When History Happens To Us

Last Thursday evening, at United Nations headquarters, Foreign Minister Subandono of Indonesia formally handed to Secretary General Thant a letter...

Not many of us ever expected to live to see the day when the possibility of a restoration of Soviet Russia's influence in some corner of the world far from its own borders might be hailed as good news.

But that is the way it is, today, as we read the news of the restoration of Russia's influence in some corner of the world far from its own borders...

So, with fingers crossed, that's the way it has come to be. News of possible Russian restoration of influence in North Vietnam makes pleasant reading.

Let's not awaken with the pleasure of the United States or France in South Vietnam—this is still a horrible and an inhumanly disastrous way to try to run the world.

Humans Can Be Machines. The computers, bless them, are beginning to teach our scientists things...

And it, they began to collect data and figure it out and notice that human beings, too, could suffer indignation...

— Business Bodies —

John P. Lukens, director of Connecticut Youth Commission, will speak Tuesday at 8 p.m. at a special meeting of Manchester Inter-faith Social Action Council at St. Bartholomew School, 736 E. Middle Tpke. His subject will be "Youth Problems."

"A milestone in your lives . . . proud of your many years of loyal, devoted service . . . wish that you would accept this little token of our appreciation." Phrases very familiar to us all to Harold S. House (center) of 26 Byron Rd. and Howard J. Blake (right) of 131 Avery St., these words have suddenly become personal and meaningful. For House, it all started back on April 13, 1910, Good Friday, at Henry Case's old machine shop on Gardner St. Now after 54 years with the Case Bros. organization, a master mechanic who has had little time for his favorite recreation, fishing, he turns past the milestone into a field where every step isn't measured in hours and minutes. For Blake, chief chemist at the Case Bros. Inc. mill at East Hartford, it means more time for gardening and fishing. After a long career in paper chemistry, he retires from 12 years of research and development at the Case laboratories, during which time he instituted the present system of quality control. As though to remind the two that in this electronic age even the peaceful passage of time ahead has become transistorized and automated, Wells Dennison, president of Case Bros., presents both with automatic, transistor wristwatches. Expansion and modernization of the main offices of the Savings Bank of Manchester at 928 Main St. are proceeding fairly well along the original schedule, according to William Johnson, treasurer, who is in charge of the operation. He expects the elevator to be functional within two weeks and the second floor mortgage department to be completed by Feb. 15. Further work such as the complete renovation of the lobby and relocation or expansion of various departments, including the creation of a new board of directors room, is slated for completion by mid-April.

The first self-service car wash drive-in in Manchester and possibly in Connecticut opened this week on W. Middle Tpke. at the Parkade next to the Connecticut Bank & Trust Co. branch office. For 25 cents, a motorist can obtain a five-minute spray of either shampoo mixture or a hot rinsing wash, alternating from one to the other at will. The novel service will be available to motorists 24 hours a day every day in the year.

Rec to Organize Pellet Rifle Club

The Recreation Division of the Park and Recreation Department will organize a pellet rifle club in each of the three recreation centers.

The club will be open for boys 10 through 15. Fredrick Hunt, a past National Rifle Association instructor, will be in charge of this activity. Participants must be members of the Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut before joining Putnam, Coffin & Burr.

Understanding the rifle and the importance of learning the "safety" rules will be stressed, as well as actual rifle target firing. As the class progresses it is hoped that movies will be available to be shown to the club participants.

The schedule for this activity will be as follows: Monday at the West Side Center, Tuesday at the East Side Center and Wednesday at the Community "Y." This program will start at 8:30 to 8:30 p.m. in each building on the designated evenings. All boys interested should report to the building nearest to his home. For further information call the Recreation Office, 22 School St.

Claims 'Ulysses' Had 5 Authors

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The Rev. John M. Ellison, speaking to a Yale University conference on computers Friday night, said he could prove that James Joyce's novel "Ulysses" was written by five different authors.

Or at least, he said, a computer could.

The Rev. Mr. Ellison, rector of the Parish of the Epiphany in Winchester, Mass., contended that machines were limited in their ability to determine who wrote what.

He took another example work done by the Rev. A. Q. Morton of Scotland, who fed seven key words into a computer and concluded that St. Paul did not write all the Epistles.

The Rev. Mr. Ellison, using the same key words, compared two of Rev. Morton's works and found they could also have been written by different persons.

Shrine Club Taps Forbes

William Forbes of 231 McKee St. last night was elected president of Omar Shrine Club. He succeeds Harold E. Turkington. The annual meeting was held at Manchester Country Club.

Forbes and his associate officers and directors were elected after the membership approved a bylaws change affecting the election of those officers. Directors were elected to serve staggered terms of one, two and three years, so that at future annual meetings two vacancies will be created on the board. The officers will consist of two vice presidents, a secretary and treasurer, plus the president.

Succeeding Forbes as first vice president is Gerald Millington, who had been second vice president. The latter position was filled by the election of Thomas F. Ferguson. Re-elected were Raymond Bogus, secretary; and Stanley Baldwin, treasurer.

Directorships, and their terms, will be served by Jorma Nurmi and Willard Dickenson, three years; Albert Heavisdie and Alfred Currie, two years; and Russell Prentice and John Rieg, one year.

Fred Becher of Wethersfield, newly elected illustrious potentate of Sphinx Temple was accompanied to Omar's meeting by three divan officers and his chief aide. They are Stanley Peterson, chief rabban; Tom J. Lilley, assistant rabban; Wallace G. Bailey, recorder; and Porter Pratt, chief aide. Each officer spoke briefly about his responsibilities for the year. Lilley was appointed divan representative to Omar.

President Forbes, after presenting a past president's pin to Turkington, made the following appointments: Harold Barnaley, Omar chaplain; York Strangfield, chairman of kiddies show for the Shrine Circus; Barnaley and Rieg, co-chairmen of the annual visitation to the Shrine's Crippled Children's Hospital in Springfield; Ferguson, Prentice and Turkington, Block Island Cruise committee.

Forbes is sales engineer for Parker-Hartford Corp. of Windsor. In public life, he is a member of the town development commission, and has served on the GOP town committee and is a former District 2 chairman. For 30 years he was drum major of the Manchester Pipe Band, the Kitties.

He became a Mason in Wick, Scotland, joining St. Fergus Lodge, which is a Scottish Rites (32nd degree) Mason; a past grand Tall Cedar (1952) of Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon; a member of Sphinx Temple; and drum major of Sphinx Temple Band for four years.

Forbes also belongs to Loyal Orange Lodge, and is a past president of Washington Social Club.

He is married to the former Margaret Stevenson, and the couple has two sons, William Jr., at home; and Douglas, a pipe with the U. S. Air Force Pipe Band.

Forbes has called a meeting of his officers and directors for Wednesday, Feb. 3, at his home; the next Omar meeting will be Feb. 26 at Manchester Club.

By JOAN CROSSBY
NEW YORK (NEA) — When Ronny Howard found out he was having lunch with another baseball fan he said, "Mom told me that it was all right to talk about baseball, but not to make it the whole topic of conversation. But you won't mind, will you?"

Ronny, the 10-year-old red-head who began playing Opie on The Andy Griffith Show on CBS when he was six, may be the biggest baseball fan in the country. He has been interested in the game for only a little over a year, but he has amassed an amazing fund of knowledge of both rules and the players. "I had 625 baseball cards this year. Maybe I even had 630, because I don't count them at the end. I had all the Dodger cards out in 1964. I don't understand why Maury Wills doesn't like to have his picture taken for baseball cards. Practically all the players do, including managers.

Lost Record Book
"When I was doing the Fugitive earlier this year, I had a baseball record book I was reading. I took it on the set and left it there. I have never forgiven myself for that. I was given Mickey Mantle's book, 'The Quality of Courage' for Christmas. It's his version of what courage is. I'm not a Yankee fan, but I like Mantle."

There is a baseball diamond in the Howard backyard in Burbank, Calif., where Ronny, his five-year-old brother Clint (of The Ballies of Balboa) and their father Rance, take turns hitting a rubber ball.

Ronny plans to try out for Little League this season, on his way to a future which combines acting and athletics.

Actor and Player, Too
"I want to stay an actor, but I have figured out I can be a baseball player and still act during the off-season. If I'm a real good baseball player, I won't need more than a week of spring training, so that won't take too much time."

Ronny watches the Griffith show, to judge his performance, he said in a brief moment of discussion about acting.

"When I watch, if what I do could be improved, then I feel I wish I could improve it. If I do a good job, I'm quite satisfied. I'm quite a critic. Do you think the Mets are going to trade for Aaron?"

Chuck Connors stars in NBC's new series, 'Branded' Sunday's 8:30-9 p.m.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "The Magnificent Yankee," the story of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. Miss Fontanne plays his wife. The drama will be telecast on NBC Thursday from 9:30-11 p.m.

Is 'Peyton' 'Sexial' or Soap Opera?

NEW YORK (AP) — Ever since ABC's evening dramatic serial, "Peyton Place," turned into one of the season's hit shows there have been rumblings about its spicy, daring themes.

The trade paper Variety coined a new word "Sexial," for the serial and reported that in at least one community a movement is under way to persuade the local television station to discontinue it.

"Peyton Place" does have some situations rarely encountered in "The Donna Reed Show" or "The Munsters."

But the ripples caused by the show's plots and subplots could only have been made by persons unaware of what has been going on for years in the daytime serials.

A friend who keeps an eye on a half dozen of them finds "Peyton Place" pretty mild stuff. In one of the daily diversions, a girl graduate of reform school and prison has married a nice young man for money but continues to have an affair with the thief with whom she once lived and by whom she is having a child.

In another, a girl in love with a fellow who was recently acquitted of murdering his wife lost the child she was having by him.

In another the characters have had affairs, divorces, illegitimate children and been subjected to more savage assaults. Scattered through most have been murder trials.

"Peyton Place" characters, as measured by the daytime soap opera yardstick, obviously are about as naughty as Elsie Dinsmore.

Maybe the critics had better take a look at daytime television before they get too excited about the evening version of the classic soap opera.

Backstage with Fairbanks Jr.

NEW YORK (AP) — Douglas Fairbanks Jr. became an actor at the age of 14 and a motion picture star at 22. Although a variety of things, including business and diplomacy, seem to fascinate him more, he has never been far away from show business.

Fairbanks, whose television appearances occur at about 18 month intervals nowadays, will soon appear as host and narrator of a series of four ABC "Preview" specials.

They will take a backstage look at assorted show business events.

The first, on Feb. 4, follows the creative activity involved in the new Anthony Newley musical being produced for Broadway.

"Actually I was very much involved in television for about four years, when we turned out over 160 half-hour shows," Fairbanks said. "And I must say that in the early, creative days of the series — perhaps even the first two years — it was very stimulating and exciting. But time catches up and it became harder and harder to get stories — I was glad to stop."

Fairbanks' present series came about because the company sponsoring the series was "a sort of client" of one of his business interests.

Now 55, Fairbanks and his wife maintain a New York apartment and a home in England.

His business interests include a string of European bowling alleys, a self-lighting cigarette now being test-marketed in Europe, hotels and motels, and a ball point pen company.

His famous name, he said, helped him in his performing career, and has certainly been no drawback in business. But it made things tough during his World War II Navy service.

"Sometimes it was downright unpleasant," he admitted. "The other men would suggest that it would be hard for an actor to get publicity in the kind of service we were in, and I would find myself assigned to the least attractive jobs."

"The worst part of that was that I had to accept everything pleasantly, and didn't dare grouse like everybody else. It took awhile, but finally they'd believe I was there for the same reason they were, and they'd accept me and everything would be fine."

MUSICAL DEBUT

Julie Newmar of "My Living Doll" made her debut on Broadway in Cole Porter's "Silk Stockings" and later played Stupefying Jones in "Li'l Abner."

King Family (36) Launches Program

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Kings go forth next Saturday night in a mass family invasion unprecedented in television.

The Goldbergs and One Man's Family were pikers compared to the kings, who will be starting in their own Saturday night series over ABC. The total: 36, ranging from 79-year-old Daddy King to a 2-year-old grandson.

The show is called "The King Family," a misnomer because that isn't their name at all. The patriarch is William King Driggs, and when four of his daughters went into show business as a singing group, they dubbed themselves the King Sisters.

There are six daughters and two sons in all, and they have produced a total of 22 offspring. The population explosion will be seen in its entirety on television. Well, almost.

"We had one dropout," reported Marilyn, one of the sisters. "Chris, one of the grandchildren who is 13, decided he didn't want to leave school for the show."

Getting the clan together was a problem in logistics that might have staggered the U.S. Army. Three of the grandsons were overseas on missions for the Mormon Church, and they are coming home from Australia, South Africa and Germany. The schedule had to be arranged to accommodate husbands who are retaining their daily jobs.

All of the grandchildren except Chris had to be taken out of school; they will be privately tutored in the rehearsal hall next door to the Hollywood Palace, where the show is taped. Fortunately, most of the family lives in the nearby San Fernando Valley. But Louise and her husband Alvino Rey — he will be handling the orchestra — had just moved to Oxnard on the coast; they had to rent a Hollywood apartment.

The only out-of-towners are Bonnie and announcer-husband Del Courtney, who live near San Francisco and will have to commute. But Bonnie can't complain — she started the whole enterprise.

The King Sisters became a famous act after starting with Horace Heidt's band 20-odd years ago. They remained as a team, two younger sisters substituting when others dropped out to have children. Baby production became so frequent in the late 1940s that a quorum couldn't be raised for the quartet. The girls retired.

In 1954 the King Sisters regrouped to sing on a local television show and since then have played night clubs and television regularly.

"But it wasn't until Bonnie was raising some money for her church up north that we all got together," said Marilyn. "She invited the whole family up to perform, and the show raised $5,000. Next, we were asked to fly up to Brigham Young University to repeat the show, and we got a standing ovation at the close."

The university's television department taped the show, and it was shown to ABC, which did a special on the Kings last summer. Viewers were asked if they would like to see the family on weekly television. The response: 60,000 letters.

The enterprise has grown so large that the entire clan had to meet last week and form a corporation. Bonnie was elected president. The name of the corporation? R's called Kingfam.

Coming Shows

"The Trial at Nuremberg," a series of documentaries on the trial of Nazis charged with mass murder will start on Channel 3 Wednesday at 9:30 p.m.

Jacques Cartier, executive director of the Hartford Stage Company, will present scenes from two Company plays on "Channel 24 Report" Thursday at 9 p.m.

"The French Revolution," a special telecast on the turbulent 12 years on French history will be telecast Tuesday 10-11 p.m. on NBC.

Elvis Presley stars in "Follow that Dream" tomorrow night 9-11 on ABC.

"Lady Windermere's Fan," the first silent film in which Ronald Coleman starred, will be presented Friday at 10 p.m. on Channel 24's "The Toy that Grew Up."

A report on the intrigues of gem thieves and their "fences" will be broadcast by CBS Monday 10-11 p.m.

A new opera by Gian-Carlo Menotti, "Martin's Lie," will be shown by CBS tomorrow from 9-10 p.m. Menotti wrote the Christmas opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

A filmed report on changes in Red China since the 1949 revolution will be telecast Monday at 9 p.m. on Channel 24.

Fire Destroys Landmark in Vernon Center

Herald Photographer Joseph Saternis was at the scene Saturday when fire destroyed the First Congregational Church of Vernon. He took the above shot as the steeple of the structure fell. The 139-year-old building burned to the ground but plans are already under way for the construction of a new church. (Story on page five.)

Pope Names 27 Cardinals; 103 Total Highest in History

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI named 27 new Roman Catholic cardinals today, including three from Communist lands and one from the United States. This raised the membership of the Sacred College to 108, the largest in history. Archbishop Lawrence Joseph Shehan of Baltimore, Md., was the only U.S. prelate among the new cardinals, the first named by Pope Paul since he became pontiff in June 1963. They will formally be elevated to the purple at a consistory Feb. 22. Pope Paul's nominations were in line with policies that have become evident in his reign. He has opened a dialogue with Communist countries while continuing to denounce Marxist ideology. Today he named the first three Roman Catholic cardinals from Communist countries since a 1953 consistory held by Pope Pius XII. One of the nominations was of Josef Beran of Prague, Czechoslovakia — a clear challenge to red officials who have restricted his activities. Other new cardinals are: Maurice Roy, archbishop of Quebec, Canada; Owen McCann, archbishop of Cape Town, South Africa; Lorenz Jaeger, of Rouen of Paderborn, Germany; Joseph Marie Martin, archbishop of Rouen, France; Franjo Seper, archbishop of Zagreb, Yugoslavia; John Heenan, archbishop of Westminster, England. Jean Villot, archbishop of

Lyon, France; William Conway, archbishop of Armagh, Ireland; Agnelo Rossi, archbishop of Sao Paulo, Brazil; Maximos IV Saigh, Melchite patriarch of Antioch; Paul Pierre Meouchi, Maronite patriarch of Antioch; Stephanos I Siderakis, Coptic patriarch of Alexandria; Josef Slipyi, archbishop of Lvov, Poland, and primate of Ukrainian Catholics; Thomas B. Cooray, archbishop of Colombo, Ceylon; Leon-Etienne Duval, archbishop of Algiers; archbishop Giovanni Colombo of Milan, Italy; Archbishop Ermesegildo Florit of Florence, Italy. Paul Zougrana, archbishop of Ouagadougou, Upper Volta; Enrico Dante, archbishop pre-

LBJ Much Improved, May Attend Funeral

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's physicians reported today that his condition has improved a great deal, a White House spokesman said late this morning. But there was still no indication whether he would be able to carry out his stated desire to attend Sir Winston Churchill's funeral in London Saturday. Nor was there any new information on how long the President would remain at Bethesda Naval Hospital fighting the remnants of a cold that hit Friday afternoon and put him in the hospital early Saturday. David Waters, an assistant White House press secretary, said that since a 3 a.m. temperature reading of 99.2, subsequent checks of the President have shown normal readings. Waters, reporting on Johnson's condition, said that the doctors characterize his condition as having improved "a great deal."

40 More Cadets May Be Leaving U.S. Air Academy

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—It was reported that 40 more cadets were leaving the U.S. Air Force Academy today as a result of the widening cheating scandal. The report came from a responsible source although it was not confirmed by the Public Information Office. The Air Force has said more than 100 cadets may be involved before the investigation is ended. A special investigative board called to the academy interviewed cadets in streams today, with reports 700 of the more than 2,500 in the wing may be questioned. Col. Highlights Of Message

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here are textual highlights of President Johnson's budget message to Congress today: — The budget supports a massive defense establishment of steadily growing power, within reduced outlays. — Our international and space programs are being advanced at a satisfactory rate, but with smaller increases than in earlier years. — A large part of the funds for needed program expansion has come from savings, reductions and economies in other parts of the budget. — Total administrative budget expenditures are being held to $99.7 billion in 1966. Although expenditures will rise they will decline as a per cent of the Gross National Product — to less than 15 per cent, the lowest ratio achieved in 15 years. — Administrative budget receipts are expected to increase in 1966 to $94.4 billion. This is $3.2 billion over the estimated level for 1965. The resulting deficit of $5.3 billion is a billion dollars lower than the 1965 deficit, marking continued progress toward a balanced budget. — On a consolidated cash basis, total payments to the public are estimated at $127.4 billion in 1966. Total receipts are estimated at $122.5 billion, resulting in

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson told Congress today the first year of his "Great Society" will cost the nation a record $99.7 billion. The President's budget message for fiscal 1966 — which he hinted may be the last U.S. budget below $100 billion — called for: — A $1.75-billion cut in excise taxes, without naming those to be reduced or repealed. — A $2.1-billion increase in all Social Security cash benefits this year, amounting to 7 per cent on the average, but followed by a steep rise in the payroll tax next year. — Hospital care for aged persons — perhaps 19 million citizens — with the taxpayers footing the bill for those not covered by Social Security. This would start in mid-1966. — Quadrupled spending in the war on poverty. Military and foreign aid outlays would be trimmed slightly, helping to reduce the budget deficit to $5.3 billion, or a billion dollars less than this year's red-ink spending. But federal outlays for education would be increased by more than 75 per cent, to $2.7 billion in the fiscal year starting next July 1 because, as Johnson explained, "it (education) is our primary weapon in the war on poverty and the principal tool for building a Great Society." He estimated that government revenues would total $94.4 billion, also a record. This would mean a $3.2-billion rise in tax collections from 1964 to 1965, generated by an unprecedented fifth consecutive year of strong business expansion. The President predicted a record prosperity for this calendar year — a prosperity with these dimensions: National output at $60 billion, a gain of nearly $33 billion; corporation profits at $61 billion, up nearly $4 billion; personal incomes rising to $50 billion, up 8 per cent. The word "frugal," used repeatedly in last year's budget message, did not appear in this one. The new budget, said Johnson, is one of "both opportunity and sacrifice"; he went on: "It begins to grasp the opportunities of the Great Society. It is restrained by the sacrifices we must continue to make to keep our defenses strong and flexible." "This budget provides reasonably for our needs. It is not extravagant. Neither is it miserly." But the cost-cutting and pay-rolling emphasis of a year ago was diluted, in today's message, by what Johnson called "the rising need for more public and private services" resulting from an increasing population, growing incomes and changing ways of life. The budget provides, in fact, for a 1 per cent increase in the number of civilian employees. "It is evident," Johnson conceded, "that unless defenses needs should decline substantially, government expenditures will continue to rise over the long run." But the costs will rise less rapidly than the nation's ability to meet them, Johnson said. Despite the 1966 increase, he said, federal spending will decline in relation to the Gross National Product — to less than 15 per cent, the lowest ratio achieved in 15 years. Nevertheless the federal debt will stand at an historic peak of $322.5 billion when the fiscal year has closed. Johnson served notice he will ask another increase in the debt ceiling fixed by Congress. These were among the highlights of the message: — Defense — Spending would be reduced to $49 billion from $49.3 billion. Yet Americans, he said, can be sure they will have "a massive defense establishment of steadily growing power, within reduced outlays." — Space — Big annual increases for space are being choked off. The proposed $200 million increase for 1966, to $5.1 billion, compares with rises averaging a billion dollars a year since 1960. The high-priority space targets are unchanged — a man on the moon by 1970 and, soon after, an unmanned probe for life on Mars. — Poverty — A four-fold increase in the anti-poverty programs will bring 1966 outlays to $1.3 billion. — Appalachia — Obviously confident of quick approval by Congress of his plan to attack "chronic poverty" in the U.S. state Appalachian region, Johnson conceded, "that unless defenses needs should decline substan-

— On a consolidated cash basis, total payments to the public are estimated at $127.4 billion in 1966. Total receipts are estimated at $122.5 billion, resulting in

Parliament Meets with Empty Seat

LONDON (AP)—Parliament met today — leaving Sir Winston Churchill's old seat empty — and approved Queen Elizabeth's request that the nation give the beloved elder statesman all the magnificence of a state funeral he planned for himself. The empty green leather seat which Sir Winston occupied in the last session of Parliament was the only vacant place in the packed House of Commons. Prime Minister Harold Wilson stood on the spot where Churchill stood for so many years as prime minister and said: "As Parliament succeeded Parliament he stood at this box at one time or another holding almost every one of the great offices of state." Wilson referred to the battered dispatch box that always sits on the table before prime ministers. "And he stood at the box opposite," Wilson said, "thundering denunciation of government after government." That reference was to another dispatch box which sits on the other side of the table before leaders of the opposition. Wilson heads Britain's governing Labor party. Churchill was one of the Conservative party's greatest leaders. "Sir Winston, following the steps of the most honored of his predecessors, derived his greatness from and through this House," Wilson said. The House and the galleries — with most members in black ties, the women in dark somber clothes — hung on his words. Churchill "added his unique contribution to the greatness of our centuries-old parliamentary institution," Wilson said. To the hushed House of Lords, the Earl of Longford, leader of that house, said: "Sir Winston was a House of Commons man, and it was his desire to spend his whole parliamentary life in that House. We in the House of Lords have, nonetheless, the duty and privilege of paying tribute to Sir Winston Churchill as a national leader and world statesman — and may I add — illustrious leader of the Conservative party." It was a generous tribute from an old Laborite opponent.

CHURCHILL ESTATE
LONDON (AP)—A friend of Sir Winston Churchill said today the size of his estate might come as a surprise. He is reported to have made at least a million pounds — $2.5 million — from his writings. A film of his life and recordings of his speeches brought additional money. The friend said that nearly all the big money he made from his books went to a trust fund for his grandchildren.

HIGH GREETED
TUSCON, Ariz. (AP)—Hundreds gathered today to tell the Johnson administration's "war on poverty" leaders of the need for federal aid to raise "living standards in the Southwest. A cheering crowd welcomed Vice President Hubert H. Hanes here at the airport, and up to 50 were expected to hear his address tonight.
