China has exploded another nuclear device and thrown yet another bomb into the rubble of Soviet-Chinese relations. As much as any other one factor, atomic weaponry has contributed liberally to worsening relations between the two Communist giants and may yet be the element which makes the break complete and final. With the latest explosion Red China's fifth and its third this year - Peking issued propaganda blast which said the success of these tests "is a heavy blow to U.S. imperialism and Soviet modern revisionism which have been collaborating in a vain attempt to enforce their nuclear monopoly and sabotage the revolutionary strug gles of all oppressed people and oppressed nations." With each Red Chinese explosion Soviet nervousness has in creased. This explosion could be enough to push the Kremlin into a more active role in seeking peace in Vietnam, despite avowals from Moscow that the Soviet leaders will take no such initia tive unless specifically asked by the North Vietnamese

Well, if we were to advise those writers of contracts who want to play their best chance of keeping their prospective customers loose and relaxed, we would suggest that their next resort be to the opposite end of the font-to the really big type. There is always something infinitely reassuring, and yet confusing, about really big type, as in highway signs. Furthermore, all those who have trained themselves for generations to be suspicious of fine type have, by the same acclimation, lulled themselves into a complete sense of security about anything which looks as If we may, since this is a rather relaxed discussion of matters close to shop anyway, divulge certain pertinent experience of our own, we would volunteer the information that those writers of Open Forum letters and pleaders of causes who have to be watched most closely for their trickiness of logic and their continual effort to catch both opponents and neutrals unawares are usually self-labeled by their extravagant use of large type. When a letter comes in loaded with words and passages all written in CAPITAL LET-TERS, like that, we know we are hearing from a real swinger, whose logic, even after it has been reduced to lower case size, is likely to prove both slippery

If, of course, anybody wants to avoid all effort or temptation to deceive, and merely wants to let sweet fair reason wend its way innocently and safely through an honorable presentation of unassailable truths, then one employs a modest, ordinary-sized type all the tone. A sleepy reader, we have found, is a safe reader.

It Reminded Us Of Dorothy

The editorialist on a morning newspaper with a circulation in Manchester made it into type before we did with a confession of not being particularly edifled by the spectacle of a female disc jockey over in Vietnam pulling the lanyard which launched a 105 howitzer shell on the way toward the Vietcong. In addition to deploring the cheap publicity for the starlet, the morning editorialist reached into memory for a somewhat similar incident in World War I. "Then," said our contemporary, "a now forgotten actress persuaded those who were conducting her on a tour behind the front lines in a quiet sector in France to yield to her plea to be allowhad gone, the Germans retaliated and the gun and its crew were wiped out. As one recalls it, those responsible for letting her fire the gun were courtmartialed, as they should have been." We, in our modest space, bow to the memory of superior age. The incident we were going to recall, if we commented on the mini-brains involved in the mini-skirt episode in Vietnam, was only from as far back as World War II. In this instance, it was, as we recall it, a case of the valiant Dorothy Thompson, newspaper correspondent and columnist who had been breathing denunciations on Hitler for all his visible career, finding her way to the front lines in France some time during the early months of the war, and claiming for herself the vengeful moral satisfaction

No one ever accused Dorothy Thompson of being a cheesecake beauty, or of firing at the Nazis out of anything less than grand ideological passion and hatred. And we had thought, until our morning contemporary omitted the incident from his discussion of this current topic, that her firing a big shell at the Germans had become, next to her marriage to Sinclair Lewis, the most famous

But whatever could be thought of the moral or aesthetic quality of her deed, the practical result was in line with what the insulted Germans did in the World War I episode. Soon after Dorothy fired her defiance at them, the

This is basically sound ordinance But the officials may have inserted some confusion with one of the pro-visos. This clause stipulates that cars must be parked on the even-numbered side of the street on even-number days and on the odd-numbered side on odd-inumbered days. This is unnecessarily playing both sides of the street. Practically every driver has a watch so he knows when it is between 12:01

Winners in Showdown Friday in UConn Classic

Winner will meet winner when the UConn Classic finishes up Friday night. It wasn't planned to be a tournament, but the UConns and a pressing University of Virginia turned it into one last night, both scoring impressive victories, before a paying crowd of 2,704. The Cavaliers poured it on in the last three minutes of the first half and then coasted to a 112-88 victory over Columbia in the first game. UConn put five players in double figures to drop George Washington, 89-69. It will be the second meeting for the two clubs, Virginia winning the first in the Queen City urnament three seasons ago. It was a night for shooters, both winners over the 50 per eent mark from the floor, Virginia hitting on 41 of 66 for 62 per cent and UConn showing 40 or 69 and 58 per cent. Friday, G.W. and Columbia meet at 7 while UConn and Virginia, without doubt the best ubs in the classic, meet at 9. Beat Shooting
