Peking Scores Our Debate There is probably some degree of acsuracy in the charge, by Peking's propaganda warriors, that the American domestic debate over the war in Vietnam should not be taken too seriously. Peking discounts our own division of ourselves into "hawks" and "doves" with the observation that "there is no undamental difference of opinion between them with regard to aggression against Vietnam." We must, of course, claim the right to edit that word "aggression." That is what we accuse the North Vietnamese of doing, and what the Chinese accuse But aside from the word it uses to us of doing. describe our presence in Vietnam, Peking is accurate enough when i claims that all the participants in the great Washington debate showed a common front when they all stood to gether against any immediate withdrawal of United States troops from Vietnam, and against any recognition of the National Liberation Front as the one and only legitimate representative of the people of South Vietnam. Communist China, of course, has something besides a certain realistic ac-

American debate the way it does, Communist China is interested in presenting the American position in a way which vill keep North Vietnam resigned to the outlook of endless struggle. The more unified, the more resolute Communist China pictures us to be, the greater its argument that North Vietnam can't possibly deal with us, and must rely more and more on Communist curacy going for it when it analyzes the

Only foolish "Khrushchev revisionists," says the Peking propagands, would fall for the idea that there has really been a debate in Washington between the militarists and the moderates.

Only soft appeasers on the Communist side, according to the Peking blast, "try their best to convince others the those engaging in aggression in Vietnam are only a handful of American militarists while the Johnson Administration is composed of good people only." Well, we here in this country may not be as unified as Peking, for its purposes, like to pretend we are. Some of us may like it where we are; others may consider if the worst place we have ever been in our role as a world power. But whatever we think and feel, Peking is right to this extent, that we are all there together, and that nobody of any responsibility has any sure-fire formula for getting us out of where we

We ourselves are lashed to our fate In Southeast Asia, and that amounts, whether voluntary or not, to some degree of that unity about staying there which Peking describes. And if we cannot, some day, find some degree of success, or some degree of negotiation, which makes it possible for us to get out, then our presence there is inevitably going to lead to the exact kind of final all out conflict Communist China predicts. The number of Americans who want that must be very small indeed: still we operate in a kind of negative unity which keeps us there until we see some tolerable way out. This would never be any unity in "aggression" but nevertheless could bring about the same result. That's the curse; that, in the situation we are in, what we want and intend may have relatively little deelsive influence,

The Bane In Spain There is another chapter in the continuing story of the crash of that hydrogen-bomb carrying plane over Spain. The plane, when it crashed, spilled out four hydrogen bombs, each 100 times as powerful as the Hiroshima bomb. Three of the bombs were located. The frantic search for the fourth continues to absorb the energies of naval and air While that search for the fourth bomb continues, another activity is progressing. This is activity caused by the fact Finally the opposition came up with a way to silence him. They presented him that one of the three bombs which was found had broken open before it was with a can of dog food. - ROBERT found, and spilled a small portion of WELLS IN THE NATIONAL OB-

This has nothing to do with the bomb that was lost. This merely results from the fact that one of the bombs, when located, had a crack in its case. The bomb didn't explode. Yet, even without an explosion, we are not sure that section of Spain is safe for its 1,200 people. We are doing everything we can to make sure. There are infinite complexities and responsibilities in the business of policing the world with the bomb.

Red-Wing Is Here

indication that spring is trying very hard to be early, that the morning of Thursday, March 3, saw the first arrival of red-winged blackbirds to the Manchester area. This is an early arrival. There have been years when they have waited for the calendar to declare spring, and still held back. But they could not resist following that warm weather system up the seaboard. When they arrived, they did so in force, announcing their presence instantaneously from several high perches. You hear the sound, and don't guite trust your ears. So you wait for the visible physical effort that goes into each guttural sequence. There is a downward flick of the long tail and a half raising of the two wings, and this combination of movement with the sound is absolute identification, even before you can get close enough to recognize the scarlet epaulets on the wing

When the red-wing arrives, the nev season is in business. He himself gives it an impetus and a supervision. He keeps talking it up. He regulates the flow of northbound traffic, gives signals for the ducks to land, surveys the various nesting areas, and cheers premature gardeners. No one else ever does quite so much for apring in so many diferent ways. This year he couldn't wait a minute longer than dawn, Thursday, March 3, to begin.

Milwaukee Still Has A Sport

Milwaukee-This embattled commu nity may or may not have the Braves baseball team this year, depending or how the present court dispute comes out, but Milwaukee still calls itself the capital of the world. Not baseball

Ernie Dorow of suburban West Allis chairman of the Wisconsin state dartball committee, estimates there are at least 15,000 dart-ball players in Wis-consin. The state's organized leagues have 823 teams, including 297 in M waukee's 20 leagues. An unkonwn number of other teams haven't bothered to report their existence to the dart-ball

The game is played in other states but not on the scale that it is in Wisconsin. Why this state has developed so much enthusiasm for the game is not entirely clear, but there is one hintdart ball is frequently played in tav-erns. It is also played in church, isdustrial, and recreation - departmen leagues. Fans and players keep statistic with all the fervor of a follower of the Milwaukee Braves of 1957, the year the won their first pennant and before or ganized baseball and the community b came mutually disenchanted and the

A young man named Richard Fars. for example, does not make as much money as Braves outfielder Hank Asron, but he's treated with as much respect among those fans who follow his sport. And why not-Mr. Asron's batting average last year was only .318 while Rick Fare has an average of .669. A 600 hitter in dart ball is roughly equivalent to a .400 hitter in that other game, which it somewhat resembles. Dart ball is played, as the name indicates, with darts, which are tossed underhand at a four-foot-square board that resembles a surrealistic painting of a baseball diamond. The board is marked with outs, balls, strikes, and a variety of hits.

The home-fun area is only 21/2 inches square and most expert dart ballers ignore it as being too small a target. Players usually try either for a single, which is on a 51/2-inch diamond, or a triple, which is on a space 4 inches square. If one team member gets a singie, the next then tries for a three-bagger to drive him in. Players stand behind a line that is 19 feet 8 inches from the board. Those qualified for the "major" dart-ball leagues will average at least 4 hits out of 10 times at bat; an occasional star like Mr. Fare does far better. Mr. Fare's team, the Borgwardt Poultry Club, is one of the leaders. Mr. Fare is only 21, but most of the players are in their 40s or considerably above. Edwin "Automatic Ed" Lang, for example, still has a .425 average at age 72. He got his nickname from his ability to hit a triple whenever it was most needed. He broke into dart ball in 1928, while Babe Ruth was in his prime in the other sport.

In church basements, the game is apt to be more genteel than its tavern version, although the basic rules are the same. For one thing, the tavern customers are apt to forget the state dartball committee's rule against harassment, especially after a few beers. One player, who did a passable imitation of a dog, had the habit of barking loudly just as an opponent was trying for a hit. This went on for some time.

Curtis's contentment is understandable. An authentic Westerner — he grew up on a Colorado ranch and his Pa was sheriff of Las Animas - Curtis came to Hollywood in 1938 as a singing, cowboy. He had a run in Westerns such as "Don Daredevil Rides Again," later appeared in many of the films of his former father-in-law, John Ford.

Not only has Curtis found happiness with the scroungy Fes-tus; together with Milburn Stone he has discovered the bonanza of personal appearances on the cow circuit. They crom-prise the hottest act for rodeos, averaging $5,000 a day in towns some of us have never heard of.

"Milburn and I shell corn by the bushel," Curtis admitted, "It's strictly a comball act, but boy! They sure eat it up. We've got offers from every top rodeo including Cheyenne, which has not booked entertainers.

"We work hard for our money. Miliburn is an old song-anddence man, and I used to sing with the Sons of the Pioneers, so we know how to put on a show."

Networks Revise Night Schedules

NBC has affirmed that "The Road West," a spin-off from "The Virginian" with Barry Sullivan, will take over Andy Williams' Monday night hour, which means that Williams show must move-probably into a late Sunday evening berth. "To Tell the Truth," CBS' long-playing Monday evening game show, is expected to go to late Sunday afternoon to replace "Mr. Ed." "Gilligan's Isand" will probably lead the Monday night schedule next season. A comedy series starring Jean Arthur is the probable show to replace "Hazel."

ABC is engaged in the most drastic revision of its schedule. It will probably drop 19 shows and replace them with 17 new ones. Its schedule is still fluid, but almost certainly on the docket are "Them Menroes," an hour Western, "That Girl," sterring Danny Thomas, daughter Marlo, a spoof of Sherlock Holmes and a Western starring

Robert Lensing.

NBC's fall schedule is expected to contain 10 new series.

OBS will probably have eight, plus another two hours of old

SERIES WITHDRAWN

Danny Thomas has decided to withdraw a series set for NBC's Saturday night line-up next season: "My 15 Blocks." The ostensible reason is Thomas' puzzling unhappiness about the show' position-after "Flipper" and before "Get Smart." This lovely spot between two hit shows is called a "cradle position" in the trade, the best of all possible locations

The real reason, according to informed trade sources, is that the first show in the comedy series turned out to be a disas ter. NBC convinced Thomas who had a firm commitment, that it would be wiser to pull out than risk hurting the excellent

That empty spot is expected to be filled by "Don't Eat the Daisles," earlier believed to be among this season's casualties,

NBC has also decided to drop Chuck Comors' 'Brand-ed,' a Sunday night western a Sunday night western that has done extremely well in the ratings. The half-hour spot will be turned over to a new comedy called "Hey, Land-lord," starring Will Hutchins, /

All this shifting has opened up a Monday evening half hour into which NBC plans to slip "The Roger Miller Show," a musical program that drew happy criti-cal reviews and a big audience when a sample program was broadcast Jan. 19.

BELATED DISCOVERY

CBS has postponed its two-Jim Backus, co-star of "Gil- hour adaptation of Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman" to April 17. It seems that somebody discovered belatedly that the original air date, April 3, was Palm Sunday and decided choice for that religious holiday.
