Hit and Run Autos Claim Two Victims

A town youth and a Middletown man were struck and killed by cars as they walked along the road in separate accidents over the weekend. Robert Allen Zwick, 14, a student at Hilling Junior High, died yesterday from injuries he received when he was struck by a car Saturday night on Woodbridge St. Lee Ruffin, 29, of Middletown, was killed by a car early this morning as he walked along the Wilbur Cross Highway in Vernon.

Nat 'King' Cole, 45, Victim of Cancer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Singer Nat King Cole, who underwent surgery for removal of a cancerous lung tumor Jan. 25, died today. He was 45. Cole, whose rich voice and bright piano style had made him one of the most popular musicians, was hospitalized last Dec. 8 for what was described as a respiratory ailment. At first it was thought he was recovering well but a spokesman at St. John's Hospital said his condition took a sharp turn for the worse last week.

NAT (KING) COLE

Twin Space Launch Scheduled at Cape

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A doubleheader space launching is scheduled here this week to learn more about the moon, how to get men there and the dangers they face along the way. A mighty Saturn I, believed to be the most powerful rocket in the world, is to rumble skyward at 8:30 a.m. (EST) Tuesday in an attempt to orbit an huge winged satellite named Pegasus to study the meteoroid hazard in space.

Events In State

Suspect Lost, Found Again In Short Order

HARTFORD (AP)—Federal marshals lost their man for a few minutes Sunday night, but quickly rounded him up again. Jose Suarez, 21, of Plainville, a suspect in two holdups at a Plainville Savings and loan office, bolted from a car as he was being transported to the state jail by three federal marshals.

1,000 Take Final March In Alabama

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—Nearly 1,000 Negroes converged on the Dallas County Courthouse today in a protest of slow voter registration, and the two leaders on opposite sides took their stands. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leading the demonstrators, stood on the outside of the courthouse looking in. Sheriff James G. Clark watched from a window in his office.

First Reports Received From 'Flying Colonels'

By ISAAC PUTNAM COHEN From decoded wireless messages and radio photos sent back by The Herald's correspondent aboard Flying Boxcar 611, the escapades and whereabouts of Colonel Air Force (Gen. George) Garman (Joe Garman) Washington, Adj. Gen. Fred (Do Little) Nassiff, and the "Seven Flying Colonels" can now be revealed to a breathless and anxious world.

Viet Battles Resume; New Government Seen

Reporter Saves Boy, Makes Own Story Reporter Edwin Holden of the Providence Journal-Bulletin's North Kingston, R. I., office not only got the news yesterday — he made it! Holden, a former Navy frogman spotted Richard McElveen, 11, on an ice floe in the frigid waters of Mill Cove. He waded and swam 75 yards to the lad and pushed him and the ice floe safely to shore. (AP Photofax.)

37 Actions In One Day Disclosed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Fighting has resumed on scattered fronts in Viet Nam after a comparative lull. Military sources reported 37 enemy actions during the past 24 hours, most of them in the northern part of the country. Three U.S. helicopter crewmen were reported injured in a crash. Two Americans were reported wounded in clashes Sunday. One was hit in the back by metal fragments while searching for 50 Vietnamese who disappeared Saturday after a Viet Cong attack in Binh Dinh Province.

Bonn, Israel and UAR In Three-Way Clash

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany threatened today to cut off economic aid to Egypt because of the impending visit to Cairo of East German President Walter Ulbricht. At the same time, Israel angrily rejected Bonn's offer of compensatory economic aid in place of arms shipments canceled by West Germany under U.A.R. pressure.

'Goldfingers' Rob Theaters

NEW YORK (AP)—Two East Side theater managers were robbed Sunday night of about $4,000 in receipts as they were about to put the cash in a bank night depository. The victims, Keith Massey and John Gold, told police two men, holding their hands in their pockets as though they had guns, fled with the money.

Hope Gone For Rescuing Youth Alive

DOLGEVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—All hope of life was gone, but men and machines moved on today to try to recover the body of cave explorer James Mitchell, 23. Mitchell, a chemist from Winthrop, Mass., had been trapped Saturday in an Adirondack labyrinth called Schroeder's Cave, near here and about 25 miles east of Utica.

Kosygin Home, In Conference With Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Alexei N. Kosygin returned today from an 11-day Asian tour, after promising Communist North Viet Nam Soviet military aid, and meeting with Red Chinese leaders in Peking. Immediately after landing, Kosygin met privately with Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and other top officials for 25 minutes in an airport lounge. In his stops at Hanoi, Peking and the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, Kosygin stressed Communist unity. But there was no indication that either Moscow or Peking had budged on basic issues dividing them.

No Tax Increases Seen Dempsey Believed After $1.2 Billion State Budget

HARTFORD (AP)—Gov. John Dempsey's budget for the next two years, which will be presented to the General Assembly tomorrow, is expected to call for total spending and borrowing of $1.2 billion—and no tax increases. The governor is expected to call for increased state aid to education, a highway program of between $200 and $250 million and a $90 million capital improvements program of which $40 million would go for new educational buildings.

Colonels Creighton (he's got a headache) Shoor and Paul (he aches all over) Misseri in cockpit of C119 Flying Boxcar, as the pilot, Colonel Air Force Gen. George (Joe Garman) Washington happily waves goodbye. Co-pilot Adj. Gen. Fred (Do Little) Nassiff, a veteran campaigner, appears bored, blasé and brainwashed. The other five members of the motley crew are in the cargo section of the plane, mapping a flight course which will take them to the market places of the country. They will buy up bargain goods for Saturday's townwide Washington's Birthday Sale.

Coverity Parent Seminar to Start At the High School Tonight

Parent Seminars by the school's public relations chairman, Sandra Higgins and Cheryl Sauter, will begin tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the auditorium. This will be for parents of Grade 11 students.

Other similar programs will be at the same time tomorrow for parents of Grade 10 students, Wednesday same time for Grades 8 and 9, and the final on Thursday, same time, for Grade 7.

The seminar today will cover results of the Iowa Test of Educational Development, a discussion of the College Board Exams as well as problems in admission to higher education and course choices of students of Grade 11 for their senior year.

To morrow evening and Wednesday will be a discussion on test results and program offerings for the coming year.

For Grades 8 and 7, the presentation of the Iowa Test of Educational Development will be discussed and the parents will be given a tour of the four-year high school program to be discussed.

Dr. Manford, director of Howell Cheney Technical Institute in Manchester, will give a presentation on vocational education Wednesday evening.

The high school administrator said it feels the establishment of Parent Seminars programs, to occur each year, are very important to the parent.

Dr. Manford, who is the principal of the high school, said the participation of the parent is a total of 11 students attained the High Honor Roll and 88 attained the Honors Roll in a second marking period at Coventry High School. To be listed on the High Honor Roll, all academic subjects must be 90 percent or better with grades below, and on the Honors, all academic subjects must be 80 percent or better with no grade below.

Honors: Grade 12, Linda Dogan and Ronald Hudak; Grade 10, Diane Buscaglia, Kathleen Chesapeake, and Sally Soever; Grade 9, Eve Knowlton and Shirley Kucy; Grade 8, Alan Aho, and Grade 7, John McKusick and Mary Simonson.

Honors: Grade 12, Susan Crane, Lois Gerger, Pwener Crane, Albert Lantry, June Locke, Charles Weaver, Mary Ann Miller, Lynn Munn, Joan Perry, Benita Plaster, Judith Sauter, Russell Sears, Catherine Sokolaki, Paula Tillinghast, Marcus Tison and Judith Tresselt.

Grade 11, Robert Adamcik, Dennis Benok, Christine Jeah, Thomas Kolodziej, Linda Mahen, Andrew Mullen, Richard Papanas, Christopher Stone, David Storr, Donald Storr and Richard Walters.

Grade 10, Terri-Elton Anderson, Linda Brown, Natalie Hadley, Kathleen Mahr, Dorothy Puria, Cynthia Sullivan, Jolinda Wilks and Frederick Young.

Grade 9, David Adamcik, James Eaton, Joan Gilson, Randall Ginnany, Maurice Jarman, Christine Melady, Joan Murdoch, Jessica Thompson and Mary Welles.

Grade 8, Beverly Beece, Deborah Brin, Rita Dineen, Mary Durepo, Rita Faulkingham, Stuart Griffin, Susan Heaton, Lorraine Heck, Gregory Hadley, Lynn Howard, John Huchins, Linda Olson, Eileen Safrank, Linda Schmidt, Dennis Sherman and Ann Simonson.

Congressional Aches and Pains Have No Respect for Party Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — To Dr. George W. Calver "there's no difference between a Republican heliport and a Democratic heliport."

He has been treating both for 38 years as Congress' "fix-it" doctor, a practice that is growing by leaps and bounds because, he says, Democrats and Republicans alike "either won't or can't relax enough."

Last year, Calver's Choptoi Hill office handled about 40,000 cases of aches, pains and assorted ailments. This year he thinks the figure will be closer to 50,000.

As the attending physician to Congress, Calver is on the Hill at all times when Congress is in session. Besides senators and representatives, his patient load includes congressional officials and employees, reporters and tourists.

Next 17 and well past retirement age, Calver has no plan to quit. He is a picture of health. "I follow my own advice," he said in an interview. "I exercise regularly, take a good walk every day, work in my garden and look around in my workshop."

Calver went to work for Congress in 1928. His post was created after three members collapsed in a single month. The Navy actually assigned Calver, then a lieutenant commander, to a three-year tour on the Hill.

Zone Rule Slated For Some Changes

Manchester's zoning regulations, under review for the past several months, are scheduled for some changes. A public hearing on the proposed revisions—affected restrictions in five zones, some special land uses and zoning administration—will be conducted by the town planning commission this month.

The hearing is set for 8 p.m. Feb. 25 at the Municipal Building hearing room.

Revisions proposed by the commission and drawn by town planning director Joseph Tamsky will change present requirements for residential zoning in Business Zones I, II, and III and Industrial Zone.

Under the general provisions changes are proposed in the section of the regulations regarding permits for group dwellings (apartment buildings).

The schedule for zoning and bulk of buildings will be altered to reflect zoning changes, administration and enforcement procedures will be altered, and some definitions are scheduled to be revised.

All the proposed changes have been reviewed by town building inspector Thomas Monahan, who is responsible for zoning regulations, and by town planning director Joseph Tamsky.

The planning commission has reviewed the proposals and a series of explanations of their purposes compiled by Tamsky and commission chairman John L. Lomenzo.

Although many of the changes have been in the works for some time, the planning commission gave renewed attention to the sections governing new industrial development as a result of the zoning requirements at the University of Connecticut. The commission will be awarded a bachelor's degree in June, Franklin O. Pingree, town planning director.

Other new restrictions call for regulation of the number of parking spaces for each building. The commission requires for each 200 square feet of office space on either of the two permitted stories, 200 square feet of parking space. The requirements for converting a dwelling to an office building remain the same. A new section of the regulations requires a special permit from the planning commission for the construction of public or private hospitals and convalescent homes. There is no special permit of any kind required upon hospital and convalescent home construction. The commission requires a lot of at least 200 feet, maximum lot coverage of 20 percent, maximum height of two stories, 40-foot front and side yards, rear yards equal to 25 percent of lot depth, and off-street parking for one car within 500 feet of the building's main entrance for each four-family unit.

Other restrictions on screening, appearance and access are proposed for new office buildings.

Special provisions on special use zoning are also included.

Killing The Chickens And Hawks

One week after the crisis in Vietnam began, we find it reported that the administration of President Lyndon Johnson may soon prepare and make a statement explaining just why we are doing what we are doing in Vietnam and just what we expect and hope to achieve there, and how, presumably, the administration thinks we may get peace out of it.

But we also find it reported that, before it can make any such definitive public statement, the Johnson administration will have to decide what it itself thinks about such questions.

If the American people don't know, it is suggested, the administration doesn't know either.

Instead, to take one theory, what the administration has been indulging in, during the past week, with its bombast in Vietnam is a pleasant little movie opinion poll, here and around the world.

This is the way Bayville R. Davis, Washington correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, analyzed the situation Saturday, in his dispatch from Washington:

"The content of concern over American reprisals in Vietnam, friendly and unfriendly, domestic and international, is both expected and welcome here. It can be put to good purpose by the administration."

"A sudden upsurge of concern and maneuvers for peace is part of the White House plan."

Commentary Davis went on to describe the various kinds of reactions which have been forthcoming, ranging from the joyous shouts of the warmongers to the piteous pleas of the pacifists, the war talk of Communist China to the peace talk of United Nations Secretary General Thant and then pictured the White House role as follows:

"The White House, which is the recipient in this cold-war chemistry, now is watching the result. It appears from here that strong signs of resistance to war and of activity on behalf of peace are beginning to lighten."

"Out of this, Mr. Johnson expects more cooperation with what the United States is ultimately trying to accomplish—which is to produce a negotiated non-communist peace in Vietnam."

"The President is known to contain within himself personally the conflict which is built into the nation's policy."

"This report on the President—that he himself is still in the torment of trying to make up his mind—is echoed in today's dispatch to New York Times by Max Frankel, who quotes one of 628 anonymous officials of ours as follows:

"There is no doubt that the President remains skeptical about a deeper involvement in Asia, but he is getting some very intelligent advice from very intimate quarters."

Meanwhile, the outside world, not quite realizing that it is playing its part in a public opinion and reaction game which is supposed to help the President of the United States make up his own mind, continues to behave as if it didn't think the game was very much fun.

Such a seasoned and supposedly sophisticated observer as the New York Times' own James Reston finds it "difficult to understand why the problem is not discussed more openly by the President, why the terms of an honorable settlement are not defined, and why the negotiating efforts of the Secretary General of the United Nations and other world statesmen are so little brushed aside."

The Reston editorials, on the other hand, seem to think they do know what the Johnson administration is doing.

"What the United States is now doing in Vietnam," says Sunday's editorial, "is playing directly into the hands of Communist China by taking actions which—however defensive in intent—lead to a steadily escalating and hence more dangerous conflict. This, surely, is the last thing in the world that the Johnson Administration and the American people want."

But even the New York Times, by such editorial agonizing, is playing its part in the Johnson game of dropping bombs on the world for the comfort and safety, in the interest of public safety, let alone of economy and efficiency, it deserves to be a part of the world.

But even the New York Times, by such editorial agonizing, is playing its part in the Johnson game of dropping bombs on the world for the comfort and safety, in the interest of public safety, let alone of economy and efficiency, it deserves to be a part of the world.

War III might do to humanity, or so much hawk we cannot resist urging the President to drop more and more bombs, we are all playing our part in the great Washington pattern of decision making.

But none of this, of course, is funny. This is life or death. We cannot afford to let things happen by such indecision. And we cannot gamble for any 1-told-you-so luxury of permitting the hawks to take control because their alternative is, once it goes so far, a one-time experiment, with no second chances, and no survivors. It would teach them a lesson, the hawks, to have their full way for once. But who, afterwards, would find them where, afterwards, to read it to them?

The increasing vogue for apartment building, apparently undertaken in some expectation of an increased vogue for apartment living, has stimulated real estate boards and the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York to establish a code of rules for counting the number of rooms in an apartment.

The new rules have not been getting the room or fraction of a room and conditions in New York are said to be getting to be such that the average number of living space can now understand precisely it is to be used to get when he goes to look at an apartment which is advertised as having so many rooms plus fractions.

Under the New York code, which seems fairly sensible, a living room counts as one room if it has at least one window.

All bedrooms except a maid's room count as one room, providing they have at least one window. A maid's room, however, counts as one room only if it has a full bath attached. Otherwise it is to be counted as only a half room.

That is the only instance in which a bathroom counts anything for or against. Balconies, terraces, bathrooms, and dressing rooms are not counted either as rooms or fractions of a room.

Half rooms, under the new code, are rather hard to calculate. If the apartment has no bedroom at all, then a sleeping alcove can be counted as a half room. A walk-in kitchenette (equipped) counts as half a room if its square foot area does not exceed 50; over that area it counts as a full room.

All this represents the introduction of some standard and order to the process of counting apartment rooms, at least down in New York.

Before there was such a code, it was possible to take one L-shaped room, plus a wall kitchenette, and then proceed, according to whether the imagination was of the order of the imagination, to count one, two, three or even three and a half rooms within that same space.

It is to be hoped that the apartment arithmetic that pliable still survives in other sections of the country. Even in New York, we suspect, a sane apartment owner still pays for the rooms he is supposed to be getting.

Taylor requested Bundy's presence as an on-the-spot observer in the deteriorating Vietnamese war months ago. Taylor's reaction was immediate and instant—neither good nor bad. Bundy's reaction was immediate and instant—neither good nor bad.

At the MACV (Military Assistance Command Vietnam) Bundy sat with several operators who had had secondary school training, 4,500 were involved in violations of the 21,143 who had been paratrainees, 7,9% were involved; of the 13,601 who had received driver training commercially, 8.8 per cent had had motor vehicle violations.

It is clear on the basis of this evidence alone that driver training completely taught in the high school under standards laid down by the State Board of Education offers the soundest way of learning to drive. It is appropriate, therefore, that this type education be extended. Its superiority over parent training or commercial training has been established.

There are those who decry driver training in the high school as a frill. The curriculum is overcrowded as it is, they say. With competition for college entrance being what it is, young people need fewer intrusions upon the program of studies. If they want to learn to drive, let them learn elsewhere than in school.

This recognition of the need for driver education is not a basic necessity. Driving a car is part of the way of life today. A person who has not learned to drive is handicapped. Every able-bodied adult should know how to drive a car. It is a basic necessity. Driving a car is part of the way of life today. A person who has not learned to drive is handicapped. SAIGON—The most astonishing fact about the new and dramatic American policy of air attacks on the privileged sanctuary of North Viet Nam was the role of McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's national security assistant.

Had it not been for Bundy's wholly coincidental visit to Saigon at the instance of Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, retaliatory air strikes might still be in the "discussion" stage.

Taylor requested Bundy's presence as an on-the-spot observer in the deteriorating Vietnamese war months ago. Taylor's reaction was immediate and instant—neither good nor bad. Bundy's reaction was immediate and instant—neither good nor bad.

Auto Kills Four Outside Church

YEADON, Pa. (AP)—The 9 a.m. Sunday Mass at the church of the St. Louis Roman Catholic church had just ended.

Anthony E. Munro and Paul Baskins, 8-year-old pupils at the parish's parochial school, were chatting with friends as they left the church.

Antonette Marigione, 87, of Yeaddon, was among a group of adults entering for the next Mass at 10 a.m.

Peter McGinty, 60, a real estate man, drove into the church parking lot. He let two elderly relatives out and reached over to close a door.

The car shot out of control and rammed a group of parishioners against a church wall.

Anthony and Paul were dead by the time they reached the St. Gerard Mercy Hospital in nearby Darby. Mrs. Marigione died Sunday night of internal and leg injuries.

Four others, including McGinty and two other boys, were injured.

Joseph O'Brien, Yeaddon police captain, said McGinty was apparently depressed. The accelerator or moved the gear shift lever. He reached over to shut the door.

"It was the worst tragedy during my career on the force," said O'Brien, a 31-year veteran. McGinty was treated at Mercy Fitzgerald Hospital in Darby for face and shoulder cuts and shock. He was held under $1,000 bail on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Scout Receives Church Award—The Rev. John J. Delaney, pastor of St. Bridget's Church, admires the Ad Altare Dei Award received by Roy M. Thompson of Troop 3 yesterday afternoon at the Cathedral of St. Joseph, Hartford.

The Rev. Mr. Joseph R. Lacey, chancellor, archdiocese of Hartford, presented the award to Thompson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Thompson of 37 Truck Rd. The Ad Altare Dei Award is a recognition that the church gives to the scout. In addition to the national requirements, the scout must earn 250 points as required by the archdiocese of Hartford. Points may be earned for each altar service, choir service or musical church service. Thompson is a freshman at East Catholic High School and an altar boy at St. Bridget's Church. Obituary

Rev. Hollis, 30, Dies, Served South Church

The Rev. Ray C. Hollis, 30, pastor of the Federal Church at Fort Fairfield, Maine, and associate pastor of South Methodist Church from 1962 to 1964, died suddenly Saturday of a heart attack at Fort Fairfield.

News of his death was announced yesterday morning from the pulpit at South Church. The congregation joined in silent prayer for their former pastor and his family.

Dr. J. Manley Shaw, pastor of South Church, said that church and I have suffered a great loss with the tragic passing of Rev. Hollis, who showed such great promise and ability in his young life.

During his service at South Church, he was a member of the many friends in the Manchester area. There will be a funeral service tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the church. Dr. Shaw will conduct the service presided at by the Rev. John Post, superintendent of the Methodist Church of the Methodist Church. The church choir will sing.

Bonn, Israel and UAR In Three-Way Clash

Small Parliament today, Eilat said, Germany must face a special responsibility of unaccepting "the fact that German soldiers in Egypt are still working to strengthen Egyptian aggression."

The German hope in cutting arms shipments to Israel was to get Nasser to turn down the UAR visit. But the Egyptian press reported over the weekend that Nasser has prepared a red carpet reception.

In East Berlin, Dierbach said, the German government is still not ready to cancel the visit. He said the West German Parliament could boost West German prestige abroad by cancelling the visit.

Survivors include two sons, West Germany has provided $100 million in aid of various kinds. It tentatively has promised to do as much for the country's second five-year plan starting in England. Today's announcement affects mainly the oil and steel industries.

A spokesman for Richard declared that the German government has asked King Hussein to intervene in the dispute between Cairo and West Berlin. The visit was planned last month.

Hope Gone For Rescuing Youth Alive

With bulldozers and other earth-moving machines, were summoned to locate first the maples and beeches atop the cave, then the rock and earth below—about 40 feet straight down. State police said they believed the rock was limestone.

The day dawned clear but cold above zero. Police had maintained an all-night watch over the cave.

Mitchell's two companions in the cave adventure left for Massachusetts. Today's announcement affects mainly the oil and steel industries.

A spokesman for Richard declared that the German government has asked King Hussein to intervene in the dispute between Cairo and West Berlin. The visit was planned last month.

Gordy Davis

Gordon Leslie Davis, 26, of East Berlin, died yesterday at his home. He was a resident of Manchester for many years where he was called "Gordy," he was known for his mischievous pranks and unbounded energy. He had lost his left leg in 1944 during a military service. He suffered in an accidental fire. He had been playing with a bicycle with one leg while balancing a cricket across the handlebars. David was fitted with an artificial leg in 1965 at Newington Hospital for Crippled Children. His handicap had never prohibited him from activities, however, as he was active in sports, served as a mascot for several town baseball teams and earned a swimming badge while an Explorer Scout at the age of 15. He was a member of the Manchester Fire Department and was a member of the Manchester Fire Department. He was a member of the Manchester Fire Department.
