Immediately following the flurry about possible Kennedy-connected peace feelers, the President himself has now appeared in the news, with a reply to an appeal from Pope Paul VI, who had written a letter urging extension of the present New Year's truce in Victnam into an armistice during which peace talks could be begun.

"I know you would not expect us to reduce military action unless the other side is willing to do likewise." We are not so sure the Pope, surveying the gigantic nature of the continual pounding we are giving Vietnam, North and South, and concluding we have much more action to reduce than the other side, might not think it possible for us to drop a few fewer bombs without risking any great weakening of our military position. We have an idea, to the contrary, that the Pope would like to see us, as the great, tremendous, allpowerful leader of civilization, show the whole world and the cause of peace that the mighty can be gentle. But there is one general trend in all these events and verbal maneuverings. The spotlight ends up back on the President, and charges him, rightly or wrongly, with chief responsibility for either obstructing or welcoming a chance at negotiated peace in Vietnam.

This is supposed to be precisely what we avoid when we give up the shovel and turn to the blower. When it happens, however, it is not the blower's fault. It, by itself, is obviously a much more speedy and effithe shovel. The critical question is not the idenand philosophy in which it is used. One can live long with either a snow shovel or a snow blower if one has the capacity to stay relaxed while using it. But if one cannot resist pressing, if one cannot avoid becoming grimly intent on finishing the job as quickly as possible, one can court danger with a blower as well as with a shovel. The thing to do, with either, is take it easy, lean on the shovel, and notify the blower that just the fact that it has a motor running doesn't give it the right to boss

The President's reply to this appeal seems a typical mixture of pious sentiment with tough position. While it professes an eagerness to extend the lunar new year truce, it ignores the fact that one easy way to extend it by three days is already open. That would be by making our observance of the truce last not merely for the four days we have announced, but for the seven days the other side previously set as the period for which it intended to observe truce. #### A Thought For Today

If penance is a change, a conversion of heart and mind, its first expression will logically be in prayer or conversation with God. When we experience the beginnings of this change, when we begin to turn toward God once again, we are already praying -not with words necessarily but with our hearts. The obvious request at this juncture will be to beg God's continued recreative action and our own docility to it. The important attitude is faith and confidence in God's willingness to remake us. Like the centurion who asked of Christ no sign, merely a word, we must submit to God's will and like King Hezelah we may even be bold enough to remind God of His responsibility toward us. The important thing to remember is that prayer and penance are inseparable and that they are inseparable from our lives. Rev. Robert -W. Cronin. St. Maurice Church

That the State Capitol Government Center Committee may be logistically correct in its prediction that the numbe of state employes will double itself again in a mattter of another 20 years, and that the whole size of the state government will keep on doubling itself forever and forever-this is something everybody can concede, mournfully perhaps, to be accurate prognostication. No one has ever stopped the proliferation of state services and bureaucracles; it is not to be believed anybody ever will. And nobody, we suspect, can really fight the State Capito Government Center Committee's general proposition the it will take a gigantic expenditure and gigantic expansion of the state's office floor space to accommodate the monstrous thing state government will have become by the year 2000. Rent An ELECTRIC Water Heater. Rates Are The Lowest Ever, And There Is No Charge For Maintenance Or Normal Installation

This young lady, and every member of the family, can run all the bath water needed with a HELCO rental water heater. The water is piping HOT . . . ready and waiting at the turn of the tap. There's PLENTY of hot water for baths, showers, washing clothes and dishes, and for cleaning . . . because it's family size. The water is sparkling clean because the glass or rock lining just can't rust . . . clothes and dishes get really clean. When you rent an electric water heater, there's nothing to buy and no charge for maintenance or normal installation. All you ever pay is a low monthly rental, along with the lowest rate ever for electric service used.

Telephone your electrical or plumbing contractor or HELCO and ask for "rental hot water service."

May Resume. U.S. Reports

nam (AP)-The U.S. command today reported a massive buildup in North Vietnam during the first three days of the lunar new year truce and the suspension of American bombing raids.

U.S. officials said the four-day cease-fire proclaimed by the South Vietnamese governmen remains in effect. But they would not rule out the possibili ty that air strikes against North lietnam might be ordered before the truce ends Sunday should the Communist buildur reach levels considered "intolerable" by the U.S. command. The North Vietnamese move ment of supplies southward i "not technically a violation of the stand down," these sources said, but it was obviously long planned and "creates doubts at North Vietnamese sincerity about the truce." U.S. sources said it appeared unlikely that the four-day truce would be extended to match the seven-day cease-fire proclaimed by the Viet Cong. A U.S. spokesman said that in hat began at 7 a.m. Wednesese coast - five times the num-
