Halloween Seen Going All Weekend

Halloween trick - or - treaters in Tolland will be celebrating both on Saturday and Sunday, according to various local officials and organizations. Town officials said yesterday that Halloween trick-or-treating should take place on Sunday, which is officially Halloween. However, earlier in the week, Mrs. Walter James, president of the PTA, indicated that she felt the children should celebrate Saturday night, because they do not have to attend school the next day.

The children that are collecting for UNICEF will be out Saturday night, according to members of the United Congregational Church, which is sponsoring the drive. In any case, Resident State Trooper Harry Tomasek and the constables will be patrolling the town in full force throughout the weekend, starting tonight. Teachers Sought

A two-day celebration of the Inited Nations birthday came to a close yesterday at Bentley ichool. A play with music, "United Nations Day," was presented in two performances to the Bently children and par-

Taking part in the play were he following members of Mrs. Isidor Wolf's third grade: Jennifer Davis, Jay Frank, Sandra Giard, Cheryl Hyde, John Johnson, Brian McKeever, Nancy Murphy and Christopher Page. As a result of becoming involved in the play and learning of the background and services performed by the United Nations, the children felt they would like to do more for that organization. One child suggested raising money for the UN through a cupcake sale at school and the other were enthusiastic about the idea. The sale took place yesterday morning, being conducted by the third grade children from Mrs. Wolf's room as well as those from Miss Helen Gorman's room. The $25.00 proceeds are be ing turned over to UNICEF.

Friday, October 29 Our Power Vetoes Our Instincts What might be considered a rather happy and fortunate allocation of comment on our foreign policy-conscien-understanding praise from abroad-was in effect the other day. Here at home, Senator John Sparkman, the Alabama Democrat, speaking out at Los Angeles, questioned whether wa are flexible enough in our foreign colley decisions and reactions.

tious questioning at home, but generous,

"We seem to be convinced that weand only we-have the right answer to a problem," said Senator Sparkman. "The frustrations we experience seem to cause us not to be more flexible but more rigid; not to seek new solutions but to insist even more firmly on old, and in many cases obsolete ones. "What I am pleading for is a more flexible and tolerant attitude."-Senator Sparkman may not get that in Washington, but it was offered, on the same day he was speaking, in a speech made by a good neighbor. Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada, in a speech at Toronto, defended American policy in Vietnam, and had this to say about us: "The United States is the least imperialistic of any nation who ever wielded super power. The Americans just want to get home to baseball and Coca-

Prime Minister Pearson gets credit for understanding how we Americans like to think of ourselves. Of course we don't want to be imperialists; of course we would like to stay home and have no worries. For his kind words about what we would really like to be doing, we are grateful. But perhaps we can use a touch of Senator Sparkman's recommendation for some introspection and flexibility, too. For whatever our disposition may be, we find ourselves trapped in rigid commitments abroad, without ever being completely sure how we wandered into them, and without being sure, after we find ourselves trapped, whether we can afford the flexible luxury of even debating our own situation fully and hon-

There may be some connection be tween the Pearson analysis of what we would like to be, and the Sparkman theory of why we aren't. Meanwhile, the elemental fact Prime Minister Pearson cited about us, that we "wield super power," continues to be the thing that traps and governs us, beyond our own deliberation, instinct, or will.

Who Does The "Associating"

The game of proclaiming guilt by association is never a very American game, but it is an irresistible game which almost everybody plays to one degree or another. Even those who cannot resist playing it, however, should make some effort to decide just who it is, in each given situation, who is really doing the Pas-

Vietnam. Each side of this division has the dubious distinction of being joined by some unpleasant associates. But this fact does not mean that the Americans on each side of this division have, by their division, joined one or the other of these associates. Communists, naturally and inevitably, are delighted to associate themselves with any American point of view which questions our participation in the war n Vietnam.

That does not mean that Americans who question our participation in that war are Communists. On the other hand, some influences in American life just as poisonous and fact but a glove. sprehensible as the Communists are delighted to associate themselves with the point of view which supports and enforses American participation in the war in Vietnam. Thus, over the weekend, a leader of the Ku Klux Klan in Texas delivered a ringing speech in support of our policy in Vietnam and our waging of war there, and summoned a statewide rally to dramatize such support. This does not mean that all the mericans who support our policy in Vietnam, and who denounce the demon -MERIDEN RECORD strations of those who do not support ! are Ku Kluxers, or share the principles and tastes characteristic of the Klan. It makes some difference who does such "associating," whether the individual moves the way he does because he is a Communist or a Kluxer, or whether the Communists and the Kluxers move to associate themselves with whatever free expressions of free American opinion they think they can pervert to their own poisonous advantages. The health and sanity of this country depend a great deal on our capacity to resist using the label equivalents such groups would like to have us buy-Communism with "peace," the Klan with "patriotism."

Wheat Deal For Votes?

The curious politics of the largest wheat sale in history Canada's $400, 000,000 transaction with Communist China - turns ordinary concepts upside

Canada first inaugurated its practice of selling wheat to Communist China, to the displeasure of the United States, when Canada was being governed by the Conservative party.

Now the Liberal party is in power, and the Conservatives are trying to fight their way back in the November election, and the Liberal party has felt that t would be good campaign strategy to Imitate the Conservatives in their relationship with China and sell China even more wheat than the Conservatives did. Normally, a Liberal party might not dare do such a favor to Communist China, for fear of being charged with being "soft on Communism." But the issue in Canada seems to be that, in any choice between being "soft on Communism" and hard on Canada's own wheat farmers, both the Conservatives and the Liberals come to the same decision, providing, it seems, the Conservatives have the daring to risk making it

October's Gift

Even before the return of old-fashioned time narrows down the last day, of the month, we would like to bid October an appreciative and affectionate farewell.

It has been a nicely ordered mixture of weather and beauty, ranging from freeze to Indian summer, offering the richest and most variable foliage display of many years, offering a painter's procession of clouds, and somehow managing to mix in, without ever spoiling a weekend, the first above average monthly rainfall since last February It has been a not uneventful month in the affairs of those who live on this fair earth. If they got up early enough, in a clear zone, they could catch an elusive but illuminating comet. A Pope made world history on American soil A World Series proved that people could still get mildly interested in baseball if they were ever able to remember the names of the teams. The President of the United States got himself a nonpolitical scar he could exhibit safely. The Danbury Fair was held as usual, and was a warm and friendly success as it has always been every year since the year one, and a World's Fair finally died, serenaded, at the last, by one more cheap boast from its impresario, the largest ego in the world. The Giants became a team interesting to watch again, and Union Pond, drained down, suddenly seemed a relatively clean and sweet-smelling acreage. A very fine

If you live within 30 miles radius from the Vernon Circle—we are interested in talking to you about Color TVs. We would like to explain to you how important it is that you stay away from some discount stores, where they can only sell you the TV set but have no idea how to fix them or adjust them. We also would like to show you our modern Color TV Service Department. We are 8 years in Color TV business and keep thousands of Color TV owners happy with our fast and efficient service. The owner, Mr. Erwin Koltay, - people just call him "Mister Color TV" - is a university graduated electronics engineer and TV designer. He can take care of Color TV problems even when others fail.

Over 50 color sets are on display and we have reduced the prices on all 24" round screen Color TVs to make room for the 23"-and 25" rectangulars. Prices from $328.00. All prices include first class service at no extra charge. The set you pick will be adjusted by "Mister Color TV" himself in front of you to give natural colors. On our sets, the gold will show gold and not yellow, and the red will be red, not pink.
