heep, and multi-man costumes can be replaced with glistening new clothes.
Moreover, stars can be engaged at less cost. Naturally, a singer who is going to appear in a leading role can be had for less money when he or she appears in a dozen performances of the role instead of a single appearance on a bit or miscast as far as scheduling appearances is concerned.

When you forget the dates of the rest of the repertoire, I'll set them forth for you. "La Gioconda" by Fuschelli opens the season Saturday, Oct. 15. It will feature Richard Apollon, Annabelle Colmani and Dina Roff.

Nov. 23 (a Wednesday) will bring Robert Peters in the role of "Don Giovanni" and "La Gioconda."
The inevitable "Boheme" is scheduled for Dec. 14 and will have Mirilla Fanni in a debut here, as well as Flaviano Laho and Richard Torgel, both of whom have been heard here in the past. It will be difficult for them to surpass the production done here a couple of years back, but the new settings should provide a welcome change.

There is no production in January but Feb. 4 will see "Traviata" on the boards once again, with Monserat Caballe in the title role. She sings in an abnormally beautiful manner, but for ten years she has been heard here in doing three new productions on her own this season, so we will have new settings and costumes here a couple of years back, but the new settings should provide a welcome change.

Issue the conflict in accordance with the present pattern that prevails. The President and the General, then, did not see the meeting place, the pausing place, the chance for stabilizing and holding fast at some point, which could have been expressed in four of the simplest words the President used: "We will not quit."

But there was, midway in the President's statement, a point where he might have stopped, and where he would, we believe, have been astounded at the consensus ready to gather around that point—the point of standing resolute forever, if need be, in denial of Communist conquest and victory, but also the point of being unshaken and unshredded and unhumanitarian enough not to press for conquest and victory of our own.

An Age of Addictions

More of what does the damage—not less—is the modern formula for dealing with problems.

Tip To And Beyond Consensus

In that joint press conference conducted at Johnson City in Texas yesterday by President Johnson and General Westmoreland, his commander in Vietnam, President Johnson made a statement which could be taken—but which is now likely to be taken—as a decisive moment in the war.

His talks with General Westmoreland, he said, had convinced him: "That our forces and those of our allies will not be defeated by the Communists in Vietnam."

Here, S. may be pointed out, the President is claiming a certain achievement which perhaps as many as 90 per cent of the American people consider necessary. It is also a goal to which most of our friends in the world would give at least their tacit approval.

In other words, the point at which we have made sure, that our military presence in Vietnam, that the Communists are not going to succeed in a military victory and conquest there is a point at which our policy and action enjoys a maximum consensus approval.

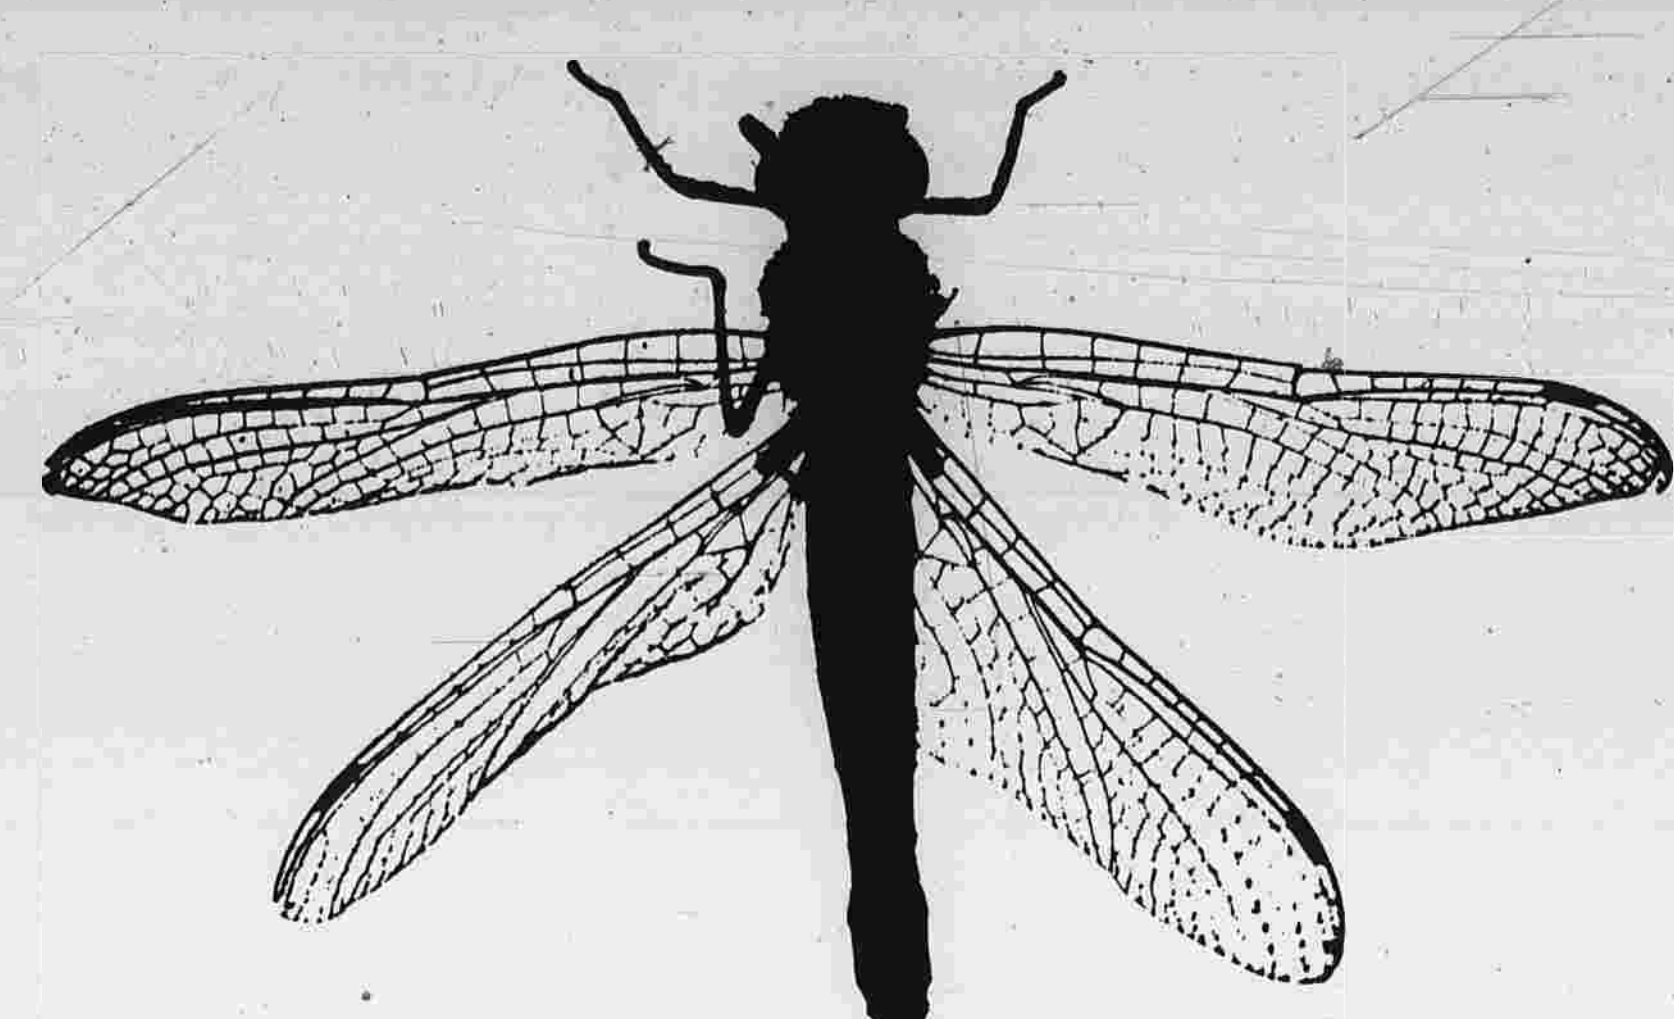

It was at such a point, that after one strenuous effort to lunge beyond it, we finally took peace in Korea, where our situation was vastly better because we had allies and were fighting under the flag of a United Nations police action.

It would leave it up to the enemy to select the tempo for the war. It would produce some immediate decrease in the ravaging of the country we are trying to defend. It would cut down the repetitive slaughter of the innocent by mistake. It would save a large percentage of the nearly 1,000 American battle casualties, an average of more than 100 dead the next wounded, every week.

It would do all this without reproach to the honor of the United States or without inference of weakness and vacillation on the part of its leadership. To the contrary, every aspect of such a policy would require strength of will and strength of principle. It would take a leadership which tried to take and hold the key words in this passage are "resolute" and "victory."

"That the single most important factor now is our will to prosecute the war until the Communists, recognizing the futility of their ambitions, either end the fighting or seek a peaceful settlement."

"No one can say when this will be, or how long it will last. Perhaps it is the American people must know that there will be no quick victory, but the world must know that we will not quit."

Inside Report

WASHINGTON — The most gripping statistic in a top-secret political poll under scrutiny in the White House is the fact that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman's "approval" rating has dropped to 35 per cent in South Dakota.

The poll, completed last week, leaked out of Democratic party headquarters and is causing grave concern not only in South Dakota and throughout the farm belt, but also here in Washington.

Taken by White House pollster Oliver Quayle, the survey also has distinctly bad news for President Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey. Although a native of South Dakota, Humphrey's voter approval rating now stands at only 43 per cent. Mr. Johnson's at 38 per cent. Almost 20 points behind 1964 when he carried the state with 56 per cent of the vote.

By contrast, Democratic Sen. George McGovern, elected by a whisker in 1962, now has an approval rating of 78 per cent. Republican Sen. Karl Mundt, who withdrew a right-wing opponent in his primary election last June, is his highest at 84 per cent.

The Quayle sample is important new evidence of a political fact that is deeply worrying all Democratic candidates in the Farm Belt: that even though farm income has stayed relatively high, the Johnson administration moves into the 1968 Congressional campaign in critical condition.

A footnote: Ironically, it has been under the Freeman tenure that the Agriculture Department has brought the supply of farm products into reasonable balance with demand, cutting sharply into the price-depressing overhang of government-owned surplus.

The old enmity between Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Republican Mayor John F. Lindsay of New York is being fulfilled. Since has long been a major base for the U.S. air raids on the North, and it gets daily more disturbing that Britain is involved to the extent of building a military airfield there.

But, if both sides are contributing to the expansion of the war, the U.S. responsibility is by far the greater. That is inevitable, quite apart from any questions of right and wrong; for the military resources that the United States can bring to bear are far greater than those of Vietnam. A halt in the escalation does not depend on the Vietcong, or Hanoi, unless it wants to surrender, for that (it may reasonably fear) is what accepting American terms for talks would imply at present.

Still less can Peking or Moscow save the nations from the fate that U Thant fears they have already shown how reluctant they are to get involved in the fighting. The choice of peace and war is in American hands, and the fact that those who have to make it do not see it in such stark terms renders it all the easier for them to choose the wrong thing as war will creep up on them and tighten its coils, as it has been doing up to now. Already it is clear how they can escape honorably. But if they cannot at this stage contemplate withdrawing, they can at least not go on making things worse. That is an immediate decision they could take toward ending the war. It does not depend on any elaborate peace proposals, but would contribute to a situation which might later make them possible. Now, however, it seems that the U.S. leaders are set on victory, and we may even fear, as U Thant seems to, that they will stop at nothing.

There is no danger that God will fall if we do not give. Rev. James Boneman, Avery St. Church, South Windsor.

Texas Woman Improved

Second Week Begins With Artificial Heart

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. disconnected when no longer operable of the Valle Vasquez begins her second week with an artificial heart pump today as doctors once again reduced the workload of the plastic device. Methodist Hospital's only advisory Sunday said the 37-year-old Mexico City woman's cardiac condition was improved. Although both previous such patients have died, doctors said the mechanical pumps had worked satisfactorily and that they had provided enough help to permit the natural hearts to begin repairing themselves.

MANY FOOT ALIMENTS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A recent survey of 1,366 elderly persons disclosed that 1,340 of them — or 98 per cent — suffered from some sort of foot ailment, according to a report presented at the annual meeting of the American Podiatry Association.

Cheerful and alert Sunday

she displayed a good appetite when offered solid foods for the third straight day, the hospital said. Officials said her vital signs were satisfactory and X rays showed her lungs remained clear. The two previous heart patients here developed respiratory complications before they died.

Mrs. Vasquez, a beauty parlor operator, set a Methodist Hospital survival record before dawn Saturday when she entered her 11th hour. Marcel L. DeRudder, 60, the first such patient here, lived 111 hours.

Objections Raised Over College Road

With the town directors slated tomorrow night to act on granting the state an access road to the Manchester Community College and also on committing the town to the future sale of 150 acres of Globe Hollow land for a proposed expansion, conflicting opinions on the proposed access road being raised by local officials.

For most of these was a statement today from Francis DellaFera, chairman of the GOP Town Committee, urging no action without further study.

He adds that additional land will be necessary and may be considered to be provided by the state. DellaFera said, "that the Board of Directors take no action on a proposed access highway from B. Main St. pending a full review of all of the problems in this area."

Over the weekend, Horace F. Murphy, superintendent of the Recreation and Park Department, flatly opposed the town's possible sale of the 150 acres to the college.

Wetas, who had asked Murphy and Joseph Tamsky, planning director, to comment on the possible sale, quoted Murphy as being "unenthusiastic" to any further sale of that land.

The acquisition for the latter purpose could then be termed "a blank check." Rather, they should request a series of information regarding the property of the State Commission for Higher Education.

DellaFera called on the directors to refrain from signing an acquisition for protection of the ultimate disposition of this large tract of open space.

The Board of Directors must determine the best use of the land. It must weigh in the process the possibility that the college might move outside of Manchester.

Several unresolved questions, DellaFera said, led him to call for further study of the issues. "It should be pointed out that Gilbert Barnes of the Advisory Council indicated that there would be no need for the proposed access road unless the town could assure the college of another 150 acres for expansion purposes."

MHS Registration

Advance registration for pupils new to Manchester High School will be held tomorrow and each Tuesday in August from 8 a.m. to about 4 p.m.

The administration emphasizes that the registration applies only to new transfer students who will be entering Grades 10, 11, or 12.

Students are advised to appear early in order to facilitate proper scheduling of their courses.

was established under town control in September, 1965. MOC became part of a statewide system of two-year post-secondary schools last December and is now administered by a Regional Board for Community Colleges and by the State Commission for Higher Education.

Ended... with an Electric Air Dryer Dehumidifier

Do your favorite tools get rusty and useless from moisture caused by summer humidity? "It's the humidity" that causes so much discomfort... it is also responsible for mildew and rust, so destructive to books and valuable tools.

A portable Electric Air Dryer Dehumidifier draws out destructive moisture from your basement and other damp places. It pulls up gallons of water each day, keeps the basement or store room moisture-free all summer long.

Driver Charged In Minor Crash

A motorist from Sturbridge, Mass., was arrested Saturday night after a minor two-car crash on E. Center St.

Police said his car, entering E. Center St. from Summit St., and a car heading east on E. Center St. collided with their rear ends...

The warning was for making an improper turn. Police said Baxter took the turn too fast...

A car backing into a parking spot at a W. Center St. drive-in struck a car pulling in to the lot last night.

Police said the car backing was driven by Bruce E. DuBois, 18, of 69 Diane Dr. The other car was operated by Louise T. Wallace, 59, of 109 Pine St.

Damage was minor. A car that veered into the next lane on Olcott St. early yesterday morning collided with another car, but minor damage resulted.

Hazel M. McCaughey of 233 Forest St. told police she was momentarily blinded by headlights.

A summer 1967 wedding is planned.
