Board Asks Recheck of MCC Budget

The board of directors has instructed General Manager Richard Martin to meet with Community College Dean Frederick Love in a review of the college's recommended $199,857 budget for the 1965-66 fiscal year.

The board, not satisfied with the recommended figure, yet apparently undecided on how to cut it, suggests that Martin come up with a reduction in the appropriation and a subsequent cut in an estimated $100,870 in tuition income.

Martin had previously said that he was accepting the $46,520 estimated rise in tuition fees over the current year because experience has taught Dean Love not to over-estimate the college enrollment, as he did last year.

However, he agreed to directors to "go slow on cutting this budget, else they will have to alter their teaching schedule and perhaps lose some equivalent credits to the college."

But the name of the recipient of the award will remain a secret until he or she is called to the head table during the scheduled after-dinner ceremony.

An "M" award is the highest single honor that the Chamber can pay to an individual in the past it has been awarded to such persons as:

Edward Thomas, for his national recognition work as chief administrator of Manchester Memorial Hospital; Judge Jay Robinson, for his devoted service as chief judge of the State Circuit Court system.

Miss Hazel P. Lutz, for her efforts in establishing Lutz Junior Museum; Miss Emily W. Smith, for outstanding service to the Girl Scouts and through Girl Scout trips abroad, in bettering international relations.

Miss Helen J. Esten, in recognition of outstanding and dedicated service to youth and the Manchester education system; and Matthew Moriarty, for substantial and outstanding contributions to the community.

The dinner meeting at which the award will be presented this year at the Chamber's annual meeting April 28, will be held at the Plymouth Hotel in Boston. There will be a social hour from 6:15 to 7:15. Reservations may be made through the Chamber office at 257 E. Center St.

Columbian Fishing License Is Available at Clerk's Office

Any expert or neophyte—beak Walton-ups fishermen has to have a fishing license this weekend in order to go home and brag about "the one that got away."

The Columbia town clerk's office will be open tomorrow from 7 to 8 p.m. in order to accommodate all those bragging. The office will be closed Friday because of the holiday but Saturday's late start-up will be accommodated from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The cost of the license is $4.50—about the cost of a couple of good sized fish at the market.

School Clerk Closed

Mrs. Jean Peters, clerk at Porter School, was honored last week by her co-workers when the entire staff of the school presented her with a citation in appreciation for her loyalty to the school and the community. About thirty signatures were at the bottom of a specially designed parchment made by former art supervisor, Donald Macomber.

The local teachers' association originated the idea and the entire staff was present at the brief ceremony.

Reach Making Set

The Columbia Cause Club will raise the Public House Thursday at 10 a.m. Members unable to attend Monday's meeting are welcome and are requested to bring a rose.

So far, there are about 16 volunteers. The raising is credited to working hours to which members are obligated.

Church Services

Manly Thriftway Communion services will be held at St. Columba's Church at 8 p.m. Good Friday services are at 8 p.m. and Divine Worship service Sunday at 11 a.m. as well as the service planned at Holy Mount at 8 a.m. Easter Sunday.

A confirmation class for 17 young people will be held Thursday at the Congregation of St. Columba. A special service is planned to include an address to the congregation, one to the confirmation class and one to parents. The church membership will pledge before the act of confirmation. The same pledge will furnish the mutual background.

Card Party Stated

The Women's Republic Club is planning a card party for the public May 8 in Yocum's Hall. Mrs. Roy Ferguson, Mrs. Charles Hill are co-chairmen. Committee members include Mrs. Henry Book and Mrs. John Gorman.

Ticket chairmen are Mrs. Kirby Tappan and Miss George John; refreshments, Mrs. John Pringle and Mrs. Fessie Cogan; tables and prizes, Mrs. Alfred Lange and Mrs. Irving Lehr; and ladies, Mrs. George Burnham and postmen, Mrs. Arthur Crotty Jr.

Fairfield police escort Cirro Caruso, 28, of Newark, to police headquarters for questioning. Caruso was taken into custody yesterday as a suspect in the robbery of a Fairfield bank. (AP Photofax.)

Single Suspect Held In Fairfield Holdup

FAIRFIELD (AP)—A 28-year-old New Jersey man, identified by police as an ex-convict, faced another round of questioning today as authorities tried to crack open Tuesday's robbery of a Fairfield bank—the second Fairfield bank robbery in two weeks.

The suspect, Cirro M. Caruso, 28, of Newark, refused even to give his name to police Tuesday.

They said they identified him through fingerprints.

Caruso, who is being held in $100,000 bond on a robbery with violence charge, was arrested minutes after three men fled the Tunxis Hill Road branch of the Connecticut National Bank with $28,622 in cash and $2,800 in non-negotiable bonds.

Two of the masked bandits escaped in a stolen car. The third, identified by police as Caruso, took off on foot seconds before Patrolman John Serina, responding to the alarm, pulled up in his patrol car.

Police said the bandits may have spotted the police car approaching and pulled away before the third man could climb into the getaway car.

In a hotly pursued retreat, the bandits furnished all but $2,000 in cash outside the bank. Police recovered the lost $23,622 stuffed into a brown paper bag.

They also found a mask and a .38 caliber revolver used in the holdup.

Meanwhile, a bank teller pointed out to Serina the direction in which the one bandit fled. Serina drove to the edge of a nearly wooded section and waited with gun drawn.

Out of the woods came Caruso, who surrendered without incident.

Police said Caruso was paroled from New Jersey State Prison in January. He has no legal representation.

Reporter, Policemen Attend Lessons for Safe Crackers

By BOB FOOS

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — At large in the St. Louis area, 100 men who have undergone a thorough course, conducted by experts in how to open safes, are being trained to crack them.

All but one are policemen from St. Missouri and Illinois communities around St. Louis. The other is this reporter.

The men attended a course at the St. Louis Police Academy conducted by Robert Wilgus and Henry Bell, executives of the Diebold Safe Co. of Canton, Ohio. The firm has made, among other special projects, the safe that holds the famous Hope diamond in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

The two experts make trips around the country periodically to familiarize authorities with methods employed by safe crackers.

Capt. Lester Martin, head of the St. Louis police burglary and robbery detail, said the lessons would be valuable to police for two reasons.

"First, it will help us in our instructions to merchants on how to prevent burglaries and safe jobs so far as it is possible to prevent them," he said.

"And it will aid us in our evaluation of evidence when we examine the scene of a safe job or similar theft," he said.

Wilgus has been 15 years in the business of striving to make entry-proof vaults and money protection vaults.

Much to his chagrin, too many people who keep large sums of money around depend on the records protection type. This is simply a large box with inner and outer plates of sheet steel surrounding fire resistant material.

It is this kind of safe that is usually pried, blasted, drilled or burned open or "peeled."

Burglars have developed many novel tools for their trade. One of the more interesting involves the direct approach. It is called by safe men "the can opener." The can opener is a big, crude hand can opener. It has a point and a curved blade at the end of a long handle.

Burglars job with it until they puncture holes with thin doors and then lever away on the blade until a hole of satisfactory size is ripped in the door. This tool, however, is seldom used anymore, Wilgus says, because it is too readily recognized by police.

Two Policemen Attend Course

Two members of the Manchester Police Department will be attending a new course of instruction at the University of Connecticut.

The two, Det. Sgt. Joseph Sartor and Det. John Kriehak, are among 30 Connecticut lawmen who have already signed up for the course which begins this evening at the Law School in West Hartford and continues every Wednesday evening through May 19.

The course, sponsored by the university's Institute of Public Service and developed by the School of Law, is being conducted in cooperation with the Connecticut Police Chiefs Association, Joseph A. LaPlante, a UConn law professor who holds law degrees from Boston and Yale Universities, is directing the program.

Topics to be covered include the nature of due process, the right to counsel, laws relating to confessions and arrest procedure, and search and seizure requirements. After completion of the course, Professor LaPlante feels, the lawmen should have a clearer picture of the legal rules which govern their actions toward citizens who have allegedly violated the law.

Andover Registration Is Scheduled For Baseball

The 1965 baseball program sponsored by the Recreation Commission will get under way tomorrow night when boys between 8 and 17 years of age may register in one of the three leagues.

Boys from 8 to 12 are eligible for the Little League. A boy must be 8 years old by May 1, and not over 12 by Aug. 1. The fee for this league is $2.

Boys in the 13-14 year age group may participate in the Babe Ruth League program. A $1 fee applies here. Older boys, 16 and 17 years of age, with an interest in inter-town baseball must attend this registration session so that the number of boys to enroll may be determined. No registration fee will be due until the first practice.

James Tynon, manager, has requested all men interested in working with the boys to meet to present Thursday night or inform him of their interest by that time. He asks all boys who played in the Little League last year and have shirts belonging to the league to give him this information.

Canvassers Named Several captains for the American Cancer Society's fund drive have announced the names of the canvassers who will call on Andover families during the drive which starts next Monday and continues through the month.

Mrs. Hugh Ryan of Andover Lake will have Mrs. George Bowden, Mrs. Donald Dubliskas, Mrs. Thomas Henry, Mrs. Donald Richards and Mrs. Howard Smith as volunteers.

Families in the Boston Hill area, captained by Mrs. Francis Haines, will be assisted by Mrs. William Broadbent, Mrs. Clarence Gove, Miss Susan Hagen, Mrs. Edward Jurawaty, Mrs. Edward Lavoie, Mrs. Lucia Moe and Mrs. Peter Morlock.

Mrs. John Hopmann, Pipe Ridge, will be assisted by her husband, Mr. Archie Palmer and Mrs. Robert Tootell. The Hill, 6 west neighborhood, with George Parks as captain, will be served by Miss Karen Hughes, Mrs. John Carlson, Mrs. Ernest Chase, Miss Jean Deperry and Mrs. Stewart Ferguson.

The local chairmen point out that the recent issue of "A Crusade Against Cancer" commemorative postage stamp indicates the importance of the problem. They hope it will help to alert more people to the goals of the American Cancer Society and bring substantial support from Andover citizens.

Church Speaker Will Show Films

Miss Majken Broby, a Swedish-born American citizen, will be guest speaker tonight at 7:30 at a special service at Calvary Church.

She will speak and show two films. One she took personally while on tour in North Africa and also at the Home for Refugee Children in Eckersfort, West Germany; the other is supplied by the Bonn government and shows tragic scenes along the wall.

Miss Broby went to Germany in 1953 to see the conditions among the refugees who had fled from behind the Iron Curtain. After seeing the conditions, she decided to do what she could to help those in need. She made contact with welfare departments in various countries and since then has directed her efforts to the Home for Refugee Children. The home, which is established as a foundation for the sole purpose of helping those in need, conducts all activity through donations that it receives.

The public is welcome to attend.

ASTRONOMERS DISAGREE

PARADENA, Calif. (AP) — A trio of U.S. astronomers disagree with Soviet scientists' conclusions that fluctuating radio signals from a distant object are being produced by some super civilization.

Dr. John Wyncham, a radio astronomer at the California Institute of Technology, told a news conference Tuesday that Russian views "must be based on lack of data — information which we have here."

Wyncham and Dr. Allan Sanderson, both of Palomar observatories, and Maarten Schmidt, Palomar astronomer, agreed that the signals from the distant object, known as CTAL10, are of such tremendous strength they must have a natural rather than an artificial cause.

Three Indicted in Civil Rights Murder

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Three white men indicted on charges of first-degree murder in the civil rights slaying of the Rev. James Reeb of Boston face a possible May trial.

Circuit Solicitor Blanchard McLeod said the trial will be placed on the docket of the regular session of Dallas County Criminal Court beginning May 10. Circuit Judge James A. Hare, however, said their trial may not come up until October as there is a heavy docket for the May term.

The maximum penalty for first-degree murder in Alabama is death or life imprisonment. The jury determines the sentence. The men were indicted Tuesday by a grand jury and arrested a few hours later by the sheriff's department. They were released under $10,000 bond each.

The men, all of Selma, are O'Neal Hoggie, 30; his brother, William Stanley Hoggie, 35; and Elmer Cook, 41. A fourth man, R.E. Kelly, 30, was not indicted. The three and Kelly also have been charged in federal warrants with violation of Reeb's civil rights. They had been free under city and federal bonds totaling $12,500 each.

Reeb took part in civil rights activities in Selma during the early part of March. The white minister was beaten on a city street the night of March 9 and died two days later.

He was indicted on charges of state of national anarchy and insanity. He reviewed Selma's racial unrest in a charge to the jury, composed of white men.

A federal judge at Mobile assumed jurisdiction in two damage suits and an injunction against Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other Negro civil rights leaders.

The suits involved damage actions filed against King and others by the city of Selma and the Selma Bus Lines Inc. The bus line sued for $9,750 damages as a result of a boycott imposed against the line. The city sued for $100,000.

The other action involved a temporary injunction issued by Circuit Judge L.S. Moore restraining the Negro leaders from operating buses in Selma and between Selma and nearby Craig Air Force Base.

At Montgomery, Gov. George C. Wallace called a conference of Negro educators to discuss school problems "with particular regard to dropouts." He sent telegrams to presidents and directors of all state-operated Negro institutions asking them to meet with him in his office Friday.

$10,000 Sought In Injury Suit

An East Hartford woman, Mrs. Esther C. Scheinfeldt, is suing the town of Manchester for $10,000 for alleged tortious received in a fall on a Maple St. sidewalk on April 18, 1964.

In a writ filed in the town clerk's office, Mrs. Scheinfeldt claims that the sidewalk, near Main St., was cracked, uneven, displaced and crumpled, resulting in a difference in elevation between the sidewalk and curb.

She lists her injuries as a sprained right ankle, an injured right knee, a strained neck, a pinched nerve in her neck, and a severe shock to her nervous system.

The action is returnable to the May session of the Hartford County Court of Common Pleas.

Circuit Court of Connecticut Safeguards for Defendants

Many innovations have been built into the Circuit Court system which are designed to fully protect the accused. Psychiatric examinations for those thought to require them have already been discussed.

Judges now advise the accused of his rights when he first appears in court. The judges point out the right of the accused to obtain the services of an attorney, the right to remain silent while in custody of the authorities, and finally warn the accused that anything he does say may be used in evidence against him in court.

Moreover, if the accused cannot afford the satisfaction of the judge that he is without funds and has no prospects of obtaining any, and if the charge is a relatively serious one, the judge can appoint a public defender to represent the accused. The appointment is made only after the judge interrogates the accused in open court and for the record, and as to his ability to pay for the services of a private attorney.

Once satisfied, the judge appoints a public defender from a list of attorneys provided him by the clerk's office. The list is rotating and the attorney whose name appears at the top of the list receives the appointment as a matter of course.

Any attorney can get his name on the list by requesting the chief clerk to add his name to it. Once named by the judge, the attorney is notified of his selection by the clerk's office and he then interviews the accused and prepares to defend him. The public defender receives $35 per day for acting in behalf of his client.

The right to trial by jury in Circuit Court is available for a great many misdemeanors and for all felonies within the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court.

In an effort to implement the constitutional rights of Connecticut citizens, provision for jury trial was made even for such comparatively minor crimes as failure to observe a stop sign.

Jury trials are chosen far more for speeding and drunk driving cases than for any other criminal offense in the Circuit Court. These two offenses total slightly more than 10 per cent of the arrests, but account for more than 50 per cent of the jury trials. With a speeding conviction meaning a loss of license for 30 days and drunk driving conviction resulting in a heavy fine, many accused are reluctant to plead guilty and therefore elect jury trial.

Aside from acting as a safeguard for the accused, the jury trial affords attorneys an excellent opportunity to gain experience before the jury.

The percentage of matters being claimed to be before a jury has dropped off sharply after the first two years of operating in the Circuit Court. Part of the reason for this reduction has been the realization that juries are not as lenient as some accused had hoped they would be. Others faced with almost inevitable conviction thought by claiming to the jury, the delay in the trial date would occur, thereby postponing indefinitely the conviction. The fact that the prosecutor's office can be ready to try a case within a day or two after a claim to the jury has destroyed this illusion of delay. As a result, in the Second Circuit, Bridgeport, the backlog of jury cases on March 1, was zero.

The hearing is probable cause" is another process invoked in the Circuit Court to safeguard the rights of the accused. This is a procedure commonly referred to as a "bind-over" proceeding, whereby the prosecutor's office petitions to bind the accused over to Superior Court for trial. By that it is meant that the crime charged is of such a serious nature that it is felt the matter should be handled in the high court and presented through the State Attorney's office.

Robbery with violence is the type of charge which would customarily be treated by the prosecutor's office as a bind-over matter. For any crime in which the minimum punishment runs more than one year in state prison, a referral by bind-over to Superior Court is compulsory. This is so because the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court in criminal matters cannot exceed sentencing the accused to prison for more than one year. The accused, at the time he is originally put to plea on the charge, may, in open court, waive his right to a hearing in probable cause, and if he does, the judge binds him over to the next criminal term of Superior Court immediately.

If the accused elects a hearing in the probable cause, the prosecutor's office prepares evidence to present to the court. In the bind-over hearing, the accused is protected from automatic referral to Superior Court in that the state is required to establish, to the satisfaction of the judge through the prosecutor's office, that a crime was committed and that there is probable cause to believe the accused committed the crime.

The prosecutor's office seeks to establish this probable cause by producing witnesses and introducing testimony sufficient to convince the judge that the accused should stand trial in Superior Court on the charge in question. Of the hundreds of hearings in the Second Circuit during the last three years, the prosecutor's office has secured bind-over in all but a half dozen cases.

falls to appear in court on the required day, and has not contacted the court concerning his absence, the court directs that a suspension notice be sent by the Motor Vehicle Department to the accused and that failure to appear be notified of this fact, that he is to appear in court on a given date (usually two or three weeks after his first court date), and that failure to appear the second time will result in further notification to the Motor Vehicle Department where steps will be initiated for suspension of the offender's license.

The no bail compact is a device which has given the Connecticut motor vehicle operator, driving in certain other states, Connecticut entry into a formal agreement with New Jersey, for example, that any New Jersey motor vehicle operator arrested for a traffic violation in Connecticut will not be required to post bond to avoid being placed in jail pending trial. New Jersey in turn agrees that any Connecticut motor vehicle operator arrested for a traffic violation in New Jersey will not be required to post bond to avoid being jailed until trial.

Connecticut has entered into this compact with several other states to assure reciprocal benefits to highway travelers. Gone is the all-frequent family tragedy of having a vacation interrupted, delayed or interrupted.

Medical Aides Hear Lectures

Medical education has entered a new area at Manchester Memorial Hospital. A series of lectures for medical assistants and secretaries was inaugurated a few weeks ago.

Dr. John Basile, a neurosurgeon at the hospital, recently spoke to members of the medical department on neurology. His talk was designed to help them correlate medical terms with the actual medical procedures.

On April 27, another lecture will be given by Dr. Charles Jacobson, the hospital's chief of urology. He also will be concerned with infusing terminology with reality.

The series is intended to promote a deeper understanding and interest of the work medical assistants are doing," said Mrs. Lois Becker, supervisor of the medical records office.

She said that the first talk was well received by the medical secretaries, many of whom had only a surface knowledge of medical terms.

Medical assistants as well as medical secretaries are invited to attend the first talk, which will be held in the auditorium of the hospital.

Dr. Rhoades described one patient, a 70-year-old widow. "She looks much younger, has a sparkle in her eye and told me recently she's looking for a mate," he said.

Undesirable side-effects are a small price to pay for the many benefits, the physician said. He added there is increasing evidence they help prevent cancer, and they don't cause masculinization.

Dr. Rhoades, chief of Grace Hospital's division of general practice, was making a scientific exhibit on the subject at the annual scientific assembly of the American Academy of General Practice.

The menopausal woman, he explained, lacks endocrine secretions which create the feminine characteristics — she is essentially a castrate.

Changes, that occur include loss of strength, feminine curves and zest. There are increases in blood pressure, bone brittleness, mental and emotional troubles, and in some cases coronary disease.

A Voice For The Public

If, as it should be, the Interstate Commerce Commission is a public governmental body responsive to the rights and needs of the public, then it should, in the spirit and in the process...

What they want to get done, without paying any price in consideration or planning for the public for it, is the sale of the New Haven's assets and freight operation franchise to the proposed Penn-Central combination while, at the same time, they shed all the railroad's passenger franchise responsibilities.

As Senator Ribicoff described their past conduct at the ICC hearing in New York City and there was nothing in his description which ordinary observers haven't sensed for themselves all along—the bankruptcy trustees of the New Haven have been sharp enough in planning how to get rid of passenger and commuter service, but have shown no enterprise or ingenuity in trying to save such service.

The Connecticut Senator not only charged the trustees with "reluctance to furnish information and figures on the commuter service which would have facilitated some of the government aid the trustees now charge will be too late. He also introduced additional opinion to the effect that the trustees, in their bookkeeping, have been charging to the passenger end of the business at least some of the costs which should properly be located with the freight operations of the railroad.

In any case, these trustees now have something they want to do—namely sell the railroad minus any obligation to provide passenger service of any kind—and it is up to whatever public and political authority which has any power in the situation to see if the bargain can't be made something better, certainly for the public, and possibly for the railroad as well, than the trustees are willing to take in order to get out and from under.

In this situation, Senator Ribicoff's suggestions as to how the Interstate Commerce Commission should exercise its authority and represent the public interest are concise and to the point.

He believes the Commission should require the trustees to continue the commuter service into New York City long enough to receive governmental funds which are on the way.

He believes the Commission should make "a full and complete investigation of the true amount of the burden imposed by passenger operations on the New Haven—so helping in the formation of the long range plan."

Senator Ribicoff would also have the Commission "require that the trustees make full and good faith efforts to cooperate with the states in arriving at a plan to maintain service. Obviously, the trustees now have one goal—to get rid of the service and get rid of it fast. Obviously, too, the trustees have viewed efforts to work out plans for public support of the commuter and passenger operations as merely delaying tactics. The states and the Federal government have demonstrated their willingness to do their share. The trustees must not be allowed to take the attitude—the commuter be damned; full speed ahead with the freight service."

And the Senator would have the Commission, "as a condition of final approval of the Penn-Central merger, require the Penn-Central to assume the responsibility for the New Haven's passenger service."

All these suggestions add up to the idea that the public, which originally issued the franchise to such an enterprise, should still possess enough residual right and authority to see that any same possibilities of continued life for the institution and continued service to the public are not rudely and deliberately ignored. The trustees have set up the proposition by which they could end their own task. The public and its representatives now have the right and the duty to fight to see that the public doesn't become the only real loser. The Connecticut Senator's recommendations seem amply tailored to what the ICC must and should do.

Try It By Rivers

If one had the power to pass one simple law to apply in all the world, one would seek to devise and choose one law which would bring most peace to men, one might do worse than to decree that all the lands of each and any river system should constitute one nation.

Boundaries, and differences of ownership and sovereignty, could begin with mountains and with oceans. But nobody would ever be allowed a river, or across a river.

The fantasy that such geography might produce an extraordinary amount of peace is prompted by the public conduct of the latest African head of state to be welcome in our midst, one President Maurice Yamengo of the tiny, impoverished nation called Upper Volta.

He is a gentleman who was very welcome at the White House because he is one African statesman who still seems moderate and who still seems to like us.

After President Yamengo went through the routine civilities of his visit, he held himself a news conference, and at this news conference he began talking about what he might be going to do to one of his fellow African leaders, President Kwame Nkrumah of the neighboring state of Ghana.

He accused President Nkrumah of "hostile attitudes" with which American statesmen would agree, and he said, this Yamengo, that if Nkrumah didn't stop his way soon he, Yamengo, might cut off the flow of the Volta River, and thus doom to fulfill the great dream which being held in the mind of the international projects in which the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development is the leading agency.

And Yamengo may go ahead and do just what he threatens to do. So we say, imagine that the lands of the New Haven and the Volta River are all one. Or try to imagine several countries sharing the Mississippi. Or imagine what such a law requiring one river one sovereignty would do for Jordan, the Rhine, the Danube, the Congo, or the Mekong. Next time somebody makes a world, why not try it by rivers?

When Alfred, Lord Tennyson "dipped into the future, far as human eye could see," he envisioned technological advances that are today accomplished fact. At the same time, he saw the need for a city and world organization which would have the world still awaits. He wrote:

There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe, And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapped in peace and love.

While we are still far from achieving a realm "lapped in universal law," the world has begun to make significant, if modest, progress toward the development of truly effective international institutions. The "20th-century beginnings of Grotius and Puffendorf are slowly but surely bearing fruit."

Especially encouraging is the present effort to set up an expanded world court system, including, in addition to the International Court of Justice at The Hague, lower regional courts. Such courts are needed to hear and decide a host of cases arising in international law not of sufficient magnitude to be taken to the court in The Hague.

These courts are of immense value in dealing with situations arising out of restraints on international trade, lack of protection for foreign investments, lack of guarantees for copyrights, and trademark, family, and boundary treaties, inadequate protection for fundamental human rights, or a conflict between the laws of different countries.

An expanded and more workable international court system, together with new developments in international law and procedure, will help to prevent friction between nations. It will provide machinery to settle disputes peacefully before they have a chance to touch off a veritable holocaust.

A workable system of international law should also do much to remove existing hindrances to expansion of world trade, economic growth, investment, travel, and communications.

To promote these developments, prominent judges and lawyers from more than 100 nations will come together in Washington this fall to take part in a "creative, working conference." It is expected that around 2,000 legal experts will attend the Second World Conference on World Peace through Law. The first such conference was held in Athens in 1953.

Charles S. Rhyne, chairman of the World Peace through Law Center, and also of the coming conference, points to "the shocking extent of the trade and legal experts will attend the Second World Conference on World Peace through Law. The first such conference was held in Athens in 1953."

Mr. Rhyne calls this voluntary effort in building world law and international legal institutions "a tremendous contribution by the legal profession." Because of the practical efforts of men like Mr. Rhyne and his colleagues, Tennyson's vision of universal law could become a reality.

FRANK GUARRERA AS FIGARO: Connecticut Opera's "Barber Of Seville"

Jimmy Breslin The Old Champ

NEW YORK, April 14 — The Old Champ walks stiffly. He holds a varnished light brown cane in his right hand. His right hand, shaking a little, hangs alongside his hip. There is old man in the folds over at him. "I'm feeling all right. If I didn't feel all right I wouldn't be out with you."

"You're my man, Harry." At the corner of Fifth Ave. and he was asked again about Dr. Martin Luther King and his civil rights demonstrations. Truman said it was just routine and it has hurt the cause.

"Do you mean all demonstrations?" "Yes. Demonstrations of that kind do nothing but disturb the peace. What'd they accomplish in Alabama except to get a lot of publicity for you felons?"

"Well, get out and let you exercise your legs," he said. "It's hopeless to exercise in a head."

He came outside and stood under the hotel's white canopy on 76th St. Radiant heat kept the small area. "I'm in Ford's Theater, Washington, watching the play 'Our American Cousin.' At 10:30 p.m. the door of the box opened silently and actor John Wilkes Booth fired a bullet into Lincoln's head. The President never regained consciousness."

Truman is 80 and he walks with microphones held to his face and television wretches against his angles and newsmen into his shoulders and he loves every step of it.

He stopped at the corner for a red light. "Wait for the light," he called out to a white man, who was out in the street with a camera on his shoulder. "You'll get that thing knocked off your shoulder," Truman said.

Then the light changed and he stepped off. A laundry truck stopped across the street and the driver got out to look at him. Up in the middle of 76th St. workers on a private maintenance truck ran around so they could stand by the curb and see the Old Champ while he walked along and talked about everything.

"I'd kick them out of the White House if they came there," he was saying about the Ku Klux Klan.

"I told the truth on him and he didn't like it," he said of Dr. Martin Luther King.

He turned the corner onto Fifth Ave. A bus going downtown stopped for a red light and everybody in it stood up and looked out the windows at him.

"He went up to 76th St. and then turned onto the block and

A Thought For Today

Council of Churches

"Silence Is Our Gift To Evil" How often we wish we had the courage to speak! We disagree. We know he was wrong — yet somehow we let the statement pass unchallenged. We were silent — and this was our gift to evil.

This would not happen if we knew when to be silent. Jesus spoke out on many occasions and was silent on others, especially during his trial. Today, the Wednesday of Holy Week, we know nothing that Jesus did. Tradition assumes He was in Bethany with Lazarus. It was good that He could have silence before the Last Supper and the Cross.

We need more times of silence, meaningful silence. Turn off the television, the radio, in silence, in communion, in study, and in conversation. Silence before the Last Supper is an experience I covet for all. If we can be silent in this way, we will never again let our silence be a gift to evil.

Prayer: O, God, help us to know there is a time to be silent and a time to speak. Grant us the wisdom to know which is which. For Christ's sake. Amen.

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — Working quietly in the background, Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan has skillfully used President Johnson's voting-rights bill to rehabilitate himself as the House Republican leader.

For Ford, the voting-rights bill was a watershed. If he could not get a large majority of House Republicans to back a strictly Republican voting-rights bill, a fundamental grievance against the old-style House Republican leadership of Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana would be rebuffed.

This grievance (on which Ford men based their successful campaign to depose Halleck last December) was the lack of Republican initiatives by which to oppose or modify President Johnson's "Great Society" legislation.

The basic complaint of the Ford men: Under Halleck, the Republicans too often had no alternative but to vote no, then always being cast in the House Judiciary Committee as the "Great Society" legislation.

Ford men based their successful campaign to depose Halleck last December) was the lack of Republican initiatives by which to oppose or modify President Johnson's "Great Society" legislation.

CARPET YOUR KITCHEN

NEW INTERIOR DESIGN IDEA HITS MANCHESTER

Amazing New Mohawk "Herculon" Carpet
So Versatile It's Used in Kitchens —
Introduced by Manchester Carpet Center.

In the past few months, hundreds of women have latched onto a new idea that is destined to sweep the nation. Thanks to new miracle HERCULON® olefin fiber, and to Mohawk Carpet Mills' design genius, the luxury of wall-to-wall carpet in your kitchen becomes supremely practical. Here at last is an all but indestructible carpet. The fibers are long-wearing, non-absorbent... won't stain, even with fresh hot coffee spills. For women who rebel at being a slave to their kitchen floors, who tire of constant waxing and polishing—this is a minor millenium.

Anywhere in your home, "accidents" will happen. When one happens in the kitchen—an overturned coffee pot, spilled gravy, catsup, grease, whatever—you just wipe away the spill. You can actually damp-mop this broadloom. Although it is stunning enough for the finest living room, it is the longest-wearing, easiest-cleaning carpet the industry has yet produced. These properties make it suitable and practical for kitchen installation.

What is "HERCULON"®?
Herculon is a polypropylene olefin fiber—a new man-made substance that is setting new standards of wear and cleanliness in fabrics and floor coverings. The fiber is so tough it is being used in fabrics where wear is unusually severe—for instance, in manufacture of professional football uniforms. This fabric lasts longer, resists soiling, cleans more easily and dries faster. It is entirely colorfast. The colors permeate the fibers, as though you had frozen colored water into an ice cube, rather than coloring the surface of an ice cube. No other fiber gives you more luxury and surface yarn for the dollar. No other fiber is more resistant to wear or more non-absorbent. Herculon carpet is free of static, resists pilling, fuzzing, shedding, is mildew free and mothproof, non-allergenic.

Why have carpet in the kitchen?
Apart from the rather electrifying decorating effect (and the fun of watching your friends' faces when they first see it), a carpeted kitchen will cut down on the noise. It is less tiring to stand and walk on. It is far easier to maintain. You spend many working hours in your kitchen. Once you've lived in a carpeted kitchen, say women who've done it, you'll never go back to waxing and polishing. Besides, you'll enjoy the luxury and color.

"Would I Dare? . . ."

Many will. It is safe to predict that carpeted kitchens will become commonplace, in spite of the fact that they will now be thought of as rather daring. You should at least consider it seriously. Let us demonstrate the cleanliness, show you the rich colors, help you visualize the striking decorative effects possible. This carpet is equally at home in your living and dining rooms—in any room of any home. The cost, for this quality, is surprisingly modest. Visit us with your room measurements—learn the full story of remarkable new Herculon carpet—we'll be glad to give you accurate cost figures without obligation. Ask to see Mohawk's sensational new Herculon broadloom—the carpet that is so advanced it's at home on your kitchen floor!

Average 9'x12' Kitchen Installed Wall to Wall only $127. Nothing Down, $10 Monthly!

This is Mohawk's "Roanoke" with pile of 100% HERCULON Polypropylene Olefin carpet fiber.

Portuguese Opposing OAU For Mozambique Control

LORENÇO MARQUES, Mozambique's free grating leader, says he is confident the OAU will not support the Portuguese administration in Mozambique. He says he will call an administrative conference of teachers, students, and other superiors, and will call the superiors to a meeting in the next few days. He said the conference on health, beautification and civil rights would follow.

The settlement contracts to pay the government about $3,000 by the end of the year. He then receives his crop each year until it is liquidated. He then receives his African women, like the houses but they don't know what to do with the tables and chairs. Often they eat on the floor as they always have done. One of the Portuguese administrators, Nuno Menezes, says: "The next generation will be different. The kids are all going to school together, studying religion together and going to dances together."

In addition to their crops of cotton, corn and vegetables, the Organization of African Unity wants every foot of African soil under African or Arab rule. With the aid of Algerian and Communist Chinese arms, the OAU has been supporting rebellions inside the northern borders of both Angola and Mozambique. The Portuguese answer was to send more than 100,000 troops to the two territories, known as "provinces" in Lisbon and "colonies" to the nationalist leaders.

What chance has Portugal, a nation of 10 million, of repeating its success in Africa? Portuguese officials say they can handle any army they could send against them in the immediate future. But poverty, ignorance and ill health are major problems in Angola and Mozambique, as in independent nations to the north.

Education was not a bright spot in Angola and Mozambique during the first centuries of Portuguese rule. Now schools are going up. Both Angola and Mozambique have universities. The spending of about $100 million annually to defend the northern border areas has taken funds needed elsewhere. But schools, hospitals, factories and farm settlement projects testify to the new energies being released.

Thousands of Africans are moving away from a subsistence level into the cash economy as small farmers. They get financial and technical assistance as well as marketing facilities for their rice, coffee, cotton, cashew nuts.

One of Africa's most unusual settlements comprises 13 villages along the Limpopo River around Gulu.

In what 10 years ago was barren bush country, a thousand Portuguese peasant families and just under 500 African families now live side by side. They tend rice and cotton in adjacent fields, send their children to the same schools, churches, dances and football games.

The project started with eight Portuguese families in 1964 after the Portuguese administration had dammed the Limpopo and dug a huge irrigation ditch. Now it includes the 13 villages — each with its church, school, stores, cafes and canteen — stretching some 50 miles along the south bank of the river.

Events In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says he is confident the administration will seek to increase the federal minimum wage from its present level of $1.25 per hour.

It is an quite confident there will be an adjustment and that it will be upward, Humphrey said Tuesday in a speech to AFL-CIO officials.

Labor leaders have been demanding that the minimum wage be lifted to $3 an hour, but a spokesman for the AFL-CIO indicated the labor federation would be satisfied with an increase to $1.50 an hour.

Humphrey also said the administration would seek to expand minimum wage coverage but declined to say how many additional workers it would seek to cover.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has no intention of using two new armored cars for which the House voted $200,000, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler advised Congress Tuesday.

The secretary told a Senate Appropriations Committee the President did not know of the plan to buy the two cars until he read about it in the newspapers.

He said Johnson would continue to use "the special protective armored vehicle reconstructed from an existing automobile by the Ford Motor Co. and turned over to the Secret Service, without cost, as well as another existing specially constructed protective vehicle assigned from another federal government source for this use."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he plans to have White House conferences this summer on education, health beautification and civil rights.

He outlined his plans Tuesday night at a gathering of nearly 100 supporters of the $1.5-billion signed into law last Sunday.

Events in World

JEERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — An Israeli-West German agreement for establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries has been hammered out, but a few hitches remain.

Dr. Kurt Birrenbach, West German negotiator, flew home today after concluding in an interview that "there still are some outstanding problems to be settled."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved and sent to the Senate a compromise bill that authorizes spending $30 million to run the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency for the next three years.

The House vote Tuesday was 314 to 85. The compromise splits the difference between the House bill authorizing $40 million for four years and the Senate measure authorizing $20 million for two years.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal subsidies — mainly for agricultural, business and labor — are costing about $7.5 billion in the current fiscal year, according to a study by Library of Congress economists.

The estimated to a report for the Senate House Economic Committee that the figure would drop to about $6.7 billion in the year that starts July 1.

WESTPORT (AP) — The wife of a Bridgeport industrialist was killed Tuesday night in a collision at a Westport intersection. She was Mrs. Patricia M. Beach 45, of Fairfield, wife of Herman K. Beach, president of the Bridgeport Metal Goods Manufacturing Co.

Mrs. Beach was riding in a car driven by her 17-year-old daughter, Robin, which police said collided with another car driven by August J. Petrucy of Westport. Miss Beach and her 12-year-old brother, Stuart, were admitted to Norwalk Hospital.

Hal Boyle From Beatnik To Empress In 12 Years

NEW YORK (AP) — Twelve years ago Barbara Streisand was a beatnik kid who made 50 cents an hour as a baby sitter. Today her income is nearer a million dollars a year.

The costume Flatbush girl has become a world famous empress.

The girl who once looked like a skinny Jewish ghetto now has the grace and imperious profile of a Babylonian queen. Instead of a walkup flat she dwells in a Central Park duplex that has some glittering chandeliers. Once she dressed like a 1950s mannequin in a lower East Side shirt shop. Now few socialites could match her wardrobe.

But as her 23rd birthday nears, Barbara finds herself still basically unchanged where she feels it counts most — inside.

"No one thing has made life very different for me," she said. "It's a way I'm disappointed that I haven't."

"What is suffering to one person is joy to another," she said in her theater dressing room from which hangs a 10th glittering crystal chandelier, the symbol of her stardom.

"I went through a lot of adolescent parang that were critical to me, but I never had to scrub floors or do anything like that. I was so glibly no one would hire me as a model. So I worked as a cashier in a Chinese restaurant for $1 an hour and at the show main I could see, I loved that."

"I also liked envelopes for a printing firm for $46.17 a week — and saved $15 of it. I always was saving. The main thing I didn't want to be was a typist. I let my fingernails grow long so I couldn't type."

In addition to her stage songs, royalties from phonograph albums and other sources of income, Barbara has a television contract guaranteeing her $5 million over the next 10 years.

"Any amount of money over $50,000 confuses me. I feel you can live as well on $20,000 a year as on a million. You can live in only one limousine at a time," she said.

"I allot myself only 45 a week, and I never spend one like to pay in cash. It gives me a great feeling."

"When I pay by check, I feel like I'm getting it for nothing — because it's just paper."

Maturity has somewhat tamed Barbara's grandness with which she used to call attention to herself. She remains a humor, given to introspection.

Paths Cross

The careers of two Manchester sons crossed this week during a Washington, D. C., radio newscast: the two happen to be brothers.

The news was made by Dr. Roger J. Turkington, news editor of WFAA, with a report he presented on cancer research.

And it was broadcast over radio station WFAA in a Washington suburb by his younger brother, William Turkington, who found it to his surprise — after he was already on the air — that Roger's name had been inserted into the news copy.

Roger and William Jr. are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Turkington Sr., 28 Bigelow St.

Both graduated from Manchester High School, William in 1954 and Roger went on to Western and Harvard Medical Schools, while William attended the Leonard Poyers School of communication arts in Boston.

CAROL BURNETT
NEW YORK (AP) — The Broadway musical "Fade Out Fade In" is closing Saturday night because its star, comedienne Carol Burnett, is expecting her second child.

The show, which will have played 271 performances, is believed to have cost $500,000. Producer as much as $500,000.

Roger and William Jr. are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Turkington Sr., 28 Bigelow St.

Cuba Trying To Retrain Its Prisoners

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government is in the midst of a massive retraining program to return political prisoners to the society which they tried to destroy.

The local papers say Prime Minister Fidel Castro launched the idea three years ago but it has moved into high gear only this year. Government sources estimate 1,000 of the nation's 15,000 political prisoners are taking part in the experiment. Most of them in the big list of Pines prison off Cuba's southwest coast.

The aim is to teach the prisoners "the greatness and generosity of the revolution, always severe and just, but never vengeful." A prisoner is watched closely at first but gradually is given more freedom and sent to farms outside the prison if he progresses.

Some 70 instructors, who draw on the services of scores of trained personnel, but the program includes political indoctrination and classes to develop agricultural skills.

Not every prisoner is eligible.

Two Murderers Hung in Kansas

LANSING, Kan. (AP) — Richard Eugene Hickock and Perry Edward Smith, a pair of criminals who first big-time job culminated in four murders at a wheat farm in western Kansas almost 9 1/2 years ago, were hanged early today.

The trap was sprung on Hickock at 12:19 a.m. in the corner of the Kansas State Penitentiary, and the instigator of the plot to rob and kill was pronounced dead at 12:41 a.m. He was 33 and came from Edgerton, Kan., in the farm country just southwest of Kansas City.

Smith, his 36-year-old partner from Elmo, Nev., was dropped at 1:02 a.m. and pronounced dead at 1:19 a.m.

They were convicted March 26, 1950, at Garden City, Kan., of slaying Herbert Wesley Clark, once a member of the Federal Farm Credit Board, Mrs. Clark and their teenage son and daughter.

Hickock had heard in prison that Clutter often handled $10,000 a day and kept big money in the house on his farm at Holcomb, Kan. He and Smith got less than $50 in their raid on the Clutters, plus a radio and a pair of binoculars they pawned in Mexico City.

Four appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court, to lower federal tribunals and to the Kansas Supreme Court postponed their execution four times and prolonged their lives almost five years.

Associate Justice Byron R. White of the U.S. Supreme Court denied a final petition for a stay of execution Tuesday and gave William H. Avery rejected pleas for executive clemency.

SMITHS TO TRIPLE WASHINGTON — The suburban which housed 35 million people in 1950, will triple in population by 1980, to 105 million, the Urban Land Institute estimates.

EXPORT HELP GIVEN WASHINGTON — Forty-two Department of Commerce field offices have begun a business men get started in exporting.

Associated Gets Tree Stump Job

Associated Tree Experts Inc. of Newington has been awarded a contract for removing 34 tree stumps from town streets and right-of-ways.

Associated's price of $644 was the lowest of four bids opened on March 26.

The tree stumps will be removed by a stump chopper and will be disposed of at the Otcut St. Disposal area and at park department stockpiles.

The park department will remove the resulting chips and will fill in and seed the stump areas.

LADY BIRD JOHNSON

Denison, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson paid a surprise visit yesterday to the birthplace of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The First Lady made the 30-minute tour, seeking information that might be helpful in setting up President Johnson's birthplace as a public attraction. She was accompanied by two friends and four Secret Service men.

SCHOOLS ASSISTED

WASHINGTON — More than 4,000 U.S. school districts have received $2.8 billion since 1950 under two federal laws that grant budgetary or school construction assistance to districts near military bases or otherwise affected by concentrations of federal workers.

FIRM TO EXPAND MERIDEN (AP) — The Miller Co., an old Meriden firm, announced Tuesday that it will remain in the Silver City and spend $2.5 million on expansion of its rolling mill division. The announcement eliminated two years of efforts by the city to retain the Miller Co., which employs 300 persons.

Legislative Hearings Labor, Management Argue Over Polygraph, Job Bills

HARTFORD (AP)—Legislative hearings on bills to restrict the use of polygraphs and to require employers to give reasons for firing workers are continuing today.

The union men said the definition could be summed up in one word: "strikebreaker."

They argued that there are men with special skills in the typographical craft who can be brought in from other states to work during a newspaper strike. They remain working until the strike ends, then depart after lifting the scales in management's favor, the union men said.

Management countered by saying that the claim would be raised that any man who tried to hire during a labor dispute was a professional strikebreaker.

Management spokesmen also attacked the constitutionality of the proposals, some of which would ban the hiring of workers from another state during any labor dispute.

"These would be held discriminatory, management spokesmen said. They also cited the guarantee of freedom of the press in the Bill of Rights.

"It will only create unrest rather than contribute to the betterment of labor relations in Connecticut," said James Stewart, publisher of the Connecticut Daily News.

Stewart was critical of the term "labor dispute," which he said was too vague.

Another executive, W. B. Page, publisher of the Waterbury Republican and American, called attention to new technical processes, which are said to be closing relations between newspaper employees and employers.

"These unions are fighting among themselves for jurisdiction over these processes," Page said. "We as employers would like to see any one of them put up on the spot."

Zolot, in defending the measure, said they were aimed at "hit and runners" and would prevent employers from hiring legitimate replacements for striking workers.

Zolot was joined in his defense by John Sullivan, vice president of the Connecticut Republican Labor League. "These people," Sullivan said of so-called strikebreakers, "are hated by many loved by none, and held in contempt even by their employers."

Other supporters of the bills were the Connecticut Conference of Typographical Unions, Greater Hartford Labor Council, and Leo Dorn, deputy state labor commissioner.

Other opponents included spokesmen for General Electric Co., United Aircraft Corp., and the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut.

The rail strike halted practically all service on the state system, delaying the annual Holy Week influx into the state.

Only a handful of the 7,000 daily trains were halted at the Italian border.

Rome's sprawling marble terminal was deserted. The huge square outside was jammed with passengers waiting for service.

In Milan, Italy's major industrial city, about 30 police guards were the only persons in the usually bustling central railway station that handles 600 trains daily.

The only train that appeared in the Milan station was an international express from France.

Special buses shuttled passengers between Milan and the main railway stations on the Italian-Swiss and Italian-French frontiers.

The rail strike was called to protest a Ministry of Transport decision to give 3,000 high-level railway employees overtime pay for work on a railway modernization system. The move demanded the bonuses for all employees of the ministry.

Enrichment Courses Added To Summer School Classes

A new twist has been added today to the summer school program in Grades 5 and 6. Another typing course is open to adults. The creative writing course will be held on two age levels, one for Grades 6 through 8 and the other for Grades 9 through 12.

A colorful, descriptive brochure recommends the Gregg shorthand course for college-bound students and anyone who has need of a fast and accurate note-taking system.

Although the brochure will not be distributed until early May, information may be obtained from Robert Nearine, the program's director, at Bennett, or Mrs. Lillian Segar at Hilling.

The courses will be at Hilling Junior High School and Manchester High School. They will run six weeks. Enrichment courses are open to all pupils regardless of residence. A resident and non-resident fee is charged.

Day Camp Seeks Volunteer Help

Henry J. Manning, the new director of Manchester's Kennedy Day Camp, has issued a call for volunteer counselors to assist in the camp's second year of operation, which will begin on July 4 and will run for three sessions of two weeks each.

Last summer 63 volunteer counselors, 15 years of age and up, assisted 143 retarded children in "a summer of fun and learning" at the Golbe Hollow camp.

Manning's call for volunteers specifies that this year they must be at least 15 years of age and able to work from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Applications may be picked up at the East Side Rec at 22 School St. and must be returned by May 14, to permit the camp staff to process and prepare the list of children who are registering for the three camp sessions.

Winners Named In Hat Contest

Mrs. Michael Carpenter of 66 Glastonbury Dr., Rockville, won first prize last night for the prettiest hat in an Easter Hat Parade at a meeting of the Manchester WATBS at the Italian American Club. Other awards were won by Mrs. Maxwell Jacobs of 75 Florence St., for the funniest hat; and Mrs. Peter Falco of Hartford, for the most original. Judges were Mrs. Elizabeth Gould of Janet's and Mrs. Doris Belding of The Herald.

"Easter Fantasy" was the name Mrs. Carpenter gave to her hat, which consisted of an inverted Easter basket trimmed with bunnies, ribbons and spring flowers.

A large brimmed, sombrero type hat covered in blue satin and bedecked with flowers was worn by Mrs. Falco. It was aptly named "Spring is Sprung," as the crown was covered on a wire spring, bobbing in its center.

For the funniest hat, Mrs. Jacobs attached many slender balloons to a metal globe of the world. She called her entry "Around the World on Hot Air," and mentioned that this is what the balloons were filled with.

Coffee was served after the program.

U.S., Britain Seek Boost In Currency

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The British are trying to pin their economy while Americans talk of boosting the U.S. economy still higher through even less restraint.

In both cases one of the prime goals is the same — to bolster the individual currencies, the British pound sterling and the American dollar, in international money markets.

The British move this week is largely tied to increasing taxes. American business stimulants, past and contemplated, are tied to cutting taxes.

London figures individual Britons should be discouraged from buying so many imported goods and overhauling the home economy so much that United Kingdom manufacturers don't try hard enough to sell their goods abroad.

Washington figures that the American economic growth rate should be increased, more goods should be produced, so that the excess will inspire producers to try harder to sell still more abroad.

The U.S. government also is asking Americans to keep their dollars home and lend less to foreigners and invest less abroad. The British say they'll try to keep American dollars still coming their way.

First rumors indicate that both the American and the British monetary plans are working at the moment.

In the United States past tax cuts and prospects of still more, are credited with causing a surge of consumer buying and of business spending for bigger plants and newer equipment. The dollar has rallied in world money markets. Washington says that the best defense against dollar is still more prosperity at home.

While both the United States and the United Kingdom have been having trouble keeping their currencies looking as good as gold, the problem has risen from significantly different circumstances.

The United States for years has been exporting more than it has been importing. The loss of dollars and gold comes from something else. The favorable balance of trade has been more than offset by government economic and military aid to other

Blind Boys Attempt To See with Cheeks

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The white-haired man held up two fingers. The boy's head, tilted to one side slightly, swung toward the hand like a radar scanner. His head stopped and he held it two fingers.

Did he see the hand? Not with his sightless eyes, the boy said, but through sensory perception on his left cheek.

This strange ability — called extra-ocular vision — is reported by a Thai doctor, Man Vichit, but support for his studies appears to be growing.

He is Dr. Vichit Subhacharn, a general practitioner who uses hypnosis on his blind pupils. He says his work is in its infancy but he feels it holds great hope.

He said he held his first successful experiment in 1954 — eight years before doctors in the Soviet Union reported a woman could "see" through her finger-tips.

The doctor says his work is based on the theory that certain areas of the head are sensitive to light rays when the person is under hypnosis. His tests have shown the left cheek to be the most sensitive.

Dr. Vichit knew of Buddhist monks who claimed light-sensitiveness when under self-hypnosis for meditation. He said that Dr. Vichit held a newspaper before a hypnotized boy, ordered him to shut his eyes and attempted to read the paper. The experiment worked, he said, much to his amazement.

Later, he explained, he completed his first successful experiment with a blind youth. Since then a training center has been established for blind children.

Dr. Vichit has confined his tests to youths 8-14 because they seem to be more mentally receptive.

An American physician, Dr. Percy Grover of Coronado, Calif., visited here in March and heard of the experiment.

At the home of Dr. Vichit's son, a boy named Putong was put into a trance. Dr. Grover held a strip of paper about three feet from the boy. Putong's head swung slowly back and forth like a radar antenna, finally "sighting" the paper. After a moment, he selected a matching color from strips in front of him.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Karen Lee Mitchell of Manchester to Theodore Paul Kawalec of Rockville has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell, 58 E. Middle Tpke.

Her fiancé is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kawalec, Hartford Tpke.

Miss Mitchell, a graduate of Manchester High School, is employed by the Fuller-Brown Co., East Hartford. Her fiancé, a graduate of Rockville High School is serving with the U. S. Navy aboard the Polar sub-marine USS Thonon Jefferson. A Sep. 11 wedding is planned.

Private investment and loans abroad, free-spending American tourists, have seen the price of their products rise — meaning profits at home but also loss of some world markets to more competitively priced goods, made by Americans, Europeans, Japanese, and others.

So Britain is trying austerity to get its world trade and its pound sterling in a healthier state.

The dollar already is healthy. Washington wants to make sure it doesn't catch another chill like the one that plagued it at the start of this year.

The whitewall jungle

Too many tire dealers behave like savages. Scalping is their favorite pastime.

For example, they'll advertise a great-looking tire at an unbelievably low price. And then load the ad with gimmicks. Most of which are pretty hard to detect. Unless you read the ad very, very carefully.

Here are some of their more popular tricks.

The word "Free" is printed in letters a foot tall — but a dozen strings are hidden at the bottom of the ad.

Tubes are advertised as free, but actually the price of the tire has been boosted to cover the tube's cost.

The tires are represented as "Nationally famous" — what nonsense! They're as famous as you are.

A big sale is proclaimed with fabulous prices, but the sale is really for used tires.

When a "free giveaway" is advertised, the price of the giveaway is added to the price of the tire.

The ad says 30% off. But off what? That's something else again.

Retreads are referred to as "no-treads." It isn't spelling they find difficult. It's telling the truth that's hard.

Ridiculous abbreviations are used to obscure the facts. For example, "Fac. Elem." really means that the immediate credit, easy terms, low monthly payments.

South Windsor School Board Adds 3 Days to Vacation

The board of education voted last night to lengthen the Easter vacation by three days next week but also increased the school year by three days in June. The school calendar called for the students and teachers to have off from Good Friday through next Tuesday. A request was made by the South Windsor Education Association that the vacation be lengthened because "morale was low and there was tension in the schools."

Public Hearing Set April 21 On Sub-division Regulations

A public hearing on the proposed sub-division regulations of the town of Coventry will be held at 7:30 p.m. April 21 in the room of the town office building on Rt. 31. The hearing will be held at the request of the commission on sub-division regulations.

Burning Vessel Towed to Athens

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The burning Norwegian flag tanker Permo was reported being towed today by the Greek tug Atlas, bound for Piraeus, the port of Athens. Fire broke out in the ship's engine room Monday and they went back aboard Tuesday to battle the flames and they were joined by many U.S. Navy men from the 6th Fleet transport Mountrail.

Cream Puff Movie Action

Italian actress Claudia Cardinale wound up with a face full of whipped cream during the filming of the movie "Blindfold." Co-star Rock Hudson quipped her full in the face with a foam-type fire extinguisher—the whipped cream was used to simulate the usual chemical foam.
