School Budget Discussion Draws Out Finance Hearing

The public hearing on the discussion was an almost unprecedented one for the school board. It was held at 11:15, and will be budgeted for $4,700, about $3,000 more than last year. The amount was included in the proposed budget for the school year 1966-67.

The hearing was held at the school board office in the City Hall. The board members were present, along with several members of the public.

The board members discussed the budget in detail, and the public members offered their views on the proposed cuts and increases.

The hearing was held in a room on the second floor of City Hall. It was attended by about 20 people.

The board members will meet again next week to discuss the budget in more detail. They will also discuss the proposed cuts in staff and programs.

Decks Rifled At Bentley, $30 Stolen

Teachers' desks and desks in the principal's office at Bentley Elementary School were ransacked some time over the weekend. A total of $30 was reported taken in petty cash from the desks and from an open safe in the principal's office.

Mrs. Florence Wood, principal, told police that apparently nothing else was taken. There was no damage reported. Police were unable to find signs of forced entry into the school.

At least 17 teachers' desks were searched for cash. Several markers were found on the principal's office door. Three screwdrivers and a pencil sharpener were found on the floor by the door. The other two markers were found through, by climbing through a window.

Sheinwold on Bridge

COURTEOUS DEFENSE DEFEATS CONTRACT BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD. It's polite to give your worst enemy a glass of water—especially if he happens to be drowning at the time. This is the principle of the defense in today's annual Interscholastic Championship.

Opening lead—three of hearts. West opens the three of hearts. East takes his two tricks. It East is a rule type he switches to a diamond, and South makes the contract.

South takes the ace of diamonds and leads out two top trumps, discovering the bad break when West discards. South leads a spade to West's ace and returns a trump to take the proven finesse with the nine of clubs.

South finishes drawing the trumps and runs the rest with his diamonds. Five clubs bid and made. Next case.

Partner opens with 1 NT, and the next player passes. You hold Spades, K-9; Hearts, A-K-6-5; Diamonds, 10-4; Clubs, J-5-4-3.

Not so fast. Go back to the beginning and see what East can do if he wants to be polite after he has taken his two heart tricks. Certainly the most courteous gesture East can make is to switch to a spade—right up to dummy's ace-queen.

Board of Finance

The board of finance chairman, Mrs. Virginia Butterfield, conducted the meeting. From the discussion, it was evident that many of the members were concerned about a tax levy of 80 mills, on the possible areas for cuts predicted if all budget requests listed by the board of education are honored by the board of finance.

Officers for the 1966-67 PTA will be installed. The sophomore class at Bolton High will hold a ham grinder sale this week. Orders may be placed from 8 to 9 p.m. by Susan Lambert, Bolton Center Rd., Mary-Jo Nichols, South Rd., or Bob Nystrom, Farmwood Dr., today through Friday.

Members of the Council of Catholic Women are asked to attend the John F. Tierney Funeral Home tomorrow at 2 p.m. to participate in a wake for Gaspin Morra.

Police report a hit-and-run accident occurred on Farmwood Rd. yesterday. The victim was a house.

One going south, went off the road and struck the right side of the house. The car then apparently backed up and drove in front of the house. This time it hit a retaining wall. Letters from the car's name tag were found on the ground.

Damage to the house was minor. The house, at lot No. 222, is still under construction. The owner is Vincent Edgar of East Hartford.

Tomkiel Speaks At Clerks Party

Manchester Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel, legislative chairman of the Connecticut Town Clerks' Association, will be one of the speakers at the association's day-long spring meeting Friday at Len Shaw's Restaurant, New Haven.

Tomkiel will speak on the topic "General Legislation - Past and Present." Secretary of State, Ella T. Grasso will open the "Legislation Conference" with greetings to the town clerks, and will distribute the new publication of her office, the Connecticut Voting Guide.

Other items on the agenda will include discussion of committee procedures for state and district offices, including the newly created assembly and senatorial districts; elections preparations; the admission of new members to the association; and the ordering of absentee voting forms.

Miss Longfellow is a graduate of Bolton High School and the Class of 1965 of Colby College, Waterville, Maine. Mr. Knight is a graduate of Livermore Falls High School, and Oct. 15.

The wedding is planned for Aug. 27. The board rescheduled the session for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., at the district's office in the North End fire station. Swanson said that he plans to ask the directors for authority to discuss with town officials plans for a sanitary sewer trunk planned by the town that would pass through the district's sewer service area.

Meeting Delayed Until Tomorrow

For the first time in several years, the Eighth District's board of directors was unable to convene a scheduled meeting last night because not enough members were present. Only four of the nine directors showed up, one fewer than a legal quorum.

District President Victor Swanson said that the meeting was the first during his two year terms in office and that a quorum was not present for a regular meeting. Joseph Yoda, who has been district secretary for several terms, said this was one of the saddest occasions in his memory.

Marvin, Julie Christie, 'Music' Receive Oscars

"A Patch of Blue"—Elizabeth Hartman, in her first movie—was nominated for a starring Oscar.

Champion Fan

CARDIFF, Wales, (AP)—It Oscars went to movie fan, Myra Franklin would be a certain winner. Today she sees "The Sound of Music" for the 500th time.

At 1 p.m. she takes a bus from her home to the Capitol cinema. After a lunch in the cinema cafe, she watches the movie's first showing.

She takes tea in the cafe, then a walk. By 7 p.m. she is back in her seat for the second performance.

After her first 55 visits, the museum gave her a pass.

She knows the script by heart but says "I'm never bored. I see something new in it each time—and my ambition is to see it a thousand times."

Qualmaster Bob Hope, presiding for the 12th time, was up to his usual form.

"George Hamilton is here with a beautifully feathered friend, Lynda Bird Johnson. If he plays his cards right he may be the second Hamilton in the House."

Amateur historians noted that although there has been no President Hamilton, Alexander Hamilton may have visited there when he was secretary of treasury.

"We welcome Lynda Bird, and this is a nice switch—someone from Washington coming to Hollywood."

Other top awards: Best foreign language film: "The Shop on Main Street," made behind the Iron Curtain in Czechoslovakia.

Best song: "The Shadow of Your Smile," from "The Sandlot."

Best screen play based on material from another medium: "Doctor Zhivago," by Robert Bolt.

Best story and screen play written directly for the screen: "Hush," by Frederick R. Phillips.

Andover

Town Library Will Forgive Overdue Fines

The Andover Public Library is observing National Library week this week. Any overdue books may be returned without payment of fines. Books may be deposited through the door in the library if closed.

A swap meeting will be held in the town library on Tuesday, April 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Women's Club will hold an April meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall.

There will be a talk on the federal manpower program, which is run in Connecticut, by the State Department of Education by Stanley Kocourek, director.

The public is invited. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Ernest Gardner and Mrs. Herbert Leonard.

Town Clerk's Hours
Yesterday The Herald stated that the town clerk's office would be closed on Friday.

School Notes
Last week's issue of School News reported that children are registered for the first grade next fall, and 22 children are registered for kindergarten.

The PTA meets tomorrow night at 8 at the school. Mrs. May Foster, director of classroom teachers for the Connecticut Education Association, will talk on "Why I'm a Teacher."

Dauers to Attend District Parley
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dauers of 133 Scott Dr., both members of the local Epist. Church, will attend the annual Epist. District Convention scheduled for this weekend in Monticello, N.Y.

Annual elections will be held at the elementary school with learning problems started at the school last week. Federal funds support the team of a social worker, psychologist, doctor and nurse working at the school. A special program will be worked out for each child, and will begin next September.

Tolland Easement Called Erroneous

The withdrawal of a drainage easement obtained by the developer of a 40-home subdivision was the subject of discussion at last night's meeting of the planning and zoning commission.

Mr. Dymally of Rt. 30, said that the easement was obtained by the developer.

The easement was for a drainage system.

The developer claimed that the easement was erroneous.

The commission voted to deny the easement.

The developer appealed the decision.

and that for special reinvestment on the part of the undeveloped nations. The nation which is contributing to such international administered aid is no longer the generous uncle who comes on the scene to exaggerated welcome and praise, when he doesn't give enough more aid or seems to want too much for what he has given, quickly comes to "hankie go home." The international financing of aid makes for more dignity on both sides; it serves the cause of humanity rather than that of any particular nation or creed.

If we are in a period when we are at last opening our national discussion and our national mind to some possible changes in long-standing but unrealistic policies, this proposed shift in our distribution of our foreign economic aid should get close to top consideration.

We are all living with, and some of us are dying with, one consequence of the old and established system of bilateral nation to nation, aid.

After the General Conference of 1964, the United States first went into South Vietnam with its dollars as an economic helper. We wanted to improve the economy to let us have some peace. We promised to make their country a "showcase" for Asia. That was our commitment. And it became the entanglement by which we have become American, including now the lives of our service men, was finally drawn into South Vietnam. It was an innocent beginning, the first American interest and activity in South Vietnam. It has now led to the brink of world war.

Under an international channelling and supervision a foreign aid to Vietnam could have got economic help from abroad. But it would have been aid designed not to make it a showcase for United States policy or general aid, or for any particular brand of an economy, but a showcase for humanity. And it might have been possible for that kind of foreign aid in South Vietnam to do its work in peace. We will never know. What is quite certain is that, if our original aid dollars had gone to South Vietnam that we would not have been in this likelihood that our troops would ever have been ordered to follow them.

Genras It Is

In the past few weeks, E. Clayton Genras has had informal meetings with Republican party workers in every section of the state. It was the impression he succeeded in making these conversations which became the necessary background for the action of Republican State Chairman George Plimley and other party leaders affiliated with him in recommending Mr. Genras to the forthcoming party convention to be its nominee for Governor.

This is enough to assure the nomination of Mr. Genras.

From this point forward, it will be his opportunity to exhibit his leadership which one hopes and expects may include program and principle as well as personal appeal - for the benefit of the state and for the benefit of the people of all the voters of the state next November.

The nomination is going to be his because he has created an impression that he has the support and the capacity to make an unusual effort with it. A hard, clean fight will be good for the state, for its political system, and good for the already very formidable candidate who already sits in the Governor's chair. It is to be hoped, and expected, that Mr. Genras will meet his opportunity with the energy, the thoughtfulness, and the vision an aspiration to the state's highest office deserves.

Quickly Curd

It has been going on ever since we got our independence - this business of the British coming over here and collecting money from the Stamp Tax ever since. It is just for the purpose of our own sinful and immature inferiorities.

We Americans are usually willing to pay, and with good reason. The British lectures are usually in another. And they are often very shrewd, too, with that analytical touch sometimes given to benevolent distant studies.

Which brings us to two statements one Dr. Joshua Bierer, a leading British psychiatrist, produced even before he left Britain shores, as a prelude to his tour among us.

He finds, even before he gets here, that we Americans are the most worried people in the world. He says that we are worried sick because of our property. The old theory that we never had it so good would make people mentally healthy in bunk, says Dr. Bierer. "Exactly the opposite happens, and Americans are good examples."

Correct again, says we.

The reason we are the most worried people in the world Dr. Bierer states as follows:

"The status of American women is a tremendous cause of worry in that country. American women are ruling the American society. The American man worships himself to death at 40 or 50 and leaves a rich widow."

"The United States is a matriarchy and this is a very unhealthy thing because fundamentally women like strong men."

"But when men become good-goodies - like Americans so often do - the woman has nothing to look up to. She then becomes unhappy and makes the man unhappy."

Correct for the third time.

Fortunately, the remedies open to us are simple. If we Americans men stop work, and take what cash we do have and use it to buy ourselves a whip, we shall soon have our women looking up into our own worried faces.

The Loyalty Oath

The Loyalty Oath, as related to Harvard University, should come before the Supreme Court as soon as possible, in the light of the fact that the Loyalty Oath is only a Massachusetts institution.

New England's second oldest university, that is Harvard University, is the only one in the United States which is linked with it; the United Nations technical assistance agencies, and three relatively new Asian Development Bank.

Such organizations have international staffs of experts, staffs which can do no judge where money can be spent to advantage, which can do and supervise its spending according to some standards of efficiency and benefit, and which do not represent any particular nation's generosity or any particular nation's purposes. Such international channelling of aid takes the flag off the dollar or the pound or the franc or the ruble and finds the money.

When it does that, it eliminates both the opportunity for special gratitude

That erstwhile darling of the happy world halfway between politics and business, Billie So's wife, having fallen upon his days and having found his back to the courtroom wall, has been leaning out at the cooperation he claims his schemes received, in the past, from the world of business.

Billie So's purpose seems to be right on the verge of his conduct. He would like to suggest that he wasn't really such a bad sort, since all kinds of respectable business executives knew exactly what he was doing and cooperated with him in his schemes.

We don't think Billie So's latest tactic is going to ease his own situation or his own degree of guilt.

But it can serve a healthy purpose if it reopens, as it should be reopened periodically in a society which has the smug, questionable habit of looking down at the world of politics, the question of just what it is takes the shabby elegance and participation in schemes where politics and business come with one another.

It is almost always a joint responsibility. For every operator in the field of politics who can amass influence or connect himself with the world of business, there is usually some body in the field of business who is anxious to acquire influence and participate in schemes.

When the two unworthy representatives of the two honorable fields of politics and business meet in their own special twilight zone, they take each other's low and practical standard of ethics for granted. The low politician is not surprised to find that the low businessman displays no particular surprise or offense when the unethical and potentially illegal politician makes its appearance on the table between them. There is a mutual understanding of the low standards of ethics which is sealed off automatically.

And as we review the trouble in the field of ethics we find that, in a good proportion of the cases, the original impetus toward what turned out to be questionable operation came from the business rather than the political side. It has been the contractor, not the politician, who first had the idea of putting a sub-standard concrete into the bridge abutments; the manufacturer, not the legislator, who had the idea of having a legal monopoly legislated for himself; the salesman who went around offering the special commission on the side if the politicians would buy his particular five engine or parking meter; the angler for federal contracts and favors who became the so very thoughtful friend of the Senator.

When the initiative has clearly come from the political side of things, as in one famous phidder of a city - or as in an infamous and blessedly unmentioned scheme to control a probate court in order to steal what was once a great Congressman's estate - it is usually the politician who is the more thoughtful friend of the Senator.

Council Acts Tomorrow On New School Budget

The town council will meet tomorrow night at 8 at the high school to adopt a budget for the 1966-67 fiscal year and to set a date for a public hearing on the general government budget.

The council has cut the school board's budget request from $2,743,284 by $194,884 to $2,608,430; the school board's chairman, Mrs. Jane Romney, has strongly urged the cut. She has urged the council to "insure sound education" for town children.

Other items to be considered by the council are a revision series, the "nuisance ordinance" to be re-written, a request to the state for a grant to study the feasibility of the town membership in the Hartford Community Chest, and the waiving of competitive bidding requirements for the purchase of police caps.

Also, appointment of a member to the sewer commission, a request to the state for a grant to study the feasibility of the town membership in the Hartford Community Chest, and the waiving of competitive bidding requirements for the purchase of police caps.

Inside Report

that the whole effort was not serious. There are even some critics on Capitol Hill, led by Sen. Ribicoff. What worries him is that the new Department of Transportation, like the new Department of Housing and Urban Development, may become an institutional shell without functions or powers.

In hearings of his subcommittee, Ribicoff has been outspoken on the day after Harris's Senate speech, he declared: "It would appear to me that what has been going on is a series of bureaucratic accommodations all through the government, (to do a good job or otherwise)."

But Ribicoff seems to be swimming upstream. The main effort now is to make every body happy. Probably there will be a new Department of Transportation - and no bureau will lose its autonomy. The only loser then would be President Johnson and his dream of streamlining the Federal government.

That erstwhile darling of the happy world halfway between politics and business, Billie So's wife, having fallen upon his days and having found his back to the courtroom wall, has been leaning out at the cooperation he claims his schemes received, in the past, from the world of business.

Billie So's purpose seems to be right on the verge of his conduct. He would like to suggest that he wasn't really such a bad sort, since all kinds of respectable business executives knew exactly what he was doing and cooperated with him in his schemes.

We don't think Billie So's latest tactic is going to ease his own situation or his own degree of guilt.

But it can serve a healthy purpose if it reopens, as it should be reopened periodically in a society which has the smug, questionable habit of looking down at the world of politics, the question of just what it is takes the shabby elegance and participation in schemes where politics and business come with one another.

It is almost always a joint responsibility. For every operator in the field of politics who can amass influence or connect himself with the world of business, there is usually some body in the field of business who is anxious to acquire influence and participate in schemes.

When the two unworthy representatives of the two honorable fields of politics and business meet in their own special twilight zone, they take each other's low and practical standard of ethics for granted. The low politician is not surprised to find that the low businessman displays no particular surprise or offense when the unethical and potentially illegal politician makes its appearance on the table between them. There is a mutual understanding of the low standards of ethics which is sealed off automatically.

And as we review the trouble in the field of ethics we find that, in a good proportion of the cases, the original impetus toward what turned out to be questionable operation came from the business rather than the political side. It has been the contractor, not the politician, who first had the idea of putting a sub-standard concrete into the bridge abutments; the manufacturer, not the legislator, who had the idea of having a legal monopoly legislated for himself; the salesman who went around offering the special commission on the side if the politicians would buy his particular five engine or parking meter; the angler for federal contracts and favors who became the so very thoughtful friend of the Senator.

When the initiative has clearly come from the political side of things, as in one famous phidder of a city - or as in an infamous and blessedly unmentioned scheme to control a probate court in order to steal what was once a great Congressman's estate - it is usually the politician who is the more thoughtful friend of the Senator.

Mrs. Weiss enjoys watching her sons, Jay and Peter, romp with Wendy and the family pets in living room upon returning from school.

Mrs. Weiss keeps the cookie jar full for homework sessions with Jay and Peter.

Music lightens her daily tasks and makes for pleasant company. Mrs. Weiss often illustrates and sketches at her husband's desk.

Wendy raids the tea tray. The Weiss kitchen can be a busy place.

Mrs. Weiss Finds Pleasure In Life of Homemaker

Story by Claire Bellino
Photos by Joseph Saternis

The wife of Manchester general manager, Robert B. Weiss, is a petite brunette who finds the multiple roles of wife, mother and homemaker a very satisfying and fulfilling life.

In addition to being satisfying and fulfilling, hers must be a very busy life as she has a family consisting of two sons, Peter, 10, and Jay, 7; a daughter, Wendy, 11 months; a collie, Burr, and a cocker, Amber; and, of course, Mr. Weiss.

After getting her husband off to work in Manchester and her sons to school in Windsor, the diminutive Mrs. Weiss begins the housekeeping duties which she "thoroughly enjoys." This includes the care of her daughter and the maintenance of a large seven-room rambling colonial home in Windsor, which the couple designed themselves.

Her day includes the usual chores of washing, cleaning, ironing, cooking, vacuuming and all the other tasks of a housewife plus, of course, keeping tabs on Wendy. "Taking care of my home" means more to Mrs. Weiss than just the maintenance of it. It also means other tasks, such as flowers, arranging, painting, and baking among other things.

For example, Mrs. Weiss loves to have fresh flowers in every room. She feels that it is so refreshing to have something living in every room, especially in the winter. As she says, "flowers are my one luxury." She has a big vase in her living room and she brings her fresh flowers in the winter months and grows flowers for her to arrange in the warmer seasons.

The charming Mrs. Weiss is also interested in art and illustrates the family's Christmas cards as well as town reports. She has also done other artwork including paintings, decorating trays and sketches.

Perhaps her greatest love is baking. A distiller by training, Mrs. Weiss loves to bake and cook and appreciates any opportunity to do so. This is further testified to by copies of Gourmet and other food magazines in the home. Even the fact that she has a "peanut butter and jelly" man (Jay) doesn't dim her desire to create new and different dishes.

When she can find time, Mrs. Weiss also likes to read and listen to music. She becomes deeply engrossed in whatever she reads, but it is not uncommon for her to be reading three novels concurrently.

As in everything she does and likes, Mrs. Weiss displays widely varying taste in her selections. She enjoys John Steinbeck as well as a wide variety of other authors, while in music, she displays the same range of tastes, from classical symphonies and opera to Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass. She is also an active proponent of the symphony as is her husband, Mrs. Weiss also likes to try her own hand at music as she plays the piano but, as she says, "strictly for my own enjoyment."

A welcome addition to the Weiss household was a large entertainment unit including a color TV, a stereophonic phonograph and an AM-FM radio, which was given to the family by the people of Windsor when Weiss resigned to assume his Manchester post. Mrs. Weiss said that the unit allows her to play her favorite music while she goes about her household chores.

Another very great interest of Mrs. Weiss is "anything that concerns my husband." This includes government among other things.

Even though she pursues so many activities in her home, she does not neglect community projects. In the past, she has conducted coffee hours for the March of Dimes. As she puts it, "I like to do anything I can to help the March of Dimes raise as much money as possible."

She served as executive secretary for the pool fund when the Town of Windsor was raising funds for the construction of its swimming pool. She was responsible for a vast amount of work, since there was no fund chairman.

Mrs. Weiss has also been an active member of the League of Women Voters.

She does not forget the youth of the community as she has demonstrated an extreme interest in Girl Scouting for many years. In fact, one memory she treasures deals with the Girl Scouts of South Burwick, Maine, where her husband was the town's first town manager.

When the Weisses were leaving Maine for the Windsor post, the residents of South Burwick presented Mrs. Weiss with many gifts of Girl Scout items. Each package was wrapped in silver and gold, significant of the Girl Scout premises "Make new friends and keep the old. One is silver, the other gold."

At the same time, her husband was presented with a large mahogany desk bearing an inscription on its front. Another fond memory of that time was an "old-timer" who walked seven miles in sub-zero temperatures to attend the farewell event. He told the Weisses that he would never take his horse and buggy out in such cold weather.

There are other memories of the various people the family has known and of places they have been which are meaningful treasures to Mrs. Weiss. Among these are an antique music box, a brass coal hod and a water-color of their former Maine home and paper sculpture. The latter two items were rendered by Thaddeus Lipksi, a family friend who is noted for his paper sculpting.

The former Gloria Weiner, Mrs. Weiss is a native Bostonian. She attended the Garland School for Girls, Boston, and later received a B.S. in foods and nutrition at Boston University. She met her husband during her freshman year at the college and they were married one week after graduation in 1947.

After marrying the couple went to Pennsylvania where Mr. Weiss enrolled in the Wharton Graduate Division of the University of Pennsylvania. After he received his master's of governmental administration degree, the couple returned to Massachusetts where they interned in their respective fields, he at Cambridge, and she at Pratt Diagnostic Hospital, which is now part of New England Medical Center.

Mrs. Weiss also worked at her profession while her husband served as assistant town manager in Keene, N.H., and later as town manager of South Burwick. This was on a substitute and relief basis. Since that time, her family and other duties have prevented her from returning to dietetics although she applies it in her everyday life while cooking for her family.

Notes from the Little Black Book

New excited ruler of the Manchester Lodge of Elks, Ray Zemanek is a former football scoring star at Manchester High. While setting many individual pigskin records in 1948, Zemanek wiped scoring a mark off the books at Manchester High. The records were later shattered by Jimmy Kosh. Zemanek is still active in the game, being one of the area's top officials.

Short Stuff

Good news for Manchester swimming enthusiasts was an announcement last week by General Manager Robert West that the town's supervised pools will be free to all this summer. Credit to Tom Kelley, chief lifeguard, with the action removed from the former fee schedule. ... Stan Ozmek, service manager at Moriarty's, and his wife, Dorothy, were among the 50,000 baseball fans at the New York Mets home opener at Shea stadium last Friday against the Atlanta Braves. Manchester has a bigger booster in the Mets than Ozmek, not even Jack Samson, who is at a new all-time high wage by the better than 60 youngsters, age nine and up, who showed up for the tryouts last Saturday morning at Dudley, Vermont, and in Washington, D.C. ... Credit Tom Ozmek, president, and his hard-working committee, with generating the enthusiasm that resulted in the record turnout of Little League candidates.

Off the Cliff

Pete Zarnardi, fine assistant in this department for the past 16 months, leaves Monday for his six-month tour of duty with the Army Reserve. He will take his last training at the 10th Army Center of Excellence, last April, were removed from the office. ... Charlie Horvath, former coach at Weaver High in Hartford, has been named director of physical education at the East Hartford high school system. Horvath will direct the physical program at both East Hartford High and Pennycuik High. ... Sammy Vaccanti Jr., Manchester's first mayor, will leave the ranks of the judiciary in June. Vaccanti is currently riding at the Sheehan track in Charlestown, Va. The little guy has ridden six months in the "hush" department, and not longer after I was accepted for his services. ... I also had a checkup when I was five. The disease left my bones soft and bent, and I ran a high fever. I was in bed more dead than alive. I wasn't expected to live through the surgery.

Here's There

With little Johnny Kelley of Groton not listed among the starters in the famed Boston Marathon today, men to watch who are familiar to local road racing fans are Ralph Bunch, manager of Andover, Mass., and the Spartan A.C. winner of the Five Mile River "Thinky" running in 1964 and Bob Scharr, the former Trinity College ace. The latter is named America's best runner, a resident of Chevy Chase, Md. Scharr was part of the closest finish in history here when he placed third to Charlie Dwyer of UConn and Alan Shaker of Hamilton College in the 1964 Five Mile. ... Charlie Robbins, the practicing physician of Manchester High and UConn, took part in 20 Boston Marathons. His best finish to date is a third place in the 1964 Five Mile. ... Vines Vandetti is the only runner in the Boston field who has won the race twice. ... Bob Martens, first of East Catholic High student athletes to win the race, will participate at Catholic University. ... Larry Wegman, member of the 1964 Junior class, is a varsity pitcher with the Upsilon College nine this spring. This is Weg-

End of the Line

Pete Matreola, whose right arm was injured by a pitch from Eric, winning the Hartford Twilight League "big" baseball season in the "hush" department, last month the 24-year-old jersey was called for his services. ... I also had a checkup when I was five. The disease left my bones soft and bent, and I ran a high fever. I was in bed more dead than alive. I wasn't expected to live through the surgery.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Dick Stuart, new first baseman for the New York Mets, missed a low throw and when the ball skipped past him he never chased it.

Little Guns Active In Hockey Playoffs

DETROIT (AP)—Chicago Coach Billy Reay said after Sunday's 5-3 loss to the Detroit Red Wings that the difference in the Stanley Cup semifinal series so far has been that "their big guns are outplaying our big guns."

Four-Minute Mile Times Will Never Be Automatic

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—"Four-minute miles never will be automatic for anyone, not even Jim Ryan," says his coach, Bob Timmons.

Play Boy's Game in Minors, Not Up Here

BOSTON (AP)—Billy Herman has had enough of what he considers "the boys' game of baseball" his Boston Red Sox have been playing since the start of the season five winless games ago.

Can Be Taught

BALTIMORE (AP)—Max Zaslofsky, a candidate for the Baltimore Orioles' coaching job, believes the team is that bad, so the situation has been especially grating.

Another Koufax for Sure

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—who has to face Sam only in spring training, "I think Sam actually throws harder than Sandy," says Ron Bauer, the enthusiasm of the presence of Koufax and Drysdale means a cinch World Series without them.

Leo the Lip Not Living in Past

CHICAGO (AP)—The years have been good to Leo Durocher and his players. He looks fit and talks a lot. The voice is strong and the words are crisp and colorful. Many of them concern men he once led to some talented, often temperamental, but Leo isn't living in the past.

State Board Defers Action On More Funds for Colleges

The State Board of Regional Community Colleges, meeting yesterday at Manchester High School, deferred action on whether to ask Gov. J. D. Dempsey for an emergency appropriation of almost $1 million for the 1966-67 school year.

The late afternoon session was held together with Dr. Warren C. Plummer, executive director of the Commission for Higher Education, and other commission representatives.

Under the $300,000 allocated by the state to operate Manchester Community College next year, the college will be able to take a maximum of 850 full-time and 400 part-time students.

President Frederick C. Lewis has requested that present enrollment indicate many potential students may have been deferred action on whether to ask Gov. J. D. Dempsey for an emergency appropriation of almost $1 million for the 1966-67 school year.

College officials say early applications indicate they could be able to accept 1,200 students if they had extra funds.

Town Directors to Discuss Variety of Matters Today

The board of directors, in a special meeting tonight, will conduct a public hearing and will then act on a proposed appropriation, not to exceed $48,000, for purchase of a new sewer from last year's "Operation Head Start" program.

7. Authorizing a $1,179.18 reduction in the board of education's appropriation—a surplus from last year's "Operation Head Start" program.

8. Accepting the resignation of Jack Goldberg from the Manchester Redevelopment Agency and of Robert H. Penn from the Conservation Commission and the appointment of a replacement for each.

9. Authorizing a $5,000 allocation to pay the town's share of a $9,500 Northeast Sanitary Trunk Sewer Study.

10. Action on a Manchester Community College request to grant the state a 60-foot-wide right-of-way from S. Main St. to the college campus of Keeley St., for use as an access road.

11. Adoption of a resolution establishing a seven-member Action Commission for the Arts, which would study the needs of and coordinate the programs for the town's senior citizens.

A proposed Anti-Littering ordinance, which General Manager Robert Weiss had said would be up for a public hearing tonight, has not been completed and will not be considered until the board's May meeting.

'Sally' Shows Her Magic Ring

"Sally in Our Alley," an operetta about the misfortunes of Sally Dugan, a wife who lives in an alley behind palatial New York homes and sells flowers and newspapers to the wealthy, will be staged for the Verplanck School PTA tonight at 8 by the fifth grade pupils. Two performances were also held yesterday for their classmates. Here, Sally, with arm extended, shows her "magic ring" to wealthy Keene and Amy Crandall, as Mickey McGinnis, the tough kid from down the block, looks on. Portraying the parts are, from left, Patricia Stankiewicz, Daniel Pinto, Carol Tarascio and Kenneth Vessey. Before the curtain closes, the ring's powers are proven when Sally is discovered to be an heiress. The fifth grade chorus will provide vocal support, and the event is being directed by Mrs. Cecelia Moore, Miss Cecelia Mboria, and Kim Shiner, Grade 5 teachers. (Herald photo by Pinto.)

Picture of a Man WHO GETS A KICK OUT OF LIFE

He may not shoot in the seventies any more, but he can still teach his son a thing or two about golf—a lesson in sportsmanship and a lesson in just plain fun.

He wants the boy to have all the good things in life. He is able to provide these now, but he knows that sometime in the future they may have to be provided by life insurance.

This father is a Sun Life policyholder. He knows that Sun Life is the company with the right policy for every life insurance need.
