President In State For Visit

VOL. LXXXVI, NO. 191

By SOL R. COHEN

President Johnson, looking fit and trim, stepped off Air Force One, the presidential jet, at exactly 1:45 p.m. today at Bradley International Airport. He arrived-without previous official confirmation from Washington that he would make the trin-for a conference with the six New England governors.

Over 200 newspaper, radio and television representatives have received credentials allowing them to cover the President's visit. Included are about 20 members of the White House press corps, the rest New England newsmen.

Special rooms were arranged for the press - one for the White House group, another for the area men and women. All the governors but Gov. Dempsey arrived by plane, Connecticut's chief executive making the brief trip from Hartford by auto. Connecticut's Gov. John

Bomb Threat Clears Webb Hotel Chain

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - A bomb and a note demanding $75,000 were found in a tower room at the Sahara Hotel-Casino on the Las Vegas strip today after thousands of guests evacuated from Del Webb hotels in Nevada, California and

The Clark County Sheriff's Office said the bomb was found after a man called the pit, or center of the gambling area, in the Sahara and said the device was set to go off about 5 a.m. Deputies found the bomb in Room 4014 on the 12th floor of the hotel-casino. It was in a wooden box attached to a wall in a closet. Officers hooked a rope around it and pulled it down. They dragged it to a service elevator and out the back of the building. There was no explosion.

Inside the box were a series of plastic pipes filled with powder, deputies said. They were unable immediately to identify the type Near the device was a page-

U.S. Downs, Loses Three Warplanes

SAIGON (AP) - Heavy ground fighting and severe Communist barrages continued to cause sharply increasing American casualties as a big new battle appeared to be building up between the U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese regulars just south of the demilitarized zone.

The Marines reported 12 dead and 92 wounded in attacks Sunday, and that did not include casualty reports from one of the day's sharpest pitched battles with the North Vitnamese.

Only 27 Communists were reported killed. In the eir, the U.S. Command announced the loss of three planes Sunday - matching the number of Soviet-built MIG jets downed by American airmen in dogfights over the North. One U. S. jet was lost to ground fire in the South, making 179 combat planes downed there since the war began. In the North, one jet was lost to ground fire and one to unknown causes, making 541 combat planes lost over North Vietnam. Hanol claimed seven U. S jets were downed Sunday. The three MIGs reported downed brought the American core for the weekend to 10 kills and two probables. The Air Force announced seven Red jets

U. S. Marines reported killing 110 North Vietnamese regulars in a running battle southwest of Da Nang. The Marines have swept over a hill in the area and are pushing through a jungled valley toward the Ly Ly River. The fighting there has been going on since last Friday. The Reds have clung doggedly to hidden bunkers and trenchlines buried in the jungles and along low ridges of the area.

appeal to the Court

South Windsor

of Common Pleas in Hartford has been filed following a zon-ing board of appeals ruling not to revoke a building permit is-sued for the erection two radiotelevision antennas on the prop erty of Alfred F. Yacavone, 1 Climton Dr., Wapping. Property owners in the vicin tty of Yacavone's property protested the issuance of a permit by building inspector Donald McLaughlin on the grounds that the zoning ordinance of the town do not allow such a use in an AA-30 zone. They also agreed that the value of surrounding property will be greatly dimin ished if the antennas are allowed to be constructed and that in denying their original appeal, the zoning board of appeals "acted illegally, arbitrarily and in abuse of the discre-

Two suits were filed by Edward T. and Marlene Geddes, Broadleaf Dr., and Donald R. and Betty Joyce Sherman, One is against Yacavone and building inspector McLaughlin seeking a temporary and ermanent injunction restraining Yacavone from constructing the antennas, an order of the court directing McLaughlin to revoke the permit and seeking $7,500 damages from Yacavone. The other suit is against the coning board of appeals and McLaughlin charging that in refusing to order the permit reroked certain members of the on April 13, for the two antennas, one 32 feet and the other 58 feet to be erected on Yacavone's property. In refusing to revoke the permit, the zoning sory use of the property was the major question. Building inspector McLaughlin defended the issuance of the permit stating that under the zoning regulations he was duty bound to do so.

Atty. Donnelly raised the question whether the permission to erect the towers constituted an accessory use in the AA-30 zone. He also questioned whether the towers presented a safeway to school and contended that the antennas would not be located where the original variance had stipulated. Yacavone told the zoning board of appeals that the height of the antennas was a prime factor in proper reception and the type of towers he was erect-

Ford Seeks A Political Divorce The Goldwater campaign aside, the typical shape of a Republican Presidential campaign over the past 30 years has offered a moderate candidate for the Presidency campaigning with a reactionary Republican record in Congress hanging around his neck like a millstone. Dwight Eisenhower, a candidate selected primarily by the Republican governors of the time, had popularity enough to win in spite of the congressional handicap, but it was noteworthy that even his great personal triumjphs could not produce Republican dominance in the Congress. Eisenhower, as President, succeeded in softening the Republican record in Congress, too, but also often had to face his own worst opposition from his own party. This long and almost traditional discord between the atmosphere the Republican party wears as it functions in Congress and the atmosphere it puts on when it writes its platforms and selects its candidates for Presidential Campaigns may be drawing to a close, if Congressman Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, minority leader in the House, means what he has now begun saying. Congressman Ford admits that he is trying to divorce the historic legislashort on the market. tive partnership between the Republicans of Congress and the conservative cruts of the South. This is the al liance which has been the perpetual temptation and snare for the Republicans, precisely because the combination offered so many chances to control Con-What Congressman Ford now proposes, and what he says he intends to ready does naturally.

work for, is a Republican strategy which gives up some of these specific legislative victories but which will, he opes, "drive Southern Democrats in the House into the arms of the Administra tion, where they belong, on votes that will hurt them in their home Congressional districts."

gress on specific issues.

Congressman Ford's strategy is not, one must note, any charming matter of high principle. He merely thinks, in the most elemental practical political vein, that if he can keep the reactionary Southern Democrats from achieving so much success in Congress with Republican help, their reactionary home districts will be forced to turn toward Republican candidates instead. But it may prove that the specific grounds for the divorce Congressman Ford is attempting to decree are less lasting in effect than the divorce itself. The condition he seeks is one in which the classic coalition of Republican and Southern Democratic votes no longer functions automatically to control the Congress on a whole list of issues.

And the advantage he seeks - that of the possible election of more Republican congressmen for control of congress itself-may prove much less important to the party and the country than the fact that future Republican presidential candidates may, not find their party's record in Congress such a dismal load to carry as it has been in

The basic thing about the role of the Southern conservative vote in presidential elections is that the Republicans can get it, and still not win the presidency, but that the Democrats can lose it, and still walk off with the main prize. "I think," says Congressman Ford, "It is far better to lose a few legislative battles and win the next election. We won't win as many legislative fights as we could if we resorted to the old coalition tactios, but it's the big prize that counts, and that's what we're after." It sounds like sound Republican politics especially encouraging because it comes from the Congressional quarter.

accused of much immaturity and innam, he has managed to establish one consistency. This is his repeatedly exessed dread of the possibility that the United States may wind up doing absolately everything in Vietnam, leaving no sibility and no real role to th cople we are trying to help. Quite naturally, then, he is in the ant line with comment on a Johnson administration decision which happens to be one he himself had previously warned against—the decision to put the "other war," too, directly into the hands of the U.S. military.

Governor Romney, at Hartford, took the view that the "shooting war" in Vietnam had already been almost totally Americanized, as the battle reports and casualty figures prove. He holds that it would be "tragic error" to ask our troops to take over, as well, "the other war" which is sometimes labeled pacification, and which more recently has been called the "revolutionary development," or RD

Now precisely the thing Governor Romney has feared seems in the works. It means not only an increased need for American troops in Vietnam. It also means even less reliance on the Vietnamese themselves to do something about the basic problem of the war, which is how to interest the peasants of the country in Saigon's version of government. But the worst thing it means is that,

y increased Americanization of everything in Vietnam, by increased emphasis and expansion of the American presence there, it guarantees the gradual accumulation of hate for us not as the rescuers, out as the new masters. These people have been fighting almost continuously for the past quarter century to throw off outside rule. They are not likely to consider themselves fortunate now to be attracting the most massive occupation in their entire history.

What would you do, President Johnson might well ask Governor Romney, and that would, we wager, have the Governor stopped in his critical tracks. This is about the third or fourth Presidential revision of the planning and conduct of "the other war," each an admission that its predecessor, no matter how optimistically inaugurated, has proved a failure. We have somehow had the unique genius, and the unique misfortune, to get ourselves into troubles for which there is no good answer. And, rather than let somebody else try to throw us a rope, we thrash around in our own quicksand.

Watching The Skirts Go Buy

In we don't know how many years of following the exercise of the market savants and the financial pages we had never encountered a piece of experting to which we could give unquestioning lovalty and investing trust until just the other day, when a certain brokerage house announced that it had discovered a remarkable correlation between the prices of stocks and the height of women's skirts.

When skirts go up, stocks go up. But if the hemlines begin to creep downward and long, that's the time to sell

This is easy to believe not only because it makes just as much sense as stocks, but because the formula itself is so blessedly simple. All one has to do is watch the skirts go by and then go buy or sell accordingly. The large 40 by 60 foot bal loon was described by some as resembling a giant monster ever changing in shape, as it was being filled with hot air. Winds whipped the gracefully billowing folds of the balloon, causing great difficulty for the men attempting to control it with guidelines.

The winds made it impossible to fill the balloon to its capacity without having the balloon en dangered by propane gas flame used to heat the air. The balloon takes 30,000 cubic feet of air equal to one tor The air is heated to 150 degree before lift off, by a propan burner located directly overhead of the single seat gondola. The propane burner throws a flame 20 feet long, and could heat the average house to 150 degrees in four minutes, according to Mac-Arthur. The flight altitude is controlled by regulating the emount of hot air in the balloon by the propane burner. He had been toying with the idea of purchasing a manned balloon since January, when he began to receive requests for exhibitions. - George Knudson, like Frank Beard, will always have fond memories of the 15th hole at Lakewood Country Club. Knudson, an ex-caddy from Canada, used a shot "I didn't know I had in my bag" Sunday at 15 and went on to capture the $20,000 first-prize money in the $100,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tourney. He beat Jack Nicklaus by shot, keeping the Ohio strongboy from his first official victory on the PGA national tour this year and wheting Nicklaus' appetite for this week's Colonial National Invitational in Fort Worth, Tex.

Nicklaus made no excuses, save for a wry comment about landing in a bunker "where it looked like about 30 people had been walking in it." 'Well, on to next week," he said as he picked up his $12,000 check for second place. Knudson, 29, was the only player in this year's tourney to get a birdie on the 53-yard par 5 pole. Beard, who finished third this year, won the tourney last year with an eagle on the same Nicklaus hit what 'I thought was a good putt" from three feet on the same hole for a birdie, "but it hit the bottom of the hole and came out." Nicklaus and Knudson began the final round over the windswept course, with its 7-020yards playing short because of sun-baked fairways, tied for the lead. Beard was two shots back. Knudson wound up with a 70, two under par, for a 72-hole acore of 277. Nicklaus' final round was 70. So was Beard's. KEEPING HEATING COSTS DOWN

We have our own servicemen. Not everyone does. Our men are interested in making your furnace perform at its highest efficiency and lowest cost because then you'll keep buying oil from us. Remember, three out of four furnaces waste fuel. Thanks to Mobil Technical Research our men have the latest facts on how to make your furnace the one-in-four that keeps heating costs at a minimum. There's a big difference in distributors. Let one of our servicemen earn another gold star by showing you how big that difference can be.
