Schoolman's Confab
Three Horace Porter staff members will participate in the first meeting of this section of the Eastern Connecticut Schoolmen Association.

Alan Howard, Richard Curland and Edward Wiesbeck will go to the St. Thomas More School in Montville Nov. 1 with about 50 other male educators from eastern Connecticut.

The organization was started in 1925 and has the honor of being the oldest all-male educators group in the state. It includes superintendents of school, principals, college instructors and classroom teachers, who meet three times a year to discuss mutual problems in education.

This meeting features a judo demonstration (presumably for subduing unruly students); a dinner; a tour of the school grounds; and a talk by Headmaster James Harrahan.

Curland is president of the group.

CAREFUL DISCARDING LEADS TO END PLAY
BY ALFRED BERNHOLD

Perhaps the chief problem in the hand shown today is in the lead. The easiest contract is three notrump played from the south position, but this is not easy to bid.

Opening lead—Ace of clubs. North suggested it. South would be happy to bid notrump if North suggested it by such a bid as two hearts instead of three diamonds. Still, North has no way of knowing that notrump is better than diamonds. North's singleton in clubs and weakness in spades are hardly sought at notrump. Fortunately the spot, careful play enabled him to make five diamonds. The key play came at the second trick, when West led a low club. South had to discard a spade from dummy, resisting the temptation to discard a heart.

Declarer then drew trumps and led a low heart toward dummy. If West took the ace of hearts, South would later get to hand with a trump, cashed the king of clubs to discard a heart, and then led a low heart to force West to discard a heart.

Seeing the danger of taking the ace of hearts, West played the nine to force out dummy's king. South thereupon got to his hand with a trump, cashed the king of clubs to discard a heart from dummy and then led the queen of hearts to force West into the lead.

If West returned a spade, South would get a free finesse. If West returned a club or a heart, dummy would ruff and South would have his king. If West returned a diamond, South would take the ace of hearts and get out safely with another heart. West would eventually get the setting trick with the king of spades.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades, 9-8-5-3; Hearts, K-6-4; Diamonds, A-3-4-4; Clubs, 7-6-5-4-3-2-1. What do you say?

Church Protest Cancels Play on 'Monkey Trial'
BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — "We feel we should not get a straight for what is right," says a Baptist clergyman whose protest helped cancel a school play.

William B. Mullen, principal of nearby Vestal High School, said Wednesday that he had ordered the senior class to halt rehearsals on "Inherit the Wind" after five Baptist ministers protested.

The clergyman objected. Mullen said, because the play "went directly against what they were teaching."

The play is patterned after the 1925 trial in Dayton, Tenn., of John T. Scopes, a high school biology teacher. He was the defendant in the case of a Tennessee state law that barred the teaching of DOA (Darwin's) theory of evolution.

Mullen's action received the support of Dept. of Schools Paul Benedict and the Board of Education.

Several board members said, however, that they found nothing objectionable in the drama.

Hollywood Not Ready To Censor

HOOLYWOOD (AP) — In the film industry ready to abandon its self-censoring production code? The answer is no — despite a flurry of news stories last week that Hollywood was preparing to scuttle the code in favor of individual review of each film on its merits of taste and morality.

But the movie companies are definitely headed in the direction of a smaller, less stringent code which could be administered with greater elasticity. The matter of morality on the screen has been a hotly contested issue since the earliest days of film. A prolonged smooth in the 50's "The Kiss" (1958) outraged the moralists. Protests have continued to the present day ("Kim the Butler," "What's New, Pussycat") and are likely to go on as long as there are movies.

Bolton Townspeople Are Invited To UNICEF Festivities

Townspeople are invited to come sit in the bleachers at the high school gymnasium evening at 8:45 and watch the costume parade and other festivities culminating the UNICEF Halloween collection. Filers containing information on the town-wide UNICEF trick-or-treat project, whose motto is "Share, Not Scare," have been sent home with all elementary school children.

Children attending church school in Bolton will pick up their collection cans at their churches. Children not attending a local church may obtain a can by contacting Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Mrs. Howard Lockwood, Mrs. Perry Joslin, Mrs. Russell Mooman, or Mrs. Harold Smith, UNICEF committee members. Children who are not able to attend the party at the high school to return the cans should return them to their church or to a committee member by Nov. 7. All cans, including empty ones, should be returned.

Worcester to Redcliff Students Plan Climb To Win $1,966 Prize

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — phoned Redcliff Mayor A.M. Al. The students in the Rocky Mountain of Colorado may be broken by the blizzards of an East Pakistani air horn, the whines of an old bus and the determined quest of six college boys.

Edward Drinan, 21, of Westmouth, Mass., who organized the trip said he and his friends noticed snow on the mountain said it was contained in a sent class newspaper editorial by class President John Worthingly. Drinan said the six students are determined to reach the top of the mountain Nov. 10, 1966. Day so that none of their other college mates will beat them.

Familiar Sad Return

The saddest tale that headlines tell bidding family enterprise farewell comes when they set about to claim.

Local Management Remains the Same.

Kindness To Children A Beginning

The opposition to peace, which is conflict, perhaps almost all of it rooted in the chief villain inside us, is an active, restless, incessant opposition. It will never be put out of action, or weakened, or driven out of its now dominant influence over the action of men and nations, by mere pious phrases and fine intangibles alone.

That is why Pope Paul, for his part, came over to the United Nations, and pointed to it as an instrument for men and nations to use in working for that ultimate goal of "no more war; never again!" That is why Pope Paul, in his speech, emphasized that peace had to be a matter of building and doing.

It is the concept of doing something beyond talking about peace, of acting in some demonstration degree as if this were one world instead of two, which has been put into symbol and into practice by the United Nations Children's Fund. And that record, of millions of innocent children given some kind of help beyond all kinds of boundaries, makes the action of the Nobel Peace Prize Committee not only a cute trick, at this Halloween season, but a sound award for any season.

It is not enough to talk of the brotherhood of man, as if it were some saving idea to which we could refer in a halting allegiance while we keep on killing each other.

We must, if we want life itself, begin being brothers.

It is fortunate that we find ourselves able to work at least some touch of brotherhood into world life at the level of innocent children. It is tragic that we have not yet even begun to be able to cope with each other as adults some of the same helpless innocence we see in the world's children. It is tragic that all, so very much wiser and responsible than they are, else we would have built ourselves a sane and civilized world long ago. In our curious and barbaric sense of values, it is safe to be kind to children, but not to adults. But perhaps being kind to the world's children can be an educational process, which leads and nudges us toward a rule of life and brotherhood among adults too.

Congratulations to UNICEF on its Nobel Peace Prize. Any additional contributions that individual adults may find an opportunity to make over the Halloween weekend will be welcome.

In Stylish Hoop

The Wall Street Journal, ever professionally alert to the currents of progress and change in the business world, makes us wonder whether one or the other of Manchester's redevelopment programs, at whichever end of town may occur the more appropriate, shouldn't include at least one swanky sample of what used to be called a pawn shop.

For the hoop shop, as it also used to be called, is riding a new tide of popularity and patronage, thanks to the popularity and the intermingled respectability of two kinds of banks.

The fashionable ladies of New York City, it is disclosed, no longer show much hesitancy in employing the services of a pawn shop to help them complete any emergency purchase or finance any emergency entertainment of a lavish nature. And for those who do show such hesitancy, there are fancy entrances which make a pawn shop look like Tiffany's.

But it is perhaps the relatively new development of a second kind of business which helps provide a certain of respectability for the old established rite of loaning hard cash on some cherished valuable.

Canby and resourceful New Yorkers have developed a variety of incidental uses for the pawn shop. Taking a valuable fur coat to a pawn shop and taking a small cash loan on it is, they have discovered, the cheapest way of putting said coat in insured storage for the summer.

If one is going away on a vacation, taking the family jewels down to the corner and pawning them may be the cheapest and safest way of storing and protecting them for the duration of one's travel.

The great charm involved in the development of this second kind of business for a pawn shop is that the individual who is caught loaning from a pawn shop no longer needs to blush and fidget and confess to being temporarily insolvent, but may put on the bold, efficient air, and boast that he or she has just stored and insured this or that item at a very reasonable rate, and who—when the pawnbroker himself—ever to know for real just what the case may be?

Another "Short Series"

Those who for one reason or another listened to the beginning of the seventh game of the World Series by radio were rewarded by hearing this year's revival of the oldest of hoaxes in the annals of sports reporting.

During the interval in which Sandy Koufax was on his way out to the mound to begin his chores for the day, the announcer reached for a 44 year old tradition which, this year, had almost slipped away from Series commenting, expiring, and broadcasting.

The man at the microphone often in Minnesota confided to his national audience, that of course, the actual hitting power of the players was not likely to be reflected too accurately by the batting averages they might establish "in a short series."

Now the "short series" is, in fact, the four out of seven games championship schedule which has been played ever since 1903, the last year in which the "long" or nine game series schedule was in effect. But in all the succeeding years the "short series" has been made to seem, in the sophisticated past and analysis of brains and cold calculation, a radical new situation in the game.

Over the years, it is true, the amount of learned disquisitions, the different methods of managerial strategy the new schedule involves, and especially the kind of rotation of pitching staff the "short series" decrees has been on the wane, and it was not until the seventh game this year that the old familiar goal of expertise caught up to us once again.

But the tradition, as a matter of fact, has always been stronger than the history on which it was based. The "long" nine game series was the rule only in four years, and no series ever went the full nine games. In 1903 the Red Sox defeated Pittsburgh, 5 games to 3; in 1919 the record books say it was Cincinnati Chicago 4 to 3; in 1920 the Cleveland Indians took the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 2, and in 1921 the Giants defeated the Yankees 5 to 3, in the first subway Series. The next year the seven game Series was restored, and the Giants won from the Yankees in four straight.

When the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Twin reached their seventh game, they were playing a series as long as any played since 1921. This made the announcer's description of it as a "short series" seem slightly in fact, error, no matter how loyal it was to commentating tradition.

Why China Should Be Admitted

Thanks to Peking's belittled behavior toward her neighbors, it is tragic that we have not yet even begun to be able to cope with each other as adults some of the same helpless innocence we see in the world's children. It is tragic that all, so very much wiser and responsible than they are, else we would have built ourselves a sane and civilized world long ago. ### Christian Faith

Christian faith comes in many guises. It is the faith of the church, the faith of the individual, the faith of the community. It is the faith that gives us the strength to face our world, the faith that gives us the courage to stand up for our principles, the faith that gives us the hope to see a better future for ourselves and for our children.

In 1938, Harvard College was founded. In 1978, the British defeated the Colonial forces in the Battle of White Plains (New York). In 1918, Cacocheol's proclaimed herself a free and independent republic. In 1922, Benito Mussolini staged the Fascist march on Rome. In 1940, Italian forces began their invasion of Greece.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 — The clerk came out of the back door of the courtroom on the ninth floor of Brooklyn Supreme Court when he saw a man in a yellow, walled hallway which runs behind it. Three uniformed guards were standing in the hallway, each one in front of a metal door that had a small wire-glass window in it. A detective stood with them.

The clerk held an clipboard of papers, all mimeographed in purple. He ran through the papers.

"McCoy," he said, "Donald McCoy?"

"You should have him here, on his on the calendar for today," the court clerk said.

"Wait, I only get what's on my list and he's not there," the guard said. He turned away. His concern yesterday morning was only with the prisoners on hand for court appearances.

The clerk went down the hall and into an office for a moment. Then he came out shaking his head. "Not today," he said. "He's on the reserve list and they don't bring him over here. We got a murder trial going on so we don't need him today. We'll get to him soon, I guess."

"Where do you have him today?" the clerk was asked.

"Where? I guess. Or maybe they got him in the jail in Queens. I don't know which one they keep him in."

"Have you seen him in court much?"

"See him? Me see him? I don't see him. What do I see? I don't know who he is. They come in, they come out of here. To me they're all the same."

"That Donald McCoy, age 31, last known address 125 Main St., Brooklyn, would be just another name on a list, a name that is known to nobody, save something about New York City in the year 1965?"

He sits today in the Tombs awaiting trial because at 2 a.m. on July 27 he wandered along the streets of Flatbush and came to an apartment house which was set among large frame houses on a tree-lined street off Foster Ave. McCoy walked into an alley alongside the apartment house. He got onto the fire escape. He went up the fire escape, looking in windows. On the fifth floor, he saw what he wanted. A 10-year-old girl, alone in her room, sleeping on top of the covers on the hot rug.

McCoy forced the window open. He put his hand into his pocket and took out something. The seven- and a-half-inch blade made a click when he opened it. McCoy stepped into the little girl's room. He went to the bed and leaned over her. He put the point of the knife against her throat. He shook her and woke her up. The little girl's Beyond this factor, it may also be that Alcorn is right in his own belief that his amendment is something the people would love to approve. Who knows which class of Connecticut citizens will have more money for land if it might be taken—or those who might be afraid that various community projects might be jeopardized by the Alcorn amendment? The one interest and motivation might be sharp and personal; the other something much more general and therefore less prophetic.

Such a weird outcome would be a cruel joke on the Convention and on Connecticut. But then, there are those of us who never have been able to appreciate the justice of a phase in history which has found the famous Connecticut compromise being interpreted to deny to Connecticut its own practice of the terms of that compromise.

By A.H.O.

There was always, from the start, some long range possibility that the Constitution might be amended to submit its work to the voters in more than one package, but not even the wildest advance surmise included the possibility that it would carry the same man one way principle to the one man one package extreme now in prospect.

Yet now that the remotest kind of possibility has developed, with all the main work of the Convention being done, the package and the special work of one delegate to be presented to the voters in another and separate package, perhaps it would be the part of discretion to imagine the most lurid kind of result from such procedures.

The nightmare possibility would be this: that in the December referendum it might be the one man's amendment, the right of eminent domain, which would go through to victory, while the main product of the Convention, the new state Constitution, including the vital reapportionment package, might meet rejection.

This would be, of course, precisely counter to routine expectations. The routine expectation of the Convention leaders, on both sides, is that they have protected the main body of their work by excluding from it the one obvious piece of controversy which would go through by the Alcorn amendment.

But it never does pay to make too easy an assumption of just how voters are going to behave in this particular circumstance. There are factors involved which make any such assumption doubly perilous.

One of these factors has to be the ideological nature and alignment of the only organized opposition to the proposed new Constitution is likely to have as its goal its 12 December referendum. This is the opposition of the Republican right wing which primarily resents the de facto inclusion of Connecticut's traditional system of representation.

Old Ballads Edging Out 'Big Beat'

LONDON (AP) — Beat music, one of Britain's biggest exports in the last five years, appears to be fading.

A company which turned out 120,000 plastic "Beatles" guitars at the height of the beat boom reports a slump in profits, a cut in its dividend, and a reshuffle of its top brass.

The firm, Musical & Plastic Industries, Ltd., is Britain's biggest seller of musical instruments. Its shares on the London Stock Exchange slumped from the equivalent of 78 cents to 62 cents when it announced profits for the first half of this year were 197,000 against 260,000 in the 1964 period.

The No. 1 song in the British hit parade for the last five weeks has been a 1960 ballad called "Tears" sung by comedian Kim Dooly. He will appear at the new year's concert, which opens before Queen Elizabeth II, Nov. 8.

The Beatles appeared in the royal command show last year and the year before. This year they have been dropped.

The one concession to the beat scene in the royal show appears to be the inclusion of the Dave Clark Five which is not the most beat of the beat groups. Their hair is shorter for one thing.

Even the beat music shown on British television are going for more ballad-type music and more staging of dance routines instead of a steady stream of long-haired guitar players.

A number of the beat group managers who have made their fortunes during the boom are forming new groups and grooming them for possible success in other musical fields. They're not sure what the best pop music trend will be but they want to be of it when it starts.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — support equipment for the long journey, weighs about 200 pounds more than Gemini 6 and had been assigned a Titan 2 with high second stage thrust.

The Air Force said a Titan 2 booster for Gemini 6 was assigned to the launching.

When the Gemini 6 rendezvous flight was postponed Monday because of failure of the Agena target rocket to achieve orbit, National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said they would move ahead to launch Gemini 7, using the same rocket.

This would have required replacing the Gemini 6 spacecraft with the Gemini 7 capsule. It would have permitted advancing the Gemini 7 flight from its original Dec. 4 date to about Dec. 2 because the Titan 2 had been thoroughly checked on the launch pad.

But an analysis of engine capability of the Gemini 6 spacecraft showed that the second stage might be marginal for lifting the heavier Gemini 7 spacecraft into the desired orbit.

So it was decided Wednesday to switch rockets, putting the Agena target rocket on the Gemini 6 spacecraft and the Gemini 7 on the Gemini 6 booster.

The switch was announced today. The weatherman says it will continue through Friday.

And She Wants to Go Back She Toured the Orient on Her Own

BY DORIS BELDING

Young traveler enjoys peddle-cart ride in Formosa

Activity in sampan colony in Hong Kong Harbor

Native children in Hong Kong

Formosa when she realized that the distant sounds were not thunder but the gunfire of Communist and Non-Communist forces on neighboring islands

Before returning home Miss Gibson visited Hong Kong, where she enjoyed the shopping and made several purchases, some not yet delivered.

Her month's stay in the Orient was not enough to satisfy her and she wants to return another time, especially to Japan.

Last summer, Miss Friedella Gibson of 46 Turnbull Rd., a tiny miss with a dance studio at 1089 Main St., set out on her own to explore the Orient. "Since I was old enough to think," she said, "it has been my greatest desire to see the Far East." When Air Force friends of hers, formerly of New Haven, were transferred to Formosa and invited her to visit them she immediately accepted.

"I was thrilled to think my dream was coming true while I was young enough to benefit by the experiences I was sure to have during my travels," she said.

More interested in learning how people in other lands lived than visiting typical tourist attractions, the young dancer showed her own itinerary rather than joining a group tour. On July 31 she left Bradley Field for Kennedy Airport and on by jet to San Francisco and the Orient. A few hours stopover in Hawaii allowed her a glimpse of what she called "the brilliantly colored island paradises" before going to Tokyo, where she would spend five days.

"My visit to Japan was much too short," Miss Gibson said, "and I regretted having to leave so much beauty so soon." She said that the people were most friendly and cooperative and she had no trouble finding her way about even though she speaks no Japanese. She was most impressed with the Imperial Palace, the large Buddha, and also with theater performances and their magnificent costumes and scenery. She toured the countryside around Tokyo and Hiroshima. She was the center of attraction on a ferry boat ride, when a group of young people with cameras surrounded her and took her picture throughout the trip.

"The Japanese, without exception, have hair so dark it is almost black," the Manchester girl said, "and I think it was my blonde hair and fair complexion that made me stand out as sort of a curiosity."

Leaving Japan she flew to Taiwan, Formosa, and was met by her friends, Almas and Mrs. George Tracy. "The filth, poverty and waves of people everywhere were a little hard to take after the beauty of Japan," she said, "but I was able to see for myself just how pathetic the lives of the majority really are," she added, "and they deserve the road are used for bathing, washing clothes and latrines." Miss Gibson explained, "and the atrocious permit system."

She was happy to get away from the variety of smells and humidity of the lowlands for a trip to Sun-Moon Lake in the mountains, which she described as "Paradise." She was also fortunate to witness a ceremony where natives gathered to chase devils back into the hills. She said that a somber note was injected during her visit to Formosa when she realized that the distant sounds were not thunder but the gunfire of Communist and Non-Communist forces on neighboring islands.

Before returning home Miss Gibson visited Hong Kong, where she enjoyed the shopping and made several purchases, some not yet delivered.

Her month's stay in the Orient was not enough to satisfy her and she wants to return another time, especially to Japan.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Most sport fishermen are hunched husbands. So are most men who hunt deer for fun rather than for food. Their wives give them an inferiorly complex. Losers on the home front, they seek substitute victory in the woods.

A man who at 25 meticulously carries an umbrella to work every morning the sky is overcast will probably develop an ulcer before his 40th birthday. Never wed a girl who usually lunches on a peanut butter and jelly sandwich at drugstore counters. They usually wind up the worst cooks in their neighborhood.

No modern book that weighs over two pounds is worth reading for pleasure.

One of the biggest traffic nuisances is the impatient driver behind you who, when the traffic light turns green, immediately honks his horn. Nine out of 10 times this annoys a man, not a woman.

Mulish Argument

Ante Medjo, another farmer, said the donkey belonged to him.

While a court argument went on, villagers led the donkey to a crossroads. It is expected that the animal loose. The donkey walked straight to Simun's stable. The court ruled Simun the owner and ordered Ante to pay trial costs.

The 'Busy' 89th Congress New Laws Plant Seeds For Educational Harvest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 89th Congress — pushed, pulled, prodded and cajoled by President Johnson — has planted the seeds of an educational revolution the likes of which this country has never seen.

It brings about instant benefits to millions of young Americans. It sets the stage for the final assembly of the nation's educational system.

Even the experts can only guess now what it all will mean.

Much of the new legislation is designed to encourage potential dropouts to stay in school and attend the final assembly of the nation's educational system.

How many of these five million will become teachers, doctors, inventors, scientists, engineers, or creative thinkers in the arts and humanities?

What will be the impact on the national economy if these five million, instead of spending useless lives on the welfare rolls, become wage-earning, tax-paying, home-owning, car-buying, contributing members of society?

The legislation will ease the college crush by providing new federal funds for dormitory and classroom construction. At the same time, it may make the crush even more severe by putting a college education within the financial grasp of more thousands of American youth.

Most of the new educational measures are designed primarily for the nation's young people. It will be a rare young American who, at some point in his lifetime, won't or can't derive some good from it.

And on some uncertain date in 1968, an even half of the total U.S. population will be 20 or under — a factor that makes any estimate a hazardous guess.

The education legislation passed by the first session of the 89th Congress literally has something for everyone.

Operation Head Start is the most urgently needed of the new programs, the one with the greatest potential impact. It will really work. The final answer probably won't be known until the children involved in the program are 10 or 11 years hence.

The three-year, $2.3 billion program of support for higher education passed in the first days of the first session, breaks vast new areas of legislative ground.

It includes $70 million a year for three years in federal scholarships for promising, exceptionally needy students; $65 million for one year to help struggling institutions of higher education; $20 million to help local school districts; $10 million for college libraries; $10 million for government-insured loans for three years to help needy college students; $10 million for government-insured loans for three years to help needy college students; $10 million for government-insured loans for three years to help needy college students.

This bill has been termed a "legislative miracle" because it does more than $100 million in new legislation in one bill. It includes $70 million a year for three years in federal scholarships for promising, exceptionally needy students; $65 million for one year to help struggling institutions of higher education; $20 million to help local school districts; $10 million for college libraries; $10 million for government-insured loans for three years to help needy college students; $10 million for government-insured loans for three years to help needy college students; $10 million for government-insured loans for three years to help needy college students.

There are just a few of the ways local school districts may spend the money: Special classes for the physically handicapped; language laboratories; remedial reading programs; additional teachers; summer school and day camps; enrichment programs for children who do not speak English.

One acceptable way for parochial school pupils to benefit from these and other programs is through "shared time" schools, where they attend a public school for only a part of their instruction.

The bill also provides more money for educational research and for the purchase of textbooks and library books, which are needed in an affluent society. Another provision in the bill is to provide for the establishment of supplementary education centers, open to all children who need to be followed-up through at least the first three grades of school.

The program already has been expanded. By the end of next June, it is expected that at least 200,000 children aged 3, 4 and 5, will be in a year-round program. Another 200,000 will be in an eight-week program.

So varied, and yet so all-encompassing, are the programs in the view of many experts,

Root of 'Third Force' French Navy Hails Atomic 'Yacht Club'

BREST, FRANCE (AP) — They call it the "yacht club," but its deadly purpose is to train commanders for a French atomic strike force.

That's why there's secret excitement at the French Naval Academy.

"For the first time in a long while, the navy will be the No. 1 branch," said a young instructor.

The navy's main seagoing school, the helicopter carrier Jeanne d'Arc (Jean of Arc) has a small fleet of helicopters which could rush forces into a battlefield type of war. It is equipped to ward off an atomic attack and hunt submarines.

One year aboard the 12,300-ton Jeanne d'Arc is required for academy graduates. This usually includes a world tour with cocktail parties on the hangar deck.

"It's amazing," said one young officer over champagne at the captain's quarters. "We drop into a small port where local custom demands that the men go off playing rugby or drinking beer, and the girls practically take the ship by assault."

There is no bookkeeper, no year course which launches students into the world of work, and no statement on what their careers each year.

Tiny Sheikdom Is Center Of Gold-Smuggling Trade

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — White gold is controlled in From there, they come to the free zone in Dubai in the Arabian Sea. Most of the sales are handled through the sheikdom's banks — the First National City Bank of New York, the British Bank of the Middle East, and the National Bank of Dubai — authorized in gold bars. The business becomes illicit when the bullion is taken across the border. Restricted countries such as India, Pakistan, Iran, or Far East where people have more restrictive regulations and hence in their own currencies, smuggling profits are enormous. It sells for twice the world price, set by the U.S. government at $35 an ounce. Smuggled gold seized by Indian customs officers has been banked to raise the country's reserves by about $33 million. The gold comes in disks the size of poker chips and weighing 2½ ounces. One is worth $12, including freight and insurance. Many of the shabby-looking fishing boats bobbing in its harbor are high-powered smugglers. Their destinations are usually India, Pakistan or Iran. Estimates say Dubai now has a fleet of 80 or 90 of the disguised sailboats, each with a highly disciplined crew, and sometimes carrying half a million dollars worth of gold per trip.

Woman Cooks Meat On Auto's Manifold

BOSTON (AP) — Chalk one up for women drivers: "We're cooking under the hood of the car. With the youngsters in the back seat and the wheels rolling. This means trouble — like grease burning on the manifold." "Forget about the oil, just check the road," one pioneer chef told her filling station attendant. Burs enough there it was a foil-wrapped package riding on the exhaust manifold, hottest spot under the hood. To try it following the lead of Norma Bidwell, Canadian housewife whose been roasting white-rabbit all summer. Mrs. Bidwell, food editor of the Hamilton Spectator, said "My husband scoffed the first time I handed him a three-pound foiled wrapped package of raw meat and said, 'We'll cook it under the hood.'" But 10 minutes later after we arrived at the cottage the six of us were munching happily on hot roast beef sandwiches with tender-crisp onions and, seasoned with onion sauce.

A seat belt protects you in case of an accident.

Wash a two-to-three pound roast, not over two inches thick (for a three-hour drive) in a large sheet of extra heavy duty foil, fold edges together twice to make a leak seal. ### Filling Town Posts Leads Board Agenda

Appointments to fill 32 vacancies on 17 town boards, agencies and commissions head the agenda for the board of directors meeting, scheduled for Tuesday night at 8 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The proposal comes from Public Works Director Walter Pines, who has said that he considers the position, at an undetermined salary, "a must" for improving the efficiency of the Highway Division.

4. Consider the abatement of $360.29 in taxes against Trinity Covenant Church's, assessed by Martin himself, under the assumption that the source is ready to accept the abatement.

5. Consider approval of the transfer of the Nike Control Site off Keeney St. to the State of Connecticut for Community College use.

6. Consider approval of a five-year lease of Manchester High School facilities to the State for housing of the elderly.

7. Waive all town assessments and appropriation charges for the year ending Nov. 30.

8. Settle two claims against the town:

To Mrs. Rita Wolf of 173 Spruce St., $2,750 in an action for the purchase and installation of a World War II and Korean War Honor Roll in the lobby of the high school's Ballou Auditorium.

9. Approve the creation of a new position, "Work Co-ordinator," within the Highway Division of the Public Works Department.

Martin's List Of Proposals For Future

General Manager Richard Martin's proposals and recommendations for future construction and action by the board of directors and the new manager:

1. Make the construction of the cross town relief trunk sewers the Number 1 priority project. A critical and immediate problem for which plans have already been drawn and which will take one year, from start to finish of construction.
2. Construct the Parker Village Sewage Treatment Plant, including the extension of the main sewer line to the Parker Village Sewage Treatment Plant.
3. Improve water quality, to eliminate complaints of odor, which is a nuisance, but not a health hazard.
4. Acquire land in the North End, south and east of Union Pond, for recreation purposes.
5. Purchase the Community Y for full future use as a recreation center.
6. Renovate Whittier Library when North End Redevelopment is in full operation.
7. Plan for contracting for data processing services for town payroll, accounting, water and sewer billing, and voter lists, in that priority order.
8. Advise the property owners to "how and why" revaluation is being done, so that they will not question the revaluation in their assessments in the future.
9. Consider the designation of the town clerk as clerk for the board of directors — to prepare its agenda, and meeting records, and to keep its minutes and files. Martin said that he was in favor of appointing a clerk rather than elected town clerks.
10. Consider the establishment of a new position, "Town Clerk," to handle the town's accounting, purchasing and personnel matters.
11. Review and revise personnel and purchasing rules.
12. Review town building code ordinance to remove the designation of the general manager as the appeals board on the hearing of violations. Designate a appeals board, to be made up of the board of directors.
13. Keep a closer check and better liaison with the Housing Authority and the Planning Commission, both appointed by the board of directors.
14. Review the relationship between the board and the state grants for projects and open space acquisition.

Townwide Clothing Drive Said 'Enormous Success'

The four Bolton pastors and a 950 residents in town Saturday morning to collect the clothing. A typical crew, one driver and two senior high school boys made 115 stops in about three hours. At 50 of these stops they picked up clothing, with 13 boxes in the Community Hall. The boxes of clothing were piled high on the stage and in other parts of the hall, too.

Of the remainder who did not contribute, 32 had no clothes to give, 25 were not at home, seven said they would bring the clothes to the Community Hall themselves, and one did not give clothes but gave money to cover shipping expenses.

Three persons who gave clothes also gave money, in the typical case. A request had been made to include 10 cents a piece for shipping.

Mrs. William C. Evans, chairman of the clothing drive, said that the drive was a success because of the assistance during the drive, and to each member of the four churches who contributed toward the success of the drive.

Martin Reviews 13-Year History

What has been scheduled last night as a review meeting of board of directors policies and programs, as a substitute for a mandatory two-year review of the general manager, was substituted in turn by a 15-year review of the Town of Manchester.

Richard Martin, speaking for the town's increased population and its increased per capita use of services, said that the town's population had increased by 15 percent since 1950. He predicted that the town's population would increase by another 15 percent by 1975. He predicted that the town's population would increase by another 15 percent by 1990. He predicted that the town's population would increase by another 15 percent by 2000.

Town Men Run New Restaurant

Two Manchester men will open a new restaurant at 800 Main St. in East Hartford. ### 12th Circuit Court Cases

ROCKVILLE SESSION

A Hartford state jail Tuesday in lieu of bonds totaling $2,000.

Mrs. Marie Hildreth, of 81 Elm St., held on two warrants, one from Manchester and one from Rockville, is charged with 12 counts of obtaining narcotics by fraud or deceit. The case was continued to Nov. 2.

Ronnie Cummings, 19, of 23 Regent St., Rockville, charged with breach of the peace, was sentenced to 60 days in jail on that charge to run concurrently with a 30-day sentence for violation of probation.

Two sixteen year old boys, involved in an altercation on a school bus, had their cases referred to the family relations office and continued to Nov. 3.

Julian Hodges and William Shea, both of Rockville, were charged with breach of the peace.

Monro-Matic shock absorbers prevent many accidents

Monro-Matic shock absorbers hold wheels in firm contact with the road, prevent wheel bounce, erratic steering and side sway... guard you against loss of car control, cause of almost a third of all highway accidents. Monro shock absorbers are used on more professional racing cars than all other brands combined. More Monro shock absorbers are used in replacement service than all other brands combined. The reason—they provide the maximum in driving control, safety and comfort. Can you afford to settle for less than the very best in driving safety? Ask for Monro-Matics wherever you have your car serviced.

WARM WELCOMING, WONDERFUL ETHAN ALLEN EARLY AMERICAN

Arthur Tedford, owner-manager of the establishment, made the announcement while, at the same time, offering his sincere thanks to the hundreds of local citizens who have become regular customers during the past two years.

"I takes more than a barber pole and a couple of chairs to build a successful business," said Tedford.

"Our shop has always stressed the use of the 'individual comb' and observed all other sanitary methods for the health and safety of our customers."

"It is a source of great personal satisfaction to know that we have become a respected member of the Manchester Master Barber's Association and that our clientele has become a representative cross section of the community."

Tedford and his associate, Gary McConnell are both natives of Manchester and veterans of the U. S. Navy. They have 18 years combined experience in the business and both consider individual customer satisfaction the ultimate goal of their profession.

Holly Mandy to Receive Gold Key Award

Top Golfer Won Three Titles Here

By EARL YOST
Three-time winner of the coveted Club Golf Championship Tournament at the Manchester Country Club, Holly Mandy, now a resident of Simsbury, has been named one of the three recipients of gold keys given each year by the Connecticut Sports Writers' Alliance. The 27th annual Gold Key Dinner, already assured of being a sellout, is slated for Jan. 24 at the Waverly Inn.

Mandy is the two other winners will be made this weekend.

Mandy, the most successful amateur golfer in the history of the Connecticut Golf Association, won top honors at the Manchester Club in 1946, 1962 and 1964 when residing here.

His greatest accomplishments on the greens and fairways came in 1946 when he won the Connecticut Open at the Manchester Country Club. He also won the Connecticut Open at the Manchester Country Club in 1946, 1962 and 1964 when residing here.

UConn to Open New Skate Rink

The University of Connecticut officially opens its new recreational skating rink for the 1965-66 season Monday, J. O. Christian, director of the Division of Intercollegiate Athletics, announced today.

The rink, located at the end of Stadium Road, is 200 feet long and 85 feet wide. It is embedded in a concrete slab floor circulate a ring to maintain a sheet of ice from one to two years later repeated.

Recreational skating hours are scheduled every day of the week with morning sessions from 10 to 12 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and afternoon sessions on Saturdays and Sundays. Hockey lessons will be given on Saturday and Sunday evenings for groups of boys and girls in 1940 when he defeated all opponents in the state's best pro in winning and Mondays.

Wrestling Coach
HARTFORD (AP) — Robert Brock, a member of the 1960 U.S. Olympic wrestling team, was named wrestling coach at the University of Hartford Wednesday.

Gold Key Winner

Non-League Game Saturday Potent Indian Attack Has 23 Touchdowns

By PETE ZANARDI
Past the midway point unmarred, Manchester High's potent offense takes a rest from CCIL combat Saturday morning, visiting Newington High in a 10:30 game. Last Saturday's 29-8 drubbing of Maloney High of Meriden was the first for the undefeated Indians with four games remaining, including Wethersfield's 26-0 victory over them on Oct. 23 in Windham, Thanksgiving morning at Memorial Field.

In the rubbering department, Manchester remains the top scoring team in the CCIL, putting 106 points in six games. The total includes 23 touchdowns, 14 by rushing, eight by passing and one each on a punt and a fumble recovery and a runback with an intercepted pass.

Scoring statistics reveal the balanced offense at Manchester, showing at least 10 points in each of the six games. Last season Walt Weaver took scoring honors for the year with a life number.

Rejuvenated Oaks
"We need three for third," is the battle cry of Hartford's rejuvenated Oaks as they get ready for the Port Wayne Warriors Saturday night at Dillon Stadium at 8 o'clock.

East Led Everything But in Point Scoring

By PETE ZANARDI
Your club outgains its opponent 285 yards to 127 and it totals 14 first downs to their five, yet you wind up on the wrong end of a 7-0 score. That's the picture presented East Catholic High Coach Don Robert after last Saturday's game at Penny High in East Hartford.

East had four drives stopped on or after a Penny 10 last week, one by a 50-yard punt, one by a 50-yard punt, one by a 50-yard punt, one by a 50-yard punt.

Future Assured with JV Outfits
Football should continue to be of excellent quality in the local area, with East Catholic, Manchester High and Rockville High all coming up with strong entries along the JV trail this season. At present, Manchester JVA host an undefeated 4-0 mark while East and Rockville have won three of four starts.

East had four drives stopped on or after a Penny 10 last week, one by a 50-yard punt, one by a 50-yard punt, one by a 50-yard punt, one by a 50-yard punt.

Real McCoy!

Soccer players have been making the headlines around the country on football grids.

Young Wayne McCoy, out of Vernon and Rockville High, now a freshman at Central Connecticut, is a soccer star in his own right. He played in the 1964 varsity soccer at Rockville where he was All-Conference laureate last fall.

Last week, the 6-11, 150-pounder, who never played football, was called upon to try a field goal on the 25-yard line. McCoy's boot was perfect and three points went on the scoreboard.

This was the play's only kick in the Central Connecticut Southern Connecticut's 9-0.
