York State may be something particularly and temporarily sensational. But the same general trend has been in evidence throughout the nation in the last four years, when the national census of mental hospital patients has declined from 515,000 to 475,000.

This development has many facets One, the most elemental, and one that everybody must pray will prove trustworthy and reliable, is that of the good news for the people involved. And the key hope here has to be that if new aids and new treatments have been responsifor a longer span of use and experimentation than four years.

If this trend grows reliable, it has not only good human news in it, but good dollar news, too. Some states have already begun decide that they no longer need to continue with scheduled expansion of state mental hospital facilities. New York, the source of this most recent statistic of patient decline, has about $500 million in new hospital buildings planned for the next decade. Every 2,000 patients represents a need for about $40 million worth of hospitals. A rough, surface reading, then, would say that the decline in number of patients just since June opens the possibility of a $40 million saving in capital expenditures for the taxpayers of the who enjoys pleasing customers.

He must also respect other items on our steak dinner even though his attention will be devoted mostly to steaks.

He must, in a pinch, help prepare Idaho baked potatoes and crisp green salads. Finally, our man must share his management's pride in serving families of Hartford County this unusual steak din ner for $1.39 and children's Jr. steak 99c.

If you qualify, please inquire in person at the Bonanza Sirloin Pit 287 W. Middle Turnpike, Manchester
