Church in Tolland Will Double Capacity

The sealing capacity of the United Congregational Church will be doubled as part of the church's expansion program, being undertaken to enable the church to serve the town's rapidly increasing population. § The $372,000 building program will be met by a com-bination of pledges and financ-ing. It is planned to raise $100,-000 in pledges during a fund drive to be held Feb. 20, when canvassers will call on members of the church, Pledge payments may be spread over a three-year period. The bal-ance, of $172,000, will be raised by financing.

The building program calls for the construction of a relig-ious education building to the rear of the church at a cost of $110,000; expansion of the ex lating church building, $101,000; site improvement $33,000; and fees and contingencies $28,-

The sanctuary of the church will be enlarged to provide a seating capacity of 300, and to provide an improved location for the chair in a side alcove. The narthex of the church will also be enlarged, and a stairway to the social hall will be included. A small sacristy for preparing communion and floral arrangements will also be included on the main floor. The social hall will be enlarged to comfortably accommo- inal site. ### Tax Receipts Well Ahead Of Last Year

HARTFORD (AP) - With inheritance tax receipts leading the way, state tax revenues for the first seven months of the current fiscal year are running nearly $28 million shead of the comparable period of last year. The seven-month figures announced Thursday by State Tax included receipts of the sales and use tax only up to Sept. 30, since this tax is reported on a quarterly basis.

Sullivan said the tax total ince July 1 was $157.2 million. At the seven-month accounting of the previous fiscal year the total was $134.3 million. The revenue from the inheritance tax totaled $23.1 million, an increase of $7:1 million. Motor fuel tax, $36.3 million ministration cited, when it did turn to the United Nations at last, for not having turned there in all the previous months and years when Vietnam has been an issue of world war and peace. The undercover effect of such stalling would be to guard against any possibility that the matter of Vietnam might find its way into the United Nations General Assembly, where there is no veto. So long as it is technically being acted upon at the Security Council, it can't go to the General Assembly. The questions raised by this drift in the situation are two. First, was President Johnson's turn to the United Nations as impulsive, and as shallow as it seemed to some critics the moment it was made, and merely, as our enemies have charged, a cover-up for other policy plans and steps? Second, is Ambassador Goldberg com-

The National Farmers Union is strong in some states, not organized at all in others. There is suspicion that Green Thumb projects, states where the NFU is already or ganized. There is a further suspicion among other farm organizations, that having charge of the Green Thumb project may help the NFU get itself organized or get itself additional members in other states. So it is being asked, by some, how it is a public national project can be farmed out to some pri-

All one knows, so far, is that it won't be quite the happy thing it used to be to go around passing out green thumb alutations as pure compliments.

Uncertainties of Tennis The uncertainties of tennis are illustrated by the fact that Arthur Ashe, the slender young Negro from Rich-mond, Va., who learned his tennis at the University of California in Los Angeles, had beaten Roy Emerson of Australia three times, yet lost to Emerson, after being the odds-on favorite, in the all-important final match for the championship of Australia. Nor, in all the history of tennis can there be found any precedent for the way in which Ashe lost the final point in his match with Emerson. Ashe had served one fault, and when he served again the linesman claimed that he foot-faulted. The match was over and Emerson had won. But Emerson protested that the linesman should merely have warned Ashe. But Ashe, like the the linesman must be right. So, Roy Emerson, once again comes recognized as the world's best amateur tennis player. But it has been a rocky year, or less than a year, for him. In addition to having been beaten by Ashe three times, once in this country and twice in Australia, Emersor was beaten once in Australia by our Clark Graebner and once in Australia in the final match for the Davis Cup by Santana, the Spaniard. If ever before the holder of the title of the world's best amateur tennis player has been beaten five times in less than a year, it must be confessed that no tennis enthusiast has yet recalled his name. Richmond, Va., Arthur Ashe's home city, is now paying him well-deserved honors, which began when Friday was declared "Arthur Ashe's Day" and he was given a testimonial dinner that night. Coupled with the honors which are being paid to Ashe, there has been an editorial expression of regret that when Ashe was growing up as a boy, segregation kept him from playing on he Richmond public courts.

One of Ashe's Richmond admirers is well justified in saying that: "If Ashe isn't the world's best, then he must be

To that it may be added that Ashe is five or six years younger than Emerson and that time is on his side, with the probability that eventually he will supplant Emerson as the world's best tennis player. — SPRINGFIELD SUN-DAY REPUBLICAN

'Turkey' Pictured Vividly to Students by Mr. Stager mind when you hear someone talking about "Turkey"? Are you reminded of that special Thanksgiving Day when your father gave you a whole drum-stick, or do your thoughts turn toward Turkey the country whose culture is one of the most varied in all the world? Last Tuesday, during the X-Period, Mr. Jay Stager teamed up with Mehmet Karabeyogiu, his personal friend and privately sponsored exchange student, to present a well or ganized and extremely interesting discussion on Turkey. Mr. Stager, who, through a government exchange agency went to Turkey for a year o teaching, showed a series o color slides which aided some seven hundred students in pio turing this foreign land. The slides were particularly effective in that they showed the complete contrast between the poverty of the peasants and the lavish living of the "upper class" the ancient dwellings of the isolated villages, and the impressive skylines of modern counted, two junior girls have taken the reins as co-editors of the 1967 Somanhis. Heading the yearbook staff next year will be Pauls Rivard and Gloris Opalach. Chosen from four can didates, Paula and Gloria were selected by this year's staff on the basis of their contributions

Anxious to begin their duties as editors, the girls will not have to wait long; for while most clubs begin their season in September, Somanhis enjoys the distinction of beginning its year in March. Starting then Paula and Gloria will assume the arduous task of planning and compiling the '67 book. Not an easy job, the duties of editor include selecting and ar ranging material for each pag of the yearbook. One of th toughest jobs facing the girl will be the selection of a theme for the future book.
