

"THE WAY I HEARD IT" by John Gruber

In response to a request of several weeks ago, I'm continuing with my discussion of the more important composers with emphasis on what to listen for in their works, and how to judge a good performance of them.

Although the solo concerto form as we know it today was finally established by Mozart following the structure of the symphony, Vivaldi established what to listen for in their works, and how to judge a good performance of them.

Handel wrote a great many operas which are made up of short pieces and actually have a greater variety of mood than either Vivaldi or Bach, they are made up of short pieces and actually have a greater variety of mood than either Vivaldi or Bach.

The Seat Behind The Pillar

History, like a badly constructed concert hall, has occasional dead spots where the music can't be heard. Everything in the United States today—the boredom of the young, the numbness of the arts and the ineptitude of the politicians—indicates that we are caught in one of them.

Some, of course, have already noticed. Even fifteen years ago when the place was first proposed to us as a few protesters, "Anti-Communism," which meant the denial of the Russian position abroad, looked like a queer location for the United States, a nation which has given to squating in the lee of anything.

But fifteen years ago the whole state of the Union was as unprepared as it seemed easier to laugh. McCarthy, for all the noise he made and harm he did and pain he inflicted, was a figure whose monstrous revelations of treason in the Department of State and disloyalty by the noblest American soldier of the century kept blowing up in his face like a clown's balloons.

And as for the Containment, which meant the redefinition of the American purpose in the world as the negation and denial of the Russian position, it was so palpably inappropriate to a country which had just planned and executed and supplied and fought the greatest victory in military annals that no one but the professional Holy Warriors could take it seriously.

The Truman Doctrine was justified by the Marshall Plan, which had a creative character and a purpose of its own, but nothing could justify the worldwide war of attrition which followed.

That, however, was back before the sixties. Now that the better half of a new decade has pushed its predecessor into the past the perspective alters. McCarthy has disappeared—but only to be replaced by the apparently inter-changeable reek of Communism and Containment has turned into the disaster implicit in it from the start—the disaster of Vietnam.

With the result that what was preposterous in the fifties has become tragic in the sixties. Where the question fifteen years ago was why in the name of sanity and common sense the American revolution, and self-government which was re-drafting the map of Africa and shaping a new society in India and Japan should be betrayed at home—turt into a mere counter-revolution to the Russian, a static and defensive state of negation and denial and overnight fear—the question today is a soberer question.

It is the question whether an unachievable Vietnam is preferable to an unthinkable defeat or an unachievable victory.

Which is not precisely intellectual progress, but does throw light upon the nature of our predicament. It was not when we began to escalate the war in Vietnam or even when we first decided to fight in it ourselves that the mistake was made. It was made when we allowed ourselves to be frightened into "Anti-Communism" as a national policy and posture.

Our involvement in Vietnam is our inheritance from Communism and McCarthy. And it is for that reason more than any other that we get so little sympathy from Europe. For it has long been obvious to European intelligence, even including the intelligence of the Vatican, that "Anti-Communism" is dead as a policy and worse than dead as an intellectual position.

The past cannot, of course, be revised, but there is something to be said for recognizing what it was and where it has left us and what our actual situation is. When, in a hypothetically sane universe, a problem proves insoluble by the exercise of sanity, it is usually because it has been stated in mistaken terms.

Vietnam is insoluble as a military commitment. An unachievable victory is neither better nor worse than an unachievable defeat—it is merely equally unachievable. Though for different reasons. Conceivably, therefore, the problem of Vietnam should not be posed in military terms but in different terms: Terms which would recognize the error of the fifties and move us out from behind the obstructing column. Once we recognize as a nation that "Anti-Communism," like all the rest of the anti-lies, is not an effective policy or, indeed, a policy at all—once we recognize as a nation that the only defense against the purposes of others is a better purpose of our own—we may very possibly regain the freedom of action we have been progressively losing ever since Vietnam began if not since Foster Dulles.

After all, we have a better purpose of our own. It is now evident to anyone who cares to see that it is the Revolution of 1776, not the Revolution of 1917, which is providing the dynamism of the waking world from the west coast of Africa to the islands of Japan—ARCHIBALD MACLEISH IN "THE NEW YORK TIMES"

Woman Landowner Upheld In Mile Hill Zoning Protest

A zone change from residential to business-commercial (C-2) zone, made by the Vernon Fire District Zoning Commission prior to consolidation has been declared "unreasonable, illegal and arbitrary" in a memorandum of decision filed Friday by Judge Joseph R. Grillo in Tolland County Common Pleas Court.

The zone change affected an area of about 20 acres in the area bordered by the Wilbur Cross Highway and Mile Hill and Reservoir Rd.

The suit was instituted by Mrs. Dorothy S. Kloter of Mile Hill Rd. against the zoning commission and the then-owners of the property, Werner Kunzli, Robert J. Pae and Paul Semel. Her appeal was argued Friday by Judge Grillo.

Mrs. Kloter's property, valued at $50,000, is in close proximity to the area involved, and slightly over three acres of her property was rezoned as a result of the commission's decision.

The decision criticized a lack of public knowledge of the facts involved in the change of zone, including the withholding of information by the commission and the applicants.

Three major points stressed by the judge were an undervalued meeting of the commission March 31, 1964, at the home of a commissioner, A. Richard Lombardi, the unjustified assumption by the commission that proposed changes in the zoning were complete.

The private meeting referred to often in the decision, the meeting was attended by commissioners Charles Brown, chairman, Howard F. Huelmann and Norman H. Strong. Also attending were the three petitioners who presented their proposals at the meeting.

According to the decision, the petitioners explained their plans for the area involved.

The "unjustified assumption" by the commission that proposed changes in the zoning were complete, was criticized by the judge.

The commission proceeded on the basis that the changes in the highway patterns were already complete.

The commission's decision is not supported by the factors appearing in the zoning change of zone was granted (by the commission), because it deemed contemporary highway changes indicated best use of the land as commercial and would benefit the community as a whole, rather than the petitioners.

Proposed changes in the Wilbur Cross Highway in the Mile Hill area called for widening the highway, relocating Mile Hill Rd. and improving the interchange.

In change to a C-2 zone would permit the location of motels and restaurants in the area. Rumors abounded at the time of the change that the Johnson motel and restaurant would be located in the area.

The "close, personal relationship" between one of the commissioners, who "failed to disqualify himself," and one of the petitioners involved Commissioner Franklin Welles and his auditor Robert Pae, according to Judge Grillo's memorandum.

On Apr. 23, 1965, to take effect May 21, 1965. The effective date was set before the June 30, 1965 date of consolidation of Vernon and Rockville, which legally disbanded the commission.

The conclusion is inescapable that the information obtained by the commission at the non-public meeting in March, 1964, and at the public hearing in July, 1964, was taken into consideration by the commission in arriving at its conclusions following the meeting in March at Lombardi's home, acting on the expiration of their option.

A public hearing was held on the application for a business classification for a substantial portion of the 30 acres, in July, 1964. The petition was denied "without prejudice."

The applicants resubmitted their petition for a change of zone on Feb. 1, 1966, acting through attorney Charles Brown. An additional parcel was included in the zone change opportunity.

Public Hearing

Grillo criticized the conduct of the public hearing in March, 1966, stating "the alliance on the part of the petitioners was defective."

The commission appeared to consider this hearing a continuation of the previous one, although several months had elapsed," the decision notes.

The commission chairman introduced letters received from the Capitol Region Planning Agency and the planning commission of the Vernon Fire District recommending the change of zone. This was also "the technical planning assistance," according to the decision.

Judge Grillo's decision states these letters introduced to the hearing by the chairman of the commission formed the basis of the information presented.

"The evidence presented in support of the application at the hearing was presented by 10 of those petitioners, but by the chairman of the Commission, the judge's memorandum states that the petitioners' attorney requested the commission to act on behalf of these letters."

According to the decision, the chairman's remarks, "Why Kunzli wants to do this (the zone) only he can tell you," brought no response from Kunzli. His attorney, too, balked at offering any verbal explanation of the proposed plan of operation," according to the decision.

This prompted an opponent to the change to protest that the "burden of proof seemed to be shifted on the opposition," that the "zone change seemed to be a foregone conclusion."

The change of zone was unanimously approved by the commission, acting on a motion made by Commissioner Welles, to be about 70 hours.

A Thought for Today

Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

The other day I went to visit a new family who had purchased an old house. To my amazement, instead of finding the radiant joy so characteristic of new home owners, I found a gloom. After inquiring, I was told that their reason for being and revolved around some newly discovered "dry rot" in the foundation of the house. To all outward appearances the house seemed to be sound, but when the new owners sought to remodel, "dry rot" was discovered beneath the sound looking exterior.

So too with many lives. Outwardly they appear sound. Inwardly "dry rot" is at work. Therefore, let us build our lives upon the rock of Christ where nothing can ever destroy our sure foundation.

Proposed changes in the Wilbur Cross Highway in the Mile Hill area called for widening the highway, relocating Mile Hill Rd. and improving the interchange.

In change to a C-2 zone would permit the location of motels and restaurants in the area. Rumors abounded at the time of the change that the Johnson motel and restaurant would be located in the area.

The "close, personal relationship" between one of the commissioners, who "failed to disqualify himself," and one of the petitioners involved Commissioner Franklin Welles and his auditor Robert Pae, according to Judge Grillo's memorandum.

On Apr. 23, 1965, to take effect May 21, 1965. The effective date was set before the June 30, 1965 date of consolidation of Vernon and Rockville, which legally disbanded the commission.

The conclusion is inescapable that the information obtained by the commission at the non-public meeting in March, 1964, and at the public hearing in July, 1964, was taken into consideration by the commission in arriving at its conclusions following the meeting in March at Lombardi's home, acting on the expiration of their option.

A public hearing was held on the application for a business classification for a substantial portion of the 30 acres, in July, 1964. The petition was denied "without prejudice."

The applicants resubmitted their petition for a change of zone on Feb. 1, 1966, acting through attorney Charles Brown. An additional parcel was included in the zone change opportunity.

Public Hearing

Grillo criticized the conduct of the public hearing in March, 1966, stating "the alliance on the part of the petitioners was defective."

The commission appeared to consider this hearing a continuation of the previous one, although several months had elapsed," the decision notes.

The commission chairman introduced letters received from the Capitol Region Planning Agency and the planning commission of the Vernon Fire District recommending the change of zone. This was also "the technical planning assistance," according to the decision.

Judge Grillo's decision states these letters introduced to the hearing by the chairman of the commission formed the basis of the information presented.

"The evidence presented in support of the application at the hearing was presented by 10 of those petitioners, but by the chairman of the Commission, the judge's memorandum states that the petitioners' attorney requested the commission to act on behalf of these letters."

According to the decision, the chairman's remarks, "Why Kunzli wants to do this (the zone) only he can tell you," brought no response from Kunzli. His attorney, too, balked at offering any verbal explanation of the proposed plan of operation," according to the decision.

This prompted an opponent to the change to protest that the "burden of proof seemed to be shifted on the opposition," that the "zone change seemed to be a foregone conclusion."

The change of zone was unanimously approved by the commission, acting on a motion made by Commissioner Welles, to be about 70 hours.

Woman Landowner Upheld In Mile Hill Zoning Protest

A zone change from residential to business-commercial (C-2) zone, made by the Vernon Fire District Zoning Commission prior to consolidation has been declared "unreasonable, illegal and arbitrary" in a memorandum of decision filed Friday by Judge Joseph R. Grillo in Tolland County Common Pleas Court.

The zone change affected an area of about 20 acres in the area bordered by the Wilbur Cross Highway and Mile Hill and Reservoir Rd.

The suit was instituted by Mrs. Dorothy S. Kloter of Mile Hill Rd. against the zoning commission and the then-owners of the property, Werner Kunzli, Robert J. Pae and Paul Semel. Her appeal was argued Friday by Judge Grillo.

Mrs. Kloter's property, valued at $50,000, is in close proximity to the area involved, and slightly over three acres of her property was rezoned as a result of the commission's decision.

The decision criticized a lack of public knowledge of the facts involved in the change of zone, including the withholding of information by the commission and the applicants.

Three major points stressed by the judge were an undervalued meeting of the commission March 31, 1964, at the home of a commissioner, A. Richard Lombardi, the unjustified assumption by the commission that proposed changes in the zoning were complete.

The private meeting referred to often in the decision, the meeting was attended by commissioners Charles Brown, chairman, Howard F. Huelmann and Norman H. Strong. Also attending were the three petitioners who presented their proposals at the meeting.

According to the decision, the petitioners explained their plans for the area involved.

The "unjustified assumption" by the commission that proposed changes in the zoning were complete, was criticized by the judge.

The commission proceeded on the basis that the changes in the highway patterns were already complete.

The commission's decision is not supported by the factors appearing in the zoning change of zone was granted (by the commission), because it deemed contemporary highway changes indicated best use of the land as commercial and would benefit the community as a whole, rather than the petitioners.

Crowds Off Due to Two Day Storms

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The first two days of the American Football League All-Star Game—if there is a next one—remains uncommenced.

The vagabond contest stopped in Oakland last Saturday and the East took its first-ever victory by beating the West 30-23 behind Boston quarterback Babe Parilli, at the 10:00 o'clock play on the field.

A two-day downpour created a 10-day-long ankle-deep puddle on the north side of the Oakland Coliseum turf.

An announced crowd of 17,700, second smallest in the six-year history of the game, and the national television audience got plenty of thrills from freak plays caused by the muddy going.

The AFL All-Star Game has been played in Houston and Oakland. It got within one day of appearing in New Orleans two years ago when Negro players walked out after saying they had been insulted.

The site for the next one remains undecided, although the league meeting Feb. 18 in Miami will select it. One week later, the National Football League gathers in Hawaii and the AFL says it has some bearing on the AFL game.

For on Sunday, the NFL All-Star Game—called the Pro Bowl—will be played in Los Angeles for the 17th year.

Players in the NFL All-Star Game because the merger has produced the Super Bowl and drained interest from most NFL fans' all star contest.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said at Oakland that each league has a contract with its respective television network through 1970 and that the Los Angeles newspaper publishers.

'Bunch of Quitters' Blake Labels Squad

CHICAGO (AP)—Coach Tom Blake called his Montreal Canadiens "a bunch of quitters" and virtually dismissed their hopes of repeating as National Hockey League champions Sunday night following a 4-1 loss to the Chicago Black Hawks.

"I never thought I'd have a team that would quit," shouted the infuriated, gum-chewing Blake, who has guided the Canadiens to eight championships in the last 11 years.

The Canadiens, who obviously reject an earlier tongue lashing from Blake, sat dejectedly and stripped their uniforms slowly.

The host team opened up a five-point lead over second-place New York and 15 over the fourth-place Canadiens.

Blake then took a crack at the Chicago fans who were on Montreal goalie Gary Bauman. At one point Bauman tossed a puck into the stands and the fans retaliated with paper cups, an egg and an orange.

Eric Neustrofer, filling in for injured Chico Maki on the Boston line, scored two goals and Doug Mohns and Dennis Hill accounted for the others.

Montreal's only goal was scored in the second period by John Ferguson on a power play.

Blake's team was the only nonplayoff NHL coach. New York's Emile Francis saw the Rangers bludgeoned by 15 goals in consecutive games to Boston and Detroit.

President Asks Sacrifices To Meet 'Biggest' Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson called on the nation today for "a measure of sacrifice"—higher taxes, higher postal and higher check deductions—to help finance history's biggest budget.

Along with a $130-billion spending blueprint for fiscal 1968, the year starting next July 1, the President sent a hands-off warning to Congress members who are grumbling loudly at rising deficits.

The spending boom had largely been offset by cuts in two less familiar budget yardsticks mentioned by Johnson: The "national defense" budget and "national income accounts" show $167.1 billion with a deficit of only $2.1 billion.

Deep budget cuts could cause a recession instead of the expected seventh successive year of record prosperity, Johnson said in his message today.

Laird Says War Budget Is Already Out of Date

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference, charged today that President Johnson's budget for the Vietnam war "is already out of date."

Chairman George H. Mahon of the House Appropriations Committee said, "When men of a common sense study the budget and the budget is in the red, it is back in the model cities earlier than you take the current level in Vietnam and projecting it for 12 months, he especially impervious that the current level is a critical look at all phases of the budget and at everything as much as we safely can."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen called for a "very much regret the cost of the war in the past year."
