Choose an Omega and you may never need another watch for the rest of your life!

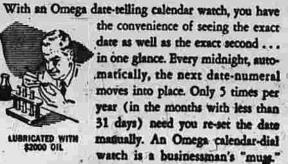

In the 115 years that Omega has been making fine watches, many thousands of proud owners have attested to the fact that even after decades of use, their Omegas still tell time faithfully. Unlike ordinary watches, every Omega is crafted of the finest materials with meticulous care, for a CRAVITY-POWERED MITCHART INFECTION WITH INSCRIPTION MITCHART MOVEMENT lifetime of proud possession.

From the designer's sketches and production blueprints to the final assembly, an Omega undergoes exactly 1497 separate inspections. One our of every four Omega employees is a quality-control supervisor. It takes four times longer to make an Omega than an ordinary watch. Omega precision is so great that it has won important accuracy awards at leading observatories and has been chosen to time many Olympic Games, where a difference of 1/10th of a second can mean a new world record.

You get maximum dependability and accuracy in every Omega. The balance wheel oscillates 1000 to 3000 times more per hour than ordinary watches. This is similar to usomobile horse-power. A 300-horse-power engine cruises easily at 60 miles an hour. The same speed in a 150-horse-power engine can be a strain. The faster beat of the Omega movement counteracts the stress and pull of forceful wrist motions and jars and jolts which often affect the performance of the average watch.

Many Omega watches have self-winding movements, completely eliminating the daily nuisance of hand winding. While you wear it, the Omega automatic stores up its own winding power, thanks to the ingenious, gravitypowered 360° rotor which turns to and fro with everyday natural wrist motions . . . keeping the movement always at peak tension for greater accuracy. Just set it and forget it.

Even His Heroism Is Not Enough

the hero for all authentic decency rush to praise him. Then we wish to does not go far enough-not when the Charles Longstreet Weltner is the distinguished young Democratic Congressman from Georgia who has just resigned the nomination rather than either keep or violate a formal pledge required of all Democratic nominees in Georgia, to the effect that they will sup-

If he were to keep his oath, he would have to support and vote for Lester Maddox for governor of Georgia. And, in the following statement, Congressman Weltner gave ringing expression to the reasons he found it impossible to support ultra-segregationist port all other members of their ticket,

"Today, the one man in our state who exists as the very symbol of violence and oppression is the Democratic nominee for the highest office in Georgia. His entire public career is directly contrary to my deepest convictions and be-

"And while I cannot violate my oath, neither can I violate my principles. I cannot compromise with hate. I cannot support Lester Maddox.

"Therefore, I am withdrawing as the Democratic nominee for the House of Representatives. "I do so with abiding gratitude for the many friends who have sustained me and with deep regret. I love the Congress. But I will give up my office before I give up my principles." One line in this statement-'I cannot compromise with hate"—has a very good chance of becoming one of the great battle cries of this decade, as those who believe in the rightness and the necessity of progress in American race relations seek for some way of expressing their feelings about the blindness and the ugliness which stand in the way of such progress. But, good as the line is, it is not enough, either as a battle cry or as a standard of enlightened conduct. Those who stand-in the way of racial progress need to be understood and sympathized with and ultimately saved just as much as do those who stand in need of that racial progress.

Those who stand in the way are not blind; they see through a different lens, which is, incidentally, not any wilful fault of their own. And the ugliness of their stand is not ugliness to them, but a last ditch defense of what to them seems beautiful. It is not enough, therefore—the battle for decency in this country's living with itself will not be won, thereforeby any passionately glib characterization of the opposition to racial progress as one of "hate" and then the heroic proclamation of no compromise with it,

We shall not cure this "hate" or whatever else we may learn to call it by jumping on it. We shall never stamp it out. We shall never find our way around it unless we begin to understand it, and its sources, and its own reasonings, and find some way of beginning to help heal and reassure it rather than trying to chase and frighten it out of our living.

There is some portion of everything in all of us. In some, the proportions are more fortunate than in others. But, brother, we are all brothers, and we all have to find our brotherhood, and that ncludes brotherhood not only with those whom we call the disadvantaged and deserving, but also brotherhood with those whom we sometimes too glibly accuse of living by and for nothing barn doors can fly open again. Where rioting happens once it can, and often

We join in halling Congressman Weltner, the man of principle and courage. His example is a heartening thing. But it is going to take something even beyond "no compromise with hate" to resolve this nation's racial torture. It is, after all, going to take conciliation, and understanding and even, perhaps, some mise after all, from everybody the is sure he is right.

Our Directors Get The Message

The Board of Directors last night concluded, quite realistically, that Mon fay's negative voting on the $2,000.000 Downtown Renewal bond issue indicated hat Manchester voters would be in no mood to approve the $2,500,000 "catchall" public works bond which was scheduled to come up for a vote at the Nov. 8 election. So they removed the and issue from the voting machines. and it can be considered dead in its

It is too bad it was ever scheduled for

For, just as the voters showed last Monday, when they narrowly rejected renewal, what they would be likely to do on Nov. 8 to the even more controversial grab bag bond issue, it is more than likely that the threat of that $2,-500,000 issue hanging up there in the future had something to do with the decision, Monday, on Renewal.

When one adds the two election days together, as originally scheduled by votes of the Board of Directors, the taxpavers of Manchester were being asked to approve, within the short space of five weeks, the issuance of a grand total of $5.475,000 in bonds.

This grand total was not only, to any taxpayer who bothered to add it up, a terrific amount of debt for the town to assume, but one so large that its interest charges had to be certain to increase the tax rate substantially just by them-

And over this aggregate threat of $5 .-475,000 in bonding and its interest charges, there also loomed the fact that phases of a reassessment which, alough its dread figures have still not appeared, is considered certain to increase almost everybody's assessment. Furthermore, there was in prospect the would be regarded by the party which was in power as the people went to the polls as a clever device for raising the tax rate without seeming to instead of an honest opportunity for lowering it.

So Manchester people, on Monday, were worried where it sometimes hurts the most-in the region of their pocketbooks - and it is difficult indeed to blame them. And, in retrospect, it seems difficult to criticize them for adding it all up together, and deciding to chop it down as it came to them, instead of playing the chances that the politicians wanted them to play - take Renewal first and then run the risk of getting the

The $2,500,000 issue for miscellaneous projects has now been withdrawn by ast night's vote of the Board of Directors, too late, however, to prevent it having done its damage to the Downtown Renewal proposal.

The one bond issue proposal now alive for the Nov. 8 election is that of . the $975,000 for the Globe Hollow School. That should be passed.

Renewal, which suffered its narrow defeat Monday, should be given a chance to come back, some day, perhaps in revised form, and stand on its own merits, without two other big financial worries competing for room in the taxpaying mind and pocketbook.

Counter To The "Backlash'

White backlash is back, promising no more toward solving our pressing social problems than it did a few years ago. There is, though, another reaction to the recurring incidents of Negro violence—a reaction that comes from the Negroes themselves and holds some promise, at least.

This reaction, to begin with, is important because of where it is found. It s not found primarily at the national neadquarters of the older civil-rights organizations, whose leaders have been unced by some younger Negroes (unfairly, we think) as Uncle Toms. It come, rather, from individuals and groups who are known, by and large, only in their own communities. Many of the individuals, as a matter of fact, are assuming positions of leadership for the

And in Atlanta, where early last month 15 persons were injured and 73 arrested in racial rioting, a group of Negro citizens assembled at a church in the riot area and formed a group they called the Good Neighbor Association. The association quickly mapped a program to calm community emotions; its members signed pledges not to participate in riots nor to house anyone who does. In the same city, a group of Negro businessmen and professional men met with the same goals in mind. About 100 Negro high school and college youths issued a statement calling for "responsible citizens of Atlanta to make their voices heard with ours in combating 'black power' and 'white supremacy.' ' All of these efforts followed rioting and vandalism, and could be called slamming the barn door too late. But

Investor's guide to U.S. Savings Bonds [FREE]

Are Series E Savings Bonds a good investment? Yes. For several reasons, including some investment advantages unique to Bonds.

For instance, all Series E Savings Bonds carry a 10-year automatic extension privilege. Which means you can hold your Bonds past maturity and cash them when you're in a lower tax bracket - perhaps during retirement. (Or you can trade them in for Series H Bonds for retirement

Also, Savings Bonds offer a guaranteed rate of interest. You have no concern about market fluctuation or a "right" time to buy. Another thing. Bonds are exempt from state or local income taxes, and federal income tax

can be deferred until you cash your Bonds.

You'll find these and more eye-opening investment advantages of Series E Bonds explained fully in this free folder available from the Trees ury Department. Use the coupon below to order
