

Inside Red China

Guards Control, Mao Sole Dicty

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ian Brodie, 31, Far Eastern correspondent for the London Daily Express, has just spent four days in Canton and southeast China. Here is his eyewitness report on the upheaval shaking the Communist giant. Before going to the Far East last year, Brodie was Moscow correspondent for the Express.

CANTON, China (AP) — Though one million Red Guards throng Canton's streets and are in effective control, there are no civil disorders. The opposition to the guards is covert, furtive and virtually underground. Police are still on duty, most of them wearing armbands to show they are in the Red Guards anyway. But traffic in the streets of southeast China's biggest city is limited to a handful of trucks packed buses and trolley-buses.

On my way to Canton I wondered if I would meet any Red Guards. By now I have seen thousands upon thousands, shaken hands with hundreds who wanted to be friendly and even had one try to press his red armband on me as a mark of honorary membership. Their fervor is pathetic but self-sustaining. Primed with the thoughts of Mao Tse-tung to solve all problems, they see the golden classless future as theirs to inherit. Their movement is a pilgrimage but the only dicty is Mao.

Out in the countryside I saw many more columns of youths marching to join their comrades.

One group of 50, with bedrolls on their backs and mostly barefoot, had been walking behind their red flag along dusty roads for four days. They said it may be a year before they see their village again.

Apart from their teacher, not one of them was over 13.

I was told the influx into Canton has built up suddenly during the last two troubled weeks — since Mao and Defense Minister Lin Piao said the cultural revolution must spread to every work bench and rice paddy in the land.

Apparently, all major cities now have a similar flood of marchers. The disruption of traffic, normal working and food supplies is unimaginable. Older men who must keep working to feed their families are growing increasingly resentful, I was told. So are some young workers who are not students and who want to get on with learning a trade.

Chicago Hall Wrecked By Spectacular Blaze

Housewares Show Items Are Ruined

CHICAGO (AP) — A spectacular fire today destroyed a major portion of McCormick Place, a three-block lakeshore exhibition hall visited annually by thousands of conventioners. The loss was estimated at $20 million to $100 million.

There were no injuries reported. Flames roared through the 10-acre structure off Lake Michigan, destroying part of the $35-million building and a large part of $100 million of exhibits set up for a housewares show.

Every available fireman and most of the city's fire equipment fought the blaze in 15-degree weather which froze water mains and fire hydrants, rendering many useless.

Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn, who made the loss estimate, said he doubted the short water supply made much difference in the fire fighting.

"If we had all the water in Lake Michigan it wouldn't have mattered a bit," Quinn said after touring the ruins. "I couldn't believe what I saw when I got there."

He said the hall, which opened in November 1960, was at least 50 per cent destroyed.

Quinn said the cause of the fire had not been established.

An official of the Chicago Convention Center said Chicago will lose some $100 million in convention business this year because of the fire.

"Those groups that were going to meet at McCormick Place must now make other plans," said the executive secretary, Gerald G. Sanderson.

"Exhibitors" met today to change plans for some of the biggest trade shows and public exhibitions in the country. Shows coming up at McCormick Place include the annual auto show, the national sporting goods trade show, and the international automotive services industries show.

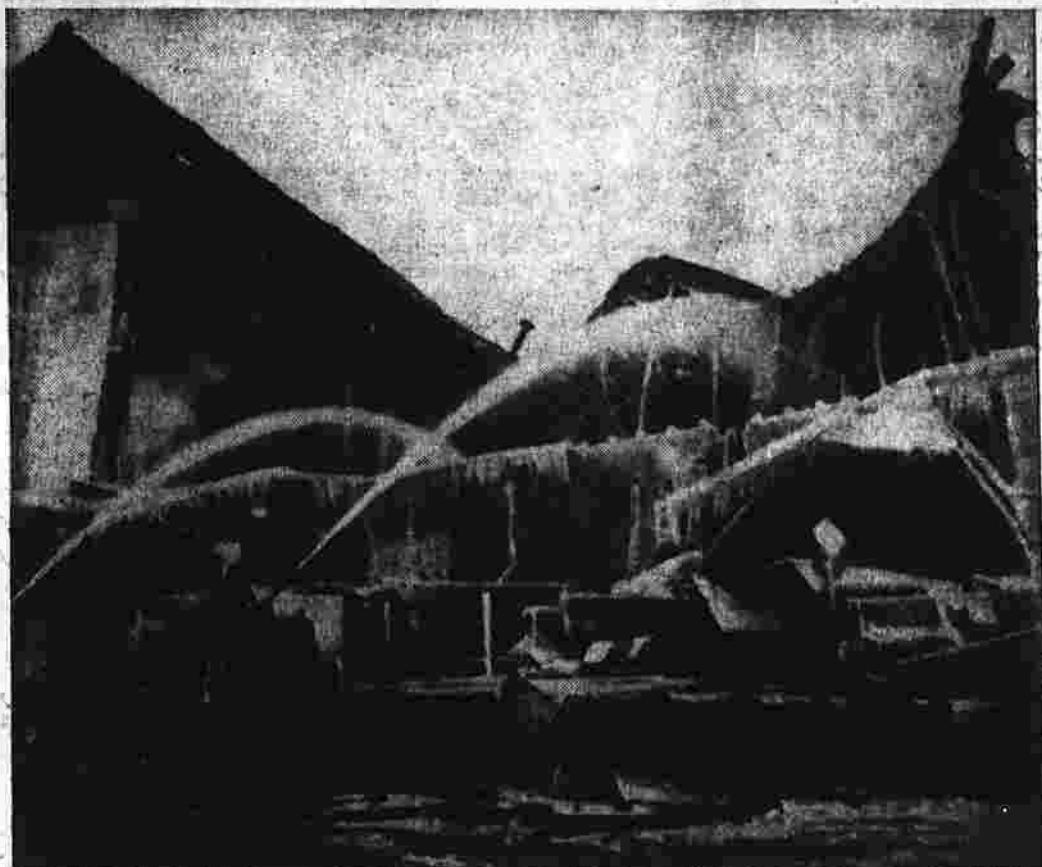

The main exhibition hall, an area as large as six football fields covering the upper level of the structure, was a total loss, said Edward J. Lee, general manager of McCormick Place.

Lee said insurance would cover the loss.

The roof of the huge structure collapsed shortly after firemen arrived, making a jagged V that looked like a giant hand had given it a judo chop.

The crashing roof carried with it a 200-foot section of the west wall, while another 75-foot

U.S. Bombs Nearer Hanoi; First Time Since Uproar

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. supersonic jets flew past Communist MIGs today to bomb an oil depot 14 1/2 miles from Hanoi. It was the closest major strike to the North Vietnamese capital since the controversy over civilian casualties arose last month.

A U.S. spokesman said American bombers attacked the Ha Gia fuel storage area 14 1/2 miles took advantage of clearing skies over North Vietnam after more than two months of almost unbroken bad weather.

In forays Sunday American bombers pounded three targets 15 to 40 miles north and northwest of Hanoi, including the Viet Tri railroad yard.

The pilots reported light to heavy ground fire over some target areas Sunday and two flights of Air Force jets sighted MIGs, but there were no encounters.

Eight American servicemen were killed Sunday when a CH-53 Chinook helicopter was shot down in the Mekong Delta about seven miles southwest of Can Tho, a military spokesman said.

A ninth man, aboard the craft was listed as missing.

The spokesman said he did not yet have results of today's raid on the Ha Gia oil depot. He said pilots reported sighting MIGs during the flights but that there were no clashes.

Ground fighting flared deep in the Mekong Delta as South Vietnamese Rangers reported killing 74 Viet Cong today in a clash two miles from where government forces uncovered a massacre at a Communist prison camp.

A Vietnamese military spokesman said the Viet Cong killed 44 Vietnamese prisoners, most of them civilians, in a camp about 108 miles southwest of Saigon before they pulled out of the area in the face of advancing South Vietnamese troops.

Two miles from the prison camp, the elite 42nd South Vietnamese Ranger battalion clashed with an estimated 500 Viet Cong this morning.

The Rangers, holders of a U.S. presidential citation from President Johnson, reported killing 74 Viet Cong with support from air strikes and artillery. They also seized 10 enemy weapons and reported no casualties to their own forces.

South Vietnamese headquarters also reported that government troops killed 68 Viet Cong in four engagements Sunday in the Mekong Delta and 46 Communist soldiers in an action in northernmost Quang Tri Prov.

It's Official

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP) — A 4 1/2-year-old blonde girl named Beth formally and officially became Beth Liumi today as a judge signed her adoption papers climaxed a long and sometimes bitter custody fight.

Judge R. Waldron Herzberg signed the adoption papers at the Ulster County courthouse during a 45-minute conference in his chambers.

For the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Liumi, of nearby Tillson, it was a nightmare turned into a dream come true.

Joseph Fitzsimmons, the welfare commissioner, had opposed the adoption for "medical reasons" and because he said the Liumis, who are both 48, were too old to have a child Beth's age.

UFO Photos Authentic, Expert Says

DETROIT (AP) — One of the nation's leading experts on unidentified flying objects said today that photographs of a "flying saucer" taken near here last week are apparently authentic.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, chairman of the astronomy department of Northwestern University, also said the pictures were strikingly similar to other pictures of UFOs he has investigated.

Hynek, a scientific advisor to the Air Force's Project Blue Book, which coordinates all UFO reports for the military, commented in an interview with the Detroit News.

Hynek had examined negatives copied by the News from the original Polaroid prints taken last week near the Detroit suburb of Mount Clemens.

"Analysis so far does not show any indication of an obvious hoax," Hynek said.

"The striking thing to me is the similarity these pictures have to other photos I have seen

Lurleen's In, George Is Out In 'Bama Swap

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Lurleen Wallace takes her husband's place as governor of Alabama today in a change of command which send him back to the campaign trail as a candidate for president.

With outgoing Gov. George C. Wallace at her side, the blonde housewife takes the oath in mid-afternoon as the first woman governor in Alabama's history and third in the nation.

Wallace, stepping down from his $25,000-a-year job to become his wife's "No. 1 adviser" at 61 a year, will retain a voice in the state government. They promised the voters in the election campaign last year that Wallace would continue to help make the decisions.

In the months to come, he is almost certain to take an increasingly active part in national political affairs as an avowed champion of state's rights. Before the year ends, he is expected to announce that he will run for president again in 1968 as he did three years ago.

The outgoing governor has

Israel Warns Of Reprisal; Troops Mass

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban warned today that Israel cannot tolerate any more "aggressive acts" by Syria and that it has "both the will and the strength to halt the activities."

Speaking to foreign newsmen, Eban repeated an Israeli offer for an informal emergency meeting of the Syrian-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission to discuss outstanding issues, but said "shooting and bombing has first to stop to make such a meeting possible."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant appealed Sunday to both Syria and Israel to restrain their military forces, warning that a large-scale clash could result from continuing tension along their border.

Thant's appeal, sent to the two governments Sunday, said he had received word of a big military buildup along the border from Lt. Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, chief of staff of the U.N. truce supervision organization in Palestine.

Eban said the buildup "was originally caused by Syrians establishing tanks and heavy armor in defensive areas on the Syrian side of the border and by activation of their arms against Israel. We were compelled also

Prison Camp Survivor Played Dead, Escaped

VI THANH, South Vietnam (AP) — Trembling, the man in the black shorts crouched in the mud of the Mekong River delta. An ugly wound about five inches long gaped in the back of his head.

About 100 yards away were the burned out remains of a Viet Cong prisoner of war camp where the man said he had been held captive, and then had played dead in a mass grave to survive a prisoner massacre.

Vietnamese and U.S. military authorities in this delta area more than 100 miles south of Saigon said the Viet Cong killed 41 prisoners, including some women and children, when government forces swept through. Seven persons, including the man with the head wound, were known to have survived. Three of these, including a 17-year-old girl, were wounded.

A reconnaissance company from the 21st Vietnamese Division guarded the camp today while intelligence personnel examined the bodies and sifted through the ashes of buildings.

"The arms on one man's body were bound tightly behind his back with wire. Some had been shot. Others stabbed or cut, apparently with bayonets or machetes.

Vietnamese troops first moved into the prison camp Sunday and found a number of captives slain. Then, because of heavy contact with the Viet Cong in a nearby area, they moved on.

Rail, Welfare Unions Strike

Transit Pact Ends Keystone Walkout

NEW YORK (AP) — A 27 1/2-hour strike for higher pay by Philadelphia transit workers ended today just as 7,000 New York City welfare workers were walking out of their jobs and the 12-state operation of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was threatened by a sudden walkout of 1,300 teletype and telephone operators.

In Philadelphia, bus trolley and subway service resumed quickly for 1 million riders in the nation's fourth largest city.

Despite the welfare department walkout, New York City officials assured the city's 600,000 clients their checks would go out on time.

The railroad said early reports indicated the strike and picketing by members of the Transportation Communication Employees Union had not disrupted scheduled long-haul service. A spokesman said a temporary restraining order against the union will be sought in U.S. District Court at Baltimore.

The tentative agreement, subject to ratification by the Philadelphia Transportation Co. Board and members of Local 234, Transport Workers Union, provides a 51-cent hourly package increase—42 cents in direct wages—in a two-year contract.

Settlement was reached after Mayor James Tate's labor adviser brought TWU and PTC negotiators back to the bargaining table for the first time since Friday. It took four hours to hammer out terms, with the announcement coming at 3:30 a.m.

By the morning rush hour, transit service was near normal. Railroads reported they hauled nearly twice as many commuters.

It seemed certain the transit firm would seek a quick fare increase—and the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission scheduled a meeting in Harris-

Figures Defying Flat Look

By NHEA STEWART
Special Herald Writer

NEW YORK—Since the birth control pill came into general use, women have been wearing larger brassieres.

That bit of information came to light at a luncheon for fashion editors attending the American Designer Series spring openings. Olga, who makes foundation garments, confirmed that fewer A cups, and more B cups, are being sold.

What effect this change in the female figure will have on the clothes that women wear was not made clear during the question-and-answer exchange between editors and the country's leading designers, who have been pretending that the female figure is perfectly flat and making clothes that give it that look.

Sex reared its head at another point when the designers were asked about the current tendency of young men and young women to approximate each other's style of dress so that, meeting a couple on the street, one can hardly tell which is which.

The most cogent comment on this came from Rudi Gernreich, who once tried to get men and women to wear the same kind of bathing suit—topless.

"Young people are trying to communicate with one another

The new look is the "important leg" say all fashion designers. It's noted here in this slim little dress by Oscar de La Renta. He divides it into purple and white and shocking pink and white versions of the same print, crops it well above the knee and adds stockings of the same colors.

BOOK AGREEMENT

NEW YORK (AP) — A spokesman for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said today an agreement had been reached in Mrs. John F. Kennedy's dispute with author William Manchester over publication of his book, "The Death of a President." The spokesman said lawyers for parties to the dispute would obtain a consent decree shortly in Mrs. Kennedy's suit against publication.

Peace Words And Moves?

There was a curious tendency in some places—Wall Street for instance—to take the President's State of the Union message last week as one which was relatively mild on the question of war in Vietnam, and some vague kind of respite, and some greater possibility for peace.

Wall Street's hard practical interest would be its realization that its economy can't stand much more war without finding itself exchanging its present property for hard, restricted times.

There was, analysis of the President's words seems to show, some valid ground for judging that the President has chosen not to indulge in much more escalation in Vietnam.

He showed more distaste for the war in Vietnam than before when he classified it as a "great evil" made necessary only in order to ward off a greater evil.

He related more than once to our design to fight a "limited war."

He pledged that we would "firmly pursue our present course" and that "we will stand firm in Vietnam."

And the President defined the test he saw the American people facing in Vietnam in the coming terms:

"Whether we can fight a war of limited objectives over a period of time, and keep alive the hope of independence and stability for people other than ourselves, whether we can continue to act with restraint when the temptation to 'get it over with' is inviting but dangerous; whether we can accept the necessity of choosing a great evil in order to ward off a greater; whether we can do these without arousing the hatreds and the passions that are ordinarily loosened in such a situation; on all these questions so much turns."

Such the potentially significant passages in the President's State of the Union Message.

The impression the President's words foster is that he has decided our effort has now come to as much of a peak as is needed to satisfy our policy requirements in Vietnam. The thing we need most from now on, he said at one point, is patience.

Meanwhile, there are a few things in the news which may represent something more than words in a speech. The report from Washington is that a ceiling has indeed been set on the size of the force we will maintain in Vietnam.

And there is in the diplomatic news one of those small events which everybody immediately says should not be considered very important, but which nevertheless could be very important.

aidians must have given some kind of signal that it might be a good idea to hold such a meeting now. And everybody's saying that there would be nothing important about it, or nothing in particular to be expected from it, could be the proper kind of low key announcement designed to give the first real move toward a peace a fair chance to get itself into gear.

Why Our Population Is Exploding

The most interesting theory we have encountered about the world's supposed population problem comes from a young Russian scientist, and the thing we like best about his theory is that it eliminates, with one bold thrust of the imagination, all the dire disaster theories which have hitherto dominated the field.

His name is Igor Zabelin, and it is his theory that this old earth is in process of building itself a great population surplus because it is going to space in order to explore, conquer, and populate outer space.

Our population explosion is, in this theory, not a disaster, but a preparation for the new role we are about to undertake. We are "getting ready to carry out new functions of life."

There is no longer any doubt, says Mr. Zabelin, that mankind is going to resettle other planets, and establish all kinds of life stations on artificial satellites.

"But would it," he asks, "be possible to conquer the solar system, relying only on three billion human beings?"

"It would, of course, be impossible," he says. "Consequently, two very striking facts—the explosive growth of mankind and the exploration of space—do not coincide by accident. Coinciding in logic of man's travel into space, it must admit the logic of the explosive growth of the population. We must admit that it is imperative, inevitable and, consequently, irreversible."

This first obvious fascination with this theory is for its beckoning invitation to get on to producing, and to head on out into the adventure of infinite space.

But it is also pleasing to notice that in Mr. Zabelin's world, there seems no room for any of the traditional evils of men of the population explosion syndrome. Starvation and famine, war and plague, the traditional solutions to problems of overpopulation are not needed in the Zabelin prognosis. For all we know, his calculation of the extra billions we may need to conquer space may be based on his estimate of casualties involved in the leap from one solar system to another. But he is quite right, we think, not to consider less just on any such venture as casualties in the ordinary sense, and thus, even though space may kill even more than all the wars and famines and plagues in human history, the freedom he offers remains a happy, exhilarating one. How will we know when we have bred enough people? When space runs out of space.

Your Property Taxes

For tax purposes, your property could be assessed, say, twice as much as its actual value. Cases of unfair and unequal assessment are much more common than most people imagine. Your local community assessors and your state's (probably archaic and inadequate) property tax laws are well worth looking into.

A correspondent of this newspaper reports that gross inequities in valuation characterize many American communities. Two homes in the same town are of comparable value, yet the amount of taxes assessed and paid on them can vary tremendously.

Why? Because many assessors whether appointed or elected, are poorly qualified to perform their task. They have little idea how to determine property values. Many never actually see the property they are assessing. They are, moreover, often paid a salary so low that a professional appraiser could not afford even to consider taking the job.

The low pay can lead to the taking of bribes. A number of recent successful prosecutions of tax assessors for bribery would indicate that this means of supplementing one's income has become all too common.

Professional organizations of assessors is working to raise standards through education and professional ratings. But this alone is not enough. What is most needed to bring about mammoth tax assessment reform is for the people to understand what they have at stake. Property taxes, exceeded only by the federal income tax, come to $25 billion a year.

Inside Report

WASHINGTON — Instead of rejoicing over the humiliating succession of defeats suffered by Speaker John McCormack and his Democratic leadership in an opening day in the House of Representatives, a few thoughtful Republican congressmen are deeply troubled.

In truth, Tuesday's (Jan. 10) events suggest the only difference between this year's House Republicans and last year's is a matter of 47 additional bodies. In truth, there was no evidence of the promised new look away from negativism. They looked just on any such venture as casualties in the ordinary sense, and thus, even though space may kill even more than all the wars and famines and plagues in human history, the freedom he offers remains a happy, exhilarating one.

That means concentrating almost obsessively on winning individual roll calls without regard to long-term strategy. Considering the non-leadership given by the aging McCormack, those chances for short-term success may be so frequent for the Republicans this year as to ruin their chances for victory in 1968.

Consider their handling of the Adam Clayton Powell affair. For tax purposes, your property could be assessed, say, twice as much as its actual value. Cases of unfair and unequal assessment are much more common than most people imagine.

Members of the Wednesday Group, an alliance of House Republican liberals, were surprised and shocked that Ford was letting the Democrats off the racial hook (justified though Powell's ouster would be). Rep. William Cahill of New Jersey argued against it in caucus. Others Wednesday afternoon bled privately with Ford.

To no avail. Powell was voted out of his seat the next day under Republican leadership. In fact, Ford could have kept a majority of House Republicans from unseating Powell had he tried. Rep. Page Belcher of Oklahoma represented numerous Republicans when he proposed, during the caucus, that Powell be summarily kicked out of Congress without even the investigation suggested by Ford.

That caucus again showed that Ford must model his actions to suit rural conservative congressmen representing a minority of national opinion but a majority of House Republicans. Their intolerance of frequent deviations toward liberalism by Wednesday Group members was displayed in one unreported incident at the Monday caucus.

Rep. Arthur Younger of California unexpectedly proposed that Republican congressmen fail to follow the party line in support of committee assignments. Rep. Glenn Davis of Wisconsin next proposed a specific substitute. Republicans with party regularly of less than 50 per cent as determined by Congressional Quarterly should be limited to one committee and restricted in seniority.

These moves were quickly beaten down by strong opposition from Ford and, surprisingly, from conservative Rep. Albert Watson of South Carolina, who explained he had bolted Ford's Michigan proposal because of just such discipline. But Ford nevertheless threw a bone to the Younger-Davis conservative group by proposing that Negro voters be quickly stripped of their voting rights.

"We Need Freshman Football" To the Editor, It is beyond my comprehension how the school board can expect the Manchester school system to operate a successful athletic program without sufficient financing. The high school, as well as the two junior high schools, are expected to carry out their athletic programs, pay for the equipment, transportation, and officials, through income from ticket sales, bake sales, etc. This sounds realistic, but it is quite obvious to anyone close to the athletic program that this cannot be done and cannot begin to meet the necessary expenditures. Last fall, Dave Wiggin tried to sell parents and interested citizens one thousand tickets for the football games in order to raise the necessary funds to purchase much needed equipment. I believe he was able to sell only around 300 tickets. It is unreasonable to expect that the sale of tickets will support the athletic program at the high school or at junior high schools, where they conduct bake sales, etc. In order to carry out the best athletic program they can, I feel that the school administrators, teachers and coaches deserve tremendous applause for doing without financial support appropriated by the school board and with only what meager funds they themselves have been able to raise.

In this day and age, where physical fitness is so strongly stressed and is so obviously important, we should be encouraging our youth to participate in athletics. A good sports program should be most important. I do not believe anyone would dispute this. Why then shouldn't the school board recognize that a strong and well managed athletic program is necessary and beneficial to the well being of the youth of Manchester by supporting the funds necessary to support and provide these programs? We need freshman football in Manchester. After the initial expense, the program can be continued at a very nominal rate. We are indeed very fortunate to have a fine high school coach and staff in football, so let's support these gentlemen by supporting freshman football.

Other sports programs need equipment and financial help. It is a fair question to ask whether the public's secret horse of accident investigations that he said would be a relationship between car design and accident injuries.

Among nobles invited to the conference were Dr. William Hadden Jr., administrator of the National Highway Safety Agency; Dr. Robert Bremner, the agency's deputy administrator; Daniel P. Moynihan, director of the Joint Center for Urban Studies; and Dr. David M. Boodman of the Arthur D. Little research firm of Cambridge, Mass.

General manager of the National Safety Council, Dr. Donald R. Little, research firm of Cambridge, Mass. The conference was held at the Harvard Club, Manchester, Conn.

The New Assessments: By this time all Manchester property owners have received their new assessments. The large number of people who appeared to seek answers to questions about sharply increased assessments indicated a mounting concern over the steep upswing of both assessments and future tax bills.

Most people who I have contacted report increases ranging from 25 per cent to 60 per cent. However, many others were dismayed by increases of 70 per cent to 150 per cent. In a sense, our preoccupation with the cause of assessments—the first collision—led us to ignore the cause of beatings and injuries—which are the result of the second collision," Ribicoff said.

He said the auto industry's position "is a tragic situation in that it is now because the manufacturers are not all wrong, we do lack some important data—but more tragically, another reason because of our own intelligence and a few facts tell us that one area in which we can make substantial efforts with current data is the design of the automobile itself."

Ribicoff said common sense dictated the installation of seat-belt features that would protect passengers from ejection and from injuries caused by striking the dashboard and other objects inside the car.

"How much better off the automobile industry and the American people and the cause of traffic safety would be if the manufacturers would stop arguing about why they can't meet the safety standards and start competing to see who can make the most attractive, economical and safer automobile," Ribicoff said.

At the same time, he said, the driver and the road—"the two other sides of the traffic equation"—should not be neglected.

He told the insurance men in his prepared text that you have more information and access to more information than anyone else in the industry.

"And I would hope that one result of this conference would be a decision and commitment on your part for industry-wide effort to fill the knowledge gap."

The non-unity mood persisted when Illinois Rep. Edward Derwinski, an indefatigable backer of Republican liberals, accused the Wednesdayers for not backing Ford in a 1965 runoff fight.

At the end of the caucus, Ford did beat down a move by Rep. J. Alton Smith of California to join Southern Democrats in re-nominating the House Rules Committee as a condition for joining Great Society legislation.

Yet, in the confusion on the House floor the next day, Ford's Republicans wound up backing and carrying the House Rules Committee. In the heat of battle, they simply could not resist combining in a negative alliance with their old Democratic comrades—precisely what Ford wanted to avoid.

Join Safe Car Race, Ribicoff Asks Detroit

HARTFORD (AP)—The auto industry should stop arguing about why it cannot meet the safety standards and start competing to see who can first deliver a safer car, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff said today.

The Connecticut Democrat attacked the industry's contention that it could not meet several federal safety standards for 1967 models because their effectiveness had not been proven.

"Indeed, there is a vast shortage in our knowledge about traffic safety. But to hold up the construction of safer cars until we have absolute proof is a reckless argument," Ribicoff said.

He was the principal speaker at a traffic safety conference arranged by the Travelers Insurance Companies, several auto safety authorities and the House of Representatives on Tuesday in Hartford, a center of the insurance industry.

Ribicoff said the insurance industry should make a direct contribution to auto safety research and gathering of uniform data.

He told the insurance men in his prepared text that you have more information and access to more information than anyone else in the industry.

"And I would hope that one result of this conference would be a decision and commitment on your part for industry-wide effort to fill the knowledge gap."

Actually, key House Republicans—Ford, Melvin Laird of Wisconsin and particularly Charles Goodell of New York—want to build a more positive image appealing to younger voters and to transcend party events on opening day merely revealed formidable forces operating to keep the Republicans from their old immobile self.

Pre-Inc's Smart

LIMA, Peru — Even before the great Inca Empire, the "Pre-Inca" had developed a high degree of civilization. Before A.D. 800, between the 11th and 13th centuries the Incas appeared in the Cuzco Empire and gradually extended their domination until, in the 16th century, they were crushed by the Spanish.

The second collision is the crash of the cockpit of a car against the dashboard, steering wheel or windshield.

Negro Government Seated For First Time in Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—The first Negro government today, but despite the political quagmire, has proceeded as before.

Tourists who jammed Nassau roads down Bay Street apparently as oblivious to the political turmoil as were the hordes pulling away from the pink surreys.

But among residents in the 70-island chain stretching from near Florida to near Cuba, the talk was about Premier-designate Lynden O. Pindling, cruise ship and harbor facilities and providing convention quarters.

Will his party embark on radical policies that could reduce tourism, the principal Bahamas industry, should be increased by extending airline, cruise ship and harbor facilities and providing convention quarters.

Last year, 85,000 tourists visited the sub-tropical haven only minutes by plane from the United States.

But if he is going to broaden his interest politically—and it's obvious to me that he should—I think he ought to have a bigger staff of people who are experts in the problems involving national government and our international relations.

Rates Will Increase

SNETCO to Expand Area Toll-Free Calls
Sometime late next year Manchester and Rockville telephone subscribers will be able to call several more exchanges toll-free.

The Public Utilities Commission has given Southern New England Telephone Co. permission to eliminate toll charges on long distance calls.

The change represents a reversal for Rockville customers, who in 1962 rejected an extension of service plan. But early last year a committee of Rockville residents circulated a petition urging extension of toll-free calling.

Rockville residence phones, according to the September announcement of the plan, would go up from $3.70 to $4.26 for private lines, and $4.88 for party lines, and $1.70 for four-party lines.

The plan, according to Lyman B. Hoops, Manchester SNETCO office manager, will eliminate some 840,000 long-distance calls annually from Manchester.

In order to bring the extended service to the 100,000 6th year next year, SNETCO will spend $2,500,000 for complex switching equipment and install thousands of miles of wire.

Other exchanges where rate boosts will take effect are Farmington, East Hartford, Windsor Locks, Simsbury and Windsor.

Rate increases for residential customers will be 30 cents a month, business customers 50 cents.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 and tomorrow from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Dakotas, Montana Hit By Snow, Wind, Cold

Blizzard conditions in the Dakotas and Montana caused power failures and extensive damage that totaled 18 planes smashed at the airport.

The storm had little effect on the snow in Montana where wind-blown snow piled up to 86 inches.

Lighter snow and a rain-snow mixture extended from Wyoming eastward along the southern edge of the storm. This was expected to reach the southern edge of the storm.

Water runs into grotesque formations, giving a white coating to the buildings and trees.

Destroyed were about 1,300 automobiles, some valued as high as $100,000, construction equipment, school buses and other property.

Officials said the fire started at the year of a school set up in the vicinity of the main exhibition hall.

Increasing the merit pay for teachers participating in the union were as follows: $400 and $500.

Increasing the point value of extra-curricular to $10 per hour, replacing the present system by "a more acceptable method" and compensating teachers for participation in extra-curricular activities.

Eliminating assigned duties for teachers at all school functions such as dances, plays and athletic events.

Eliminating the salary differential for all 15 classes of graduate study and the salary differential for all 15 classes of graduate study.

Providing for full Blue Cross, CMAA and major medical coverage for both individuals and families to be paid by the town; and for a $3,000 minimum life insurance policy for each staff member, also to be paid by the town.

The union said that whenever a teacher is required to perform more than half a class period for another, he should receive compensation at the rate of $4 for each period.

Scale would amount to $9,750 with a bachelor's degree. Other minimum maxima in the union's (MFT) proposal are as follows: Master's degree, $7,000; Ph.D., $11,850; doctorate, $9,750 to $13,150.

The proposal would also add another schedule for teachers with a master's degree, plus 60 hours of additional preparation.

The union suggested adding this schedule on the grounds that more teachers would work for the city and almost 100,000 children would be in school.

Papers Filed Principal Will Brief Board In Rt. 6 Case On Activities Fund Deficits

The Board of Education, which is in the midst of preparing next year's budget, met tonight at 8 in the board hearing room to continue salary negotiations with teachers' representatives.

It also will hear from Manchester High School Principal Raymond Rogers on the condition of the student activities fund, which may have an impact on its budget request.

Rogers report was held over from last week's session. He has asked to bring the board up to date on the status of the fund, which for the past couple of years has been running a deficit.

He has said Superintendent of Schools William Curtis the condition of the fund is now "rather critical" because of continued declining revenues from athletic events and other student activities.

According to Rogers, year-end accounting of the fund showed deficits both last year and the year before, and the deficit is now $946.

The requested teachers' salary schedule would raise the current budget by $150,400.

Inside Red China

Guards Control, Mao Sole Deity

The Red Guards are everywhere in Canton, jammed on the pavement outside my hotel, milling in continuous procession along the main streets, accounting everyone during their duty Mao's thoughts. They tolerate no opposition.

At every mealtime—delicate Cantonese congee, pork and chop suey—I sat under a red banner that said: "Chairman Mao is the most outstanding leader of the proletariat in the present era, and the greatest genius in the present era—Lin Biao."

The fanatical campaign is detaching China. Every building in Canton is being draped with red banners. The posters, painted in the streets, characters on orders from the town committee.

The tension is bordering on mass hysteria. Everyone is being told constantly that the present fight against the class enemy ranks with the October revolution. If you do not do 70 million people long enough, someone will soon demand action.

That is the mood here, volatile, hysterical, apprehensive. The city of three million now has another million strangers on its streets who have swarmed in from the countryside. They are all in their teens and 20s. They are through the pavement, discussing in impromptu groups and holding mass sing-songs.

When I looked out my bedroom window from the Yang-Chang Hotel at 4:30 in the morning, they were still at it, about 2,000 teenagers, squatting on the pavement, singing the thoughts of Mao.

Although I saw long early morning queues at a central food market, there did not appear to be shortages of vegetables or fresh meat. The queues were of old women, apparently anxious to be first for the choicest cuts. The favorite dishes: Monday's and dog meat, Tuesday's chicken, Wednesday's fish, Thursday's beef, Friday's pork, Saturday's lamb, Sunday's turkey.

The public rooms were cavernous and echoing—what I call

Police Chief James Reardon says the number had to be changed because another town resident with a similar number was getting too many wrong calls.

When the number was first put up, it was a "rink," the owner told Reardon. "It was a mistake."

Weiss Again Limits Budget Hikes to 5%

Town Manager Robert Weiss, for the second consecutive year, has established the policy of allowing a five per cent increase in departmental requests for next year's budget.

In preparing for a five per cent maximum increase in the 1967-68 General Fund Budget, Weiss is saying, in effect, that the 4.2 mill tax rate will be cut and that the town will not try to take advantage of increased assessments based on revaluation.

The board then will have until April 7 to conduct a public hearing on the manager's budget and will have until May 7 to adopt its own budget and set a tax rate.

The New York strike by members of the Independent School Service Employees Union—caseworkers, homebound teachers and school nurses—came as negotiations continued at the office of the city labor relations director, Herbert Haber.

The union has been seeking an increase in starting pay from the present $5,700 to $6,800 a year. The effect of the strike was reduced by the union's agreement to accept the offer.

Commuter service in the Pittsburgh area was disrupted when other B&O personnel observed the picket lines. The B&O operates in New York, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri, Illinois, Virginia and Michigan.

The B&O points on the system would be affected by continuation of the picket lines, according to a management spokesman. The B&O is the sixth largest railroad in the United States. A management spokesman described the computers causing the jurisdictional dispute. "The basic cash fare now is 25 cents a ride, with an extra nickel for a transfer. But when the strike can buy tokens at 10 for $2.00. It is expected PTC may ask that token almost at once, and the current student fare of 8 cents increased to a dime."

Skating Coasting

Good ice skating conditions were reported today at both Charter Oak Park and Center Springs. Skating is expected to continue until 10 o'clock tonight.

There is no coasting or aking. The board then will have until April 7 to conduct a public hearing on the manager's budget and will have until May 7 to adopt its own budget and set a tax rate.

2 Requests Before ZBA

A short agenda—two items—will be considered tonight by the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals. Public hearings on the two items will be held at 8 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The Town of Manchester is seeking a temporary variance for about 1 1/2 acres of Rural Residence zoned land off the south side of Toland Type. The two-lot parcel would be leased to the Allied Casting Co., to be used for the open storage of manufactured building sections. Allied, which manufactured many of the precast concrete slabs at Constitution Plaza, has a multi-million dollar contract to furnish facings for the addition to New York's Bellevue Hospital. It needs the town land for about two years to store the facing forms.

The Ro-Jac Construction Co. is seeking a variance to erect an attached garage at 27 Francis Dr. for John W. Klein. The garage would be about 41 feet from the street line and would be even with the house, which was constructed before the existing zoning rules were effected. Present regulations in Rural Residence Zone require a 50-foot setback.

Police say they stopped the car he was driving after they observed the head lights of the car shining up in the air.

All three are scheduled to appear in court Jan. 30.
