Wars Begin In The Mind

The other day, the Indian Air Force shot down a plane it thought flying over Indian territory, announcing its victory as one over a reconnaissance plane belonging to Pakistan.

A day or two later, India admitted the truth of what Pakistan said about the plane in question—that it had been in private plane, and not engaged in any military mission with a military purpose.

And that was, one hopes, the end of the incident. India having admitted its mistake, perhaps Pakistan will not feel required to even the score by shooting something down in its turn.

As our long distance from the border between India and Pakistan, it is a relatively easy matter to ask why India had to make the mistake in the first place. Why shoot down any unarmored plane, even if it did seem to be snooping for another government? Why not try to shepherd the plane back toward its own border? Or why not respect a formal complaint, through diplomatic channels, over its unauthorized violation of Indian air space?

The answer is, as we ourselves always understand readily when the border involved in such matters happens to be our own, in no way on this earth seems to be an eternal affair of why someone is doing of rivalry and challenge which usually exists in our fancy long before it exists in fact. The moment a plane flies over us, then, the first thing we think of is not that somebody is off course, or making a mistake, but that somebody is delivering to us a planned insult, a test of our manhood or neighborhood, which requires immediate answering proof from us which shows that we are not afraid, not to be imposed upon, not to be bullied.

Even now, one can be sure, India is clapping its hands in self-satisfaction muttering to the effect that, even if this plane was innocent, this showed what India would do to a real reconnaissance plane if Pakistan ever dared send one over. And Pakistan, one can be sure, is saying to itself that this showed how way India likes it, perhaps there can come a day when Pakistan can give India something real to shoot at.

In fact, if they both let their national minds run free in the immemorial habit of national minds, they will get a new war out of it yet.

To Sleep Well With A Big Debt

The Secretary of the Treasury of the Johnson administration has told Congress that he won't be able to conduct the fiscal business of the federal government if the federal debt limit isn't raised by $1 billion up to a new all-time high of $337 billion, and this reminds us, nostalgically, of the hopeful days when both we and Dwight Eisenhower hoped that a Republican administration at Washington might at least be able to halt this national debt figure forever at some figure like $300 billion, which seemed horrible enough to us and to him.

Dwight Eisenhower had other visions of wonderful things that might happen at Washington. He not only thought the upward advance of the national debt might be halted; he expected also to be able to balance the national budget so frequently that there would be surplus left over for use in reducing the national debt.

The one clear fiscal record President Eisenhower made during his two terms was, however, the achievement of the largest single federal deficit in history, a $12.4 billion whopper.

This doesn't mean that Dwight Eisenhower wasn't a honest, well-intentioned man. It doesn't mean he didn't try to fight for what he believed in as sound fiscal policy.

It did mean that neither he, nor those who had hopes for his, had calculated accurately the terrific power of an entrenched, sprawling bureaucracy heading toward the fulfillment of ever broadening and expanding national needs, all backed up by a Congress which cannot ever resist spending which seems to have any slight chance of helping it reflect itself.

This monster which masquerades in our name is bigger than we are, and infinitely more powerful than the voters and taxpayers who create it, and it has never, anywhere in the history of man, ceased growing. And we all indulge in rebellion against its highest and power in abstract theory, or when its power or mindless arrogance happen to bear upon us in particular, but none of us can ever really be depended upon to make any fundamental alterations in its pattern or its size. If we ever found ourselves holding the power to do so, the chances are we would be found exercising that power toward another expansion and extension of governmental functioning.

What we all like to do, secretly at least, is the easier thing. This new increase in the federal debt is, after all, just a smart piece of business management, in which the government is using credit just as a sharp private enterprise executive would. As for the amount, it keeps increasing at a far slower rate than the vastness and richness of our total national resource, so that, in reality, the higher the debt gets, the less the cause for worry. That's the line which lets a nation sleep nights.

Leakey His Theme Of The Year

Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey, the famed British anthropologist, has more to go on than his brilliant and authentic discoveries, in darkest Africa, of the bones and artifacts of ancient man.

Scientists Leakey has always been blessed with good publicity values. He can smell a good, interesting headline a continent away. Once he smells it, he will use it.

So it was, we would suggest, with equal parts of showmanship and scientific knowledge that he just happened to pick for the opening number of a fine series of lectures in this country a theme in which he asserted that man may owe his fantastic success in surviving on this earth as much to his possession of a distinctive and objectionable body odor, as to his being able to walk on two legs, or think rings around most animals.

"Nature," says Dr. Leakey, "endowed us, like the shrews, with something of either a nasty taste or smell," which, he thinks, turned the stomachs of anything that tried to eat us up. This, he immediately says, very politely, disposes of all practical defense purposes, a few million years ago, since which time man has been on his own. But it may have been what did keep us alive until we had a chance to develop weapons to substitute for odor.

"Nature," says Dr. Leakey, "endowed us, like the shrews, with something of either a nasty taste or smell," which, he thinks, turned the stomachs of anything that tried to eat us up. This, he immediately says, very politely, disposes of all practical defense purposes, a few million years ago, since which time man has been on his own. But it may have been what did keep us alive until we had a chance to develop weapons to substitute for odor.

As we say, we are quite willing to credit Dr. Leakey with at least a dash of scientific logic in his theory. But no one can deny that he somehow had either the publicity shrewdness, or the good fortune, to come to America with this particular theme in the year, of all years, when we are celebrating, on television, the invention of a whole new series of products designed, by eliminating the factor of odor from human living, to see that that pretty stenographer goes that yacht trip after all, the salesman gets that new account, the boss takes that junior executive out to lunch, the man but honest friend won't have to break the sad news any more, and the people in commercials about bread won't have to expel their breaths directly into each other's faces any more.

No one can stand in the path of the irresistible march of the modern deodorants. But we can afford the nostalgic, if sobering, thought that if we had happened to have them two million years ago we might not be around today because they might have made us sweet enough to eat.

Railroad Rescue

The "sale" of the New Haven Railroad is being opposed by the bondholders. They have a cause. Unless stock in the merged Pennsylvania-New York Central Railroads nearly triples in price, they will suffer serious losses. The difficulty is in the alternative. Given the "sale" is made the bond holders are sure to get nothing.

Now a group of Chicago investors says it is prepared to run the commuter service on the railroad and to make it pay. This is not just twaddle. The Western Railroad which hauls commuters into Chicago. This railway was as near bankruptcy as the New Haven Railroad and its future was just as bleak. Today, under the group's management, commuter service in the Chicago area is paying profits.

The trouble has been, according to the group's head, Wallace D. Johnson, that "urban transportation planning has been largely a solution by crisis." Mr. Johnson would do some long range planning on the big problem of getting people in and out of the cities. For the New Haven Railroad he would seek railroads to operate it.

It might not help the bond holders much but the idea that commuter service can pay certainly will not injure them. The big benefit will be to the commuter. If they are being served by a company which is showing a profit they will get better service and be much happier. The difficulty is in the alternative. Given the "sale" is made the bond holders are sure to get nothing.

Nature Study By Sylvia Otiara IN WINTER WOOD

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—New signs of friction between Hanoi and the National Liberation Front (NLF), the political arm of the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Vietnam, are being studied with avid interest by President Johnson's diplomatic policymakers.

Officials, it should be stressed, are loath to jump to hard conclusions. In the first place, the official U.S. position for years has been that Hanoi controls, locates, and barrels both the guerrilla movement and the NLF. In the second place, there are many uncertainties and little hard information.

U.S. diplomats, moreover, are fascinated by one portion of the interview claiming that power-resistant pressures of the U.S. war machine are putting a growing strain on relations between Hanoi and the NLF.

One source of intelligence backing up this conclusion are vast amount of recently accumulated enemy documents captured in the past few months. These documents, along with prisoner interrogations, paint a picture of "conflict and friction" (in the words of U.S. officials) between commanders of Viet Cong units and their counterparts in the regular North Vietnamese army. The Northerners are portrayed as "superior" and "arrogant," throwing their weight around and belittling the Southern Viet Cong.

Another piece of evidence, now under study at the highest State Department levels, was an interview given a left-wing British reporter by a member of the Central Committee of the NLF named Nguyen Van Hieu.

A Thought For Today

The incident of Christ and the blind man on the road to Jericho, related in many churches last Sunday, has immediate application to ourselves. We are blind also—blinded others because of our prejudices and blind most of all, to ourselves because of self-love. Often we do not really know ourselves because the attractive "image" of what we imagine that we are is so dazzling that our faults are totally obscured. We need the humility of this gospel blind man in order to know ourselves truly and we need his persistence in order to change and to become what we are.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

An interesting, revolutionary, or perhaps it is counter-revolutionary, statement of theory accompanies the grandiose proposition of the State Capitol Government Center Committee and its Baltimore architect for a $200,000,000 new "Connecticut Yankee" at Hartford.

"The committee believes," says this piece of philosophy, "that the ideas and responses of democratic people will flow most effectively toward a hub or cohesive focus from which all governmental activity shall radiate."

This is something we used to think. We used to believe in it, passionately, during all the past 30 years of continued dispersal and decentralization of the various state government. We used to think that the people of Connecticut ought to be able to have one region of one city which they would think of as the place to go for all the necessary business of the state.

It so happened that we could remember when the state government was something a citizen of the state could find if he went looking for it. It was all either in the State Capitol itself, or in the giant State Office Building which had been built across the street. All the state boards and commissions and the executive and administrative staffs, were located within this handy and centralized complex. One could get out of one's car, and do business, on foot, with every conceivable state department.

It may be added, as a footnote, that doing business with the state was a rather easy, efficient, relatively speedy process. There ensued, of course, a great period of government growth and dispersal. The growth was dictated by the growth of the state itself, by the adoption of new and supposedly more efficient methods, by the expansion and multiplication of regulations and details, and by the expansion of payrolls. Departmental decentralization, however, if it ever comes again, is not likely to have much effect on realities. Centralization, or decentralization, or the expected doubling of the number of state employees to 60,000 in another 20 years—at new stands double what it was 20 years ago—can never expect to keep pace with the increasing complexities of modern living, with the ingenuities the computers have for complicating and increasing the business they handle and for tripling the amount of time it takes to render a given service to the public. Our prediction, a bit extreme perhaps, but not really very far off, is that the time will come when the entire state of Connecticut is either government center or boy. Mr. Morganthau's former Elinor Fatman, died in 1948. He married Mrs. Marcello

Sale of Liquor Bills To The Editor,

We read in our daily newspaper, "States Alcoholic at nearly 100,000." Also, to quote again from the daily papers, "The final complicity of the sale of liquor between the hours of Friday midnight and 3 a.m. Saturday shows that 404 persons, or better than one a day, died on the highways. . . There were 119 pedestrians killed, an increase of the next month, the first election of a South Vietnamese president and an assembly is now scheduled for sometime in 1967."

Another, permitting the sale of liquor from noon to 11 p.m. Sunday? As alert citizens let us examine the bills presented by our representatives and decide whether they are in the general interest or serve the interests of a special group. Once these bills become law, the time to protest has passed.

Henry Morgenthau, FDR Aide, Is Dead

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Henry Morgenthau Jr., whose frank service as secretary under Franklin D. Roosevelt was marked by controversy and accomplishment, is dead at the age of 75.

Morgenthau had the job of raising funds for World War II and whose interests in foreign affairs brought him into several controversies. He died Monday night at the Vassar Brothers Hospital after a long illness.

He served as secretary of the Treasury from January 1944, until July 1946, when he resigned with some bitterness from the Cabinet of President Harry S. Truman three months after Roosevelt died. He held the nation's top fiscal post longer than any other man except John G. Galatin, who served for more than 12 years in the early 1930s.

Morgenthau said shortly after his resignation that he had hoped to serve until the victory over Japan, which was won a month after he stepped down. He said he had been asked by Truman to return.

Truman recalled in his memoirs published in 1955 that he had thought poorly of the so-called Morgenthau plan for Germany under which postwar Germany would have been stripped of her industry and reduced to the status of a third- or fourth-class agricultural nation. This was initiated at the second Quebec conference in 1944, but dropped later.

Truman related in his memoirs that Morgenthau asked to go with the president to the Potsdam conference with Britain and the Soviet Union. "Truman said he replied that the secretary of the Treasury was needed more at home than in Potsdam. Truman wrote that Morgenthau was 'repulsive' to him and that if he could not, he would have to quit."

Truman said he told him: "If that is the way you feel, I'll accept your resignation right now." For 30 years, Morgenthau was Roosevelt's confidant at Hyde Park, N.Y., and they became friends as follows: Morgenthau followed his wealthy father into finance, preferring farming instead. The father made a fortune in New York real estate. Morgenthau's first wife, the former Elinor Fatman, died in 1948. He married Mrs. Marcello

Zoning Bars Dog Kennel, Court Holds

HARTFORD (AP)—The Connecticut Supreme Court agreed with a reluctance today that a dog kennel on a Darien man's property violated the zoning regulation.

"In a day when countless people regard the dog as a faithful companion, a staunch guardian, and a family pet, we think it unlikely that the Darien zoning authority actually intended to exclude every dog kennel from a residence zone," the decision said.

It may be, the court said, that the intent of the regulation was to exclude only a commercially operated kennel. "Our function, however, is circumscribed," the court said, "for where the language is plain, we must give effect to the intention expressed in the regulation."

The plaintiff, Albert J. Schwab, said that at the time notice was served on him by the Darien zoning and building inspector, he was keeping six

This summary, earlier than expected. This election will confront the NLF with new political problems to accompany the Viet Cong's worsening military dilemma.

With the whole world watching an anticipated turnout of up to five million voters will elect a new civilian government and lift the Saigon government's prestige to new heights.

The NLF, which would not dare risk participating in the summer election because of certain defeat, will be left out in the cold. Nor is it likely that Communist efforts to sabotage the election would be any more successful than had September, when the Constituent Assembly was chosen in a free vote.

Thus the NLF faces a crisis men. At present they are living in hatched huts and shiring studios and workshops.

Morton-St. Pierre

Miss Marilyn Ann St. Pierre and Jeffrey Thomas Morton, both of Manchester, were united in marriage Friday night at a candlelight service at South Methodist Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian G. St. Pierre of 189 W. Center St. The bridegroom is a son of William G. Morton of 186 Lyones St. and Mrs. Constance I. Morton of Bridgeport.

The Rev. Dr. J. Manley Shaw, pastor of South Church, performed the double-ring ceremony. James McKay was organist. Mrs. D. D. Stewart was soloist. Bouquets of white gladioli and carnations decorated the sanctuary.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full-length gown of white peau de soie, designed with batteau neckline, long tapered sleeves with points at the wrists, fitted empire bodice, A-line skirt with appliques of re-embroidered alencon lace, and wattleau chapel-length train with back bow. Her veil of imported illusion was arranged from a clustered head-bow trimmed with alencon lace, and she carried a bouquet of white camellias and stephanotis.

Mrs. Roger Ather of Manchester, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Morton of Manchester, cousin of the bridegroom; and Miss Deborah Bradshaw of Manchester, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids were dressed alike in ruby red velvet gowns, designed with high scooped necklines, trumpet sleeves, empire bodices and sheath skirts with satin bows at the back. They wore matching clustered head-bows with veils, and carried single red roses.

The junior bridesmaid wore a white velvet A-line gown, fashioned with red velvet accents on the bodice and trumpet sleeves, and a matching red velvet head-bow. She carried a single red rose.

Susan Ather of Manchester, niece of the bride; and Patricia Baker of East Hartford, cousin of the bride, were flower girls. They were dressed in gowns styled to match the junior bridesmaid's. They wore crowns of red sweetheart roses on their heads, and carried white fur muffs decorated with clusters of red sweetheart roses.

Robert D. Morton of Manchester served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Roger Ather of Manchester, brother-in-law of the bride; David Morton of Manchester, cousin of the bridegroom; and Martin Chmielecki and Robert Gibson, both of Manchester.

Mrs. St. Pierre wore a champagne beige gown with green accessories, and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a turquoise blue gown with matching accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids.

A reception for 200 was held in the church chapel. For a motor trip to Mt. Snow, Vt. Mrs. Morton wore a shocking pink wool sheath, beige undercoat with mink collar, and mink hat. The couple will live at High Manor Park, Rockville, after Feb. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton are both 1965 graduates of Manchester High School. Mrs. Morton is a 1966 graduate of A. I. Prince Technical School of Haddam, Conn. She is a beautician at the Carriage House Beauty Salon. Mr. Morton is a student at the University of Connecticut, majoring in mechanical engineering.

MRS. JEFFREY THOMAS MORTON

Miss Mary Lynn Rivard of Manchester was maid of honor. Pvt. William Pugarb of Manchester served as best man. A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother. Mrs. Mariotti is a 1966 graduate of Manchester High School. She is a clerk-stenographer in the purchasing department at Pratt and Whitney, Division of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford. Pfc. Mariotti is a 1965 graduate of Manchester High School. He is serving two years in the U. S. Marine Corps. He is stationed at Fort Huachuca, Calif., where he is attending Heavy Operators Equipment School.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Mary Madeline Orsini of Hartford to Frederick William Odell of Manchester has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fuldo Orsini of Hartford. Her fiancé is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Odell of 512 E. Center St.

Miss Orsini, a 1962 graduate of Mt. St. Joseph Academy, West Hartford, is a 1966 graduate of Central Connecticut State College, New Britain, where she majored in elementary education. She was a member of Lambda Kappa Nu sorority. She is a teacher in the Wetherfield school system.

Mr. Odell is a 1963 graduate of Manchester High School, and a 1966 graduate of Central Connecticut State College. While in college, he served as president of the student body, state chairman of the Connecticut Intercollegiate State Legislature, and was selected for membership in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. He is attending the School of Law of the University of Connecticut, West Hartford.

The wedding is planned for April 22.

Wedding

Mariotti - Pierson
Miss Sherry Lee Pierson and Pfc. Allen Thomas Mariotti, both of Manchester, were united in marriage Saturday, Dec. 17 at St. James Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Earl Daggett of 126 Lyones St. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Frank Romanowicz of 34 Goulee Dr.

The Rev. John J. O'Brien performed the double-ring ceremony. The bride wore a street-length gown of white velvet with a white lace train, and a shoulder-length veil of illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of white miniature carnations.

Miss Mary Lynn Rivard of Manchester was maid of honor. Pvt. William Pugarb of Manchester served as best man. A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother. What does it cost to raise a son?

Right now this little guy is on formula. But before you know what's happened, he'll be in a college dormitory with his buddies talking about cars, sports and girls. In between, he'll be outgrowing shoes before he outwears them, coming home with a shiner because his young honor was on the line, catching colds, building model planes, camping out with the other kids. It's all part of growing up and one by one these things won't cost too much. Altogether though, they add up. And you have to take care of them, and plan for the future, and provide for the home, cars, clothes and lots of other responsibilities you took on as a father—a man wrapped up in what is casually called "making a living." But you don't have to go it alone. Here's where your banker at Hartford National can help. He has the advice and means at his disposal that only a full-service bank can offer. He can help you choose the right kind of personal checking account, decide when to borrow, how to save, stretch your income further and make your dollars work harder for your family. So whether you've a major financial problem—or a simple question—stop in and see your banker at Hartford National. That's what he's there for.

Vernon Improvements Plan Will Get More Study

The board of representatives would be planned for a five-year period, he said.

The planning commission, acting as liaison, would meet with all department heads on an informal basis. This would create a group of three or four people in the town at all times familiar with the overall needs of the town according to time.

After meeting with each of the department heads to hear their needs and recommendations, the planning commission would then call a hearing for all departments to discuss each other's needs, obtaining a better understanding of the overall needs of the town. Fine said.

The planning commission would then be charged with the responsibility of establishing priorities in keeping with the limits established by the major and the town administrator. The planning commission's recommendations would then be submitted to the board of representatives for a binding decision.

No items should be introduced after the meeting of the steps have been taken without going through the same procedure prior to approval, according to Fine.

An emergency fund would be established as part of the program for immediate emergency needs.

In brief, each of the town departments would establish its own priorities for its needs. These would be reviewed with the planning commission.

The planning commission would call a hearing for all departments to discuss each other's needs, obtaining a better understanding of the overall needs of the town. Fine said.

The board's decision is not binding as the road has not been accepted by the town. The plan grants for projects, such as the road, through the planning commission may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Paul J. Bowman.

Reason Given

The actions of the residents of Ludlow Dr. (Deepwood Dr.) were explained by Atty. John Casey of "Deepwood Dr." He explained that the decision of using an unofficial name did not like and an unofficial name they did like.

The only records which would have to be changed are those of the tax collector and the assessors, he stated.

The board's decision is not binding as the road has not been accepted by the town. The plan grants for projects, such as the road, through the planning commission may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Paul J. Bowman.

Mansfield Girl Jailed in Baby Stabbing Death

MANCHESTER (AP)—A homicide charge has been lodged against Betty-Faye Dore, 20, of Mansfield, in the death of an infant girl whose body was found in a trash barrel.

The body of the infant, said to be between 24 and 48 hours old, was found Jan. 28 in the back yard of the Dore home.

State police arrested Miss Dore Monday, and she was ordered held without bond at the state jail in Montville pending a grand jury hearing of the case.

The infant's body was discovered by Miss Dore's sister, Cynthia, 16, and police were notified by her father, Malcolm Dore.

An autopsy report said a stab wound to the back was the probable cause of the infant's death.

Jackie, Aides with Casket As JFK Body Flown Home

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy and the presidential widow boarded the Dallas motorcade to see the casket of President John F. Kennedy as it was flown home to the White House.

The motorcade was led by a Dallas police sergeant, "Why can't I even see him in uniform?" Mrs. Kennedy asked. "You're not a police officer, are you?" she asked. "You're not a police officer, are you?" she asked.

Another half-hour was to pass while a furious dispute, which threatened to erupt into a fist fight, delayed the motorcade. Jackie Kennedy, who was seated next to her husband's casket, was told to get up and move to the rear of the motorcade.

Easy Road Seen Ahead for Cassius

Zora Folley Most Likely Next Victim

HOUSTON (AP)—Cassius Clay, the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world again after humiliating Ernie Terrell in a one-sided 15-round fight, had an easy road ahead of him today in his brilliant fight career.

Unless the Army gets him first, the all-American fighter from New York, who has medaled competition ahead of him, the likes of Zora Folley, a repeat champion, and George Chuvalo, a Canadian, are his likely opponents.

"I will be either Zora Folley or George Chuvalo next," said Clay-Muhammad Ali, unmarked as usual, "but I sure hope it's Folley. I think Folley can put up a better fight than Terrell. He's a better boxer."

"I can beat Clay," said the 34-year-old Folley. "I saw plenty of openings."

"How would he do it?"

"With my two hands," said the soft-spoken Folley, a man of few words.

A Clay-Folley match might be made for New York's Madison Square Garden or Detroit's Olympia, in late March.

Meanwhile Clay is appealing his 1-A draft status, claiming he is a minister of the Black Muslim sect.

Clay, now winner in eight title defenses and six in 11 months, had predicted he would fight the 37-year-old 6-foot-7 Terrell in the third round.

Clay said Terrell was a disappointment "because he just kept holding and clinching all the time."

"But he had to have great courage to stay in the ring and take a whipping for 15 rounds," Clay said. "I was happy to see him because it was a good test for me. I was looking for a fighter like Terrell who makes a fighter look bad."

Terrell, who suffered a cut above the right eye and a "blood spot" in the left, said he was "three of him" after the third round.

Terrell Contends Champ 'Dirty Fighter'

HOUSTON (AP)—Cassius Clay says he humiliated Ernie Terrell, who in turn, contends Clay was "a dirty fighter" I could have whipped if I could have seen him from the third round.

"I just gave him my Floyd Patterson humiliation treatment Monday night to settle the dispute," Terrell said. "When my eye was hurt, I was three of him" after the third round.

Terrell, who was knocked out by Clay in the second round, said he was "a dirty fighter" and that he was "three of him" after the third round.

'Humiliation Treatment' Just as Clay Predicted

HOUSTON (AP)—Cassius Clay, who in turn, contends Clay was "a dirty fighter" I could have whipped if I could have seen him from the third round.

"I just gave him my Floyd Patterson humiliation treatment Monday night to settle the dispute," Terrell said. "When my eye was hurt, I was three of him" after the third round.

Track Meet at Garden Friday

NEW YORK (AP)—The roster of stars is shrinking and the old fields are being replaced again, but there will be a U.S. Track and Field Federation indoor track meet here Friday.

The federation, an arm of the International Collegiate Athletic Association in its fight with the Amateur Athletic Union, finally conceded that Gerry Lindgren, champ from Nebraska, who in the distance running event from Washington State, would not be in the meet.

The reason according to the federation is an curbing of the problem and is curbing his schedule.

Lucrative Spot

HOUSTON (AP)—Three world's heavyweight championship boxing matches within eight months in Houston drew 82,127 fans and gates totaling $983,600.

Monday night, the 21st round of the $1.2 million fight between Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell was the third fastest in the history of the sport.

Many in State Kept at Home As Cold Follows Blizzard

Even Steal?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Everything was getting caught in drafts from Tuesday's foot-deep snowstorm, police included.
One patrol car radioed headquarters it was stuck.
"Is your trouble mechanical, or is it that you can't get traction?" asked the radio dispatcher at headquarters.
"Can't get traction," the officer replied.
"Then beg; borrow or steal a shovel," came the order.
"There isn't a truck available in your district."
There was a moment's silence. Then, "Did you say 'steal'?" And silence again.

All Patients Escape Fire At Hospital

NORWICH (AP)—Fire in a fourth-floor cloakroom forced the evacuation of about 250 patients from a Norwich State Hospital building early today. No injuries were reported.

A hospital spokesman said that 100 patients from the fourth floor were moved, as well as about 150 others from other floors of the Kettle Building.
Damage was estimated at about $1,500.
Firemen, summoned to scene at 2:25 a.m., said the blaze was confined to the cloakroom and (See Page Twelve)

26 Perish in Dixie Rooftop Cafe Fire

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A fire which began as tiny flickers in a cloakroom spread through a fashionable rooftop dining room in downtown Montgomery Tuesday night, leaving at least 26 persons dead, including a former state official who was indicted Tuesday.
Identification was difficult because of the condition of the bodies, which were taken to four funeral homes. A police identification team assisted by FBI experts was set up to help establish the identification.
Hours after the fire had been brought under control, Fire Chief W.P. Malley said the cause was still undetermined. "We're trying to arrive at that by process of elimination," Malley added.
Water pouring from the blackened ruins of Dale's Penthouse restaurant atop the 11-story Walter Bragg Smith apartment hotel froze on the sidewalks and streets in the wintry 28-degree night, making it treacherous for firemen and police to move about. A city maintenance truck spread sand over the icy coating.
A spokesman at one funeral home said positive identification had been made of the bodies of former Public Service Commission member Ed Pepper and his wife Ann. The Peppers were dining with friends at the plush cafe when the fire started about 11 p.m.
Pepper was indicted on two counts of extortion Tuesday by a federal grand jury at Birmingham. The indictment charged he "obstructed and defamed" the transportation of goods and commodities in interstate commerce" while a PSC member. A third indictment was brought against Pepper last November by the grand jury.
Also missing was Mrs. Jack Doane, wife of the sports editor of the Montgomery Advertiser. She was a hostess at the dining room. Accompanied by other diners, she was seen running high into the sky above the building.

China Intensifies Propaganda War Against Russians

TOKYO (AP)—Mao Tse-tung's forces intensified their anti-Soviet campaign today with hostile demonstrations in a dozen Chinese cities and new orders for fighting the Kremlin's brand of communism.
The official New China News Agency said demonstrations were held throughout mainland China to emphasize "China's resolute protest against their way to safety by breaking Soviet revisionists' outrages."

LBJ Outlines New Aid Plan For Children

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson outlined today a far-reaching program to aid youths and children, including a strengthened Head Start program and increased Social Security payments for children.
In a special message to Congress, Johnson said recent studies have confirmed that in education, health and in all his man development, the early years are critical.
"Ignorance, ill health, personality disorder—these are the disabilities often contracted in childhood. Afflictions which linger to cripple the man and damage the next generation."
"Our nation must rid itself of this bitter inheritance. Our goal must be clear—to give every child a chance to fulfill his promise."

Town Digging Out Garages Kept Busy Towing and Pushing

By ROBERT COLBY
Old Man Winter, skaling behind yesterday's blizzard which left Manchester in a snow-bound straitjacket, tipped his hat to area residents this morning, uncapping temperatures ranging from 4 to 20 degrees below zero.
Thought yesterday's 13-inch snowfall topped the one on Jan. 20, 1961 by one inch and temperatures were the lowest in several years, no unusual damage was reported by local utilities.
Motorsists and garage employees, however, reported different stories.
Garage employees, many of whom worked throughout the night answering calls for paralyzed motorists, wearily reported scores of calls yesterday and this morning.
Mortuary Brum, at 315 Center St. reported that 156 motorists had called from 8 to 11 this morning. Yesterday, their four tow trucks answered 300 calls, most of the stranded car owners called because their cars wouldn't start, not because their cars were stuck in the snow.
Sunset Service Station at 555 E. Middle Tpke. reported that 100 motorists called from 6 to 9 this morning asking for tow trucks.
By 9 o'clock, three trucks had answered 70 calls and had 20 more to go. Other calls were being refused, an employee said.
Employees of Turnpike Towing Station at 270 W. Middle Tpke. worked all day yesterday and last night towing cars and plowing driveways. From 7 to 9 this morning, 35 calls had been logged, station manager Ralph Sheno said.
Tim Moriarty, owner of Moriarty's Flying A Service Station at 270 Hartford Rd., said 28 persons had called yesterday.

Record Low Of 13 Below At Bradley

NEW HAVEN (AP)—A howling, hungry blizzard bit deep into the state's transport arteries yesterday, forcing thousands of residents to shovel through heavy snowdrifts in bitter cold.
Many persons throughout the state were forced to stay home from school, from shopping trips and from most unessential activity. Many were kept from going to work.
Late Tuesday night the storm was still lashing Cape Cod, but the storm center was moving so rapidly into the Atlantic that only a bitter cold and hard drifts remained of the storm.
Otherwise, skies were clearing across the state, and winds had begun to dissipate, though they were expected to increase again Wednesday.
Temperatures which had been in the teens Tuesday dropped below zero Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning in inland sections. A record low temperature of 13 below zero was recorded at Bradley International Airport at 6:30 a.m. today.
School was called off Tuesday throughout the state, and most remained closed today, including public schools in the Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport, Waterbury and Stamford areas. Many schools curtailed classes; City halls and courts closed; and mail delivery ended earlier than usual in some areas.

Must Shovel!

If you haven't gotten around to clearing that snow off the sidewalks, better get with it, huh!
Police Chief James Reardon says his men have been instructed to enforce the 24-hour snow removal ordinance. That means the 24-hour period from yesterday's blizzard runs out tonight.
Violators will be warned and, if they still fail to comply, will be issued court summonses, Reardon said.

Pinney Through Effective Feb. 28

By SOL R. COHEN
GOP State Chairman A. Central Committee, all Republican town chairmen and vice chairmen, and all Republican legislators to discuss a possible choice for his successor.
He said that George "Ted" LaBonne of Glastonbury and Howard Hausman of New Britain, leading candidates for the post, will appear at the Feb. 18 meeting to present their respective cases and to answer questions. The two will be the only candidates to appear, he said. The meeting will be open to press, radio and television.
A 24-member screening committee, 11 days ago, gave LaBonne 14 votes for state chairman to 9 for Hausman. One member abstained. The vote has been relayed to the State Central Committee as a report, not a recommendation.
LaBonne was given the backing of the Pinney-Alsoop-Gengras faction. Hausman was backed by the supporters of Ed May and Peter Mariani.
Pinney denied this morning that LaBonne is his man, and called him a "compromise" candidate.
He said, "When it became clear to me that a majority of the screening committee, including most importantly those (See Page Twelve)

Fragile Truce Opens Viet Buddhist Holiday

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—A U.S. photo reconnaissance plane was downed in North Vietnam as fighting in the south.
The Viet Cong has declared a seven-day truce for the new year celebration known as Tet. Its cease-fire is scheduled to run three days beyond the end of the allied truce at 7 a.m. Sunday—8 p.m. 28T Saturday.
U.S. officials in Saigon refused to comment on reports that the truce may be prolonged beyond the four days announced by the allies, but a State Department spokesman in Washington held open such a possibility.
"We will see what happens," said State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey.
The Viet Cong has declared a seven-day truce for the new year celebration known as Tet. Its cease-fire is scheduled to run three days beyond the end of the allied truce at 7 a.m. Sunday—8 p.m. 28T Saturday.
Of 22 incidents reported by the U.S. command in the first 10 hours of the truce, eight were classified as significant. Most were exchanges of fire by patrols or sniper fire at helicopters.
The U.S. command said the planes lost in the north was an unarmed RF101 jet on a photo mission. The United States said the plane lost in the north was an unarmed RF101 jet on a photo mission. The United States said the plane lost in the north was an unarmed RF101 jet on a photo mission.
On the Communist side, the truce was declared only by the Viet Cong. Thus North Vietnam feels free to fire on planes in- (See Page Twelve)

Wintery Start for Lenten Season
Snow from yesterday's blizzard left a near-perfect mantle of white on the crucifix at St. Bridget School. Herald Photographer Joseph Saterri saw the scene as emblematic of today—Ash Wednesday—the start of the Lenten season.

STRUCK BY STONES
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was hit in the mouth by a stone thrown at her today as she was addressing a election rally in Bhubaneswar, 220 miles southeast of Calcutta. "This is an insult, not to me, but to the country," she said in the crowd, parts of which had become hostile and had started throwing stones at her. She was slipping a glass of water when the stone hit her. She pushed for a moment, and an aide rushed to her side. She continued speaking.
