LBJ Off on Peace Mission; Promises No 'Magic Wand'

Honolulu First Stop On 25,000-Mile Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson departed on a momentous, 25,000-mile mission to the Far East today with a vow to "do my best to advance the cause of peace and of human progress."

Johnson tempered this pledge with word that "I know that I can wave no wand" or offer any promises to work magic on his aerial expedition to at least six Asian and Pacific nations.

Yet, he said, he was undertaking "a hopeful mission."

It was 9:26 a.m. when Johnson's big Air Force jet lifted off the runway at Dulles International Airport, 25 miles northwest of Washington. It swung westward toward the first stop at Honolulu, 4,500 miles and 10 1/2 hours away.

Beyond, lay state visits to New Zealand, Australia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Korea, Thailand—and the Manila conference of nations combating Communist aggression in South Viet Nam.

In a short departure speech at a ceremonial sendoff at the airport, Johnson said he was inspired by the presence of leaders of Congress and members of his Cabinet and the "unity of the American people."

It was a cool, crisp, sunny morning, with the temperature up from near-freezing to around 50 degrees when the President and Mrs. Johnson stepped out of a helicopter that had brought them from the White House to the airport for a spectacular farewell of the type usually reserved to welcome chiefs of state from other lands on their arrival.

There was the stirring music of trumpeters and bandmen, the crashing roar of a 21-gun salute, the flags of all the states whipping in the breeze, a review of an honor guard of crack ceremonial units to all the armed services.

And there was the actual red carpet, carefully swept, for the walk to the ramp of the plane, with handshakes and brief words for the upper echelons of Washington officialdom and members of the diplomatic corps along the way. A wife or two got a presidential kiss on the cheek.

On the observation deck far above the field, spectators held aloft unanimously friendly posters bearing such inscriptions as "All 4 U," "U.S.A. backs LBJ" and "Luck from Snoopy."

At the doorway to the plane, the President and Mrs. Johnson turned for a moment, waved, then disappeared inside.

Aussie Papers Receive Threat Against LBJ

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Newspapers in Adelaide and Sydney said today they had received telephone calls saying an attempt would be made on President Johnson's life when he visits Australia this week.

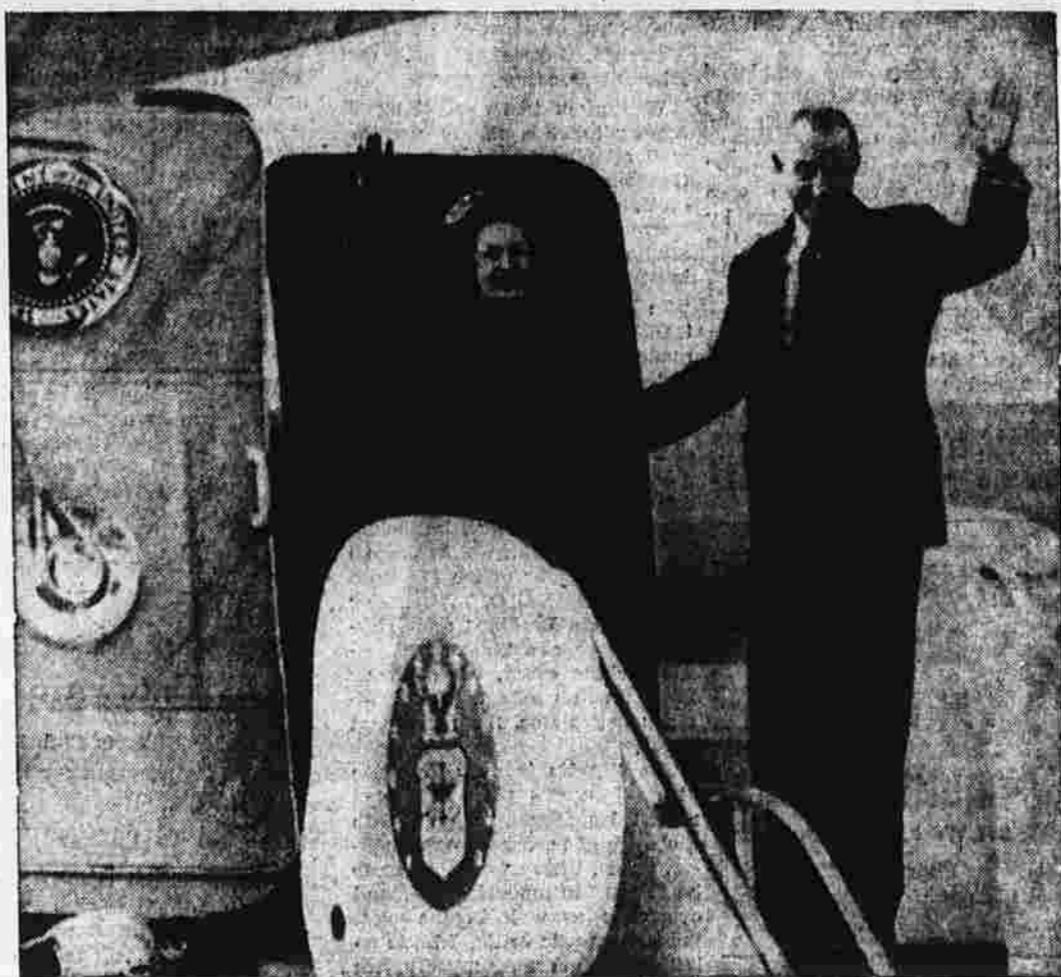

The papers said anonymous calls had been referred to the Australian Security Service. It declined to comment, but a senior police officer in Sydney said it was not unusual for the police to receive all sorts of telephone calls and threats to important visitors to Australia.

A caller told a reporter on the Adelaide Herald that a group from Adelaide planned to take a rifle with a telescopic sight to Sydney to shoot President Johnson.

Although the call appeared to be a publicity-seeking hoax, the security men treated it seriously because President John F. Kennedy was shot with a rifle with a telescopic sight.

The Sydney Daily Mirror said it had received a call from a man who said: "I'm going to shoot Johnson."

Presidential Panel Named To Investigate GE Strikes

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson set up a Taft-Hartley board today to look into widespread strikes against General Electric Co. plants in a half-dozen states.

The strikes have idled more than 30,000 of the firm's 128,000 unionized workers, despite ratification of a new national contract by the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers. A presidential panel helped reach the national settlement which averted a nationwide strike.

The presidential board of inquiry will start by examining a walkout by 6,000 at a jet engine plant in Elmira, Ohio, which has slowed production of engines for planes used in Viet Nam.

Under the Taft-Hartley law the board can recommend injunctions against strikes if it finds the interloper with national defense.

The strikes which hit plants from Massachusetts to Indiana were called by locals of the IUE and other unions. Ten other unions negotiated jointly with the IUE but have not yet ratified agreements.

General Electric has about 268,000 employees in its 160 domestic plants, many of them salaried white-collar workers.

Among the strikers were 12,000 members of the IUE at Schenectady, N.Y., 1,600 machinists at Auburn, N.Y., and 2,000 machinists at Utica, N.Y.

At Pittsfield, Mass., 3,000 members of the IUE respected picket lines of striking draftsmen, and at Ashland, Mass., 2,000 members of the Independent United Electrical Workers remained on strike.

In Fort Wayne, Ind., IUE

members observed machinist picket lines, stopping production at the 6,000-employee plant.

At Louisville, a strike vote was scheduled for 11 a.m. EDT today by 300 members of the Doors of 86 banks in Lebanon remained closed today to prevent a run on deposits after closing of the country's biggest financial house, Intrabank.

Electoral College Action Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused today to permit Delaware to file a suit challenging constitutionality of the state unit vote system of choosing presidential electors.

The court, in a brief order merely said the motion for "leave to file a bill of complaint is denied."

The high tribunal gave permission to Kentucky, Pennsylvania, North and South Dakota, Oklahoma, Utah, Wyoming, Florida, Iowa, Arkansas, Kansas and West Virginia to line themselves up with Delaware as prospective complainers.

There it turned back the whole action.

David P. Buckson, Delaware attorney general, had asked permission to file an original suit in the high tribunal under the Constitution's grant of authority to the court to settle controversies between states.

Buckson's request for permission to sue said that under the unit vote system the total number of presidential electoral votes of a state "is arbitrarily misappropriated" for the candidate receiving a bare plurality of the total number of citizens' votes cast within the state.

In addition to rejecting the attack on the winner-take-all system of determining what candidate gets a state's electoral votes, the court refused to hear three other appeals involving widespread interest. But it took on for review two major business cases.

The cases turned back without review were:

A challenge by Thomas F. Budd, an Oakland, Calif., janitor repeatedly convicted of drunkenness, to criminal punishment of alcoholics. Justice Abe Fortas, backed by Justice William O. Douglas, contended the court should hear the case, arguing that punishment "is neither a deterrent nor a cure" and that alcoholics are involuntarily, on the same basis as the insane who are immune. Two lower federal courts have taken Fortas' line.

An effort by Robert Winters, an Arkansas bus boy, to extend to misdemeanor cases the court's recent ruling that state courts are required to provide lawyers for poor defendants in felony actions. The Defense and Educational Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People carried Winters' case to the high court. He had drawn a sentence of 30 days and a fine of $254, which he worked out on a penal farm at $1 a day, on an "immorality" charge.

Lynda's Late For New Job

NEW YORK (AP)—Can the daughter of a Texas rancher find happiness in the big city?

That's what Lynda Bird Johnson, the 22-year-old elder daughter of the President, finds out today as she begins work as a writer and consultant for McCall's magazine.

The part-time job is the first for Lynda since she graduated last June from the University of Texas. She is working in a new McCall's department covering the attitudes of young Americans, particularly on college campuses.

In her position, which she took at a salary of about $10,000, the work will be divided between New York and Washington.

Although she was officially scheduled to start work today, it was going to be a very late start.

Terror Returns to Saigon

121 Cong Sampans Sunk In Mekong Delta Fight

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese militiamen, U.S. gunship helicopters and river patrol boats swept down on a flotilla of 150 Viet Cong sampans in the Mekong Delta Sunday, sank 121 of the enemy boats and killed 147 Viet Cong soldiers, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported today.

The American helicopters accounted for 51 of the enemy dead, while the Vietnamese force also took 17 prisoners in the search and destroy operation in Kien Tuong Province.

Viet Cong terror returned today to the streets of Saigon. A claymore mine explosion near a U.S. military billet took a toll of 11 killed or wounded.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government also was rocked by new discussion within the Cabinet which endangered the facade of unity Ky had patched together for the Manila summit conference.

Ky, on a trip to the central highlands, said he would invite President Johnson to visit South Viet Nam after the Manila conference next week. There has been speculation that the President would make a one-day stop in South Viet Nam Oct. 27.

Except for the sampan battle, scattered ground fighting continued on a small scale. Another force of militiamen reported 21 enemy killed and nine captured in an engagement in Kien Phong Province southwest of Saigon on the Cambodian border.

The U.S. air offensive against North Viet Nam was severely hampered for the second straight day by rainstorms and generally bad weather. American pilots flew only 97 bombing missions Sunday well below their daily average of about 160 and the record 176 missions flown last week.

U.S. Marines operating near Da Nang reported surrounding a village infested with Viet Cong and ringed with a Viet Cong minefield to thwart a Marine attack.

The Marines said the Viet Cong attempted to break out of their encirclement Sunday but were repulsed by artillery and small-arms fire. The Marines said they killed 22 Viet Cong and captured 8 without taking casualties.

The Marines also destroyed several cave and tunnel complexes in the village five miles southeast of Da Nang.

The Marines had marched casually along the road near the village as they were returning to their base camp, then quickly surrounded it.

Before the sampan battle, a multibattalion force of Vietnam-

Ambulances rush to the aid of wounded American soldiers in a Saigon street. They were hurt when a home made mine exploded near a bus stop where GIs take shuttle buses to work. (AP Photofax)

Outdoor 'Classroom'

Happy Teen-agers Survive in Woods

DETROIT (AP)—Sustained by apples, porcupine meat and roasted rye kernels, 26 high school pupils came home Sunday, disheveled but cheerful after conquering nature for 72 hours.

One hunter suffered porcupine quill wounds of the left forearm in knocking one of the beasts down from a tree during a quest for food.

"I'm okay now," said Michael Arwood. "I'm still pulling out quills."

Arwood, who was treated at a hospital, and the other pupils spent three days in wilderness near Lupton, 200 miles north of their homes in Warren, a Detroit suburb.

They began the trek with no weapons and little more than their wits, warm clothes and tents to sustain them.

Why did they go? "Our parents are always telling us that we never face any of the predicaments they had to," said Helmut Kolke, 17. He and the others attend Woods High School in Warren.

Peter Coutsas, 23, a psychology teacher who led the expedition, said the youngsters "did everything against them," including a thunderstorm Friday night.

youngsters found from Thursday night through Saturday afternoon.

Then Robert Noe and Kolke spied a porcupine in a tree. They climbed up and knocked the animal down.

On the ground, it was killed by Dan Pappas and George Mc-

THE WAY I HEARD IT

by John Gruber
The first opera, written about 1800, was produced by amateurs in Florence with the idea in mind of reviving the old Greek drama. After researching the matter, Counta Peri and Caccini, originators of this idea, came to the conclusion that the Greek chorus sang, or at least chanted its lines, while the principals also employed melodic inflections to the words.

Written in two acts, it would appear to be a chamber opera, a similar character will be included in the production of the Goodwin Theater on the campus of Trinity College. The chorus will be composed of Italian students at the college is sponsoring the event.

The Greeks also employed gongs and cymbals to punctuate high points in the action and other devices to enhance the drama. Originally, "stragioni" took the place of the orchestra, where the individual preserved on his own. Farce was unknown until Aristophanes introduced some of his rollicking comedies. Tuesday night Hartford will have a chance to view a new opera which bears in mind these ancient ideas. It is Arnold Franchetti's "As a Composer"

It is staged on a platform in America or on a battlefield in Vietnam itself. Who, even if he thinks the President may be wrong about the war, would withhold loyalty, solicitude, and prayer for the Americans fighting at his command? The fact that American blood is being shed does not of itself sanctify the cause, but it comes very close emotionally to doing so, and the President's continued use of this theme has had, as will continue to have, a certain tragic persuasiveness.

So, in summary, this Presidential Journey seems destined to prove to be President Johnson's strongest and most effective effort so far to persuade the American people that this is not what was usually classified before we got into it—the wrong war in the wrong place.

The President's journey may succeed in this respect. It will be surprising news if it turns out to have any other chief goal.

The Wild Fruit Cycle

About once every 10 or 12 years there occurs, for reasons really known to none except the professional orchardists, what might be known as a natural fruit year.

The spring blossoms are profuse; the May frosts abtain; and drought at the right time diminishes the normal pest cycles.

The result is that, come September, even the unpruned trees in ancient neglected orchards are hanging with so much fruit that some of it is fairly free of surface or interior blemish.

In such a year, everybody has apples, of one kind or another.

That was the way it was last year. Well into October one could gather fairly sound Russets from wayside trees, or healthy Russets, if one knew where. This sudden abundance of passable private, or public, apples had no depressing effect on the sale of the commercial orchards which produce perfect apples; to the contrary many people who found themselves biting into an apple merely because of their own, or because they had found and picked it themselves, suddenly recovered the tastes of their youth, and were eating houghtless apples all the rest of the winter.

This year, quite the other way, there were some trees which, exhausted by their feasts of a year ago, never even managed to blossom. Others bloomed but then paid no attention to the bees. The weather sequences of 1966 have been kind to the insects; by September there was so little fruit left hanging in any of its natural, non-cared-for habitats that it was a foolish gamble to try to beat the harvest as it is this year: fruit grew only in baskets.

It was always, to tell the truth, much better when one got it out of a basket. But there's always a very pleasing sense of the potential heartlessness of nature, of what we all imagine it was like in our youth, or of what it might have been like, say, in the Garden of Eden, when the cycle began, or because, once a decade or so, a naturally copious year.

The Purpose Of The Trip

It is interesting to note that the New York Times this morning, in its editorial discussion of President Johnson's trip to Asia, centers its one hope for positive accomplishment and result from the journey on the possibility that the President should somehow produce from a decision to bring to some kind of an end the bombing of North Vietnam.

This thin, wishful hope for an unlikely policy development is based on the assumption that the true and basic purpose of this Presidential journey is to make an exploration of policy possibilities, and determine, on the basis of fresh examinations, consultations, and analysis, whether or not there should be any change in the consistent course of escalation. President Johnson has been ordering in Vietnam for the past two years.

It would be a welcome thing to be able to believe that, on this journey, the President is truly addressing himself to the problem of the war in Vietnam, that he is engaging himself in a quest for possible solutions, that he takes with him a disposition to encounter and consider points of view not already his own.

But the regrettable evidence is that the President of the United States is spending 17 days and traveling 25,000 miles not in search of policy or analysis, but as a mission in ambassadorship.

And the ambassadorship is not directed to those people and the countries he is to visit, but to his own people back home.

President Johnson is still desperately concerned with what seems a slow and perhaps almost impossible task—that of trying to convince his own fellow Americans that this is the right war for the United States to be in.

He has been trying to persuade his fellow countrymen this way ever since he began making this a predominantly American war in February, 1965. But although he has perhaps succeeded in increasing the percentage of the American people who will agree that, since we are in it, there's nothing for it, that the war is the right war for us to be fighting, the Presidential journey is aimed primarily at the opinion of that moderate half of the American people who do not agree.

What possibilities does the journey offer that might be more persuasive than the President's normal lectures back home?

He will be able, for one thing, to dramatize the fact that his policies in Vietnam have the support in some degree of three nations whom we Americans like and respect—New Zealand, Australia and the Philippines. These three are by no stretch of the imagination puppets of American policy. Their existing governments have declared the United States is right in fighting in Vietnam, and they have so decided because in their own geographical position, they buy the theory that Communism must be halted somewhere.

It will be during his visits to these three countries that President Johnson will have his first great opportunity to persuade us back home that, if these fine people agree with him and his policies, he must be right. His activities in Thailand and South Korea will, on the other hand, be less persuasive; there is an atmosphere of puppetry about both countries; South Korea, in making the one heavy outside contribution of fighting force to Vietnam, is not so much repaying us for leading United Nations protection of its sovereignty in 1950 as it is playing its chances of getting us with it eventually in a revival of a struggle for all of Korea.

The second great effort of the Presidential journey to persuade people back home that this is the right war for us to be fighting will presumably be a new dramatization, probably staged in Vietnam itself, of what has been the President's consistent policy here at home. It is that since the American boys are ordered to Vietnam are fighting and dying there, we have no choice but to support them in the fullest. This is to keep the campaign quiet and the vote low.

Rust On Purpose

It won't be necessary to fall in low with rusty steel as the latest thing in facing for a building to be able to appreciate the kind of revolt that is involved.

The revolt is against the high polished glass and gloss and the chrome for the American people that this is not what we want. The steel in the building is toward something softer.

Whether this is going to be the variety of rusty steel the steel industry produces for railroad box cars, and which has now been selected by some adventurous architects for building faces we will have to wait and see. The steel in question is shiny when erected, then takes on an initial coat of rust, which flakes off in a year or two, setting the stage for the development of a second coat of rust which is more conservative in hue and which constitutes a sort of permanent finish in itself. Those who have seen it in what is supposed to be the nice stage say it has a soft, russet color which is not unattractive. It's supposed to be easy on the eyes.

First, however, the eyes have to be educated. They have to be educated to see rust as decoration rather than decay, as something that forms a durable finish which prolongs instead of shortens the life of a surface, as a symbol of the latest thing in affluence rather than a symbol of neglect.

Such training of the human eye sounds difficult, but not impossible. Look at all the other ugly things we have learned to tolerate and eventually to like.

State Of The World

"What do we see around us? The deep tragedy of the war in Vietnam; Jewish battles in Africa and Asia; tyrannies based on race, ideology and religion; the whole area of the Pacific Ocean blanketed off for experiments with rockets and bombs; and, perhaps the most terrifying of all, grinding and degrading misery of poverty, ignorance and disease. All this, and I do not mean my words, is to the shame of the human race."—BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY GEORGE BROWN, ADDRESSING THE HOUSE OF COMMONS GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

AUSTIN, TEXAS — Alarmed by the sudden affection of the Texas liberal Democrats for Sen. John Tower, a Goldwater Republican, the conservative establishment here has mobilized its top political operatives to rescue the drab campaign of Tower's senate opponent, Attorney General Waggoner Carr.

The establishment is headed by one of the shrewdest politicians in Texas history, Gov. John Connally, President Johnson's closest political friend. Once remote from Carr's campaign, Connally has become deeply involved now that Tower is a slight favorite to be the first Republican elected to the senate in Texas history.

Connally's new interest in Carr's campaign is manifest in many ways. For one thing, he said publicly the other day that Carr's defeat would damage his own prestige (even though Connally, on the ballot in November for a third term as governor, himself is assured of a huge margin).

Connally's true concern, then, is not so much his own prestige as his fear that a win by Tower would be a step toward a two-party system in Texas. Connally is the protector of the traditional Southern system, which permits him to dominate the state simply by dominating the Democratic Party.

To stop Tower, an astute publicist named Julian Reed from Connally's inner circle has now taken over Carr's massive public relations program. One predictable result: a forthcoming series of highly publicized announcements in favor of colorless Carr from as many Texas Democrats with known liberal credentials as Connally can round up.

In addition, Connally agents are activating Connally's personal organization to whip up interest and get out a big vote. Furthermore, Connally men are scouring the state for Carr campaign money. A cool $1 million was taken clean out of the state this year by the President's Club, angering some of Mr. Johnson's closest friends and drying up Carr's financial resources.

While Connally raises money and gets out the vote, he heart of the Tower strategy is to and the strategy of his new friends among the anti-Connally liberals — to keep the campaign quiet and the vote low.

 To the Editor:
 During the recent bustling controversy I have criticized the Board of Directors and especially the Board of Education for jamming the busing program down the throats of Manchester teachers. The reason being that I couldn't see bringing a city problem into a suburban town. However, we now have additional controversies since a recent P.T.A. meeting I learned that the Hartford children are provided special transportation to enable them to participate in after school activities such as sports, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and such. Why should they have more privileges than our own children?

After all we suffer the effect of high taxes to be able to enjoy suburban living and this program benefits the town in this way at all.

Maybe there is a logical or humanitarian explanation for this which I can't even explain in my own home but I accept it as good judgment by our Board of Education and Board of Directors. I also accept the fact that he doesn't know what would be done about inflation; and that U.S. Supreme Court justice "who want young girls snogged, then, not marry them."

Frassinelli Dinner
 Arthur T. Barber, the Democratic town chairman of New Haven, took up the political cudgels for the Community College candidate for lieutenant governor Sunday night, charging that Albio R. Frassinelli had been "impaired."

The occasion was a $25-a-plate fundraising dinner for Frassinelli in New Haven that drew a crowd of nearly 100, including State and National legislators, Chairman John M. Bailey May.

Barber said military strategy should be left to military commanders; that the U.S. should bomb Hanoi strictly on a matter that has absolutely nothing to do with the campaign of the state government.

He also proposed low-interest state loans to municipalities.

"There are thousands of people in having the state government become a landlord," he said. As for racial discrimination in housing, Genras said: "The solution is not a matter of laws; it is a matter of men."

Saying that "Connecticut has an ample open occupancy plan," he said the state should "Discrimination in the moment of all of our 'truth-in-packaging' bills."

The Democratic candidate, State Sen. John J. Keenan, introduced and supported a bill.

Speaking in Hartford at the 26th annual convention of the Connecticut State Employees Association, Dempsey said: "I am sure that the state government has not yet taken any steps to improve its education, in the judicial branch and in the lower classification jobs where examinations have never been required and never should be required."

The governor promised to work for higher pay, upgrading of job classifications, a 26-hour work week for some state employees, and night pay differentials.

Clayton Genras, the GOP gubernatorial candidate, told the professional football players will be ended once and for all "if he is elected."

He also promised increased benefits and wages and "a new merit system of employment that works."

 Today is Monday Oct. 17, the 290th day of 1966. There are 73 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History
 On this date in 1771 a British force commanded by Gen. John Burgoyne was surrendered to the American Army under the command of Gen. Horatio Gates after the Battle of Saratoga.

On This Date
 In 1849 the Polish composer Frederic Chopin died.

In 1963 President Abraham Lincoln called for 300,000 volunteers to serve for three years in the United Army.

In 1919 William Jenkins, U.S. consul agent at Puebla, Mexico, was kidnapped triggering an international incident.

In 1941 a government pledged to a strong Japanese foreign policy and headed by Lt. Gen. Hideki Tojo and Shigenori Togo took over in Tokyo.

In 1942 American military authorities said they had seized a Nazi master file in Berlin containing the names of some 8 million party members.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Rep. William L. St. Onge called the Viet Nam war "unfortunate" Sunday, said he opposes escalation, and called for a United Nations "peace force" to work for a settlement.

St. Onge debated his Republican opponent in the Second Congressional District, Joseph R. Goldberg, and Veterans Party candidate Daniel R. Tarasovich Sunday on WTRG-TV, Hartford.

Goldberg expressed agreement with the "peace force" idea, and criticized the Johnson administration.

"My administration has conducted the public about the conduct of the war," Goldberg charged.

Tarasovich said military strategy should be left to military commanders; that the U.S. should bomb Hanoi strictly on a matter that has absolutely nothing to do with the campaign of the state government.

He also proposed low-interest state loans to municipalities.

"There are thousands of people in having the state government become a landlord," he said. As for racial discrimination in housing, Genras said: "The solution is not a matter of laws; it is a matter of men."

Congress Hurrying To Adjourn Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Driving hard for adjournment by Saturday, Congress has crowded into this week's program more major legislation than it has considered in any previous month this year.

Bills dealing with billions of dollars in appropriations and aid to education, public works, water pollution, unemployment compensation and health, "truth-in-packaging" and urban rehabilitation are crowded for final action in the heading rush to quit.

Prospects were good for all of them to get through before members of Congress end their work in Washington for the year and hurry home for final campaigning in advance of 8 elections. There was some talk of quitting Thursday or Friday.

Most big spending bills previously cleared the Senate and the House and are now in compromise form and subject to limited debate.

The 16th and final major appropriation bill of the session started through the House Tuesday. It would allot $4 billion for miscellaneous activities, including aid to elementary, secondary and higher education and the construction of a new international airport.

The Senate took it to the investment tax credit bill, and House conferees will have to work out a compromise agreement to accept it.

Patronage Supported

Gov. John Dempsey hit back Sunday at Republican charges that he was "patronage" and get their jobs through political pull.

Speaking in Hartford at the 26th annual convention of the Connecticut State Employees Association, Dempsey said: "I am sure that the state government has not yet taken any steps to improve its education, in the judicial branch and in the lower classification jobs where examinations have never been required and never should be required."

The governor promised to work for higher pay, upgrading of job classifications, a 26-hour work week for some state employees, and night pay differentials.

A Thought For The Week

By BILL LENNON

Astronaut John Glenn will be long remembered and honored as one of our first astronauts. He should be remembered and honored for a second reason as well. In fact, we suspect the second reason he will be remembered for is his courage in our pioneer days of space conquest. What is that second reason?

In his TV press conference following his orbital flight, he was asked if he said a prayer before his journey into space. He replied, "No. May you see me, and something to be turned on or off like a water faucet when needed."

His statement is worth remembering. Any clergyman who says it is never too late to turn religion, even in times of turmoil or stress. But, have you ever noticed those who have happy, confident, every day smiles are usually those who adhere to their beliefs in every day living?

Some call it prayer in time. Because time never stands still, it is worth remembering that in any one's life time, it is never too late.

800 Help Dig Up Buried Model T

DETROIT (AP)—Perry Anseeuw's Model T Ford is out of the ground and police Lt. Arthur Allen is not one level today after a weekend community dig.

More than 800 persons showed up to watch or dig for the 1911 Tin Liza which the sentimental Andrews buried 40 years ago because he couldn't bear the thought of someone altering its classic lines.

It took Andrews, who was chief photographer for the Ford Motor Co. at the time of his death in 1926, three days to bury the car.

It took half a dozen men and a mechanical shovel 10 hours of digging in the rain Saturday afternoon to dig up the car on a fall day in 1959 was there for the start of the digging Saturday, but missed the final.

The equipment was donated and the workers were volunteers. Permission to dig was given by the American Concrete Institute which owns the land and loaned it to Lt. Allen to use as a lawn for his home. The only condition was that workers refill the hole and replace the sod.

Harvey Versteeg of the Detroit Historical Museum and Bud Gues, a Detroit radio personality and son of the late postmaster Edgar A. Gues, were the prime movers in the project. They said they would see that any damage was paid.

"Boy, old Andrews must have been pretty sure at someone or pretty fond of that car," said Dave Murty, 25, one of the diggers.

Inspired by Kleperis Story

By BILL COE

Almost 200 pounds of soap, toothbrushes, food and school supplies have been sent by Bennet Junior High students to children in a Vietnamese elementary school as the result of a project triggered by two town men who renewed an old high school friendship half a world apart.

The Bennet students decided to "adopt" a Vietnamese elementary school early last spring upon a suggestion from Leo Dana, a Bennet teacher and advisor to the Student Council. For the project, Dana enlisted the aid of Air Force Capt. John V. Kleperis of Manchester, a Can Tho, a village in the Mekong Delta, about 60 miles south of Saigon.

Dana got the idea for the project, he said, after he read an article about Kleperis which was published in The Herald in last February. It was a reprint of a Stars and Stripes story.

The story, written by Lt. George Kidd, an information officer who flew a mission with Kleperis, told of a day in the captain's life as a forward air controller and advisor to the Vietnamese Air Force.

Wanting to start an aid project through the Student Council, but not knowing quite how to go about it, Dana decided to write Kleperis after reading of his whereabouts.

The two had been in the 1955 graduating class at Manchester High School and had been close friends during their high school years.

On that day, collections were made in all homes. Used flat, and the rim around the front right headlight was missing.

Vernon ASC Committee Members Named to Represent County

Community committees representing the 13 towns in Tolland County, have been elected by mail and ballot, and the names have been announced by Joseph P. Seigra, chairman of the Tolland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The ASC county and community farmer-committees are in charge of local administration of such national programs as the agricultural conservation, feed grain, voluntary wheat, national wool acreage allotments and marketing quotas. Each year, local farmers earn thousands of dollars through participation in these farm action programs.

Last year, 260 farmers, 33 per cent of all the farmers in the county took part in one or more of the programs administered by the ASC committee.

Funds dispersed under the committee's supervision amounted to $73,000.

The community committee chairman, vice chairman and third regular member automatically become delegates to the county committee. Farmers are elected to fill vacancies on the county committee and the alternate committee members become alternate delegates to the convention.

After the county committee members are elected, the delegates determine which of the regular committee members will serve as the committee chairman and vice chairman for the coming year.

On Sept. 27, a majority of the delegates met at the agricultural center in Rockville to elect the committee.

Seigra of Columbia was re-elected chairman for 1967; Horace F. Paine of Somers was elected vice chairman; Norman R. Strong of Vernon was elected for a three-year term; Edward Laginbuhl of Ellington was elected first alternate and William Kralovich of Andover, second alternate.

You Do Forget

BOSTON — It isn't true, as was once believed, that something once learned is never recalled. Psychologists now claim that knowledge fades gradually with time.

But if you studied something, only to forget it, your effort wasn't totally wasted; tests show that relearning, even after long periods, can be accomplished in about 90 per cent of the time originally required.

Unusual Case Goes On

Solberg Jury Deadlocked; New Trial Will Be Sought

LITCHFIELD (AP)—Henry A. in his final arguments Friday Solberg is back where he was when that he was not guilty a month ago — still in jail withing for a first degree murder on bond, still charged with first conviction.

After an 11-day Superior Court trial in which 28 witnesses and long lists of evidence were presented, a jury of eight women and four men reported itself hopelessly deadlocked Saturday morning on Wednesday for a new trial for Solberg, a 29-year-old

"We regret to inform you," said the jury in a note to Judge "showed us would continue to report Solberg, who was in jail since time would not help us."

MacDonald did not conceal his disappointment at not getting a verdict. "We'll leave it up to you," East Hartford resident. "I'll leave it up to you."

Solberg was accused of the slaying of Mrs. Dorothy E. Thompson. "I'll leave it up to you," East Hartford resident. "I'll leave it up to you."

Solberg's family and his lawyer, William Shaw, were of mixed course hoping for an acquittal, then testified for the defense at State's Atty. Thomas F. Wall, Solberg's trial.

Solberg was State Police Lt. Cleveland hoping for a verdict of guilty. "I'll leave it up to you," East Hartford resident. "I'll leave it up to you."

"The economy," reported Fowler, "can absorb the reasonable foreseeable demands of the Viet Nam conflict and essential civilian needs within the framework of a free market economy — without resort to the harsh economic controls that have characterized past wars."

But in case the war ends, he said, there is no need to fear recession because sources of increasing demand are clearly apparent. He said tax reductions could stimulate new demands to offset any reduced military spending.

Fowler said consumer prices should reflect soon a steady of wholesale industrial prices, a drop in raw material prices and a reversal of the rise in wholesale food prices.

No Choice but Aid
WASHINGTON (AP)—"Mothers who look to public assistance rather than employment for support are mainly women who have no other choice," U. S. Commissioner of Welfare Dr. Ellen Winston said today.

A Department of Welfare report estimated that only 300,000 of 900,000 American mothers receiving public aid could support themselves and their children even if they received training and child care.

The other 600,000 would be kept out of the job market by family size, family illness or handicaps and limited job openings for their potential skills.

Dr. Winston said mothers remain on public welfare rolls an average of three years.

Answer to Crime
WASHINGTON (AP)—Anti-poverty laws, not anticrime laws, are President Johnson's long-range answer to crime.

In a speech to state law enforcement officials last Saturday night, the President said a na-

Johnson Hops to Pago Pago After Big Hawaiian Welcome

Peru Quake Death Toll Nears 100

Conference In Manila 5 Days Away

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The death toll from a violent earthquake along Peru's central coast climbed toward 100 today, but tidal waves generated by the earth shock diminished as they rolled across the Pacific.

President Johnson received the traditional Hawaiian welcome as he stepped off his plane yesterday. A band of hula girls performed and he was presented with a flower lei. (AP Photofax)

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson is hoping to hop farther across the Pacific today after insisting that the Manila conference will produce nothing new in strategy for the war in Viet Nam nor a spectacular peace formula.

Unofficial reports told of 83 dead in Peru from the quake, at least 1,000 injured and unknown numbers homeless, but the count was far from complete. Many persons spent the night in the streets.

The severe quake, 7.8 on a scale with a maximum of 9, rocked and terrorized the coastal area for about a minute and a half Monday afternoon.

In two formal speeches in Honolulu, President and his wife got a rousing reception Monday in Honolulu. Tens of thousands of them young people—hundreds of thousands—greeted the state's delighted Democratic governor, John Burns, gave an unrestrained crowd estimate of 400,000.

Thousands ran screaming into the streets, village plazas and other open areas as buildings shook and crumbled. Women knelt in prayer while brick and wood cascaded around them.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong cut loose today with terroristic attacks from Saigon to the northern border area. The Viet Cong announced resumption of air attacks on the eastern end of the demilitarized zone.

NEW YORK (AP) — Twelve firemen were dead or missing today after the unexpected collapse of a burned building which looked like an ordinary smoky fire "when firemen rushed into it.

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives in Phoenix, Ariz., announced they had succeeded in forcing down bread prices. A spokesman for the group, the local chapter of Housewives for Lower Prices, said it would now begin pressing supermarkets to drop merchandising gimmicks like trading stamps.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Housewives in Phoenix, Ariz., announced they had succeeded in forcing down bread prices. A spokesman for the group, the local chapter of Housewives for Lower Prices, said it would now begin pressing supermarkets to drop merchandising gimmicks like trading stamps.

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidates Clayton Genras and State Sen. Peter P. Mariani said they will be working in full cooperation for the rest of the election campaign.
