The Pope in Bombay
It was supposed that St. Paul VI would be in Bombay, India, this week. He did not come, but his presence was widely expected.

On his arrival at Bombay, India, this week, Pope Paul VI happened to command a welcoming crowd which had apparently only been expected once in a lifetime. The Pope's visit to India was a historic event.

Some day one of the human beings will stand in the midst of one of those unparalleled mass gatherings
of humanity, as the object of its curiosity and respect, going to try to tell it what all means as he sees and feels it. For surely, if an individual seems to bring meaning and blessing to such a mass of people, the crowd must,
in its turn, confer something upon its guest.

Borders As Crutches
Political travelers are making certain borders by knocking at their borders.
Argentina can hardly be blamed for being nervous. It has had a hard enough time trying to get some make-do brand of democracy operating in the years since Peron was expelled. Now, as then, Peron offers the simple choice. There is nothing to govern yourselves, and not making out very well at it. Hire a dictator to do it for you!

While Argentina is on the alert against the return of its own, another country, South Africa, is nervous over the possibility that its border might be crossed, and has defended itself against a would-be traveler by denying him an entry visa.

The traveler who might have gone into South Africa, if he had been given the chance, is Louis Stachem, American jazz. He happens to be a Negro, and he happens with his talent, to have a way of knocking down racial and ideological barriers.

Up to have Stachem cutting things up like that would be very disconcerting to a country which has made the decision to solve its racial and social problems the drastic but easy way, by,
in fact, a dictatorial decree of separate living for whites and blacks.

So South Africa is afraid of Stachem, and the potential apostle of liberty and integration, and Argentina is afraid of Peron, the live ghost of totalitarianism,
and barriers are up, and one can't blame
either country for trying to play it that way.

But in each case, of course, the border that can be closed in a crutch under the way of life of the country is trying to maintain, and in each case the crutch will have to be dispensed with, some day, if the country is ever to prove to itself that it can really walk in apartheid, in South Africa, or in democracy and liberty, in Argentina.

men among many rather than the single citizen for all.
At the moment, neither South Africa nor Argentina is sure of itself in its own way of life, which is cheerful news
in one instance, sobering in the other.

Another Exodus Of Doctors
A statistic about the exodus of doctors to a little different direction and meaning from that one might normally expect from the source involved came from the American Medical Association
the other day.

Somewhat, one thinks of that organization as one which would delight in broadcasting the latest statistics from the number of British doctors leaving their own country and emigrating all over the world in order to escape the regulation and the low incomes of socialized medicine in their own country.

But the other day the AMA showed signs of recognizing a much more effective brand of propaganda in behalf of the profession it represents.
It told, the other day, the story of increased interest on the part of American doctors in opportunities to serve the cause of humanity and health by leaving the rich and comfortable opportunities of their own country in order to serve abroad in primitive and ill-paying positions.

According to the AMA, there are more than 2,000 American doctors now serving in overseas posts, some in a missionary capacity, like Dr. Paul Carlson, some in American or international agency posts, some in the employ of governments of backward countries trying to get a quick hand up toward proper health care for their populations.

Each year, according to the AMA, it gets about 1,000 inquiries from American doctors interested in such posts abroad.
Obviously, they are not after money.
Obviously, they do not want the quickest way to set up a big practice in some lucrative American community.

What they have motivating them is an "urge to serve." The pay can be low;
the living conditions can be primitive;
the job they can get does not represent
a career. Nonetheless, they have this urge.

Getting inside them as human beings,
they care more about doing some of this kind of work than about getting ahead with the normal outlines of their own career.

That is a nice thing to know, and to think about, and a nice kind of information for the AMA to be proud of,
and it tallies, too, with what most of us know about the kind of people who really are, outside the cartoons, outside the "anti" stereotype the publicity efforts of the AMA have so often created in the past.

Christianity And Violence
The most interesting item in the mid-
October number of "New Blackfriars"
(the journal of the English Dominicans) is a debate on nuclear weapons, between Sir Peter Gretton and Walter Stein.
Gretton helped to plan the Christian bomb test and is still high up in strategic planning. He deserves our thanks for having expressed in public a strategist's genuine worry about the morality of his schemes. Stein, on the other hand, is a pacifist. He is concerned with the murderous intentions of nuclear deterrence with the fact that the balance of terror has kept the peace without relapsing into total moral cynicism?

Gretton's way was to ask a Roman Catholic moral theologian for his opinion; and the answer—impeccably correct, but utterly irrelevant to the realities—was that everything was all right provided you don't have it in your head to drop the bomb on cities. As long as you sincerely say that what you mean to do is preserve peace, Gretton seems to suggest, all the violence in the world can be the right choice. There is not just one man's dilemma, nor is this just one bishop's answer. It is probably the majority view among the Vatican Council fathers.
It is clearly the view of those who have a "workshop problem of the nuclear deterrent in their own countries
to ride out. It seems that only those bishops who are not too busy to be concerned with the world are going to
push for a wholesale condemnation.

Thanks to a new study of the subject, "Christianity versus Violence" (Sheed and Ward, 60s.), by Stanley Windas, a research student in international relations at Oxford, we can begin to understand the Vatican's attitude
to ride out. It seems that only those
bishops who are not too busy to be
concerned with the world are going to
push for a wholesale condemnation.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

It was a rare week in Connecticut, even in the midst of the late presidential campaign,
when Republican state leaders didn't find time to lament a new blast directed at the particular state official who had obviously been selected as "target" 1964, and probably Target 1965, and Target until Republican victory in the state, which might be a very long time, even beyond the next bi-biennial election in 1968.

The particular state official in question is State Finance
Commissioner George Conkling.
Two considerations make the selection of Commissioner Conkling as a target rather unusual.

In the first place, he himself
has been treated, in the past,
for his supposed knowledge of state finances and his capacity to level about state finances, by administrations of both the Republican and the Democratic parties. He began as a sort of bi-partisan non-political expert in the employ of the bi-partisan office of the state auditors. He was taken into the Finance Department by a Republican Commissioner and continued by a Democratic Commissioner.

It would seem quite true, from both these facts, that the Commissioner Conkling has,
through his appointment as commissioner by a Democratic Governor, shown a certain disposition to come up with figures which sustained Democratic claims and strategies.

Still, all the bi-partisan entree
in his background would suggest that politicians would not think twice before making him
a prime and regular target.

What has motivated them is
an "urge to serve." The pay can be low;
the living conditions can be primitive;
the job they can get does not represent
a career. Nonetheless, they have this
urge.

Getting inside them as human beings,
they care more about doing some of

own career.

South Windsor Councilmen Hear Request For Central Library In Town

A central library is needed in South Windsor, the town council was told last night.
Mrs. Shirley Little, library chairman, told the council that there is a lack of reference material at the library. She said the reference material is inadequate and there is not enough space for students to study.

The library directors asked for an appropriation for half the fiscal year, from January to June, to hire a professional librarian. They want to include in this year's budget a professional librarian to study the library's needs.

It was noted that the town manager was asked to appropriate a certain amount of money for the library. The town manager said that he would be glad to do so.

The council discussed a speed
law ordinance for the town.
The ordinance reads as presented to the council: "No person shall operate any motor vehicle upon a road, highway, bridge, or parking area, or other public place, at a speed
exceeding the posted speed limit, or at a speed in excess of 30 miles per hour where no speed limit is posted."

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr.
Robert D. Novak

The first authentic revolutionary student movement in U.S. history is now trying to take over leadership of the Negro fight for equality.

This is by far the most significant of many changes in the Negro movement since the passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and it is regarded with growing concern in Washington.

What worries responsible leaders of the civil rights movement is that SNCC will put into practice the revolutionary techniques of these emerging countries. Although the Summer Project failed in its main purpose—to register Mississippi Negroes—it aroused the spirit and idealism and non-violence
of hundreds of college students in the North.

On the campus at Yale, Cornell, Stanford, Michigan University, Oberlin, and other predominantly white schools are active, volatile SNCC chapters that raise money and recruits
for field work in Mississippi.

They get the best kids in the country because they are drama-tized by the Negro leaders.
Whether and to what extent
these new activists are Communist-infiltrated isn't widely known. But it's significant that Moses was a speaker last week

Dempsy Praise
HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. John Dempsy has praised efforts of the state's youth leaders to get together to help solve the state's youth problems.

It's legal in New York to sell to anyone over 18, but the police chiefs of Port Chester and Yonkers are urging a voluntary ban on the sale of alcohol to minors.

These efforts "will greatly assist our attempt to protect the health and lives of our youngsters," said Dempsy Wednesday.

The governor noted that Connecticut and other states have been trying for years to raise the minimum drinking age to 21.

BARRY'S EXPENSES
HARTFORD (AP) — The campaign for Sen. Barry Goldwater in Connecticut totaled nearly $114,000, according to reports filed with the Secretary of State.

The deadline for filing campaign expenditures is midnight.

Viet Envoy Residents Consider Appeal
Says Hordes
Infiltrating

Residents of the McKee St. area are considering taking an appeal from a Monday court ruling that opens the way for a pair of apartment buildings at McKee and Summer Sts.

The Court of Common Pleas reversed a town zoning board of appeals action dating from April of this year, which denied developer Andrew Anasid permission to construct the two apartment buildings on a lot now occupied by abandoned chicken coops.

Judge Anthony J. Armentano based his decision on the zoning board's failure to make certain findings. The main issue before the court was whether the zoning board's decision was "arbitrary and capricious."

On UN Fee

At the heart of the crisis has been the refusal to pay U.N. assessments in the Congo and Middle East. The Soviet Union, the largest contributor, says all must pay their share of the United Nations fee.

The African-Asian plan proposed that the General Assembly declare the U.N. Charter's Article 19 inapplicable in the present case. This is the provision which says that a new member may not be admitted until it has paid its dues.

Non-Christian alliance takes on heightened ramifications. For the first time, the Pope is meeting with non-Christians in a historic meeting.

His callers at the residence of Bombay's Roman Catholic Archbishop included the officials of the Church of South India, a historic merger involving the Anglican and Methodist churches.

The personal meetings with such churchmen were held in the theme of Rome's modified stance and unity extending toward Christians outside the Roman Catholic fold.

Critic Cites Breakdown In Movies

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP) "Are movies going to please?" asks an article in the Atlantic Monthly by Pauline Kael, who proceeds to answer, yes.

Miss Kael, who is billed as an author, lecturer and authority on films, criticizes the growing lack of logic in movies, even the most expensive ones. She cites the swift and unexplained ending of "Bridge on the River Kwai"; the garbled plot of "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?"; the utter confusion of "50 Days at Peking"; the sudden disappearance of Geopatra in the film of that name; the puzzling story turns of "The Cardinal."

"Audiences used to have an almost rational passion for getting the story straight," writes the critic. "Although the movies might be brutal or vulgar, they were rarely incoherent. A movie had to tell some story that held together."

She concludes: "movies are going to pieces; they are disintegrating, and the something called cinema is not movies raised to an art but rather movies diminished, movies that look 'artistic.' Movies are being stripped of all the 'essentials'—that is to say, faces, action, details, stories, places, everything that makes them entertaining and joyful."

She's right, you know. The one thing that impresses a reviewer who sees the major output of the studios is the slickness of the product. Today's films are filled with incongruities, pointless jokes, technical errors, and anachronisms that any bright 11th-grader, English student could correct in the script.

Why is this so? The answer seems to lie in the abdication of authority by the major studios. Bosses like Louis B. Mayer and Harry Cohn were despotic and crude, but they did control things. They and their dupes insisted that a script be finished before shooting started, that the story should be understandable and the schedule proceed in a businesslike manner.

"Today, people in Hollywood are more interested in making deals than in making movies," said a top executive.

The wheeler-dealers have moved into the industry, setting up packages to find a buyer, then moving on to the next deal. The film makers are left to their own devices, with no steady hand to guide them.

The influence of European film makers has been chaotic. Working on scant budgets, Italian and French directors have been able to indulge their own whimsies. The results are often incomprehensible to the general public, but hailed by highbrow critics. Hungry for praise, American directors have sought to emulate the Europeans, with dismal results.

Miss Kael predicts gloomily: "Cinema, I suspect, is going to become so rarified, so private in meaning, and so lacking in audience appeal that in a few years the foundations will be desperately and hopelessly trying to bring it back to life, as they are now doing with the theater."

The future may no be the entirely bleak. But it is true that the movies—as opposed to the cinema—need to be returned to the audience whose devotion and enthusiasm made them great.

Windsor Bidder Low on Sewer

The Windsor Sewer Contractors Inc. of Windsor is the apparent low bidder for the construction of sanitary sewers in the Deepwood-Devon Dr. area.

The Windsor Company, which on Monday was awarded a contract for enclosing a Loomis St. storm ditch, bid $23,085 on the Deepwood-Devon project, and promised completion of the work within 72 days of the award of a contract. In addition, it offered a 2 per cent 10-day discount.

Others whose bids were opened in the Municipal Building this morning are: A. Deen Construction Co. of Manchester, $30,998; Maskel Construction Co. Inc. of South Windsor, $33,894; Jarvis Construction Co. of Manchester, $36,586; Vernon Construction Inc. of Wapping, $39,809.

Also, Anderson Fair Oaks Inc. of Hartford, $40,285; Fred Benvenuti of New London, $41,048; and Elmwood Construction Co. Inc. of Hartford, $43,270.

The town engineering department had estimated a $32,000 cost for the project. The cost of the sanitary sewers will be paid for with sewer department funds, but the entire expenditure will be returned with the payment of assessments by the area's property owners.

If the Windsor Sewer bid is accepted, the area residents stand to save approximately 25 per cent of their estimated assessments.

DENISE SLAYING WATERBURY (AP)—"I say before man and before God I never wanted to see you and never remember stabbing her," James N. Teal of Ansonia told a Superior Court judge Tuesday before being sentenced to life imprisonment. Teal, 32, had pleaded guilty to second degree murder Nov. 18 in the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Rachel Robinson, 24, also of Ansonia. The slaying occurred Aug. 7. State's Atty. William Fitzgerald said an argument erupted after Teal told the woman he was leaving town. Teal and Mrs. Robinson had been intimate, Fitzgerald said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first time to work towards office of education reports a 10 percent increase in college enrollments in the past year. The total this fall is a record 5,300,000 students.

In announcing the figures Wednesday, the office said the increase represents the impact of postwar babies now reaching college age. This impact is expected to be just as great next year, the office added.

Students entering college for enrolled — 3,641,824 students — are studying fulltime.

The office also reported that for the eighth straight year the percentage of women among degree-credit students was up — from 35.4 per cent to 38.8 per cent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only 28,500 of the 60,401 jobs to be eliminated under the Pentagon's latest base-closing order are held by civilians, the Defense Department reported Wednesday.

The rest are filled by military personnel.

Secretary of Defense Robert

McNamara announced last month that no bases in the United States and 18 overseas were being shut down for economy reasons. But he said at the time that he could not give the number of civilian workers affected.

The figures came to light in a Pentagon announcement that McNamara had put a freeze on new hirings of blue collar workers for permanent defense jobs until Feb. 28. By that time a new computerized system for job placement is expected to be in operation on a basis that will give the displaced people preference.

Wednesday's announcement

compared the number of jobs being eliminated with the more than 180,000 civilians hired each year by the Defense Department.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked for public support for Radio Free Europe as the voice of truth and freedom in Eastern Europe where, he said, the "people are in a state of terror and confusion."

Johnson gave a White House luncheon Wednesday for officials of Radio Free Europe, a privately financed organization supported by public contributions.

Johnson said that in the process of building new bridges between this country and Eastern Europe "there is no greater instrument — than truth. And truth is the daily business of Radio Free Europe."

Wine Purified First

PARIS — Pasteurization was developed by Louis Pasteur specifically for use in wine-making. Later milk and other products were protected from bacteria the same way.

Pope's Tumble Cost Him Ruby

ROME — Right after a glittering gala was made for Pope Doniface VIII, who added the second crown, (Papa) traxus had more than 200 precious stones in it including a very valuable ruby.

His two immediate successors, Benedict XI and Clement V, used the same stars, but the latter left from his horse in a procession one day and the ruby rolled out. It was never found.

Rezoned Bid Okayed by Commission

The application of Sylvester J. Pincus for rezoning of the Woodland Terrace area between Shoddy Mill Rd. and Wales Rd. from an R-40 zone, single-family dwelling, to a garden apartment district, was approved by the planning and zoning commission at its meeting last night.

The approval is contingent upon the applicant's meeting all local and state regulations for water supply and sewage disposal. The two eight-unit apartment buildings he plans to erect.

The zoning regulations, presented at the public hearing on Nov. 24, were voted upon and approved as presented except for minor changes based on suggestions from people at the hearing.

The commission discussed the problem of securing new industry for Andover brought out by a number of people at the Nov. 24 hearing. These people indicated that the planning and zoning commission should do the job.

The commission feels that the job is a specialized one, usually by calling for trained people and a substantial budget and will therefore call for the establishment of an industrial development commission.

Sugar, water, graham crackers. A food coloring and candles for the covering on the house and decorations. Some varieties of candies used by the girls were peanut butter logs, gum drops, licorice logs, pastel colored candy wafers, after-dinner mints, candy corn, small chocolate candies with brightly colored hard coating, foil wrapped milk chocolate kisses and hard candy of all sizes and shapes.

Method

Put a house frame out of cardboard and put sides together with gummed tape. Cut out windows and doors before covering frame with roof. The roof should be about one inch wider than the frame to produce an overhang. Tape chimney to roof. Yarn may be used to sew across windows in a criss cross pattern to give the effect of lattice work. The house should be taped to a sturdy piece of cardboard, cut in a free-form shape.

Make a thick paste of confectionery sugar and water. Carefully cut graham crackers with sharp knife to fit sides and roof of house. A slow sawing motion is best. Many crackers may be broken until, with practice and patience, the proper method is developed to them to size.

Apply a layer of sugar paste to the back of each cracker before pressing gently to the cardboard house. When cardboard is completely covered with crackers decorative candies may be applied. A dab of paste on the back of each cracker will make it adhere to the crackers if the candy is pressed on with a circular motion. Wrapped candy is versatile. Candy corn makes an attractive border for the roof. This mixture of confectionery sugar and water, may be dripped from the overhang to produce icicles.

When covering the area around the house use a thin mixture of confectionery sugar and water, plus green food coloring, to give the effect of snow. The mixture should be of candy corn, set on end with wafers pointed on top. A walkway to the house may be made of candy corn, set on end with wafers pointed on top. A walkway to the house may be made of candy corn, set on end with wafers pointed on top. The top of the chimney to simulate smoke.

Should decorations break loose they may be replaced with sugar paste.

12th Circuit Court Cases

MANCHESTER SESSION

Several cases were continued or transferred to other courts and a total of only $26 in fines was imposed in a short session at the Circuit Court in Manchester today.

The cases of Mrs. Barbara Chameroy, 24, of North Manchester, Ind., and Edward Brockway, 19, alias Edward Maturu of New Haven, arrested on Nov. 12 for the abduction of the woman's two-year-old child from the Tolland home of her estranged husband, were transferred for hearing tomorrow at the East Hartford session of Circuit Court 12.

60 Years in Show Business

Sanson Will Retire As Theater Manager

John J. (Jack) Sanson will retire as manager of the State Theater on Jan. 7, 1965, after 60 years in the theater — from the days of vaudeville to today's wide-screen spectacular.

Of those 60 years, Sanson has spent more than 20 in Manchester as manager of the State and the old Circle Theaters. He managed one or both from 1928 to 1929, again from 1935 to 1943 and yet again from 1962 to the present.

During the years between, he managed theaters in Hartford, Danbury, New Britain and New Haven. His last assignment before returning to Manchester was as manager of the State and Circle Theaters in Hartford.

He has been cited by national and professional organizations for his services to the country, the community and the entertainment industry.

Sanson, now 72, lives at 85 Hamilton St. with his wife, the former Lavinia E. Duley of Ft. Montgomery, Pa. They celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary in 1960. They have a daughter, Mrs. Andrew Hall of Wapping.

Sanson came to Manchester in 1926 from Hartford, where he had opened and managed two theaters. He began his career in theater management as a young man, learning to be a projector operator in his home town of Jersey City, N. J., in the 1900s. He was a projectionist and theater manager in New York State before coming to Bristol in 1915.

He has managed the State and for a time the old Circle Theaters. Sanson originated a series of kiddie review starring town children, turned his professional career to many worthwhile causes, and helped the Chamber of Commerce through difficult times.

And he saw the State grow from a silent-movie house with vaudeville acts between the reels, through various bond sale drives during the war to its present role as a straight movie house.

Sanson's theater career and his years in Manchester will be the subject of a forthcoming feature story in The Herald.

When Curtis continued to exclaim that McLendon had no right to make the statement he did about Williams, Fell said: "Just because a man is a senator that doesn't make him a god."

Williams, who furnished much of the information that triggered the Foster probe, declared the Rules Committee might find "very interesting" that it did look into various government construction projects handled by the McCloskey company.

The angry squabble took place while William K. Stewart, testified Tuesday that a $25,000 overpayment by the McCloskey firm of an insurance performance bond was really a political campaign fund. Reynolds said he saw the "leg man" for Baker and contractor Matthew H. McCloskey in the deal.

Curtis and Stewart verbally lifted over failure of the McCloskey Company to provide records Curtis had requested through a government agency.

"They could do it better than we could," Stewart said of providing details on projects the McCloskey company had worked involving federal funds.

McCloskey, TI, former ambassador to Ireland, took the witness chair Wednesday and said Reynolds had lied.

"He hasn't told you the truth once," he said.

Rockville-Vernon Plans Scrapped For Auditorium Efforts to build an outdoor auditorium in the shape of a music shell halted Tuesday when a committee investigating the potential uses of such a shell recommended the project be scrapped.

Deborah Lavitt, chairman of the Use Committee of the music shell group, explained the reasons for the recommendation.

Lavitt said that in the two years the proposal was considered, there have been several things that affected the need for a shell. The recent high school addition created an enclosed courtyard Lavitt said, which could safely house high school productions. The new junior high school, which will soon be built on the Ecker Farm, proposed site of the shell, will have seating available for 700 to 750 persons.

About the only group which cannot presently be accommodated, Lavitt continued, is the teen-agers.

Lavitt said a check with recreation commission personnel indicated the activities that would use the shell could justify the cost of the project.

The music shell committee, sponsored by the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, has been meeting for about one year to consider the project.

Hardwood Chips Are in Demand KNOXVILLE — The fast-growing production of hardwood chips from once-wasted wood residues reached 377,000 tons in the Tennessee Valley last year—equal to a year's growth of pulpwood on about 100,000 acres of typical forest land.

About four-fifths of the chips went to the paper and pulp industry, the rest to metallurgical plants—which use them in one smelting.

Chip production in the valley is expected to reach 500,000 tons a year by 1966.

'R' Myth Gone WASHINGTON — The belief that oysters are good to eat only in months that have an "R" in their names is erroneous.

The Interior Department says American oysters usually reach the peak of perfection in May and June. European oysters, however, are best in months with "R's."

"It's the best time in America for oysters because that's when the oysters store glycogen, an animal starch, in preparation for spawning, according to a spokesman.

Baker Case Turns into Yell Session

"There is not an ounce, not an iota, of truth in anything Curtis continued to demand that McLendon remove himself from his post as special counsel.

"I've got a right," said McLendon. "I'm not going to sit here and be publicly misrepresented."

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., sought to soothe the ruffled feathers by commenting that both Curtis and McLendon were honorable men.

When Curtis continued to exclaim that McLendon had no right to make the statement he did about Williams, Fell said: "Just because a man is a senator that doesn't make him a god."

Rockville-Vernon Teachers Ask Notification In Administration Openings

A large number of Vernonschool at the First Church of teachers, members of the Vern Education Association, unanimously approved a motion yesterday requesting the board of education to notify all teachers of administrative openings in the school system.

The motion was the result of a discussion over the recent appointment of Edward B. Manker as assistant principal of the Sikes Junior High School. Manker was a member and former chairman of the board of education. He resigned to apply for the post.

Dr. Raymond E. Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, criticized VEA members for their action in calling yesterday's meeting held at the Lake Street Elementary School.

Dr. Ramsdell called the dispute a "family matter" and said teachers "We shouldn't have to air our dirty laundry in public."

He scored teachers for inviting the press and neglecting to inform him or the board of education of the purpose of the meeting.

"I am here in a dual position," Dr. Ramsdell said, "as a member of the VEA and as superintendent of schools representing the board of education."

"Over the years," he continued, "we have attempted to build good working relations with the VEA. I think this action taken by your executive committee has torn all this down."

The executive committee discussed the problem at a meeting held Nov. 24, according to VEA President Thomas J. Kelly. "There were complaints and unrest from some VEA members," Kelly reported.

In a strongly worded statement, Dr. Ramsdell said regarding the charges that teachers were not told about the vacancy, that the resignation of Richard Sawyer's (former assistant principal) "was not 24 hours old when I was visited by six applicants for the post, one half of whom were teachers."

"In six weeks (from the resignation to the appointment) Dr. Ramsdell did not know about it, then you better wake up," Ramsdell said.

One teacher, siding with Dr. Ramsdell, said that if a person is interested in a job, he would seek it out instead of waiting for someone to approach him.

The usual procedure for announcing openings is to put notices on school bulletin boards.

Albert Korin, chairman of the VEA's personnel policy committee, said he was not interested in having his committee involved in the complaint because now we are involved with salary talks with the board of education.

High School Principal Martin Fagan told the VEA, "The problem is how does this organization proceed when members have a grievance? And there have been grievances in the past and we will have them in the future."

Fagan suggested that the proper committee be contacted. The executive board may call a meeting of the entire group if it deems it necessary.

"I do not recall anytime when anyone refused to sit down and discuss a problem when it was necessary," Fagan said.

Fagan suggested that a committee be appointed to outline grievance procedures.

Dr. Ramsdell told VEA members that he would bring their attention to the attention of the board of education.

Part-Time Teacher Sought.

Dr. Raymond E. Ramsdell, superintendent of schools of Vernonschools, said yesterday that the department is encountering difficulty in obtaining a part-time, accredited, Grade 6 teacher.

The teacher is needed mornings so that a teaching principal can devote full time to administrative duties.

Any qualified person interested in the post may contact Dr. Ramsdell in the superintendent's office.

Soloist in Concert.

Everett MacCluggage of Manchester will be guest soloist with the Choral Club of Hartford in a special concert set for tonight at 8 at Rockville High School.

Very Successful

It is with a great deal of pride and yet with a deep sense of humility that I wish to express my feelings to all concerned.

I have been privileged through my office as Grand Tail Coder of Nutmeg Forest No. 116, Tail Cedars of Lebanon, to have been associated with the planning and consummation of the 28th Annual Thanksgiving Day Road Race. Wading through many hours of long and tedious work the committee of Tail Cedars, aided by some very good friends of Tail Cedars, has been able to plan and bring to fruition a very successful endeavor.

First, I would like to express my Thank You to all the runners who completed this year. Without these competitors no race could be a success. Also, to our great company of spectators whose presence along the streets provides much inspiration to the competitors. Not forgetting, of course, their gifts to our Muscular Dystrophy Fund and the help it will provide in the task we have pledged to support.

To the committee of Tail Cedars from Nutmeg Forest I am most deeply indebted. Their many hours of untiring labor and devotion to their ideals leaves one with a heartwarming sense of peace and hope. Also to the officials of Manchester for their aid and assistance, especially the Recreation Department and the Police Department. My grateful thanks to Chief Reardon and his fine officers for the splendid manner in which they handle the traffic and protect the runners. To the officials of the race,

Fire Fighting Drains Budget

HARTFORD (AP)—A large number of brush and forest fires during this drought year has necessitated the transfer of $40,775 into the state's firefighting budget.

The transfer was approved Wednesday by the Finance Administration Committee after it heard that 774 fires had occurred between Jan. 1 and Oct. 31 compared to 550 during an average year.

"Maybe we ought to take some of that $40,000 and hire a rainmaker," quipped State Rep. Ralph L. Earle, R-North Haven. During the 1963-64 fiscal year, the state spent $18,210 on firefighting services. Expenditures during the current fiscal year, which ends next June 30, are expected to total $246,000.

The FAC also approved an additional $27,500 for the Seaside Regional Center for the mentally handicapped and $1,200 to send five of the Connecticut Valley Hospital staff to a geriatric rehabilitation training program in Boston.

Returns from Morgue

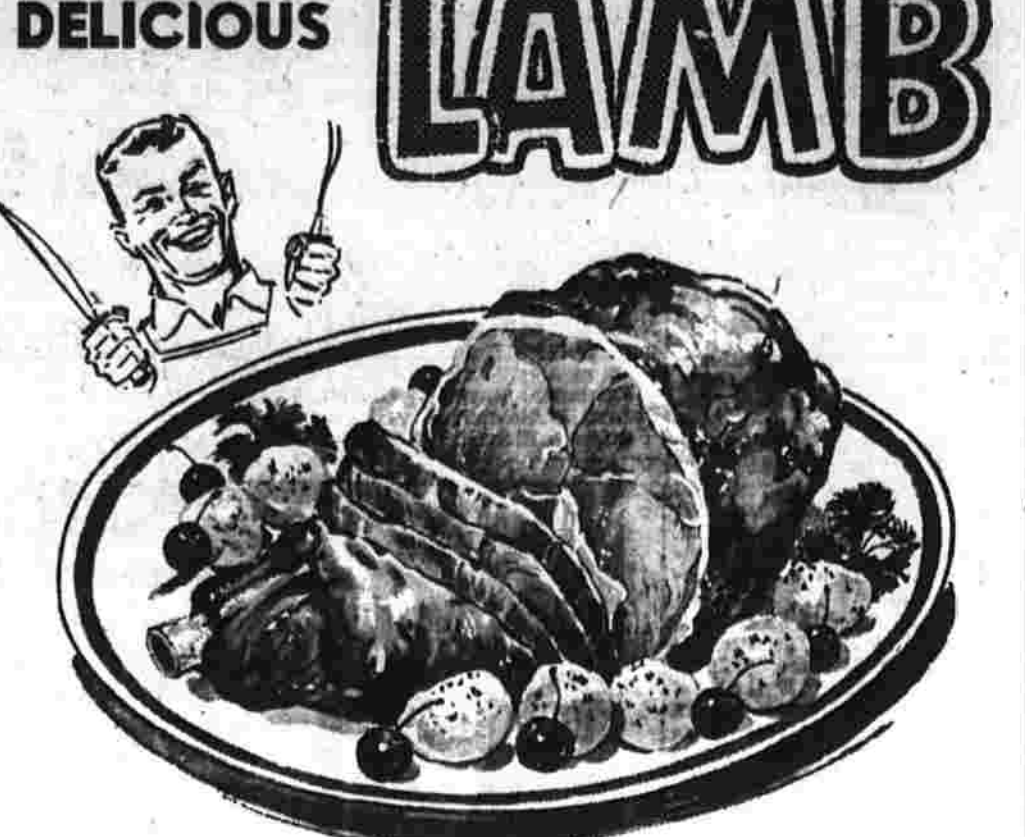

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Catherine Leask was brought back alive from the city morgue today.

Mrs. Leask, 35, was sent to the morgue from Glasgow's Royal Infirmary. She was believed to have had an overdose of drugs.

An ambulance man noticed a quiver in her neck as he was about to leave the slab. He applied oxygen from his ambulance equipment and detected a faint pulse beat.

A spokesman at the infirmary said: "When Mrs. Leask first arrived, a physician could detect no trace of life and she was certified dead. She is now in the intensive care unit."

Man Fights 'City Hall' And Wins

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—It's not often that one man challenges the vast power of the federal government. It is a rare occasion, indeed, when he wins.

The fight began in 1962 when the Navy revealed his security clearance, forcing him from his $18,000 a year job as vice president of the Engineering Research Corp. of Riverdale, Md.

It ended this year when lawyers for Greene and the federal government agreed by stipulation on the $40,000 settlement.

Greene, 46, recalls the long battle without rancor. He is a stocky, witty man with graying hair. He speaks softly.

With the help of his employers and a friendly congressman, he pressed for a hearing for about 18 months before the Navy finally agreed. Another six months elapsed before the hearing began and before the charges were disclosed.

A substantial part of the charges was that Greene's first wife, from whom he had been divorced more than six years earlier in 1947, was so "Communist" and that he had shared or been influenced by her beliefs and her friends.

"I don't know if she really was a Communist," says Greene, who since has remarried. "She certainly had leftist beliefs."

At the hearing, he was allowed to bring witnesses and introduce evidence. He countered the charges with the contention that he had disagreed with his first wife's views and introduced evidence. He produced testimony by his friends and employers and a note from his ex-wife to support his argument.

No witnesses were produced against him, however, and he says he had no chance to refute specifically the information given by anonymous informants.

One month after the three-day hearing, the special board which had listened to the evidence ruled against him.

At this point, Greene, working as a draftsman in Annapolis for $2,000 a year, decided to appeal the ruling.

The first two rounds came off in U.S. District Court and the Circuit Court of Appeals and he lost both.

He carried the fight to the Supreme Court, and in 1963 the court struck down the industrial security program under which he had been denied clearance.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, writing the majority opinion, said Greene's hearing "failed to comport with our traditional ideas of fair procedure."

Having won the case, Greene sought to regain the $40,000 he figured he had lost because of losing his job. The government refused to pay, and he again went to court.

On Feb. 17 this year, the Supreme Court again ruled in his favor and sent the case back to the Court of Claims to determine the amount of the settlement.

Looking back, Greene recalls with satisfaction the way most of his friends stuck by him.

AT THE HEARING, HE WAS ALLOWED TO BRING WITNESSES AND INTRODUCE EVIDENCE. HE COUNTERED THE CHARGES WITH THE CONTENTION THAT HE HAD DISAGREED WITH HIS FIRST WIFE'S VIEWS AND INTRODUCED EVIDENCE. HE PRODUCED TESTIMONY BY HIS FRIENDS AND EMPLOYERS AND A NOTE FROM HIS EX-WIFE TO SUPPORT HIS ARGUMENT.

NO WITNESSES WERE PRODUCED AGAINST HIM, HOWEVER, AND HE SAYS HE HAD NO CHANCE TO REFUTE SPECIFICALLY THE INFORMATION GIVEN BY ANONYMOUS INFORMANTS.

ONE MONTH AFTER THE THREE-DAY HEARING, THE SPECIAL BOARD WHICH HAD LISTENED TO THE EVIDENCE RULED AGAINST HIM.

AT THIS POINT, GREENE, WORKING AS A DRAFTSMAN IN ANNAPOLIS FOR $2,000 A YEAR, DECIDED TO APPEAL THE RULING.

THE FIRST TWO ROUNDS CAME OFF IN U.S. DISTRICT COURT AND THE CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS AND HE LOST BOTH.

HE CARRIED THE FIGHT TO THE SUPREME COURT, AND IN 1963 THE COURT STRUCK DOWN THE INDUSTRIAL SECURITY PROGRAM UNDER WHICH HE HAD BEEN DENIED CLEARANCE.

CHIEF JUSTICE EARL WARREN, WRITING THE MAJORITY OPINION, SAID GREENE'S HEARING "FAILED TO COMPORT WITH OUR TRADITIONAL IDEAS OF FAIR PROCEDURE."

HAVING WON THE CASE, GREENE SOUGHT TO REGAIN THE $40,000 HE FIGURED HE HAD LOST BECAUSE OF LOSING HIS JOB. THE GOVERNMENT REFUSED TO PAY, AND HE AGAIN WENT TO COURT.

ON FEB. 17 THIS YEAR, THE SUPREME COURT AGAIN RULED IN HIS FAVOR AND SENT THE CASE BACK TO THE COURT OF CLAIMS TO DETERMINE THE AMOUNT OF THE SETTLEMENT.

LOOKING BACK, GREENE RECALLS WITH SATISFACTION THE WAY MOST OF HIS FRIENDS STUCK BY HIM.

CHIEF JUSTICE EARL WARREN, WRITING THE MAJORITY OPINION, SAID GREENE'S HEARING "FAILED TO COMPORT WITH OUR TRADITIONAL IDEAS OF FAIR PROCEDURE."

HAVING WON THE CASE, GREENE SOUGHT TO REGAIN THE $40,000 HE FIGURED HE HAD LOST BECAUSE OF LOSING HIS JOB. THE GOVERNMENT REFUSED TO PAY, AND HE AGAIN WENT TO COURT.

ON FEB. 17 THIS YEAR, THE SUPREME COURT AGAIN RULED IN HIS FAVOR AND SENT THE CASE BACK TO THE COURT OF CLAIMS TO DETERMINE THE AMOUNT OF THE SETTLEMENT.

LOOKING BACK, GREENE RECALLS WITH SATISFACTION THE WAY MOST OF HIS FRIENDS STUCK BY HIM.

AT THE HEARING, HE WAS ALLOWED TO BRING WITNESSES AND INTRODUCE EVIDENCE. HE COUNTERED THE CHARGES WITH THE CONTENTION THAT HE HAD DISAGREED WITH HIS FIRST WIFE'S VIEWS AND INTRODUCED EVIDENCE. HE PRODUCED TESTIMONY BY HIS FRIENDS AND EMPLOYERS AND A NOTE FROM HIS EX-WIFE TO SUPPORT HIS ARGUMENT.

NO WITNESSES WERE PRODUCED AGAINST HIM, HOWEVER, AND HE SAYS HE HAD NO CHANCE TO REFUTE SPECIFICALLY THE INFORMATION GIVEN BY ANONYMOUS INFORMANTS.

ONE MONTH AFTER THE THREE-DAY HEARING, THE SPECIAL BOARD WHICH HAD LISTENED TO THE EVIDENCE RULED AGAINST HIM.

AT THIS POINT, GREENE, WORKING AS A DRAFTSMAN IN ANNAPOLIS FOR $2,000 A YEAR, DECIDED TO APPEAL THE RULING.

THE FIRST TWO ROUNDS CAME OFF IN U.S. DISTRICT COURT AND THE CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS AND HE LOST BOTH.

HE CARRIED THE FIGHT TO THE SUPREME COURT, AND IN 1963 THE COURT STRUCK DOWN THE INDUSTRIAL SECURITY PROGRAM UNDER WHICH HE HAD BEEN DENIED CLEARANCE.
