The Candidate's Dilemma Perhaps the time will come-we are always, whether we realize it or not, raveling in ideological cycles in which first the adventurous liberal, then the conservative formula seems to fit our needs and our own instincts - when such a "State of the Union" message as that delivered by the titular leaders of the Republican party in Congress the other night will have an easy time selling itself. Perhaps the time will come when the generally sterile outlook presented by Congressman Ford and Senator Dirksen will suit the mood of the country, and be enough to guarantee the advancement of the Republican party. But the country had a chance at it in 1964, and, although there were special factors in that election which may have obscured the choice, no one will ven ture to claim that the electorate was, in that year, entranced by the opportunity to vote for Congressional Repub-Hean policies as usual.

There was also, if the Republican leadership in Congress itself would try o realize it by looking around at some of the newcomers the electorate sent to Washington last Nov. 8. a test then of what kind of Republicanism has chance of creating a wide appeal. New Senators like Percy, Hatfield and Brooke may eventually be absorbed into Senator Dirksen's establishment, most open challenge to it and its assumptions.

But nothing, neither analysis of repeated national defeat, nor of occasional national victory, has altered the essential spirit and pattern of Republican Congressional leadership in the last 30 years. It is still campaigning to repeal the New Deal at home and to distrust all foreign policy from Democratic Presidents.

This is, so long as the country itself remains in anything like its present climate, the perennial millstone the Republican Congressional leadership offers its potential Presidential candi-

And it helps lead these Presidential candidate into quandaries from which there is no easy escape.

The normal Presidential candidate does not want to offend the powerful Republican establishment at Washington if he can help it. At the same tim he realizes, if he has any intelligence, that he must keep himself free to move outside the position usually taken by that Washington establishment. If, in addition to this problem of keeping an open relationship with the various elements in his own party, the potential candidate finds himself confronted with an issue which is in itself most difficult, then he is almost certain to be trapped, for a time, in a situation in which he seems to be talking from both sides of his mouth. This is now happening, to a visible extent, to Governor George Romney of Michigan, on the issue of Vietnam. In addition to his own personal convictions on the issue, whatever they may beand they may well be just like those of many other Americans, which would mean they are beyond any easy or clear resolution one way or the other -Governor Romney in his candidate's position must have an almost unconquerable strategical instinct to keep himself free to be less of a hawk than Dirksen or more of a hawk than Johnson-to adopt, in fact, whatever style of wing and flight which seems likely to look best in the sky along toward November 1968.

With Governor Romney under the sontrol of such necessities and such instincts, his handling of the issue is likely to prove confusing. And when, as the other day, he holds an informal session with some of the nation's leading newsmen, to make his position clear, but still plays the game of trying to preserve all his own future options, he brings down upon himself a particularly cruel fate. He succeeds so well in being all things to all men that each orrespondent attending the session thinks Governor Romney has taken the position the correspondent himself sinks he should take, and so the Govmor emerges once more as a split personality, a potential dove to doves, hopeful hawk to the hawks. What could a Presidential candidate, wanting to run in 1968, do on the Vietnam issue at this stage? Who would advise him to put all his eggs into one basket and lock them there until everybody sees what 1968 conditions hatch Would anybody advise such a hopeful character as Governor Romney to go to extremes of candor, and admit that he doesn't quite know for sure just where he stands, and intends to let a few of his own basic principles shape his policies in relation to the situation itself as it keeps evolving? Or would most of us, if we were

which proved, in the actual event, the mission in which he decided to take the peace without victory truce in Korea President Truman had not dared take, for fear of being thought soft on the Communists.

Without Vision, A Railroad

Mournfully late in the day-so late it no longer seems to have much relation to reality-there comes, out of the mouths of bold entrepreneurs from the Mid-West, the assertion that the New Haven Railroad, if ever put into the nands of management with a little vision and a little positive desire actually to run a railroad, could prove to be a moneymaker. Chances are we will never know whether such a wild hopeful assertion has some portion of truth in it. Prospects are the railroad will obtain new private management, through inclusion in the proposed merger of the N. Y. Central into Pennsylvania, with perpetual public subsidy, based on the deplorable experience of the past decade. There is a wistful argument why this experience should not be taken seriously. It is that, before and during its bankruptey, the New Haven has been in the hands of management which never managed to take hold of the front end of the problem, and give the railroad its chance of life and health by gambling on what an improvement in its service might do for it. Instead, both private and bankruptcy management has specialized in trying to cut losses in a way which cut stervice and quality of service, and tended to repel old customers instead of attracting new ones.

The bitter possibility involved in this situation is that the good taxpayers of Connecticut and other states have been conned into accepting a perpetual fiwhen, conceivably, the railroad, under capable and aggressive direction, might once again have become a tax asset to the state rather than a liability.

There is a sad possibility that the best interests of the public and the best interests of the Railroad itself, and the best interests of all its creditors have all been sacrificed to the singular and often insolent lack of vision which has been occupying the cab during these sad downgrade years.

Was There A Bow?

It took a combination of low sun and high cloud, and, for the ultimate effect a very quiet mid-afternoon air, to produce the particular picturesqueness of that snow flurry in the sun the other

The flakes were separated at such intervals, and danced so quietly down they looked something like the snowstorm on a Christmas card in the days when Christmas cards had snow. But the unusualness of the display, what made it so much unlike the usual flurry or squall, was the fact that, to the side o the squall area, the January sun was wide open, taking it all in, touching each twisting flake with a glint of its own

One would not bother to look on such an occasion, except into one's own imagination, for the snowbow that might have been arched across the northern sky. It would be, one thinks, a little like a great arch of vari-tinted crystal candy, never as vivid and sharp and clearly banded as the summer rainbow, fainter than a jet's vapor trail, but full of shifting shimmer and sparkle. Perhaps we should have looked. ____

True, retailers had cut prices by only a few cents, and Britons were still paying about 70 cents a pack. But in thes days of inflation, in Britain as in the U.S., even small savings are welcome. To eliminate price reductions, the Imperial Tobacco Co. plans to cut of supplies to any store that sells smokes at less than the factory-dictated price If necessary, warns a spokesman, Im perial won't hesitate to haul competition-minded retailers into court. He goes on to say, apparently with a straight face, that the price-fixing move will benefit the public by preventing "disruption of distribution" that's how consumers will be the res winners as the price war ends. The East Cheered McCallum

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What happens when a television idol tours the Orient? The same thing as when he tours the United States—only more so.

That's the testimony of David McCallum, just back from a seven-day journey that took him to Anchorage, Alaska; Tokyo, Hong Kong, Singapore; Perth and Sydney, Australia, and re-turn via Honolulu. Since "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." appears in all those places, the reception for the show's Riya ranged from warm to tumultuous.

"I realized the extent of Uncle's reach when I was walking down a jungle path behind the Raffles Hotel in Singapore," said the Scottish actor. "Along came a native who looked as if he lived in the jungle. But he smiled broadly and shouted: 'Hlya!'"

McCallum found the biggest crowds were in Japan, where he faced the most massive press conference he has ever seen. There he was asked the same questions that-recurred throughout the tour.

What about his foud with costar Robert Vaughn? McCallum smiled and said that they get along amazingly well while working and go their separate ways afterward—"He has his politics, and I have my life."

How did he feel about the war in Vietnam? Unlike anti-Viet Vaughn, McCallum said he had no categorical opinions about

The series is particularly disappointing because it is the first product of Danny Thomas' new partnership with Aaron Spelling after those great years with Sheldon Leonard. They turned out the "Dick Van Dyke Show," "The Andy Griffith Show" and Thomas' own comedy series, all of them programs of quality, substance and individuality.

Seven of the second season's 10 shows have moved into the schedules. ABC replaces "12 O'clock High" with "The Avengers" next Friday-but this hardly counts as a new series since it was a slick British import that quietly attracted a following last spring and summer when it was also a replacement. Toward the end of the month "Coliscum," a variety series, will replace CBS's "Jericho," a good adventure show but a retings failure. run out, and it is known that he would prefer to star in occasional specials instead of in a weekly variety show.

NBC once planned "The Saint" as a regular weekly program, and if it finds favor weather replacement show, it might win a place in next season's schedule.

ABC is proceeding with plans to shoot "Silent Night" season. It is to be part of the "Stage 67" series, so presumably that anthology program, will be around next year. It is almost definite, however, that it will not have a fixed day and

Regular Savings Accounts Interest is paid at the rate of 4% per year, from day of deposit to day of withdrawal, compounded quarterly. You never lose any interest your money has earned-even when you make withdrawals before the end of an interest period. You can make deposits or withdrawals at any Hartford National Office and no advance notice of withdrawal is ever required. This is the right account for your "standby" fundsearning interest yet always available immediately.

Preferred Passbook Accounts This new type of account, available to businesses and individuals, pays you interest at the rate of 5%, credited quarterly. You receive a personal Preferred Passbook which is non-negotiable. No easy-to-lose certificates. No concern about renewal dates. Preferred Passbook Accounts are available with a minimum balance of $2,500, and additional deposits of $100 or more can be made at any time. Withdrawals are made by giving the bank 90 days advance notice. This is the way to earn higher interest on money you're less likely to need right away.

Certificates of Deposit available in minimum amounts of $25,000. Interest rates depend on how long you agree to leave the money on deposit. Contact your nearest Hartford National office for details. This is an excellent Chock-Savings

Being a successful saver is less a matter of interest rates than it is of making regular deposits. Hartford National can make systematic savings entirely automatic. With Check-Savings, you simply instruct the bank to transfer $10 or more from your checking account for this service. This is an excellent way to assure yourse of a growing savings account for your family's financial Club Accounts

Club accounts (such as Christmas Clubs and Vacation Clubs) don't pay any interest, but thousands of individuals find them to be an ideal way to put a little aside each week. The bank gives you a book of coupons, with which to make your regular weekly deposits. This is a useful and convenient way to acquire that "special purpose" nest egg.

If Savings Bonds are a part of your investment program, Hartford National is a convenient place to buy them. We can also arrange a bond-a-month program for you and help you make sure that those bonds are safe and secure in a Hartford National Safe Deposit box. Savings Bonds are an increasingly attractive investment for many individuals and families.

One or more of these savings services can play an important part in your financial planning. And they're all available at one convenient location: the nearest office of Hartford National, your full-service bank.

Gas heat costs so little you can afford to let your house 'breathe' once in a while!

Open windows can carry a big price tag, if you pick another way to heat your house - either because the heating method is too expensive to begin with, or because it's been getting more expensive every year.

GAS heat has quite another story to tell.

Right here in the Hartford area, the cost of gas heat has gone down nearly 25% over the last 13 years. You can't beat THAT for economy.

Inflation A Remedy For Inflation? One will find the President's special message to Congress on "Older Americans" full of compassionate sentiment for the nation's elderly, and properly

But one will not find, anywhere in the message, any recognition of the economic facts which have made such compassion so timely. And that is not quite proper. For real solicitude for the elderly segment of our population would require an effort to provide them with a brand of security which is solid and sound, and not just another kind of entry into the inflationary rat-race in which all Americans of all ages and classes now seem condemned to partici-

The same President who showed such generous and spectacular compassion in the message yesterday - his prostatistical advance for social security payments since the establishment of the more valuable running opportunities to show his real solicitude. He has had which might have protected the content and the value of the dollars the nation's aged were already receiving, or had already saved.

Instead, like most political officeholders. President Johnson has, in the clutch, considered inflation his friend and a peril much more pleasant to live with than the peril of a pause or decline in the economic cycle. He, along with less responsible elements in the business and speculative communities, has chosen to consider perpetual bonanza a system to live by.

It is a consequence of that choice that the squeeze of actual privation has come upon those of the elderly who fixed incomes, or protect the content of their own particular dollars.

And it is in attempted cure of this evil that the President now proposes to Congress that we attach the social security system to the same inflationary spiral that is governing all the other transactions in the nation's living to-

But bringing the social security system into the inflationary cycle does not make the inflation itself any sounder, or more stationary, and it can, at best, give the social security system Itself only a temporary hoist up alongside the general balloon. To the contrary, the President's cure increases the peril to the whole national economy. and to the social security system itself, because it itself is one more great artificial speeding up of whole inflationary process.

When the President now proposes increases as high as 59 per cent in some social security payments, to be financed by increases of as much as 20 per cent in present social security taxes, he is not even catching up with the inflation he is chasing. The nightmare ahead is that increases of many hundreds of per cent in both payments and taxes would not catch up, and that the system would be trying to collect so much and pay so much, statistically, that it would all become a bookkeeping of impoverishment and less and less real security for anybody. To try to help the elderly by fighting inflation would, on the other hand, help not only the elderly, but the whole economy and that economic part of the American dream which should be shared by everybody.

But, at North Main and North, no such modern town efficiency is needed. There, in a touch of village charm and village efficiency combined, the best voluntary helper the town has ever had, the North End's own most distinguished citizenress, Nellie Fay, has long assumed personal responsibility for the proper clearing of that drain and of the gutter leading toward it. Those who have been privileged to watch Nellie Fay's personal stewardship of the corner on which she lives have long been of the opinion that she deserves title and recognition from the town she serves. She should be, at least, an assistant director of public works.

But there is, if her friends and admirers must tell the whole truth, something about her performance which is more impressive than her obvious employment of engineering skill. It is the sight of her indomitable figure, as impervious to the vicissitudes of the weather as ever during her career at the Post Office and her honoring of its famous motto, cheerfully intent upon its volunteer task. At times when the rest of us perhaps feel lethargic facing even our own routine obligations, the sight of the Assistant Public Works Director performing far beyond the call of obligation or duty is an inspiration and a challenge, and gives all of us who really want to live in our world a good, warm feeling. One old illness the new House of Representatives at Hartford has inherited from the old. In deed, we are not sure it isn' well on the way to devedoping a worse case than the House ever had.

The disease in question is the one called resolutionitis, and it is, as a general proposition, the silliest energy-consuming, time wasting, printing-expense dislegislative body can Despite its obvious contag ions and waste of human ene gies and state resources, the disease has its warm-hearted defenders, who claim it is n disease at all, but, to the col trary, one of those useful in dulgences which makes th world go around a little more pleasantly. If it is a disease ie defense suggests, it is the kind of disease, like kindness thoughtfulness, or euphori this sad and hard-boiled world might stand more of. Besides, its defenders add resolutionitis can also be de fended as a kind of gentle in noculation, or vaccination, building up capacity for the more serious perils of a legis lative session. So it was, at any rate, the Setting of instructors' salaries, however, is by far the largest single consideration in establishment of the school budget each year; and until the services in the school budget each year; and until the services in the school budget each year; and until the services in the school budget each year; and until the services in the services of the new scale —an actual pay boost of the school budget each year; and until the services of the new scale —an actual pay boost o budget each year; and until the item is settled. Superintendent of Schools William Curtis cannot build a firm over-all operating budget.

In reaching the compromise last night during their fourth current negotiating session, the two sides resolved differences that at the outset had them more than $43,000 apart.

At the maximum of each schedule, however, the increase would amount to only $400, and this fact caused the MEA to hold out for more at the top, because it said the proposal discriminated against career teachers with the longest service. It noted there are 203 teachers in the system on maximum more than $43,000 apart.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) - South Vietnam's ruling military junta tried to head off another political crisis today following the ouster of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co. He had been deputy premier, defense minister and the leading southerner in the junta dominated by refugees from North Vietnam. Informed Vietnamese source said 20 to 30 supporters of Co. most of them military personnel, had been put under house arrest, and assistants of his on the defense staff were being transferred or watched by security police. Saigon, although filled with rumors, was quiet and there was no indication that the directory of ruling generals was breaking up. But some disgruntlement at the ouster of the southern general was reported among southern leaders in Saigon who resent the northerners'
