LBJ Voices Concern Over Voting Rights. WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, with direct allusion to Negro efforts to register in Alabama, urged all Americans today to join with him in expressing concern over the loss of any citizen's right to vote.

He hurriedly announced a conference of the President with Negro leaders today to discuss the voting rights of the nation that voting rights are secured for all citizens.

"I intend to see that right is secured," he said. Johnson's session with Negro leaders was conducted before live radio and television at the White House. It was his first pre-emptive deal with the question of voting rights.

Kosygin En Route to Hanoi. Presidential Aides Renew Viet Pledges. SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—President Johnson's aides today renewed their pledges to the Vietnamese people that the United States remains committed to the war here against communism.

"I can tell you plainly that the United States remains determined to work in partnership with you for the defeat of these aggressors," said presidential aide McGeorge Bundy in a statement on his arrival.

Bundy, Johnson's foreign policy adviser, arrived today on a three-day fact-finding trip on the Ho Chi Minh trail.

There were fears also that the Ho Chi Minh trail was a militant anti-religious sect, which today and set up picketed with some extremist Roman Catholic elements against the visit.

U.S. officials said no word on the president's mission. U.S. mission executive who died in 1965, chief of the Viet Nam, and John McLaughlin, assistant secretary of defense for security affairs.

By appt. he visited the Viet leaders in a spirit of goodwill. "I have reason to believe that the Viet leadership would welcome my visit to their country (applause) and that we would very likely do so (applause)," Johnson said.

Johnson pulled a surprise Wednesday night by proposing such a journey already in January in the works. And he coupled this with an equally firm expression of hope that the new Viet leaders would be the United States in 1966.

Bundy said that Johnson's proposed trip might further ease East-West tensions and deserved approval. Some observers said it certainly would do no harm.

Johnson's address at the Mark Twain Hotel, an arm of the U.S. job service organization, was interrupted twice.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's visit to Russia is expected to be a landmark in the history of U.S.-Soviet relations.

He is intimately acquainted with the New Haven's problems and has his job as supervisor of the railroad when he was in charge of the U.S. Court of Appeals last year.

The trustees, the R.R. Court, are expected to announce their decision on the New Haven's future.

Government By Recess?

The United Nations General Assembly met last Monday and accomplished this piece of business: It went into recess last Monday.

This was its way of avoiding any other type of action or business, which might require formal voting on the part of the members and which would, therefore, raise the question of the legal right of Russia and France and several other smaller nations to cast votes in the General Assembly.

The dispute at hand, whether nations like Russia and France, having refused to pay certain amounts made against them, shall be considered legally in arrears and therefore not entitled to a vote in the General Assembly, has been the subject of United Nations business all fall.

A reluctance to face up to the issue without some advance compromise settlement delayed the action on the part of the assembly. When it finally opened on Dec. 1, the session managed to conduct a little essential ritualistic business, like election of officers and members of the Council members, by a form of unanimous consent procedure, in which nobody was actually required to cast a formal vote.

Once it had done these things, the General Assembly found it safest to take a good long recess over the Christmas holidays, hoping some solution might appear.

And when, reconvening after the holidays, the headline action was to discuss the UN law, and Russia and France opposing it, it was no news a solution had been reached again had to be the motion to recess.

This time the recess was made a little differently. This time, if the General Assembly meets Monday with no assurance of a solution to the problem by agreement among the great powers, the Assembly will be prepared to wind up its necessary rituals and adjourn for a long season—perhaps even until next fall.

The simplest way to picture a complex issue is to take one of the United Nations peace-keeping operations for which both Russia and France have refused to pay their share. It was the peace-keeping operation in the Near East in 1956, when the United Nations was instrumental in halting the attack on Egypt. France was one of the nations doing the attacking. Russia was one of the nations backing United Nations intervention.

But, in the aftermath, the two nations which were on opposite sides in the controversy have taken similar views on the bill for the United Nations operation. Both France, which vetoed any UN action on Russia, and the Security Council, which backed UN action in the Security Council and in the General Assembly but with no assurance after the Security Council had been prevented by veto from acting, now claim that to have intervention finally ordered by the General Assembly rather than the Security Council was illegal procedure. Consequently, they claim, they are under no legal obligation to pay their assessed share of it. Let those who supported and favored the action pay for it.

Russia and France brush aside, as a small matter, the fact that the International Court of Justice has ruled that the assessments are legal obligations upon them.

As a way out of the actual money goes, there are any number of nations which would probably be glad enough to make up the deficit in the UN finances. The total amount is not, as modern national and world finances go, very large. The United States alone has had that generous on past occasions in about more than its own share of UN expenses in one operation or another.

Questions of money can always be compromised. Questions of principle are not so easily managed.

And the United States, perhaps with a little special zest for getting Russia on the opposite end of such an issue, has made this a question of principle. Once having made it a question of principle, the United States finds itself locked in with its own decision. It may be too bad to wreck the United Nations by insisting on such a principle. But it is too bad to see that the United Nations is wrecked if principle is not adhered to, and if United Nations rules are applied to some members but not to others.

There's the dilemma, as Washington faces it.

As many members of the UN itself see it, and as one North African delegate expressed it the other day, "Russia and America seem to be intent on proving that the Chinese are right on the need for an UN."

But the sterner simple and uncomplicated thing we all can see.

It is that a world organization, which needs to grow in power and influence and ability to affect the world from itself, is not going to grow when it limits itself to a series of motions to recess.

The Public Watch, And Pays The office at stake pays $50,000 a year.

The power of the office at stake is about as great as one can imagine. The man who holds it could quite conceivably alter the history of the nation and the world.

For the office involves leadership of the million workers who make the one and only ingredient in America's mechanized civilization—steel.

It is no wonder, then, that the campaign for this office is taking on the proportions, in effort, and in expense, of a major political campaign.

It will apparently cost the two candidates for the office in question—and their supporters—at least hundreds of thousands of dollars to complete their campaign for two years.

Aside from its intensity of effort, and its great expense, the campaign for the presidency of the United Steelworkers members, and which would, therefore, raise the question of the legal right of Russia and France and several other smaller nations to cast votes in the General Assembly.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

The two most notable national Republicans scheduled for the 1964 national election are two Republicans.

The first, Governor George Romney of Michigan, comes by direct invitation of the Connecticut party.

The second, Senator J. Lee Rankin of Rhode Island, is invited by one of those status-marked $100 a plate affairs, on Feb. 23, for the biggest single gathering of the political season.

And Governor John D. Chafee of Rhode Island, who was here as a keynote for the Republican last summer, and who can be described as the rather perfect image of the personality of the Connecticut party would be the speaker at a multi-town Lincoln Dinner in Manchester, Feb. 17.

The Mailbag 'KC' Broke Tradition in Newspapers

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) Every body needs a personal hero, someone to lift him above the limits of the ordinary and to demonstrate that higher human values can be won.

Leslie is the man who can find a hero in youth and still admire him as an adult. Such a hero to me was one who died this week at 34 and was known universally in the news world as "KC."

They are the initials of Kent Cooper, who for a quarter of a century was the "KC" of the world's largest press association.

Less well known to the general public than writers such as Ernie Pyle or Richard Harding Davis, Cooper already is a landmark figure in the history of modern journalism.

He was a tradition breaker, and an appreciator. He swept through the stodgy newspaper atmosphere of his day like a polar wind. He was a pioneer in the specific transmission of news, the humanization of the press — or, in his own apt phrase, the people's "right to know."

That is the way he'll go down in the textbooks. But it is as a man, not a symbol, that I like to remember KC, for whom I worked as a copy boy, a cub reporter, a city editor and a war correspondent.

My first meeting with him in New York in 1937 he already was a controversial legend. Like Gen. George S. Patton, whom he resembled in many ways, he was either extravagantly admired or extravagantly disliked.

When an underling was summoned to his presence after botching up a job, the office wisecracker advised him: "Don't be better to go in with your head in your hands. KC will cut it off for you."

But as an inspirer of loyalty, Cooper was in a class by himself. When he finished his pen talk he gave me before I went overseas, I felt that "The Associated Press" was branded on my forehead in iron letters, and I was ready to fight Adolf Hitler and his Nazi legions anywhere and in any language.

Quixotic in temperament, sometimes capricious in behavior, KC had a mind like a spherule, sometimes sparkling with wit and humor. But at other times they lit bonfires that still burn.

The other day I spent an hour alone with him, that here at the end of his life, he was still in the coffin was set in final pose, but I still felt the awe of him that I had felt since I went to work for him at 17.

An old-timer who had worked closely with him for many years came into the room.

"I can't think of him as being old," he said. "You know, he never really was at ease except with young people because they are the only ones who aren't really afraid of new ideas."

I think he would have enjoyed that as his epitaph.

Traffic Toll Sets Record

CHICAGO (AP) — A record traffic accident toll of 47,800 lives and $2.2 billion in economic losses last year was reported by the National Safety Council today.

The council contended in its report that prevention techniques are being applied "in a halfhearted, haphazard manner" in too many areas.

Andover Cub Scouts Win Badges At Meeting

Much activity in Cub Scout Pack 124 is indicated by the variety and number of awards given to the boys at recent pack meeting.

General Estabrook was awarded one gold and one silver arrow, the wolf badge and denner's stripe. Charles Stroschein received the bobcat badge; Tim Tyson, one gold and one silver arrow; Steven McGuire one silver arrow, and Peter Carlsson, one gold and two silver arrows.

Denner's stripes went to Bruce Urbin, John Van Roemer and David Hess. The pack will have a "Blue and Gold Banquet" for the February theme. A Blue and Gold Banquet will be held on Feb. 11 at 7 p.m. at the elementary school. A potluck supper will be served and each family will provide a hot casserole, salad or dessert and bring their own eating utensils. Entertainment will be in the form of a motion picture film on the program.

The next meeting of the cub scout committee will be on Feb. 12 at the home of James Tyson, Rt. 1.

Builders and individuals must be waiting for space to break through as no building permits were issued for the new building. Building Official Percy B. Cook during January. Only three covering small jobs were issued.

Mothers Club Meeting The February meeting of the Mothers Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Peter Man-ning, on York street, at 8 p.m. Wednesday at 8 p.m. The evening will be devoted to the presentation of a demonstration on occasion, with refreshments to follow.

Mrs. Maxwell Hutchinson Jr., a public relations officer for the group, has announced the committee chairmanship for the year. Program will be handled by Mrs. Peter Manning; ways and means, Mrs. B. J. Clark; Foreman, Mrs. Ralph H. Houghton; Mrs. Peter Mortlock; membership, Mrs. Richard Osborne; and well child, Mrs. J. J. Houghton.

Mothers of pre-school or elementary school children in town who have not been contacted about joining the club and would be interested in doing so should call Mrs. Richard Osborne, New Britain street, or also may be called if transportation is needed by anyone to attend a meeting of the club.

First Selectman Percy B. Cook has received word from the State Highway Department that work will begin on improving the corner of the New Britain road about highway maps as the Juroraty Connector. Just before the road to Juroraty Rd. forks to provide two entrances into New Britain which is designated as Highway 603 on state maps. This corner has been considered a danger spot for some time. The sharp curve denies the motorist coming from the Shelton-Etobrook direction any indication of a motor vehicle about to enter Juroraty Rd. The motorist entering that road likewise has little or no time to know that a vehicle is continuing its course toward Shelton Rd.

The Highway Department stated while the work is in progress there will have to be periodic detours of traffic at certain points on the road.

Refugees Tell Of Vietnams Street Fighting BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—A young French refugee from Laos who arrived in Bangkok without shoes, told today of the fierce street fighting in Vietnams between rival right-wing armed forces.

Michel Barth, 26, manager of a French business firm in Vietnams, fled with his wife and two young daughters, bringing with them only the clothes they wore.

"Nobody thought there would be shooting," Barth said. "Everybody was sure there would be some agreement."

Barth said loyalist troops in yellow scarves and rebel forces in blue scarves appeared relaxed early.

But later, he said, two armed men came to the door and crews pulled up in front of the building where Barth worked and suddenly began firing toward the National Stadium.

Barth said that triggered a furious fight along the street, with both sides opening up with automatic weapons. He said he saw cannon and rocket launchers.

Barth said he and his family sought cover in the first floor of the building.

Barth said the building, which also is the Pan American World Airways office, the tallest adjacent buildings burned down.

He said he and his family used side streets to get to the Malong River promenade.

By escaping, Barth said, he and his family were spared the Malong in Thailand.

Barth gave Paris as his home town.

UConn Expert Going to USSR To Study Aged

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — When a teacher at the Maple Avenue School assigned her class to write letters to famous persons recently, most of the class wrote to imaginary persons.

But Ellen Rader, 13, decided to use the occasion to write a letter to President Johnson to ask him why her dad had not received a Distinguished Flying Cross.

Ellen called the aid of her older sister Sheila, 16, and sent the letter off.

"Daddy had told us that he had won the Distinguished Flying Cross but didn't have one to prove it. I wanted him to have it," Ellen explained yesterday.

Sen. Dirksen Defends LBJ's Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — As he has done before when the chips were down, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has stepped into to defend President Johnson's right to conduct the nation's foreign affairs.

In a one-man testimonial to the bipartisan foreign policy, the Illinois senator treated his colleagues Wednesday to an old-fashioned lecture on the Constitution's separation of powers.

Dirksen said, cannot make foreign policy as the House tried to do by writing into an appropriations bill now before the Senate a ban on the shipment of surplus foodstuffs to Egypt.

He supported a proposed Senate revision which would have the final decision in Johnson's hands — a modifying amendment which the Senate approved Wednesday night 44 to 10.

It was a typical Dirksen performance, replete with gestures. There is evidence that Dirksen has made considerable progress in this field and I would like to see if there's anything they're doing that we could adapt for our own use.

Dirksen said his desk was "cluttered with letters" from vitriolic citizens who advocated cracking down on Nasser. The senator returned to his seat, he said, that "that's the way to get peace" — peace with a baseball bat.

"I'm not going to be deflected away by him," he said. "We got up out here in Asia and then he embroiled in another place in the Middle East. He continued that 'propaganda blunder' in dealing with Egypt could involve the United States in trouble here 'when there's enough trouble' in Viet Nam.

There was another bit of vitriol, he continued, "in the old biblical admonition to turn the other cheek" as well "in the admonition that has come rolling down the corridor of time. 'Let not the sun set on your anger.'"

Daughter's Letter Gets Dad Distinguished Flying Cross

Rockville-Vernon Overtaxing Is Charged By Democrat

Democratic candidate for mayor Thomas J. McCaicker has charged that Republican town officials have overtaxed taxpayers so that the town surplus has reached a quarter of a million dollars.

In that first statement issued in advance of the coming town elections, March 3, McCaicker noted that "the contrast between our approach and that of the opposition is startling."

The Democratic Party contends that it was the responsibility of the opposition to lead in controlling taxes. McCaicker said that the opposition is the party to insist on holding down expenses, to a necessary minimum, as we feel the Democratic record indicates.

Deputy Mayor Vernon Peterson announced that Spring Pond Park will be dedicated to Veterans Memorial Park on the 10th of the month.

Fire Commissioners Okay Buying Second Fire Truck

Vermon's Fire District commissioners last night unanimously approved the purchase of a second fire truck for the fire district.

The move followed a meeting Tuesday with representatives of the district's three fire companies who requested purchase of a second truck. One fire truck has already been purchased by the commissioners.

A special district meeting, called for Feb. 18, will be called to give district residents the opportunity to consider purchase of a second truck.

John Lehan, commission chairman, previously noted that commissioners favored the purchase of two trucks.

At Tuesday's meeting, firemen said they favored purchase of two trucks because present vehicles are troublesome, and the money to be used for the purchase of a second truck would result from the purchase of one of two trucks.

Dempsey Raps R.R. Trustees

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. John N. Dempsey scolded the New Haven Railroad trustees today for what he called major concern "to protect the railroad's creditors... and not enough interest to protect the public" against service curtailment. The governor criticized the trustees at his press conference today. There is a strong voice expressed here to protect the railroad's creditors and the weather man says it should arrive later today or tonight. The warning trend has set in across the nation's mid-section later today and tonight. A weak storm center will pass to the north late tonight and early Saturday, and light snow now occurring with it will move through northern New England tonight.

Snow, Ships Combine in Unusual Pattern

Relics of World War I—hunks of ships abandoned in the Potomac River—combine with a new covering of snow to form this unusual pattern discovered in an aerial photo. The ships, long since burned to the waterline, have been in the river off the Charles County side, since 1924. They were floated there for salvage by a Delaware firm dissolved in 1932.

Gemini Project Speeds Up, Shot May Go Next Month

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — A week after this spacecraft that is scheduled for launch in the next few days, the Gemini project is speeding up. The Gemini program is picking up steam. Other bills filed Thursday would make America's first two-man space trip next month, instead of in April. Three more manned crews may follow them into orbit during 1965. NASA normally keeps until 14 months behind schedule. Sources said that checkouts of the Titan 2 booster and the spacecraft were progressing so well that Gemini 2 could be launched as early as March 23. A small problem that could push the flight back into April. There was no official NASA comment.

Variety of Legislation Introduced in Assembly

HARTFORD (AP)—Rep. Lawrence J. Ciccolini, D-Middletown, introduced a bill Thursday to reimburse four state employees for expenses incurred while defending themselves against charges brought during an investigation of the Rights of Way Division of the Highway Department. The four men were suspended from their jobs pending the outcome of their cases. One was acquitted, and the other three were eventually dropped. Under the bill introduced Thursday Robert H. Kulp of East Haddam, James J. DeLoach of Franklin J. Aldridge of Meriden, 35,125, Donald Lewis of Newington, 33,325 and Angelo V. Arcoce of Middletown, 31,025.00. Louis J. Padua, R-Norwalk, House majority leader, introduced two bills that would establish an Institute of Materials Science and Engineering at the University of Connecticut. One bill authorizes bonding of up to $3,000,000 for the institute.

Pretty Much Family Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—People around the world may be mystified over the great hue and cry concerning the World's Fair. People around New York are mystified, too. The situation is this: As fair goers, the billion-dollar New York venture went over pretty well last year — but not as well as the rest of the nation — and probably will again this season. Most visitors have enjoyed it. The fair and the redoubtable Robert Moses. This Saturday Moses is president of the fair and eagle-eyed supervising planner, planner and promoter of public works projects costing many billions of dollars since the past 40 years or so. What Moses wants done generally gets done, even though it might take him 40 years to get it done. An example: The recent completion of the Narrows Bridge, linking Brooklyn and Staten Island. That one took just about 40. He also has worn numerous hats all at the same time in the building of highways, parkways, parks, power plants, public beaches and almost anything that he thinks is needed now or in 40 years to come. He is a man accustomed to running the show his own way, and he does not take kindly to any criticism about the way he is being opposed by New York's party-treasurer I. W. Abel. Now, back to the World's Fair. All the current flap and commotion over the fair is largely the result of the fact that paid admissions during the six months last year were $244,282. The actual figure for the first six months of this year is $244,282. Several unanticipated developments had an adverse effect on the gate. Among them were bad weather during the opening weeks, and then widely circulated reports of New York's

More Selma Arrests Today End Hopes for Racial Peace

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Selma was stopped by Clark who arrested them. The Negro leaders, each carrying a petition to the registrars office for the chairman of the board of registrars refused to operate on a daily basis. The petition called for the county registrars and Mayor Joseph T. Smitherman to begin the short-term order by State Judge James A. Hare banning demonstrations around the building. Vivian told Clark: "We are here to present our selves to the Board of Registrars." "I order you to disperse, or I'm placing you under arrest," Clark said. Vivian led the group of Negroes in prayer and then Clark ordered requiring faster registration procedures. A group of congressmen were headed to Selma and civil rights leaders said a voter registration drive must be faster processing of the delegation from other states. The Rev. James Bevel, who conferred with King in a jail cell, said that King decided there must be faster processing of Negro applicants by the Board of Registrars. Racial unrest began simmering anew despite a federal court

Bundy, Khanh Meet In 'Warm' Session

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—McGeorge Bundy, special presidential field finder, met today with strong man Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh in what was described as a warm and cordial session. U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, with whom Khanh has often quarreled, also attended. The session had been postponed for a time at U.S. request because of the reluctance of a new cabinet and the military. Bundy and Khanh met in the morning at the U.S. Embassy. Bundy and his party arrived Thursday and spent the day in talks with American Embassy officials. The discussions reportedly covered the whole range of Vietnam's political and military situation. Khanh and his staff reported they were trying to organize the 20-member mixed civilian and military council which he said would become the nucleus of a new government. Khanh, who ousted Premier Tran Van Huong in a bloodless coup Jan. 27, said he did not intend to participate directly in the new government itself. Khanh said the council he was organizing would have representatives of Viet Nam's four major religions — Buddhism and Catholicism, and the military. But neither Buddhists nor Catholics have shown much enthusiasm for participating. Catholic leaders have said they had no objection to Buddhist leaders also have been unwilling to name themselves as members of the council. Khanh has stipulated that his own military council, would set the mechanics of a new constitutional assembly, serving in the meantime as the executive body to the government. The current caretaker cabinet led by the same Khanh, who served before the coup, except 21, said he did not intend to participate directly in the new government itself.

Laos Deputy Now Called Hunted Man

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Premier Phoumi Savanah Phoumi emerged today as Laos' strongest man but once the powerful deputy premier, Gen. Phoumi Nouvan, is described as a fugitive in the jungle with a handful of policemen. A sharp turn of events after the week's fighting in the tiny kingdom has left Phoumi with the major role he held as right-wing leader in the shaky neutralist-rightist coalition government headed by neutralist Premier Souvanna. The announcement followed repeated Communist charges that the United States is staging secret air and sea strikes against North Viet Nam. The United States has denied the charges.

The Democratic party accused Chairman William H. McKoon of helping to prolong the bitter intra-party struggle that prevented the party from electing a majority leader in the legislature until Republican legislators stepped in this week.

World's Fair Hassle Mystifying to Many NEW YORK (AP)—People around the world may be mystified over the great hue and cry concerning the World's Fair. People around New York are mystified, too. The situation is this: As fair goers, the billion-dollar New York venture went over pretty well last year — but not as well as the rest of the nation — and probably will again this season. Most visitors have enjoyed it. The fair and the redoubtable Robert Moses. This Saturday Moses is president of the fair and eagle-eyed supervising planner, planner and promoter of public works projects costing many billions of dollars since the past 40 years or so. What Moses wants done generally gets done, even though it might take him 40 years to get it done. An example: The recent completion of the Narrows Bridge, linking Brooklyn and Staten Island. That one took just about 40. He also has worn numerous hats all at the same time in the building of highways, parkways, parks, power plants, public beaches and almost anything that he thinks is needed now or in 40 years to come. He is a man accustomed to running the show his own way, and he does not take kindly to any criticism about the way he is being opposed by New York's party-treasurer I. W. Abel. Now, back to the World's Fair. All the current flap and commotion over the fair is largely the result of the fact that paid admissions during the six months last year were $244,282. The actual figure for the first six months of this year is $244,282. Several unanticipated developments had an adverse effect on the gate. Among them were bad weather during the opening weeks, and then widely circulated reports of New York's
