Hope to Save UN 'Face' Soviets Wooing Latin Americans

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The Soviet Union began wooing Latin American members of the United Nations today in an effort to salvage some of the U.N. credit lost in the Assembly session on the Middle East when it failed to pass a resolution on the future of the strip.

Informed sources said Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov was urging the Latin American members of the U.N. to support a resolution on the future of the strip. The U.N. members split almost evenly over the resolution, which demanded that Israel pull its troops out of Egypt, Jordan and Syria, and the Latin American proposal coupling a withdrawal demand with a demand that the Arabs and the state of Israel be recognized as the only legitimate government in the area since 1948.

The Russians and the Arabs backed the nonaligned resolution, while the United States and Israel supported the Latin American draft.

Defeat of the nonaligned resolution was another setback for the Soviet Union, which had asked for the emergency assembly session and sent Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to press the Arab case.

There was considerable hope that a resolution which would be adopted by the assembly would be no more than a general expression of hope for a peaceful resolution of the crisis and that the matter would revert to the Security Council.

Assistant White House press secretary Tom Sawyer said the U.S. government believes the Soviet Union is "the best kind of people who were expected to act in a special way."

Youth Riots Will Grow, Expert Says

CHICAGO (AP) — The student and teen-ager riots that have become annual events at some of America's best summer and winter resorts will continue and perhaps grow larger and spread to more places, a sociologist predicted today.

Bernard Beck, Ph.D., assistant professor of sociology at Northwestern University, said in an interview that these youths gather at places where they are unknown with the avowed purpose of breaking out of their ordinary routine.

"A lot of the public concern is that college students were once looked upon as special kinds of people who were expected to act in a special way," Beck said.

"What is changing," he added, "teen-agers are coming to regard themselves as ordinary people and they want the same autonomy and freedom that is allowed others."

Although he said there is considerable difference in scale, he compared the student uprisings with the antics of some convention delegates who block traffic and play practical jokes on spectators, usually without interference from the police.

"What these kids are doing is like an outdoor sport for them," Beck said. "But they know the police are keeping a sharper eye on them. Because the police are more watchful and intervene sooner, resentment is triggered once that intervention occurs."

Beck said permanent residents in such resort areas as Lake Geneva, Wis., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the youths who flock there for vacations have completely different viewpoints on what constitutes "having fun."

He said some "heightening overtones" of the youthful escapades might be avoided if there were a closer meeting of minds or if special resort areas were established to cater to the special desires of young people.

National Guardsmen and augmented police patrols were sent into Lake Geneva earlier this week after three days of turbulence by thousands of young holiday celebrators. About 400 youths were arrested.

The demonstrations marked the fifth straight year of holiday uprisings there.

Thousands of college students from all parts of the country have flocked to Florida resorts during Easter vacations in the past decade and hundreds are arrested each year.

In 1961, 50,000 youths rioted at Fort Lauderdale, and the National Guard was called out to quell the trouble.

She Didn't Wait for Protocol

Sandra Dobler, 5, wanted to see the queen and when she had the chance she didn't wait for protocol, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were being presented with an Indian sari on their arrival at Kingston, Ont., yesterday. Sandra scampered through police lines, held the queen's hand for a moment and they raced back to her mother.

Fighting Reported In Eastern Congo

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP) — The government radio reported hard fighting between Congolese forces and foreign mercenaries at Bukavu today and described the situation in the eastern Congo as grave.

The mercenaries were reported Wednesday to have been airlifted to Bukavu and Kiangani (Stanleyville), two major eastern cities. Quoting Congolese sources, the Belgian radio in Kinshasa said the foreign mercenaries had taken several important eastern points and that Congolese troops had counterattacked in Kiangani.

President Joseph D. Mobutu decreed a state of emergency throughout the country Wednesday and complained to the United Nations Security Council of aggression by invaders sent from "Western Countries."

It was widely believed that the mercenaries were acting on behalf of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe, kidnapped and taken to Tshombe. The report said they were taken by surprise.

Mobutu's messengers to the Security Council said the Belgian invaders were of the Belgian Congo.

Mobutu said foreign fighters had attacked the Congolese army in Bukavu and fighting was in progress.

The U. S. consul in Bukavu, Triston F. Crittler, reported to Washington that the town was under the control of mercenaries and that the Congolese army had parachuted into Bukavu.

Mobutu reported two plane-loads of foreign commandos had seized the airport at Kiangani, formerly Stanleyville and the biggest city in the northeast Congo, while the government radio claimed foreign mercenaries had parachuted into Bukavu.

Mobutu did not mention Tshombe, but the government radio said Tuesday that 200

Five Arrested In Disturbance At Music Show

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — Five persons, three of them policemen, were injured in a fracas Wednesday night at a rock 'n' roll show at Seaside Park.

Police said several youths left the audience to dance on the stage during one of the performances. Fighting broke out on the stage as police ordered them off.

Two girls and two young men were arrested.

Detective Andrew Alexy went to Bridgeport Hospital to treat a face injury and Patrolman John J. McGee sprained his fingers and lost his glasses in the fracas.

Richard A. Kapitaneck, 20, and Michael L. Paglia, 27, received face and head injuries. They were charged with assault on a police officer, breach of peace and rioting.

The arrests were announced by Police Officer Joseph J. McGee.

Newspaper Economic Study Set Next Week in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate antitrust subcommittee will open hearings next week that seem likely to become the first in-depth congressional study of newspaper business economics.

The hearings will center on a bill to permit an antitrust exemption for mergers or joint business and communications relations of newspapers, both dailies and weeklies, in order to save "failing newspapers."

Subcommittee aides report being flooded with requests to testify and with letters from strong stands for and against the bill. Some objections have been directed to wording of the measure rather than its basic purpose.

Labor unions were listed as leading the opposition. Newspaper publishers were described as split, with the strongest support from multiple-paper operators and with owners of suburban papers among the bill's fiercest opponents.

The hearings begin Wednesday. Nine additional days of hearings have been scheduled for July and six or seven more are planned in August. Further testimony will be given in November or December.

For the opening hearing the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., is likely to call William Small Jr., publisher of the Tucson Citizen; Eugene C. Dever, editor and publisher of the Rocky Mountain Journal; and Arthur B. Hanson, general counsel of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Altogether, 26 witnesses are listed for the hearings scheduled in July. They include several publishers as well as representatives of the International Typographical Union and the American Newspaper Guild and professors of economics and journalism.

Staff aides said comments already received indicate the bill will cover all aspects of newspaper publishing economics.

The bill was introduced by Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., on March 16 with 14 other senators. It was amended by T. Roosevelt in May. It is called the "Failing Newspaper Act."

It stems from an antitrust suit brought by the Justice Department in 1960 against the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Reds' Jungle Routes Blanketed by Bombs

$41 Billion Owned to US From WW I

WASHINGTON (AP) — Other nations now owe the United States more than $41 billion—about half in principal and interest from World War I debt.

Officials estimated today that foreign governments and organizations owe Uncle Sam about $20.8 billion as of last March 31 exclusive of interest and World War I debt.

Principal and interest from World War I added another $21 billion to the bill.

If that experience is any guide, the figures will go even higher.

Sixteen nations still owe money from World War I. At last listing 96 nations and 5 international organizations owed the other debt.

As of June 30, 1966, Israel's outstanding debt was $47 million compared with $60 million for the United Arab Republic which broke diplomatic relations with the United States during the recent Middle East war.

Israel owed $18 million as of the same date, Jordan $18 million, Syria $11 million, Lebanon $6 million and Saudi Arabia $2 million.

B52s Drop 500 Tons in Single Day

SAIGON (AP) — High-flying American B52 bombers blanketed the Communist infiltration route through the jungled A Chau valley with about 500 tons of bombs in the past 24 hours, the U.S. Command said today.

The giant Stratofortresses made a record number of eight raids during the period, six of them Wednesday night and one this morning against A Chau, due west of the big U.S. base at Da Nang.

The 20-mile-long valley enters South Vietnam from Laos about 30 miles below the demilitarized zone and has long been a vital infiltration route. It funnels supplies from the north to Communist units operating in the northernmost area of South Vietnam. The sector where U.S. forces have recently been under heavy attack.

The heavy bombing of the jungled valley was ordered after tactical bombers hitting the area were unable to penetrate because of heavy rain had caused several landslides in areas where heavy rain had loosened the soil. The landslides caused Red supply convoys to bunch up at narrow points in the valley.

A U.S. spokesman said immediate assessment of the bomb damage was not available. The heaviest 24 hours previously for the B52s was on Feb. 16, when 500 tons were dropped.

While the B52s rained steel on Da Nang, the U.S. Marines (See Page Twelve)

Rusk Renews U.S. To Full Viet Aid

CHICAGO (AP) — In a speech that was delayed by demonstrators against the war in Vietnam, Secretary of State Dean Rusk pledged today that the United States would stay in that country "until the right of the South Vietnamese people to work out their own future, under a government of their own choice has been secured."

Rusk entered the stadium through a rear door and did not see a group of about 40 pickets at the main entrance.

After Edward M. Lindsay, Secretary of State Dean Rusk pledged today that the United States would stay in that country "until the right of the South Vietnamese people to work out their own future, under a government of their own choice has been secured."

Rusk surveyed a wide range of foreign-policy issues from Vietnam to the Middle East and to relations with the Communist world.

On the Middle East situation, he said the United States could not impose a blueprint for peace, declaring that the primary responsibility rests upon those who live there and upon their governments.

Viet Casualties Drop, but Many Aren't Included

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war dropped markedly last week, but the report Thursday by the U.S. Command did not include the number of intense fighting along the demilitarized zone. Casualties in that action will not show up until next week's official summary.

The number of enemy reported killed also decreased last week, while the total of South Vietnamese government troops killed in action in the Vietnam war dropped to 1,829 at midnight Saturday, and 1,829 were wounded. No figures were available on the number missing, captured or held.

A week earlier 274 Americans were reported killed in action, 1,288 wounded and 14 missing.

There were 1,821 enemy reported killed in action.

Escaped Caught At 'Go-Go' Spot

OLD LYME (AP) — State police caught up with Eugene Cuddy, a convicted robber, at a "Go-Go" restaurant here Wednesday.

Cuddy slipped his handcuffs and escaped from sheriff's deputies in Waterbury June 6 as he was getting off a bus in front of Superior Court, where he was to be sentenced.

He had been convicted of robbing a Waterbury gas station and a restaurant, using a sawed-off shotgun as a weapon.

After getting an anonymous tip, state police detectives in plain clothes went to the Bramer Restaurant, where they found the 26-year-old escape working as a waiter.

Cuddy was held at the state high-speed study in the Boston-Washington, D.C. "corridor."

Solution More Remote Than Ever

The situation with regard to possible peace in Palestine remains, after all the debates in the United Nations General Assembly, as deadlocked as the warring itself proved to be.

Two positions were in direct clash with one another. One position, which held that the Israeli should unconditionally withdraw from the territory they occupied in the recent war, got 53 votes in favor, 48 against, with 20 abstentions.

The second position, that Israel should be expected to withdraw only after the Arab states had shown themselves willing to end their own state of "belligerency" against Israel, got 67 votes in favor, 43 against, and 20 abstentions.

With a few swings, then, each bloc in the United Nations succeeded in voting the other's proposition down, a two-thirds vote being required for victory for any resolution.

One resolution that could pass—and even it encountered abstention from the United States—was one which declared Israel's unification of the city of Jerusalem to be invalid.

Another resolution, expressing humanitarian solicitude for the victims of the recent war, was passed 115 to 6.

The impasse, at the United Nations, between Israel and the Arab states, remains this: Israel won't give up the territory which it has; the Arab states won't give up their belligerency, of which they don't seem to have very much.

If the Arab states would come to the table, and agree that Israel is a nation, and a rightful legal holder of its place in the Near East, Israel would probably agree to some territorial adjustments.

Though even Foreign Minister Eban, a moderate, proclaims the absorption of Jerusalem to be an irrevocable act.

That, as it is set down, may seem relatively simple and not beyond some possibility.

Actually, the probability is that the recent war has actually decreased the ability of either side to come to conditions which might represent those of permanent peace.

The President's Popularity Rise

The room in the President's popularity in recent poll results is a surprising, and, one must judge, potentially a very fragile thing.

Two circumstances are openly labeled as being responsible for the new poll results.

One is given as the President's handling of the crisis in the Near East.

That handling is neatly summarized: The President didn't even begin to head into the conflict with any unilateral intervention or participation of any kind.

The second circumstance given credit for the sudden change in feeling about the President is the Glassboro summit conference with Premier Kosygin.

So far as could be read in the subsequent pronouncements, those high level meetings produced no tangible results of any kind.

But, as the ordinary Americans of Glassboro (and elsewhere), people are tremendously thirsty for some demonstration of some "steadfastness" to doom in world leadership.

People wanted President Johnson to talk, to negotiate, to be polite, to be generous, to act like a civilized person.

So the quick surge in the President's poll popularity seems to come down to this: that he stayed out of the war in the Near East, and that he seemed, at last, to be talking directly, to somebody who matters, about getting out of the war in Vietnam.

Or, to give the whole thing one final translation, if the President should want more of this same kind of new popularity, he would continue, from this moment on, with a forward and exactly the opposite of that which he has hitherto followed.

He would continue, from this moment on, with a forward and exactly the opposite of that which he has hitherto followed.

He would continue, from this moment on, with a forward and exactly the opposite of that which he has hitherto followed.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. — It was just as well that Governor George Romney of Michigan had to tend to his knitting in Lansing last week and sent his attractive wife, Lenore, to the Republican governors' conference.

Romney wouldn't have liked the distinctly down-beat quality of the Romney talk among his fellow governors. More important, he would have liked even less the sharp but private criticism of what one pro-Romney governor called the "terrible heat" coming his way to the public endorsement of Romney for the nomination.

At a two-hour meeting Thursday evening nine hard-core Republican moderates, including two who have publicly endorsed Romney—New York's Nelson Rockefeller and Rhode Island's John Chafee—searched in vain for some formula that would demonstrate their solidarity behind either Romney or a Romney-type moderate to lead the party against President Johnson next year.

They couldn't agree, thus ending all but the last shadow of hope that moderate-minded Republican governors would be able as a group to exert major influence on the party before the all-important primary season begins next March.

Originally, the Romney camp hoped that this midsummer meeting of his fellow governors would yield a solid, smashing pro-Romney endorsement, thus giving his campaign a much-needed shot in the arm.

The prospect for anything so substantial as a majority of the 25 GOP governors faded long ago, and the target was reduced to five or six—including besides Rockefeller and Chafee, Nils Boe of South Dakota, Tom McCall of Oregon, David P. Cargill of New Mexico, and Walter J. Hekel of Alaska.

Even this plan was quietly dropped by the Romney camp ten days ago as out of reach.

The moderates are simply in no mood to be rushed. Some, like Cargill, have difficult and complex domestic problems within their parties back home.

Others, like McCall and Maryland's Spiro T. Agnew, find Romney a questionable Republican resource. They go out of their way to promote Nelson Rockefeller. "I'm not sure you're qualified," Agnew told Romney at a White House function last spring, only half-jokingly.

'Good Decision' — Kanell CTA Director Pleased At New Merger Delay

HARTFORD (AP) — A Connecticut transportation official is pleased that the delay in the decision of a federal court Wednesday to delay further the 35-day Penn-Central railroad merger in which the bankrupt New Haven Railroad is to be included.

"It was a good decision, as I see it," said Samuel Kanell, executive director of the Connecticut Transportation Authority, Wednesday night.

"The court will require all parties to get together in one place," he said, "and this should facilitate a final decision on the merger."

The special three-judge court put off the merger of the Penn-Central and New York Central Railroads, the largest merger in railroad history, until the court makes a "final decision."

The court set a final hearing for Sept. 18 and said the final decision could come this fall, pending in several states.

Meriden Firm Selected to Develop Renewal Tract

By MALCOLM BARLOW
The Rockville Center renovation project will be handled by the Meriden Development Company Inc., of Meriden, the Vernon Redevelopment Commission decided at its meeting last night.

With great relief, four of the five-member committee voted unanimously to sign a disposition agreement with the Meriden firm to buy and build in Rockville on the five-parcel tract.

Earlier J. Baum, commission chairman, called the step a "milestone" in the work of the commission set up in 1965.

Actually, all everything goes well from now on, the agreement with Meriden means the end for the commission. Contracts must be sent and architectural designs prepared.

That after (also) says the last parcel of land, the commission has fulfilled its purpose.

Before the agreement heard proposals from Jack Joseph, a Hartford realtor, and also the commission on the two parcels less than half an acre before the decision to accept.

Also, the proposal appeared to fulfill more of the commission's goals for the tract. It was presented by Val Frewen, the firm's president, commission chairman Joseph and also William Bales of the architectural firm of Bales and Fairchild of Hartford.

Plans outlined
Also, the proposal outlined moderate income housing, adequate parking, the Toland County Superior Court building, 60,000 square feet of commercial space and plenty of parking.

Joseph's plans also put forward by Boston architect Barrett B. Berliner, called for far less commercial space than the plan for the elderly, proposed on site conditions and more time to complete the project.

The financial statement from both Joseph and also presented the agency attorney, Altherton B. Ryan of King & Caldwell, to say also "to far superior" primarily to Joseph and his backers.

After the last meeting of the commission June 29, the commission spoke highly of Joseph's tentative plans. But Mayor John E. Grant, present at both sessions, said the picture had changed.

"Joseph being a different tune tonight," the mayor said, adding, Joseph was "nebulous," "fuzzy" and "indecisive."

The main commercial building of the Vernon Redevelopment project, called for maximum use of the space.

Also, the plan called for housing for both moderate income families and the elderly. There will be 60 units of moderate income housing in two buildings.

A "high-rise" elderly housing building will have 60 units in six stories.

The Toland County Superior Court of Common Pleas Court building will be on the north end of the tract. Also, the apartments on the west side and the elderly housing on the east.

The letter to Joseph will "officially" explain the commission's "tentative" working with Meriden.

Baum noted also has not given signed proof of its intention to buy and develop the land. Also, it has not given the $300,000 bid price.

Mayor Joins Regional Panel To Solve Junk Car Problem

Mayor John E. Grant is among regional leaders working on a solution to the junk car problem in the greater Hartford area.

He is on a three-man committee headed by Thomas Corrigan of Hartford studying the problem. The committee was appointed from members of the Connecticut Regional Council for Eliminated Offenders which includes 26 of the 29 towns in the Capitol Region Planning Agency.

One possible solution is an incentive that will "reward and govern" the junk, the mayor said. It will be under the umbrella, too.

The "motor machine" can be used for parts, and "left in its own place," he explained. This incentive will be offered to the owners of cars near the river, he added. It would be the permanent solution to the problem.

Also, the proposal appeared to fulfill more of the commission's goals for the tract. It was presented by Val Frewen, the firm's president, commission chairman Joseph and also William Bales of the architectural firm of Bales and Fairchild of Hartford.

Plans outlined

Also, the proposal outlined moderate income housing, adequate parking, the Toland County Superior Court building, 60,000 square feet of commercial space and plenty of parking.

Joseph's plans also put forward by Boston architect Barrett B. Berliner, called for far less commercial space than the plan for the elderly, proposed on site conditions and more time to complete the project.

The financial statement from both Joseph and also presented the agency attorney, Altherton B. Ryan of King & Caldwell, to say also "to far superior" primarily to Joseph and his backers.

After the last meeting of the commission June 29, the commission spoke highly of Joseph's tentative plans. But Mayor John E. Grant, present at both sessions, said the picture had changed.

"Joseph being a different tune tonight," the mayor said, adding, Joseph was "nebulous," "fuzzy" and "indecisive."

The main commercial building of the Vernon Redevelopment project, called for maximum use of the space.

Also, the plan called for housing for both moderate income families and the elderly. There will be 60 units of moderate income housing in two buildings.

A "high-rise" elderly housing building will have 60 units in six stories.

The Toland County Superior Court of Common Pleas Court building will be on the north end of the tract. Also, the apartments on the west side and the elderly housing on the east.

VERNON

Meriden Firm Selected to Develop Renewal Tract

By MALCOLM BARLOW

The Rockville Center renovation project will be handled by the Meriden Development Company Inc., of Meriden, the Vernon Redevelopment Commission decided at its meeting last night.

With great relief, four of the five-member committee voted unanimously to sign a disposition agreement with the Meriden firm to buy and build in Rockville on the five-parcel tract.

Earlier J. Baum, commission chairman, called the step a "milestone" in the work of the commission set up in 1965.

Actually, all everything goes well from now on, the agreement with Meriden means the end for the commission. Contracts must be sent and architectural designs prepared.

That after (also) says the last parcel of land, the commission has fulfilled its purpose.

Before the agreement heard proposals from Jack Joseph, a Hartford realtor, and also the commission on the two parcels less than half an acre before the decision to accept.

Also, the proposal appeared to fulfill more of the commission's goals for the tract. It was presented by Val Frewen, the firm's president, commission chairman Joseph and also William Bales of the architectural firm of Bales and Fairchild of Hartford.

In Paris, 'Le Self' Replacing Cafe

By FURAN C. BARLOW

Paris — In every section of Paris there are places where crowds of young people gather to eat good French food and pastry and to drink French wine and coffee.

It is not just the French young people who flock there, but all of the different nationalities of students that inhabit Paris during the summer.

You would expect these popular Parisian establishments to be the traditional sidewalk cafes or maybe bistros. But the scene is changing and the cosmopolitan hangouts described in the preceding paragraphs are the increasingly frequent "self services."

Le self service, Parisian style, is like an American cafeteria except that the food is more artistically laid out and is as French in any of the restaurants in Paris.

The American idea of a quick bite to eat does not work here. It is not the French who are the patrons of these establishments. They are the young people who flock to them.

By the time he picks his food he is usually loaded like a Thanksgiving turkey.

The subject of sidewalks in Paris is interesting.

It is interesting to see how the sidewalks in Paris are used.

Budget Review, Other Items On Board's Next Agenda

At the request of Republican Director William Scheller, the Board of Directors has scheduled an informal meeting for Wednesday to review the budget for the 1967-68 fiscal year, which ended last Friday.

South Windor Subcontractor Upheld in Suit In Circuit Court

A suit by a subcontractor against the construction company that built the Eli Terry School was upheld by the appellate division of Circuit Court 12.

The action was brought in circuit court in November 1965 by Genovese Excavators of Hartford against Winmore Construction Co. of Glastonbury to recover a balance due on a contract. Winmore filed a counterclaim for breach of contract.

The court ruled in favor of Genovese, and today the appellate division found no error in the decision.

Genovese, a subcontractor on the school project, had done grading work under a contract with Winmore. The decision today noted that Winmore asked Genovese to do extra work outside the contract.

Board Okays Raise For Union Members

The Board of Directors, by an 8 to 1 vote and with no discussion, took only two minutes last night to approve a wage agreement with Local 991, State, County and Municipal Employees.

The union is running the cemetery department, he charged. Robert Webb, a member of the five-man cemetery department crew and a shop steward, angrily denied the charges and said that Schell and Little were misinformed.

The union wants more help and has no restrictions on part-time help, he said. "Please get us some high school boys, but pay them $1.75 per hour rate the rate we pay, instead of the $1.25 per hour rate we can pay," he urged.

He said that the boys could not be hired at the $1.25 rate. "We have four buses for five men and we need less buses and more workers," Webb said.

Union representatives Donald Baskuto and James Carver, who were representing the union, said they were willing to accept the offer.

He read the union rule on question to prove that "it leaves the door open to the hiring of high school boys."

The rule states that part-time employees may not be used to do the work of full-time employees unless the latter are not available.

Baskuto said, "We have always had good relations with the town and we are only concerned with doing what is best for our members. Our first concern is with our people, whose job is to take care of the town."

Directors Overrule TPC, Approve School in Park

The Manchester Board of Directors, by a 7 to 1 vote last night and with very little discussion, overruled the Town Planning Commission (TPC) and approved the construction of a new Lincoln School in Center Springs Park.

The TPC had voted against use of the park and had recommended abandonment of the Lincoln School District.

By state statute, the Board of Directors needed a minimum of six affirmative votes to overrule the TPC.

The seven affirmative votes were cast by Mayor William Scheller, Councilmen...

The deed which gave the park will be placed at the school in the town specified that it be used for park and recreational use only.

The release will have to come from the successors to Cheney Park.

Town Councilman John Shea told the board that a release from the town was a favorable prospect. The successors to Cheney Park were the best place for a school.

"I have never been opposed able to release in recent years.

The Board of Directors' decision overruling the Town Planning Commission's recommendation to abandon the Lincoln School District has occasioned expressions of relief and gratitude from school officials, plus assurance that the construction of a new school in Center Springs Park will enhance, rather than harm, the park.

School Superintendent William Curtis, speaking of last night's vote by the board, said he was "naturally pleased" by the decision and pledged to do his best to see that the character of the park is retained and that the building is adapted to blend with it.

He said the placement of the school within the park and the design of the building was left up to a skilled architect. Any plans which would be acceptable to the board would be left up to a skilled architect.

Both Curtis and Atty. Herbert Scheller, who is chairman of the board, said they would be pleased to see the school in the southwest section of the town.

He said the town had undertaken jointly with the board.
