

the luckies

They live by a gas line on Forest Drive

Everybody's a "lucky" on Forest Drive, Wethersfield. They can all enjoy the cleanliness, comfort and convenience of modern GAS living at low, low cost.

Take little Billy Landers on the left there... he and his mommy will cost about what they did this year, the Agriculture Department said today.

And Alex Lutsky, to the Landers' left, has all the cooking advantages enjoyed by the chefs of America's finest restaurants...

and almost as many. Two GAS stoves for the Lutskys... one in the kitchen and another in the basement.

Like these two families, the Ramseys at 120 and the Brodovskis... a few doors away at 104... never have to worry about heat or hot water for their sparkling homes... thanks to the friendly blue flame of dependable GAS.

Maybe you're a "lucky" too, and don't know it. Give us a call today and find out if you're living by a GAS line.

Chinese Authority Says

Mainland In Turmoil

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The whole of the China mainland is in turmoil, Nationalist China's foremost authority on Chinese Communist affairs asserted in a report published today.

Chen Chiang-chung said Communist sentiment against Nationalist China is spreading throughout the mainland.

Chen is director of the sixth (mainland affairs) Section of the Kuomintang. President Chiang Kai-shek's ruling party in Nationalist China.

Chen said the situation was the worst since the Chinese Communists came into power on the mainland in 1949.

He said the Communists were facing an extremely grave crisis because:

1. The people of the mainland were rising against them.

2. Communist political, party and military cadres were turning against Mao.

3. More and more people on the mainland were hoping that the Nationalist Government would stage a comeback.

Chen said the Wuhan industrial complex in central China, the second largest steel-making center on the mainland, was no longer producing steel. He said all plants there of the Hua Chung (Central China) Steel Corp. had ceased work.

He also reported that the operations of more than 5,000 mining projects in the mainland had come to a halt, "causing immeasurable losses to the Communist regime."

Reports attributed to intelligence sources said fresh clashes between forces supporting and opposing Mao erupted four days ago in the Wenchow area of Chekiang Province, Wenchow, a former treaty port and the largest commercial city in Chekiang, is 215 miles south of Shanghai.

The reports said land and sea traffic between Wenchow and other points had been cut off.

The Mao-controlled Chekiang People's broadcasting station was credited with reporting that an anti-Mao revolt had broken out at Kihwa, an important communications center.

House Committee Reports

No Case for Tax Increase, Administration Is Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of the House Ways and Means Committee told administration officials today they still have not made a case for the 10 per cent income tax surcharge President Johnson seeks.

During their second day of testimony before the tax-writing committee, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultz and Chairman Gardner Ackley of the Council of Economic Advisors were pressed for an explanation that would make sense to the voters.

"We're going to have to satisfy the people on two counts," Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said. "He said taxpayers will have to be convinced that they are better off now than they were five years ago and that even after the surcharge is added they will pay less tax than they had before the 1964 tax reduction."

Ullman said that, taking into account increases in state and local taxes, he is not sure this would be the case.

"My judgment is that a tax increase is justified, but I believe I am in a minority on this committee," Ullman added.

He also indicated he has yet to be convinced that the case for the 10 per cent income tax surcharge is sound.

SNCC Hits Zionists for Mideast War

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) charges in a recent newsletter that Zionists set Palestine through terror, force and massacres.

A spokesman for the Anti-Defamation League headed by H. Rap Brown has advocated a stand behind the Black Power movement in the Mideast.

Irwin Schulman, southeastern director of the Anti-Defamation League, said the charges made by SNCC generally represent the total propaganda line taken by the Arabs with some changes which he said reflect Soviet views.

Arnold Forster, general counsel of the Anti-Defamation League said in New York: "It is a tragedy that the civil rights movement is being degraded by the injection of hatred and racism in reverse."

Nathan Perlmutter, spokesman for the American Jewish Committee, called it an "outrageous attack" Donald Stone, head of SNCC in Atlanta, said the organization is not opposed to Zionism, but wants the public to be "aware of these situations in the Middle East."

The newsletter contends: "That the Zionists conquered the Arab homes and land through terror, force and massacres. That they wiped out over 30 Arab villages before and after they took control of the area they now call Israel."

"That the Zionist terror gangs (Haganah, Irgun and Stern gangs) deliberately slaughtered and mutilated women, children and men, thereby causing the unarmed Arabs to panic, flee and leave their homes in the hands of the Zionist-Israeli forces."

The publication carries two photographs purporting to show massacres in the Gaza Strip in 1956.

Schulman said these photographs have been published previously in Arab propaganda.

He said the Soviet line against the Zionists is reflected in charges that Israel has continually crossed the demarcation lines making commando raids against the Arab states.

Milkman Sues Rival's Product

EXETER, England (AP)—A milkman has pleaded guilty to stealing a bottle of milk.

Said milkman William Humphrey: "I did it to counterbalance what I have experienced."

Humphrey admitted removing a bottle of milk from the steps of a house five minutes after a milkman from a rival company delivered it.

Humphrey said he had to pay for losses out of a weekly salary of $38. A magistrate in Exeter, Devon, dismissed the case on the milkman's promise to steal no more.

Double Voting Possible, Says Viet Candidate

SAIGON (AP)—Tran Van Thung, considered the leading civilian candidate for president of South Vietnam, implied today that soldiers would be able to vote twice for his military opponents—once at their bases and once at home.

At a news conference, the former premier charged that soldiers had been issued voting cards from both their home district and their base district.

He also charged the current military regime with intimidating his representatives in the provinces and said unless his warning led to reform, "we shall be compelled to reconsider our participation in the election."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen joins former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in defending President Johnson's decision to bomb North Vietnam targets only 10 miles from Red China.

Dirksen said in an interview he is satisfied legitimate military targets were hit in the raids within 10 miles of the Red Chinese border. He said he is certain American pilots have been instructed thoroughly in avoiding Red Chinese airspace.

The state-loan tax take averaged $285 for every man, woman and child in the nation. The increase followed a trend shown since the Commerce Clearing House began annual reports on combined state and local taxes in 1962. In five years the per capita state-loan tax burden has increased as much as $14 in Hawaii and $10 in New York. The trend was less marked in the south, where increases in five years have been less than $9 in half dozen states and only $3 in Texas.

helpless, and without power to participate in or influence its own life and death decision. And it makes that country wonder whether what it actually has is a policy, or merely a fatalistic madness, as in a Greek tragedy in which the end cannot be escaped. Our situation may indeed be classically desperate—that it no longer makes any difference who wins either the debate or the war. What greater optimism can one manage in a situation where the probability of rationality in the nation merely produces more desperation in its leadership?

Use Of Guns By Police

One can be sure that when the annual meeting of the International Association of Chiefs of Police gets around to discussing the proposal next month, there will be a full case presented for the opposition. Meanwhile, it is our instinct to register a comment and a hope in favor of what is liberal to prove that the hot topic of discussion—a proposal for a new policy on the use of firearms by police.

Unless the proposal to be submitted for discussion, a police officer would be allowed to fire his weapons only to save himself or another person from being "grievously injured or killed" or to protect a person who "poses an immediate threat to the safety of others, such as an armed person separately attempting to elude capture or an automobile even during "hot pursuit" or at a fleeing person who is not an immediate threat to the safety of others—would be forbidden.

We hope for progress and adoption for such a policy. Meanwhile, it seems to us that it is already noteworthy that such a proposal should be coming up for discussion in this September. In every conceivable instance, these are times when the responsibilities upon the men in police uniform are being continually multiplied and enlarged. The temptation to use force is not only physical force. The mere fact that a proposal to limit the use of police guns is coming up at this time is welcome in itself. It is a sign that the police profession itself has its own sound idea of how it might best meet the unparalleled challenges now in existence—by improving its discipline, restraints, and procedures so that it becomes more expert without adding to the trouble and tragedy it is trying to control.

Under such rules as proposed, there would have been no shooting, and no death, the other night, for an East Hartford youth who was fleeing from an arrest for speeding.

A Use, At Last, For The Strip?

It has been responded, to our gentle suggestion that perhaps Manchester some day could find time to give its funds to turn its Civil War Union Soldier to be used as facing Gettysburg and the South, that there is something of a problem, since Center Park now contains no natural southward-oriented site. To face him around where his would involve having him turn his back on the main street and state help to control system, and on all the innocent guests of Manchester who have to fight their way through it.

It had also just happened that 21 House Republicans, of conservative position, had issued a statement in which they too began questioning our Vietnam policy from the ground up.

Another thing that happened was that the Vietnam staged a successful ambush of American helicopters three miles outside Saigon itself.

Another thing that happened was that 37 Democratic members of the House warned that if the elections in South Vietnam are not held in a free and fair manner, that would undermine much of the United States reason for being in South Vietnam.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

The modernization of Connecticut thought and practice which featured the 1967 session of the General Assembly did not always have the same pangs in every instance. Some legislators were more willing to tolerate whether any of the 198 tankers sunk off American shores—most of them victims of German submarines during World War II—poses an oil pollution threat to the coastline.

Such generalization still leaves us in some doubt as to how whether all liberals united in their approval of two developments in the 1967 session.

There may have been some who felt that they were, in one instance, battling to help a factor in the Connecticut oil industry which was frustrating a liberal crusade in another instance.

One would have to have memory of the tense, emotional, and tremendously impressive oratory leading up to the moment, in the 1967 session, when Speaker Nelson Brown broke a tie vote and broke it in favor of letting Connecticut towns vote, if they wished, to provide bus transportation for preschool children, to appreciate the almost complete calm and quiet with which this 1967 session moved forward on the school issue.

Desperation Leadership

It is a melancholy, but instructive thing to try to assess the various developments which have been background for the latest major decision by President Johnson concerning the war in Vietnam.

That decision is the decision to escalate the air war by including new targets which take our bombs closer to the civilian population of North Vietnam.

By this decision, we try harder for the knockout of North Vietnam air power. It has been supposed to be capable of during the past two and a half years.

Another thing that happened was that the Vietnam staged a successful ambush of American helicopters three miles outside Saigon itself.

Another thing that happened was that 37 Democratic members of the House warned that if the elections in South Vietnam are not held in a free and fair manner, that would undermine much of the United States reason for being in South Vietnam.

Desperation Leadership

It is a melancholy, but instructive thing to try to assess the various developments which have been background for the latest major decision by President Johnson concerning the war in Vietnam.

That decision is the decision to escalate the air war by including new targets which take our bombs closer to the civilian population of North Vietnam.

By this decision, we try harder for the knockout of North Vietnam air power. It has been supposed to be capable of during the past two and a half years.

Another thing that happened was that the Vietnam staged a successful ambush of American helicopters three miles outside Saigon itself.

Another thing that happened was that 37 Democratic members of the House warned that if the elections in South Vietnam are not held in a free and fair manner, that would undermine much of the United States reason for being in South Vietnam.

It had also just happened that 21 House Republicans, of conservative position, had issued a statement in which they too began questioning our Vietnam policy from the ground up.

Negro Mayor Resigns; Open Housing Banned

(Continued from Page One) For eight years when he was elected mayor by his fellow commissioners. About 25 per cent of Flint's 200,000 residents are Negroes.

"I can no longer live in good conscience with a commission which does not represent the needs of all citizens," McCree said.

He has been an avid supporter of the proposed open occupancy law which was proposed last year.

Commissioners rushed to prepare a final draft of the ordinance last week, just two weeks after violence spread to Flint and a number of other Michigan cities after Detroit erupted in the worst civil riot in recent American history.

The ordinance would have banned discrimination in housing and home financing. It would have established machinery for investigation of discrimination complaints.

After the pipe-smoking McCree, a father of four teenagers, announced his resignation, the commission voted to ask that he take back his action.

But McCree voted against that request along with Commissioner James C. Mitchell who has supported the mayor on the open occupancy issue.

McCree had pushed especially hard for passage of the law after the outbreak of violence in Flint the week of August 1-3.

Scattered gunfire was heard, but nobody was reported shot. Police arrested more than 120 persons. Crowds of Negroes formed at the scenes of more than 30 fires.

However, the board agreed to take action on the contract at a meeting, to ensure that cafeteria will be supplied with milk at a price of .0096 and .0098 respectively.

The tabling action — for the second month in a row — came after the board agreed that it would not be able to pay the contract price of .0096 and .0098 respectively.

Still Unresolved School Board Miffed Over College Lease

A revised lease for Manchester Community College's use of Manchester High School — a topic of discussion by the Board of Education several times since February — came up again at last night's meeting in the form of a "progress" report.

After hearing the report on the lease, the board members expressed displeasure with the fact that the lease has still not been completed, and Superintendent of Schools William Curtis commented that the board should "definitely hold" a September meeting to discuss the lease.

The major problem in coming agreement on a lease has been to find someone in the community college system who will sit down and say yes or no to the lease.

Superintendent Ronald Scott, who attended the Aug. 8 meeting called by a state consultant, reported the session was only exploratory and that no "binding" agreement was reached.

On next year's projected enrollment, this would leave only about 20 students at Manchester High School.

At the conclusion of last night's discussion, the board agreed to place the matter of the lease on the agenda for its next meeting.

Maoists Attacked By Soviet

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party today unleashed a massive verbal attack against Mao Zedong and predicted that the Chinese people "will put an end to his harmful policy." The attack in the Communist party newspaper Pravda followed a new flap between this country and China over the Soviet ship Svirsk which was held with its captain in the Manchurian port of Dairen before being allowed to leave this week. Pravda declared that Mao and his followers were hurting the cause of communism both in China and in the world. "Discontent is growing in the party and the masses at large with the intolerable economic and political situation brought about by the Peking leaders," Pravda asserted. The newspaper expressed confidence that the Chinese people will not allow the present Mao policies to continue indefinitely. But it set no time limit on this and stopped short of actually predicting the overthrow of Mao. Should the Mao group manage to continue in power, Pravda said, "the possibility of a historic zigzag in the development of Chinese society cannot be ruled out." Where such a zigzag would take China was not spelled out. For the past year Khrushchev has been expressing increasing concern over the course of events in China. Moscow has openly sided with Mao's opponents and predicted that "true communism" would triumph eventually. Pravda said that the Mao group was "objectively aiding imperialism."

South Viets Kill 98 Communists

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops, supported by U.S. air and ground forces, reported today killing 98 Communist soldiers in two sharp clashes, one in the Mekong delta and the other 20 miles north of Saigon. One U.S. soldier was killed and the Vietnamese suffered eight casualties, a military spokesman said. Meanwhile, Communist booby traps killed eight Marines and wounded 10 south of Da Nang Tuesday and four terrorist attacks were reported in the next few weeks. Military officials have predicted a sharp rise in Viet Cong activity in the next few weeks, aimed at disrupting South Vietnam's presidential election Sept. 4. In the air war, an Air Force jet concentrated again on truck convoys, the Air Force issued a report that a total of 841 enemy trucks have been destroyed or damaged in the first 15 days of August, surpassing the total of 832 for the entire month of July. Heavy overcasts limited Tuesday's air strikes to targets in the panhandle region, an area from south of Hanoi to the 17th parallel that separates North

Flood Evacuation Goes On; Help Mobilizes for Fairbanks

$200 Million Damage; Three Deaths Counted

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Flood-desolated Fairbanks counted its known dead at three and damage at upwards of $200 million today as round-the-clock evacuations continued and massive assistance efforts were mobilized. About half of this interior Alaska city's 30,000 residents had been evacuated by helicopter and river boats to refuge centers since Tuesday. The exodus still went on. Brown, allied flood waters of the wild Chena River, which slices through the center of the city, covered parts of Fairbanks to a depth of nine feet. Six buildings had been destroyed by fire since Monday night and the threat of a holocaust was ever-present. The deep, swift water made fire fighting impossible. At least three bodies had been recovered, one of them a child. There were no identifications. A state of urgency spurred relief efforts. Freezing weather was only two months away, and that the bitter cold of winter that saw temperatures drop to 20 below. "We're going to need help and we're going to have to have it in a hurry," said Mayor H. A. Boucher. The worst of the flood appeared over. The Chena dropped six inches during the night and the Weather Bureau said the rain should end after a few light showers this afternoon. Even if there was no more rain, the forecasters said, it would take days for the river to return to the flood level. Plans brought ration, medicine, typhoid serum for 40,000 people, and federal disaster and rescue personnel including doctors, nurses and Red Cross workers. The Army set up water purification units and handed out field rations to refugees. House-to-house check of every building in the flooded sections of the city—and that included

More than five feet above flood stage, the Chena River has spilled over its banks and sluiced through downtown Fairbanks. Nearly 10,000 persons have been rescued from trees, rooftops and upper floors of buildings. Added now is the threat of fire. (AP Photos)

$10,000 Lost, Found Again

WESTPORT (AP) — The employee left the department store with the bag containing about $10,000, and headed for the bank. While he opened the car door yesterday, he put the bag on the roof of the vehicle, but to no avail. But everything turned out all right when the car was stopped at the bank. The employee called police, who searched the neighborhood. The car was found on the street, and the bag was found in the trunk. A bank representative and an official of the store were on hand to help. A strongly glowing search of the car.

Eyewitnesses Say Flood Tears Out Fairbanks' Heart

By JAMES ABRAHAMSON, Associated Press Writer FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — My feet have not really been dry for more than 30 hours. It is an experience I share with a large number of residents of this community, where the hip high rubber boot and the rain jacket have become a way of life. There is something terrifying about dark and rushing water, and when that water rises the heart out of a city, it is even more dreadful. It was growing dusky under a mournful sky when I arrived here Monday evening. The Chena River was tearing at its bridges and the water was high at the edges of town. The city's battle against the river was dramatic. It was a hard battle to lose. A strongly glowing search of the car.

Brand New Roads Have Old Hazards

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal government has realized that some roadside hazards that make older highways dangerous have been incorporated into many new interstate highways. Road builders now concede that when work began a decade ago on the $60 billion Interstate network's planners underestimated the perils that might be posed by fixed objects along the roadside. It's proving to be a costly—and deadly—oversight, although statistics show interstate highways are far safer than other roads. Now, with 25,000 miles of interstate highways completed at a cost of $60 billion, the Bureau of Public Roads is urging states to spend what one source said would be hundreds of millions more in federal dollars to correct such hazards as: Heavy steel sign and light poles mounted in concrete bases. Although lightweight poles that snap off harmlessly when hit by a vehicle have been on the market for years, some states still erect the massive sign and light supports. Guard rails that don't guard, but guide skidding cars directly into bridge abutments and the like. Spoiled guard rail ends that can spear vehicles which run off the road. Some states bury guard rail ends in the ground, but most don't. Exit areas cluttered with trees and brush. Investigation shows these and other hazards "are as widespread today as the United States' exit from coast to coast," says Rep. John A. Blatnik.

Skilled Tradesmen Seen Auto Talk Key
