envelope was a painting of two human fingers — making the V for Victory sign beneath a small black hat.

"We delivered it to his house," said a postman, "for whoever else in the world could it be meant for?"

A heavy cake with the words "Happy Birthday" in white lettering offset by gold satin ribbon, was wheeled into the Churchill residence this morning.

"What's Sir Winston doing?" a secretary said in response to a question from one of the reporters outside his home. "Why he's trying to spend the day quietly looking forward to this evening."

That meant a birthday dinner with members of the family.

Oysters led the menu. The table centerpiece was the huge iced cake, two feet in diameter and decorated with a big golden rose and these words on a scroll:

"In war — Resolution; In defeat — Defiance; In victory — Magnanimity; In peace — Goodwill."

Hundreds of well-wishers crowded outside Churchill's home near Hyde Park to sing "Happy Birthday, Sir Winston" and "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The frail old man was helped to the window by his wife and a nurse.

He was wearing one of his

They Were Red

LONDON (AP) — For years Maurice Hect itched for his wife to dye her hair red. Two weeks ago she did, and Maurice itched worse than ever.

"She looked gorgeous," said Maurice, "but the next morning I was covered in a mass of blotches. I felt like a flea's nest, the itching was terrible."

A doctor found Maurice, 42, was allergic to the hair dye. His wife agreed she must go back to being a brunette.

"There'll be no more hair dye for Pearl," said Hect. "Just the thought of it makes me see red."

Death Toll On Highway Sets Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents on the nation's streets and highways killed a record 550 persons during the four-day Thanksgiving holiday.

The figure topped last year's Thanksgiving mark of 543 deaths which had been the record since annual counts for the holiday began in 1958.

Driving on most of the country's roads and highways was endangered as rain and snow pelted the northern half of the continent Sunday. Hazardous driving warnings were issued for many states by the Weather Bureau.

The pace of fatal accidents increased somewhat in the waning hours of the holiday, as weary motorists hurried to return to their homes. The death toll was boosted by many multiple death accidents, including one in which eight persons were killed Thanksgiving Day in South Carolina.

Traffic deaths were reported at a quick pace Thanksgiving Day but the death rate appeared to be running about normal on Friday and Saturday. The surge of reported deaths picked up again early Sunday evening.

Plane Still Missing Search Party Finds Wreckage of Auto

BOZRAH (AP) — State Police abandoned a search today for a missing small plane when wreckage, sighted in a ravine, turned out to be that of a car.

Originally it was thought that the blue and white wreckage, sighted yesterday by a Civil Air Patrol pilot, might have been the remains of a private plane that vanished Saturday near four Rhode Island men aboard.

But when it was established today that the wreckage turned out to be a car, State police stopped the search.

A helicopter scouting over the hilly and wooded area today saw the wreckage of what it was. The CAP pilot was taken over the area again today in the helicopter, and verified that it was the same spot he passed over Sunday at dusk when he saw the blue and white wreckage.

State police said the search for the Cessna, missing on a flight from the airport at North Philadelphia, Pa., to Hills Grove Airport in Warwick, R.I., was now in the hands of the CAP and the Coast Guard Air-Sea Rescue.

Last night, when it was believed that the wreckage might be that of the plane, about 50 men formed a search party and combed the Bear Hill area in the Fitchville section of town into the morning hours.

Searchers in the helicopter sighted blue and white wreckage today, at the site mentioned by the CAP pilot, but saw that it was parts of a car.

State Police said they would transport the CAP pilot who sighted the wreckage Sunday over the debris seen today. If the pilot verifies that the location was the same as that he passed over Sunday, State Police will turn the search back to the CAP and air-sea rescue.

About 50 men formed a search party and combed the Bear Hill area in the Fitchville section of town into the morning hours.

Bozrah, just west of Norwich, is some 20 miles from the Rhode Island line.

Search headquarters were set up at the farm of Arthur Ingves of Bear Hill Road under the command of State Police Lt. Wilfred Bellefleur.

Authorities said those aboard the plane, all from Rhode Island, were Eugene Simonsau, 35, of Cranston, the pilot, and Ralph H. Worrall, 42, Edward Underhill, 47, and Edward M. Balkun, 46, all of Warwick.

Crude Bomb Damages Home In Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A crude bomb, which police believe was dynamite, damaged the home of a Negro family Sunday night and shattered a long racial calm in this Confederate capital.

The explosion blasted a hole four inches deep in the concrete floor of the carport at the home of Charles Spears, He, his wife and two children escaped injury.

Windows in two other houses were knocked out by the blast.

E. P. Brown, who heads the Detective Bureau, said there was no question of the explosive having been thrown or planted deliberately.

White House Denies Hoover to Be Ousted

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine said today that President Johnson has decided to replace J. Edgar Hoover as chief of the FBI.

The White House promptly denied it.

George E. Reedy, presidential press secretary, said: "The President never heard of such a plot and never heard of such an idea."

A spokesman said there would be no comment from the FBI.

The magazine said Hoover "has become a figure of controversy — not merely to longtime critics but among old admirers who wonder whether he has forgotten the motto on his desk."

The motto, inscribed on a small brass plaque: "Two feet on the ground are worth one in the mouth."

Hoover held one of his rare news conferences Nov. 18, in which he told women reporters that civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is "the most notorious liar in the country." He also denounced the Warren Commission for its criticism of the FBI's role in the events preceding President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

Newsweek said: "One such disenchanted fan (of Hoover's) is Lyndon B. Johnson, who had decided by last week that he must find a new chief of the FBI. It was a tough decision."

"Even tougher perhaps is the task of finding a worthy replacement... someone as irrepresen-

AMA President Rallies Doctors Against Medicare

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The president of the American Medical Association took a grim look at the new congressional odds on passage of medicare today, and called on the nation's doctors to rally against it.

"The possibility that a federal health care program financed from increased Social Security taxes will be rejected is considerably less than it was a few weeks ago," said Dr. Donovan F. Ward.

"But even as I am not going to promote any ill-founded optimism, neither am I carelessly going to spread gloom and doom in this chamber," he told the AMA's legislative body, the House of Delegates.

"Congress doesn't convene for a month. The new congressmen have yet to pack their bags and buy their tickets for Washington," Donovan said.

"But their votes on this and other issues are already being

Refugees, Crew Killed In Fiery Congo Crash

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — A chartered Belgian DC4 crashed on the runway of Stanleyville airport Sunday night, killing the crew and all but seven of the refugees it was bringing to safety, reports to Leopoldville said.

A message reaching Leopoldville this morning said the plane "got fire on taking off." It was not clear whether this meant that the plane had been hit by rebel firemen who still inhabit the region around the airport at Stanleyville.

An employe of the charter company, Belgian International Air Services, said the DC4 had a crew of three Belgians. It was not known how many passengers were aboard.

An investigating team was flying to Stanleyville this morning.

Most of the plane's passengers were reported to be Congolese refugees from the former rebel capital. One of the injured survivors was reported to be Belgian Col. V. Lilegeois, a commander of the Congolese government's anti-rebel drive.

In the last few days, several planes have been unable to land in Stanleyville because of rebel ground fire. Belgians who returned from Stanleyville Sunday night said the region between the airport and the center of the city about two miles away was heavily infiltrated by rebel snipers.

Beyond the airport, the rebels are in almost full control. The airport is guarded by Congolese soldiers who took over when Belgian paratroopers were withdrawn Sunday after rescuing 1,700 foreigners from the rebels.

With the departure of the Belgian paratroopers, the Belgians mounted for the safety of 500 to 1,000 whites still in the rebel-held areas of the northern Congo.

Refugees said the Peking-backed rebels were intent on killing all whites to vent their anger over the paratrooper action in Stanleyville and Paulis last week.

The confirmed death toll of the crash was not known Sunday. It included three American missionaries. Many were slaughtered only minutes before the Belgians arrived.

At least 500 and possibly as many as 1,000 whites are still in rebel areas. A group of several hundred is at Bunia in the north. Many missionaries and

Worshippers' Views Differ Over First English Mass

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I never knew until today the meaning of prayers I've been using ever since I was a little girl," said a St. Paul, Minn., woman after witnessing the use of English in a Roman Catholic Mass.

A middle-aged San Francisco woman, after going through the same experience, commented wryly: "This new Mass is like doing Shakespeare in modern English."

These were typical of the differing viewpoints expressed by some of the nation's 45 million Roman Catholics after attending masses Sunday in which English was used for the first time instead of Latin in about half the service.

A cross-country spot check brought mostly favorable reactions.

Most of the English is prescribed for use in the people's responses to the chanting of the priest — "The new Mass is like doing Shakespeare in modern English."

The reforms were authorized by the Vatican's Ecumenical Council last Dec. 4.

"It's a terrific social act," said the Rev. Luke O'Connell of St. Anthony's Shrine, Boston. "The people are now able to see... what was hidden before."

The St. Paul woman, Helen Conrad, found the new mass "very meaningful."

The San Francisco woman, who declined to give her name, preferred the full Latin usage, saying, "I'm a converted Catholic and we feel strongly about the old things."

The changes — including in many churches the optional practice of having the priest face his congregation instead of having his back to them — marked in large measure the end of an era that began 400 years ago. It was then that the Council of Trent established basic norms for the Latin Mass that became outdated Sunday.

"With the introduction of the vernacular," said the Rev. Ralph Gorman, editor of the Catholic Magazine, the Sign, "the people can participate intelligently... instead of murmuring a mumbo-jumbo of Latin, as incomprehensible to them as Hindustani."

A New York City parishioner speculated it will "cut down on daydreaming." Mary Gibbons, who attends St. Catherine of Siena church, added somewhat sternly, "It's going to force Catholics to do what they have been supposed to do all along — follow and participate in the Mass."

Dissenting was Daisy Nieland of Perth Amboy, N.J. "I'm a traditionalist," she said, "and I

RABBIS MARCH TO UN
NEW YORK (AP) — Some 300 Rabbis marched silently for more than a mile to the United Nations today protesting what they felt was religious and cultural discrimination against 3 million Jews in the Soviet Union. Traffic was cleared from their route as the clergymen marched slowly, four abreast, from a point near the Soviet Union's U.N. Mission headquarters to United Nations Plaza. The Rabbis wore business suits and carried a large sign calling on the new rulers of the Soviet Union to "restore religious and cultural rights to 3,000,000 Jews."
