Good Print Best Clue In Murder

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) - Authorities said today a "good fingerprint" that does not match those of 20 persons who had access to the Charles Percy home is the best lead in the investigation into the slaying of Valerie Percy.

Robert Daley, Kenilworth police chief, said the print was found on glass out of a French door. He described it as "the most important piece of evidence we have right now."

Many of the calls and letters, he said, are from persons who think they have seen someone resembling a composite sketch of a youth who invaded the home of an Evanswood, Calif., hit her on the head with a ball-pen hammer.

The youth escaped but the girl and her mother got a good look at him and were able to describe him to a police artist.

DOWNTOWN Needs $1,000,000 EVEN IF WE DON'T RENEW!

PROD Says: Downtown in Need Of Lights, Sewers

Town residents will be obliged to pay $1 million to repair Downtown Manchester if urban renewal is not passed by them at an Oct. 3 referendum.

Most of the money, however, is not needed for Downtown (PROD) declared today.

Other repairs which PROD contends are needed are water pipe, $100,000; lighting, $100,000 and traffic lights $100,000.

PROD says that flooding has occurred in the downtown area and on School and Florence Sts. Claims have been paid by the town to residents and merchants because of the flooding, it says.

PROD contends that an additional pipe is needed.

haphazard growth, more inadequate utilities, more bottlenecks, more stop-gap repairs and patches. The renewal proposed will be the vast, unmanageable kind that rips the whole down and tries to build it all back again in a new form, at an expense that is frightening to contemplate.

Katzenbach To State

That Washington comment which focuses most on the quality of the man rather than on the possible motives of President Johnson in appointing him comes out rather strongly in approval of the transfer of Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach to the post of Under Secretary of State.

They salute his intelligence, the diplomatic sense he has displayed in his relationships in domestic politics and politics, and what they call his proved administrative ability.

They do not, from this distance, however, seem high enough or convincing enough to constitute any automatic or total explanation of President Johnson's surprise selection of Katzenbach.

The surface inadequacy of normal reason for the appointment, then, leaves the door open to all kinds of fancy speculation, in which it seems the action proper is to guess whether the President wanted Katzenbach in the State Department more or out of the position of Attorney General.

General move, the move is a promotion for Katzenbach or merely an opening for the promotion of somebody else to his old post, whether there is, also present, some touch of appeasement for ultra-liberal critics who think Katzenbach, once bearded Governor Wallace on television, was not militant enough.

The President himself seems to relish the mystery and the speculation such surprise moves on his part occasion. One merely hopes, for the incident, that the aftermath, the proof of the action, proves better than some of the other surprise packages this benevolent, all-wise great white father has handed his people and the world.

Some of them may, in fact, have established themselves in town under the impression that it was far less effluent than it actually is. And many residents, old and new, may find comfort in continuing to ignore, to whatever extent possible, the obvious evolution of the community into a suburban city.

It is easy to understand the psychology which regards the concept of 'city' as a signal for all the undesirable aspects of community life—overcrowding, traffic congestion, slums, smog, and noise.

For older residents the 'city' label represents the undesirable ultimate in intrusion, the farthest pole from the comfort and manageable Manchester of the past.

For many new residents it represents the very living conditions they sought, at some pain, to escape by moving to Manchester in the first place.

Some of them may, in fact, have established themselves in town under the impression that it was far less effluent than it actually is. And many residents, old and new, may find comfort in continuing to ignore, to whatever extent possible, the obvious evolution of the community into a suburban city.

The fact of Manchester's past growth in population and in facilities to serve that population is very much with us. The certainty that Manchester will continue to grow in the future is also hard upon us.

Semantics aside, the question is not whether Manchester is going to get bigger and less village-like, but what pattern it will follow as it does so.

To pretend that everything which was new-done was done done, that all activity was progress, that all change was advancement, is foolishness. Some things have happened which would better not have happened.

One of the major reasons why the pattern of the town's growth has not been exactly as everyone would have wished is that it has come about largely without effective public control. The tools by which the public tries to exercise such control are intrinsically imperfect.

Zoning is the most effective of them, and almost everyone involved in community planning agrees that fights a losing battle against what appears to be the superior power of long-hoped-for private rights coupled with private vested interest.

The greater the need for a bigger tax base, the more vulnerable the integrity of zoning.

For the professionals in planning, the cure is renewal which, at one fell swoop, resolves the immediate financial problems, anticipates the future ones, and gives the public something more than mere moral exhortation as a means of exercising control over development.

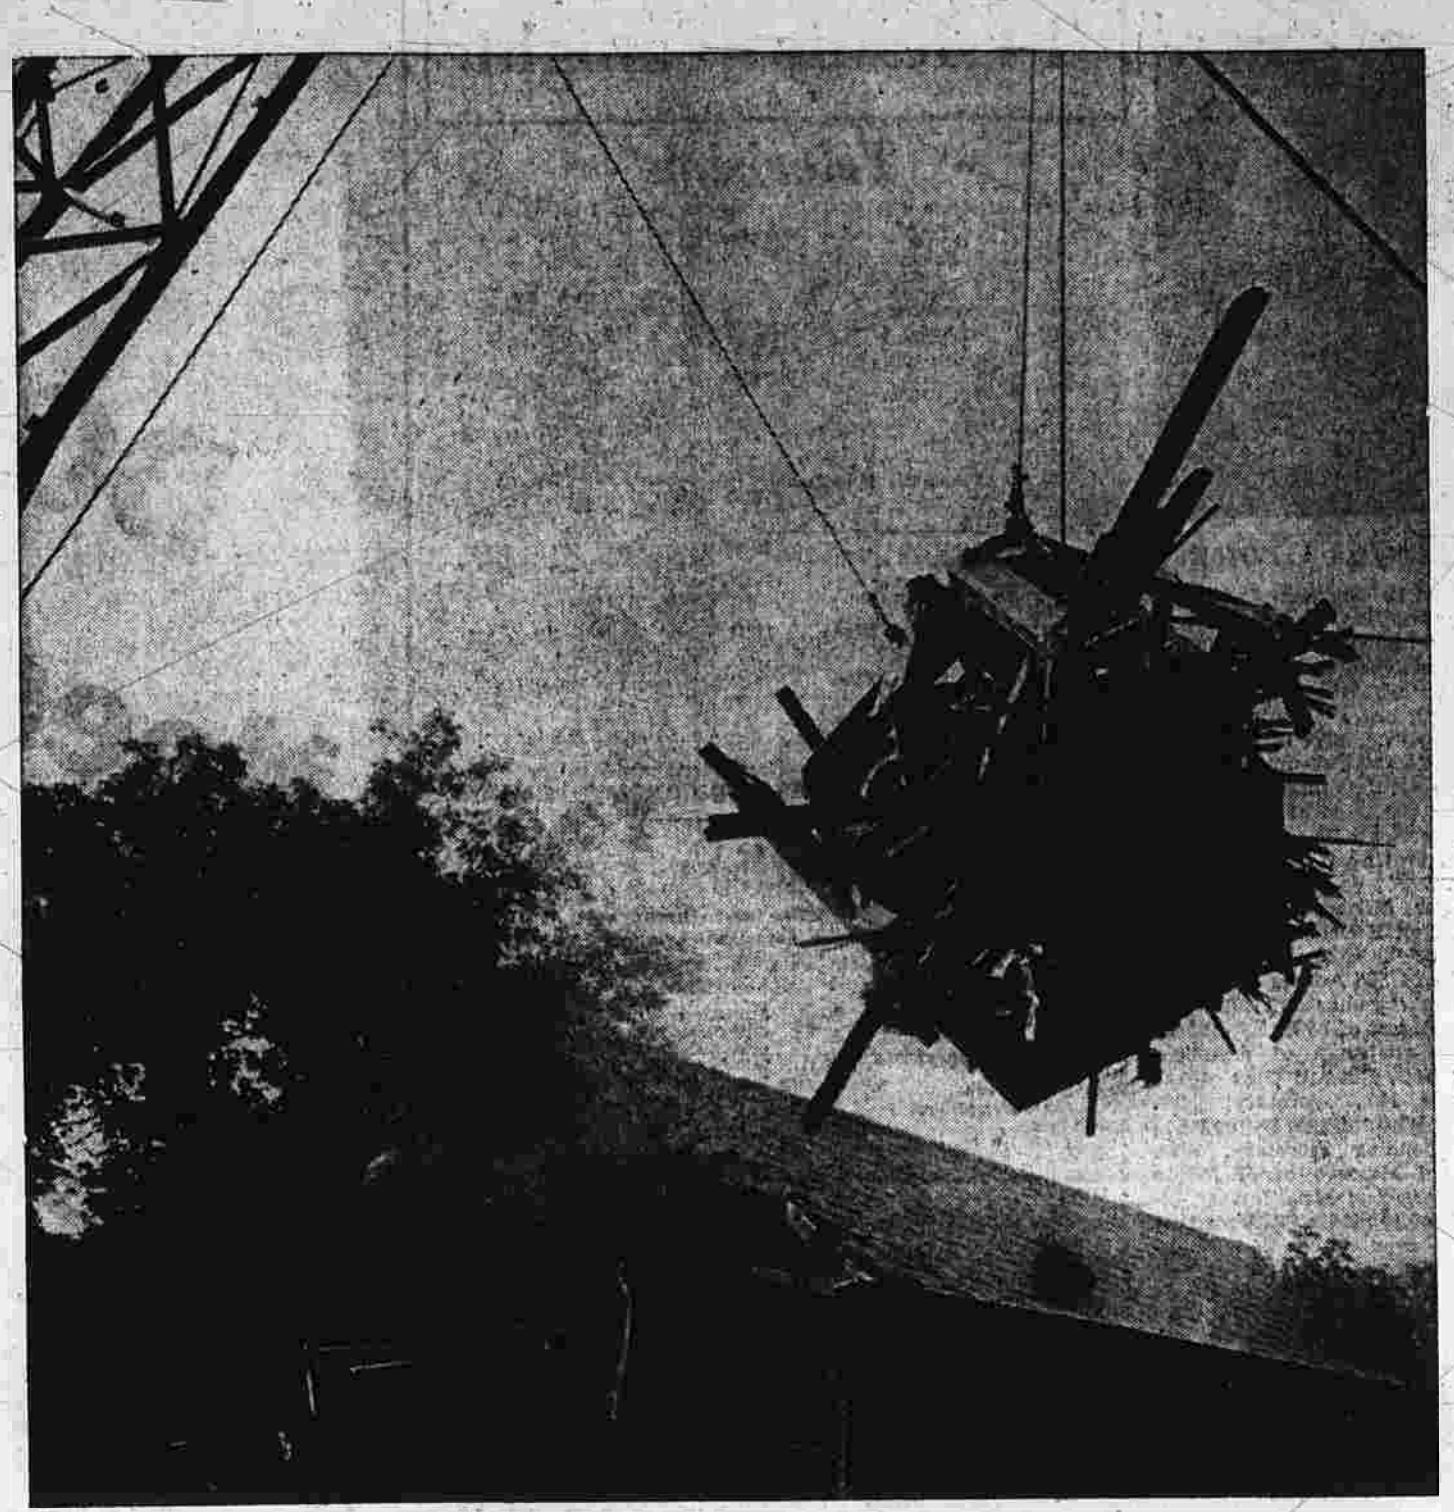

Obviously, renewal is not, without problems. It is much less bothersome, for instance, to let matters take their course and try to repair the damage later. It is also more expensive and far less satisfactory.

Renewal, which demands participation, and the expenditure of tax monies in advance, does provide Manchester with a way to establish a pattern by creating a downtown area which can serve as a nucleus for future growth.

Downtown is now beyond the point where it can, without help, succeed on its own. It is now beyond the point where it is self-sustaining as a principal retail and commercial center. In one sense the help which the voters are being asked to endorse on Oct. 2, is a restoration.

In another sense, however, it represents an early start on a community identity which will succeed on its own in the inevitable way to becoming a bigger town or a small city, whichever one calls it.

If downtown renewal is not approved, the tide will not be stemmed. The town will continue to expand while its core continues to deteriorate. Then some day in the future, somebody will propose a renewal project.

NORTH END RENEWAL: A Clawful Of The Past

Inside Report

LOS ANGELES—While campaigning at the Los Angeles county fair in Pomona last week, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown stopped for a moment at a booth exhibiting for California a 13 Brown voters, only 7 are sure to vote for him again.

Among the others, many are definitely switching to Reagan and four are considering it seriously.

Even more interesting than the figures, however, are some of the reasons given by these defectors from Brown: "Brown has let this welfare thing get out of hand."

"I'm paying my taxes so other people can loaf." "Brown is soft on the loafers."

With present statewide polls giving Reagan a lead of four percentage points (a victory of nearly 200,000 votes on the basis of a normal turnout), these defectors must be brought back into the Brown camp if he has any chance for victory. There is no abundance of optimism among Democrats about the chances of bridging the relatively small gap. Although in high spirits, familiar, fumbling Pat Brown simply cannot strike sparks among his state's voters.

His rational, logical explanations of the welfare problem fall on deaf ears in the anti-welfare state.

The only answer, in the minds of Democratic strategists, is to break down the credibility of Reagan. But Reagan is proving the most plausible, most convincing prophet of right-wing Republicanism on the present political scene. Telling Californians what they want to hear about the sins of welfare payments and all that this comes, he may be impossible to beat.

"Nip This Disaster" By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

To the Editor, With the advent of the Board of Education election next month, I am appalled that only one candidate has had the courage and determination to stand up and be counted on the most pertinent issue. Obviously, the school with no remuneration to us for our capital expenditure on schools must injure the Manchester taxpayer while giving money to the Hartford taxpayer.

As I recall, it was the Hartford Chamber of Commerce, a collection of businessmen who would be benefited by a low tax rate, which was the prime mover in soliciting outside school boards to accept Hartford children into suburban schools. Manchester's participation in this program therefore, is a boon to Hartford merchants.

Because of this, I must think long and hard before I vote for more indebtedness of my town and myself on the new school bond issue. I have absolutely no guarantee that the new school will not house more Hartford children. Moreover, while the first assault wave may well be Negro and underprivileged, the second wave may well be Caucasian and well-off. Experience has shown that as a process of this sort has commenced, benefitting leeches act assiduously to make it irreversible.

One man, Frank Lapiere, has dedicated himself to aid us poor Manchester taxpayers and nip this disaster in the bud. We owe him a vote of thanks and confidence best shown by electing him to the Board of Education next October 3rd.

Rev. Alex H. Elieser, Community Baptist Church

A Thought for Today

Strength for Each Day. Finding the center of strength within ourselves in the long run the best contribution we can make to our fellow men.

It is said that when the fisherman in the sea around Norway sees his boat heading for a whirlpool, he reaches ahead to try to throw an oar into the boiling whirlpool; if he can do so, the masthead quiets down, and he and his boat go safely through.

Just so, one person with "interior" strength can exercise a great calming effect on panic among people around him.

This is what our society needs, not new inventions, important as these are, and not geniuses and supermen, but persons who can be that in persons who have a center of strength within themselves.

One man, Frank Lapiere, has dedicated himself to aid us poor Manchester taxpayers and nip this disaster in the bud. We owe him a vote of thanks and confidence best shown by electing him to the Board of Education next October 3rd.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

The other day we noticed the name of one of our big city alt-rightists in the news. The news was that, in the interest of party harmony and success at the polls in November, he was withdrawing from the position of challenging for one of his party's nominations for a post in the new State Legislature.

That was that. On the surface, it was a graceful withdrawal, made after a certain amount of effort had gone into the business of posing as a candidate. For all we know, there may have been a little preliminary arm-twisting behind the graceful withdrawal.

We know, now, where and how our next encounter with this generous, accommodating, self-effacing character will take place.

We will see him appearing, some afternoon next winter, before some committee of the new General Assembly which he is supposed to be a member.

When we see him making his appearance before a Legislative committee, we will make a note of the particular piece of legislation he is trying to get passed, or have blocked, and we will mark it down that the bill in question has an especially good chance of being passed, or being killed, whichever his purpose may be.

All this assumes, of course, that the party to which he belongs will, either through control of the Governor's office, or control of one of the houses of the Legislature, be in a position to honor the I.O.U. he picked up when he consented so nicely not to run.

This is how some of Connecticut's most important legislative decisions are made—in disguise, by the Government, one party or the other has outstanding to somebody who has a certain amount of party leadership at one time or another. Sometimes the right may involve a candidacy which involves a lot of hard work and almost no chance of victory at the polls.

But if the debt exists, then the party may choose to pay it by telling the interests for or against a certain bill that so-and-so would be the right man to hire for a lobbyist, and the party-designated lobbyist, when he appears before the Legislative Committee, speaks with a certain special persuasiveness not directly related merely to the sweep and charm of his oratory.

We have already spotted one fellow who was nice enough not to run and another who was agreed to run, and we'll be seeing them both next winter. We are sure they get good bills to come up for, for whatever they are for, is going to be an awful good chance.

The task of figuring out GM price changes was complicated by the fact that it followed the industry pattern and made some items standard on 1966 cars, optional this time around, while making some optional items standard on 1967 cars. All but Cadillac will go on sale Sept. 29. Cadillac has an Oct. 6 debut date. GM safety package included an energy absorbing steering column, dual master cylinder brakes, a freeway lane change flasher and latches that hold hold forward seats in place in event of a collision.

At first glance, Chrysler's price hike was not quite as big as the one Ford announced Tuesday. The price increase, which it said was mainly to cover costs of new government-required safety items, figured out on basic price tag comparison to be 3.1% or 4 per cent over 1966.

According to Chrysler's arithmetic, its new price list averaged 3% over the price list announced when the 1966 cars came out. Chrysler said its increase averaged only 2.2 per cent over the price list announced when the 1966 cars came out. President Johnson said Wednesday at a press briefing several hours before the Chrysler move that he regretted Ford's price decision.

A car driven by Franklin H. Parker, 66, of 30 Academy St., made a left turn onto Maple St. from Spruce St. and lightly hit the front wheel of a bicycle driven by Steven Samois, 12, of 49 Kane Rd.

Vernon
Eight Developers Reply To Renewal Agency Ads

The Redevelopment Agency already has received eight replies to advertisements for developers for the renewal area. The ads were on the city's newspaper this past Sunday.

Lester Baum, chairman of the redevelopment commission, said the replies are from very capable and qualified firms and the response is extremely encouraging. An inspection group made up of the agency has also sent out about 40 letters to developers who have already indicated interest in the project.

The agency has set forth four criteria to be used in the selection of a developer, suggested by Kenneth Lea, the real estate appraiser. The degree to which the proposal meets the community and urban renewal plan objectives; design of proposed structures and the proposed tenancy; financial responsibility; qualifications and experience of the principal participants involved in the proposal; and the purchase price offered for the land.

The agency is most interested in good design and good tenants in receiving slightly more money for the land. Prior to this time, the agency had completed several Connecticut developers because it was hoped the proposed Tolland County Courthouse would go into the redevelopment area.

The renewal area encompasses about 15 acres in the downtown section of the former city of Rockville, and it is anticipated that the tributary trading area will approach 70,000 by 1970.

The project area will be completely redeveloped with new commercial uses north of Brooklyn St. and residential apartments, south of Brooklyn St. Although this is the original plan, it can be changed.

Court Temporarily Blocks RR Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—A three-judge federal court has temporarily blocked the scheduled Sept. 30 merger of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the nation's largest, with the New York Central.

The judges said, however, their restraining order Wednesday does not mean they will issue a temporary injunction against the merger. They said that decision will be made after the next week when the merger was to formally take place—or the week after.

The Pennsy said it would have no comment on the court's action.

The court acted at a hearing on the request of nine other railroads to delay the merger until their protests were resolved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Earlier Wednesday, the judges rejected a request by the Justice Department to postpone the hearing so that government lawyers could study an ICC report made Monday. The report "outlined new ICC hearings on ways to protect three of the nine smaller railroads from traffic losses as a result of the merger."

The three are the Erie-Lackawanna, the Delaware & Hudson and the Boston & Maine.

The other petitioners were the Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Reading, Jersey Central and Western Maryland railroads.

At the four-hour hearing, lawyers for all nine petitioners asked the court they were not opposed to the merger in principle, but wanted to make certain their interests were looked after.

New York City also asked a delay temporary restraining on the merger. The city expressed concern that the merger might harm services to and from New York by the smaller railroads.

Robert Gennare, an ICC lawyer, told the court that if the merger is delayed indefinitely, "We can have no assurance that it will ever occur."

Gennare said a delay was not necessary because it would be a

Rham District 803 Pupils Enrolled at High School

Eight hundred and three students have enrolled at Rham High School for the coming school year. This was a larger number than had been anticipated when school closed in June, and it is also a larger number than the existing structure was planned to accommodate.

Tuesday late bus service was begun for this year. These buses will run on Tuesday and Thursday of each week and will leave the school at approximately 3:45. The purpose of these late buses is to provide students with an opportunity to take part in activities, to stay and get extra help from a teacher, or to do extra work in the school library which is open until the time late buses leave on these days.

Principal Canavan reports that because of the increased use of automobiles each year by high school students, it is necessary not only to have regulations concerning their use, but also to stress them to parents and students who have a specific reason and need for driving a car to school. The student who has a part-time job after school, or one who remains at school

Town Council Votes $3,000 To Renovate the Legion Hall

The town council last night... authorized the expenditure of not more than $3,000 for painting and other exterior work on the American Legion Hall on Main St.

The funds will be under the direction of Town Manager Terry V. Sprinkel and will not be available until the manager is in receipt of a letter from the governing body stipulating that the agreement to set in attendance during functions held at the hall and that a meeting to prepare a set of by-laws for the use of the hall governing functions held there.

The matter originally came to the attention of the council during the summer and was referred to Councilwoman Barbara Murray and Councilman Daniel P. Cavanaugh for review.

Cavanaugh said he had reviewed the financial records of the Legion post following a meeting with Legion officials. The records show receipts and expenses for many years, he noted.

In August 1964, a balance of $508 is shown with 1965 showing a balance of $258 while the current balance is $424.

Operating expenses incurred include payments on a debt for the installation of the central alley. This amounts to $173 per month for payment on the debt which was originally $18,000. The balance due currently is $8,500.

No Legion Funds for Repairs Cavanaugh commented that no funds are available from the Legion's treasury for repair work funds for this use are forthcoming in the foreseeable future.

The council slightly revised the proposed amount over the use of taxpayers money for what is essentially a private enterprise since groups in town are required to pay for the use of the hall. This note that the council had appropriated funds in the past to be used to bring the fire safety standards of the hall up to regulations.

Attorney Wask noted that the town does have a reversionary interest in the property due to a warranty deed made to the town.

Anti-Castroites Bomb Ottawa's Cuban Embassy

plotted in position at the front of the embassy building. MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Pelipe Rivero Diaz, head of the Christian Nationalist Movement, said today his anti-Castro group set off the explosion at the Cuban Embassy in Ottawa, Canada.

"Secret cells of the movement which I direct led me this morning of the success of the action which they carried out," Diaz said in a public announcement.

"Canada," he said, "has been chosen for the initiation of the war against communism, because of the insulting and provocative attitude maintained by the Canadian government with respect to the tragedy of the Cuban people enslaved by international communism."

The 43-year-old Rivero is a veteran of the Bay of Pigs invasion of 1961.

RIVER BELL ACTION SOON WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will act soon on a three-story brick building bill which authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to make a study of the feasibility of a $100,000 river recreation area.

The Senate finished action on the bill Wednesday. It had been previously passed by the House.

The recreation area would be along the Connecticut River in New Hampshire, Vermont, and Massachusetts and Connecticut.

COED STABBED TO DEATH

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — An Arizona State University coed was stabbed to death outside a downtown hotel Wednesday night.

The girl, Laura E. Bernstein, 20, of Fair Lawn, N.J., was a junior living off campus.

The girl was stabbed twice in the chest and four times in the back and side. A bicycle chain was clutched in one of her hands when children found the body under an arch in a darkened corner of the hotel's guest side hallway.

Police said the girl apparently had been chaining or unchaining her bicycle to a post a few feet away.

Registration will take place in the gymnasium for grades 2 through 8. First grade students will register in the cafeteria of the school.

The following areas will attend the first session of classes from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. South Windsor Heights, Hilltop, Farmham Estates, Paradise Lakes, Nevers Rd., Graham Rd., Miller Rd., Lyndale, Abby Rd., Barber Hill Rd., Ellington Rd., and the short section of Foster St.

Registration for the First Aid Course sponsored by the South Windsor Rotary Club are being accepted at local banks.

Classes are Oct. 2 at 7:30 p.m. Classes are held at the East Hartford Branch of the East Hartford Federal Savings and Loan on Monday evenings for five Monday evenings.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By DONALD BELTING One of the favorite pastimes of Mrs. Gregory (Gerry) Kelley of 104 Delmont St. is changing recipes to better suit her taste. Her recipe for Butter Scotch Cake, she says, is a variation of a chocolate cake recipe, and one for Cantanaga Shrimp, originally contained lobster, but we prefer shrimp.

Shopping Care Still Can Cut Grocery Costs

It is getting up a folder with some ideas for stretching food dollars, to be distributed at food stores across the country. Consumers are advised to spend more time considering their purchases and shopping.

High on the list is trying new recipes, new meat ideas. You can cut your food bill 10 percent by using lower-priced items.

Shop the specials. Check grocery advertisements, particularly for meat, poultry and fish, and try your menus to include the week's special promotions.

Take special care with meat purchases. They may account for one-third of your food bill. Less expensive types or cuts of meat may be substituted without cutting nutritional values. Try more fish, chicken, turkey. Turkey production is heading toward a record, prices have been down.

That's another tip - shift your menu to reflect the supplies and season.

Fresh fruit and vegetable supplies change constantly, reflecting the weather, harvesting problems - any of a number of things. Substitute remains if Boston lettuce is high.

Switch when the price is right - beef or pork liver for calf liver, bean and chicken dishes for meat.

Buy in quantity, but be careful. Select the amount that will avoid waste.

MRS. GREGORY KELLEY

East Windsor Hill. The couple enjoy fishing, skiing, bowling, reading and knitting. "When I find a new recipe, I like to try it out," she also likes to try out new recipes.

IT WAS THIS WAY, DEAR LOUISVILLE, KY. (AP) — Seven employees of a printing company here had good reason for being late getting home from work recently.

When they left the plant and a member of the Little Theater attempted to start their cars, each found his battery had been stolen.

Mrs. Kelley said that when she makes this recipe she assembles all the ingredients but does not cook it until about 20 minutes before serving. The sauce tends to thicken out when reheated because of the cornstarch. The recipe was originally prepared with 2 one-pound lobsters, cracked and cut in two-inch pieces.

A native of Winthrop, Mass., Mrs. Kelley attended schools there and has been a resident of Manchester nine years. Her husband is employed at AMCO.
