Tests Slated For Counsel Of Youths

Testing for this summer federally sponsored nationwide program to train more than 2,000 persons in the techniques of counseling disadvantaged youth will be held Saturday in the Manchester Office of the State Employment Service, its manager Frederick F. Kania said yesterday. The program, consisting of eight weeks academic training and four weeks on-the-job experience, is called "Project Dream." Cause stands for Counselor-Advisor University Summer Education.

Conferee

James O. Tatro of the history faculty at Manchester Community College is among the more than 75 educators from throughout the nation who will meet for a two-day national conference on "The Nature and Demands of Two-Year College Teaching." The conference, sponsored by the American Association of Junior Colleges, is bringing together faculty and administrative officers of 34 private and public two-year colleges from Maine to Maryland for a critical look at and discussion of their teaching problems. Some of these problems are: what skills and capabilities should be developed among students at two-year colleges; how teachers can best handle students who increasingly tend to differ in background, ability and proficiency; what sort of training is a must for two-year college instructors; and in the four-year and graduate-school orientation, what are the hindrances to the teacher as he tries to understand two-year college problems.

Mrs. Leella Ovids, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ovids of 109 Washington St. was valedictorian of the graduating class at Baypath Junior College. The class graduated June 6.

Report from the Cape All Were Confident Titan Would Succeed

By HAL TURKINGTON "How far away will they hear the roar at lift-off?" somebody asked an Air Force public information officer during Thursday morning's briefing conference before the scheduled launch of Titan 3C on its maiden voyage into space. "Oh, they will hear it good about 50 miles away." That's about the distance we were from Cape Kennedy when Titan 3C jettisoned its initial power furnished by a pair of solid rocket motors built by United Technologies Center of California division of United Aircraft Corp.

"We were" identifies those of us who had to catch commercial flights home yesterday morning and could not be at Press Site 3 for the launch. In our case, it was a wedding in the family that was constantly our flight was scheduled to depart McCoy Air Force Base in Orlando, some 37 miles from the Cape, at the same time the Titan 3C was launched. The Titan 3C was launched at 11:05 a.m. on Thursday. The Titan 3C was launched at 11:05 a.m. on Thursday. The Titan 3C was launched at 11:05 a.m. on Thursday.

Yesterdays morning the Air Force successfully launched a Titan 3C rocket—the largest ever fired—from Cape Kennedy, Fla. Herald City Editor Hal Turkington was nearby and herewith presents his observations. Florida's June weather can be unpredictable. Veterans at the Cape said it had rained daily for over a week in that area. It did every day we were there, too. Usually it came in early or mid-afternoon, accompanied by thunder and plenty of lightning. Thursday's scheduled launch was no exception. A bad electrical storm in the early morning hours Thursday brought on the first delay. The storm cleared away by 10:30 a.m. and the launch was scheduled for 11:05 a.m.

Wardens Frederick O. Reinecke said the incident occurred Friday morning. The inmate was charged with carrying a knife, which was found on him. He was held pending completion of the investigation. Ben Bella Overthrown In Algerian Uprising

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, flamboyant air force commander, became South Viet Nam's youngest premier today, heading the eighth government in 20 months. Ky, 34, took over from Phan Huy Quat who quit last week after a dispute with Chief of State Phan Khanh Sui and opposition from religious elements. Sui also resigned.

Algeria's Ben Bella, 48, had been overthrown in a pre-dawn coup today and will "meet the fate of all despots," Radio Algiers announced. A revolutionary council headed by Col. Houari Boumediene, chief of the armed forces, took over all power charging Ben Bella with treason and abuse of personal power. A Boumediene council officer who had been associated with Ben Bella's overthrow in 1965, was named as Algeria's fight for independence from France, was indicted for having trained either in Beijing or Moscow. But one responsible source said Boumediene "is definitely not pro-Chinese."

Events In State Pair Indicted In Death of Girl's Mother

HARTFORD (AP)—Elizabeth Ann Sharkevitch, a 17-year-old schoolgirl, slumped in her seat and died Friday as a Superior Court grand jury indicted her and her boyfriend for first degree murder. The South Windsor girl was shot in the chest by a 16-year-old boy, Michael Sharkevitch, 35, in her home May 21.

Over 200 Bennet Students Receive Awards and Prizes

Bennet Junior High School's annual Awards Assembly yesterday recognized outstanding scholastic achievement, special talents and dedicated service to the school. More than 200 students received awards which ranged from certificates for service to cash awards.

George Bradlau presented the Rentschler Algebra Prize a cash award of $50 given by the United Aircraft Corporation for the outstanding Algebra I student, to John R. Briggs, son of Mrs. Thomas Briggs, 211 Ferguson Rd.

Following a precedent established several years ago, Bradlau presented silver bracelets and key chains to those ninth grade students who were listed on the honor roll each quarter during their three years at Bennet. The students are Miss Joanne Agostinelli, Miss Nancy Ballard, Miss Lynne Bernardi, Miss Ruth Elieser, Miss Sharon Gworek, David Keith, Miss Kathleen Miller, Miss Judith Palmberg, Miss Pamela Pilkonis, Miss Beverly Pitney, Miss Nicola Rubino, Miss Wendell Smith and David Strimatis.

The DAR Award for outstanding work in social studies was presented to Miss Kathleen Shepard by Bradlau. She was the winner of an essay contest conducted by eighth grade social studies teachers.

A new award this year, the Davis Medal, for excellence in current events at the seventh grade level, was presented to Richard Zarbo by Miss Marsha Gunther of the Social Studies Department.

Miss Sharon Gworek, the editor of the Barnacle, Bennet's prize-winning school newspaper, was presented a certificate in recognition of her outstanding leadership by Mrs. Hogan, advisor to the newspaper staff. Scholastic Art Contest awards were presented by the art department. Ninth grade winners were: Roger Ditarando with a blue ribbon, a gold key, and place award, Richard Mather with a blue ribbon, and Miss Deborah Bradshaw with a gold

Jobs Sought For Training Of Retarded

A new work-study program for mental retardates at Manchester High School is being planned for September to facilitate the important shift from school to society the retardate faces when he leaves school.

In announcing the program, Ronald Scott, assistant superintendent of schools, said that the seven retardates who will enter their third year at the high school in September will be the first class to benefit from the experience.

Part of the day will be spent in the classroom; the other part at a job in the community. Scott said that Norman Fendell, a special education teacher at the high school, is presently finding the jobs.

Finding part time jobs for retardates is not an easy task, especially when Mansfield Training Center, buoyed up by a new federal grant, is looking for about 80 similar jobs.

Once he has found the jobs, Fendell will have to maintain constant liaison with the employers to insure that the retardates are making a smooth adjustment to their new settings. Scott said he wasn't worried about the employers exploiting the retardates, but the temptation would be much less apt to arise with Fendell paying daily visits to the work areas.

Up to now the retardates who have been graduating from high school really haven't had much help in finding jobs. A couple from last year's class have gotten good jobs, said Scott. One is working in a garage, another in a drug store. But he didn't know what had happened to the others.

This new work experience program should help to erase the uncertainty facing the retardate after school.

The new occupational coordinator will also be a big help in finding a spot for the retardate in the community, said Scott. The coordinator, partly financed with funds from the Vocational Education Act of 1963, will probably start in September also.

Several local employees of the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Corp. were inducted into the Quarter Century Club this month. Included among the veterans were: Allan Bourn of 129 Parker St., a foreman in the engineering department; Edward P. McCarhan of 47 Lilac St., an analyst in the engineering department; Robert W. Pratt of 122 Waranoke St., a project engineer; and Walter J. Surovitsky of 31 McCann Dr., a supervisor in the machine shop.

P&WA also announced the retirements of four Manchester employees. Included in this group were Louis T. Bodreau of 31 Strant St., Olive B. Gagne of 59 Clinton St., Otto Herrmann of 612 Center St. and Charles A. Plumb of 30 Lilley St.

A Tolland man, Commander Arthur W. Jones of the U.S. Navy, has been named assistant Navy Bureau of Weapons representative at P&WA, replacing Commander George S. Basenwine.

The Iona Manufacturing Co. has announced the elevations of two of its employees. Gerald F. O'Rourke, sales manager of the local electrical appliance firm, was elected as a member of the Promoted in Iona. Gerald F. O'Rourke, sales manager of the local electrical appliance firm, was elected as a member of the board of directors. Mrs. Doris D. Jacobs was named assistant secretary of the corporation.

O'Rourke joined the company in 1959 as promotional sales director and was named sales manager in 1963. A graduate of Northeastern University in Boston, he is a member of National Premium Sales Executives and Richard Fague, the "Dick" of the "Dick and Ann Show," was named operations manager and John William Murray, formerly station manager of radio station WPOP in Hartford, was engaged as an account executive.

Two new broadcasters have been added: John Egan of the New York Knickerbockers as the station's first sportscaster and Robert Bacon, formerly with WMBX of Boston, as the announcer from 5 to 9 a.m. and 3 to 6 p.m.

Two names are absent from the new picture: Paul Edwards, station manager since June, 1964, has resigned. Brian Dow, new director for the past several months, has also resigned to join the news staff of WHNB-TV (Ch. 30).

William H. Thornton, president of the Manchester Sand and Gravel Co., 60 Adams St., was elected secretary of the Connecticut Ready Mixed Concrete Association.

Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., in collaboration with the Urban League of Hartford, has announced a letter aptitude program for the recruiting and training of applicants for bank teller positions. The project begins with a four-week training period in September and an initial group of 10 to 12 trainees. Interested persons 21 years or older should contact William Brown, executive director of the Urban League or Council H. Dixon, job development director of the league.

Robert May Jr. of 75 Richard Rd. observed his 18th service anniversary with the Hartford Electric Light Co. last week. An engineer in the production department, he began his career as a learner with Electric Production at South Meadow. May is chairman of Boy Scout Troop 133 in Manchester, chairman of the Blackledge District Committee and is a member of the Charter Oak Council Operating Committee.

Alan B. Larkin of 153 Chestnut St. has been elected a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. He is presently associated with the Hartford office of the accounting firm of Lybrand, Ross Bros. and Montgomery.

Six months ago very few local people had probably ever heard of such an enterprise as a do-it-yourself automobile laundromat. Today three such self-service car wash establishments exist in Manchester. The first was created at the Parkade in January; another followed on Broad St. This month the third opened on Hartford Rd. near Bunce Dr.

A permanent aluminum awning, terra-cotta with stripes of ivory, was installed this week over the front of Watkins Bros. furniture store on Main St. Manufactured in Italy, the awning piece, it has a total length of 68 feet, is constructed without cross rods and is hung from pipes. The Manchester Awning Co. installed the awning which can provide efficient protection to passers-by during rain and snow storms.

Supreme Food at 469 Hartford Rd. has joined one of the largest associations of independent food markets in the area—the Shop & Save Group, which is presently headed by Ted Armata, owner of Armata's Shop & Save Supermarket in South Windsor. There are now eight individually owned supermarkets in the chain, making it one of the largest independent buying powers in northern Connecticut. Supreme Foods owner Sam Crispino stated that the move was made to meet increasing competition and to increase his store's buying power.

Daniel B. Mosier of 47 Marlton Dr. has been appointed manager of the new Business and Brokerage department at the Beecher C. Swain agency in Hartford, general agents for the Continental Assurance and Casualty Companies. He will specialize in life, group, individual health and pensions. Here's an obvious but unobtrusive reference to the versatility and potency of writing instruments—more delicately evoked though in the tense expressiveness of human hands. The setting of today's photographic study is a writing desk over the entrance which had long identified the business as a partial gift shop has been replaced with a new sign which reads (or glows) simply: Harrison's Stationers. The store still carries an extensive line of greeting cards and books, both departments also revamped and enlarged. Owner Phillip Harrison celebrated the 20th anniversary of the store this August.

Roger S. Gray of 74 Ballista Rd. has been appointed to the official staff of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. with the title of assistant supervisor, education and training. Gray joined this division in 1961 and was named an agency assistant the following year. A member of the National Association of Life Underwriters, he is currently president of the Hartford Chapter of the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters.

Willard H. Fish of West Hartford, a Manchester native, has been appointed division plant manager for SNETCO's northern division and will work out of the Hartford office. A graduate of the University of Connecticut, Fish started with the telephone company as an engineer in the plant department at Hartford in 1946 and later held posts at the company's headquarters in New Haven.

Cartwrights, The Sisters, Hit Bonanza

NEW YORK (AP) — Those television Cartwrights are a confusing family — no, no, not the Cartwright brothers, the Cartwright sisters.

As "Bonanza" fans know, the three (soon to be two) Cartwright brothers, Little Joe and Hoss, live with their father, Ben, on a big television spread called the Ponderosa.

But the Cartwright sisters, Veronica, 18, and her 14-year-old sister, Angela, live with their real-life parents in Hollywood and are two of the busiest, steadily employed young performers in the business.

Veronica has already suffered through — and emerged from — a difficult period of type-casting as a nasty kid but a nice young girl in NBC's "Boone Show," as it is called by the trade. No, no, not NBC's "Richard Boone Show" which died last season, but the new one, "Daniel Boone," which has survived nicely and will go into a second season.

Then there is Angela, who did a lot of growing up during all those seasons when she played Danny's and Marjorie Lord's daughter, Linda, in "The Danny Thomas Show" on CBS. Just as a lot of people were convinced Miss Lord (in private life the wife of producer Randy Hale) is really married to Danny, they also think Angela is his daughter.

Since re-runs of the now-discontinued "Danny Thomas Show" currently occupy a Monday night spot on CBS' schedule, this opinion will be reinforced during the summer. Then, in September, Angela will suddenly appear with brand new TV parents, June Lockhart and Guy Williams, in a new CBS adventure series, "Lost in Space," victims of a spaceship wreck on an unknown planet.

Everybody knows June Lockhart, after all those TV years as the mother of a little boy named Timmie and owner of a dog, "Lassie."

(And to make everything a total chaos wasn't Guy Williams once introduced to us as Ben Cartwright's nephew on "Bonanza"?)

The youngsters got into acting by first becoming models. Angela, during her TV absence this year since Thomas dropped the comedy series, has been busy working in "The Sound of Music" movie.

BEATLE CARTOONS

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Beatles" will be on television every week starting this fall — but only as a cartoon series aimed at the Saturday morning children's audience. AEC has signed the half-hour series which will feature animated drawings of John, Paul, George and Ringo, plus recordings of the singing foursome.

Al Hirt warms up on his trumpet for CBS' "Fanfare," a summer musical series on which he is host. The series premieres tonight at 7:30.

The Outlook If New Show Reaches Top

NEW YORK (AP) — A friend who makes a handsome but nervous living predicting television tastes and dreaming up program ideas to match them had a flare-up of his ulcer when he heard that CBS next season will have a show called "The Wild, Wild West."

As a close student of TV ways, he is aware that a successful show one season results in a spate of imitations the next, plus some which try to combine an established form with a new trend — cops-and-robbers with comedy ("Burke's Law" and "The Rogues"); the supernatural or fantasy with comedy ("My Favorite Martian" and "Bewitched"), or war with comedy ("McHale's Navy" and "Gomer Pyle.")

Thus, evolving new series ideas often becomes almost a slide-rule operation. He foresees trouble ahead if "The Wild, Wild West" hits the Nielsen top 10; it seeks to combine, not the usual two but three forms: the perennially popular comedy, Old West plus the new secret agent fad.

Before entering the intensive care section of his hospital, he sent me, in plain, unmarked wrapping, the following attempt to combine the western, comedy and — here's the kicker — suds: "Marshal Place"

(Marshal Ben Ringo and his beautiful wife, Abigail, are having a cup of coffee at the bar of the Last Opportunity. A suitcase and hatbox are beside her.)

Ben: Abby, are you going to visit your ma in St. Louis again?

Abby: Ben, Ben, you're such a good man. I just don't know how to start... it isn't easy, Ben, because you've always been so good and understanding...

Ben: Are you trying to tell me something, Abigail?

(She breaks into sobs.)

Ben (puzzled): You mean?

Abby: Yes, yes. There's someone else. Oh Ben, you shouldn't have taken the stage to Cheyenne and left me alone so much. And your best friend!

Ben: You mean...?

Abby: Yes, I must tell you. I love Evil Eye Charlie and he loves me. We are going to make a new life together and neither you nor Myrna, his jealous wife, can stop us.

Ben: Why, now you just dry your tears, Abby. And you two just run along. For a few minutes I thought you were planning to run off with my trusty horse. And I sure hope you and Evil Eye have a pleasant time.

(The End)

My friend seemed unhappy, but I've just sent him a note saying I thought it was the most stimulating, creative, original outline for a pilot that I've read since someone smuggled me a new script with the working title of "Peyton Lane."

Franchot Tone as Physician

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — So it's goodbye, Dr. Zorba; hello, Dr. Freeland.

Wild-haired Sam Jaffe has scrubbed up for the last time on "Ben Casey," the long-run neurosurgery show. He has bequeathed his scalpels and specimens to his one-time fellow player in the group theater, Franchot Tone.

Looking mature but dashing at 58, film veteran Tone has slid into his new position with ease. Long a holdout against a television series, he accepted his new post "because I want to work at my profession."

Why the switch from Jaffe to Tone? It was no secret that Sam had become disenchanted with his often desultory duties on "Casey." Tone reported that Jaffe scrutinized the small print in his contract, discovered his option had been picked up two days too late, and said, "So long, fellas."

Tone was vacationing with his brother in Florida when this happened. He received a call from his New York agent, who had heard from his Hollywood agent, who had been contacted by Bing Crosby Productions, which makes "Casey."

Would he be interested in teaming up with Vince Edwards on "Casey"? Tone said yes, but he had to do a play in Winnipeg. Could it be fitted in? The four-way conversation continued back and forth until the details were ironed out.

One matter remained: "I grew a beard for the play; they'll have to take me and the beard or not at all."

They bought the beard, and Tone is now here to assume his role as Dr. Daniel Niles Freeland.

"I had refused series for years," he explained, "because I wanted to remain in New York to be near the theater. But lately there haven't been enough plays worth doing. I turned down more guest shots on television than I accepted. Parts in films were few and small in nature — cameo shots, they are called."

"I like my profession. Since there is not enough work elsewhere, I can work at it here, where I have a chance to test my abilities. It's better to know that you have a challenge than to sit on your rear and wait."

A veteran of the Hollywood social scene — he was married and divorced from actresses Joan Crawford, Joan Wallace, Barbara Feyton, and Dolores Don-Hoff — Tone still considers New York his home. But he is impressed with the local changes since his heyday of the '30s and '40s.

"There was a lot of froth in those days," he observed, "or maybe I was frothier then. Anyway, the froth seems to be separating. There are still those who hang out at the Whisky A-Go-Go and the Pink Pussy-cat. But the real people don't go to those places. There is plenty for them to do in the cultural vein. California is no longer the 'cultural desert' we used to say it was."

Coming Shows

This week's "Starring The Editors" program, Channel 30 Sunday at 4:30 p.m. and Channel 40 at 6:30 p.m., will feature Herbert Brucker, Hartford Courant; Richard Garvey, Springfield Daily News; Robert Lucas, Hartford Times; and William Dwight Sr., Holyoke Transcript-Telegram.

Ibsen's "A Doll's House" is performed on Channel 24 Thursday at 9 p.m., repeated Friday at 10 p.m.

Anne Bancroft appears in a repeat of William Inge's "Out on the Outskirts of Town" Friday 8:30-9:30 p.m. on NBC.

Bing Crosby and Jane Wyman are starred in the movie, "Just for You," Wednesday on NBC, 9-11 p.m.

Groucho Marx's daughter, Melinda Marx, makes an appearance on ABC's "Shindig" Wednesday, 8:30-9:30 p.m.

At 24, Still Joking

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "Truth or Consequences" has been around for 24 years, 14 of them on radio.

Bob Barker, the handsome, silver-haired fellow who has been practical joker-in-chief during its 10 years in television, says he once figured there were seven basic ideas built into the show. When pressed recently, however, he could come up with only four:

The reunion, in which two sisters or a mother and son or two neighbors are unexpectedly brought together on stage after a lapse of years. This one was so good that Ralph Edwards, who owns "Truth or Consequences," spun off another show, "This Is Your Life," from it.

The joke played on an unsuspecting passerby on a street and filmed with a hidden camera. This also has had considerable success in a television package called "Candid Camera."

The gag involving husband and wife — with help secretly enlisted from one spouse to entrap the other.

"But the backbone of the show always has been and I guess always will be the business of picking a contestant from the audience and playing a joke on him," Barker said.

Tuesday "Truth or Consequences" was in a backbone groove. It had one member of the studio audience trying to identify Fabian, a teen-age singing idol turned actor. There was another person passing out money to others in the audience who could guess the denominations of the concealed greenbacks. It confronted some unsuspecting girls with a fake ape. Barker says his most important function is to make spot selections of contestants who will react well and be entertaining.

"I operate mostly by intuition — and lots and lots of experience," he said. "If I can't pick them after 10 years, I'm overdue for a change of job."

Doc Adams Going On
NEW YORK (NEA)—Milburn Stone, Gunsmoke's Doc Adams, is set for one more year with that show, television's early settler. After that? "Well," said Milburn, "I was talking to Jim Arness about it this morning. Jim thinks the show can go on for at least one more year beyond this coming season. He's committed to it for a couple more years, but this is my last by contract. So he asked me if I'd go on."
"I said, 'Officially, no.' But unofficially I guess I would. I like to work. I like the part of Doc Adams. So why not?"
If Gunsmoke goes off, Milburn says there is only one other series he would do. And that's a show he and his brother are working up. Joe Stone is a newspaperman in San Diego.
"This show," Milburn says, "is for Joe's retirement. I'd play a turn-of-the-century doctor—no point in changing my image now—and there's a good part in it for Ken (Festus) Curtis, too."
Incidentally, do you know what Doc Adams' first name is? A. All the signs you'll ever see on the show merely say "Dr. G. Adams."
"It's Gaden," says Milburn. "I gave him that name. I figured that if he only puts his initials on the sign, it's because he doesn't like his first name. So I had to be something like Gaden. I know how that is, because I've never liked my own first name."
