Princess Margaret: 'Best Hatted Oddball'

LONDON (AP) — An English royal courtier said Princess Margaret was the "best hatted oddball" in the royal court.

If they aren't why has she been wearing a series of looky head-bagging hats?

With no explanations—royalty doesn't explain—she has made a series of public appearances in the oddest looking hats of her hat-wearing career.

They had one thing in common—they all were her own.

Early in October, she attended a London art exhibition in a Spanish style lid that covered her ears.

A week later she appeared in a black and white head-bag; stars could not see so much as a tip of the royal ear.

Nov. 1, she generated comment by fashion writers in London when she appeared in a hat with a fur-trimmed hat that

Wonders of the Universe Predicting Future With New Tools

By G. HARRY STINE

With a background in physics, G. Harry Stine became a rocket engineer at the government testing grounds in White Sands, N. M. Following this, he worked for the Marconi aircraft company in advanced planning and research. For five years he was Assistant Director of Research for a Connecticut electronics firm, investigating highly advanced technology.

He is currently an independent consulting engineer, specializing in technological forecasting.

By G. HARRY STINE

New prophets of the future are arising amid the technological explosion of the Twentieth Century. Unlike the soothsayers and oracles of old, these new forecasters work with advanced UN instruments so sophisticated as to be based on the mountains of facts gleaned from statistical data and the crystal ball of the computer.

These new scientists are "technological forecasters" and scientists they are indeed. Essentially, a scientist is a man who uses the scientific method to test his hypothesis against the fabric of the universe. A scientist is a forecaster because he tests "if X happens under certain circumstances, Y will be the result." He conducts his experiment in this particular way. I will get the predicted result and so will you, if you follow my instructions. He is predicting the future. And scientists have been very successful in doing this.

Technological forecasting is a logical outgrowth of the Scientific Method. It is a rapidly growing new field that attempts to predict the future of technology itself — how fast, how far, how big, how small, how powerful—and when. When we expect to become bigger and more powerful than we are today, we expect our lives to be a world in which a nation like the United States can live. The present nuclear arms race in which the great powers do currently exist is not a system which can last.

Events in the World

Podgorny in Austria

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Podgorny is expected to arrive Monday in his first official trip abroad since he became head of state last December.

Podgorny is to meet with other leaders of the Communist bloc in Vienna.

When a year ago this time, State Chairman Khrushchev and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev were in Vienna, they were discussing the possibility of a summit conference between the two superpowers.

Podgorny's visit is expected to be a prelude to a summit conference between the two superpowers.

Not The Kind Of A Zoo?

In the aftermath to last Tuesday's election, the first reaction of those who had felt that the basic decency of America had been at stake was to feel that the fact that the election had been advertised, the much-predicted "white backlash" had not, after all, dominated America's voting.

The temptation was to join in the words of one of the spokesmen on the side of the angels down in the state of Maryland, which had, before the vote was counted, been seen sliding into the grasp of a white supremacyist who was crusading on the slogan "Your home is your castle—protect it."

"Maryland," said the surprise Republican victory, Governor-elect Agnew, "has said loud and clear that it wants to remain in the mainstream of America."

And one of the other participants in the campaign said this:

"This proves that the state isn't the kind of a zoo the people of the nation and the world thought it was."

The United States wasn't, either. The kind of zoo too much animal-like voting of racial politics might have made it, last Tuesday.

The nation as a whole, Wednesday morning, was cleaner and more civilized and more decent than it had expected to be.

That made for a good feeling.

When the New York Times got around to evaluating the election, it said that the results from the backwash angle, however, it came up with a sobering, cautionary note.

"The presence of racial antagonism in a political campaign," it said, "is like the presence of a plague in a stricken city. When it turns out to have been less deadly and less far-reaching than had been feared, the general sense of relief is so great that the tendency is to overlook how much damage it really did do."

So the New York Times notes that, as against the surprise defeat of racial extremists in the gubernatorial races in Maryland and Arkansas, there was a surprise victory for a candidate in Florida who played a racial card.

And, although the racial issue by itself cannot be given credit for actually winning any of the races for Congress, there were candidates here and there who obviously either fell the lash or benefited from it, with the amount of this kind of voting substantial enough not to be doubted.

And, as the Times observes, the backwash poison obviously played its role in New York City's voting on the issue of the Civilian Control Review Board.

Finally, people in a community called Manchester, Connecticut, have to acknowledge that there was some touch of a nigger in their midst, some flick of a backwash in their voting, which cost some venerable smart-aleck votes against a new school—any new school—for a town which had committed the disgrace of admitting 62 tuition-paid Negro guest pupils from the North End of Hartford.

But, in politics, one lives by percentages and adjustments, and now that it remains good news that almost everywhere on Tuesday's voting the backwash poison did fall short of elevating anything more than a sliver of its own un-American ugliness.

There was still enough of it, however, in varying degrees, but almost everywhere, to render us all that sick as the great issue upon which our continuance as a nation is now staked. We must learn to live with it, in continual progress and adjustment, and innovation toward its solution, or it will attain such a terrible vigour and violence it will kill the soul and spirit and the dream of this America of ours. We are not some kind of zoo. But there is still a relatively minor percentage of us who vote like animals caged in primordial fears.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

The biggest loser in Connecticut last Tuesday was also, in our book, the individual least deserving of such loss.

It was not Clayton Gengras, for whom this campaign was a closed door, sudden, dramatic, exciting fling into a new world which he had never entered, one that could be conquered in one first try.

For Gengras this campaign was a certain number of dollars out of pocket, and in point of time, a year out of his life, and, in importance, one chapter, although a big and exciting one, in his book.

If Gengras has been irrevocably bitten by the political bug, the penalty upon him may be greater than that we have described. There would also be, of course, a faint chance that he might reverse his fortunes in the political world.

In any case, his loss, whatever its final proportions, is not so much something he himself walked into, of his own volition, with his own performance, with his own decisions, that we must make for him.

Town to Design Road for Future

The town engineering department soon will design a proposed future north-south road in Manchester as recommended by Wilbur Smith Associates, in its Sept. 25 Traffic Operations Study Report.

The proposed north-south arterial would tie in with Broad St., about 1,000 feet north of Center St.; then would swing eastward, to parallel the railroad tracks; would cross Center St. at grade, and then would rise to the railroad right-of-way, south of Center St.

It would follow the right-of-way, on the west, through the Cheney Mills area, tying in with Elm St., as far as Hartford Rd., and then would be extended to Hackmatack St.

Under the proposal, Prospect St., formerly considered for tie in with Pine St., would remain a deadend road at Hackmatack St. Its proposed use as a north-south road would be abandoned.

The design of the proposed north-south road will be made to assist in planning the relocated Rt. 6, and not for immediate arterial road construction.

The state needs the information to plan for its highway structure construction. The State Highway Department, after a meeting with Manchester officials, recommended that the town go ahead with the design, so that it can initiate and declare the proposed road a legal and dedicated street, for future Rt. 6 planning.

Manchester's representatives at the meeting were Public Works Director Walter Fuss and Town Planner Joseph Tamsky.

Spain 6th in Ships MADRID—At the end of June, Spain ranked sixth among the world's shipbuilders with 613,000 tons of shipping under construction. Japan stood first with 3,774,000 tons, followed in order by the United Kingdom, Germany, Sweden and Italy.

Three Manchester residents have been promoted at the Travelers Insurance Companies recently.

Robert H. McMillen of 16 Clifton St., and Peter W. Plumley of 40 Nilea Dr. have both been named second vice presidents and actuaries in the corporate actuarial department, and William C. Fetherston Jr. of 60 Arcella Dr. has been appointed an assistant auditor in the audit department.

McMillen joined Travelers in the life actuarial department in 1948. He is active in committee work for the Health Insurance Association of America, and is also a member of the Society of Actuaries and a member of the Society of Insurance Accountants.

Plumley joined the company in 1950 as an actuarial student, was named assistant actuary in 1958 and was promoted to actuary in 1963. He is the treasurer of the Civitan Club in Hartford.

Fetherston joined Travelers in 1958 and the following year was named senior audit assistant. He was made traveling auditor in 1962, and earlier this year was promoted to administrative assistant.

PROMOTED AT P & W

C. Gordon Beckwith of tumbledock Dr., Vernon, has been promoted to assistant chief engineer with Pratt and Whitney Aircraft.

Beckwith, a native of Flushing, Long Island, N.Y., joined Pratt and Whitney as a test engineer in 1940, following his graduation from Pratt Institute. He most recently served as senior project engineer in development of the JT8D turbofan engine which is used by the Boeing 727 and 737 jetliners and the Douglas DC9.

As assistant chief engineer, Beckwith will be responsible for coordinating various jet engine projects.

Shea Uninterested In Pinney's Post

Atty. John F. Shea Jr., of Manchester, GOP state central committee man from the 4th Senatorial District, said today, "I am not interested in becoming chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and, at the moment, I am backing nobody for the job, should A. Searle Pinney decide to resign. I don't know how my name got into this."

A meeting of the committee has been called for Tuesday night at 6 at DePasquale's Restaurant in Newington, apparently to discuss the state party leadership and to act on it.

Reports have persisted that Pinney, whose two-year term as chairman runs to June 1968, will resign on Tuesday and that a new chairman will be named.

Party rules call for a two-thirds vote of the 72-member committee, if Pinney were to be unseated.

Shea is one of four men who are being mentioned as possible successors, should Pinney resign.

The others are E. Clayton Genrus of West Hartford, the unsuccessful GOP gubernatorial candidate; State Sen. Peter P. Mariani of Groton, unsuccessful seeker of the gubernatorial nomination; and Edwin H. May Jr. of Wethersfield, former GOP state chairman and former U. S. representative from the First, Congressional District.

Shea said that he has no word of Pinney's intentions and that he (Shea) is "not out for Pinney's scalp."

"I am not calling for Pinney's resignation," Shea said, "but, in view of the Republican gains all over the country, it is obvious that Pinney's attempt to bring a 'new look' to Connecticut's Republican Party has not worked." He added, "Pinney must obviously do some extensive soul-searching, to decide whether it is in the best interests of the party for him to remain as chairman."

Shea refused to comment on the choice of Genrus or Mariani, should Pinney resign.

He said that he doubts whether May wants the job. Shea has always been very close to May, and the two men have worked harmoniously in the past.

Shea, on Tuesday, was named Manchester's town counsel. He is a former state representative and is a former chairman of the Manchester Republican Town Committee.

William Johnson of the Savings Bank of Manchester rests the old fashioned method of accounting, a hand-written ledger of the early 1900's on the new system, a computer, which the bank will be using in the near future. The computer system, which is scheduled to be in operation at all five Savings Bank of Manchester offices in January, 1967, will be tied in directly to the Burroughs Computer Center. The new on-line system will provide the bank's customers with extremely fast and accurate service. (Herald photo by Pinto.)

Bennet Band Wins Again

Bennet Junior High School's marching band, playing in a Veterans Day parade in Stamford yesterday, was chosen the best of the three school bands participating.

The 72-piece group, which is comprised mainly of 7th and 8th graders, beat out the Stamford and Rippovam senior high bands for the top honors.

This marked the second year in a row that the junior high schoolers placed among the best of the youngsters competing in the Stamford parade. Last year, they were second place winners in a field of ten bands.

Because of a lack of funds this year, the band's citation did not include a trophy, said Samuel Macaluso, instrumental music instructor at Bennet. But he said the award nevertheless was particularly satisfying to his pupils because it was won against considerably older competition.

The Man On Run A Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — For sheer flexibility it is hard to beat the man-on-the-run theme for a television series.

This has been demonstrated for several seasons by ABC's "The Fugitive," and NBC's "Run for Your Life," both created by Roy Huggins.

Dr. Kimble of "The Fugitive" is an innocent man convicted of murder who is running from the authorities while searching for the real killer. Each week he is almost caught, but we know that he'll get away at the last second just as we know who will win the shoot-out in the Western.

"Run For Your Life" is pegged on the grisly premise of a man with a medical death sentence trying to crowd a lot of living into the time he has left.

This one has more freedom and larger scope in the plots. One week we encounter the hero, Paul Bryan, in a dinner jacket at a chic penthouse party and the next he is crawling through a tropical jungle.

Most of the time he is saving a pretty girl. The principle action comes from new characters encountered each week.

Some programs are better than others, which is true of all series which have many contributing script writers. Monday night's episode was not one of the best, moving at a snail's pace in spite of an enormous amount of shooting, saber rattling and a vicious fight.

The hero was in an unidentified banana republic for the marlin fishing, went to the aid of a pretty girl in a bar and then, accompanied her on a long jungle hike to the mountain lair of a rebel leader.

The idea was to get the girl's father, an American novelist, to leave the rebel camp since a revolution was pending. The slow-down came with a lot of pretensions talk about whether the rebel leader was an idealist or an embryonic Castro and even more about a writer's "commitment."

Ben Gazzara plays the hero

Michael Dunn and Phoebe Dorin, as his lady friend, inspect a fallen knight, in an intrusion of the medieval world on "The Wild, Wild West." The program will be shown on CBS on Fri. eve. from 7:30-8:30.

with a quiet irony which is often highly effective but a little more emotion might have picked up Monday night's show. Week in and week out, however, it is one of television's superior offerings.

Earlier in the evening, Gilligan of CBS' "Gilligan's Island" was in real trouble, and so was any viewer who was trying to figure out what was going on the laugh track.

Our boy awakened to find his hair had turned white overnight.

The laugh track indicated that this was pretty hilarious. Then Gilligan overheard a conversation that convinced him he was in the final stages of senility. You could scarcely hear the dialogue for the laugh track noise. When he finally became bald, that laugh track sounded positively hysterical.

Obviously a lot of people find the series funny, since it is in its third season. But there are others who find it incredibly silly and that includes this viewer.

Review

Historical Liberty

NEW YORK (AP) — With excellent timing and delightful imagination, ABC's "Bewitched" Thursday night came up with a thoroughly comprehensible explanation of last year's big blackout.

Aunt Clara, whose powers of sorcery are not as dependable as they were when she was younger, accidentally put out the lights of the entire Eastern Seaboard when all she was trying to do was move a grand piano by means of witchcraft.

That the program came almost on the anniversary of the blackout was, of course, no coincidence, and it fitted in nicely since a lot of people have been recalling where they were and what they did on the night when all the lights went out.

"Bewitched" was not the only show that was busily taking some liberties with history Thursday night. CBS' "Jericho" used the daring removal of Mussolini from a mountain top by German troops, engineered late in World War II by German Col. Otto Skorzeny as the base of a fictitious, flamboyant adventure for the show's intrepid secret agents.

The program even had a character, "Major Otto Von Zeeny," who seemed almost as smart as the heroes — except he was bad, of course.

The rescue of Mussolini by the Germans, however, was mostly a point of reference and at most a subplot. The three super-agents of the story were busy trying to get the German plans for the Italian invasion.

And the blackout was just one ingredient in the "Bewitched" episode. As it developed, baby-sitting, Aunt Clara's romance and the sale of a million-dollar advertising campaign were the more important ingredients.

In spite of all the pre-season announcements about meaningful, significant drama that was going to be the spice of the current television season, two months have passed, and so far we have not seen any of it.

Tonight, however, there will be "Barefoot in Athens," an adaptation of Maxwell Anderson's play about Socrates on NBC, first of the season's batch of "Hall of Fame" shows.

Recommended weekend viewing: Tonight — "Barefoot in Athens," NBC, 9:30-11 EST, with Peter Ustinov and Geraldine Page.

Sunday — "Back to Budapest," NBC, 6:30-7:30 p.m., film report on conditions 10 years after the Hungarian uprising.

Two Fairy Tales Set "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Pinocchio" will be presented in musical adaptations on CBS during the season. "Jack and the Beanstalk" is scheduled for Dec. 19, "Pinocchio" on Feb. 13. Both will be an hour long. The Prince Street Players Ltd., a New York City repertory company, will present both shows.

BOGARDE IN SHOW Dirk Bogarde, Rosemary Harris and Rachel Roberts will star in "Blithe Spirit" on NBC Dec. 7. The Noel Coward comedy will be shown in an hour-and-a-half version on "Hall of Fame."

Psst! Do You Offend?

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — An engineer speaking at a meeting of the American Public Health Association this week complained about "panic and scare" techniques which predict doom 35 years ahead and hint at disasters around the corner.

He was referring specifically to predictions of water and food pollution. Obviously, he could have included some worrisome peaks into the future made recently in television documentaries — air pollution, life on other planets, widespread use of insecticides and more.

The television viewer must be forgiven if he finds it hard to get steamed up about a possible shortage of drinking water in the distant future or an impending traffic jam that could stop everything. His set gives him so many things to "panic and scare" about right now.

There is the possibility, explored constantly, that each of us offends in one way or another. Am I using the right mouthwash in order to get ahead? And should I tell the boss that he is not? Is my husband inattentive because of my gray hairs, or is it my tooth paste? Do those fattle-tale wrinkles suggest I'm using the wrong soap?

Is my brand of floor wax yellowing the linoleum? Is my laundry less white than my neighbor's and am I getting all the relief I pay for in my headache remedy?

Do I have tired blood? Is my coffee pot really clean? Don't I need a soothing lining to my stomach? Shall I wash my dishes with stuff that makes my hands young and lovely or the other stuff that keeps water spots from showing?

A lot of viewers by now must have come to the conclusion that if one watches afternoon and late-night movies Ray Milland played the guy who lost the girl in every motion picture made in Hollywood up to 1945 — except the ones in which Ronald Reagan lost the girl.

Now, it appears, Tony Curtis has starred in all motion pictures made since World War II, except the ones in which Doris Day starred. This fall has been close to a Tony Curtis-Doris Day festival in prime-time mov-

'Rat Patrol' Slips

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest Nielsen ratings, covering the two weeks ending Oct. 23, were released Monday and established that the public likes its old favorites better than the crop of new shows.

The most popular show of the period was a CBS special, "Friends and Nabors," with NBC's "Bonanza" and a Bob Hope comedy show in second and third places.

Other programs in the Nielsen top 10 were CBS' Andy Griffith Show, Red Skelton Show, Lucy Show, Beverly Hillsbillies and Jackie Gleason Show, NBC's Walt Disney Hour and CBS' Friday night reruns of old movies.

"Rat Patrol," an ABC action show, slipped back into 14th position but was the only new series to make the top 20 list.

CBS moved out in front in the averages, racking up a score of 19.4 to NBC's 18.9 and ABC's 16.4. NBC had led in earlier reports.

"Miller Dropped" NBC, as anticipated, will drop "The Roger Miller show" from its Monday night schedule early in January. It will be replaced by a new comedy series called "Captain Nice."

The pending demise of the variety show, caused primarily by competition by two top-rating programs, "The Lucy Show" and "Rat Patrol," has been expected for weeks. Its replacement, while rumored, is a bit of a surprise. The series is still another in a long series of spoofs which, quite frankly, have not done well this season.

"Get Smart's" success last season kicked off this trend.

That comedy series is still doing well, but "Batman" has dropped off in the ratings. "The Hero" and "Run, Buddy, Run," two new series in the spoof category, have received cancellation notices.

CBS will also add a comedy series built around the same general idea in the half-hour preceding "Captain Nice" on Monday nights. That will be "Mr. Tuffie," another average citizen who turns superman from time to time. By a marvelous coincidence, both shows will make their debuts on Jan. 9.

Cancellation of the Miller show brings the number of departing shows to 11—the highest mid-season casualty in TV history.

Christmas Program John Huston, who directed and stars as Noah in "The Bible," will read the Biblical passages for a one-hour television program, "Christ Is Born," scheduled to be shown Dec. 7 by ABC. The program will be televised again on Christmas Day.

The program, filmed in the Holy Land and Rome, is the second of this season's "Saga of Western Man" series.

On Pleasure A one-hour program, "The Pursuit of Pleasure," which is scheduled to be televised on NBC early next year, will explore what the network calls the new "fun morality."

"For millions of Americans pleasure has become the total goal of life," the program's director, Stuart Schulberg, said, "and the old cautions of the Victorians and Puritans have been discarded."

He added, "This program will attempt to explore it, display it (insofar as this is possible on television), and analyze the social implications of this trend toward hedonism in American society."
