

Strong winds this morning toppled this tree on Hilltown Rd. near Spencer St. It fell against a utility pole and snapped it, disrupting electrical power in the area. Power was off from 9:46 a.m. to 11:14 a.m., a Hartford Electric Light Co. spokesman said. (Herald photo by Saterini)

Trees and Signs Topple As High Winds Slam State

Stiff winds packing powerful gusts slammed into Connecticut today, breaking windows, toppling signs and knocking down trees. At least seven trees were downed in Manchester along with numerous branches, large and small. The largest of the trees to fall in town was one on Hilltown Rd. which took a power line with it. Others were at E. Center St., Summit St., Woodland St., Main St., near Middle Turnpike, and Grant Rd. Park Department crews with the assistance of highway crews were removing the trees where they blocked the road. A large sign, weighing some 5,000 pounds and measuring 29 by 10 feet, tumbled from the top of a four-story factory building in Naugatuck. It struck a New Haven Railroad tank car on an adjacent railroad track below and several parked automobiles. No one was reported hurt when the metal sign from the Uni-Royal Footwear Division of U.S. Rubber Co. fell. Gusts up to 65 miles an hour were reported in parts of the state. Some 2,000 residents in parts of Westport, Wilton, New Canaan, and other Fairfield County towns were without power for some periods of time when trees fell on utility lines. The wind and gusts played havoc with television antennas throughout the state. Plastic glass windows in at least three stores in Danbury were smashed. And in Ridgefield, a window of the state police barracks was blown out. A large tree went over in Plainville and fell on a line of the Connecticut Light & Power Co., knocking out electric power to about 2,000 homes in parts of that community and nearby Plainville. The power was restored about 40 minutes later.

Space Junk

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A piece of a Soviet rocket booster that was launched Feb. 8 left a fiery trail all along the U.S. West Coast last night as it fell back to earth, North American Air Defense Command reported today. "The burn-in occurred within 30 minutes of our prediction," Col. Matthew Mathiessen, NORAD director of information said. "It was seen all the way from Alaska down as far south as San Diego," Mathiessen said.

Mrs. Powell Denies Endorsing Checks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. July 1966. They were in the name of Y. Marjorie Flores, which Mrs. Powell said was a name she had used. "Are the endorsements in your handwriting?" he asked. "No, it isn't," Mrs. Powell said. "Can you identify the signatures," Geoghegan asked. "I'm not an expert," she said. "It does look familiar on some but I couldn't be absolutely sure." She testified before a special House committee investigating Powell's right to take his seat in the current Congress. Mrs. Powell did not name anyone as having put her name on the checks, saying she could not be sure although the signature "does look familiar on some."

Prayer Change

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The Michigan House of Representatives has moved to amend a prayer. The House Journal carried a prayer by the Rev. Edwin Fuller at a recent session. The journal text included this sentence: "We ask thee, Lord, for the things that they dissipate in." House members said they were certain the Rev. Mr. Fuller had said: "Participate in."

Clashes Seen Expanding From Tibet

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party accused Mao Tse-tung today of planning new attempts to provide a break in Soviet-Chinese relations, while more anti-Soviet pronouncements were reported from Peking. On Formosa, Nationalist China's official Central News Agency said armed clashes between forces for and against Mao have spread from Tibet throughout the adjoining province of Szechwan, in southwest China. It said that the fighting had prevented supplies from reaching Maoists in Tibet and that clashes in Lhasa, the capital, previously reported under anti-Maoist control, were nearing a climax.

Budget Bills Already Filed By Legislators

HARTFORD (AP)—Some of Gov. John Dempsey's budget proposals are embodied in bills filed shortly after he delivered his budget message Wednesday to the General Assembly. One bill would implement the governor's proposed new state aid to education formula — $180 per pupil for the first 300 pupils and $90 per pupil for all over 300. The current formula is $176 per pupil for the first 300 pupils for the second 300, and $130 for all over that. An additional $13 million would be authorized for bonding to provide more state aid for housing for the elderly, in another bill.

In Viet Highlands

U.S. Infantry Units Under Heavy Attack

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—Three battalions of American infantrymen were reported under heavy enemy attack tonight in the central highlands near the Cambodian border about 300 miles north of Saigon. The fresh battle developed after actions in which 388 Communists were reported killed, two U.S. infantry companies suffered moderate casualties and 13 U.S. helicopters were downed. The U.S. Command disclosed that action last week, covered in part by the Tet truce, pushed American casualties in the war above the 50,000 mark. Of these men, 7,353 were killed. Associated Press photographer Al Chang told of the highlands battle. He reported from the field that all three battalions of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division's 2nd Brigade — totaling about 2,000 men — were being hit with "heavy mortar fire and extremely heavy automatic weapons fire" in jungled terrain. The troops, engaged in Operation Sam Houston, were credited with killing 74 of the enemy Wednesday. Two of the division's companies suffered moderate casualties. No report was available on losses for either side in Thursday's fighting. Chang said the Americans believed they were engaging a North Vietnamese army regiment, or some 2,000 troops. South Vietnamese rangers and infantrymen smashed a Viet Cong battalion during a two-day battle in the central highlands, killing 311 guerrillas and capturing six, a government spokesman said. Coupled with 243 guerrillas reported killed by Korean marines in a seaway battle Wednesday, the three engagements accounted for 623 enemy dead. Four American crewmen were killed and eight wounded in the downing of the 13 U.S. helicopters Wednesday. Ten of the UH1 helicopters were shot down as they shuttled more than 3,000 South Vietnamese. Brave and Barefoot, Crew Saves Bargains

By JOHN SATKINS The hapless U.S.S. savings sail rocked slowly on the waves, its sails crumpled below on the deck. Above it the giant Plutonian space ship hovered like a dreadful black cloud. The Plutonians had their orders. Stop the U.S.S. 13. Bring the Washington's Birthday Sale ready for the ship to the planet Pluto. Search people were not on the ship above. They were small, purple, with long floppy ears. They fluttered and flew onto the deck and several landed in the moop bucket. And as the ship swayed, those on the deck rolled about like so many loose marbles. One of them, dressed in a small, golden fig leaf—an officer—spoke to Lt. Gen. Paul Misseri. "Take me to your pad-der!" he said. In his haste with the ladder Lt. Gen. Misseri tripped and the ladder banged on his foot. "Yessoo!" he screamed. He grabbed his foot and began hopping around in a circle on one leg, and tumbled down an open hatchway, where, luckily, the first aid station and grog tub were located. "We've come to take your cargo to our planet," said the purple leader who was known as Alexander the Grape at home. General George (Joseph Garman) Washington clenched his hand into a fist to wave it at the leader when from his fist injuries as searing flames followed the blast at the Army's giant ammunition depot west of here Wednesday night. Thirteen other persons suffered injuries, but only four of them were kept in hospitals overnight. The 11th death occurred at a hospital early today, more than seven hours after the assembly line explosion. "We're pretty sure that's all," the commander of the semijoint installation, Lt. Col. Duane Harris, said after firemen finished the building. "But you are helpless, out-gunned, and the fire burned fiercely until it was controlled about 12:15 a.m., destroying the roof of the building. Extremes heat and a danger of further explosions kept investigators from entering for more than an hour. "I wouldn't even try to estimate the damage at this point," Harris said, adding it may take

Ammo Depot Explosion Takes 11 Lives; 13 Hurt

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP)—A 106mm shell blew up as workers loaded it with high explosive later. The dead and injured were civilian employees in the Lone Star Star wing of the huge arsenal, which manufactures and stores ammunition for the Army. Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of relatives. Five of the injured remained in hospitals overnight and one died. Attendants said many suffered minor injuries from flying debris. Fifteen people were working on the loading line where the explosion occurred and others among the dead or injured were in the immediate vicinity, Harris said. The depot's Lone Star wing is 10 miles west of Texarkana on U.S. 82. It is in Zone E of the sprawling military reservation, which the commandant said was being blocked off while other operations continued today. This was the second major explosion at the facility. One employee died and 21 were injured in a blast July 8, 1963. Sheriff's officers quickly diverted all other traffic from the highway between the depot and Texarkana to clear the way for ambulances shuttling back and forth Wednesday night.

LBJ Plans Would Help Consumers

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson sent Congress today a 12-point program which he said would "protect the American consumer." It calls for stiffer regulation of consumer loans, mail order land sales, mutual funds, welfare and pension plans, some medical laboratories, and natural gas pipelines. These were some of the high points included by Johnson in a special message which he summed up in these words: "The cost to taxpayers of carrying out these proposals is very small. The savings to them as consumers will be great—in dollars, in safety, and in peace of mind." Once again, the President urged Congress to enact a "truth in lending" law that would make certain the installment buyer is told the percentage rate of interest in carrying charges he must pay on his purchases. If this was a hardy perennial idea for protecting consumers, Johnson also advocated a number of new proposals. (See Page Eight)

Help for Taxpayers IV

Make Sure to Count All Your Dependents

EDITOR'S NOTE — For income tax purposes, a wife is not considered a dependent, but some relative, or even a friend, might be. This is the fourth of five articles on income tax returns. WASHINGTON (AP)—Claim every exemption you rightfully can in filing your 1966 income tax return since each one means $600 knocked off your taxable income. This is true for yourself, your wife, and your dependents. But the rules on dependents vary, particularly the rules on a dependent. A wife is not considered a dependent for income tax purposes. Everyone filing a return gets $600 exemption for himself. If he is under 65, $1,200 if he is 65 or older, and an extra $600 if he is blind. He gets the same for his wife but only up to a point. He gets a $600 exemption for his wife only if she files a joint return with him, whether or not she had income, or if she had no income, she fails to file jointly with him and she is not a dependent of another taxpayer. If she had $600 or more income, she must file a return, either separately or jointly with her husband. If she files separately, she takes her $600 exemption on her return, he takes his on his return. If the wife died any time in all — say it was less than $600 and therefore didn't require a return from her — her husband can claim no exemption for her unless she files jointly with him. Failure to file jointly in a case like that is throwing away all or a part of a $600 exemption. If the wife died any time in 1966 and the husband did not remarry in that year, he can claim a $600 exemption for her and file a joint return. So much on married couples. Now for dependents. A dependent could be your child, stepchild, adopted child, parent, or some other relative, or even a friend. But you get no extra (See Page Eleven)

Searching the ship for remaining pesky Plutonians, the brave crew located one in the ship's bell. "Should I konk the bell and drive him out?" asked General George (Joseph Garman) Washington. "Yes, yes," shouted the crew resoundingly. "No," said Seaman Shoor. But the general konked the bell anyway and a small, purple Plutonian rolled across the deck and into the water. "That was no Plutonian," exclaimed Lt. Col. Leo Juran. "That was a purple candy mint Seaman Shoor had hidden there for later." They all looked at Shoor, whereupon he smiled a somewhat pained smile and curled up on the floor and the subsequent proceedings interested him no more. (Herald photo by Saterini)

Use of Legion Hall by Town Proposed at Council Meeting

Councilman Daniel P. Cavanaugh, reporting on the American Legion Hall, Main St., reported that he had proposed to the Board of Education that the building could be put into suitable condition and used for town recreational programs. Councilman Cavanaugh and Councilwoman Mrs. Barbara Murray were appointed at the town council meeting last night to study long range plans for the disposition of the hall. Noting that a meeting of the American Legion Post was held Tuesday night, Councilman Cavanaugh said he attended the meeting and discussed the matter with Legion members. Noting that the hall had been turned over to the Legion many years ago, Cavanaugh said it had been a problem to the town at that time. He noted that some renovation and an addition had been made at the time. It was hoped that the facility would be self-sustaining and some revenue would be derived from the $10,000 to improve bowling facilities at the hall. This was done to bring in additional revenue to aid in the maintenance costs. However, the hall is still a "hanging proposition" Cavanaugh noted, with no funds for capital improvement or need repairs available. The Legion made a request to the town for an appropriation to paint the building and to facilitate other repairs some months ago. After the appointment of Mrs. Murray and Cavanaugh, it was determined that the outstanding debt on the hall is $10,000 payable for nine months per year at the rate of $12 per month. Cavanaugh noted that it is impossible for the town to pay the day to day operating expenses of the facility or to set aside any money for capital improvements or maintenance. Arrangements could be made to settle the outstanding debt for $4,200, but the initial problem of what disposition could be made of the hall still remains, Cavanaugh said. The Legion has not expressed any interest in continuing to maintain the responsibility for the hall, Cavanaugh commented. An alternate suggestion would be for the Legion Post to quit claim the deed to the building to the town and the town would then assume the outstanding debt. If the property was sold within a reasonable length of time (6 years) at a profit, the profit would revert to the Legion. Also included in the alternate proposal would be a "lease back" arrangement with the Legion for the use of a room on the second floor of the hall where Legion meetings are held. Cavanaugh noted that arrangements with the Legion Post are not presenting the difficulty. The question is what the town will do with the building if it is taken back. OPONENT WILL HELP IF HE HAS NO CHOICE

When you can't do something by yourself, ask an opponent to do it for you. If you use the right kind of persuasion you may get what you want. Ongoing lead—king of hearts. West opens the king of hearts, and you win with dummy's ace and return a club. Your object is to get to your hand by ruffing the third round of clubs; and then you will try a finesse in spades. The opponents take a heart and two clubs and then lead a third club, for lack of anything better to do. You ruff the third club and lead a spade, winning a finesse with dummy's ten. So far so good, but it is not enough. You must get to your hand to take a second spade finesse if you want to make your contract. Lead King You lead the king of diamonds from dummy, but West is too alert to take the ace. If you could win the next diamond with your hand with the queen; and then you would take a second spade finesse. As it is, there is no entry to your hand. How do you manage to get that second spade finesse? Lead another diamond from dummy. West wins with the ace of diamonds and has to find a way of getting out of the lead. If West leads a trump, you get the finesse then and there. If West leads a heart (or if he leads a club to lead), you can take the second trump finesse. You cannot get to your hand by your own efforts, but West will come to your rescue if you give him no choice. Partner opens with the spade, and the next player passes. Wagon Stolen From Garage A car belonging to Clifford Lautenbach of 50 West St. was reported to police as stolen early this morning and the garage where the car was kept had heavy damage to it, police say. The victim told police he had parked the 1960 Chevrolet station wagon in the garage last night, and that it was missing this morning. The damage to the garage was discovered shortly after midnight. Police say there is considerable damage to the garage and there apparently is some damage to the front fender and bumper of the car and that there is also green house paint on the car.

Salary Study Report Okayed by Council

The town council last night approved the report of the salary study committee with the exception of the proposed vacation schedule. The council approved a schedule of five days' vacation time after six months of employment; 10 days after one year; 15 days after two years; and 20 days after three years.

The committee recommended that the town engineer and director of public works under the title "Director of Public Works" with no change in the salary grade. This is in contrast to the position of the town engineer and director of public works under the title "Director of Public Works" with no change in the salary grade.

The committee further recommended that future increases should be based on the consumer price index and suggests that the matter be reviewed annually in the latter part of the year.

The committee also recommended that the town manager should be paid a salary commensurate with the town manager in the Greater Hartford area.

In Quest Of Livability

For a long time experts in the field of sociological, architectural, and city planning theory have been preaching to New York City the necessity of some cessation in the business of expanding the city vertically without doing anything about the problem of transporting people in and out of high rise offices and residences.

And for a long time these experts have been classified as interesting crackpots, who might indeed have some value if men were ever able to start from scratch and do things all over again, but who could not very well be conceded any real influence in the world of practical matters.

As a practice, as opposed to theory, New York City has kept building taller and taller, trying to accommodate an unlimited number of business activities and an unlimited number of people in spite of the fact that space for people to stand on, ride over, and be transported in remains limited, or even keeps diminishing.

Now, as sometimes happens in mortal affairs, the treatment theories of these Cassandras and Jeremiahs are suddenly being revealed in a close relationship to actual events.

New York City is now faced, suddenly, with the definite lack of the central, national headquarters offices of many of the country's largest and most prestigious corporations—Pepsi-Cola, Olin Mathieson, and American Can. Pepsi-Cola is to take over a new club in Westchester; Olin Mathieson is setting up a campus style headquarters in Stamford; American Can is working to get itself located on a 225 acre tract in Greenwich.

Why such exodus? Primarily because, as the theorists have been trying to preach for many years, it sooner or later becomes obvious that the horizontal enterprise cannot function at top health unless there are arteries and lungs for the circulation and exchange of fresh blood and fresh air.

Three such corporate defections, even with others also in the works, will not upset New York City's traditional role as the big center of corporate majesties. But it will warn the city that, if it wishes to retain what it still has, it will pay some heed to the theorists, and begin planning and acting to provide more room for what it has now, in the space it has now, rather than spend so much of its energy and enterprise trying to fit more activity into the same basic amount of space.

As for Connecticut, New York City's bad news has an elementally cheerful aspect. One convenient way to boom a state, obviously, is to have it located near a great city which has begun to exhaust its own livabilities.

But all such new corporate residents of the state bring with them, a message too, a message contained in their reason for coming. It behooves Connecticut not to let the automation of goods and getting things into being carelessly with that present degree of livability which constitutes one of its present most valuable attractions.

The Case Nobody Wants

The Supreme Court has refused, for the moment at least, to become involved in the issue of whether or not the 1966 law that forbids the burning of draft cards is a constitutional law. The Court's decision not to accept the issue and try to resolve it leaves the law free to operate, as it is now operating, against a series of young men who have considered it either a matter of conscience, or a matter of smart-aleck protest, to commit the symbolic gesture.

No one hopes to be authoritative in stating the mysteries of a Court refusal to entertain a case.

But one can surmise that the Court was not afraid of the 1965 burning law in particular, and that it might have felt free enough to consider the issue of draft card burning by itself if it had not been conscious of another, and more fundamental issue which has now been waiting, for some time, any kind of opportunity to get any kind of hearing before the Supreme Court. This is the contention, made by some of our draft defiers, that they are acting in accordance with the law handed down at the Nuremberg Trials, and presumably accepted, inferentially at least, by the nations which handed them down at Nuremberg.

The verdict at Nuremberg was that individuals who should have been able to see for themselves that the war Hitler and the Nazis were planning and waging were illegal and immoral had a legal responsibility to refuse to comply with orders which required them to play a part in such war crimes.

Most of our draft defiers claim they are merely honoring the Nuremberg laws we ourselves helped write and enforce, against the Germans, and that all they are doing is exercising their individual conscience against a war they themselves judge to be illegal and immoral. They do not, they claim with legal tongue in cheek, want to commit Nuremberg crimes by participating in the war in Vietnam.

They haven't yet found a judge, on any level of the bench, anywhere in the country, who will even let them present their argument.

And we guess that the Supreme Court is in no hurry to get before itself any kind of case into which the Nuremberg argument could be introduced. For it might have to label Nuremberg either a source of law or a crime in itself.

Fending any Supreme Court ruling, we will render a standing verdict. The one war crime which is consistently provable is the crime of losing.

An Auspicious Start

Rarely has the Hall of the House of Representatives in Hartford been the scene of such unanimity of opinion on a major issue as was the case last week during the hearing on the Dempsey administration's measure to implement the Clean Water Task Force recommendations for elimination of pollution from the state's waterways. While some of the speakers had reservations on specifics, all of them were solidly behind the program and that included legislators of both major parties.

The recent fact that space for people to stand on, ride over, and be transported in remains limited, or even keeps diminishing.

Now, as sometimes happens in mortal affairs, the treatment theories of these Cassandras and Jeremiahs are suddenly being revealed in a close relationship to actual events.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

We don't want to seem to raise the amount of stakes on the line just as the Republican Party of Connecticut enters its final week of dealing itself its showdown hand on the post-1968 election. But it does seem to us that to be running the Republican Party in this state for the next three years would be a rather exciting and potentially very profitable kind of gamble.

If, on the eve of a Republican reorganization, we are receiving upward our idea of what control of the Republican Party in the state may be worth, it is because we have, ever since the election of last November, steadily been revising our view of the might-have-beens of 1968.

The next Republican state chairman will be facing, first, the Presidential election of 1968, a prospect which can be given some chance of success both in the nation and in the state, certainly, at least, a chance much greater than the party ever possessed in 1964.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—Many of the same right-wing moneybags who bankrolled Barry Goldwater's presidential drive in 1964 tipped their intentions for 1968 by financing Richard M. Nixon's cross-country travels last fall.

Three innocuously named committees—the Committee for the Election of Republican Candidates, the Committee for the Election of Republican Candidates, and the Committee for the Election of Republican Candidates—were set up to finance Nixon's campaign.

A Thought For Today

"At a time when you should be teaching others, you need teachers yourselves to repeat to you the A B C of God's revelation to men." Heb. 5:12

Christian faith is not so much a static commodity to be acquired once then put away like a kind of insurance policy. Rather, it is a process of growing and maturing and constant redirecting all of life.

Assembling the News

By SOL E. COHEN

Gov. John Dempsey took 42 minutes yesterday to read his 1967-68 Budget Message to a joint session of the State Assembly. He received three standing ovations—once when he entered the House Chamber, another when he was introduced by Lt. Gov. Attilio Frassinetti, and a third when he interrupted his presentation and left.

But the two may not be able to co-exist. John Davis Lodge's legislative committee reviewing the Eisenhower administration has been less than successful. Lodge got a non-committal answer from the prestigious Wall Street banker Thomas Gates, President Eisenhower's secretary of defense. The right-wing roster of 1966 Nixon contributors won't make Lodge's efforts any easier.

Regional applause was heard each time he mentioned a proposed project in a particular town or region.

Senate Chaplain Father Patrick J. Speer of West Hartford drew a gasp from the legislators when, in delivering the prayer, preceding the House session, he said, "If squander we may, let it be for the love and the good of the people of Connecticut."

Few of the legislators were willing to comment on the governor's budget. Those who did were critical of the elimination of pet proposals.

On a whole, the lawmakers appeared pleased that no new taxes were proposed.

Many of the legislators adjourned to the 4th floor Hallway Room, headquarters for male Assembly members.

Democratic Rep. Ruby Cohen of Colchester surprised them with a 27-pound lobster and a bucket of shrimp, both cooked now $2.99. Men's gray Orton cardigans now $3.75. Misses' long-leeve Ban-Lon pullovers, $3.00. Full-fashion all wool cable-knit cardigans or pullovers incredibly priced at $3.99 in misses' sizes 38 to 40. Misses' fully lined wool skirts $3.00. Famous label "Strubridge Village" dyed-to-match sweaters, now $3.75 each in beautiful pastel colors. All better blouses formerly $2.75 now $3.75.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By DORIS BELDING

A few years ago Mrs. Raymond L. (Ruth) Smith of Walnut St. purchased the recipe for Queen Elizabeth II Cake from a fund-raising recipe exchange conducted at her church. She also was a member of a Recipe Club several years ago and received a recipe from the Middle West for Four Step Chicken Casserole which, she says, is "wonderful for a buffet and never fails to win praise and compliments each time I serve it."

- Queen Elizabeth II Cake
- 1 cup chopped dates
 - 1 teaspoon baking soda
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1/2 cup butter (half of quarter-pound stick)
 - 1 egg, beaten
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1 1/2 cups flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1 teaspoon salt
- Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 9 x 12 x 2-inch pan. Place chopped dates and baking soda in bowl and cover with boiling water. Let stand until cool. Cream butter, sugar and egg. Add remaining ingredients and blend. Add batter to date mixture. Place cakes in greased pan and bake 30-35 minutes. Remove from oven and spread with boiled topping.

- Boiled Topping
- 6 tablespoons sugar
 - 6 tablespoons cream or evaporated milk
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - 1 cup chopped nuts (walnuts or pecans)
- Melted coconut (optional)
- Mix sugar, cream and milk in saucepan over medium heat and bring to boil for three minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and spread quickly on warm cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts and bake 10-15 minutes. The cake keeps well and may be stored for one week. She also mentioned it was "especially wonderful" when served with vanilla ice cream.

They have a married son, Bruce, who is a member of the Manchester Police. Mrs. Smith says she keeps the recipe for Queen Elizabeth II Cake in a special place in her kitchen. She also mentioned it was "especially wonderful" when served with vanilla ice cream.

Robert Cratty, 20, of 83 Oak St. was admitted to Manchester Memorial Hospital last night shortly before 10 with a knife wound in his side.

Hospital officials say his condition is serious but that he is progressing satisfactorily.

Donald Cratty, 27, Maple St., Robert's brother, said Robert was sharpening a knife and had laid it down. The knife had lodged in a drawer, he said, and when his brother turned suddenly the knife went into his side.

Donald Cratty said he had seen his brother this morning and that "the way okay now." Police say Cratty was found in his home on Oak St., and he put in a call for an ambulance and he was taken to the hospital emergency room.

Help for Taxpayers IV Make Sure to Count All Your Dependents

exemption for a dependent because he is over 21. There is one well-known test — called the support test — on which you can claim a person as a dependent: Did you contribute more than half his support in 1966?

Remember: Anyone under 18 who had $600 or more income of his own in 1966 must file his own return and take his own exemption on that return. But suppose you had an under-18 child for whom you met the support test. You could claim him as a dependent, take a $600 exemption for him on your return — even though he may have had $600 or more income and taken his own $600 exemption on his return — and you wouldn't have to report his income on your return. The test is whether you contributed more than half the support of this under-18 child.

But the rule is different if he was 19 or over and had $600 or more income, even though in his case you also met the support test. In his case you couldn't claim him as a dependent — even though you contributed more than half his support — unless he was a full-time student. And he couldn't be considered one if he had a full-time job during the day and went to school at night or took correspondence courses. But you could claim a $600 exemption for him if he qualified as a full-time student — no matter how much he earned — and got more than half his support from you.

Suppose your dependent child won a scholarship. You can ignore its value in figuring whether you paid more than half your child's support. You could claim a friend as a dependent if he lived in your home the full year and you met the support test. But you couldn't make the claim, even though he got more than half his support from you, if he had taxable income of $600 or more.

Following is a list of other relatives whom you could claim as a dependent but only if you provided more than half the support for that relative and he did not have as much as $600 in taxable income in 1966:

Your grandchild, great-grandchild, and so on; your legally adopted child (not stepchild, but not the latter's descendants); your brother or sister; your parents, grandparents or other direct ancestors, but not a foster parent; your stepfather or stepmother; your stepson or stepdaughter; your son or daughter, and such relatives as your father-in-law, daughter-in-law, or sister-in-law.

Generally, you could not claim them as dependents if they lived overseas, unless they were U.S. citizens.

Good Concert By Sympony

By JOHN GRUBER

Two romantic compositions provided the bulk of last night's Hartford Symphony Orchestra. Both received excellent performances, so the program turned out to be just about the best of the current season: Arthur Winograd conducted; Manahem Pressler was guest soloist. An extra number opened the program, played in memory of Mrs. Francis Goodwin II, a longtime patron of the orchestra.

Chopin and Liszt were the composers represented, both of whom have apparently gone out of fashion for no good reason. It was thus very pleasant to hear music that isn't heard all the time, and when the performances were as good as those of last night, the experience was distinctly pleasurable.

Chopin's F-minor Piano Concerto opened the program with Mr. Pressler as soloist. Conductors are prone to avoid this one since the orchestral parts are none too effective, but audiences always love the piano part. Last night was no exception, and Mr. Pressler was recalled again and again by the applause of the opening movement. He worked too hard at it. The finale, which is actually more difficult technically, was negotiated with much greater ease and a definite Chopin-esque flair.

Face Guard No Handicap to Big O

Robertson On Target, Cels Bow

NEW YORK (AP)—Oscar Robertson looks like a man from Mars in the cumbersome face guard he wears to protect his injured mouth but he's just the same old Wizard of Oz to the New York Knickerbockers.

Robertson put on one of his routine shots against the Knicks Wednesday night, leading Cincinnati to a 129-118 home victory. The Big O scored 46 points and added 11 assists in his one-man blitz against New York.

In other games Wednesday, Philadelphia downed Detroit 127-121 and Los Angeles whipped Boston 124-114. As a result, the 7ers opened up 47½ game lead over the Celtics in the Eastern Division race.

Robertson hit on 15 of 28 field goals and raised his average against the Knicks this season to better than 34 points per game. He got scoring by an average of 41 points per game in 24 games and Adrian Smith, who added 22.

Dick Barnett led the Knicks with 21 and Dick Van Arsdale had 20.

The victory moved Cincinnati within two games of New York in the race for third place in the Eastern Division.

At Detroit, Wally Jones did the early scoring and Billy Grier finished with the late points as Philadelphia whipped the Pistons for the seventh straight time.

Jones, who finished with 26 points, scored 12 in the first period and Cunningham had 18 of his 31 in the final quarter for the 7ers.

Dave Bing and Eddie Miles led the Pistons with 24 each.

On the West Coast, veteran Elgin Baylor collected 30 points and snared 21 rebounds in tripping Los Angeles to his ninth victory in the last 12 outings. Jerry West added 33 points while John Havlicek topped Boston with 24.

The Celtics led 33-30 at the end of the first period and 60-50 at halftime. The game began to get ugly as Los Angeles began to take over. Los Angeles went ahead 80-62 after three quarters while outscoring the Celtics 31-17 and pulled away to a 117-101 bulge with slightly more than three minutes to play.

The victory enabled the three-place Lakers to move with 2½ games in hand over St. Louis in the Western Division.

WEST SIDE MIDDLETNS
Pagan Barbera, bouncing off Regala's, had no trouble last night in downing Center Billards, a 43-28.

Tom Sloan (15) and the outside shooting of Jim Hamill (8) were the difference between the Barbera attack. Superb reserve scoring by Ray Zeigler (4), Peter Leber (4) and the floor play of Rick Gustafson (4) proved the difference between the two teams.

Bill Peoples (9), Gary Truck (8) and Scott Kelly (5) led the former Lecky-led team. Ron Langman (3) played well for the Cuemmen, who drop into second place in the league.

WEST SIDE PEE-WEES
Nassif Arms, 16-14, in an exciting contest, the second such type of game for the winners in as many nights.

Hot shooting by Chip Walsh, Dave Bing and Eddie Miles led the Pistons with 24 each.

Indiana Holds No. 1 Billing--At Least in Home of Coach

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Husband and wife coach duo of the Indiana University basketball team No. 1, at least in the home of the coach.

With Indiana in a four-way tie for top spot in the Big Ten, Norman Jean Watson, 38, wife of Coach Lou Watson, gives the team a boost in the family's living room home within blocks of the campus.

"It's a real team effort," Mrs. Watson said of the team's success. "I'm proud of my husband's coaching and my own coaching. We're both coaches and we're both parents of a prospective player."

Mrs. Watson, an ardent sports fan who loves basketball, attends all the college home games, and a few of them on the road and most of the high school basketball practices.

Dark-haired, attractive Mrs. Watson said she often listens to Indiana's basketball games on the radio. "I can't stand the humdrum," Mrs. Watson said.

Loa, 41, is in his second year at the University of Indiana. He has played for 14 years as freshman and assistant coach. Mike, 40, is still growing, takes after his 64 father and is a junior forward for Bloomington High School.

Loa's daughters, Lea Ann, 14, and July, 11, join their mother at the Indiana and high school games.

FINEST JOB
Hyde pulled off his finest coaching job this past season, although the third-place finish in the Big Ten, Burns was the only one to appear in the final. At East, his tournament success was a big feature in the final, victory in '65, run-up in 1964, another to the quarterfinals in addition to the tournament.

In the three previous appearances, Manchester has got by the playoffs only to run head into the second round. In 1964, Hyde led the team to the final, but he was unable to do so.

There is nobody foolish enough to believe Manchester can play in the class of Hartford, Weaver, Hillhouse or Cross. It is one of the sad parts of the tournament system, although there is no place to level the blame.

Hyde is proud of this year's entry which has done as much on simple "guts" as it has on skill. It's been a year of records and a year of upsets, such as the defeat of Hillhouse and the near miss against New Britain High.

The Indians, caught pesky by the larger schools, just might prove to be just the ticket, win or lose, both Manchester High and East Catholic are in the mix to be proud of.

BLAZING GUN
The Manchester Rifle Club senior team fired an excellent 1551 score in the recent Sectional Match at Middlefield in Torrington for first place.

The locals had held the lead for a short while before the old pros from Torrington came thru with an identical score.

Torrington has been the perennial powerhouse in competitive rifle shooting in the state for many years, defending championships in the National Sectional with a 1,550 score. Torrington was, as usual, by that dedicated hot shot, Grazianni, who fired a 393. Grazianni is present in the leading competitive shooter in New England, this being so mostly by his excellent active shooting schedule. He fires in at least two or three matches a week.

The locals, who suffered through a 106-point losing streak last year, were able to break between victories, made up for lost time against the Rangers, Hillhouse and the near miss against Hillhouse.

Manchester and Rockville To Renew Football Rivalry

After a lapse of 16 years, Manchester High and Rockville High will get together again on the gridiron. Manchester Football Coach Dave Wiggins and Athletic Director Tom Kelley announced the Indians will meet the Rams Oct. 28 in Rockville.

Wiggins pointed out that the game will be played on a one season contract basis. This leaves open the possibility of a Manchester-East Catholic clash in 1968.

The home-and-home series of 1950 and 1951 featured two close games, Manchester winning both 21-6 and 13-0.

Next fall's grid slate opens Sept. 22 with Concord and closes Thanksgiving Day with Windham High at Memorial Field. The Turkey Day contest with Windham will also close out next season.

Cheney Ends Slate With 15th Hoop Luss

There won't be any tournament action for Cheney Tech's basketball squad. The Rangers, first to close up shop for the 1966-67 season, absorbed their 15th defeat in 19 straight at the hands of Prince Tech of Hartford yesterday afternoon at the local gym. The setback was also the eighth straight.

For hard-working Johnny Klein, Cheney senior's time to sit back and relax and hope all his promising underclassmen return next season.

The Rangers got off the mark well during the early going but fell into a rut before midway and never recovered. Cheney, backed by the early hit in double figures which produced the Wesleyan win, supported the student body, played hard-nosed, aggressive defense and at the half, broke down Wesleyan's defense. Cheney's Madison Square Garden, Prince was well out in front, 42-16, the home crowd cheering from Massachusetts Tech 67-57 but one basket and one free throw in the second eight minutes of play.

Cal Morgan was just too high scoring honors in the game with 15 points, including five single digit tallies from the line.

Best offensive show of the season by Al Dux found Cheney in double figures, Dux with only two minutes left, the Bonnies were ahead 88-77. But Fairfield's Bill Britt led a Mike Chumcheck and Dan Tracy.
