Cong Method Again Fast, Indiscriminate

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—His head swathed in bloody bandages, Spec. 4 Richard Simons, a young helicopter mechanic, today recounted the terrifying minutes, and the death and blind confusion, in the blackened corridors of the Metropolitan Hotel this morning.

"I remember groping blindly along a corridor searching for a stretcher for my buddy who was hit bad," Simons said. "I was bumping into other guys looking for stretchers for their buddies. Munroe, from Phoenix, Ariz., was in pain himself. Flying glass had torn into his face and hands, and as he moved along the corridor, he stemmed the flow of blood with a sheet.

He and his companion were among the 72 Americans wounded in the pre-dawn assault on the Metropolitan Hotel, the latest terrorist attack. Two Americans were killed.

In addition, there was a toll of more than 100 Vietnamese killed or wounded. They were innocent bystanders caught in the holocaust.

The Gemini 8 astronaut, Neil Armstrong, and Air Force Major Thomas P. Stafford, are expected to be off in earnest Dec. 18. The plan is to fly the two spacecraft in formation—perhaps only inches apart—for nearly five hours as they whip 180 miles.

African States Break Off Ties With Rhodesia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Members of the Organization of African Unity voted Friday night to break off diplomatic relations with Britain unless the British crush the Rhodesian rebellion by Dec. 15.

The OAU's Council of Ministers also decided to have its 36 member states slap a total economic blockade on Rhodesia, cut off all communications, bar planes from flying over their territory to Rhodesia, block all Rhodesian bank accounts and declare Rhodesian travel documents void.

French Expected To Elect DeGaulle

PARIS (AP)—French voters are expected to re-elect President Charles de Gaulle to another seven-year term, but observers said there was a chance he would not get a majority in the first round of balloting Sunday.

Polls showed that 30 to 40 percent of the electorate still were undecided and observers speculated that if they swing toward his five opponents, De Gaulle will be forced into a runoff contest against the top opposition candidate.

De Gaulle, 75, running for a popularly elected office for the first time, holds a majority dear to his heart and informed sources said if he isn't satisfied with the first round, he may again drop out of politics.

Some of his opponents have said that among their main reasons for running is to deprive De Gaulle of his crushing majority he has enjoyed since coming to power in 1958, despite a gradual erosion to about 60 percent in the last referendum.

At the campaign officially closed Friday night with a goal of support, the haughty De Gaulle asked the voters to "demonstrate of confidence."

Forgotten Child Victim of Fire

NEW LONDON (AP)—A woman who scarred with two 26-year-old children to help her children to safety when fire struck her home Friday night forgot until too late a little grandchild who was visiting.

A fireman found the unconscious body of a 2-year-old child, identified as 14-month-old William J. Williams in a smoke-filled upstairs room of the two-story house of Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Coleman on West High Street.

The child died shortly before midnight at Lawrence and Memorial Hospital. He was the son of Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Williams.

Police said the father and mother no longer live together. They gave the father's address as 30 Field St. and the mother's as 14 Elmwood St.

At the time of the fire at the home of Mrs. Williams' parents, fire officials said, the only one home was the father's brother, Mrs. Coleman, and two of Mrs. Coleman's children, Ernest, 4, and Michael, 7.

Mrs. Coleman's husband and several of their other children, including Charles, 12, and Thomas, 10, were not home at the time. Fire officials will investigate the cause of the blaze. They stated the damage to the house and its contents at $10,000.

Revaluators Start House Visits Monday

Town Assessor F. Joseph Murphy has announced that the revaluation task of measuring and inspecting Manchester's residential property will start Monday morning and will continue for an estimated eight months.

Field men from the United Appraisal Co. each carrying identification cards containing their pictures and signed by the assessor, will start work in the southern part of the town, between Middle Tpke., between Main and Broad Sts., and will gradually visit every home, until all sections of the town have been covered.

"They will make an interior and exterior inspection of each building, to record all of the measurements, plus a list of physical information, such as type of heat, amount of plumbing, kind of floor, etc.

"The men have been trained to recognize all of the features of a dwelling which either add to or detract from its value. Appreciation will be given to each building according to its general condition and maintenance, after considering the age.

Each property owner will be asked pertinent questions concerning purchase price, building and remodeling costs, and depreciation value of the property. The field men will request the property owners to sign a field card, as a means of verifying that the house has been inspected, both inside and outside.

"The appraisal will be based on current values and, upon completion of the entire project, the board of directors will determine what percentage of the appraised values will be used as a standard for assessment purposes, on the October 1966 Grand List.

Manchester now assesses at 70 per cent of fair market value, compared to a state average, for towns of similar size, of 67 per cent.

Murphy said that he has no indication at present of what percentage he will recommend for next October's Grand List.

"The $27,000 revaluation task is being made to conform with state regulations which require that towns must reevaluate property at least once each 10 years.

Murphy said that he has no indication at present of what percentage he will recommend for next October's Grand List.

"The streets which will be the first to be covered, when the field men start their tasks on Monday, are Durant, Essex, Little and S. Hawthorne Sts.

Most space agency experts believe they have a 90 per cent chance of better to accomplish the rendezvous.

Tollard Reading a Complex, Needed Skill, School Board Is Told

"Reading is the most complex subject that a child must learn," Vincent Lamo, an English and reading teacher at Rockville High School, told the board of education this week.

Speaking at a special curriculum meeting of the board on Wednesday, Lamo said that learning to read requires the development of many related skills which are not acquired by all children at the same rate or age.

Studies have shown, he said, that 10 to 15 per cent of elementary school children suffer reading deficiencies.

He stressed that, the earlier the child is able to read, the more he is able to learn, and the more he is able to learn, the more he is able to read.

A public library near the school leads to a better quality of reading among the children, he said.

Reading instruction continues through the school years, he said, and a lack of reading ability affects all the subjects a child will study, according to Lamo.

A considerable number of high school students today are reading below their grade level, he said. A reading consultant, through the use of diagnostic testing, can find what reading skills the student is deficient in, and find what teaching will best suit the student. The consultant also advises teachers and teaches them new methods of teaching reading.

The level of reading is based on factors of comprehension, speed of word and sentence recognition. The reading instructor is most concerned with the comprehension of the student, in general, based on six or seven composite skills, Lamo said.

The child most in need of the assistance of a reading consultant is one which has an average IQ but who reads below his grade level.

Some children, on the other hand, reach a "reading plateau" which represents the extent of their abilities, according to Lamo.

An ideal ratio of teacher to pupil is one teacher to 20 students, he said. The present ratio is one teacher to 30 students, he said.

Legislative reapportionment is simply not an issue to be decided on December 14, 1966.

Police Arrests

William M. Abernethy, 23, of Glastonbury, was charged with speeding and failure to obey a stop sign at 81 Main and Hackensack Sts. yesterday. He is slated to appear in court on Dec. 20.

Henry Lettier, 45, of no certain address, was charged with intoxication when he was found in the hall at 4 Pearl St. yesterday. He is scheduled to appear in court on Dec. 20.

A board member, questioned the current emphasis on speed reading, and Lamo said in the certain extent, it is beneficial, but that sometimes a student will learn more from a slower pace of reading.

Open Forum

Legislative reapportionment is a fact. It has already been accomplished by the Public Act Number 2 of the November, 1964 Special Session of the legislature. Whether or not the people of Connecticut accept or reject the proposed revised constitution, the reapportionment will remain as it is now appointed by Public Act Number 2. This fact has not been sufficiently stressed by those persons arguing the pros and cons of the proposed revised constitution.

AVOID INTERNAL FATE AT TRUMP CONTRACTS BY ALFRED SHINWOLD

An especially hot corner of the internal regions is reserved for bridge players who draw trumps on the wrong hands. Robert de Nexon, retired president of the World Bridge Congress, proved that he was on the side of the angels by his play of a difficult slam contract a few years ago.

Opening lead — Queen of West opened the queen of diamonds, and de Nexon won with the king. The hell-bent bridge player would draw three rounds of trumps and then do his thinking, but it would come too late, since the jack of spades does not drop, the trumps don't break, and the queen of clubs is on the wrong side, South must go down.

de Nexon is a cool customer and planned to stay that way by playing the trumps correctly. After winning the first trick with the king of diamonds he called the king of spades, got to dummy with the king of hearts and led out the ace and queen of clubs to get rid of his two low diamonds.

He then took two tricks with the jack of partner's bid suit. This is enough for a raise.

Daily Question Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades, J-8-4; Hearts, 9-8-2; Diamonds, Q-J-10; Clubs, Q-4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades. You have 4 points in high cards, 1 point for the doubleton, and may also count 1 point extra for the jack of partner's bid suit. This is enough for a raise.

O. E. Hoermann School Board Veteran, Dies

ROCKVILLE — Oscar E. Hoermann, 73, of 118 Prospect St., a former 10-year member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, died early this morning at Rockville General Hospital.

Mr. Hoermann was born in Rockville, March 14, 1892, a son of John and Mary Ryan Hoermann, and was a lifelong resident. He retired eight years ago after being employed more than 45 years at Hartford Accident and Indemnity Insurance Co.

The funeral will be held at the convenience of the family, at St. James' Episcopal Church, 1002 Main St., at 10 a.m. on Monday, Dec. 5. Burial will be in St. Bridget's Cemetery.

There will be no calling hours.

Survivors include two brothers, Michael Ryan and Timothy Ryan, and a sister, Cynthia Ryan, all at home; his paternal grandfather, Mrs. John Ryan of Champlain, Ill.; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. John Ryan of Hartford, Conn.

He attended United Congregational Church. He was a member of the Hartford Lodge of the Eastern Star, a past high priest of Adoniam Chapter, RAM; a member of the American Council, RSM, and a member of Hope Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Rose Zecherly Hoermann; a son, Robert O. Hoermann of Rockville; a daughter, Mrs. John Hagberg of North Hadley, Mass.; a daughter, Francis Hoermann of Alexandria, Va., and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the White-Glendon Funeral Home, 63 Elm St. The Rev. Paul J. Bowman, pastor of Unit Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Grove Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tomorrow from 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family requests that there be no one word in the memorial contributions to the Heart Association.

Robert D. Dougan — Robert David Dougan, 70, of 30 Elm St., formerly of Valley St., Manchester, died early this morning at an out-of-town hospital.

Mr. Dougan was born July 20, 1888, in Glenore, Portandou, Ireland. He lived in Manchester 20 years before moving to Vernon 15 years ago. He retired 14 years ago from the New Haven Railroad, where he worked as a stone mason for many years.

He was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Washington, D.C., and the Washington Club, Royal Oak Precinctory, all of Manchester, and the Apprentice Boys of Derry, Ireland.

Survivors include a son, David R. Dougan of Vernon, with whom he made his home; a daughter, Mrs. Theresa Dougan

Town Republicans Endorse Constitutional Changes

The Republican Town Committee last night overwhelmingly endorsed the two constitutional change questions which will be voted upon on Dec. 14—question one, which pools all revisions into one package; and question two, the eminent domain proposal.

The endorsement of the two questions was recommended by Town Committee Chairman Francis DellaFera and followed motions by Town Director Harlan Taylor.

Only two votes were cast against endorsement of the constitutional package revision question—by Wilber Little and Lemuel Miller.

The panel of speakers was introduced by Atty. John Shea, former chairman of the town committee and now a central committeeman from the 4th Senatorial District. All three speakers urged passage of the two questions on Dec. 14, and all three, time and again, stressed the need for "compliance with the law." Atty. Bonee accused John Lupton and his Committee of 1,000 of "perpetrating a great hoax on the people of the state when they recommend disregard of the law." He said, "Such an attitude is the equivalent of nullification, rebellion and revolution, just as it was during the Civil War." Mrs. Redick said, "The one-man, one-vote issue is the law of the land, and although no one hates the Supreme Court decision more than I do, it must be obeyed." She urged passage of the eminent domain proposal, "because the rights of the little man and of the individual are now being ignored." Mrs. Redick labeled all of the opponents of the proposal, with the exception of the State Farm Bureau, "bureaucrats, with an axe to grind." May urged "compliance with the law, even though it may not be easy, so that anarchy and chaos will not prevail in Connecticut." He praised the work of the Constitutional Convention, and called it "a non-partisan job, well done for the good of all of the people of the state." Atty. Shea, in answer to a question by Little, "How did our Republican fellows let the Democrats put these changes over on you?" said, "We must recognize that the Democrats

Opera Heard At Bushnell

BY JOHN GRUBER Jean Madeira was a vocally disappointing Carmen in the Connecticut Opera Assn. production of Bizet's opera which played to a capacity audience last night at the Bushnell Memorial.

She swooped and she scooped and she sang distressingly off pitch at times, all with the greatest aplomb. Just what happened is a mystery to me, for only two years ago she turned in a stunning performance on the same stage as Delilah. To her credit let it be said that histrionically she was most credible as the gypsy girl depicted in the Prosper Marimee tale.

Opposite her was Ruchard Verrean as Don Jose, drafted for the part when Sandor Konya, previously announced, fell ill. Mr. Verrean has been heard here on several occasions and last night sounded to excellent advantage. In fact it is doubtful if Mr. Konya, despite a greater reputation, could have bettered this performance.

He just about brought down the house with his "Flower Song" or, if you prefer the French words, the aria starting, "La Fleur que tu m'avais jetee..." Yet throughout the evening he was just about equally fine. His acting, unfortunately, fails to improve and he still stands here or moves there because a director told him to do so rather than from any inner conviction. At least so it seems.

Marcella Reale pleased the audience very much as Micaela, yet she, too, had moments of insecurity in the matter of pitch. The audience loved her "Je dis que rien ne m'epouvante..." but then I've never known the time when the audience didn't love this fine piece of operatic writing, no matter who was singing. Chester Ludgin failed to come up to my expectations as Escamillo. Heard here two seasons ago I expected this would be a role in which he would be remarkable, but he turned out to be little more than adequate. So my guess was wrong.

Smaller parts were handled acceptably by Norman Higgins, Irwin Denson, Linda Heilmann, Rita de Carl, Luigi Vellucci and Robert Falk. The chorus has sounded better on occasion, but the chorus of little boys who show up for the changing of the guard was very good.

Carlo Moresco conducted with his usual verve, and Anthony Stivanello turned in his customary good job of stage direction. The whole thing was under the executive direction of Frank Pandolfi, and while this was not one of his best productions, it was certainly worth the price of admission and about on a par with the average performance of the work to be encountered in any good opera house.

South Windsor Post Office Ruling Grounds Firemen, Mrs. Little Says

The reason that two volunteer firemen who work at the Wapping Post Office may not answer fire calls during the day is so that they may "direct their attention to the process of the mail for the number of hours that they are required to be employed."

Mrs. Shirley D. Little, the Wapping Post Office's new postmistress, said last night that the ruling barring the men from answering fire calls comes from the U.S. Post Office Department. "I am following that ruling," she says.

The fire department presented a statement at Wednesday's town council meeting, asking town officials to intervene to restore the two firemen, assistant chief Frank Enes and Bradford Alpers, to duty. Mayor James Throwe said he has asked postal officials in Manchester to seek a ruling from district headquarters in Boston.

Mrs. Little, asked to comment on the situation, last night released a statement, reprinted here in full: "The United States Post Office Department has issued a

Lucy, Charlie Brown, Snoopy, Frieda and Linus appear in "A Charlie Brown Christmas," a CBS color special Thursday evening at 7:30.

Charlie Brown, Pals Star in Yule Special

If cartoonist Charles M. Schulz were to send a Christmas card to every "Peanuts" fan, and if he were to write 100 of these every day, it would take him more than 2,000 years.

Obviously he wouldn't make it. And he certainly wouldn't have much time left over to draw the daily comic strip that appears in 750 newspapers in the United States and Canada.

So instead of individual messages to the nearly 80 million readers of the cartoon feature he created, draws and writes, Schulz will make his television debut along with the "Peanuts" in the animated-cartoon special, "A Charlie Brown Christmas," in color Thursday on CBS.

With the first snowfall, the Peanuts begin to think of Christmas and the gifts they hope to receive. Everywhere Charlie Brown goes, the shadow of commercialism and greed obscures what he knows exists somewhere, if only he can find it: The real Christmas.

Schulz appears at the close of the half-hour special with a holiday message for "Peanuts" fans everywhere.

There was a time when Schulz could have covered his list of admirers with two cards — to himself and his dog, Spike (Spike was the model for Snoopy, the philosophical canine Peanut).

Always an avid reader of comic strips, Minneapolis-born Schulz began early to emulate his favorite cartoonists. He submitted sketches to magazines and to his high-school yearbook, but they were always rejected.

After service in World War II, Schulz returned to the Twin Cities and got a job lettering a comic magazine. He sold his first cartoon to the Saturday Evening Post in 1948, and things looked bright. But, like Charlie Brown, he went through a lot more good grief before success finally tripped him.

Schulz was hired by the St. Paul Pioneer Press to do a weekly cartoon panel, "Li'l Folks." Then in 1950, United Feature Syndicate accepted it as a regular strip and renamed it "Peanuts."

Since then Charlie Brown and his precocious friends have become a national institution.

Schulz is the only cartoonist who has twice won the Reuben Award of the National Cartoonists Society, as the outstanding cartoonist of the year in 1955 and in 1956.

"A Charlie Brown Christmas" is the first fully animated cartoon feature starring the "Peanuts" characters. Schulz wrote the special story.

Next TV Season: Fantasies, Spies

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The word is getting around in the television business that the executives who decide what programs we shall or shall not see are still concentrating on larger-than-life spy stories and fantasies for next season's network menus.

That may be true — almost all the shows that have been announced, leaked or rumored seem to be half-hour comedies.

Although this season is still young, it should be noted that those same people put more than 30 new shows into the network schedules in September, and have not achieved one real solid hit among them.

Real Hero
Anthony Ponzini, who plays Tony Wyatt in "The Edge of Night," was commended by President Eisenhower for saving the life of Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black. Ponzini, then a corpsman in the Navy, was on night duty at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where Justice Black was a patient. A routine check revealed that Justice Black was bleeding profusely from an artery in his leg. Ponzini tied it off and stopped the bleeding.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When movie and television producers need shots of a seagull, a shipwreck or a sunset, they call Elmer Dyer.

You name it and Elmer is likely to have it among the million feet of film contained in his unique movie library. If he doesn't have it, he will get out and shoot it.

Elmer Dyer has been making movies for 53 years, and he has lost none of his enthusiasm for film. I dropped by his library one stormy day and found him contemplating a visit to the ocean.

"There ought to be some big waves up today," he mused. "Should make some great shots."

The Dyer place is stacked to the ceiling with cans of film he has taken in his lifetime. They are arranged as to subject: birds, flowers and fruits, football, ambulances, snow, etc. But it is obvious that most of the cataloguing is inside the canny film-maker's head.

"They want a signal flare over at 'Petticoat Junction,'" he told an assistant. "I think you'll find a signal flare in the fireworks I shot at the Rose Bowl."

Dyer started in the movie business for Universal in 1912 and worked for most of the studios over the years in filming background and aerial shots, notably "Hells Angels" for Howard Hughes. The idea for a

Game Shows Unimpressive

ABC's daytime game show, "Fractured Phrases," will have a short life and not a merry one. It had its premiere show late in September and it will disappear on Dec. 31.

Game and panel shows, for the most part, do not make very impressive showings in the all-important ratings. In a recent Nielsen report on daytime shows published by the trade paper Variety, only five won places in the top 20 daytime show list.

CBS's "Password" had an impressive rating that put it in second place behind the serial "As The World Turns" with CBS' "To Tell The Truth," NBC's "Match Game" "You Don't Say" and "Concentration" is sixth, 13th, 14th and 20th places respectively.

Nine shows in the top 20 were soap operas, and others were CBS' "Art Linkletter's Houseparty," two five minute news shows and repeats of old Dick Van Dyke and Andy Griffith show episodes, and ABC's teen-directed Rock 'n' Roll show, "Where The Action Is."

Captive Audience

The publicity resulting from his appearance at a rodeo in a Texas prison has brought a flood of Mail to Jimmy Dean from seven state penitentiaries and a county jail in northern California requesting similar appearances.

'Rudolph' Returns

The many adventures of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" in the wild North before he reaches his night of glory, will be shown again when the fully animated color-film musical Christmas story is telecast Sunday.

Burl Ives is the off-camera voice of Sam the Snowman, who sings and tells the tale of the shy little buck who engages as a hero after being humiliated by his friends because of his shiny beak.

As Ives narrates the TV adaptation, Rudolph is the butt of his fellow reindeer in Christmasville because of his shiny red nose. In desperation, he runs away with another outcast, Hermey the Elf, who would rather be a dentist than a toy-maker. The pair brave the Arctic wilderness, where they are chased by the Abominable Snowmonster until a prospector, Yukon Cornelius, takes them aboard his dog sled.

When the monster gets too close, Rudolph, Hermey and Yu-

2nd Brother Tries Harder, With His Show, He Has To

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Because he is the No. 2 Van Dyke brother, Jerry has to try a little harder. And with a starring vehicle like "My Mother, the Car," he has to try really hard.

It has been uphill all the way for "My Mother, the Car." It was one of the most ill-received shows of the season, critics carping at the premise of a car radio speaking to a young husband with the voice of his late mother. Ratings have been only fair, and the series is a precarious bet for a second season.

Jerry Van Dyke is quite naturally a realist, as you might expect of a man who is trying to get ahead in show business when his brother is Dick Van Dyke. With accustomed candor, Jerry was analyzing the series' ills on the set one day.

"We're still feeling our way," he observed. "We've tried broad comedy, aiming at our kid audience, which seems to be considerable. We've also tried family situations to please the adults. I just work here."

Jerry stared at the 1928 auto which houses the voice of his mother — actually the voice of Ann Sothern.

"You know, I could learn to hate that thing," he muttered. "It's tough talking to a car. I mean, when you're talking to an inanimate object, you're forced to animate yourself to keep the scene alive. I've done everything but stand on my head."

U.S. May See Live Coverage Of GT7 Pickup

BOSTON (AP) — The aircraft carrier Wasp is due to leave Boston Thursday for its Gemini 6 and 7 missions, carrying television equipment it is hoped will beam the first live pictures of a capsule recovery.

The Wasp is equipped with a deck antenna designed by International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. that maintains steady aim at the Early Bird satellite though the ship is rolling and pitching at sea.

The television signals will be bounced off the satellite to stations ashore.

Accompanying the Wasp, again the prime Gemini recovery ship, will be two destroyers from Newport, R.I., the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. and the Lloyd Thomas.

The carrier is scheduled to depart from Boston harbor at 11 a.m. with waters southeast of Bermuda its destination. The Gemini 7 launch is now set for Saturday with Gemini 6, Dec. 13.

Collector Has Many Pictures

library came out of his hobby of collecting films of old aircraft.

"I must have six or seven thousand feet of old airplanes, including some 1904 shots of the Wright brothers," said Dyer. "Cutters would hear about the film and ask if they could buy some of it to use in movies."

After three years in the Air Force during World War II, Dyer found he could get work in the studios. Television was then an upstart, and the major studios wouldn't sell any stock footage to television film makers. Dyer saw a chance to service them from his own library. He has added to his collection on trips and locations. During the past 20 years he has shot only in color; his foresight is now paying off in the era of tinted television.

"My shot of the Prometheus statue in Rockefeller Center has been used dozens of times."

Dyer figures he can fill eight out of ten requests for stock footage. He demonstrated the encyclopedic nature of the collection when his aide reported "Peyton Place" wanted a shot of a 1958 convertible Ford at night.

"I've got one — if they can use a Thunderbird," he replied.

'Rudolph' Back

kon board an ice floe and find refuge on the Island of Misfit Toys. There they find a kingdom of living playthings that would fulfill every wish of every lonesome child.

They return to Christmasville to tell Santa Claus of their discovery, and learn that Rudolph's family was captured by the Abominable. The shiny-beaked buck tracks them to the monster's cave and, with his friend's help, rescues them. Then a great blizzard strikes and threatens to cancel Christmas, until Santa asks, "Rudolph, with your nose so bright, won't you guide my sleigh tonight?" The little reindeer proudly takes his place to lead the sleigh team through the storm and above the clouds on Christmas Eve.

The story of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" is enacted by puppets "brought alive" in the special "Animagic" technique created by its producers, Arthur Rankin Jr. and Jules Bass.
