Gauruder Named Police Lieutenant

Sgt. Henry Gauruder has been promoted to lieutenant and Patrolman Leo R. Grover to detective, Police Chief James M. Reardon has announced. Reardon also announced that two new patrolmen have been added to the force. They are Robert H. Love of Coventry and John J. Walrath of Pine St. The promotions and appointments are effective Aug. 29. The chief said the changes will make the police force more effective. He pointed out that there will now be a lieutenant on duty on nearly every shift. Gauruder, 42, of 81 High St., started as a supernumerary patrolman in 1947. He was named sergeant in 1952. In 1960, he was the first police officer from town to enter the State Police Training Academy at Bethany. Gauruder was involved in the fatal shooting in 1960 of Edward Tamiensky of Manchester who, ignoring warning shots and shouts, advanced on the officer, brandishing a hatchet and knife. Gauruder slipped on a patch of ice and fired at the man as he continued advancing. The police earlier had surrounded a house after receiving a complaint, and forced the man out with tear gas. Gauruder was involved in a coroner's report of any blame. A suit brought by Tamiensky's brother against the town and others was settled out of court for $1,250 in 1961.

Bear Fact - It Was Hot!

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Casper the bear couldn't bear it any longer. The bruin, a 1,600-pound Kodiak, ripped off the 150-pound steel door to his den Sunday. Police and zookeepers rushed to the scene. But all Casper wanted was to romp in the pool within his fenced yard at the Baltimore Zoo on a hot, muggy day. Zookeepers had moved the bear into the den while they cleaned the yard.

Motorists Warned of Phony Cops

HARTFORD (AP)—Advice from State Police Commissioner Leo J. Mulcahy: If you're driving on a Connecticut highway and are pulled to the side of the road by a man in uniform, don't answer any questions until you're sure he is a policeman. Mulcahy took issue today with what he called "self-styled highway safety patrols." He said about a half dozen such organizations exist in Connecticut under a variety of names. All wear uniforms and some are even radio dispatched through hookups with citizens band equipment. Their stated purpose is to assist stranded motorists. "I do not quarrel with their purpose," Mulcahy said. "However, I am opposed to such groups because they are completely devoid of discipline." The commissioner said that one group has copied the state seal on a shoulder patch. The patch looks very much like that worn by authorized state troopers. State police have received complaints that some members of the groups are stopping motorists and asking to see their operator's licenses. One organization, the commissioner said, has copied the shape of the state police plate used to identify state police cars. "They have changed the colors from our blue and gold to blue and white. A quick look at this plate would lead the average motorist to believe the vehicle was a state police cruiser," Mulcahy said. He suggested that men who have an interest in aiding the territory of the other party.

Stephanopoulos Barred New, Deeper Crisis Facing Greek King

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Center Union party deputies today voted against allowing Stephanos Stephanopoulos to form a new government. The action plunged Greece even deeper into crisis and confronted King Constantine with a new challenge. The deputies of the nation's biggest party, led by ousted Premier George Papandrou, voted 120-18 against Stephanopoulos' accepting a mandate from the king, a party official said. A veteran politician and former deputy premier under ousted Premier George Papandrou, Stephanopoulos told the caucus: "I will abide by the king's decision." The party spokesman said Papandrou advised the Center

Union members of parliament that leaders are chosen by the people.

"The king can appoint anyone premier, but he abuses his rights if he does so," Papandrou said. In asking Stephanopoulos to try to form a government, King Constantine rejected Papandrou's demand that he be returned to power. (See Page Nine)

Indonesian Dispute Erupts Singapore Quits Federation

SINGAPORE (AP)—This island state pulled out of the 23-month-old Federation of Malaysia today and immediately became embroiled with Federal Prime Minister Abdul Rahman over relations with Indonesia. Premier Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore told a news conference Singapore wants to be friends with Indonesia, which has sworn to crush Malaysia. Singapore once carried on a flourishing trade with Indonesia and obviously wants to regain it. Lee declared, however, that cooperation with Indonesia would be impossible unless the Indonesian recognize Singapore as a sovereign, independent nation. In Jakarta, Indonesian Deputy Premier Subandrio said Indonesia was ready to recognize Singapore but would continue its hostile policy toward the federation. In the federal capital of Kuala Lumpur, Rahman was asked at a news conference what would happen if Singapore established diplomatic relations with Indonesia and Red China. "If they do that, the obvious intention is to harm our interests," Rahman replied. "We can't allow that to happen. We would take action." Rahman did not elaborate, but he noted that the separation agreement signed by his government and Singapore included a pledge "not to undertake to enter into any treaty or agreement with a foreign country which may be detrimental to the independence and defense of the Lee said nothing about seeking diplomatic recognition from Singapore in charting a neutral course for his new nation, but said Singapore would trade with all nations.

Rahman told Parliament in Kuala Lumpur that Singapore and Malaysia would continue to cooperate in defense and economic affairs despite secession of the federation's chief port and metropolis. In Singapore, riot police stood guard in Malay sections of the largely Chinese port ready for any demonstrations against secession. The split is the outcome of political rivalry between the Malaysian Chinese, who dominate the economy of the federation, and the Malays who control the federal government in Kuala Lumpur.

Death Ship Heading Home; Captain Dead, Three Missing

State News Fire Razes Large Barn In Stafford

STAFFORD SPRINGS—A fire destroyed a barn and two cows early today on a dairy farm owned by John Mordasay. Also destroyed in the blaze were a variety of farm equipment, two silos and about 2,500 pounds of hay. Most of Mordasay's herd was in pasture. A damage estimate was not available. It was the 10th fire of suspicious origin in this area in the past month. Nearly all the others were in similar rural areas on back roads. Mordasay told police that he heard a car stop near his farm before midnight. A short while later he smelled smoke and discovered the blaze.

Terrified Crewman Tells Story

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The death ship Seven Seas, stained by the blood of her captain, first mate and two crewmen, battled rough currents today toward Key West, where investigators waited to hear the story of sudden violence that swept her decks. Only one frightened crewman remained alive on board. He was one of eight aboard the 195-foot Panamanian flag vessel when she left Miami, Fla., Saturday bound for a Tampa, Fla., drydock. Elwin Burywaise, 25, said he saw the first mate shot to death in his bunk, the captain lying dead in a pool of blood on the bridge and believed two other crewmen were shot. Only three bodies were found aboard. The Coast Guard speculated that the fourth was thrown overboard. The ship's 14-foot skiff was missing, along with the remaining three crewmen. FBI agents, a U.S. marshal and Coast Guard investigators waited at the docks for the expected arrival of the Seven Seas under tow by the cutter Cape Shoalwater. Murder on the high seas is a matter for the FBI. Mutiny comes under Coast Guard jurisdiction. Lt. Paul R. Lewis, a Coast Guard pilot, was on his daily patrol in Cuban shipping lanes Sunday when he saw the Seven Seas adrift. "The ship looked seaworthy," Lewis said, "but no one came to the deck to wave at us. I made many low passes but there were no signs of life, no one on deck or in the wheelhouse." Burywaise, a Honduran, told Coast Guardsmen boarding the vessel that he saw a crewman shoot the first mate dead in his bunk Saturday night. Terrified, he said he raced to the bridge to warn the captain (See Page Eight)

Held in Shooting

HARTFORD (AP)—Two young men accused of the shooting of the Rt. Rev. Magr. Francis J. Fazzalari last Thursday night, were bound over to Superior Court when presented in Enfield Circuit Court today. The suspects are Guadalupe Vasquez-Ortega, 22, and Vicente N. Rivera, 22, both of Hartford. They were arrested Sunday and taken to St. Francis Hospital, where police said Monsignor Fazzalari identified them. Rivera and Vasquez-Ortega were booked on charges of assault with intent to murder and held under bond of $25,000 each. State police said they did not know what the motive of the shooting was or who pulled the trigger.

Cong Snipers Hit Troops, Shoot Down U.S. Jet Plane

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—Viet Cong riflemen sniped today at government forces marching to relieve the besieged special forces camp at Duc Co and shot down a U.S. Air Force F100 fighter fly-
Route 19 is a cross-country road between Qui Nhon, a supply port on the South China Sea, and Duc Co, near the Cambodian frontier. The spokesman said one of two F100 fighters summoned for air strikes against a Viet Cong force estimated at one battalion was hit by ground fire and the pilot parachuted about six miles east of Duc Co. He disappeared. U.S. Army helicopters attempted to rescue him, the spokesman said, but found only his parachute before intense Viet Cong fire forced them to leave the area. Communist forces have laid siege to the camp 220 miles northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border for 66 days. Twelve Americans and more than 150 mountain tribesmen and Vietnamese are in the camp. The Viet Cong hits the Duc Co camp daily with mortars and small arms fire. Two Americans and 20 Vietnamese have been killed since June 3. A large Vietnamese paratrooper force was sent in last Thursday to lift the siege, but was driven back into the camp lines when it tried to move out against the Viet Cong. Ground action in other areas continued light over the weekend and into today. Air observers estimated about (See Page Eight)

Hearing Continues

NEW HAVEN (AP)—The procedure for denoting inconsistencies in grades on pupils' transcripts was described today at a public hearing into charges against Hillhouse High School Principal Robert T. Levine. Levine is charged with having allowed transcripts with altered grades to be sent to various colleges. Crippled Youth's Effort Saves Would-Be Suicide

COPENHAGEN (AP)—The teen-age Danish paralytic stood in muddy water to his waist Sunday night, facing a young woman intent on drowning herself in a lake in the heart of Copenhagen. "I can't go on living," she cried. "Leave me alone — I want to die!" The woman had dashed out of an apartment house, plunged into Sortedams Lake fully dressed and waded toward deep water. Scores watched from the shore. One watcher acted — Bent Staerkær, 18, a watchmaker's apprentice who has been partially paralyzed from the waist down since a childhood attack of polio. Bent was looking out the window of his room on the third floor of a home for disabled persons. He grabbed his two walking sticks, hobbled down the stairs, got on his motorized bicycle and rode a quarter of a mile to a place where he could enter the water. Slipping and nearly falling on the muddy bottom, the youth waded out. He almost lost one of his sticks. When the water reached his waist, he could go no farther. He called out to the young woman, about 10 yards from him in water up to her neck. "Look at me," he said quietly. "I am a cripple. I walk with two sticks. I don't kill myself." For a long minute she stared at him, then slowly waded back. They came ashore together. Police, called by someone in the crowd, put the young woman in an ambulance. Bent climbed back on his bicycle, his two sticks under an arm, and drove off to the home for the disabled.

Solo Sailor Sighted OK

FALMOUTH, England (AP)—A Royal Air Force seacoast command plane today sighted Robert Manry, the American sailor bridging the Atlantic alone in a small boat. The pilots waved. The RAF Shackleton radioed from about 290 miles out, informing St. Margaw base that Manry's tiny boat was sailing along comfortably on a direct course for his goal, Falmouth Harbor officials here figure he should reach it around the end of the week. The Cleveland, Ohio, newspaperman set out June 1 from Falmouth, Mass., in the 13 1/2-foot Tinkerbell on the 3,200-mile voyage to Falmouth, England. Manry's family—wife and two children—and several Cleveland Plain Dealer officials are here to greet him. The immensity of his record-breaking success aroused interest in the British and international press, which converged on this tip of England to pay tribute. The British Broadcasting Corp. issued periodic bulletins, which probably reached Manry himself. He has radio receiving equipment aboard. The Belgian tanker Begulil Glory spotted Manry on Sunday about 300 nautical miles from Falmouth.

Klan Stages Silent Rally In Americus

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP)—The Ku Klux Klan staged a silent march and massive rally Sunday only a few hours before Negroes held their own demonstration. State troopers and city policemen stood by in large numbers as each group gathered. There were no incidents. Klan members and white sympathizers marched 800 strong to the street corner where Andrew Whatley, a 21-year-old white man, was shot. A civil rights demonstration was being held several blocks away at the time of the shooting. Two Negroes have been indicted on murder charges in his death. After the Klan marchers knelt for a brief memorial service, they trooped behind flags of the United States and the Confederate flag along a seven-block route to the Sumner County Courthouse where another 400 persons waited. Seventy-five robed and hooded Klansmen were scattered along the procession. Others wore sport coats emblazoned with Klan emblems. There were no masks, which are outlawed by Georgia law. The demonstrators included many women and some teenagers. Some walked hand-in-hand. A Klan official had told them anyone who could not control his emotions should leave. "We want a silent march," he said. "We're here to let the people know the Klan is on the move," said Calvin Craig of Atlanta, Georgia's grand dragon. "The Klan is the only salvation of the white man." "It's the white man against the Negro," said another speaker, Robert Shelton of Tuscaloosa. (See Page Eight)

Bulletins

ATTORNEY SHOT BANGOR, Maine (AP)—A man walked into a downtown law office today, pumped five bullets into former State Sen. Wendell R. Atherton, 52, and left him dying. Less than half an hour later, Capt. Edward M. Short said, Merle R. Tapley, 30, of Hillsbocket, walked into police headquarters saying: "I just shot Wendell Atherton." Atherton was dead on arrival at a hospital. HEALTH BILL SIGNED WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson signed a $280-million health research bill today and announced he is going to create a top-level task force to set for the nation goals that will be at once ambitious and realistic. Johnson said his panel will set national goals in education, in health, and in the quest for happiness for all the world's children. Composed of experts in and out of government under presidential leadership, he said, the task force will "tell America where we are, where we are going, and how we are going to get there."

Medicare and Social Security Home Health Benefits

By JOHN THOAN
NEA Special Writer

Medicare will deliver health benefits right to a patient's home. These "home health services" become available July 1, 1965.

- Part-time or intermittent nursing care provided by or under the supervision of a registered nurse won't be covered.
- Physical, occupational and speech therapy.
- Services of medical social workers.
- Part-time or intermittent services of a "home health aide," such as a nurse's aide. (But services of so-called homemakers, who handle cooking or house-keeping chores, won't be covered.)
- Medical supplies other than drugs (such as dressings and splints).
- Use of medical appliances (such as wheelchairs and crutches).
- Services of interns and residents connected with a hospital which is affiliated with an agency that provides "home health" benefits.

Excluded will be any services not deemed to be both medically necessary and reasonable. For example, if the home health aide is to provide a special hospital bed, Medicare won't pay for it. The same will apply to such things as massage and hair treatments. If a medical social worker interviews the patient, the patient will pay otherwise, no.

Under some circumstances, the treatment center will bill Medicare for "home health services" outside its home. For instance, if a patient is hospitalized for a week and then discharged to his home, Medicare will pay for the home health services during that week.

Massive Search For Lost Boys To End Tonight

MELROCKEET, Maine (AP) — The search for two Rochester, N.Y., boys who disappeared a week ago Friday is due to end tonight.

Inland Fish and Game Commissioner Ronald T. Speers made the announcement Sunday at a hearing in Bangor. Speers said the search for the two boys, Robble Mott, 17, a mentally retarded diabetic, and his brother Timothy, 14, who disappeared from the Rattine Brook camp site, is being discontinued. Speers said he had no evidence to believe the boys were still alive. He said the search area was first opened for uses of a medical report based on information from the Rattine Brook camp site. Business among the Negro and Puerto Rican populations of New York City. This shows on the records of the doctors and the hospitals.

To explain these statistics, however, the medical profession seems to be turning to the realm of the emotions. The theory which keeps suggesting itself is that the epidemic being charted by the statistics is being caused by the tensions and emotional strain engendered by the civil rights struggle.

Put a human being in a position in which he has to feel angry about aspirations he cannot satisfy while, at the same time, he must regulate his anger and his behavior in order to get along successfully in his present status in the world, and say the psychoanalyst, you have a human being who is likely to have an attack of asthma all by himself.

And some of the doctors in contact with the New York situation believe this assumption they have stopped looking for other explanations of the epidemic, and begun to wonder about cures which would match what they consider the origin of the disease.

America in 1965 could, of course, try to turn the clock back, all the way to the point where such people had no hope, and therefore were making no great struggle and therefore weren't taking on tension. Or one can try to move ahead until there is a little more certainty of a supply of both big and little victories in the struggle for equal citizenship, and such assurance can make it possible for hope to grow stronger.

There is no question about the direction in which we all have to head. Before we get to the healthy destination, however, the epidemic which may be psychosomatic will probably have paid some kind of visit to us all.

Holiday From Government
None of the experts in the nation's financial pages seem able to figure out how it is the economy of the Good Neighbor Republic of Columbia has been so paralyzed to function. How, during a period of many months during which the government of Columbia has been too paralyzed to function, how the economy of the country at large is stimulating and rescuing the economy, pepping it up with greater spending, thinking up new regulations to deal with the economic life of the country at large.

The West In Asia
It does not penetrate easily to the minds of Western policy makers that not only is the era of European and American colonialism in the Asian world supposedly at an end, but that it is also going to be a difficult, and perhaps impossible matter, for the West to exercise its own direction and veto over the manner in which Asia is going to chart its own political future.

The harsh truth may be that unhesitant post-colonial benevolence on the part of the West may not be rewarded with much more gratitude than was given the original direct rule of colonialism.

Today, the facts of life about post-colonial Asia are being illustrated in Malaysia. Britain has been illustrating in Malaysia that Western colonialism in Asia died when the Japanese took impregnably the Malay Peninsula. Britain, in fact, was benevolently efficient in helping these people toward that freedom.

Britain had sense enough to know that Western colonialism in Asia died when the Japanese took impregnably the Malay Peninsula. Britain, in fact, was benevolently efficient in helping these people toward that freedom.

More than that, Britain, in an operation which has sometimes been called "the greatest something we ought to take as a model for our own efforts in Vietnam," was able to show the new independence of Malaysia a technique for dealing, successfully, with the problem of Communist guerrillas operating through the jungles of the country. The jungle was pacified.

More recently, this hard but skillful way peace has been threatened by guerrillas and raids from Indonesia, and Britain has, in recent months, quietly been moving military force into position to defend Malaysia against possible Indonesian operations, direct or indirect. The Malaysian situation could have been big headlines for several months past if Vietnam had not been giving the world a more advanced and desperate instance of the same old situation—the West standing against shifting tides of Asian post-war and post-colonial political and power-political readjustments.

The sharp news today is that Singapore, the small but strategic and significant little island whose conquest by the Japanese signaled the end of old-time Western prestige in Asia, has seceded from the Malaysian Federation and is carefully nurtured and protected by Britain.

By going it alone, Singapore regains its freedom to trade with Indonesia, which freely poses as the enemy of the Malaysian Federation. By going it alone, Singapore makes itself a sort of Chinese enclave—not Communist China, but Chinese in ethnic and cultural and commercial aspects.

And by going it alone, Singapore indicates its lack of enthusiasm for the benevolent role of Britain in standing ready to use its military force to protect Malaysia. Singapore, apparently, is willing to take its chances with Indonesia.

Singapore, perhaps, prefers to be Asian to anything else.

The other day, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the snappy little air marshal who is currently the head of government in South Vietnam, got quite snippy about the role the United States is playing there. He delivered a lecture on the proper nature of the ties between the United States and South Vietnam. These ties, he said, should not be allowed to become "chains of slavery" which would make it possible to continue the struggle for freedom against the Communists.

Nothing could be farther from our conscious American intent, than to substitute our authority for the free will of Asians by Asians. Our purpose is benevolent. But that it is to guarantee how our purposes and behavior are going to look to Asian eyes. Even when his intentions are the best, the West has, in Asia, two enemies already against it. We are not Asians.

HAARLEM, THE NETHERLANDS
WITH EXTRAORDINARY PRECISION and clarity, the Dutch artist Gerrit Rietveld, Berckheide painted this handsome architectural view of the City of Haarlem in The Netherlands, in 1928. The picture shows the central square and the town hall of Haarlem much as they appear today. The town hall was formerly the castle of the county, dating from the 13th century. It was remodeled about 1620-30. Berckheide was a pupil of the great Frans Hals. In 1960 he became a member of the St. Luke's Guild in his native city, Haarlem, the traditional guild for artists. St. Luke having been an artist himself, Berckheide also painted architectural views of Amsterdam, The Hague, as well as of Germany. This view of Haarlem is part of the permanent collection of the Wadsworth Atheneum.

principal officers of Minnesota Mining (an active participant in far right political affairs). What they blame is the system—the year-after-year election of a man who is absolute in contending that one person or corporation should be permitted to own only one television station (instead of the present maximum of five).

53 Bodies Recovered In Missile Silo Blaze

LONDON, Oct. (AP) - A man returned to his parked car Monday and found it had been hit by another car. Two notes were left on the windshield.

One read: "People who are watching me think I'm writing my license number and name. Ho-ho-ho!"

The second note, apparently from a witness, "1962 moss green Pontiac 4-door sedan, Upper Canada village sticker on bumper, Man dark curly hair, glasses, 5' 7", 28 years old, Woman, 5' 8", 28 years old, License begins with 8."

Police broadcast the description of the car and its occupants.

The former pastor, The Rev. Dr. W. M. Watkins, said the church board voted to accept the new minister under which any new minister would be accepted solely on the basis of his character, ability and qualifications.

Now that policy has been put into effect, the Rev. Dr. Watkins, 64, said he would be leaving the church on Monday.

Starting Sept. 1, the new minister of the church will be the Rev. Dr. Watkins, 64, said he would be leaving the church on Monday.

Exact Count Of Casualties Is Uncertain
Searcy, Ark. (AP) - The death count from an explosion and fire in a Titan 2 missile launching site rose to 53 today with the discovery of six more bodies on lower levels of the underground silo.

"It is very possible that is the final count," said Capt. Douglas Wood, Air Force public information officer at the site.

Searchers planned to pump several feet of water out of the bottom of the concrete tube holding the missile before giving up the search.

The exact number of civilian workers in the missile complex at the time of the blast and fire Monday was unclear.

Two workers scrambled out when the fire erupted and escaped without serious injury.

The Air Force said the 10-foot-diameter tube, an antiterrorist ballistic missile capable of delivering a nuclear warhead 4,000 miles, did not burn.

It was not armed, a spokesman said, and there was no danger of a nuclear explosion.

The men in the tube were civilians working to update the missile complex, one of 17 Titan II launch sites rising centrally Arkansas.

Four Air Force crewmen in the missile complex were killed Monday - the most distant point from the blast and fire has not been determined.

At least eight other Air Force workers were injured, including Air Force rescue teams in carbide auto climbed down into the 200-foot-deep tunnel, carried bodies out of the upper levels, and 20 to 40 feet below ground level.

Some 100 relatives, clustered in a small room, waited quickly, waited under a full moon in the rear of the site of the rescue operation.

Air Force police kept everyone out at 7:30 p.m. after four hours after the blast.

Two survivors Express Thanks And Sadness Too
Searcy, Ark. (AP) - A youth of 18 and a man of 30 rested in hospital beds here today, thankful that they escaped from the explosion and fire in the missile complex but saddened that fellow workers didn't.

The two young men, 44 civilian workers were trapped when an explosion and fire in the missile complex on Monday.

The first bodies were brought out at 7:30 p.m. after four hours after the blast.
