Romney was asked if he would support a bill to legalize marijuana.

"That's right," said the man. "In the hippie, the slender man, Romney told the hippies, 'I am here to listen to you. I want to know how you feel about society.'"

Someone shouted from the crowd, "We're the children of darkness."

Romney giving the hippies a lecture on Americanism, said that "America provided a great opportunity for you to express your opinion on any country on earth."

Romney tried to tell the crowd, "We're all children of a common creator."

But he was interrupted by a cry, "Then let's live that way."

Finally a young red-haired hippie told the congressman, "Romney a chance, not to let him go away with a bad impression—He comes to well."

Special Meetings Listed By Board of Education

Two special meetings of the Board of Education have been scheduled during the next two weeks.

The board has voted to hold another public hearing to Bentley School Monday, Oct. 2 at 7 p.m., similar to the first one held last spring. The session will permit townspeople to address the board on any matter coming under its jurisdiction.

Establishment of public sessions on a periodic basis was urged by Republican candidates for the board prior to the town elections, and a campaign promise to institute them was carried out after the GOP gained board control.

At the first public session March 27, some 15 persons among an audience of 45 aired opinions on a variety of school-related topics such as the bus experiment, Project Concern, the budget, and the pupil-teacher ratio. Most of the speakers were critics of board actions and policies.

On Tuesday at 8 p.m., the board's educational policies committee will meet at Bennett Junior High School to hear about a sex education program which three Manchester teachers

Sheinwold on Bridge

LET YOUR OPPONENTS DO SOME OF THE WORK

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A trump opening lead is not a bad idea and the opponents have bid all four suits. Dummy will surely be short in one of the side suits, and the trump lead will then reduce dummy's ruffing power.

Opening lead—Nine Spades.

West's trump opening lead made the declarer a chance. With any other lead South would make the slam pretty easily by ruffing the hearts in dummy.

South gave the defenders a further chance by managing the trick. He won the first trick with dummy's ten of spades, cashed the heart, ruff a heart, and ruffed a diamond and then a club.

When the king of diamonds came in his hand, South was down when the club finesse failed.

As dummy held: Spades, Ace-King-Queen-Jack-5-3; Hearts, Ace-King-6-5; Diamonds, None; Clubs, 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid one or two spades, depending on your trump count. Most experts would bid only one spade, but some prefer a forcing opening bid with a hand such as this.

If it stands, the hand is a borderline case. Change one of the small hearts to a jack, and it would be a clear-cut two-bid.

Two in GOP End Term on School Panel

Thursday marked the final, regularly scheduled meeting of the Board of Education before the town elections Oct. 2. Retiring from the board and affecting their last meeting were Republicans Margaret Cleverdon and Winthrop Merriam, who have both served for the past full four-year terms to two of the three Republicans on the board. Merriam has served an additional two years, from 1965, having filled an unexpired term.

Both Mrs. Cleverdon and Merriam have served the town in some capacity for many years. Mrs. Cleverdon for 18 years on the board of the Booth-Dimock Library and Merriam as town clerk and board of finance member, among many other jobs in 20 years. Both said last night they consider themselves "retired" from public life.

It was his last time as superintendent Frank Dunn who has resigned effective Oct. 5 to accept another administrative position, as announced. Dunn said that things are going well under his watch and he is looking forward to his replacement.

A brochure describing the position of the superintendent and duties of the vacancy, has been sent to major colleges and universities in New England and New York. Candidates will be screened with the most promising then appearing before the school board for an interview. Closing date for applications is Oct. 1 with new superintendent to begin his duties on Jan. 1.

The most regularly scheduled meeting is Oct. 5, and at that time David McKenne, currently by business manager of the school system, will take over as acting superintendent. Two new board members will begin their duties then also: Suzanne Brainard and Peter Thomas will replace Cleverdon and Merriam, and the Democratic incumbents, whose terms expire, both elected to the board. Averill, will continue on the board.

It will be the first full term for Mrs. Bertoli, who was appointed to fill a vacancy early last year, and the second full four-year term for Averill. Election of the minority representatives this year there is no representation on the board seats that were available.

The board also announced last night that a public hearing on the proposed central office staff building will be held next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. This is a change in date from the previously announced date, Monday, Oct. 2, at 7 p.m. It is estimated that the building, containing approximately 1600 sq. ft., will cost $40,000. If the project is ultimately approved by the town voters, it would be constructed on town-owned land, right next to the high school.

The board accepted with regret the resignation of Victor Porto, effective immediately for health reasons. Porto is a high school history teacher. Ethel C. Harris was named successor to Porto.

It is the annual town census of pre-school age children.

Coventry GOP Candidates Take to Water

Republican candidates for town office in the Oct. 2 election will take to the water tomorrow for a unique "dock-to-dock" campaign. The purpose of the special campaign effort is to stress the candidates' concern with respect to the growing need for a more adequate lake patrol.

One of the planks in the Republican platform pledges a Republican administration to the appointment of a study committee to investigate the extent of the need for greater boat safety and improved lake work-shop at the University of Hartford, where they helped develop a suggested curriculum guide for kindergarten through grade 12, will be Mrs. Patricia Guay for elementary grades, Calvin Fish for intermediate grades, and Mrs. Gloria Bourke for secondary grades.

Heading the Republican slate are William Simpson and Richard Nicols, candidates for first selectman and selectman, respectively. Also Ruth Smith, running for the combined position of town-clerk-town treasurer, David Rappo, judge of probate, and F. Pauline Little, tax collector.

The workshop was attended by teachers from several school systems and was an outgrowth of suggestions coming out of the Greater Hartford Community Council.

It was sponsored by METRO, a regional association of school systems of which Manchester is a member.

The curriculum guide developed in the workshop is scheduled for presentation at the State Teachers Convention Oct. 27.

Hartford Police Require Lawyer Kerrigan Claims

HARTFORD (AP)—The Hartford police department needs a full-time lawyer for the protection of rights of all citizens, including police officers, Hartford's police chief says.

Chief John J. Kerrigan requested the assignment of such an attorney Friday. In a statement to residents of Hartford, he said that the police department during the summer and as recently as last week—the given his reasons.

Kerrigan said that despite complaints of police mistreatment, the police force conducted itself with "outstanding ability, courage and restraint in protecting the lives and property" of Hartford citizens.

The policeman did this, Kerrigan said, "in the face of insults, assaults and other deliberate attempts to provoke temperate actions on their part."

Even so, he said, the police have been charged with misconduct and infractions have been made that "complaints of this nature are ignored."

All formal complaints submitted to his department will be investigated and appropriate action will be taken.

Kerrigan said the city's corporation counsel has assured him that his entire staff is committed to his department in all future civil disturbances.

BIRCHOFF SEEKS GRANT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., is scheduled to ask a Senate bill to approve a $30.5 million grant for flood control in Connecticut's Park River Basin.

Ribicoff said the Army Engineers say there is an urgent need for flood control in the basin.

Flood losses in 1955 were $4.1 million, he said, but the same flood levels now would cause damage of $4.5 million.

Science is sociology or nuclear physics. It is that the march of the science itself and its continual discovery of new knowledge and capacity that may be either good or evil are inevitable, so that, as far as civilization is concerned, it may be relatively static difference whether individual scientists grow fonder over the possible consequences of their work.

Columbia O'Neill Cites Selectmen on Redistricting

Rep. William O'Neill, 52nd district, speaking at the selectmen's meeting this week said, "The only way reapportionment can work for the small towns is through the Boards of Selectmen. They must cite the needs of their individual towns."

O'Neill said he enjoys his work in legislation and added, "I'm happy to say I am on two very important committees, Roads and Bridges and Appropriations and Finance."

He told the selectmen that school grants here from the state would total $423,000 over the next two years—an increase of some $78,000.

O'Neill was instrumental in the passing of a bill allowing Columbia $600,000 for a road program to straighten out the curve in the road by the dam.

"Of course," he added, "Columbia doesn't spend it all, what's left over goes back to the state."

Although the legislature will not be in session for the next 18 months, O'Neill told the selectmen, "Any problems will be taken care of if possible, if you just tell me about them."

Selectmen said work on the dump area has been completed and asked the public's cooperation in separating garbage from other trash and added that separate areas will be well designated.

The poison control has been extremely effective on rats, but selectmen said the fact that any other animal inadvertently eating the poison would gag and expel the mixture.

Ellington $105,000 Grant Is Given by U.S. For Sewer Work

A grant of $105,000 by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, announced yesterday, will help bring sewers to the Long view section of Ellington, according to Francis Prichard Jr., first selectman.

The town applied for the funds more than a year ago because of the "congested" section of town bordering on the old city of Rockyville, Prichard said today. He noted the sewage running down some of the streets there.

The Sewer Commission will meet next week, he said, to outline action and talk to the engineer, James Thompson of Buck and Buck Engineers of Hartford.

The "worst" street in the area is Orchard St., he said, but other streets, Fairview Ave., Lyons St. and Lower Butcher Rd. Tie-in fees are expected to help pay for the sewer lines and the money paid to Vernon for use of their treatment plant, he said.

Prichard said Ellington has Vernon's permission to send its effluent to the Windsorville Rd. plant in Vernon. Ellington now pipes some industrial and residential effluent to the Vernon plant.

Jewelry Stolen In House Break

Jewelry of undetermined value was stolen early last night by thieves who used a "vice grip" or pipe wrench to force the knob on a door at the home of Anthony Urbanetti at 37 Butternut Rd.

Police said the thieves entered the kitchen and walked through the living room and living room upstairs were ransacked, and papers dumped on the floor, they said.

Stolen were a gold watch and ring and possibly a pair of diamond out links and cash.

Urbanetti's son told police he returned home about 8:45 after eating dinner and heard footsteps on the gravel road.

Police said the boy's parents saw away and a value has not been placed on the jewelry yet. Urbanetti's home was broken into last year also.

Marine Band Plays 2 Concerts Sunday

Advance ticket sales for tomorrow's concerts by the U.S. Marine Corps Concert Band have been brisk and a good turnout for this year's only Connecticut appearance by "The President's Own" seems assured, according to Nicholas Costa, director of student activities at Manchester Community College.

The renowned 80-piece musical organization will present an afternoon performance at 2 and an evening concert at 8 in Bailey Auditorium of Manchester High School.

Both will be under the leadership of Lt. Col. Albert Schoepfer, band director, who will be assisted at the afternoon performance by Capt. James King, assistant director.

Brad Davis, WTIC radio and television personality and a former Marine, will serve as master of ceremonies at the evening concert.

The event is being sponsored by the college as the first in this year's series of fine arts programs for its students and the community.

The content of each program will differ and will include widely varied types of music, ranging from symphonic and operatic pieces to tone poems, ballet, light opera and show tunes.

Several band members will be featured, soloists on cornet, trombone and marimba. William Jones, baritone, will be vocal soloist.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, starting at 12:30 for the matinee and at 6:30 for the evening performance.

All proceeds will be used to augment future public programs in the college fine arts series.

Columbia Driver Hurt In Collision

A motorist suffered a fractured skull in a two-car crash early this morning on Rt. 6. A hit-and-run accident involving a pack of motorcycles and a car took place at the same spot at about the same time. Police said the motorcycle incident involved the Scorpions, a Willimantic motorcycle club, who were heading east on Rt. 6 when a 1961 red Chevrolet hardtop heading west swung into the eastbound lane and struck the motorcycle driven by William T. March, 19, of Willimantic, police said. The car continued on toward Manchester, they said.

At about the same time, police said, two cars driven by Dennison F. Cole of Chaplin and Ronald C. Denaro, 23, of Lebanon were heading west on Rt. 6 side by side when one turned into the path of the other causing another accident.

Each of the three, this morning, involved a fractured skull and a fractured leg and his wife, Claire, was treated and discharged.

March is reported in good condition with a compound fracture of the thumb, and his wife, Rachel, was treated and discharged.

A four-man team of state policemen headed by Sgt. Paul Harrington and Trooper Warren Davis as investigating officer is still investigating. An alert is out for the hit-and-run driver.

A third crash occurred about 1 yesterday afternoon on W. Middle Tpk., about 129 feet west of Congress St. Anthony N. Lappo Jr., 20, of 80 Wells St., told police his car was hit while in the driveway at Winkler Auto Center.

He said the car was on the road about a foot.

Lappo told police his car was hit by another driven by Celia S. Rothchild of 384 Parker St. He said he stopped the woman at Stop & Shop and told her of the accident. Police said, however, she denied her car was involved in the crash.

Black patrol was found on Lappo's car, police said, and the color of Mrs. Rothchild's car is black.

40,000 Errors In One Woman's Social Security

In 1953 there were 880 reported Mrs. Whittecher's account, and the total increased steadily. In the year 1943, it peaked at 5,775 quarterly wage reports, a Social Security record.

The New York woman found herself suspect at first. "The detectives were watching me," she says now.

When officials at Social Security headquarters in suburban Woodlawn pinpointed the error, Mrs. Whittecher was promptly given a new number. Her old number was retired.

But the tangle still haunts Social Security.

Colorado Beauty Is Still in Coma

She found time, between her job with a plastic firm, philosophy studies at the university's Denver extension center, and visits to other casualties at the Army's Fitzsimons Hospital here, to answer each letter.

The letters still pour in, many from the Vietnam battle zone, but now they are answered by her mother.

The cause of the accident never has been fully explained. Sharie was thrown from her car, 150 feet down an embankment when it struck a guard rail as she started to leave the freeway scarcely half a dozen blocks from home.

Sharie's mother theorized that she was tired and fell asleep at the wheel. Sharie had been registering for her sophomore year at the university, had worked that morning and baked a birthday cake for a 7-year-old neighbor girl that afternoon.

When the accident occurred, she was returning from The Rathskeller, a Denver gathering place for young people.

Sharie survived the immediate crisis of delicate brain surgery and later bouts with pneumonia before regaining a good measure of physical health.

She still has hirsute, dark brown hair and the soft skin of youth, and her big brown eyes, though apparently uncomprehending, still are bright.

But officials at Spalding House say there has been little if any significant headway in helping her to emerge from the coma.

PUMP BURNS, MAN HURT - HARTFORD (AP) - An electrical spark apparently set fire to a gasoline pump tank Tuesday, burning Salvatore Perruccio, 34, of Hartford on the arms, legs, and chest.

Perruccio and two co-workers were changing a tank in a Kim's Auto Service pump when it burst into flames. Perruccio, the only one reported injured, was admitted to Hartford Hospital with second-degree burns.

Five officials speculated that the spark was caused by trouble in the pump wiring.

B52s, Marine Guns Hammer North Viet

In Operation Kingfisher, Marines of the 4th Regiment assaulted an estimated Communist reinforced company—perhaps 180 men.

Military officers said the Marines moved to within 20 yards of the Communists' position but were stopped by heavy small arms fire and booby-trapped hedgerows. As darkness began to fall, the enemy broke contact.

The fierceness of the action along the DMZ is pointed up by Operation Kingfisher. Since it began last July 16, the Marines have lost 249 dead and 2,145 wounded in Kingfisher alone.

The Leathernecks, however, have reported killing 902 Communists and capturing 124 weapons.

Although the battle along the tense northern frontier far overshadowed action elsewhere, headquarters listed other scattered actions in which the allies reported at least 227 Communists killed.

Communist terrorism increased. A jeep struck a mine near Da Nang and several South Vietnamese soldiers were killed or wounded. A truck was ambushed in the central highlands and more died. Five civilians were wounded when another truck was hit by a grenade on the outskirts of Saigon. In the same area, a terrorist grenade killed a woman. In coastal Phu Yen Province, guerrillas ended a village by night and kidnapped 15 persons.

High Water Threatens New Areas of Texas

"We expect it (the main part of the bridge) to go anytime," he said late Friday.

"This is the highest discharge since 1938," he said. "It's a very large flood. It's very serious."

South Texas was a world gone mad with water. Attempts at cleaning up the soggy mess were started at the few points where waters receded.

A hand-lettered sign on the wall of the Raymondville Hospital told this story: "Our syringes and medicines are sterile. Our hearts and hands are clean. Our smiles are real. Only our floor is wet and a few guys with guts are keeping us going."

A volunteer team of men and boys—some from the high school football team—kept floodwaters to a low level in the hospital with pumps, buckets and sandbags.

Chief Physician Dr. Charles Spence said the volunteers "pitched in and kept some women from having to have their babies out in that mud and filth."

White-coated nurses were barefoot. Doctors wore high boots.

Church Lists New Schedule

St. Mary's Episcopal Church inaugurated a new schedule of services with the opening of the Church School last Sunday, it was announced by the Rev. George F. Nostrand, rector.

Family Services have been set at 9 and 10:45 a.m. Parishioners with Church School children over kindergarten age may attend Church First at 9 a.m. followed by church school at 9:50 a.m., or they may attend the 10:45 a.m. service. Adult classes are being held while children's classes are in session.

There will be only one session of Kindergarten, Nursery, and Crib class beginning at 9 a.m. and lasting until 10:40 a.m.

Parishioners with older children, the Rev. Mr. Nostrand said, are encouraged to attend the later service so that the congregation will be more evenly divided.

Servings of Holy Communion at 7:30 a.m. and Evening Prayer at 7 p.m. remain the same.

Viewers Like the Half-Hour

NEW YORK (AP) — The hour-long television program has now overtaken and passed the half-hour show in popularity with the men who decide what the public shall see on the three networks. But the viewers, if the popularity polls are reasonably accurate, still seem to turn to the shorter programs—particularly when they are comedies.

This season there are 31 half-hour shows—and 21 of them are made for laughs. There are 43 programs of either one hour's or 90 minutes' duration and comedy crops up only in the assorted variety shows.

Time was when the half-hour show was the single most important TV staple. Those were the days of the family situation comedies—now almost extinct—like "December Bride," "Make Room for Daddy" and "I Love Lucy," all big hits. At that time the executive theory was that an assortment of short programs provided variety for the viewer and kept him glued to one channel.

Now the theory is that the long show holds the viewer. CBS, in fact, has only two offerings on Thursday nights—90-minute "Cimarron Strip" and a two-hour broadcast of a feature movie. And Thursday night is a time when ABC has six half-hour shows running from 7.30 p.m. to 10.30. Even with CBS tossing some powerful movies into the channel—most recent was "The Apartment"—and with NBC's "Daniel Boone" and "Ironside" for more tough competition, most of those shorter shows are doing very nicely.

"Bewitched," for instance, is now in its fourth season and is as strong as ever. It was, in fact, the number four show in the most recent Nielsen list, followed by Mario Thomas, "That Girl" which also follows it on the network schedule. In that same list, incidentally, 12 of the top 20 programs were half hour shows—and all comedies except two.

"Bewitched," unlike some of the other fantasy shows that Movies are better than ever—on television: Above, Paul Newman and Elizabeth Taylor with Burl Ives as Big Daddy in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" Thursday 9-11 p.m. on CBS, and Marlon Brando as Fletcher Christian and Tarita in "Mutiny On The Bounty" Sunday 8-11:30 p.m. dropped by the wayside, manages to carry the viewers along with its magic tricks. Thursday night the problem was the necessity for Darren, mortal husband of the nose-wrinkling sorceress, to learn Italian instantly. So he was put under a spell and became fluent in the language, but unable to understand or speak English. On this preposterous and slight foundation, Elizabeth Montgomery and Dick York somehow managed to build a gently amusing 30 minutes.

The charm and attractiveness of Mario Thomas is the major factor in the success of "That Girl," now a year old. The way

Filmmakers' Dilemma: TV or Not TV?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film producers in the new movie era are now facing a Hamlet-like dilemma: TV or not TV?

That is the question. Is it better to risk the slings and arrows of outraged moralists and make films that can never show on the home screen? Or to play it safe and produce movies that would face no unsurmountable problems with the vigilant network censors?

One company has met the issue by making a complete turn-about in programming. American-International soared to prosperity with cheaply made, innocuous movies that somehow appealed to the teen-age market: "I Was a Teen-Age Frankenstein," "Beach Blanket Bingo," "How to Stuff a Wild Bikini," "The Raven," etc.

The head of American-International once explained that Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello never even talked about sex in the company's movies. "We've got a great family audience for our pictures," he said, "and we don't want to jeopardize that."

But a couple of years ago, the A-I researchers discovered that the youngsters were bored by the antiseptic romances of Frankie and Annette. The kids wanted to be turned on.

Since then, A-I has come on strong with films about drag racing and motorcycle gangs. The product has grown more sexy and violent until A-I achieved its first condemnation from the Catholic film reviewing agency. Roger Corman's "The Trip," which depicted the LSD experiences of Peter Fonda, was assailed as pornographic.

Unless moral standards alter radically in the next few years, "The Trip" will not be allowed on network television. But A-I is willing to gamble that the box-office take from such sensational films will offset the loss of sales to television.

Nearly all of the films are made on limited budgets. The economic factors are plain: The average movie can earn at least

Television Likes To Kid Television

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Webb, an actor who neither sings nor dances but does have a television series on NBC was a guest on Tuesday night's "Jerry Lewis Show," also on NBC.

So what did he do? He was in a little sketch satirizing his program, "Dragnet."

David Hedison, an actor who neither sings nor dances but does have a television series on ABC, was a guest on Tuesday night's "Hollywood Palace," also on ABC.

So what did he do? He was in a little sketch which satirized his program, "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea."

Television usually runs into its stormiest weather when it attempts satire, but always seems to find television—from entertainment programs to commercials—its best and easiest target. But by now it has become almost a ritual to use TV stars to kid their own product.

It was, as a matter of fact, about time somebody poked a little fun at "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" and its monster-of-the-week. "Hollywood Palace's" monster, rock man, was not really more ridiculous than some presented seriously in the adventure series.

Milton Berle was host on the "Palace" variety show, moved this season to a new night and time spot. The program, essentially a vaudeville show, has its own style and is in no way a carbon of the Ed Sullivan hour.

Lena Horne, who sang two songs, was given a glittering background, and one production number with Nette Adams dancing with the chorus boys had polka and class. NBC's "I Dream of Jeannie" introduced a new character Tuesday, Jeannie's sister — Barbara Eden in black wig—who is a mean, self-ish genie, unlike Barbara Eden's good blonde genie.

The series now is in its third season, suggesting that it must have a devoted following. But it is hard to get involved in the program since all the humor is pegged on special effects and camera tricks. It is not terribly funny, for instance, to see a young astronaut puzzling his superior officer when in a twinkling of a genie's eye, his clothes are magically changed.

Maybe, since it is around in the early evening, it amuses the very young.

"Password" after six years disappeared this week on CBS and in its place has come "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," based on a novel. It is the story of an Eurasian girl coming to the United States and meeting her father's American family. It will take more exposure than a couple of days to find out if it has anything more to offer than the rest of the afternoon soap operas. But "Password," a bright and literate game that involved the audience, undoubtedly will be missed by many viewers.

Art Stark, for years the producer of Johnny Carson's television shows including "The Tonight Show" is the new producer of ABC's "Good Company." John Aaron quit the new series after a disagreement with David Susskind, the executive producer, over the proposed injection of controversial issues in the celebrity interview program.

Recommended tonight: Bob Hope Comedy Special, NBC, 9-10 EDT, first of the comedian's specials of the season, with Phyllis Diller, Jimmy Durante, Rowan and Martin and Kaye Stevens.

Filmmakers

$800,000 from network runs after it has played in theaters. This makes any family type film an almost surefire investment, provided it doesn't go too far over budget.

But a movie that can never play television lacks that $800,000 cushion and hence must be made economically.

Thus all major film deals are made with an eye to the television market, and this alarms some film makers. Producer-director Robert Aldrich is planning to film "The Killing of Sister George," based on the stage play that was a hit in London and so-so in New York. It concerns a pair of lesbians.

"Because of the subject matter, most film companies wouldn't touch it," says Aldrich. "They aren't interested in something that obviously could never play television."

"That worries me. I'm afraid that films will become more bland and less venturesome, because the companies are interested only in entertainment suitable for family consumption."

Those who share Aldrich's alarm are not encouraged by the entrance into feature filming of the networks themselves. CBS is embarking on a large-scale program of theatrical films, later to be shown on television, and has signed Dofis Day as its first star. ABC is starting its own productions with a movie to star Sidney Poitier.

NBC recently financed a Bob Hope movie and has presented several two-hour "world pre-
