We believe there are in the record denials that the CIA has ever dared, or has ever been permitted, to try to use the Peace Corps as an implement or a convenience in the course of its merry task of running the world. Let us hope not. For the Peace Corps is the one true gift this American generation has been able to make to the world; it is the one official American program which is actually a positive ambassador for us everywhere it goes; let us hope it has been respected here at home as much as it has been respected abroad.

Should War Be Judged By Cost?

Washington's latest flap over the question of "credibility" concerns the disclosure that the Pentagon had, until this week, been allowing the public statistic for loss of planes in Vietnam to stand at 877 when in reality we have lost 1,800 planes there. This discovery offends some critics of the administration, just as some members of Congress profess themselves to be greatly disturbed by the wide discrepancy between the administration's advance budgetary estimates of the dollar cost of the war and its The administration has its fairly plausible excuses in both categories. It hasn't wanted either our actual foes in Vietnam or our potential enemies anywhere else to be able to guess just how much of a drain on our air power reserve the war in Vietnam has proved to be. And, in an open-ended war such as that in Vietnam, it is almost impossible to try to predict, in advance, what it is going to cost in dollars to fight a

What keeps these excuses from offering total protection to the administration is the suspicion that it has had one other reason for veiling the real cost of the war in such things as planes and dollars. The administration has, perhaps, had the idea that the greater the cost of the war in Vietnam, the greater the potential domestic questioning of it would be.

We do not suppose any of us can make ourselves totally free of the idea that the expense of the war, in relation to its size and objective and chance of success and accomplishment, is a legitimate consideration in judging whether it is a war we choose to approve. But there ought to be a higher dard. On such a higher standard, the war should stand or fall on its moral and legal rightness. If it is morally and legally wrong, it still could not be a good war at one twelfth the cost, If it is morally and legally right, no question of expense of any kind could of itself, make it a bad war. The question of whether any war of any kind or of any cost can be a good in human affairs we leave to another

In terms of cost alone, the $2 million estimate for piping the river is formidable. It's also $600,000 more than the price tag on an open river channel. William W. VISION has made america great Men of vision and dedicated people have made America the industrial, manufacturing, and retailing leader of the world.

Take our founder as an example. More than a century ago, he envisioned a new concept of efficient, low-cost mass food distribution. This concept set the stage for the development of today's modern A&P

Similar vision characterises the current management of A&P:

Men who recognize the cost-saving potential of computerized warehousing and ordering.

and for today's entire food retailing industry.

Men who are applying practical automation to manufacturing facilities.

Men who are relocating distribution centers to take advantage of modern transportation and roads.

Men who are constantly on the lookout for better, more efficient methods of food handling.

Men who are, as always, dedicated to the basic concept of our founder: TO BRING THE MOST GOOD FOOD, TO THE MOST PEOPLE, FOR THE LEAST AMOUNT OF MONEY.

Speck Taken To New Jail, Trial Nears

CHICAGO (AP) - Richard Speck, 25, charged with murdering eight student nurses, was taken by car today from the Cook County jail to Peoria, said Warden Jack Johnson. Sheriff's police accompanied Speck on the drive and he was lodged in a fourth-floor cell in the Peoria County jail. He is to be tried on all eight indictments simultaneously when his trial opens in Peoria Monday, according to a ruling issued Tuesday by Judge Her-bert C. Paschen. The judge also announced a set of sweeping guidelines regulating news cov-

Prosecution attorneys object ed to a single trial on all eight charges of murder, but they were overruled by Judge Paschen during a closed-door session.. The rulings settled the last of a series of 24 motions made on Speck's behalf by Gerald Getty, Cook County public defender, who will represent him. The trial was moved Peoria, 150 miles south of Chicago, after Getty insisted that news reports of the murders had so inflamed public opinion that Speck could not receive a fair trial in Chicago. The nurses were killed July 14 in their quarters on Chicago's far South Side. Speck was arrested three days later and subsequently charged in sepa-rate indictments with all eight Judge Paschen's ruling eliminated the possibility that Speck could be tried a second time if found innocent. Under the guidelines all persons who enter the courtroon will be searched by police. All attorneys, witnesses and cour officials must make no state tents out of court until a verct is returned. Cameras and recording equipent will not be permitted in the courtroom and ne etching will be allowed.
