Sheinwold on Bridge

HUNGRY DOUBLE HELPS DECLARE
 By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
 It would be pleasant to report that all of the thousands of bridge players who went to Montreal for the national tournament a few weeks ago were dedicated, disciplined experts. Since this column is devoted to the truth, I must report that some of the doubles were pretty hungry.

Opening lead—king of clubs. West opened the king of clubs and continued with a low club, delighted that his alert partner had exposed North's rather peculiar club bid. South was on the point of ruffing the second club when he remembered West's penalty double at four spades. Since West might have all of the missing trumps for his double, South cautiously discarded a heart, allowing East to win the trick. East could lead another club, since then dummy would ruff. East's actual heart lead was no better. Declarer won in dummy and led

Probate Judge Attacks State Will Depository

HARTFORD (AP)—The people of Connecticut were urged Wednesday "not to deposit with or give up a will to the state of Connecticut for safekeeping."

Hartford Probate Court Judge James H. Kissella gave this advice in attacking a new law providing for the safekeeping of wills by the state. The program is to go into effect Oct. 1, is presently being set up by State Supreme Court Justice John P. Cotter, chief court administrator. Cotter has named Edward J. Lynch of Orange the first state registrar of wills under the new law.

"On the basis of my experience in processing thousands of wills and estates," Kissella said, "there is absolutely no proven or demonstrated need for this service, and for the red tape and expense of the additional jobs which may be established to process the extra paper work."

Kissella is one of 31 probate trumps. West held off the first trump but won the second and led another club.

Ruffs safely. South cautiously discarded a heart, allowing East to win the trick, and then he had enough high trumps to draw all of the trumps held by West. Declarer had no further problems.

If West doubled four spades, South would have ruffed the second round of clubs. This would reduce him to the same number of trumps as West held.

When South led trumps, West would ruff the first trump but would take the second trump and lead a club.

By now, South would have one trump less than West. No matter how South wriggled, West would get a trump and a club or two trumps, defeating the contract.

Daily Question
 As dealer, you hold: Spades, A-8-7-4-4; Hearts, K-10-2; Diamonds, 7; Clubs, K-10-8-4.

What do you say?
 Answer: Pass. The hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If you changed the ten of clubs to the ten of spades, the hand would be worth a borderline opening bid of one spade.

Fires, Smog, Heat Plague In Pledges, Mansfield Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told his colleagues Wednesday they have $7 billion worth of proposals to keep to America's violence-troubled city dwellers, to President Johnson and to themselves.

On Wednesday's eve of a congressional holiday, Mansfield put that price tag on Johnson's program for the cities, a package he said should be handled with a sense of urgency.

Mansfield did not mention an additional $2.8 billion in city aid proposals he said he would introduce in the next few days.

"There'll be no arms twisted but I do think the results will be just as good," Mansfield said.

"We in the Senate have many promises to keep," Mansfield said. "I think the Senate should adjourn Wednesday with no more business scheduled until Sept. 11."

Mansfield said money may measure includes a controversial open housing provision and a federal crime to cross state lines with intent to incite a riot.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he is going to press for passage of a House-passed bill which would make it a federal crime to cross state lines with intent to incite a riot.

"But who should be the spokesman?" asked Bridgeport Mayor Hugh C. Curran. "How about the innate fringe that claims to speak for the whole minority group?"

"And how many spokesmen ada. At one-time, it was banned by English monarchs who feared it would divert men from the practice of archery."

Lack of Communication Seen Urban Unrest Cause

HARTFORD (AP)—Lack of communication between slum dwellers and the "power structure" of the cities was cited Wednesday by the new state Community Affairs Advisory Council as the prime cause of urban unrest.

Meeting for the first time, the council agreed there is a communications gap that has to be bridged.

Ghetto dwellers are without spokesmen and without opportunities to voice their feelings, members of the council said.

Charles Tidwell, Bridgeport's Neighborhood Youth Corps Director, characterized the voice of the urban slum dweller as saying: "This anti-poverty group, that church or that government man don't speak for me. I need a voice of my own. I want someone to represent me. You don't."

"But who should be the spokesman?" asked Bridgeport Mayor Hugh C. Curran. "How about the innate fringe that claims to speak for the whole minority group?"

Eggplants are coming into abundant supply and Mrs. John (Gail) McCandless of 42 Echo Dr., Vernon, makes Scalloped Eggplant which she says, "is excellent all year round as a rich, special vegetable and is a perfect complement to ham." She has also included a "cool, refreshing summer dessert," Lemon Chiffon Pie.

- Scalloped Eggplant
- 1 large eggplant
  - 1 large onion, chopped
  - ¼ pound butter
  - dash of paprika
  - 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
  - ¼ cup cream (or top milk)
  - 1 package seasoned stuffing mix
- Saute onion in butter, (to which paprika has been added) until clear but still firm and set aside.
- Peel and cut eggplant into cubes and cook until transparent in about one cup of water, approximately five minutes. Stir with wooden spoon to lift cubes from bottom of pan and cook a few minutes more if necessary.
- Drain eggplant thoroughly; return to pot and mash; add onions and melted butter; parsley and cream. Add enough stuffing mix to make mixture of consistency of oatmeal.
- Place in greased casserole and bake in 350-degree oven until heated through.
- This recipe serves six. It may be made in advance and frozen. If recipe is doubled, Mrs. McCandless said, use two separate pots as it tends to stick and scorch if pan is too full.

- Lemon Chiffon Pie
- 1 thin 8-inch baked pie shell
  - 1 cup filling
  - 5 tablespoons sugar
  - 2 tablespoons water
  - 2 egg yolks
  - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 3 egg whites
  - 2 tablespoons sugar

Fill with filling. Bake in 350-degree oven for 10 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. Place salt in egg whites and whip until stiff but not dry, gradually add sugar; fold meringue lightly into filling mixture and fill pie shell.

Brown in 400-degree oven for 10 minutes. Mrs. McCandless and her family came to this area from Bolton in June of 1957. She attended St. John's School and Boston University, where she majored in political science. Her husband is in the Personnel Department of Pratt and Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford. They have two children, David, 5, and Jennifer, 2.

The family enjoys camping, sailing, swimming and tennis during the summer, and plan to

Judge Rejects Bid to Dismiss Arson Charges

HARTFORD (AP)—Attempts to dismiss arson charges stemming from two fire bombings in Hartford's North End were rejected Wednesday by Circuit Court Judge Yale Matkin.

One of the men accused of arson is John Barber, 30, of West Haven, a former head of the New Haven NAACP chapter who also faces a charge of inciting to riot in connection with the July disturbances in the North End.

Lawyers for Barber and for James L. Brown, 22, of Hartford and James A. Brown, 41, of Hartford had filed motions seeking dismissal of the charges. Two other men—Marion Brown, 25, of Hartford and Leroy Motion, 22, of West Haven—were also arrested in connection with fires at the Keney Market and the Keney Grill on Aug. 3. The cases of all five suspects have been continued to Sept. 7.

Barber and Motion are free in $10,000 bond, while the other three men are being held in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Tolland Court Rules for PZC In Lot Size Dispute

Tolland County Superior Court Judge Henry Barber has ruled in favor of the Planning and Zoning Commission in a suit brought against the PZC and its decision to require one-acre building lots on all subdivisions not formally submitted for approval. The decision is expected to affect other pending cases which were based on the same argument.

The proposed subdivision, prior to filing an application for approval. The purpose of this provision is to "afford the subdivision an opportunity to avail himself of the assistance of the commission before the preparation of the application in order to save unnecessary time and expense," according to the decision.

Sanctuaries In prosecuting the war in Vietnam, the United States, in its system of supply and basing and strategy, uses a whole string of territories, many of them belonging to other nations, as sanctuaries where it itself is free of attack.

The idea of punishing us for such use of sanctuaries, or of claiming the right to attack us in such countries because we use them, does not occur to our enemies in Vietnam for a very simple reason. They have no military capacity for attacking us in Japan, Formosa, Thailand or the Philippines; they have trouble enough defending themselves against us in Vietnam.

We, on the other hand, do have the military power with which, if we wanted to take the risk, we could quarrel with the habit of our enemies in using neighboring Laos or neighboring China as sanctuaries from which to operate against us.

Today's child when he grows up may as well remember the sound of summer in his youth as the put-and-spit of a mortar and pestle. Or the roar of machine-gun fire as the speedboat takes off across the water.

One way or another, we've almost succeeded in erasing the traditional sounds of an old-fashioned summer. What we haven't drowned with the sound of gasoline engines we've sprayed or swept or poisoned away.

We hope we're wrong, but there seem to be fewer birds — and fewer birds sing — and fewer birds sing today, in more in keeping with his hawklike Pentagon generals than his cautious Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara.

Mrs. Black Is Welcome We confess that some of the plots have somehow escaped our memory, but it seems to us that Mrs. Charles A. Black had a wealth of experience during her career on the screen which should give pause to any of those cynics who tend, nowadays, to talk and write as if they thought a career in the films was somehow less valid as a preparation for elective public office than a career as a haberdasher, a football coach, or as a simple interior of great fortunes.

the farm problem (she did, didn't she, play Rebecca sooner or later?). The way in which she faced such problems, and the kind of solutions which she then participated in, are almost certain to have built themselves into her own memory and character in a way which, one trusts, will bring ultimate happy resolution to any and all uncertainties in her mind, such as her uncertainty whether McNamara is a Secretary or a Senator, or as to whether she has a hawk or a dove. Whatever she is, we know it is going to be good and wholesome in the end, because that is the only way any story for her could possibly end.

As for those commentators who fancy their own sophistication so much they can see no part of the positive asset Mrs. Black may bring to politics as she runs for Congress in California, one would think they would eventually develop a little caution about the way they show their own pettiness. For it is only when the new recruit to the field of politics from the field of the performing arts seems to be a full-fledged right wing conservative that the lack of qualification is made an issue. If Mrs. Black seemed likely to prove a liberal dove, the same editorialists would be tenderly saluting her wonderful development of a sense of public responsibility.

One thing these movie people do, whatever side they take, however full or empty their own performance. They get more people looking at the continuing story of the U.S.A.

The Tomato Of The Future From the Department of Agricultural research center at Beltsville, Maryland, comes a description of the tomato of the future. It will weigh only about four ounces. It will grow on stands up vines 24 inches tall. It will have been bred so that all the tomatoes on the plant ripen together. In shape, the tomato of the future will be round oblong and will be fastured by a very tough, thick skin. It may be, unfortunately, a little deficient in flavor, a bit pronounced acidity. What can we do with this tomato when we get it?

We can harvest it and process it by machine, that's what we can do. And that's why experimentation toward the new tomato is being rushed — so that the modern trend toward mechanization of the farmlands can be speeded up. The uniform size and uniform ripening will make it easy for one machine to go in and clean up a whole field in one operation. The poly-poly shape and the particular color which is possible for the tomato to ripen easily along the conveyor, and take normal collisions without showing bruise. As for the slight lack of flavor, we can work around that. We can add a little extra acid to the tomato, or we can add a little extra sugar. We can do what we want to do with it. We can make it into a tomato sauce, or a tomato paste, or a tomato ketchup. We can do what we want to do with it.

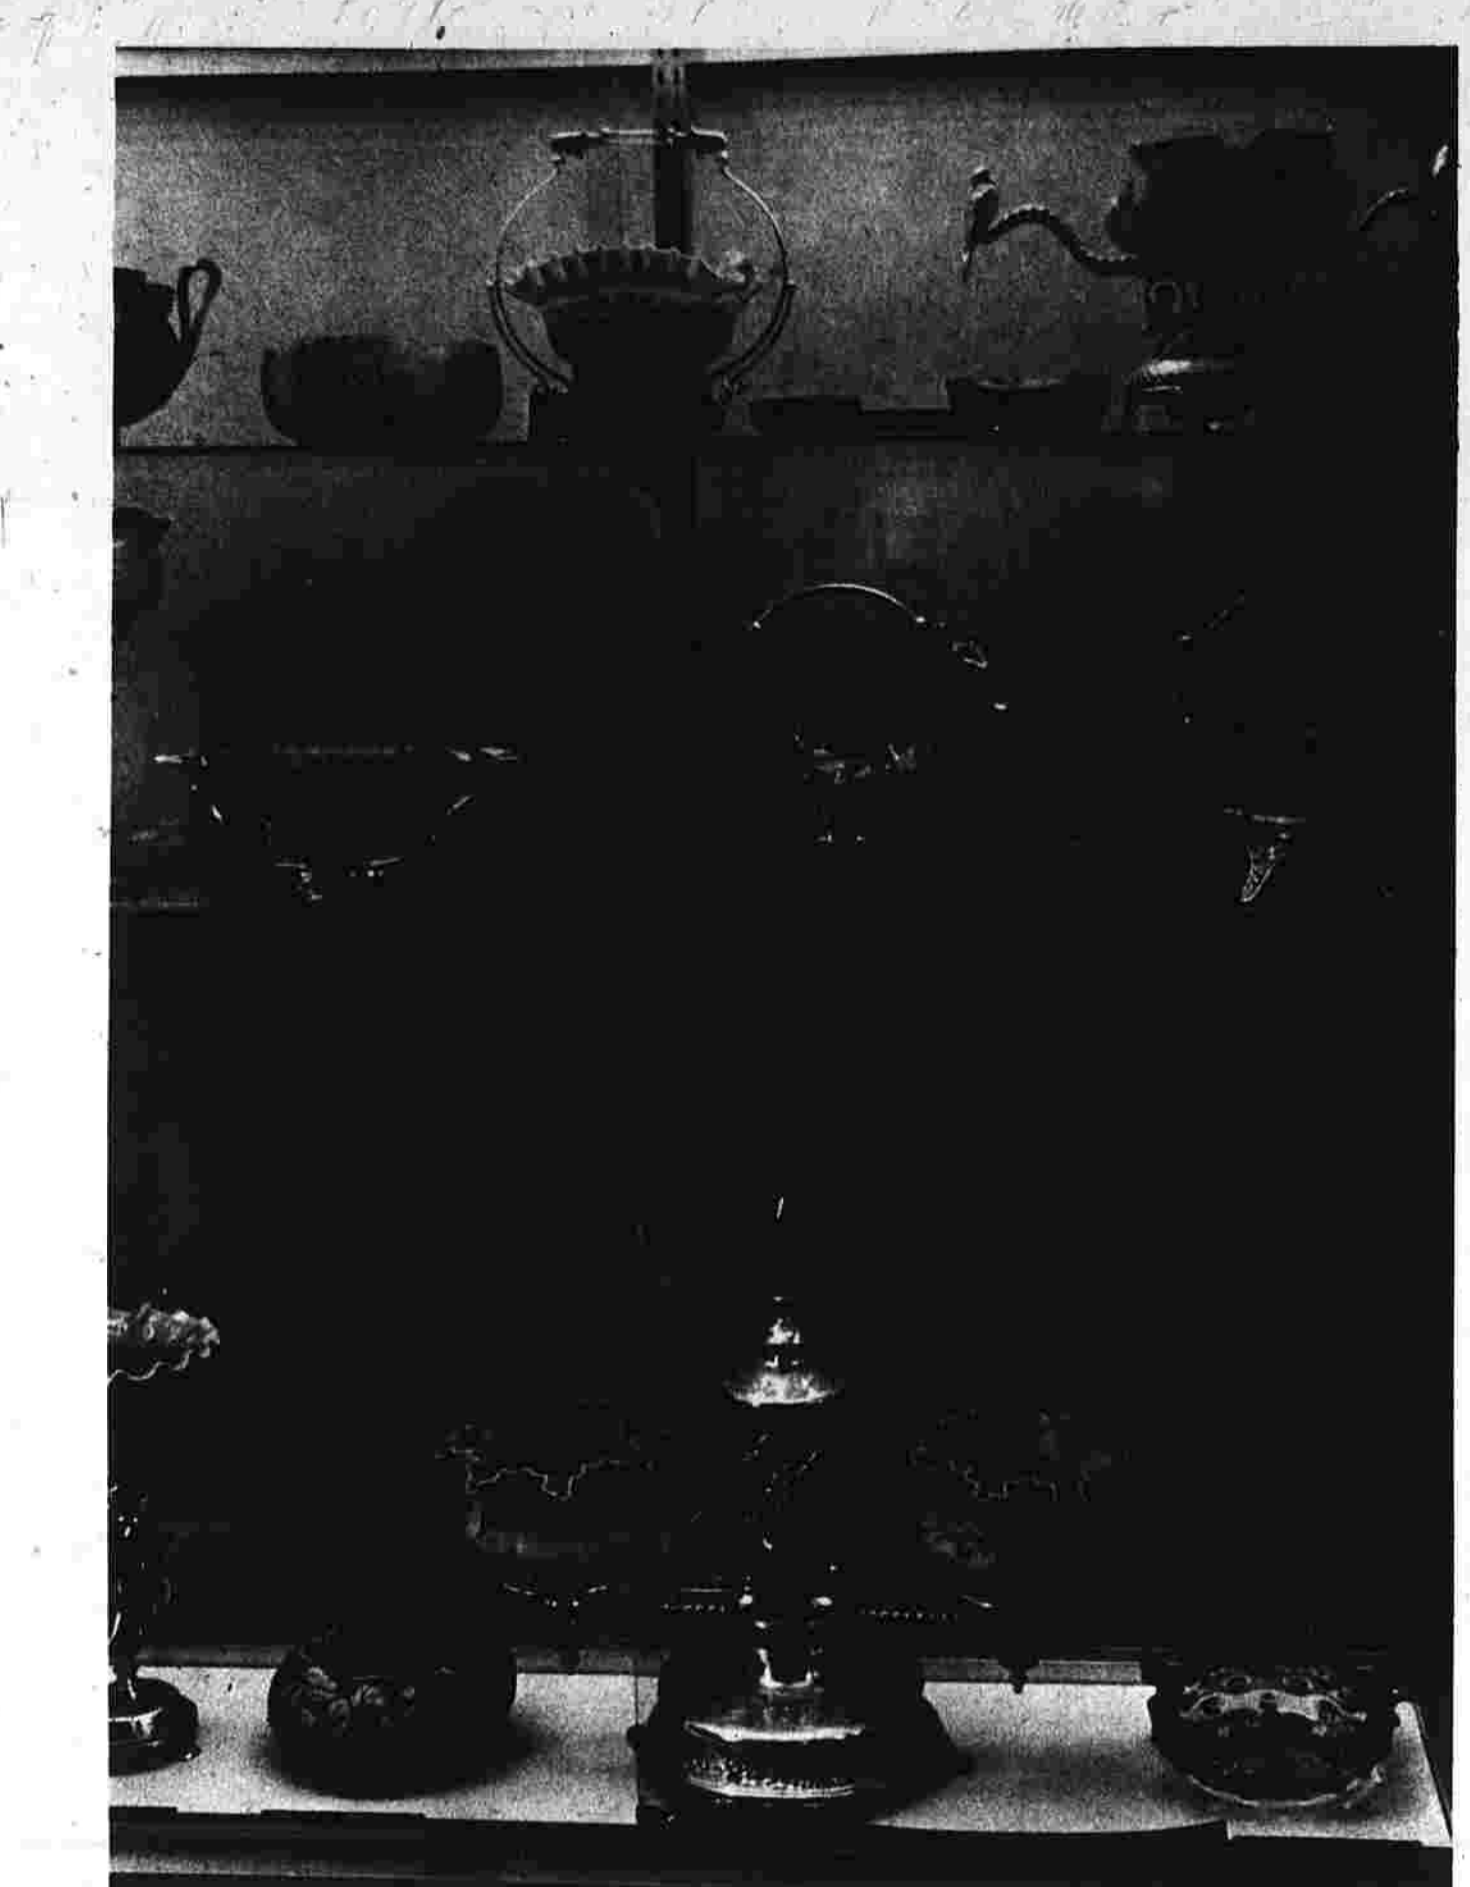

Pending the successful completion of all this research, there will still be, here and there, the individual gardener who has his own particular way of harvesting by hand reaching down through leaves that give off a strong fragrant smell when they are brushed carefully to the particular color of North Vietnam's current force of some 70 Migs, perhaps 50 are now operating from, or at least getting their maintenance from, air fields across the border inside Communist China.

Today's child when he grows up may as well remember the sound of summer in his youth as the put-and-spit of a mortar and pestle. Or the roar of machine-gun fire as the speedboat takes off across the water. Or the rattle and roar of a couple of motor-cycles racing from a top on the street. One way or another, we've almost succeeded in erasing the traditional sounds of an old-fashioned summer. What we haven't drowned with the sound of gasoline engines we've sprayed or swept or poisoned away.

We hope we're wrong, but there seem to be fewer birds — and fewer birds sing — and fewer birds sing today, in more in keeping with his hawklike Pentagon generals than his cautious Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara.

It's generally recognized that this has happened to the bees, which perform their principal services of pollination just as the swarms of bees early spraying takes place. And for whatever reason, there have seemed to be fewer than usual swarms of bees in the past few years. These two conditions give us a hunch that the bees are being exterminated by the use of insecticides. The fact that the bees are being exterminated is a tragedy, for the bees are the only insects that are essential to the life of the human race. Without the bees, we would have no honey, and we would have no wax. We would have no beeswax, and we would have no beeswax candles. We would have no beeswax, and we would have no beeswax candles.

Our recollections, as far as they extend, have Mrs. Black, in the course of her screen career, dealing with the problems of war (it seemed somehow less harsh and inhuman when exposed to her influence) and the problem of race relations (some of her best dancing and acting was done in mixed company) and

The present organizational leadership of the Connecticut Republican party is at least nominally neutral toward the party's ultra conservatives. The voice of that conservative element is Congressman Thomas Meskill of the Sixth District, features such conditions make it possible for Senator John Lupton and his supporters cheerfully to suspend the crusading of their Republican Citizens Committee and liquidate its assets into the treasury of the central party organization.

But what ought to please them even more than this happy state of affairs at the top of the party's organizational wing is the fact that the structure of what has been happening at the grass roots of Connecticut. That is where, ever since the Goldwater defeat of 1964, the Republican conservatives have been moving up and forward.

New Britain Man Gets New Medal For Old Wound NEW BRITAIN (AP)—Frank S. Wiczkorek has a new medal recognizing an old wound — the one he suffered nearly half a century ago with the 102nd Infantry Regiment at Chateau Chigny in World War I.

Although the wound hospitalized Wiczkorek for a time, there was some record of it. He was found when he was discharged in 1919. Finally, about five months ago, his daughter, Mrs. Ernest M. Morrell, asked the Defense Department to look into the matter. James B. Conkay says his order filed that Wiczkorek was indeed entitled to a Purple Heart.

supply emphasis is more on hurting the enemy than on cutting supply lines. They're talking more about bombing closer to population centers than about bombing the docks of Halphong harbor.

The louder voice in the White House now enjoyed by the general may be the result not only of Mr. Johnson's own hardening mood but also of the loss of McNamara's two right hand men: Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance, who resigned, and Secretary of the Navy-designate John McNaughton.

Vance was a consummate Pentagon diplomat who worked overtime to keep the brass in line. McNaughton, McNamara's chief aide man who originated the 1965-1966 bombing pause, was an integral part of McNamara's operation.

Whether McNamara has entered a serious decline in Washington or suffered a severe relapse is a matter of conjecture. What is not debatable is President Johnson's new harder line on the war, a matter that some of his strongest admirers inside the government are very much worried about.

Marble Balustrade Latest In-Capitol Hill Wonders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Capitol Hill's latest architectural curiosity is a gleaming white marble balustrade being constructed for $100,000 atop nonmasonry darker stone on the roof of the Cannon House Office Building.

The project is less than half finished, but the office of the Capitol architect reports several congressmen have complained. Officials insist the row of vases is a haphazard support for over $60,000 in 50-year-old building.

Justification for the project, included in a $3.3 million remodeling project approved by Congress two years ago, is that the old balustrade has deteriorated and that a new one is "needed for both aesthetic and functional reasons."

"It serves as a protective barrier for maintenance and other persons permitted on the roof," Architect J. George Stewart said in a recent letter to a congressman. Mr. D. Lind, replied to Stewart that he could hardly believe that if the old railing needed to be replaced—which he doubted—"that the expensive replacement needed to be made from the point of view of architectural aesthetics."

"As for the safety of the workmen on the roof," Jacobs said, "it seems to me that a less expensive method could be employed."

I don't recall anything about falling off the roof," executive assistant Phillip L. Root said in an interview, "but it's in very poor condition and has been for many years."

Tolland Board of Finance Urged 'Going Out' With Marine

Board of Finance Study Committee Urged to Report by Study Group

The Board of Finance Study Committee urged the establishment of a local Board of Finance in its report to the present special town meeting Sept. 8 to 9 p.m. in the Hicks Memorial School Gym.

The board would be established on an appointive basis to start with members elected as the staggered terms of the appointees come up.

This is necessitated by the closeness of the elections. The appointments would be made within ten days of the town meeting approval, according to town counsel Robert King.

The present outgoing Board of Selectmen would then be responsible for the appointments and reports to the Board of Finance, as one of its final duties.

The call of the meeting calls for the acceptance of the study committee's report, authorized by a town meeting last April.

A separate item calls for a vote to establish a Board of Finance for the town under the provisions provided in the General Statutes of the state.

Town Clerk's salary

Also appearing on the call is an item calling for the establishment of a salary for the town clerk, calling for the present fee of $1,000.

If approved the item calls for the Board of Finance to fix an annual salary for the town clerk and an hourly rate for an assistant clerk.

Lynda Bird 'Going Out' With Marine

Great-Grandson of Slave Marshall Approved For Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — A one-time bridge partner has become Lynda Bird Johnson's most frequent social companion, reports the Washington Post.

The newspaper noted that Lynda Bird Johnson, once the nation's first Negro Supreme Court justice.

By a 9 to 11 margin, the Senate confirmed Wednesday President Johnson's nomination of Marshall St. who was for many years chief legal officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Marshall, currently U.S. solicitor general, will fill a high court vacancy created by the retirement of Tom C. Clark, who stepped down when his term, Ramsey Clark, was named attorney general earlier this year.

Swearing in of Marshall is not expected until October, when the court reconvenes for its autumn term.

Marshall's overwhelming confirmation came in the face of charges by opponents—all from the South except Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.—that his seating would assure a lop-sided division of the court in favor of "liberal activists."

Opponents said this majority was bent on bending the Constitution to its will rather than interpreting its true intent.

But backers said Marshall brought a new depth of experience to the bench and some forecast a surprise for those who believe Marshall's stance on crucial issues can be foretold in advance.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said that as of 5 a.m. a cold front stretched from northern Maine down into the Ohio Valley. Showers and scattered thunderstorms have accompanied the front during the night as it moved eastward. Its forward progress has been slow that it may take into the evening hours before it passes all of southern New England, and favors becoming stationary off the coast during the night, the weather bureau said.

With strong high pressure system following the cold front, a clearing trend should set in late tonight and during Friday. However, with the wind cutting across the front, clearing will be slow and a northerly quadrant, cooler air from Canada will flow into the Northeast.

GOES AIRBORNE

ST. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — James Bond became a military parachutist Wednesday after completing an airborne training course.

He is not, however, the James Bond familiar to the international spy set, but a 25-year-old Army private from Live Oak, Fla.

LAW TO PROTECT EXILED

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The City Council wants to make it legal for a watchdog to bite a burglar.

Under the present law all dogs who bite people must be banished from the city.

A new law being considered would let a dog bite a trespasser or anyone who was assaulting the dog's owner. The dog also could be accused for biting someone in self-defense or accidentally. And it was a very small dog there would be no penalty.

Flash Flood In Nevada; 30 Homeless

BEATTY, Nev. (AP) — Some 30 persons were homeless today after a flash flood roared through this southern Nevada desert town, wrecking houses and cars and washing out roads.

The flood hit the north part of the town, where it was a Wednesday night shortly after a cloudburst in the nearby timber mountains. Residents said three houses were destroyed.

The proprietor of the Exchange Club, where many of Beatty's 1,000 residents gathered after the flood, said all of the homeless had found temporary lodging. No injuries were reported.

Nye County Deputy Sheriff Bob Mullins said the torrent was the worst in 25 or 30 years here. He said the water rushed down the town "in just a matter of minutes," spreading boulders and debris in its path.

"There were waves six or seven feet high coming across the highway," he said.

A woman and her baby were rescued by a state policeman and towedpeople with ropes the woman going under water before being pulled to safety.

A trailer house with a woman inside floated a half-block before it was stopped by a sand bar.

At least six cars were reported wrecked. Roads across the Amargosa Valley were washed out.

Officials said they could not make a damage estimate until they had a chance to see what was lost to the water.

NHRR Blocks Action Against Rail Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—The bankrupcy trustees of the New Haven Railroad have filed in federal court a motion to block the merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads.

The trustees asked the court Wednesday to turn down the plaintiffs' requests for injunctions against the merger order issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission, contending the merger would imperil preservation of long-range operations while providing for interim relief.

The other new brief by the trustees contended that the merger should deny, as without merit, the arguments against the validity of the ICC order which was presented by the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad and joined in by six other Eastern railroads.

The trustees contended that, contrary to arguments by the plaintiffs, the ICC has fully protected the public interest in dealing with the problem of the effects of the proposed merger on other railroads in the northern part of the country.

Among the plaintiffs that joined the Erie-Lackawanna in the court action were the Delaware & Hudson and the Boston & Maine, which the ICC ordered included in the Norfolk & Western system, as well as the Norfolk & Western itself. Also joined in the action were the Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Western Maryland and Reading Railroads.

Lobby Wrecked, Show Goes on In Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP)—The show went on at the Royale Theater despite the fact that a few hours before curtain time a lobby brawl over the curb and into the outer lobby shattering glass and twisting door frames.

Lauren Bacall, star of "Catspaw," who showed up minutes after the mishap Wednesday evening said she thought at first that she might get the night off. But workmen quickly cleared away the debris and boarded up the damaged entrance.

The accident occurred at 5:35 p.m., scattering rush hour pedestrians. The car, occupied by seven women, was leaving a parking lot across 45th Street when, according to the driver, Esther Hopkins, 35, of Englewood, N.J., "something jammed the car."

On impact the car burst into flames briefly. Neither Mrs. Hopkins, a pedestrian who was knocked to the sidewalk nor the other six women of Manhattan were hurt seriously.

ANSONIA STRIKE ON

ANSONIA (AP)—An unauthorized walkout at the Anaconda American Brass Co. plant continued today, with the strike scheduled to become legitimate at midnight tonight.

Some 500 employees struck at 9 a.m. Wednesday, some 40 hours ahead of the time set by King and Spook as candidates.

Others reportedly favor concentrating efforts on local elections and forming a solid coalition between civil rights and peace organizations.

An estimated 2,000 delegates were expected to register by Saturday.

King, who has been cool publicly toward a presidential bid on the proposed NCP ticket, is slated to deliver the con-

Third Party Is Considered By Civil Rights Delegates

CHICAGO (AP)—A five-day convention of civil rights and peace advocates started today with some delegates considering formation of a third political party to try to defeat President Johnson in 1968.

Leaders of the National Conference of New Politics (NCP) said the convention would discuss the problems of civil rights, the cold war and local political problems.

Some of the nation's leading civil rights and antiwar advocates are scheduled to attend.

They include Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Dr. Benjamin Spock, noted baby doctor and critic of the war in Vietnam; Floyd McGraw, chairman of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co.; and comedian Dick Gregory.

H. Rap Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, also was mentioned as planning to attend.

Some delegates to the convention have said they hope to form a third political party for the 1968 presidential elections with King and Spock as candidates.

UAC Debentures Are Offered to Stockholders

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Aircraft Corp. of East Hartford, Conn., filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission Wednesday a registration statement for $12,942,200 in 1962 debentures.

They would be offered for subscription by common stockholders at the rate of $100 in debentures for each 10 shares held. The interest rate and record date of holding will be fixed later.

Principal underwriter for the offering is Drexel Harriman Ripley Inc. of New York City.

Proceeds will be applied to reduce bank loans which totaled $240 million as of Aug. 15.

UAC also announced Wednesday plans for a new electronic components division at Trevose, Pa., to replace its Vector Division.

The new facility will take over all microelectronic components activities of United Aircraft's Hamilton Standard, Norden and Vector divisions. It will produce individual solid state devices, integrated circuits, passive elements and hybrid microcircuit assemblies.

The Vector Division's telegraphing and communications programs will be transferred to the Norden division and its medical telegraphing operations to the Hamilton division, Windsor Locks, Conn.

Effectiveness of Yemen Peace Is Questioned

side itself bound by any agreement with which it has not signed," declared Foreign Minister Abdul Aziz Salim in a Yemem republican regime.

The royals also are known to have become increasingly disgruntled by Saudi Arabia's attempts to make peace over their heads but are expected to go along with the accord.

If the formula fails, it will not be the first time an agreement to end the civil war collapsed. A peace plan concluded in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, in 1965, fell apart in a welter of recriminations.

Nasser and Faisal approved a plan calling for the formation of a three-power committee to supervise the phasing out of hostilities. It had Saudi Arabia, Morocco and the United Arab Emirates named to the committee, and planned to begin work immediately after the withdrawal of the summit meeting Friday.

No date was set for the beginning of the withdrawal of 26,000 Yemem troops, who numbered about 40,000 in Yemem until a large contingent was evacuated following the Middle East war in June.

Premier Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub of the Sudan, who served as mediator, said the dispute had been settled "in the interests of purifying the Arab atmosphere of political divisions."

Wednesday was moved out, pointedly turned his back on the conference's opening session, but the two men smiling and shaking hands when their agreement was announced today.

A royalist spokesman at the United Nations in New York said the accord was acceptable to his side.

The republican political organization, the Revolutionary People's Union, said in San Francisco that it would reject any settlement jeopardizing the republic's cause. However, there seemed nothing the republicans could do to prevent Egyptian withdrawal, which most Western observers in the Middle East think would mean a royalist victory eventually.

Source at the summit conference said Nasser's speech to the party called to unify policy to "eliminate Israeli aggression."

Other travelers said the army in Canton was backing the anti-Maoists while the navy and air force units remained loyal to Mao.

Western Chinese analysts said they had reports that wall posters in Canton declared the army was resisting Mao. But these could have been put up by anti-Maoists without army knowledge.

Previous accounts have said the army in Canton was trying to stop the fighting between rival gangs that have made the city's streets unsafe.

Some of the Chinese back from Canton insisted, however, that the army had given cannon to anti-Maoist organizations and these were used to shell the navy-controlled airport at Wansung near Canton Aug. 23.

Richard J. Sartor of 30 Irving St., a "better-than-average" University of Connecticut student, has just completed a grueling month-long training program at the Connecticut Chiefs of Police Academy in Bethany.

Goodale said that all new security department officers attend the academy in an effort to provide the university with competent, qualified personnel.

Sartor won the appointment to the Security Department earlier this year. "I wanted police experience," he explained. "I found that I like it."

A four-year U.S. Air Force veteran, he first enrolled at the University of New Hampshire but soon transferred to UConn where he intended to major in engineering.

He is continuing his studies, now as a junior majoring in industrial administration, in addition to holding down the police post.

Sartor also attended the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, Neb., while stationed there in the Air Force.

He is a 1963 Manchester High in his class at the academy — School graduate.

Change in Road Aid Grants Brings Town Added $13,000

Despite the change in the state's methods of granting public works aid yesterday he was surprised a town with as small a population as Vernon got an increase. Since last year, the state legislature changed the method of determining the grants.

It used to be the town was given aid for the miles of road it had. The new reapportioned legislature added the town's population into the figuring.

This was expected to give cities a bigger edge.

The state grants $1,400 for each of the first 25 miles of improved road and the rest is granted on the basis of the population in the town in relation to the state population in the 1960 census.

Although Vernon's population is now about 22,000 unofficially, the 1960 census shows only 17,000.

Tricarico said Vernon's population is "just about the right size" to avoid state aid being cut by the new system. But some towns were not so lucky.

An example is the town of Hebron. Hebron had a population of 1,819 in 1960 and has 25 miles of road. It was given $53,241 last year.

This year, despite rising costs and more travel, it was given $53,196.

Manchester, another town about in the middle, had a population in 1960 of about 42,000 and 126 miles of road. It was given $100,403 last year and $142,245 this year.

Five Charged In Death of Union Boss

The District attorney's office prepared the arrest warrants, which were signed by Magistrate Matthew Zagarki.

The DeGeorge slaying was the latest in a series of violent incidents at the local, including reported attempts at arson in the headquarters. Tuesday, Teamsters international headquarters in Washington placed the local union trusteeship due to local frictions.

The trusteeship was requested by the local's executive board, headed by Edward Battistore, the local secretary-treasurer. An election had been scheduled for December and a group headed by Charles Amoruso, a business agent, had been campaigning to wrest power from Battistore.

The local has a long history of legal and union trouble. It has been split again and again in struggles for power within its ranks. Raymond Cohen, a former secretary-treasurer, served a prison term for raiding the local's treasury. Last year a local business agent and his girl friend were shot to death in a second-floor office at local headquarters.

Police Arrests

David W. Morsey, 23, of 91 Spruce St. was charged at 2 a.m. today with breach of peace.

Police said the arrest stems from a disturbance with his estranged wife at Columbus and Grant Sts.

He is scheduled to appear in Manchester Circuit Court 12, Sept. 11.

Cash, Valuables Taken in Breaks

Thieves stole more than $380 in cash and valuables in four separate thefts recently, police reported.

About $210 was taken yesterday afternoon from a pocketbook in a car parked at the Parkade.

Police said the theft occurred about 2:45 while the owner, Patricia Miller of Wata Rd., Andover was away from the car. She told police the car doors were locked. Entry was made apparently through an open vent window.

Also stolen were a watch and pen and pencil set.

About $3.50 from a Cancer Fund box, a battery radio, clock radio and camera were all stolen yesterday in a break at the Arnold Palmer Golf Course.

Police said a thief forced a sliding window on the south side of a building there and escaped with the loot. The fund drive money was taken from a desk drawer. The break took place sometime between midnight and 6:30 a.m.

A wallet containing $50 was stolen recently while the owner was shopping at Caldor's Department Store on Tolland Tpk.

Police said a wallet was stolen from a pocketbook owned by Mildred Bush of North Canton.

Old and new coins valued at $38 were taken sometime between last Saturday and yesterday from a home owned by Louis E. Dubois of St. Essex St. Police quoted Dubois as saying he discovered a rear door open when he returned from work.

No sign of forced entry was apparent, police said. The coins included several American coins and others from Colombia and Spain.
