At The Center Of The Agency
Any of the young demonstrators against war in Vietnam who think that other Americans, including those in Washington who are shoudering the load of decision about the war, are very happy about the whole thing might open and broaden their minds by reading an interpretive piece written by Albert Cooke in the British Manchester Guardian.

Correspondent Cooke obviously wrote his interpretation of how one individual in a particular position, in this case President Johnson, feels after the very same conversation with that very same gentleman - pre-hypnotization, one presumes.

At any rate, here are snatches of the way Correspondent Cooke reports: "Nothing that has happened to President Johnson since he went to hospital last December has been a disappointment to him. He has been very happy about the whole thing since he went to hospital and broadened their minds by reading an interpretive piece written by Albert Cooke in the British Manchester Guardian."

To Solve Yale's Problem
There is possible, on a small, suitable combination of football team and pretty cheer leaders down at Yale. But Yale in its first attempt to field the combination, got things mixed up. Lay Yale football team which stands strong and victorious on the field is in a sufficient state of grace with its public and with the wates of the gridders to be able to support any kind of cheerleader it please.

But it isn't good form to import a group of lovelines from the Connecticut College for Women to serve as cheerleaders for a Yale eleven which might not be able to defeat a good girl's team. And Yale's tactical mistake, on the face of it, was that it didn't make maximum use of the talents it had assembled. It should have let the pretty cheer leaders play Columbia, and the famous fringed, yellow and red varsity dance up and down the sidelines.

A Quickie Decision
Acting out of a fear that bureaucracy might ride roughshod over the rights of the people, the Connecticut State Convention last week enacted a far-reaching change in the eminent domain provisions of the Constitution.

The decision was taken by delegates seated at the public hearing on the subject of eminent domain. The delegates decided to change the eminent domain provision. This new law says that the property of a person shall be taken for public use only if the compensation therefor is just and reasonable. The compensation shall be determined by a commission of three persons, one of whom shall be a representative of the public.

The delegates did not want to change the eminent domain provision. Connecticut Yankee
The Constitutional Convention held its important business last Monday afternoon. And when we get around to it, we may compose to it a hymn of praise for what this column holds to be one of the great decisions of the whole Convention - that not to require annual sessions of the new Connecticut Legislature. This had been, from the very outset, the most important question the Convention was called to decide outside its compulsory routine, and the delegates did not make a bad thing of it. In fact, it is a constitutional change that is likely to be motivated by the taking charge.

The delegates did not want to change the eminent domain provision. This new law says that the property of a person shall be taken for public use only if the compensation therefor is just and reasonable. The compensation shall be determined by a commission of three persons, one of whom shall be a representative of the public.

Birds of the Atlantic Salt Marshes

Wonders of the Universe
Manned Mars Trip Likely in 1980s
The dramatic success of the recent Mariner IV flyby past Mars has stimulated interest in other instruments planned and the eventual manned landing on the planet. The information received from the earth would be the first of the relatively brief flight of the Mars probe. There would be an 18-hour flight in the atmosphere of Mars, followed by a 40-foot cylinder, about ten feet in diameter, that would be ejected from the lander. The lander would be the Apollo-type capsule for earth re-entry. In the cylinder would be a container with the plans for the astronauts to be re-oriented during the trip. Such a procedure was necessary.

McChee Warning
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) - U.S. Ambassador George C. McChee has warned that U.S.-German relations could become strained if the "lapses of confidence" in the West German government continue. McChee said the lapses could reduce the trust between the two nations.

Flight Plan Detailed
The Mars spacecraft would be launched from the earth with multiple launchings of the Saturn V, assembled and fueled in orbit. About eight minutes before the launch, the spacecraft would be ejected from the Saturn V. THE Herald Angle

Soap Box Department
Opinion stressed over the years by the writer that Manchester High, or any high school, if it wanted to grade coaching for its major sports teams, especially football, should give the position to a specially trained and qualified coach first and not to a classroom teacher who would coach as an extra assignment.

Baseball, Teamwork Spark Booters

Conyers' Records 10th Goal

Scoring in three of the four periods and getting four from four players, Manchester High's soccer team blanked Bristol Eastern High yesterday afternoon in the first game of the season. The team's record is now 10-0.

Reserve to Handle Grid Cards Sunday

NEW YORK (AP)—Loyie Navlin Humphrey has been named as the reserve to handle the grid cards for the 1966 season. He will be in charge of the cards for the entire season.

San Diego Yardstick Explained

NEW YORK (AP)—The San Diego Chargers have created a new yardstick for measuring success in pro football. The yardstick is based on the number of yards gained per play.

Jets Top Giants, Pats Triumph

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Jets defeated the New York Giants 17-14 in a football game yesterday. The Patriots also won their game against the Colts.

Race to the Wire In Midget Football

Things are a little sticky in the Midget Football League standings today following last night's doubleheader action at Mt. Nebo.

Here in There

Don Clerkin, new sports publicity director at Central Connecticut State College, is also writing a weekly sports column for the Inquirer. He will be covering a wide range of sports topics.

Records Due in NHL For Howe and Gadsby

NEW YORK (AP)—Gordie Howe, the National Hockey League's career scoring leader, and Bill Gadsby, both of Detroit, will tie a league record tonight when the six-team circuit opens its 1965-66 season with games in Montreal and Toronto.

Schoolboys in Action Today

Football will fill the air this afternoon when Manchester High hosts Maloney High in the Memorial Field in a CCHL battle which has a 1:30 kickoff start and East Catholic High treks to East Hartford to tangle with Fenwick High at 2 o'clock.

Oaks Set to Roll In Stadium Game

The search for a title to help the Charter Oaks in the waning days of their maiden season of the Continental League continues with the team's final game against the New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium.

Pats Out to Upset Raiders In Meeting on West Coast

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The Oakland Raiders, who have been the league's surprise team, are expected to upset the San Diego Chargers in a game on the West Coast.

Arkansas Win Streak And Ranking on Line

NEW YORK (AP)—Arkansas puts its No. 1 rating and the nation's longest college football winning string on the line against overmatched North Texas tonight, and it appears the Razorbacks have little to worry about by their own superiority.

Cheney Lose Out, 6-2

Trailing 4-2 after three periods, Cheney Tech saw host East Granby High tally twice in the second period to gain a well-deserved 6-2 victory. Cheney Tech's record is now 1-4.

Ready Texas?

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you ready for the Texas Tech Red Raiders? The team is expected to be a major force in the upcoming season.

Ingredients of Classic Upset

The Razorbacks are a top-rated favorite, but the ingredients of a classic upset are often found in the underdog team's performance.

Sweeper Crew Finds Eyeglasses

Excellent vision and strict attention to details are not necessarily the main qualifications for operating a highway department sweeper but they proved invaluable yesterday morning.

A town sweeper crew, working on Taylor St. near Rt. 83, found a pair of men's glasses in a pile of leaves. They are encased in smoked gray frames and appear to be either unbreakable or of the safety variety.

The glasses may be picked up on Monday at the Town Highway Garage on Olcott St.

About Town

James H. Wright of 39 N. Elm St. is still in Manchester Memorial Hospital and has not been discharged, as was incorrectly reported in Yesterday's Herald.

A color film of an interview in Viet Nam between Pfc William McMullan of 30 Henry St., a helicopter machine gunner, and a WTIC reporter, will be shown over WTIC-TV news on Sunday at 11 p.m.

Those with donations for the silent auction booth of the Second Congregational Church Pilgrim Harvest Bazaar are reminded to leave them at the church office or contact Mrs. John M. Hyde, 11 Meadow Lane.

The Perennial Planters Garden Club will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Theodore Chambers, 41 White St. Mrs. James Hennessy will serve as co-hostess. Miss Millie Jones will show color slides of "Color in the Garden Throughout the Year."

Manchester Chapter of SPBBQSA will present a Banquet Quartet Package Show tonight at 8:15 at Rham High School Auditorium, Hebron. The program is sponsored by the Glead Men's Club of the Congregational Church. The Village Charmers of Mountain Laurel Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc., and the Silk Town Four of Manchester SPBBQSA will appear on the program.

The K of C will present a film, "How to Watch Fire Football," Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the clubhouse. Members and guests are invited.

John B. Durey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Durey, 138 Lyness St., was recently promoted to Airman I.C. by the U.S. Air Force. He is stationed at Spangdahlem AFB, Germany. He is a 1962 graduate of Glastonbury High School.

Dick Pague of Manchester will entertain with magic tricks Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at a meeting of Mental Aid Fellowship. Programs in creative writing and oil painting start at 1:30 p.m., followed by dinner. Thursday night will be "Open Night." The group is open to persons in the Greater Hartford and Manchester areas who have been or are being treated for a mental or emotional illness. Those wishing information may call the Capital Region Mental Health Association, Inc., 217 Farmington Ave., Hartford.

Friendship Circle of the Salvation Army will have a work and fellowship meeting Monday at 7:35 p.m. at the Citadel. Mrs. Harry Jenkins and Mrs. Maynard Clough will serve as hostesses.

Miss Joyce Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Flynn, 149 Porter St., has been selected to present a regularly scheduled show on the Drw University, Madison, N.J., campus radio station.

Miss Kathleen Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Perry, 211 Hollister St., is a member of the guide committee for the Meriden Hospital's School of Nursing open house scheduled Nov. 3 from 2:45 to 5 p.m. at the hospital. The open house is for high school students, their parents and counselors.

Rainbow Mothers' Circle will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple. There will be a social hour after a short business meeting.

He is a member of the Educational Committee of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Hartford Life Underwriters Association.

A graduate of Hall High School in West Hartford and Stetson University in Deland, Fla., Champeau received his LL.B. in 1950 from the University of Connecticut School of Law. He is a member of the Bar in Connecticut. He served as a pilot in the United States Air Force during World War II. He and his wife, Lorraine, live at 21 Elizabeth Dr.

STATION CITED

A Manchester service station is a finalist in the Connecticut Petroleum Council's "Service Station of the Year" contest. Inspection and judging have been completed.

Triangle Tumpike Service Station operated by Richard G. Noel at 128 Tolland Tpk., was one of 57 chosen from more than 4,000 in the state.

A three-member panel judged the stations. The men were John Bennett, chief of the weights and measures division, state department of consumer protection, Edward A. Carroll, assistant chief of the engineering division, state department of motor vehicles and Edward F. Dunn, president, Connecticut Federation of Planning and Zoning Agencies.

The Triangle station was in the class of those in operation less than eight years. It has been open since May, 1964. The winner will be announced at the annual Awards Banquet to be held next Tuesday at the Staller Hilton, Hartford.

2 Scholarships Are Awarded By Couples Club

The Couples Club of Second Congregational Church has awarded scholarships of $200 to two Manchester students currently attending the University of Connecticut.

Joyce Rylander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rylander 20 Dorothy Rd., graduated in 1964 from Manchester High School. She is presently a sophomore at the agricultural school studying veterinary medicine.

Frederick Sprague, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sprague 78 Alton St., graduated from Manchester High this summer and is now a freshman in the school of fine arts, majoring in music. He is a member of the school's concert choir.

The scholarship committee of the club consists of Mrs. Thomas Dawkins, Mrs. Donald Wells, Edwin Sage and Russell Elliot.

92 Cases Taken By Homemakers

A total of 92 cases has been handled by Manchester Home-maker Service, Inc. for the past year, it was reported Thursday by Mrs. Louis Hurwitz, director, at the first annual meeting of the agency at 237 E. Center St.

The director said that 78 of the cases involved mothers between the ages of 19 and 49 years of age. The most prevalent of the variety of cases handled were in homes where there was post natal or pregnancy complications. They also included neuropsychiatric, respiratory nervous system and heart cases, among others. Homemakers cared for 176 children under 10 years of age and gave a total of almost 1300 hours, it was reported.

Miss Frances Badger, secretary of the board of directors, gave a review of the year's ac-

Business Bodies

The interior of the Fairway Department Store at 975 Main St. is adding space without expanding. These new shelves with peg boards are called steel gondolas. According to Leo Juran, owner and manager of the store, the gondolas make much better use of available space. More articles can be put on display. The articles are more easily seen. Juran says the toy section will be enlarged. A curtain rod section will be added. The new arrangements are scheduled to be in full use Monday. The shelves are in the rear third of the store. Juran said the front third of the store has had the new shelves for three years. The shelves will be put in the middle section sometime this winter. There is another Fairway store at the Popular Market shopping center on E. Middle Tpk. Juran calls them the "most unique variety stores" in the area. (Herald photo by Oflara.)

TO RETIRE

The treasurer and past president of the Optical Style Bar at 763 Main St., Duncan T. Smith, is retiring. He will retire from the business he helped start in 1951 when the opticians opened an office on Main St. He has been the firm's accountant and record keeper. He holds stock in the firm and is a member of its board of directors.

Duncan T. Smith

A retirement banquet was held in his honor last Saturday night at the Windsor House in East Windsor. He and his wife, Edith, were given a large color TV set in appreciation of his service.

Before helping to form the Style Bar, Smith was employed for many years by the Whitlock Manufacturing Co., West Hartford. His training and experience prepared him well for his work at the Style Bar.

He and his wife plan a complete retirement. They will maintain their residence in Hartford.

Two Manchester men associated with Lutheran Brotherhood will attend a sales conference to be sponsored by the Minneapolis - based fraternal insurance society Tuesday at the Tobacco Valley Inn, Windsor. They are Robert Ahlness of 45 Castle Rd., general agent, and Bernard R. Johnson of 183 Birch St., district representative.

John C. Barbour Jr. was elected an assistant vice president this week of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. He will join the main office at 1 Constitution Plaza. He plans to make his home in Glastonbury with his wife and three children. He was formerly an assistant vice president of the First National City Bank of New York.

Barbara Kupferschmid of Rockville, sales representative in this area for Investors Diversified Services, Inc., is attending a career recognition conference conducted by the company in Minneapolis. She qualified on the basis of her sales record and service performance during the past twelve months. The four-day conference starts

Town Airman Top for Month

Airman Z.C. Robert A. Chapman of Manchester has been selected airman for the month of October by the Commander of 69th Radar Squadron, Lewisville, Mont.

His selection was based on recommendation of his supervisor, job knowledge, performance of duties and adherence to customs and courtesies of the Air Force.

The airman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Chapman of 403 Woodland St. He is a communications specialist in the communications center at the 69th Radar Squadron. The airman recently represented the squadron in the 29th Air Division Chess-Tournament and took second place. He then represented the 29th Air Division in the Air Defense Command Tournament.

Courses Offered By Tech School

The evening program at the Howell Cheney Technical School has openings for adults interested in machine drafting, blueprint reading, shop mathematics and electric code.

The electric code course has been designed by Ernest McNell, instructor and electrical inspector for the town of Manchester, for electricians seeking to qualify for their master license through the now mandatory state examination. Sessions are held on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m.

Courses in blueprint reading and shop mathematics meet Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 10 p.m. No tuition is charged for any of the courses.

LEASING PLANS FOR ALL 1965 MAKES & MODELS

From Shakespeare to Spying

Hollywood (NEA)—NBC has been a little reluctant to publicize that fact, but this isn't the first television series for Barbara Feldon, the tall and slender Agent 99 on "Get Smart."

Some years ago, in television's giddy days, there was The $64,000 Question. And Barbara Feldon, then Barbara Hall, won $64,000 as an expert on Shakespeare. Later, the quiz show scandals broke.

"The scandal didn't rub off on me," Barbara says. "It was more on 'Twenty-One' than 'The $64,000 Question,' anyhow. My friends used to joke about it, they would tease me about getting the answers in advance. It was all joking. But sometimes there is seriousness behind joking."

At the time, she was single, so the tax bite on $64,000 was stiff. Barbara invested some of the remainder—"some I invested wisely, some I didn't"—and spent the rest.

"I was too young," she says. "I really didn't know what to do with it. But there isn't very much left."

Barbara Feldon—Feldon is her married name—is a Pittsburgh girl who grew up wanting to be a princess, then Margaret O'Brien and then a ballerina.

She studied ballet until she grew too tall—she's 5-feet, 9-inches—and switched to acting and studied at Carnegie Tech. Then she tried her luck in New York.

But her luck, at first, wasn't good.

"I was getting nowhere," she says. "So I decided to try modeling. The two top model agencies told me I'd never make a model—thin-faced girls were in, and I have a full face."

"So I decided to try commercials, but a commercial producer said he wouldn't even turn his camera on to test me, because nobody would buy anything I sold."

She says she cried. And gave up. She and her husband, Luciano, took part of that $64,000 and opened an art gallery. It failed—"an art gallery is a hobby, not a business"—and then, through a fluke, Barbara became a model.

That led to her famous career as Revlon's tiger girl, which led, of course, to her role with Don Adams in Get Smart.

Incidentally, 'Get Smart' is sponsored by Lever Bros., and Barbara is continuing her work for Revlon. But she says there is basically no conflict. "They conflict only in soap," she says. "But they both got together in New York and worked it all out. I can continue to work for both companies. That was very adult of them, don't you think?"

Barbara thinks she will settle in California, assuming Luciano can join her permanently, which is possible. His business is representing photographers, and that can be done on either coast. At the moment, he comes out for long weekends, but she is hopeful that he'll move his business here shortly.

And then she can settle down to work toward her goal. "My ambition," she says, "is certainly not to become a star, although being a star would help me achieve it. My ambition is just to enjoy life—to travel, to sample things, to meet people, to talk to people."

"That's the kind of ambition that is hard to achieve if there is a financial tourniquet hampering you—bills and debts. For that reason, money is good to have."

"But I don't really want much in the way of material possessions. I don't want a house. As for clothes, I have a small but very good wardrobe. I really don't need anything more."

Barbara Feldon — Agent 99

Networks Order Schedule Repairs

NEW YORK (AP) — Emergency repairs on a few of the weak spots in the new television schedules have already started. All three networks announced some changes Monday — obviously just the beginning of shifts in a season of new shows which have been received with a notable lack of enthusiasm.

ABC finally has given up trying to fight NBC's popular "Tonight Show" with "Nightlife," another 90-minute late evening program. A final attempt was made to pump some new life into the program by moving its base from New York to Hollywood—but its audience remained distressingly small. The final program will probably be on Nov. 12.

CBS, which earlier announced the approaching end of both "Slattery's People" and "Rawhide," now plans to shift "The Trials of O'Brien" from Saturday night to Friday evening. "Secret Agent," a British-made action-adventure series in the James Bond manner, will go into the Saturday spot.

NBC, which is having its troubles with its early Friday evening schedule, will sink "Convoy," one of its new series, and fill the hour with a variety show. Sammy Davis Jr., if his health permits, is expected to star in the new show.

None of the replacements sound particularly stimulating. We already have more than a half-dozen spy and secret agent series, and there is a variety hour available each night of the week — in fact there are two on Monday nights and three on Saturday.

ABC so far has not announced any changes in its prime-time evening programming but it has a number of shows with signs of ratings troubles. They include the two weekly "Shindig" half-hours and two long-playing situation comedies, "Ozzie and Harriet" and "The Donna Reed Show."

CBS is known to be looking anxiously at "The Steve Lawrence Show" after its poor showing in the first national Nielsen ratings. NBC isn't exactly happy about the reception given its "Camp Runamuck" and "Hank," either.

Perry Como strolled back before the NBC cameras Monday night in the first of his seven variety specials of the season. Mc. C. and his guest star, attractive Nancy Ames, evoked some nostalgia for the good old days of radio by singing groups of songs from the 1930s and 1940s.

Como apparently has turned over the NBC sweater concession to Andy Williams whose hour spot he filled. Perry wore a dinner jacket throughout the low key but pleasant 60 minutes.

'O'BRIEN' MOVING
CBS is going to move "Trials of O'Brien" and insert "Secret Agent" in the vacated 8:30-9:30 p.m. spot on Saturdays. "O'Brien" is moving to Fridays, 10-11 p.m., starting Dec. 3, placing it opposite NBC's "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." "Secret Agent" was presented last spring and summer.

'Perils of Pauline' on TV?

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Television producers, scratching frantically established ties—books and old feature movies as suitable for adaptation into series have been faced with some almost esoteric selections.

One company is preparing to shoot a pilot program based on "The Perils of Pauline," a serial in the days when the sound track of a movie was the theatre's piano player, and the heroine often was literally hanging from a cliff at the end of the episode.

Another plans to do something based on the "Tom Swift" books, beloved by a generation of boys who are now middle-aged.

One studio made-but failed to sell a pilot for a series about Frank Merriwell, a hard-cover all-American boy.

ABC is modernizing Little Red Riding Hood as a special to be broadcast soon. It will retell the wolf. And now NBC is planning the story from the standpoint of ring something contemporary for Jack and the Beanstalk.

There is, however, still plenty of adaptable material around if a little imagination is used.

How about, for one, an hour action series about a fellow named Jean Valjean — better change that to Jack Valjean — who walks out of a supermarket without paying for a loaf of bread and gets the police chasing him? Of course, it would be better to make him a good-looking American boy and get rid of that wife and kids.

A good title would be "The Miserable Ones" — or is that too down-beat?

What about the "Rover Boys?" Think of the possibilities — Tom, the fun-loving brother, could handle the comedy sequences. Dick, the serious one, could carry the dramatic episodes, and Harry, the one they protect, might get involved in psychiatric or medical situations.

Or "The Elsie Books" — what a soap opera! You start with her as a young girl and, with three shows a week, carry her right through marriage and a whole new set of emotional problems. Change her name though to something modern — Linda, maybe? Or "The Little Colonel" — she might be a gorgeous WAC officer.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy," with all those lovely curls and cute clothes would fit right into the current sartorial scene and would probably hit the young crowd right where they live — if you could get one of Herman's Hermit's to play the title role.

Ah, there's plenty of material just waiting to be used with imagination.

SAMMY DAVIS HOUR
ABC will present an hour-long program with Sammy Davis as host on Feb. 7. The program, "Sammy and His Friends," will have Frank Sinatra, Eddie Adams, Joy Heatherton and the Count Basie orchestra as guests.

Review: White's '1964'

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson rode a landslide back into the White House less than a year ago. Student of politics Theodore H. White however, apparently could not turn up any aspects of the campaign — for the presidency that were not fairly obvious at the time.

Thus "The Making of the President, 1964" on CBS Tuesday night was primarily a conscientious review of the events set in motion by the assassination of John F. Kennedy, and it rarely seemed to go beneath the surface.

It was a rather plodding effort in general, except for the initial segments of the 90-minute program dealing with the fierce struggle for control of the Republican party and Gov. William Scranton's, last-minute effort to halt Barry Goldwater's well-organized steamroller.

There were some revealing bits of film — a shirt-sleeved Goldwater in his San Francisco hotel suite turning with a great yawn from a television set at the moment Scranton was urging a unanimous Goldwater vote and another of Johnson, also in his shirt-sleeves, talking with intense animation to aides on the campaign plane.

It was a difficult program, admittedly, to patch together since there was almost no quality of suspense and it all happened so recently.

Perhaps it was the timing, but more likely it was that less colorful personalities were involved, but "The Making of the President, 1964" was a far less satisfying program than the first one supervised by White, "The Making of the President, 1960."

Michelangelo on TV THURSDAY 7U PROGRAM

NEW YORK—Setting a pair of one-hour NBC color specials against the backdrop of the places where Michelangelo actually lived and worked is all very well—except for problems like tourists and TV aerials.

"The tourists were the big problem," says Tom Priestley, director and chief cameraman of the two-installment "Michelangelo: The Last Giant." (Part One will be telecast Dec. 22 from 9 to 10 p.m.; Part Two Feb. 23 from 9 to 10 p.m.)

Filmed in Florence, Siena, Bologna, Rome and Milan, the programs trace Michelangelo's life through his sculpture, paintings, architecture and writings.

"We couldn't work in the museums in the daytime because of the tourist problem, which is tremendous in Italy," Priestley says. "The museums couldn't shut down for us, so we shot at night. We worked side by side with cleaning women, guards and a representative of an Italian fine arts commission—a restorer—who was there to see that we didn't damage anything."

To avoid possibility of damage, Priestley had to set up his TV lights and cameras in the museums so that if the equipment should fall, they would fall free—"hit somebody in the crew rather than the statues," as he puts it.

Tourists were a problem not only inside the museums. "We had to have the tourists cleared out of areas like the front of the cathedral in Florence," Priestley says. "This was a matter for the police, who were very cooperative and did everything they could to help us. They cleared out all humanity. We wanted to keep back in the 16th Century, and we didn't want to show people walking around in 20th Century clothing. It would disturb the feeling, and we had to try to keep that as best we could."

When people do appear in the programs, it is only in prints of the period—only persons with whom Michelangelo came into contact during his life, Priestley says.

The Italian TV aerials also struck an anachronistic note. "We had to take the television aerials off some of the old buildings that existed in Michelangelo's day," Priestley says. "We would see a 15th Century building with a big modern TV aerial and all kinds of electrical wires. Once we found a farmhouse of the period. It used to be an inn on the road between Rome and Florence, an inn where Michelangelo might have stayed. The aerial had to come down."

Peter Ustinov will be the voice of Michelangelo, aging from 20 to almost 90, and Jose Ferrer will be the narrator.

Batman, Robin Set for Series

Batman, the comic book hero, comes to television starting Jan. 12 with a twice-a-week series. A spokesman for ABC, which will present the series, said it will be "played with tongue firmly in cheek."

Adam West will play Batman, who as all aficionados know, is really Bruce Wayne who's a millionaire and lives in a mansion and directs a philanthropic foundation.

Robin, the young ward and aide to Batman will be played by a teen-ager, Burt Ward. The spokesman said the pair will face such villains as The Riddler, The Penguin and The Joker. The program will be presented Wednesdays and Thursdays from 7:30-8 p.m.

"The Man Around LBJ," a portrait of six of the 11 special assistants to President Johnson, will be shown on "ABC Scope" tonight at 10:30-11.

Brink's Vault Hit

Cannon Used In Robbery

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—A .20 mm cannon was used to blast open a foot-thick vault inside the Brink Co.'s branch office here and an estimated $400,000 in cash, checks and securities were reported missing.

The loss was discovered today by Frank Steler, the office manager, when he reported to work. He said only about one-fourth of the loot was negotiable. Seventy-five per cent of the loot was in checks.

He said no one was in the office between 4 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. today.

Police detectives and FBI agents sealed off the bank area in the northern section of the city. Authorities refused to disclose more than scant details of the crime.

One spokesman said, however, that a tripod used to mount a light cannon and "quite a few" shell casings, along with a gas torch were found near the vault.

Detectives reported that the vault had been lined with mattresses, apparently to muffle the sound of the firing.

A check of the office's burglar alarm system today showed it had been silenced. Police declined to say how this had been done.

The vault is in a one-story, brick-and-concrete building, with an adjoining garage. Police theorized that the burglars drove a truck — carrying the cannon — into the garage and then wheeled the weapon into the office.

A regulation American-made .20mm cannon is about 77 inches long and normally is mounted on attack aircraft.

Police said the method was similar to that used in an unsuccessful attempt at a Brink's office in the city of Quebec in March.

Steler said a key may have been used to open the office door, or the lock may have been picked.

He told police there was no sign of a forced entry.

A second door, located a few feet inside the front door, also was opened.

The vault, reinforced by cement and steel, is located at the rear of the building.

Deputy Police Chief Samuel Nappi said the crime had an "international flavor." He refused to elaborate beyond earlier conjecture, comparing the crime to the attempted one in Canada.

"They came prepared. They were going to get into the vault one way or another," Nappi said.

Police said face-masks were found at the scene. They theorized that the masks were used to protect the burglars from the dust raised by the cannon shots.

Nappi said the burglars cut into the steel with a gas torch after blasting through the cement with the cannon.

An arms expert from Griffiths Air Force Base in Rome, N.Y., was called in to examine the estimated 30 shell casings found in and around the vault.

Police said the vault was found to be empty.

Probe Set In Shooting Of Reservist

HADDAM (AP)—An investigation is under way to discover who was responsible for the fatal machine-gunning of a young Marine reservist during midnight maneuvers at Cockaponsett State Forest.

SFC Edward W. Richter, 21 of Guilford was participating in a simulated guerrilla attack early Sunday when the M-60 machine gun opened fire. Instead of the expected blank cartridges, the gun was firing live ammunition.

Marine spokesmen said the live ammunition apparently was mixed with the blanks accidentally while supplies for the maneuver were being prepared at Ft. Hale in New Haven.

Police said the method was similar to that used in an unsuccessful attempt at a Brink's office in the city of Quebec in March.

Steler said a key may have been used to open the office door, or the lock may have been picked.

Rocket System's Failure Cancels Gemini Mission

'Out of Service' tags worn by Astronauts Gus Grissom (left) and John Young (second left) proved prophetic today as their fellow spacemen Walter Schirra (holding card) and Thomas Stafford (back to camera) wound up that way when their Gemini 6 flight was scrubbed. Above scene took place as Schirra and Stafford prepared to enter capsule. (AP Photofax.)

Telemetry Signals Lost After Takeoff

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Launching of the Gemini 6 astronauts on man's first attempt to catch and join an orbiting satellite was postponed indefinitely today when their Agena spacecraft target was lost in space.

Flight Director Christopher C. Kraft Jr. scrubbed the launching of Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford when it was determined that the Agena apparently crashed into the Atlantic shortly after launch at 10 a.m. EST by an Atlas booster.

When a tracking station in Australia reported "no joy, no joy" in futile attempts to find the Agena, Kraft called the mission off at 10:54 a.m.

At the time, the countdown on the astronauts' Titan 2 rocket was progressing on schedule toward an 11:41 a.m. launching.

The failure meant that Schirra and Stafford probably will have to wait until next year for another try at the rendezvous and docking mission, completion of which is critical to this nation's plans to land men on the moon.

As the astronauts watched from their own spacecraft on another launch pad 8,000 feet away, an Atlas blasted the Agena aloft precisely on time at 10 a.m., after a perfect countdown.

"The flight couldn't be finer," the mission control center reported happily as the Atlas leaped away, bathing its pad in a brilliant torrent of flame, and seemed to perform beautifully in its upward thrust.

But spirits fell suddenly six minutes, 20 seconds after the launch, when the Agena should have separated and its own engine sprung to life to drill the spacecraft into a circular orbit.

"A dramatic loss of telemetry" was reported by mission control and the spokesman said "the situation is not a happy one."

Then, 22 minutes following the blastoff, spokesman Paul Haney said that the Agena was traveling 5,500 miles an hour below its projected speed and may have impacted in the Atlantic.

The Gemini launch crew went ahead with their own countdown, hopeful that tracking stations around the world would find the lost target vehicle.

And the Gemini checkout, part of the most complicated two-rocket countdown ever attempted, still was right on the button when Kraft called for the scrub.

The normally reliable Agena has launched successfully more than 140 U.S. payloads into space, including the Ranger moonshots and the Mariner flights to Mars and Venus. It also has been a workhorse for the nation's military space program, primarily launching reconnaissance shots from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

However, for the Gemini 6 mission, the Agena was equipped with several new systems, including engines capable of multiple restart, telemetry links, tracking beacons and the addition of the docking collar into which the Gemini was to be

'Dragons' Vow To Spread Klan

Crosses blazed in Southern states this weekend as Ku Klux Klan members preached segregation and promised to continue the resurgence of the hooded order.

In Madisonville, Tex., where about 1,300 persons — half of them in Klan robes — met in an open field Saturday night, a Klan leader urged a demonstration in Austin next Saturday to counteract anti-Viet Nam protests.

A Klan rally in Tampa, Fla., Saturday night was marked by the burning of a 50-foot cross as about 250 men in robes and 1,000 other spectators gathered. A speaker identified as the Rev. A. S. Maple of Georgia told the

Godoy Asks Troops To Move on Rebels

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Troops and tanks of the Inter-American Peace Force moved into the rebel sector of Santo Domingo today to help restore peace to the issue city.

Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy asked for the patrols because of the grave situation in the city, an official peace force announcement said.

Violence stemming from continuing bad relations between rebels and the military chiefs has resulted in at least nine deaths in the past week.

It was the first time the peace force, made up mostly of U.S. and Brazilian troops, had entered the rebel zone on an operation of this kind.

Other units fanned out through the rest of the city. Garcia-Godoy requested the patrols after unidentified gunmen assassinated Aquiles Leyva Matos, administrator of a sugar mill and a member of the Dominican Revolutionary party.

The predawn operation involved a sizable portion of the inter-American force. Three shots rang out during the first phase of the operation but no casualties were reported.

There were angry mutterings from civilians in the downtown sector, Luis Lambert Piqueros, a ranking official of ex-President Juan Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary party, told a reporter.

"I had thought the Americans were coming into clean up the Dominican troops, but now it appears that the remedy is worse than the cure."

Leftist extremists in the rebel sector have been urging a general strike to force out both foreign troops and Dominican military leaders.

FBI Men Serving Abroad Not Spies - White House

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers denied today that FBI agents abroad were collecting intelligence data.

He said such a report published in New York City "is not true, and is irresponsible in my opinion because it is not true."

Moyers' comment came at the White House Texas news center, near the ranch where President Johnson went to recuperate from his recent operation.

The FBI reportedly has agents serving in various foreign countries as embassy legal attaches.

Reports that FBI agents were serving abroad first came up earlier this year during the Dominican Republic troubles.

It is generally known that the FBI has men at U.S. embassies as legal attaches in such places as London, Rome, Mexico City, Buenos Aires and Tokyo.

The New York Herald Tribune said today that normally the field of foreign intelligence gathering is the jealously guarded domain of the Central Intelligence Agency. It added that sources here confirm that Johnson has directed the FBI into at least eight key Latin American cities where it had not operated since the end of World War II.

One of the FBI's prime responsibilities is maintenance of the internal security of the United States. In line with that, it is generally known that it has men abroad on liaison work with U.S. federal agencies and police agencies within those countries, such as Scotland Yard in England.

When the matter of FBI agents abroad came up last May, the Washington Post said that Johnson had ordered FBI agents into the Dominican Republic to investigate the extent and nature of Communist influence in the revolt there.

Asked about the report, George Reedy, then White House press secretary, replied, "One of the FBI's prime responsibilities is maintenance of

Cong Losses Heavy In Siege on Camp

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The defenders of Plei Phu Yen, where an operation Me sent out combat patrols today while the Viet Cong controls a used to rain mortar shells and machine-gun fire into the besieged camp for the seventh day.

Vietnamese army sources estimated that 153 Communist guerrillas had been killed by air strikes around the special forces camp 210 miles northeast of Saigon and another 100 had been slain in another action.

A U.S. officer who went out on patrol from Plei Me said he counted 100 Viet Cong bodies. He said one column consisting of a government regiment with a spearhead of armor had advanced to within about four miles of the camp by tonight.

After beating off an ambush and killing an estimated 250 guerrillas at Plei Ya Dran, a village on the way, Government casualties were reported light.

One informed U.S. source in Pleiku said the major fighting appeared to be over, even though the Viet Cong maintained their positions around the camp.

A U.S. medical helicopter braved the ring of enemy machine guns around the post to bring out a wounded American and four wounded Vietnamese. U.S. spokesmen said casualties continued light among the garrison of 300 Montagnard tribesmen and 19 to 23 U.S. advisers.

Church on the Beach

'Sun and Surf' Set Digs Sandy Sermon

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Rev. Charles Cline, 56, retired Baptist minister, has one of the liveliest congregations anywhere.

Each Sunday he delivers a sizzling sermon to the sunbaked set on this resort city's South Beach. The kids call him "Holy Joe."

Standing ankle deep in the warm sand, he speaks of "lusts of the flesh," "pitfalls of trial marriage," and "obedience to parents."

He gets bolterous reaction from his sun-bronzed congregation of 150 to 200 youngsters.

"Cool, dad," exults one mop-head with a wide grin. "Keep it up. You got a tiger by the tail."

Guitars strum, bikini-clad girls sink by, and a lanky, 16-year-old throws his skinny arms skyward and cries, "Hallelujah! Hallelujah!"

The Rev. Mr. Cline keeps smiling, and preaching, and suddenly bends down and with flourish draws a cross in the sand.

"You want power?" he shouts. "The yourself to that and you will have wonderful power."

A grinning kid slips an empty beer bottle into the preacher's little black satchel resting at his feet.

"That's all right, boy," the preacher says, "life is made for fun, but it's also deathly serious."

The slender preacher with faded seersucker trousers and much-laudered shirt quotes from the 121st psalm:

"The Lord will keep your going out and your coming in from this time forth and forevermore."

"I think that is beautiful," said an 18-year-old blonde in a bikini.

"This guy's got guts," said a 15-year-old surferboy. "He used to come out here every Sunday and they'd throw sand and rocks at him, and push him

More Rain Needed to End Drought

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 16 to 20 inches of rainfall would be needed during the next three months to relieve the drought that has prevailed from northern New Jersey into New England, a geological scientist said today.

"These rains we've been having help but we need unusually heavy rainfall up into December," said Joseph T. Callahan, chief of the ground water branch of the Interior Department's Geological Survey.

Callahan made the comment to a reporter when asked about an Interior Department news release outlining some results of continuing studies of ground water sources.

Callahan was quoted in the release as saying that although problems of water supply still exist in the northeast "they are due largely to the problem of inadequate distribution of the Run — And That's an Order!

John J. Williams leads two other executives of North American Aviation's Space and Information Divisions System in a lunch time workout at Downey, Calif. Dr. Richard Morrison, director of the program, believes heart attacks and other ailments common to young executives can be modified or prevented by such supervised exercise.
