'Go' Light Flashing For Gemini Journey

Noon Hour Launch Set Tomorrow

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The "go" light flashed brightly to tracking stations around the world today for the Gemini 9 spacemen to embark on a three-day exploration of some unknowns of space travel.

"We're ready to go," said Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford. His rookie pilot, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, soon to become the world's champion cosmic stroller, agreed.

They'll ride a mighty Titan rocket into the hostile void of space at 12:38 p.m. (EDT) Wednesday to search the skies for a stubby target satellite, then boldly latch Gemini 9's nose to it.

Their target, known as an Augmented Target Docking Adapter — ATDA, will be powered into a 185-mile high circular course around the globe by an Atlas booster one hour and 38 minutes before the Titan cranks its engines.

Mission director William C. Schneider got a thorough briefing on the status of the rockets, weather and astronauts this morning, then announced: "Everything good, no problems, status is good."

Healthy and trained to razor sharpness, the Gemini twins planned a final review of their vital, action-packed mission with top space agency officials during the day. They also hoped to crowd in a few more hours of practice sessions in a mockup version of the tiny Gemini spaceship.

Surveyor 1 on Right Path For Soft Landing on Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 1 cruised today toward a new and hopefully smoother landing site on the moon after a tricky steering maneuver 97,000 miles out in space.

Jet propulsion laboratory officials, who are guiding the 2,200-pound camera-carrying craft toward a soft landing in the dry Sea of Storms late Wednesday, said Surveyor 1 responded properly to all commands during the intricate change of course.

They said it would take several hours of tracking to be sure Surveyor's new course will bring it down, as now planned, about 20 miles north of the point picked prior to Monday's launch.

The new site was chosen to give the spacecraft the smoothest possible landing area in the 62-mile diameter target circle at the western edge of the 1,700-mile long equatorial strip selected for future Apollo astronaut touchdowns.

Like the Soviet Luna 9, which soft-landed and televised pictures from the lunar surface February 3, Surveyor 1 is pioneering a technique planned to deposit manned craft gently on the moon.

This technique — descending slowly while balancing on the thrust of downward firing rockets — is believed the only safe way to land on the airless moon. In the maneuver at 2:45 a.m. EDT, the spacecraft was ordered to roll and yaw slowly to the left, aiming it in the desired direction. A 20-second burst from three small rockets drove it forward along the new flight path.

Officials said there was no indication so far that the steering maneuver was disturbed by any shift in the craft's center of gravity, a possibility that arose when radioed data indicated an antenna boom may not have extended fully after launch.

There was still a chance that a shift in the center of gravity might cause the craft to tumble and crash when the descent-breaking rockets are ignited on the final approach to the moon.

If all goes well, however, Surveyor will radio across 230,000 miles of space pictures almost as sharp as those seen on home television screens, showing terrain details as small as a pencil lead.

These pictures should give scientists a better idea of whether the lunar surface is strong enough to support the weight of large manned landing craft.

Holiday Road Deaths Set National Record

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the National Safety Council called today for an expenditure of an additional billion dollars a year for traffic safety in the wake of a record Memorial Day highway death toll.

Howard Pyle said this money should be used for an intensified program which he estimated would cut highway fatalities at least in half.

A total of 542 persons died in traffic accidents during the holiday weekend, a record for any Memorial Day observance. The period extended from 6 p.m. local time Friday to last midnight.

The highest previous traffic death toll for a three-day Memorial Day period was 474 last year.

In 1963, 525 persons were killed during a four-day Memorial Day weekend.

The number of deaths over the holiday weekend was above the preholiday estimate made by the safety council. The council estimated between 490 and 540 persons would die on the highways, based on an increase of 800 million miles driven because of the holiday.

This is about 25 per cent more than the total miles driven during the same period on a non-holiday weekend.

The Associated Press made a comparative count of traffic fatalities from 6 p.m. Friday to last midnight.

Buddhist Leaders Meet With Viet Junta Chief

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Buddhist leaders held a surprise meeting with leaders of the military junta today, apparently the first round of talks to end the antigovernment campaign by compromise.

The monks met with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, a Roman Catholic and a target in the Buddhist campaign to force the military junta to resign in favor of a provisional civilian regime.

The meeting came after another Buddhist had burned himself to death in Hue, center of government opposition in the north. She was the fifth and possibly the sixth suicide in the wave of antigovernment protests.

Thich Tam Chau, head of the delegation of four that called at heavily guarded Gia Long Palace, Thieu's residence.

An institute spokesman said no statement will be made for the time being. A Vietnamese official said the talks were "simply preliminary and may be followed by other meetings."

Unconfirmed reports swept Saigon that some members of the government were considering asking for Ky's resignation to further a settlement with the Buddhists.

The influential monk Thich Tri Quang, leader of the Buddhist struggle movement in the northern provinces, issued an appeal earlier in the day for a halt to protest suicides after the 17-year-old girl had set herself on fire in Hue, his stronghold.

Quang said he spoke for the supreme patriarch of South Vietnamese Buddhism, Tich Tinh Kiet, when he urged "all Buddhists to cease acts of self-sacrifice in the name of Dharma (the Buddhist gospel)."

U.S. officials said the Buddhists may be willing to accept less than the resignations of Ky and Thieu as the price for calling off the antigovernment campaign, since the suicides have had less impact than the monks apparently expected. These officials also spoke of a crisis of confidence among the monks in the face of the government's strong stand.

"There is a great deal of perplexity among Buddhist leaders," said one American official.

Fresh Fish

CRANBROOK, B.C. (AP) — It rained so hard in Cranbrook yesterday you could pick up fish from the lawn in a downtown park.

An inch of rain in less than an hour backed an underground river through a storm sewer into the park. With the river came dozens of trout, some of them 12 inches long.

Children scooped them up and took them home for dinner.

Hemlines Dropping Designers Report

LONDON (AP) — Down go skirts. Those three words from Paris and New York today caused surprise, gloom and defiance in London, original home of the thigh-high hemline.

"I just don't believe it," said Alice Pollock, a respected young designer. "It's all a terrible mistake."

In Paris a spokesman for Jean Patou said: "Skirts are going to lengthen in the autumn. The short-skirt is as dead as mutton."

British fashion writers reported that Yves St. Laurent too is hinting at the death of the shortie. They quoted him as saying that fashion must be both elegant and respectable.

In New York, Jacques Thiteau, a French designer who is celebrating 15 years in the United States, is showing tweed skirts for autumn several inches below the knee.

Said Jean Rook, one of London's brightest fashion writers: "It's more than a drop. It's an avalanche."

If there is going to be a return to Dior's old new look, it won't catch Miss Rook napping. A year ago she predicted long, long skirts were coming.

If midday does embrace the long-long skirt for autumn and winter it could cause chaos here where many designers are bankers on skirts going even higher.

"It would be fatal if hemlines

Thousands of Leftists

U.S. A-Sub's Visit Protested in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Thousands of leftist demonstrators renewed their protests tonight in Yokosuka against the first visit to Tokyo Bay of a U.S. nuclear-powered submarine. Police said the demonstration was orderly in the port city, which is near Tokyo.

There were conflicting reports on how many demonstrators turned out. Police put the number at 13,000. Sponsoring left-wing groups claimed 30,000 participated. Earlier the leftists protested to the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo.

About 12,000 persons staged three demonstrations at Yokosuka Monday as the submarine Snook docked at the U.S. naval base there to give the crew five days of rest and recreation.

The demonstrators were brought to the port 30 miles south of Tokyo by the Communist and Socialist parties. Police said 30 policemen and 21 students were injured in clashes Monday and another 20 persons were hurt Sunday, when the protests started.

None of the demonstrators molested the sailors from the Snook or from the carrier Kitty Hawk and other American ships in port. Weaving through the demonstrators, the sailors went as usual to Yokosuka's shops and 270 bars and clubs.

"We do not intend to harass American sailors or cause trouble," said one demonstration organizer. "We want our protests to be peaceful and orderly."

Meats Show Biggest Boost

Food Costs Up 7 Per Cent

NEW YORK (AP) — A housewives' budget brigade concluded today that government price indexes fairly reflect a hard fact of life in the 1960s: It is costing more and more to feed the family.

Many housewives seem firmly convinced that food prices just about doubled in the past year. They didn't, but government figures, supported by an independent Associated Press survey in March, show that the cost of a typical week's shop went up nearly 7 per cent.

Meats, however, have risen sharply. Based on the government's national price averages, it cost $6.22 to buy one pound each of sirloin steak, hamburger, pork chops, ham, bacon and lamb chops in mid-March, compared with $5.12 in mid-March of 1965 — a rise of 21.5 per cent.

By contrast, the other items on the shopping list of the AP's budget brigade rose only 1.5 per cent. The AP's budget brigade on March 10, figures, and the government's, should enable skeptical shoppers to judge for themselves. The AP housewives themselves started out highly skeptical on their 12-city spot survey.

They said food prices overall were unquestionably high, although many a penny could be shaved off the grocery bill by determined bargain-hunting from store to store. Some made the point that few housewives can spare so much time from their other home-making duties.

If a housewife does all her shopping at one store, the researcher in St. Louis said, "It doesn't matter much which store you shop at — they'll get all your money anyway."

"Each store's weekly bargains really were bargains," she reported. "They cut off as much as 20 or 10 cents per item. But they seem to make it up somewhere else."

The Associated Press budget brigade priced a list of 38 to 40 food items, from potatoes to sirloin steak, in three supermarkets in each of the 12 cities

(See Page Thirteen)

(See Page Thirteen)

The results were set alongside returns from U. S. Department of Labor checkers who shopped a wider range of stores in the same cities at approximately the same time. (The government checkers also cover stores in 50 smaller cities for which no price breakdown is published).

In the 12 cities where the AP paralleled the government survey, average total bills were remarkably similar and in the case of St. Louis came out at precisely the same figure — $20.42.

The government goes about its monthly price-gathering in a coolly scientific way, using 125 checkers working under field supervisors and supported by computers at home base. The AP survey was a matronly affair on a much smaller scale but following in the footsteps of the government checkers.

More

AP housewives spiced their findings with pointed comments about food prices — like "exorbitant" and "skyrocketing."

Man's Prisoner Gives Up

WALLINGFORD (AP)—A prisoner who found no particular difficulty in breaking out of the police station lockup over the weekend gave himself up voluntarily Monday, police said.

William Rogers, who was being held for a fight at a restaurant Saturday night, told police he got out of his cell somewhat by accident—the door became disengaged from its lock while he was shaking it, he said.

Once free, Rogers took a long nap in a parked car and visited some friends before turning himself in. The charge of breaking out of a lockup was added to the original charges of assault with a knife, possession of a dangerous weapon, resisting arrest and intoxication.

Sailor's Attempt at Spying Tightens All Naval Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sailor "failed to challenge his routine duties in a 'top secret' area, methodically collected highly sensitive information and tried to sell it to the Soviets, it was learned today.

The Navy turned aside all questions about the case by saying that it is "under active investigation" and that "other details are classified."

There was no indication of the specific nature of the material he tried to sell or whether the Soviets bought it. On these points, too, the Navy refused to talk.

Yesterday two mutually exclusive and mutually contradictory applications of human sacrifice were on view...

Neither seemed to have much chance of being comprehensible to the other. In the National Cemetery at Arlington...

The President constructs an argument in favor of his policies in Vietnam. But he has learned, through long and experience with similar argument...

In his failure to be able to convince even a good majority of the American people that American boys are dying in Vietnam because our cause there is right...

Over in Saigon, even more directly and pointedly, human sacrifice is being used to try to prove a point and win an argument.

If there were some kind of bridge of understanding and communication possible between these two sacrificial positions...

But when the Buddhist leadership says, in its exhortations to its people, "sacrifice and sacrifice much more in order to win the irrevocable and heartless people about the crimes of the Americans..."

It has been proposed that the six New England governors, who meet from time to time to discuss regional problems, adopt a New England flag...

When Rockefeller finally consented to his good cause, coinciding his Presidential disengagement with a speech in Garden City, Long Island...

The New England states need to work together on a great many public matters. And we are sure that the governors are moving in the right direction.

"Quite unnecessary," then, is the verdict the American President renders upon the Buddhist self-immolation efforts.

The tragedy involved is greater and deeper than anything that can be hinted of by such notation that the two uses

Can Paris Civilize Last Weekend?

In Paris, as in some other civilizations, or one-time civilizations, there is in progress a somewhat painful and unhappy transition from the leisure which is a pleasant and natural part of gracious living...

Gradual living, in Paris, has usually provided a two hour lunch period. This makes it possible to have a real lunch, in pleasant surroundings, perhaps even in one's own home...

This has always been a brand of leisure which fitted nicely into the context of the day, making the whole day a more enjoyable affair, and, by making each day a somewhat more civilized affair, blessing the weeks and months and years.

Now the two hour lunch period is being curtailed, down to one of 45 minutes. And the hour and a quarter being saved on five days a week is being added together and used to make Saturday a day off, which creates for the Parisians under this system, the American institution of the long weekend.

The long weekend takes all the time that could provide such gracious spirit and change of pace for the routine days of the week and bunches it up into a confrontation of time and man which demands of the man that he call upon extraordinary resources and energies to make good leisure use of two successive days in which he has no compulsory routine or duties of any kind.

The long weekend is noble and progressive and modern in purpose, but it is, of course, something of a trial until a civilization really grows accustomed to it. In America the long weekend is a relatively new thing...

For all their supposed sophistication, the smart people of Paris are allowing themselves to be plunged into the same kind of leisure as the masses. We shall be interested to see the future statistics of tranquilizer consumption on Paris weekends.

Moreover, his efforts to regain broad popular appeal have been hampered by a belief, widespread among New York voters, that he is running for Governor merely to keep a spearhead for one last try for the Presidency in 1968.

But in recent secret strategy huddles between the Governor and his inner circle, Rockefeller was told by advisers that he must remove himself from Presidential consideration with no ifs, and or buts in order to be re-elected Governor.

When Rockefeller finally consented to his good cause, coinciding his Presidential disengagement with a speech in Garden City, Long Island, by Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

Romney, the leading moderate Republican prospect for 1968, had been privately critical of Rockefeller's failure to clearly withdraw from the Presidential picture.

A footnote: Although Rockefeller's men have just put out the word that part of his 1968 Presidential campaign files have been handed to Romney, it actually happened months ago.

Next to the question of what brand of oratorical technique and presence he is going to display, the most important problem on which Mr. E. Claytor Gengras is not consulting us is that of what to do about his personal economic status.

And just as his failure to come to us for proper tutoring for voice and gesture produces our generous free instruction in these departments, so does our counsel on the subject of what a rich man shall do in order to enter the gates of politics make its immediate appearance.

The first and most emphatic piece of advice we have to give Mr. Gengras is a friendly warning that it will do him no good, absolutely no good at all, to try and pretend he is what he is not.

But no matter how good an act he could put on, it wouldn't begin to be good enough. There is nobody in Connecticut who is as poor as Henry Claytor Gengras.

The next question then becomes that of how to wear one's wealth into the political arena.

Here the main piece of advice recommends complete candor and honesty up to a point.

But neither is there any cause in politics these days, to be ashamed of being rich.

The American electorate has grown quite sophisticated in recent years, and has clearly progressed to the stage in which it no longer condones a candidate just because he happens to be rolling in funds.

Having Trouble with God lately? Many people claim to have all kinds of trouble with Him. He doesn't listen to them.

God is much like us. If we are going to help people, we often stipulate the conditions under which we will help.

Coventry Town Marks Memorial Day

Seattle Students Donate Wreath. Memorial Day ceremonies in Coventry yesterday were so well attended that the first wreath of the parade, sponsored by the Green-Chobot-Richard American Legion Post, were literally hemmed in by thousands of spectators.

The wreath placed on the Nathan Hale monument during yesterday's Memorial Day ceremonies was given by the student body of a school more than 3,000 miles away. Students at the Nathan Hale High School in Seattle, Wash., donated the wreath for the parade, which went from the cemetery to the old Center School for a service at the Center Cemetery on Rt. 44A, and then returned for a new placement on the Hale monument.

The message asked that the town official "act for us and the people of the town" at the memorial service. The memorial is an outcome of previous correspondence from Miss Susan Horvath, chairman of the senior class at the Center School. Miss Horvath wrote on behalf of the first senior class of the high school in Seattle, asking that the class be named in honor of the first senior class given to the school.

Baseball War Flares Again, This Time at Shea Stadium

NEW YORK (AP)—The beanball war has flared up at Shea Stadium only this time it's an elbow, hip and shoulder battle.

Dick Selma of the Mets hit Richie Allen of the Phils on the third inning of Monday's second game. When Selma came to bat in the third, Bob Hall hit him on the right elbow, knocking him out of the game.

Hottest Bat in Major Leagues Belongs to Cardinals' Cepeda

NEW YORK (AP)—Orlando Cepeda is looking around the hottest bat in baseball but for slugging, how about little Maury Willis, who could be a threat to Babe Ruth's home run records if there were enough Memorial Days in the year.

Cepeda had a perfect night with a homer, two doubles and a single Monday and provided all the offense Bob Gibson needed as St. Louis' ace right-hander thrilled Houston 3-1 on a three-hitter.

Willis led off St. Louis' 10th inning with a home run of his National League career and his first since Aug. 31, 1964.

The sudden power play of Cepeda's bat was almost incredible. It was exactly four years ago—Memorial Day 1962—when the switch-hitting slugger made it to the record book by hitting a homer from each side of the plate.

Cepeda's four hits gave him a string of seven over two games and raised his batting average in his first game to .333.

One-Hit Pitchers Spice A.L. Action

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Lamabe, who often has trouble retiring American League batters, will be in Westwood, N.J., July 12 getting married.

McLain, on the other hand, is developing into one of the best pitchers in the major leagues.

A 16-game winner in his first full season in the majors last year, the son-of-law of Lou Boudreau is the winningest pitcher in the AL, with as many games as Sandy Kousser and is only one behind major league leader Jim Marshall.

The 22-year-old right-hander stopped the White Sox on one hit in the All-Star Game by pitching in the first inning.

Lamabe also pitched a one-hit game like that before in the majors. He had driven in 10 runs in his first start of the season.

Lamabe was supported by a 12-hit attack that included homers by Willie McCoy and Tom Haller.

Clemente hammered a two-run homer in the seventh inning of the nightcap that sent the Pirates in front of Chicago.

McLain, on the other hand, is developing into one of the best pitchers in the major leagues.

A 16-game winner in his first full season in the majors last year, the son-of-law of Lou Boudreau is the winningest pitcher in the AL, with as many games as Sandy Kousser and is only one behind major league leader Jim Marshall.

The 22-year-old right-hander stopped the White Sox on one hit in the All-Star Game by pitching in the first inning.

Lamabe also pitched a one-hit game like that before in the majors. He had driven in 10 runs in his first start of the season.

Clark's Backers Dispute Hill's Win in 500 Miler

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Official scorers reviewed the tapes of electric timing devices today in an attempt to determine the winner of the Indianapolis 500, a race unofficially granted Hill and disputed by Jim Clark of Scotland.

They were the first two finishers in the Memorial Day Classic Monday, and two of only seven drivers still on the track when the accident-marred race ended.

Clark's backers were quick to dispute it. "It is impossible for Hill to be the winner," said Andrew Granatelli, a Chicago, part-owner of the race.

Granatelli said, "We concede that we missed one time when Graham Hill passed us (Clark)."

European road racers in the field, Hill and Gurney in particular, criticized the bunched, flying start which sets up chain reaction wrecks.

"We generally do not have these chain reaction wrecks," Hill said, a rookie at Indianapolis but a former world road racing champion. The field quickly straggled after a standing start.

Only 17 cars were left for the single file restart. Five other cars were in the pits for minor repairs.

Of the 23 cars that finally got rolling, four others were eliminated by wrecks of drivers Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif.; Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., and a collision of George Snider, Fresno, and Chuck Hulst, Downey, Calif. None was hurt.

The 11 other failures were out with assorted mechanical troubles, including leaders Andretti, hauser-powered car, and lacked proper valve; Lloyd Ruby, only one lap of finishing when the race was declared ended.

Stewart almost added the Indianapolis 500 to his May 22 on 40 minutes of the race, coming back with only 13 minutes leading the field by more than a lap at one time before his Lola-144.37 m.p.h. was far off.

Clark won $166,625 last year. He had a two-pound weight advantage, bared in on Ford from beginning to the end of the race, and kept the challenger on the ground.

Official Rundown Achieved by Hill

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The final official results of the Indianapolis 500-mile race, but fourth-place Gordon Johncock filed a protest because no work was allowed on his damaged car before the race was restarted.
