448 YEARS AGO THE REFORMATION THROUGH DR. MARTIN LUTHER HAD HIS UNIQUE PUBLIC BENEVOLENCE.

It was not the first concern of effort to re-form or re-structure, according to the divine authority—the Bible. There had been other reformers at work.

But the pulling of the 85 Theses, or statements on the door of the castle church in Wittenberg, Germany, was the public and publicity act which set the reformation in full motion.

Sunday, October 31, generally accepted as Reformation Day in the Lutheran and Protestant Church, falls exactly on the publishing day in 1517 of the theses by Dr. Martin Luther. This was a considerable Bible-based act against an abuse—actually of communitarian forgiveness of sins—intended for sincere devotion especially among students and others. It became the public beginning of a reformation, a re-discovering of old and unalterable Bible teachings. — There are anything ready now in the Church of Christ? — The essential concern really settled differences in teaching and practice according to the Bible? — These are questions which will be considered during church services, without personal bitterness, but as the Bible says: "Speaking the truth in love." — The Rev. Paul G. Prokopy will preach on the theme: "The Reformation by God, but Through Martin Luther."

THE REV. OLIVER B. HARMIS, PRESIDENT OF THE LUTHERAN CHURCH—MISSION FRIENDS, WILL PREACH OVER THE LUTHERAN HOUR NETWORK SUNDAY AFTERNOON, OCT. 31, FOR THE REFORMATION OBSERVANCE.

Tolland New Town Truck Request On Nov. 4 Meeting Agenda

The selection have called a annual tax bills during the year town meeting for Nov. 4 at 8 p.m. in the Hicks Memorial School gym to authorize the purchase of a pickup truck for town use and to appropriate a maximum of $2,010 from the town-owned truck fund to defray part of the cost of the truck.

The warning also asks residents to authorize the selection to hire a professional to appraise the town-owned truck property on Rt. 30, next to the Burroughs Corp., and to appropriate not more than $200 to cover the expense.

The third item calls for the township to authorize and empower the selection to accept a deed from the Tolland Community Building Committee for a parcel of land on the south side of Cedar Mill Rd., across from Cranford's Pond. Acceptance of the property and buildings is subject to approval by the planning and zoning commission.

Residents will also be requested to adopt an ordinance extending the hours of local elections an extra hour, to 7 p.m. The polls are open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. for local elections.

The final item on the warning calls authorization for the selection to prepare for the presentation to a future town meeting a proposal that the town adopt the uniform fiscal year including authorization for the issuance of bonds or notes to finance part of the change in the fiscal year.

The Republican Town Committee, which recommended the change in its election platform, has released a statement explaining the fiscal year change. According to the committee, the budget would be completed and the tax rate set in April of each year. The annual meeting in October and the adjourned annual meeting in March would no longer be needed for budget and tax rate setting purposes.

The town would not have to borrow in anticipation of taxes, and the taxpayer would be able to split his payments. The town would get its state grants promptly and the statistical reports of all phases of the town government would coincide with state practices.

The issuing of bonds to finance the changeover does not count against the school building bond limit for the town.

The statement continues that there are now thirty-eight towns in the state which have adopted the uniform fiscal year. Most of the state's accounting and town-by-town statistical comparisons are made on this basis. To make the change, it will be desirable to finance through a bond issue, part of the added burden of paying two town-owned properties used in the highway program. Boyington states that he is in the look-out for a place where the property could be stored, both for protection and convenience.

Also selection Joseph Kearns is working with residents of the Forest Park area and the Post Office Department to make possible a location where mail delivery could be found for residents. At present, there is no mail delivery in Forest Park.

Memorial Day Plans
It is also noted that those wishing to give flowers for the altar, sign the Flower Chart in the vestibule, representing the board of selectmen is to meet with Principal John F. Canavan, Rham High School, and representatives from the other district towns and discuss plans.

Various residents have been made to make sure that the Rham band and Majorettes be Legion members will conduct paper drive that day at 1:30 p.m. The American Legion will hold a steak party tomorrow for clubmate-committee members and others who worked on the August clambake.

Board of Selectmen
First Selectman Ralph C. Boyington reported at the last meeting of the board of selectmen that selection LeRoy E. Kinney is preparing a list of

Sheinwold on Bridge

When your partner leads a long suit against three trump you must use your entries early to set up his suit. Let your partner say his entry so that you can run his suit and defeat the contract.

Opening lead — Five of hearts.

West opened the five of hearts, and South allowed East to lead the first trick with the Jack. East returned a heart to dummy's king. He could have switched to a spade, but South was not sure that East had a spade, so he stuck with the heart.

Declaring next led a diamond from dummy, and East played up the ace of spades and led another diamond from dummy.

End of Defense.

The defense had now come to an end. East could take the ace of diamonds and the king of spades if he cashed them at once. Then South had to trick West's suit.

If South played for the diamonds he would let West in with the queen of diamonds and the rest of the hearts. If South fell back on the spade finesse instead of continuing with the diamonds, East would take the king of spades and return a

Heralding Homes

Home for Many Guests

Scarcely a weekend passes when one or more foreign students are entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Traak of Ripley Rd., Coventry.

Mrs. Traak is a teacher of home economics at Coventry High School. Her husband is a 4-H specialist at the University of Connecticut, Storrs. His work brings him in contact with many visitors from other lands and his family likes nothing better than having them for weekends or longer. Exotic remembrances from grateful guests fill a cupboard in the master bedroom, together with mementoes brought back this summer by the Traaks from a two-months tour of Europe, part of which was spent chaperoning 22 4-H boys and girls. The Traak's daughters, Deborah, a student at Hartford Business College, and Carolyn, a student at Coventry High School, and son, Jon, also at Coventry High, joined them on their travels.

The center chimney colonial house has seven rooms and two baths and a fireplace in almost every room. It is listed as the Tophill house on old maps and thought to be about 200 years old, although the exact date it was built is not known. About four acres of land surround the house and a large barn is on the property. It was originally a dairy farm, and horses were brought there from Mansfield Depot and trained.

A side door, which leads into the kitchen is used by the family in preference to the center door at the front of the house. The spacious kitchen is modern with lots of cabinets and counter space. A large dining room with built-in cupboard is to the rear of the kitchen. These two rooms are part of an addition that was built about 15 years ago.

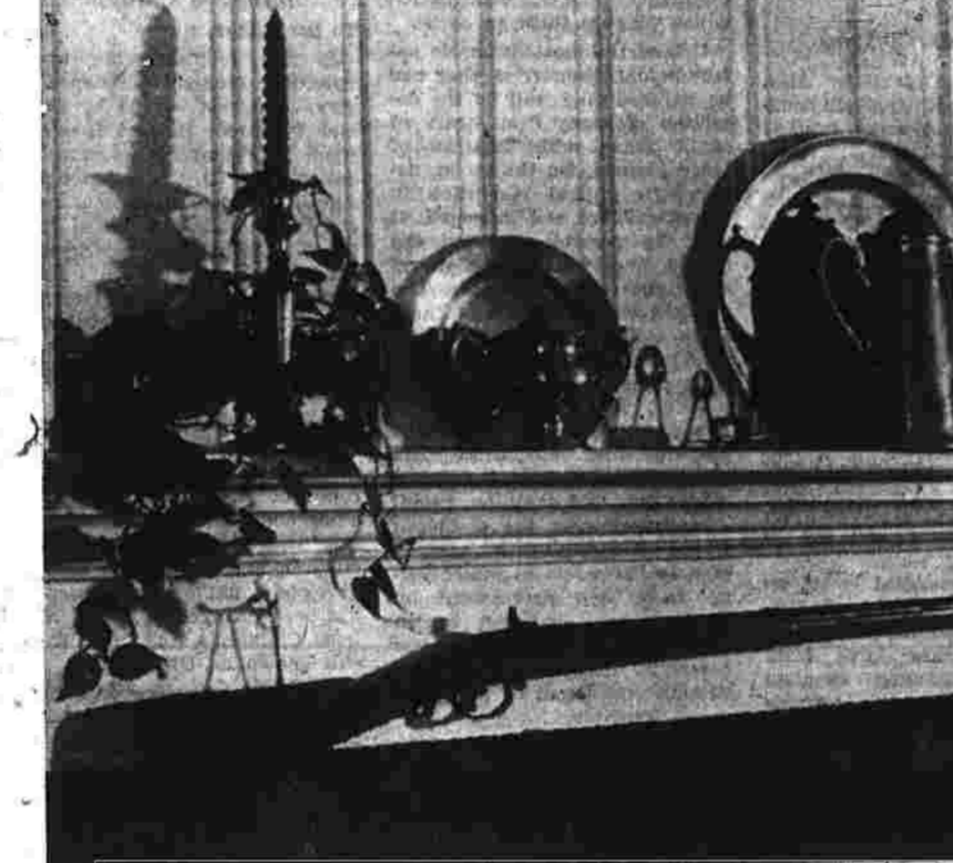

Two rooms were opened up to make the long living room at the center of the house. It has a few fireplaces with open ovens at one end. Many beautiful examples of the potter's art are displayed on the mantle. Some were made by Israel Traak, one of Traak's ancestors, and are dated from 1805 to 1815. The floor is covered with wide pumpkin pine boards.

The master bedroom is on the first floor at the front of the house and directly opposite the front parlor. A small room at the end of the living room was used as a "morning room" in early days. One upstairs bedroom is shared by the daughters of the house and the other is the son's private domain.

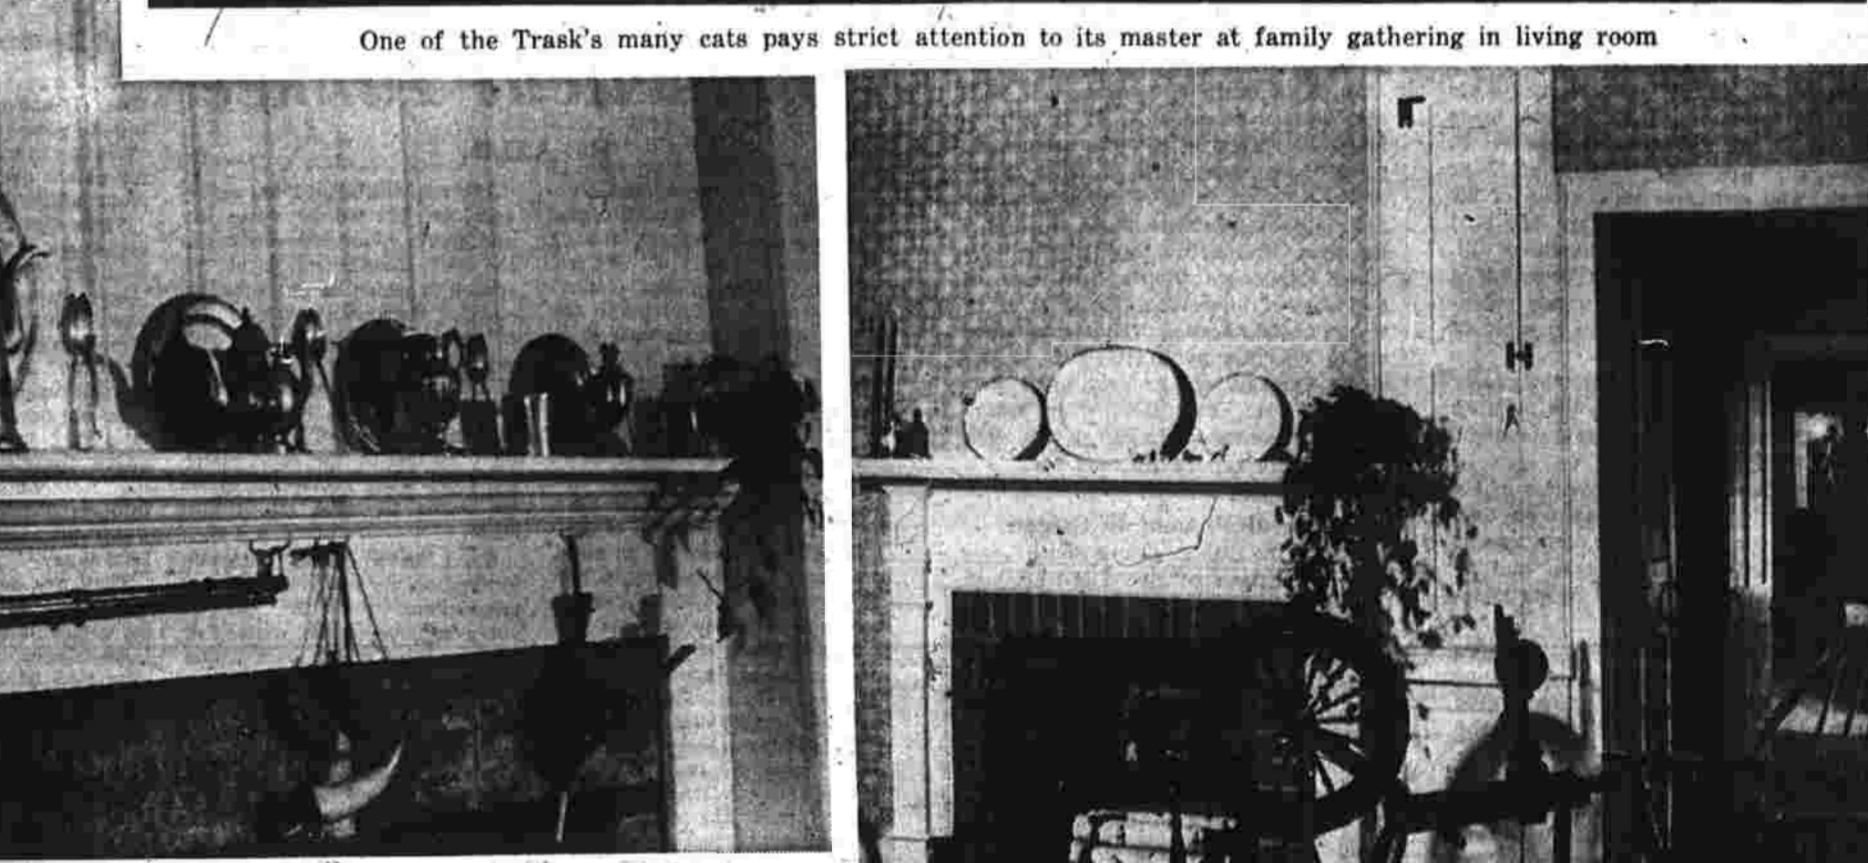

Other members of the family group are Trina, a young college girl, and five cats, which divide their time between the barn and the house.

One of the Traak's many cats pays strict attention to its master at family gathering in living room

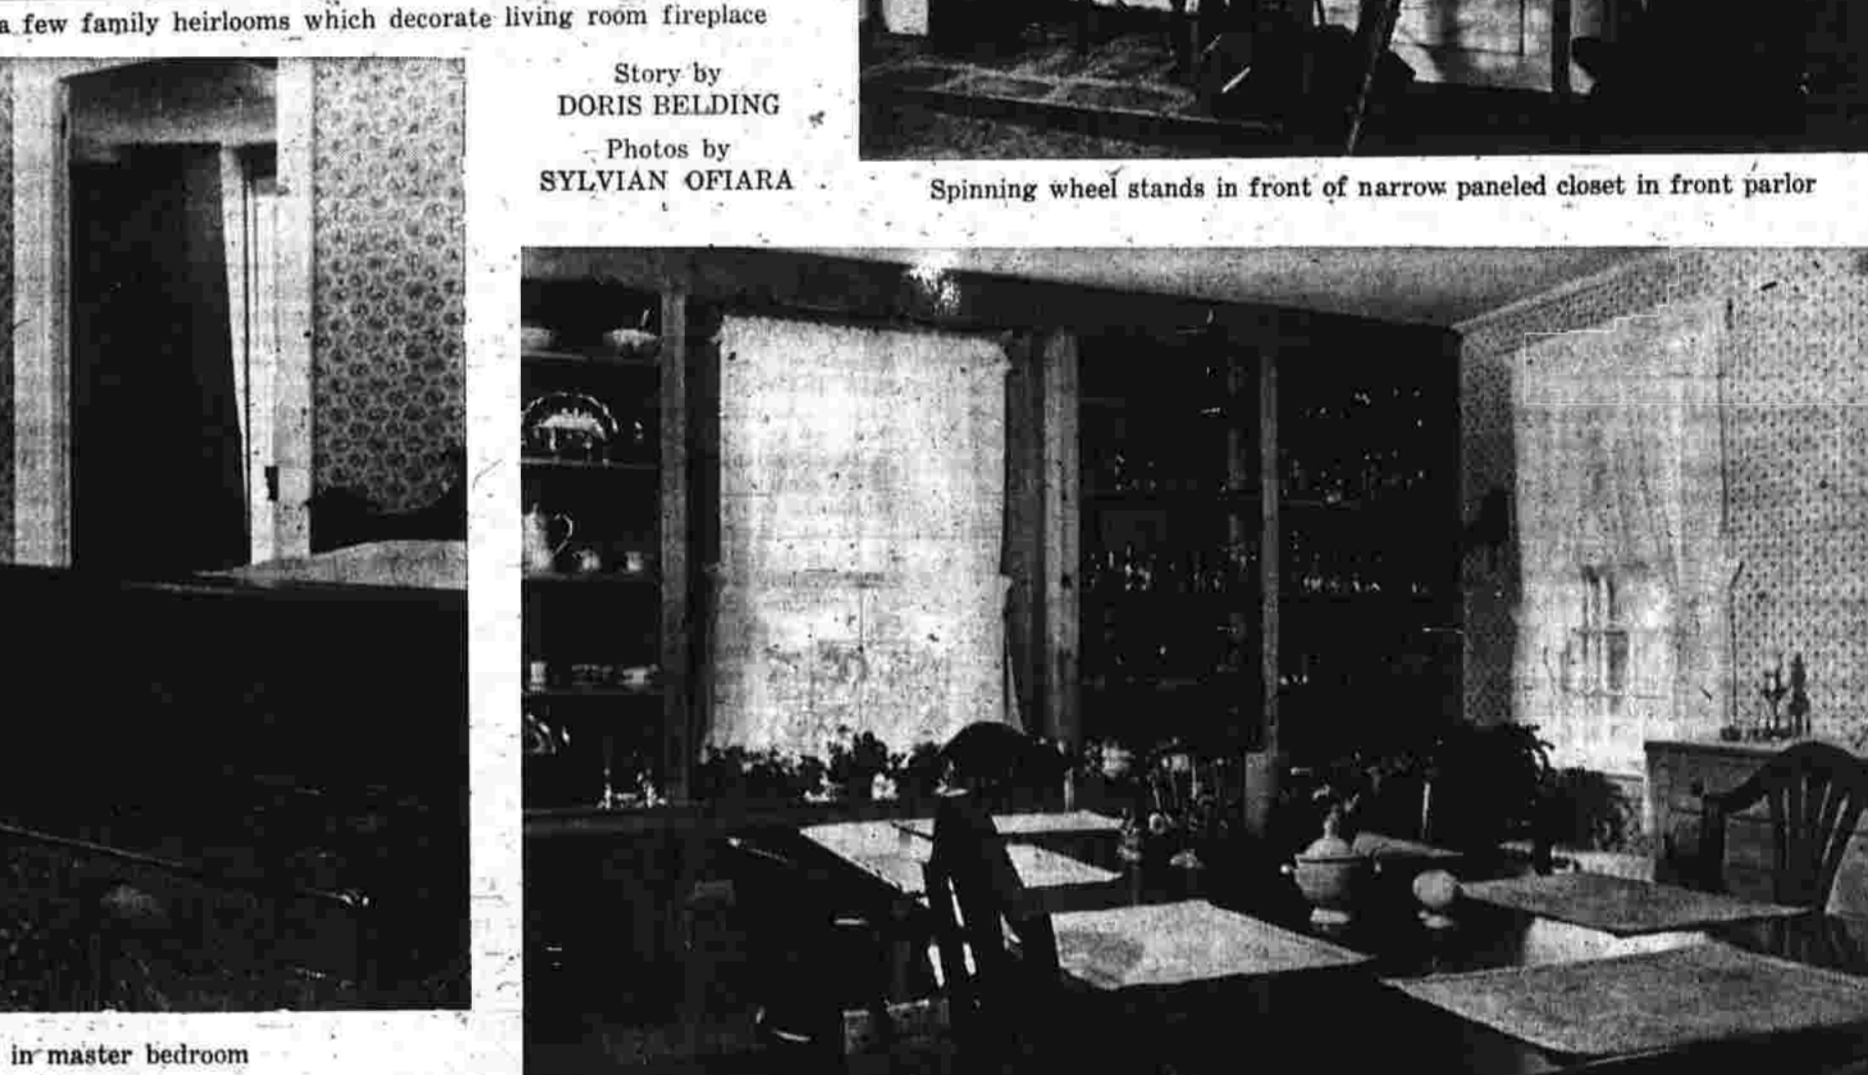

Flintlock musket, powder horns and bellows powder injector are a few family heirlooms which decorate living room fireplace

Couldn't Happen, But Maybe Did
The United States Public Health Service is sending specialists out to Washington County, in the state of Utah, to have them check further on statistics from a survey made among 2,000 school children in that county.

The preliminary survey has disclosed that there is, among those students, an abnormally high incidence of small lumps and nodules on their thyroid glands.

Some of these might be signs of cancer.

The reason the preliminary survey was made in Washington County, and the reason the further investigation by thyroid specialists is being regarded as a very important matter, is that Washington County lies just northeast of the Atomic Energy Commission's nuclear testing grounds in Nevada. It has been for that reason, a region which has received more atomic fallout than any other region in the United States.

The preliminary study in Washington County has had its results compared with those of a similar study in a section of Arizona which has been near the national average. The signs of possible trouble were almost three times as numerous in the Washington County area.

Such is the official concern—in the medical arm of the government—at the moment.

Perhaps the preliminary statistics from Washington County will prove sufficient, in the end, to some reassuring interpretation. Perhaps we can assure ourselves that the statistics, if they do not, with our nuclear testing in Nevada, influence the health and lives of our own citizens, as well as ones unwittingly near the national average.

Events In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today that he would like to see a possible prelude to anarchy.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach today ordered registrars into 12 more Southern counties to speed up listing of eligible voters.

Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas found a link with history in his desk drawer.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
by Eugene Brecher
Jesus said, "Watch and pray," Matt. 26:41. Paul wrote, "Pray without ceasing," 1 Thim. 5:17.
Jesus proved that whatever we ask in his name will be granted when part of the prayer power we have never seen unleashed is its potential. We ought, a change will be seen as it comes.

Man believes in an intelligent creator. God, he would have no difficulty in accepting a divine intervention into the affairs of his creature. Prayer is the bridge between the
of all the righteous—Abraham,
Moses, Samuel, etc., even
Jesus himself. It was the impossible to man.

Neither was prayer a mere form of psychology. It was a real communication with a divine intervention into the affairs of his creature. Prayer
is the bridge between the
of all the righteous—Abraham,
Moses, Samuel, etc., even
Jesus himself. It was the impossible to man.

"Oh what peace we often find,
Oh what needless pain we bear,
All because we do not carry
Anything to God in prayer."

Arthur Tedford Gary McConnell

Tedford's Barber Shop, located at 701 Main Street, Manchester, is celebrating its 22nd Anniversary this week.

Arthur Tedford, owner-manager of the establishment, made the announcement while, at the same time, offering his sincere thanks to the hundreds of local citizens who have become regular customers during the past two years.

"It takes more than a barber pole and a couple of chairs to build a successful business," said Tedford.

"Our shop has always stressed the use of the 'individual comb' and observed all other sanitary methods for the health and safety of our customers.

"It is a source of great personal satisfaction to know that we have become a respected member of the Manchester Master Barber's Association and that our clientele has become a representative cross section of the community."

Tedford and his associate, Gary McConnell are both natives of Manchester and veterans of the U. S. Navy. They have 18 years combined experience in the business and both consider individual customer satisfaction the ultimate goal of their profession.

Two Injured In Accident

Two Manchester men were hospitalized last night after the car they were riding in went off the road on Porter St. and struck a utility pole and a tree.

Larry Lisclotte, 18, of 15B Forest St., a passenger is listed in critical condition at Manchester Memorial Hospital with a ruptured liver.

The driver of the car, William J. O'Connell, 20, is in satisfactory condition at the hospital with a possible back injury and forehead cuts. Both are in the special care zone.

Police said O'Connell was driving east on Porter St. and was rounding a curve when the car left the road. The car struck a utility pole, snapping it off at the base, and then traveled 11 feet, coming to a stop against a tree. The car was wrecked.

O'Connell said another car forced him off the road, police reported. The accident is under investigation.

ART DEMONSTRATION SUNDAY 3 P.M.

Bad Monday: The Ratings And Gemini

NEW YORK (AP) — The three major television networks had a tough morning Monday.

First thing was the publication of the second national Nielsen ratings of the new season. Then the Gemini 8 flight was scrubbed about 45 minutes before the two-man space capsule was scheduled to be launched.

It is hard to say which event caused the most turmoil in network headquarters. The cancellation of the space mission meant hundreds of thousands of dollars were down the drain since personnel and equipment had been deployed widely to cover the event.

The national Nielsen report may have had even more money riding on it. This is an estimate of the size of television audiences achieved by projecting viewing choices of a sample of about 1,200 homes which are supposed to reflect accurately the preferences of all 84 million television homes.

The A.C. Nielsen Co. reported that during the two-week period ending Oct. 10, the three most popular programs were, first, the Sunday broadcast of the World Series, followed by "Bonanza," NBC's ratings champ of last season, and then the Saturday World Series game. A CBS variety show starring Andy Griffith, Don Knotts and Jim Nabors slipped into fourth place, followed by Andy Griffith's own show and "Gomer Pyle," in which Nabors stars. Other programs that made the top 10 were NBC's farce, "Get Smart," ABC's "Bewitched" and CBS' "Red Skelton Show" and "The Lucy Show" in that order.

But television's great race is conducted by having the individual network research departments add up the Nielsen ratings achieved by each network and dividing by the number of shows to achieve an average. In this competition CBS and NBC agreed that they were tied with an average of 18.5 while ABC trailed with 17.0.

There was great rejoicing and relief at CBS, which had trailed NBC slightly two weeks ago. There were some pink cheeks at NBC where there had been brass early predictions of a ratings victory. ABC made no comment.

The three networks handled the abortive space shot more conservatively than before, beginning all-out coverage only a few minutes before the scheduled launching of the unmanned Agena missile and winding things up fast about 70 minutes

A New Man Is Replacing Amos Burke

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company, unhappy with results produced by its American secret agent Amos Burke, will trade him in for a new model, a British undercover man.

Gene Barry's show, which this season changed format and title to become "Amos Burke, Secret Agent," will disappear after the Jan. 12 show, cut down by that old enemy, low ratings.

In a program reshuffle, ABC will put a British-made cloak-and-dagger series, "The Baron," at the end of its Thursday evening schedule, moving "The Long, Hot Summer" into Amos' old Wednesday night position.

"The Baron" will be a fellow who runs a chain of antique shops in London and other suitable world capitals as a cover for his real work — a single-handed battle against international forces of evil. By putting the show on Thursday nights, instead of Wednesday, where the program vacancy will occur, ABC at least gets the program out of audience competition with NBC's "I Spy."

Apparently there is the beginnings of a TV vogue for British-made spy series. CBS will resume with its London-made "Secret Agent" series, starring Patrick McGeehan, on Saturday nights starting Dec. 4. NBC has announced for 1966 "The Saint," one of whose producers will turn out "The Baron." "The Saint" is a fellow with some vague criminal associations who goes around solving jewel robberies and such that baffle Scotland Yard.

Many shows seem to be in trouble. There is reason to believe that several shows with only 13 week network commitments will be abandoned, but there are other weaklings which were signed for 26 weeks.

"The Steve Lawrence Show" and "The Trials of O'Brien" are on CBS' shaky list; NBC has "Camp Runamuck" and "Hank," and ABC is not happy with the showing of "The King Family" and "The Donna Reed Show."

THE NELSONS MOVE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Omie and Harriet," a long-run situation comedy that has been overtaken with rating trouble, will be lifted from its Wednesday berth and dropped into the Saturday night ABC schedule to fight "Flipper" and Jackie Gleason, tough competition.

The Smothers Survive Start

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tom Smothers tells how his friends inquired about his new television show last summer.

"Sounds great, Tom," they'd say. "What shows are you opposite?"

Tom replied that he and his brother faced "Mister Roberts" and "Peyton Place III." The friend's face would invariably fall and he'd offer the weak comment, "Well, I don't watch 'Peyton Place' any more."

Indeed the talk in the trade was that "The Smothers Brothers Show" was the least likely to succeed. A change of production heads, script problems galore, the untried quality of the Smothers-as-situations-comedians — all spelled doom. Too bad, boys, but you can always go back to the night clubs.

"The show was almost canceled before we went on the air," said Dick — he's the straight man and bass player. "Tommy and I didn't like the way things were going, and we said so. They kept saying, 'Trust us; we know what we're doing.'"

"But they didn't," added Tom, the rubber-faced guitar-playing brother. "At one meeting an executive told us, 'Maybe you two shouldn't be on television.'"

"I was proud that Dick and I responded in unison, without consulting each other. We said: 'Maybe you're right. We'll go back to night clubs, where we can make a lot more money without all this grief.' We were almost to the door when our manager said, 'Wait a minute, fellows; let's talk this over.'"

The Smos. Bros. stuck to their guns, fighting for better scripts and characterization. The reviews of the first show were generally poor, and rightfully so, the boys feel.

But the viewing public, which has an instinct for such things, sensed a winning combination and embraced the show from the beginning. One rating listed "Smothers Brothers" with the highest audience of any new show. This despite the fact that CBS affiliates were so wary of the show that many substituted

Review: Last Anthology

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bob Hope Theatre is television's last remaining anthology series, not counting, of course, reruns of feature movies. It has its ups and downs and it sometimes has script troubles, but the mere fact it is an anthology series makes it a treasure this season.

And Wednesday night the NBC series surfaced with an interesting piece. The story, based on a New Yorker magazine tale, concerned a Britisher of apparent background and education who was obviously down on his luck in America. He persuaded a mere acquaintance, a spinster of uncertain age, to pose as his wife so he could get a job "in service" — he as head waiter and she as a waitress in an inn.

Jack Hawkins as the Englishman gave his role a chilly, sinister quality. But it was Shelley Winters as the spinster who gave the hour its compelling interest.

Television has so accustomed most of us to wildly dramatic endings that the climax of "Back to Back" was almost a disappointment in its understatement. The woman Edith, was so upset at his stony treatment of her and even more so at his desertion of a young son in England that she deliberately arranged to have him fired. There were no cops, no handcuffs, just a bitter discouraged man accused of attempting to steal some worthless plated silver and a middle-aged, lonely woman with tears streaming down her face.

It was most effective — and a welcome change from those comedies with the loud laugh tracks and the spies making narrow escapes.

Honey West Swings

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Honey West may change all that nonsense that a woman's place is in the home. She's the swingingest gal in television.

The television female, usually restricted to apron-wearing matrons or sunny Miss Fixits, is getting a new image this season in the admirable form of Anne Francis. As the star of ABC's "Honey West," she serves up judo chops instead of light suppers.

The show has come in for its own share of lumps, some critics finding the plots wildly improbable, with action, intrigue and drama crammed into a too-fast 26 minutes. But the series appears to be holding its own against the potent "Gomer Pyle" in the ratings.

Miss Francis, a 33-year veteran of the film studios, thinks "Honey West" has a lot going for it, as the popular trade expression goes.

"There must be a lot of ladies in the audience who would like to slug their husbands," she reasons, "and they can get a vicarious thrill watching me chopping men—I've had fights in every show so far."

"We also stress the glamor side, and I think husbands like that. Teen-agers and girls can identify with a girl who leads an adventurous life. And usually I get beaten up in the stories. Let's face it: There are a lot of men around who get their kicks out of watching that."

If "Honey West" sounds like a strenuous show for a girl to do, it is: Anne had been working a 14 to 18 hour day and finally had to cut it down to 12. Even though she has a double to perform in the long shots, Anne must do the closeups of the fights herself, and it's rough stuff.

But she isn't complaining. "I went into the series with my eyes wide open," she declared. "I had stayed away from series because I had seen what it did to friends of mine; they became physical, mental and emotional wrecks."

"But I accepted 'Honey West' because I believe it could be fun and because it offered me something I had never known before—security. That is one of the basic ego needs, and I was willing to sacrifice three years of my life to assure a future for myself and for my daughter, Jane."

Coming Shows

Secretary of State Dean Rusk will be the October "Man of the Month" on CBS' "Twentieth Century" tomorrow 6-6:30 p.m.

NBC will broadcast "The Big Ear," a study of the many forms of wire tapping tomorrow from 6:30-7:30.

The changes in Poland since World War II are examined on "Changing World: Poland—Communism's New Look" on Channel 24 Wednesday at 8 p.m., repeated Sunday at 4 p.m.

Bob Hope is a guest on Jack Benny's first of a series of one-hour programs on NBC. "The Jack Benny Hour" will be broadcast Wednesday 9-10 p.m.

"ABC Scope" will explore the work being done by Kenya's president, Jomo Kenyetta, to build a modern county. The program, "Jomo Kenyetta: Burning Spear Turns Boulder," will be shown tonight 10:30-11 p.m.

The arguments used by Clarence Darrow in the famous Scopes trial involving the teaching of evolution in Tennessee schools will be outlined Monday 7:30-8 p.m. on Channel 24.

local programs. The ratings make the brothers happy but not complacent.

"We've still got a lot to learn," admitted Dick. "We're accustomed to playing before live audiences, where movement counts. But in television, you don't need to wave your arms and make broad gestures. Sometimes just the lift of an eyebrow can put over a point."

"Dick's been taking dramatic lessons," Tom reported. "He started out not knowing how to play his role; it had no character."

Dick reported proudly that his coach had pronounced him now "better than adequate," an accolade under the demanding teacher, Tom did not need lessons, he added, "because his character is already established; he's a nut."

The Smothers, who own 50 per cent of the Friday night show, are earning a quarter of their usual income but glad to be doing what they're doing. It keeps them home with their families, although the shooting day is long and strenuous.

Their aim: "To create a really quality show, like Dick Van Dyke's or 'Betwitted.' We believe by the end of this season we'll be doing just that."

later when the Gemini launching was canceled. This certainly was an improvement over the long-winded preliminary coverage of previous launchings.

ABC Vice President Edgar Sherick said Monday that Edmond O'Brien, who last week abruptly quit his starring role in "The Long, Hot Summer," would be replaced by another actor who will be announced this week. O'Brien, whose departure was attributed to "creative differences," will be seen in five episodes completed before his walkout.

CBS will broadcast "Time-bomb in Rhodesia," a study of the prime minister's threat to declare independence from the British Commonwealth, Tuesday 10-10:30 p.m.
