Like Going To Moon, Only Harder
Surveyor 4 was one more preliminary visitor to the moon as an advance party to the human journey we all certainly want to have made these some day soon.

There is no need for extended justification of the moon trip. The fact of its going there because the moon is there. That is reason enough, as it has been reason enough for all the other things of conquest of outer space.

Red Sox Count on Lonborg After Shaking Bat Stump

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox, weakened by breaking loose from a deep — long batting slump, counted on 18-game winner Jim Lonborg to maintain their precarious hold on first place in today's game with Chicago.

Santiago, emerging as a big late-season asset in the starting rotation, turned in his third successive strong effort and was rewarded with his eighth victory in 12 decisions. The Puerto Rican right-hander was in command and pitched well, allowing only one runner to reach base until he was touched for two hits in the eighth inning when he had a 1-0 lead.

Santiago wasn't the pitcher of record in his last two starts, but pitched brilliantly in both. He held Washington to two hits in seven innings in a game which the Senators eventually won 3-2, pitched game which Chicago won in the 11th, 1-0.

Manager Dick Williams said he was "very encouraged" by the performance of his ace pitcher. Williams said he was "very encouraged" by the performance of his ace pitcher. Williams said he was "very encouraged" by the performance of his ace pitcher.

Coventry Galinat Named Clerk of Works For New School

The school building committee has appointed Richard Galinat as clerk of the works on the new intermediate school, according to SBC Chairman William Miller. Galinat's appointment fills the vacancy left by the resignation of Albert Rossi, for health reasons.

Miller expressed regret over the resignation of Rossi, who "has done an outstanding job for us", and added that Galinat is well qualified for the job. He began his duties Aug. 28.

According to the terms of his contract as clerk of the works, Galinat can not hold another job on the payroll of the town, except as an elected political official. By virtue of this, he has resigned from his job as town road foreman, according to Miller. Galinat will, however, continue to serve as first selectman until the October town elections. He is not seeking re-election to this position.

As clerk of the works on the new school, Galinat will be directly responsible to Walter P. Crabtree III, architect for the project. The school is scheduled to open in September 1968.

Bolton Selectman Board Discuss Proposals Made by Ahearn

At its meeting, last night the Board of Selectmen discussed the requests of Aloysius Ahearn, moderator of the recent Democratic primary. It said it will consider them further at its next meeting in two weeks.

Ahearn has asked the selectmen to raise the pay of poll workers to at least the minimum wage, $1.40 an hour, and to have on display at all times in the Community Hall a 50-star flag of the United States.

Because of the absence of Selectman Bernard Sheridan, Democratic member of the board, First Selectman Richard Morra told Ahearn, also a Democrat, that he preferred to discuss the items when Sheridan is present.

Morra said that Ahearn was trying to make this a political issue. Town elections will be held next month.

Morra added that there is a problem with vandalism, that the hall is used largely for non-official group meetings where no flag would be required, and that several new flags are readily available any time they are needed.

He also felt that Ahearn's letter, released to the press this week before the selectman had received a copy, was "insulting" and made the town appear "ridiculous." Several townspeople present agreed.

Morra added that there is a flag flying every day from the flag pole on the green in front of the Community Hall.

Ahearn repeated that he felt the flag should be displayed at all times in the hall and that the Grange flag apparently had not been vandalized. He said that the flag should be there to show that Bolton is part of the United States.

He added that he was not picking on anybody or being insulting.

Ahearn complimented Morra on the fact that he had asked the Grange to put in a flag pole a few years ago when it was improving the appearance of the green.

Town Meeting Set Because there are several items that must be voted on by the town, the selectmen plan to set Monday, Sept. 18, as the date for a town meeting. These items include $2,500 for the heating system at the Community Hall, acceptance by the town of a part of the U. S. R. development off of Hebron Rd., and acceptance of a connecticut between Birch Mountain Rd. and Rosewood Lane.

Ellington Stones and Pole Struck by Car

A motorcycle heading east on Rt. 140 failed to make a curve and struck a small pile of stones on left side of the road, struck a telephone pole and threw the driver under a nearby parked car, state police in Stafford said today.

James D. Chase, 20, of Rockville was cut on his legs, arms and head and was taken to Rockville General Hospital for treatment. He was charged with speeding and scheduled to appear in Manchester Circuit Court 12 Sept. 25.

"Extensive" damage was done to the motorcycle.

Vernon Motorist Is Cut In Car Accident

A one-car accident at 11:50 last night sent Allan Therrien, 21, of 20 Brooklyn St. to the Rockville General Hospital, for treatment of a cut forehead and lacerations of his lip and ear and was discharged.

Janet V. Kelly, 23, of 129 Oakland St. is in the hospital and is reported to be in satisfactory condition.

Leonard E. Kearns Sr., 36, of 83 High St., the other driver, has been charged with failure to grant one half the highway and is scheduled for appearance Sept. 18 in Manchester Circuit Court 12.

Manchester police report that the two cars collided shortly before 2 a.m. on Oakland St., near N. School St.

After the collision, police report, the car driven by Kelly crossed a sidewalk and struck a car parked in the driveway of 134 Oakland St. and owned by Donald L. Lisk of the same address. The Lisk vehicle suffered minor damage.

The cars belonging to Kearns and Kelly both had heavy front end damage and were towed away.

Swedish Drivers Would Switch, And Not Fight

as all except specially authorized vehicles were ordered off the roadways. Bicyclists and strollers took over the quiet streets.

directions. Police ducked behind their cars.

The Rev. Michael T. Neuberger said the bottles didn't come from the church grounds. "I don't know where they were coming from but it certainly wasn't from here," he said. "The people over here were just standing, watching."

Ellington Driver Fractures Leg In Oakland St. Accident

A car belonging to and being driven by Merle O. Tessier, 24, of 99 Broad St., was towed away with heavy front end damage early last night, after it struck the rear of a car operated by Erva R. Benson of 345 Woodbridge St.

Police report that the accident occurred on Parker St., at the New Haven RR crossing.

They say that the Benson car was stopped for a blinking warning light at the crossing when the Tessier car hit it. Tessier reported that his foot slipped from the brake pedal. No arrests were made.

In the parking lot at Mott's Super Market off E. Middle Tpke., a car driven by Mabel Peterson of 26 Gardner St. hit a car driven by Dina A. Kearns of Hebron yesterday morning, police report.

Shortly before two this morning, John M. Linnell Jr., 38, of 43 Essex St. was blinded by an oncoming car while driving on E. Middle Tpke. police say. His car swerved left and went on the lawn at 288 E. Middle Tpke., where it tore up the lawn slightly and did damage to some shrubs. No damage was done to the car, police indicate.

Women Say Pocketbooks Robbed as They Shopped

Three women shoppers reported to police their wallets were taken as they shopped last night. The three victims said their pocketbooks were taken from them as they were shopping at Mott's.

Dora Martins, of 12 Bates Rd. was shopping at the Stop and Shop Market when the theft took place, and she estimated her loss at $78.

In all three cases, the pocketbooks were later found in other sections of the stores, two of the wallets and all the money missing.

One of the victims, Dora Martins, gave to police the description of a man who had distracted her at the time the pocketbook disappeared. She told police she would know the man if she saw him again.

Early this morning police investigated a break at 401 Keeley St., residence of Elina DeFelice. Mrs. DeFelice said the house had been empty for several weeks while she and her daughter were on vacation.

Signs of entry were evident as the intruder apparently had used matches to light his way, and they were scattered in the house.

Mrs. DeFelice told police that nothing was apparently taken, and that someone breaks in each year when they go on vacation. She said this has happened the past few years.

Last night police investigated a break at the White Stone Miniature Golf Course at 425 Adams St. About $10 in cash was taken. Entry was gained by forcing a door and breaking the door casing.

An attempted break was made at the Manchester Tool and Design Co. at 130 Hartford Rd. Police investigated the attempt yesterday afternoon and said they found a small window broken where the attempt was made.

Some windows were smashed at Cole's Atlantic Station, 451 W. Center St. Five panes were broken in one window at the west side of the building, and the windshield on a car parked in the lot, police say. Police investigated the vandalism at 2:45 this morning.

Party's Host Fatally Shot In Hartford

Later this morning traces of blood were found in the hallway and on the front walk.

A neighbor across the street, who asked not to be identified, said he was awakened by a gunshot and went to the window in time to see a man leap into a car and drive away from the apartment house.

Police have not reported making any arrests yet in connection with the murder.

Green, who is 28 and a construction worker, had been living on Enfield Street for about four months. He came to Hartford from St. Petersburg, Fla.

Charter Unit Set to Meet

The Manchester Charter Revision Commission (CRC) will meet Wednesday to start drafting into legal form its recommended charter changes.

The recommendations will be reported to the Board of Directors at its Oct. 3 meeting.

Wednesday's CRC meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Probate Courtroom of the Municipal Building.

The directors must hold at least one public hearing within 30 days of receipt of the CRC report. They then have 15 more days in which to recommend changes, rejections or additions.

If none are recommended, the CRC report becomes final after 15 more days.

If changes, rejections or additions are recommended by the directors, the CRC has 30 more days in which to accept or reject them.

The CRC report then goes back to the Board of Directors which has three final choices: (1) To approve all proposed amendments in toto, (2) To reject all proposed amendments in toto, (3) To approve some and to reject some.

Any proposed amendments rejected may not be acted upon again for one year.

The board, following its final action of approval of all or part of the recommendations, must designate a referendum date, to be held within one year.

The board must specify whether the referendum will be held at a regular or special election.

Board to Consider Lincoln School Pool

The Board of Directors, at its Tuesday meeting, will consider approval for the inclusion of a swimming pool and other community facilities in the design for the proposed new Lincoln School.

The directors already have voted to permit a new school in Center Springs Park, subject to a waiver by the successors to Cheney Bros. When the park was given to the town by the Cheneys, the deed specified that the area was to be used for park and recreational use only.

Town Counsel John Shea has been instructed to seek the waiver, to permit school construction.

Director of Public Works William O'Neill soon will conduct interviews with four Manchester architects, to determine who will be chosen to draw school plans.

Tuesday's regular board meeting is at 9 p.m. in the Bealey School Auditorium on Hollister St.

In other business that night, the board will conduct eight public hearings. Three are for additional appropriations to the Board of Education, establishing wash-out accounts totaling $2,500 and all to be financed by equal state bonds.

A fourth public hearing is on a proposed $2,500 appropriation for last May's cost of leasing Globe Hollow School bonds, to be financed from investment earnings.

A fifth hearing is on a proposed $8,000 appropriation to pay for relocation expenses incurred by state occupants along the path of the new Rt. 4, and to be financed by an equal state reimbursement.

Hearings will be conducted also on a proposed change in the method of billing town water customers, from the present fixture-method to a proposed straight meter method; on the proposed installation of sidewalks on Union St., either concrete or bituminous; and on a proposed ordinance forbidding the construction of buildings on any street or highway which has not been accepted by the town.

In other business, the board will consider: 1. Approval for the reconstruction of Bush Hill Rd., labeled top priority in storm-sewer problems.

2. Approval of a $10,000 refund to Case Bros. for its cost of a sanitary-sewer main in Glen Rd.

3. Approval of a site-improvement contract award for the North End Renewal Project for improvements to Main St., Hilliard St., Hudson and Woodbridge Sts. Bids on the project will be opened Sept. 8.

4. Acceptance of the resignation of Democrat John B. Lomenzo from the Town Planning Commission and the appointment of a replacement, expected to be another Democrat, under rules of minority representation.

5. Authorization for a $75,000 refund to R. Michael Quish for a building permit fee paid by him last November.

Quish, in July 1966, was granted a variance by the Zoning Board of Appeals to construct a funeral home and attached private dwelling at the corner of E. Middle Tpke. and New Bolton Rd. The November building permit was for a $75,000 building.

Quish has abandoned his plans to build there because negotiations for purchasing the land fell through.

Automakers, UAW Talks Near End

To prepare for a possible strike the union has called a special national convention Sept. 23 to supplement union strike funds.

The UAW currently has $67 million which would provide strike benefits to workers for 12 weeks at Ford, six months at Chrysler, but only about seven weeks at GM. GM employs about 375,000 UAW men, Chrysler some 100,000.

Reuther said that if Ford is struck, "we will ask Chrysler and General Motors to sign an extension of their agreements in the hope that we can minimize the dislocation of the industry."

Reuther said there would be no cause for government intervention in a Ford strike because the stoppage would in no way endanger national health or safety.

Possibility Of New Coup Is Reported

The wind-fell "holocaust" had about 23 miles eastward, devastating up to 40,000 acres of timber in a matter of hours. It began as part of the Sundance Mountain fire near the Washington border.

That fire covered 6,000 acres Friday afternoon.

Douglas said he did not anticipate evacuation of Bonnera Ferry unless a second huge blaze in the country's north end turned southward across a string of mountain ridges.

"If the Trapper Peak fire comes this way, we'd have to evacuate many more times the number of families we're planning to move out now," he said.

Come Tuesday Night, The Fireworks Begin

NEW YORK (AP) — That last burst of summer, Labor Day weekend, is to network television what the calm is to the storm.

The public, presumably, will be out of the house and on the move, and except for the usual baseball and other sports programs, there is hardly anything scheduled that would hold even the most devout viewer. Reruns continue—even NBC's "The Saint," itself only a summer replacement, has moved into repeats.

Monday night—when networks believe the bulk of the viewers are trapped in massive traffic jams—is little better, although CBS will broadcast a special program, "The Emperor's New Clothes," enacted by the Prince Street Players. The program (8-9 p.m. EDT) is strictly for children, however.

But on Tuesday night, with the holiday season officially over, all three networks explode.

ABC and CBS start their season premieres then and most old series return with new programs. NBC, which has staked out the following week to launch its new shows has scheduled some fancy counter programming, consisting mostly of some by-passed pilot films which it will air as one-shot specials in hopes of drawing off some of the audience.

Tuesday will see the premieres of ABC's "Garrison's Guerrilla's" (7:30-8:30 p.m.), a war adventure, and "N.Y.P.D." (9:30-10), a police story. CBS will fight the latter premiere by launching a new situation comedy, "Good Morning, World"

(9:30-10) built around a team of early morning radio disc jockeys. ABC has two early evening premieres Tuesday: "The Legend of Custer," (7:30-8:30) a standard western wrapped around the fictionalized career of the cavalry leader of Little Big Horn, and "The Second Hundred Years," (8:30-9) a comedy fantasy about a fellow frozen in Arctic ice for a century who returns to contemporary society. CBS will take over then with "He and She," (9:30-10) a comedy of married life starring a couple who are also married in real life, Dick Benjamin and Paula Prentiss. "Dundee and the Culhame," a CBS western with emphasis on trials and courtrooms, follows (10-11) and is of particular interest because it stars the distinguished British actor, John Mills in his television-series debut.

CBS's big, economy-size western, "Cimarron Strip" begins its run Thursday (7:30-9). This threatened to engulf ABC's whimsical new show, "The Flying Nun" which normally will occupy the middle half hour of the 90-minute horse opera. To mitigate this circumstance, ABC at the 11th hour decided to premiere the series by a special showing of its hour-long pilot film (7:30-8:30). "Good Company," ABC's reasonably exact facsimile of Edward R. Murrow's old "Person-to-Person" comes along later (10-10:30).

Friday night's ABC schedule consists of all new programs. It starts with "Off to see the Wizard," (7:30-8:30) an MGM anthology of old and new cartoon shorts, old and new movies in the style made popular by Walt Disney. "Hondo," a TV adaptation from a popular western Walter Brennan is back in a new series, this time in "The Guns of Will Sonnet" starting Friday at 9:30 on ABC. With him is Dack Rambo, as grandson.

Disney. "Hondo," a TV adaptation from a popular western movie, follows (8:30-9:30), then turns contemporary trials of "The guns of Will Sonnet" criminal cases.

Robert Vaughn Is Making His Party's Unwanted List

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Napoleon Solo, the indestructible "Man from U.N.C.L.E." is on the top of evil Thrush's most-wanted list. And Robert Vaughn, who play the character in the NBC series, thinks he recently made the most-unwanted list in the political party of his choice.

The dark-haired actor, 35, is one of the new breed that not only takes politics seriously but is taken seriously by politicians. A dedicated Democrat and party worker, Vaughn is an outspoken critic of U.S. policy in Vietnam, and this, he says, has made him persona non grata.

In late June, Vaughn's name appeared as chairman of a group calling themselves

"Dissenting Democrats" in a three-page advertisement in a Los Angeles newspaper on a day when President Johnson was visiting the city.

The ad, which bore the names of some 3,000 others, proclaimed their determination not to vote for LBJ in 1968 unless he changed the course of the war.

"The Democratic party in California supports the President's position," said Vaughn. "It was not happy about the advertisement. I don't think the party cares much about me now."

His activity — which stimulated similar petition — signing in other cities throughout the country — has resulted in an invitation to appear on a mid-September program of NBC's

"Meet the Press," a news-interview show rarely graced by actors unless they are either candidates for public office or already elected.

Relaxing in his dressing room after an "U.N.C.L.E." scene set in a subterranean garden of poisoned mushrooms, Vaughn said he does not think his involvement in partisan politics and his public position on a controversial subject has hurt his professional career.

"I get a lot of mail about it," he said. "And a lot of it is angry in tone. But I would estimate that for every letter against my position, 100 are for it. So far I have no evidence my activity has hurt me, but maybe I'll feel something when we get back on the air with new shows."

With television accepted as a powerful tool in political campaigning, and with the successful swing of two Republican actors from film studios to important governmental posts — U.S. Sen. George Murphy and Gov. Ronald Reagan, both of California — increasing numbers of performers are openly assuming political stances.

Several harbor political ambitions. They range from Dan Blocker of "Bonanza" and

A Family 'Gunsmoke'?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Gunsmoke," grandfather of television's "adult Westerns," will start its 13th season as what the industry euphemistically calls "a family show."

The switch is occasioned by CBS's moving the show from a late Saturday evening spot to an early Monday evening show. That means that, while the bulk of the old "Gunsmoke" audience was presumed to be grownups who preferred to stay home Saturday nights, the new audience will be heavily laced with small fry. It is devoutly believed in televisionland that children control television dials as long as they are up.

Producer John Mantley insists that the change, with one exception, will not affect the series or its scripts.

"The exception will be that Kitty will never be manhandled," Mantley said. "She may be roughed up now and then by villains and outlaws but it will never go beyond that."

Over the years "Gunsmoke" has become more conservative in its treatment of sexual themes, Mantley said. When the series was 30 minutes long, "we never tried to disabuse the audience of the idea that there was a romance going between Matt and Kitty."

A Black Bear, a Boy And Dennis Weaver THURSDAY TV PROGRAM

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dennis Weaver, with one hit and some misses behind him, is returning to television this season, playing a husband and father in an early evening CBS series whose title role is enacted by a large, black bear.

"Gentle Ben," however, is promised as an adventure series with a difference. Even though it comes off the production lines of Ivan Tors, who gave us Judy, the chimp; Clarence, the cross-eyed lion of "Daktari," and Flipper, the superdolphin, Weaver insists that Ben, 650 pounds of tractability and friendliness, will be treated in the scripts as a family pet, unendowed with human sensitivities.

"No one in this series," said Weaver, "will ever get into a mess and say, 'I'm hurt, Ben, go get dad.'"

"Gentle Ben" follows "Lassie" on the network's Sunday evening schedule—and Lassie has been getting dad, the rangers or—most often—doing the rescuing herself, for 13 years without a goof. The two shows should provide an interesting study in contrast.

Weaver made an indelible impression on television audiences during the nine years he played, Chester, Marshal Dillon's limping, drawing, worrying side-kick in "Gunsmoke." After he quit the show, he went through a difficult period attempting to shake himself of the Chester identity.

"It was natural to be identified that strongly," he said. "The character was extremely visual, which puts the actor into a pigeon-hole—particularly since Chester has stayed in view on 'Gunsmoke' reruns.

After that he made a couple of pilots, neither of which worked out, a short-lived series called "Kentucky Jones," and since then has been busy in motion pictures.

In "Gentle Ben," shot in Florida, Weaver plays a game warden and father of an 8-year-old boy with a pet bear. Ben is an American bear who was raised as a pet by a family in Minnesota and is as tame—and gentle—as the ordinary family dog, Weaver says. However, he is handled by five trainers, three of them on the set with him at all times.

"He's friendly with everyone," said Weaver, "everyone who will feed him, that is. Bears are omnivorous, so it doesn't matter whether it's honey, crackers, doughnuts, just as long as it's food."

The actor observed that the usual format for such a show is merely a convenient frame in which to place the animals.

It's Back to Basics On Western Front

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When television's new thundering herd of westerns gallops onto home screens in the next few weeks, the name of the game will be damsels in distress, black-hearted villains, brave heroes.

The minds who dream up series ideas are back to basic ingredients of the classic western. It is easy to see why last season's variations of the familiar format will be missing: Not one of the innovators survived.

Another U.S. marshal will be riding onto the CBS range in the 90-minute "Cimarron Strip" to police territory south of "Gunsmoke's" Dodge City and Marshal Dillon. And the outsize western has proved itself over the past five successful seasons of NBC's "The Virginian."

"Horido," an ABC effort, is based on a successful John Wayne horse opera. Its star, Ralph Taeger, a man in the Wayne mold, plays a loner who is quick on the draw but trying, of course, to bring peace to the Arizona territory.

No one will make the mistake of last season's "Shane," a watered-down adaptation of an exciting movie about a retired gun-fighter. The trouble with that series was that he stayed retired, and the series soon was, too. No one, this time out, is attempting to make heroes out of the sodbusters, respectable and worthy as those agriculturally minded pioneers were. Both "The Road West" and "The Montroses" bit the dust like an Indian raiding party last season because they were long on sentiment and scenery but lacked action.

David Dortort, who created "Bonanza" is coming in with another of his patented western creations, this called "High Chapparral," on NBC. His specialty is the family group around whom he constructs all the familiar western makings. This time it will be two brothers and the son of one of them. Instead of the Ponderosa of the Cartwrights in Nevada, the action will be around post-Civil War Tucson. The problem will be Mexican bandits and Apache Indians.

The Apaches, it should be not-
