Law Classes In Colleges Given Praise

State Sen. David M. Barry of the Civil War will praise the state's community college system for insuring a curriculum of police administration and law enforcement in two of its institutions.

Beginning this fall, the Manchester and Norwich Community Colleges are offering such courses in a two-year program leading to an associate degree. Citing the rising crime rate, social unrest and the changing laws relating to the apprehension and prosecution of criminals, Sen. Barry said that the courses are a vital part of the total educational services offered by the community colleges.

The scope of the curriculum indicates the colleges' recognition of the need for a broadening of police training beyond the purely technical aspects of police work, he said.

He cited the inclusion of courses in sociology, psychology, political science, social science, natural science and English in addition to criminal investigation, traffic control and police administration.

Sen. Barry said that already more than 100 students have enrolled in this program at the Manchester High School, is attending Porter School of Design, Rocky Hill. He is employed as a machine apprentice at Pratt and Whitney, Division of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford.

No date has been announced for the wedding.

UFT Found Guilty; Shanker Sentenced

NEW YORK (AP) — UFT teachers were found guilty of a conspiracy to defame the city's public school system.

Charges against two other union officials were dismissed by a judge.

The city's Board of Education had obtained an injunction against the strike under the new Taylor law, which was designed to prevent strikes of the city's public school system.

The sentencing, by Justice Emilio Tamm in State Supreme Court, was viewed as the first application of the punitive provisions of the state's new Taylor law, which bars strikes by public employees.

Maximum penalties under the law are fines of $10,000 a day against the union and jail terms of up to 90 days and a $500 fine against leaders.

The law was enacted by the two-million-member State AFL-CIO Union, however, UFT attorney Ernest Fleischman, "You are being punished for contempt of violation of the court's lawful mandate, respectively of the Taylor Law."

Truckers Harrassed Despite More Police

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Rocks and bullets harrassed truckers moving along the Pennsylvania Turnpike during the night, despite more police.

The Pennsylvania State Police placed a guard on standby and beefed up police patrols.

And in Ohio, Butler County sheriff's deputies said four trucks parked at a trucking company near Middletown, Ohio were drenched with gasoline and set afire. Two rigs were destroyed.

Pennsylvania police said a trucker's windshield was shot out near Laurel Mountain, but he wasn't hurt. Officers were checking out reports of shooting and looting along the western end of the toll road.

The new violence came in the wake of the governor's order that he call hoodlum and Communist elements in the Turnpike area, said the decision would be announced this week.

"We intend to protect life and property," Shaffer said. He alerted guard units throughout western Pennsylvania.

The alert was issued after strikers leaders said the truckers had rejected a trace proposal that would have ended the eight-day walkout, now in its seventh week.

ABC Files Suit Against TV Union

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. has filed a $2 million damage suit against Mel Brandt, president of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA), which has ordered its members not to cross picket lines of striking ABC technicians.

The suit, filed Tuesday in the New York State Supreme Court, also sought an injunction restraining AFTRA from persuading ABC employees "to violate any employment contract under threat of facing disciplinary action by the union."

About 1,500 technicians—members of the AFL-CIO National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians—have been on strike against the ABC television and radio networks since Sept. 22 in a contract dispute.

In Los Angeles, one of five cities where NABET is on strike and picketing, Superior Court Judge Ralph Nutter on Tuesday granted ABC a temporary restraining order prohibiting AFTRA from persuading ABC employees "to violate any employment contract under threat of facing disciplinary action by the union."

Senate Kills Anti-Poverty Job Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected by a 47-42 vote today a cut-down $925 million compromise emergency job proposal as part of the anti-poverty bill.

The $925 million plan had been offered as a substitute for the original plan, which would have cost $2.3 billion.

The outcome of this test on the emergency job rider was a victory for the Johnson administration, which opposed such a proposal in any form because of its budget-busting implications.

However, many Republicans and nearly all Southern Democrats joined with some administration supporters to turn back the compromise, which was offered by Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt.

Sen. Joseph C. Clark, D-Pa., author of the original $2.3 billion job plan, urged all of his followers to back the Prouty proposal.

He said he was convinced it offered the only chance "to do something for the jobless in this bill."

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., made the primary argument against the compromise.

He emphasized that it was opposed by the President and administration programs already under way would be crowded out.

Byrd is author of a motion to strike the entire emergency job section from the bill. This is expected to be voted on later today.

Prouty, confiding his proposal would actually save the government money, said it would "make it possible for a good many people who are now on welfare to get back to work."

His Massive Works Are Never Signed

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP)—The artist whose paintings probably get the greatest exposure in the world never gets to sign his creations and he has never met any of his subjects.

He is Hans Drude, who paints the massive movie billboards that dominate building walls and rooftops in Times Square, where more than 10 million people pass every week.

His latest creation is a six-story high, block-long spectacular for "Dr. Dolittle" in which a giant Rex Harrison sits astride a giraffe. The billboard, which towers over the west side of Broadway from 45th to 46th Streets, is said to be the world's largest.

Drude, 44, a small, blond native of Hamburg, Germany, came to this country in 1906. A few months later he joined Artkraft Strauss, the company that erects many of the billboards in Times Square.

"I once painted Rita Hayworth and just her eye was nine feet long," he said. Julie Christie's head is 27 feet high in another advertisement for "Far from the Madding Crowd."

backgrounds for the billboards are done by other artists.

He often paints the pictures in the shop of Artkraft Strauss, but sometimes he has to do it on a scaffold high above Times Square.

"That's when it's difficult," he said. "You're too close to judge your work and you can't step back. You've got to go down and look from across the street."

Some of the paintings are painted in reverse on glass and are backlit, such as one he is doing for the film "Camelot." Drude said his severest critic is his wife, who comes in about once a month from their home in Fort Washington on Long Island. "She'll look at one and say, 'That's a good job.' Or she'll say, 'Honey, you didn't do so well.'"

At home his hobby is—what else?—painting. He does portraits, but his favorite subject is horses.

He is bothered by the fact that his creations never last beyond the run of a movie. "Well, not really," he said. "But sometimes when they take down the ones on glass and wash them off, I think it's a shame."

Stamps In the News

By STY KRONHJ AP Newsfeatures

When summer fades, can Christmas be far behind? Not really, since in a few weeks people will be planning and doing their Christmas shopping—and the Post Office Department has announced the design for the 1967 Christmas stamp.

This year's adhesive will duplicate last year's design but will be nearly twice as large. It reproduces a portion of Hans Memling's "Madonna and Child with Angels," a 15th century Flemish oil painting that hangs in the National Gallery of Art in Washington.

The 6-cent stamp will be issued Nov. 8 with first-day cancellations in Bethlehem, Pa.

The sixth in the series of U.S. Christmas stamps is the first to be printed in the larger commemorative size.

The multicolored stamp will bear the lettering "U.S. Christmas" and "Memling—National Gallery of Art."

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Bethlehem, Pa. 18020. The envelope should be endorsed "First-Day Covers Christmas Stamp." Requests must be postmarked no later than Nov. 6.

Sheinwold on Bridge

DON'T COUNT LOSERS IN ALFRED SHEINWOLD's most trump contracts you can see where you stand by counting your losers. This short cut is not accurate when you plan to ruff a diamond. — Jack of Clubs.

West led the jack of clubs, and East captured it. East returned the nine of diamonds, and South put up the ace. South ruffed a heart in dummy and returned to his hand with the ace of diamonds.

South saw that he would have to lose a trump trick in addition to the ace of clubs. Unless hearts broke well South would also have to lose a spade trick.

South took the top hearts, discarding two spades from dummy, and led another heart. West could not afford to ruff with the queen of diamonds since that would discard the jack of spades from dummy to avoid the loss of a spade trick. East discarded the ten of spades.

Seems Doomed

Since the hearts had failed to break favorably it seemed that South was doomed to lose a spade trick as well as a trump. Actually, it didn't work out that way.

South ruffed the low heart in dummy, discarded a spade on the king of clubs and ruffed a club. He then led a spade to dummy's ace and ruffed dummy's last club with his own last.

South then led his last heart.

Guard Requests Strength Hike to Recruit Negroes

HARTFORD (AP)—The Pentagon is being asked to approve a five per cent increase in the authorized strength of Connecticut's National Guard so that more Negro youths may be recruited.

Gen. E. Donald Walsh, the State Adjutant General, told the National Guard Bureau in Washington that if the request is denied, "I fear that we will be missing a golden opportunity to recruit Negro youth."

Walsh said the National Guard's typical recruiting pattern is that once a youth begins to bring his friends in with him.

We anticipate that with a five per cent increase in Negro recruiting, we would have a strong base from which to operate in the future," he said.

The initial five per cent would sell the National Guard program through the "buddy system" and in the normal enlistment procedure a representative percentage of Negro youths would be in our ranks."

HARTFORD (AP)—The Pentagon is being asked to approve a five per cent increase in the authorized strength of Connecticut's National Guard so that more Negro youths may be recruited.

Gen. E. Donald Walsh, the State Adjutant General, told the National Guard Bureau in Washington that if the request is denied, "I fear that we will be missing a golden opportunity to recruit Negro youth."

Thousands evacuated Tampico, a city of 125,000 while the storm still approached.

By late Tuesday night, however, Jack Stewart of the Brownsville Weather Bureau said, "It looks like this thing will about wash out by the time it reaches the coast."

Fern bobbed up unexpectedly two days ago in the Gulf of Mexico instead of the South Atlantic, the usual birthplace for such storms.

For a time its course mimicked the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas, where Hurricane Beulah smashed ashore close to Brownsville two weeks ago when it wide up to 160 m.p.h. and flood-triggering rains. Estimated property loss topped $1 billion and Beulah claimed a total of 55 lives, including 12 in Texas.

Heavy rains were expected through Wednesday night from the area between Tampico and the mouth of the Solo La Marina River, 50 miles upriver. Storm experts looked for wind damage to be comparatively limited except in a small area near the center where the fiercest squalls—but no sustained hurricane winds—were concentrated.

Experience Moves Marshall Toward Liberal Court Wing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thirty years at the bar and on the bench appear to have moved Marshall, who takes the oath Monday as the Supreme Court's first Negro justice, toward the court's liberal wing.

It is often risky to speculate on the future course of a new justice, but Marshall, 51, is a lawyer, dozens of opinions as a lower federal court judge and his two-year stint as solicitor general—representing the federal government before the high court—provide a fairly reliable yardstick of the 36-year-old Marshall's legal and judicial temperament.

The 9th justice to join the court since the nation's founding, Marshall will take the judge's oath—no doubt to justice without respect to persons and to equal justice to the poor and to the rich—in the court's new term.

He has actually been a justice since Sept. 1, when Justice L. Black administered the constitutional oath in a private ceremony.

Marshall has taken over the chambers vacated by retired Justice Tom C. Clark. He has hired two law clerks—one from Harvard, one from Columbia—to help him with the mountain of legal business the court must dispose of by June. Both are white.

For several weeks, Marshall and his clerks have been reviewing hundreds of petitions for Supreme Court review of cases decided in state and lower federal courts. In the hectic days following the court's ceremonial opening Monday, the junior justices will cast one or nine votes on what cases to accept for review.

Until midwinter, however, he will be taking part in barely half of the court's work. Because he was U.S. solicitor general for the past two years, passing on all federal cases to come before the high court, he will disqualify himself from consideration of any federal cases in which he had a hand.

What may be expected from the newest justice as he settles into the court's routine has been routinely assumed that he will quickly align himself with the liberal majority led by Chief Justice Earl Warren, with Justice William J. Brennan Jr., and Justice Abe Fortas. Clark usually voted on the "conservative" side with John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart, and Byron R. White.

The "liberals" of the court read the Constitution, as Marshall shall put it recently, as a "living document," to be interpreted and applied in the light of new situations as they arise. The "conservatives," loosely speaking, take a more rigid view of the Constitution. The "liberals" are identified with an opinion orally; that practice, traditional in the Supreme Court, is not followed in lower federal courts.

The wit and humor for which Marshall is so well known of the bench are singularly absent from his written opinions.

But he has frequently let dry understatement serve for wit. A defendant, contesting his extradition to Mexico to face murder charges, told the court there was no evidence a murder had been committed in Mexico. Marshall handled it this way, upholding the extradition:

"On Nov. 22, police officers discovered a corpse buried by the side of the Mexico-Acapulco highway. . . . The corpse was riddled with four bullet wounds in the head and neck regions. . . . The victim had arrived in Mexico City from New York on Nov. 11."

"If there are other explanations for the death than murder in Mexico, they are not readily apparent."

One hint of Marshall's probable posture on the High Court came in a lengthy dissent delivered in 1964.

On the losing end of a 7-2 decision, Marshall contended that the public condemnation of the defendant by the state, retroactively his ruling that the constitutional prohibition on illegal searches and seizures applied to the states, had always done so in other Bill of Rights cases.

He said, "We are not free to circumscribe the application of a declared constitutional right."

Under the majority's approach, assertion of fundamental rights will depend on strained distinctions which have no place in the orderly administration of law.

One year later, the Supreme Court announced that its 1961 decision was not to be applied retroactively. In an angry dissent, Black, joined by Douglas, said that the defendant was not a participant in ruling that due process of law had been violated.

In January 1964, for example, he ordered the release of a man, imprisoned 29 years, because the prosecution had failed to divulge to the defense the existence of two eyewitnesses to a robbery who never concurring opinions, and 12 dissents.

The bulk of his opinions dealt with technical questions of bankruptcy law, taxation, patents, corporate organization, and admiralty law. It is a ship, unseaworthy because a plan is left on a hatch cover and a stevedore trips over it. Should a patent be granted for a new method of attaching false hair to a doll's head?

But Marshall's temperament and philosophy emerged in a significant number of cases.

It might be ventured, for example, that he is not a stickler for the fine technical points of legal procedure when individual freedom is at stake. He ordered a hearing on a convicted man's charge that he was rendered incompetent to stand trial because of medication administered to him during the trial.

Marshall wrote in 1965, "that the various procedures designated to remedy and applied in the light of new situations as they arise. . . . But rather he risked than denial of speaking, take a more rigid view of the Constitution. The 'liberals' are identified with

South Windsor Throwe Is Army Advocate

Governor John Dempsey has appointed Major James H. Throwe as State Judge Advocate for the administration of the Uniform Code of Military Justice adopted by the 1967 General Assembly.

Major Throwe, Connecticut Army National Guard staff judge advocate, will review all legal proceedings in the state military department, which follows the Federal Uniform Code of Military Justice. Throwe helped prepare the code.

Major Throwe is now completing a term as Democratic mayor of South Windsor. He declined to run in Monday's election. He is a member of the law firm of Leone, Throwe, Tiller and Noble in East Hartford.

Major James Throwe

A native of Norwich, Major Throwe attended Norwich Free Academy, won his B.A. from the University of Connecticut and his law degree from the 'L'Conn Law School 'in 1967. In the army, he served as a platoon leader at Fort Jackson, S. C.; the Officers' Intelligence course at Fort Monmouth, N.J.; and the Atomic Weapons course in Texas.

He entered the Army in 1948 and was on active duty in Korea. He held the rank of sergeant major upon discharge. In 1952 he received a direct commission and an assignment as Battery Commanding Officer with the Norwich unit.

He was promoted to captain in 1958 and worked with personnel, intelligence and supply and logistics.

The adjutant general appointed Major Throwe to his staff as legal officer in 1960. In 1963 he was promoted to major and a year later named staff judge advocate for headquarters in Hartford.

Bolton Licita Asks Dr. Sheridan Head Historical Society

The Board of Selectmen will write to Dr. Barry Sheridan, defeated candidate for re-election, thanking him in behalf of the town for all the years he has served. The letter says the selectmen "will miss his sound judgment and will still consider him one of the leaders of the town."

At a meeting of the selectmen last night First Selectman Richard Morra recalled the help Dr. Sheridan had given him four years ago when he was first elected, succeeding Charles Robbins. Dr. Sheridan served six years and was running as the Democratic candidate for first selectman in Monday's election when he was outpolled by Democrat Joseph Licita, who is now the minority selectman.

Licita proposed last night that the selectmen establish a Historical Society and that Dr. Sheridan be its first president, a proposal readily agreed to by Morra, town clerk Charles Licita, the other Republican selectmen.

The establishment of a historical society was a plank in the Democratic platform, and Licita said it was "dear to Dr. Sheridan's heart, although he hadn't asked Licita to propose it."

Butting Code Proposal

Licita also proposed that the question of a building code and building inspector be put on a future agenda, and, upon accepting that revaluation would take place in 1969, suggested that two years is "not too early to start looking for a good man to do the revaluating."

He said that the last revaluation was not a good one, and those present last night agreed, saying that the town was "chasing" in many instances and the property owner in many others.

Morra said that the town could adopt the state building code—which has been considered before—but that a code is no good without possessing a combination paid assessor and building inspector has also been discussed before.

Order to Boston

In other business, the selectmen read a copy of a letter from Dr. Robert Butterfield, town health officer, to Bruce Romson of Bolton Center Rd., ordering him to have his tenants vacate his house on Lakeside Lane within 10 days.

Dr. Butterfield cited various state statutes and charged court delays in getting the matter settled.

Romson and his tenant were also served a notice by the State Water Resources Commission requiring them to remedy the situation.

The selectmen then read a copy of a letter from Dr. attorney David Barry, to Dr. Butterfield, notifying him that the present tenants of the Lakeside Lane property plan to vacate the house on or before the first of this month.

Correspondence was also read between town counsel Harold Laws and Miss Katherine Morris, owner of a house with drainage problems on High La. Atty. Laws answered some of Miss Morris' questions and that further discussion with the U&R Const. Co., which developed Regal L.L., and Landis Upville, who built Miss Morris' house, will be necessary.

Miss Morris' house, the town should fix the drainage problem, and the town counsel

The wildest strike and stop everything on the highway, cops, wheelbarrows and bicycles.

"We'll never go back to work under these conditions," said William Kusley who touched the strike off in Gary, Ind., seven weeks ago.

The truckers say rising costs have put them in a price squeeze. They describe themselves as independent businessmen who work long hours for slim profits.

The independent owners now receive 75 per cent of the shipping fees paid to the trucking companies they lease out to. They want 79 per cent.

They also want to be paid for the time they sit and wait for their trucks to be loaded.

A lawyer for the truckers, Daniel M. Berger of Pittsburgh, said the drawback in the rejected agreement was its lack of guarantees for paying the truckers while they wait.

The strike has been plagued by violence on the highways, particularly in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said Ohio Tuesday night. No one was injured.

A trucker hauling bricks on Ohio Route 4 near Marion said two car loads of men tried to stop him, but he ran both cars off the road.

Wolfanger Quits Panel

Howard P. Wolfanger gave his resignation from the Economic Development Commission Monday night to the Board of Representatives.

He cited his recent appointment to the Tollard Board of Finance as the reason. Wolfanger is the chairman of the recently formed board.

He said, "In order that I may devote the necessary time to the Board of Finance and that there may be no question of conflict of interest," he resigns.

He is plant manager of the Burrone Corp. plant in Tollard and lives in Tolland.

Mrs. Alyce Link resigned from the Recreation Commission Monday night. Mayor John E. Grant appointed Biell I. Chapman to complete her term on the Recreation Commission.

"We fully intend to resign Center Rd.," according to Andrew P. Tricarico, director of Public Works, in a report to the Board.

His department will pave the road for about 400 feet north of Crestridge Dr. Subcontractors will be used if necessary, he said.

The problem of inadequate ambulance service for the town is now a problem of too much, according to a report given the board by the mayor.

Town firemen now handle a volunteer service for the town. But a new commercial service has become available and overlapping the volunteers work, the mayor noted.

A town committee was appointed to study the situation. Town Council Abbot Schwabel told the board the Planning Commission must first pass on accepting new roads by the town. He also said, "It is now the function of the Board of Representatives to accept or reject streets."

He was answering the board's questions on accepting Route 42 Rd. now handed by the Bolton Lake Assn.

Green Hills Dr. Accepted At Annual Town Meeting

At the annual town meeting Monday night the town accepted Green Hills Dr. with an amendment that the town be deemed a drainage easement.

The question of drainage was brought up, as it had been at an earlier town meeting that was not legally called for Green Hills Acres and for Riga Lane. The town voted to accept a piece of land on Birch St. from Lawrence Plano for a future road. The road will go from Birch St. Rd. into the rear of Plano's subdivision and will provide a "better pattern of traffic circulation" according to James Hassett, planning commission chairman, especially in the winter when it will provide an alternate and less steep route up the mountain.

Plano is funding this land to the town gratis. The road will be built when funds are available.

Hassett Moderator

All votes were unanimous. The meeting was moderated by Hassett, taking over for electrician moderator Mrs. Clara Warfel who, with her election victory, had put in a day that he will well before the polls opened at 6 a.m.

Town reports were read first. Mrs. William Ritely gave the treasurer's report and Hassett gave a verbal summary for the planning commission.

Mrs. Catherine Petersen, acting tax collector, reported that 88.9 per cent of taxes had been collected this fiscal year. The total collected is $591,319. $111,000 outstanding is $119,200. The report of the public building commission was given verbally by commission chairman Douglas Cheney. He said the year had been one of "contradictions and disappointments." The high school addition, defeated in two referendums, and perhaps too great a concept," he said. He outlined a progress made toward a new elementary school.

The report of the Board of Education, written by former acting superintendent Ralph Conlon and board secretary Mrs. Warfel, was summarized by newly re-elected board member Harold Smith.

Botswana Free from Britain But Not Independent Yet

GABERONES, Botswana forced the new government to operating mainly in Rhodesia. (AP) — The flag of Botswana flew proudly in Gaberones, de- outis 230 people. Every day 10,000 school children line up for a free meal of corn flour, powdered egg and dried milk, donated by American and British relief organiza- tions.

Self-help community develop- ment schemes offer food for work to the massive army of unemployed. But hunger has in- duced apathy. Few men volun- teer to exchange their labor for food. Instead they send their wives and children along.

The territory at independence had 12 miles of tarred roads, less than 3,500 motor vehicles, 2,000 telephones, fewer than 5,000 radio sets, a high school, 17 doctors to tend its half- million population and three in- ternal security and crea- tion camps which will in- turn inspire investment and the granting of development funds needed to help us achieve economic independence."

The 500,000 Botswanas, as they are known, are among the most backward people in Afri- ca. Less than 25 per cent are literate in the Setswana lan- guage. Three-quarters of the population live at subsistence level on a semiferile strip of land fringing the Kalahari Desert.

Years of drought have whittled the cattle herds whose export accounts for over half the country's income. The second largest money spinner is low- wage African labor exported to the gold mines of adjoining South Africa. More than 35,000 men migrate annually, bringing back pay worth $1.68 million.

The Stratford plant received a $2.2 million contract for helicopters, a $2,760,000 contract for component and crew armor kits and ammunition.

Their pleas that they were only trying to liberate oppressed brothers in South Africa fell on deaf ears. Botswana's economic and geographical situation does not allow her to join the growing band of black African states howling for the blood of the white man in southern Africa.

Busing Proposal Supported By Town's Four Pastors

The four Bolton pastors have issued a statement in support of a busing proposal by Paul Brown, calling it an "expression of the concern and responsibility which we, as Christians and citizens, should feel for the larger Community of which we are a part."

Hugh A. Gillis of United Methodist Church, and Rev. Douglas E. Theuner of St. George's Church, in an as follows:

"A proposal has been made to the Board of Education that the town of Bolton share in the larger Community of which we are a part."

Brown, who lives on Volpi Rd. has written a report which was published letter to the Board of Education asking them to consider bringing a few students in each class to the Bolton schools from the north end of Hartford. He said that Bolton is "indivisibly dependent on the City of Hartford" and Bolton should share with other towns that are a part of the "concern."

The Board of Education will take up Brown's proposal at its meeting Monday.

The pastor's statement, signed by the Rev. J. Stanton Conover of Bolton Congregational Church, Rev. Robert W. Cronin of St. Maurice Church, Rev.

Car on Highway Lands on Median

John Zerner, 30, of Brookline, Mass., lost control of his vehicle on the Wilbur Cross Highway while driving east yesterday morning at 2:30 and went off the left side of the highway into the center esplanade, state police in Stafford said today.

Zerner was taken to Johnson Memorial Hospital in Stafford with minor injuries and he was treated and discharged. His car was towed from the scene and police gave him a warning for failure to drive in the established lane.

They learned from the director last night that municipal officials have no control over school funds, once they are appropriated.

"If we vote a $900 additional appropriation to the school board for a fence, those funds may go for some other purpose, and we can't do anything about it," one director said.

And thank you the mayor officials are inclined to vote the funds but fear that they will be spent for something other than the fence.

Reardon Tells Directors Results of Radar Check

A report from Police Chief James Reardon, concerning motor vehicle violations on Highland, Hackettsack, Vernon and Woodbridge Sts., was read to the Board of Directors last night.

Chief Reardon stated that no high-speed violations were noted, following radar checks on all four streets.

The checks stemmed from complaints handed the directors at their semi-monthly comment sessions.

Following a repeat request from Wilbur Little last night for a Board of Directors agenda discussion of the Cemetery Perpetual Care Fund, Mayor Nathan Agostinelli asked Little to submit complaints over its operation—point by point.

The board will determine whether the item should be placed for discussion on a future agenda, Agostinelli said. Little is president of the Manchester Property Owners Protective Association. He has objected to a review of the $355,000 fund by the town's auditors. He said that he has been having it reviewed at an open board meeting.

The board was stampeded by a request submitted several weeks ago by Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Paquette of 111 Constance Dr., whose property adjoins Buckley School.

They complained last night that they have been receiving no cooperation from school officials to a request that a fence be constructed to guard their property from playing and prying vandals on the school grounds.

They said that they were told that no school funds were available for a 250-foot fence, estimated to cost about $900.

They said, further, that they referred to municipal officials in their quest for a protective fence.

UNICEF Aide Sees Top Role for Women

By DAVE SMITH
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — After 18 years in the poor, hungry hinterlands of the globe, Dr. Charles Egger believes he may have at least a partial solution to the problems of underdeveloped nations.

He found there that the most effective approach was to create centers in Indian villages for medical training, nutritional health, nutrition and welfare problems.

Egger, the new deputy executive director of the United Nations Children's Fund, doesn't espouse this view in words quite so close to Karl Marx' classic exhortation to the world's workers. And, ever mindful of occasional criticism of UNICEF's work in Communist countries, he stresses that UNICEF is strictly nonpolitical.

On looking back over his career as a UNICEF regional director in the world's blighted areas, Egger is convinced that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world. Or most of it. UNICEF's chief goals are providing food, medical care and education for the world's children. The work has been most successful through teaching the woman of the house, Egger believes. It's not always easy.

"The lack of status and education among women in so many underdeveloped countries make it a difficult problem to reach them," he says. "In any country where prices rise, the budget goes up and the economy tightens, social programs get chopped, and these few programs are the ones that primarily benefit the women."

Women's importance in UNICEF's work, Egger believes, is because of their unique relationship with both the older generation and the younger.

"What we hope to do more than," he says, "is train professional women who are capable of maintaining a dialogue with their men at the same time practice their profession and also influence the young generation."

Training of women to fill such practical roles as nurses, midwives, dietitians, teachers—and at the same time exert the traditional influence of the young and old men alike—necessarily has to be an immediately useable kind, Egger says.

His most recent post was as regional director for south-central Asia, where for six years he was particularly involved with India's education, health, nutrition and welfare problems.

He found there that the most effective approach was to create centers in Indian villages for medical training, nutritional health, nutrition and welfare problems.

Egger is 51 and the father of four. He holds a doctorate in law from the University of Basle in his native Switzerland. One of his chief goals in his new post is to reorient the thinking of many of the people whom UNICEF send into the field in the future.

"We must devise ways to give women more status in their own environments, and reach more of them to give them better training," he says. "First, I think we should approach some of the successful women's organizations for advice in this area."

"I definitely think we should give definite attention to the women's work," Egger believes, "because of their unique relationship with both the older generation and the younger."

Tolland Historical Museum Fulfills A Goal of Town Residents

A long awaited dream became reality this weekend with the opening of the Tolland Historical Museum in the former Old Post Office on the Green.

The museum has long been a goal for many civic minded town residents, but the actual establishment of the museum was made possible through the efforts of the Tolland Historical Society. Many of the items on display were made available by the Friends of Tolland organization which has been accumulating articles of Tolland's past for many years.

These items were turned over to the Historical Society last year, forming the basis of the museum collection. Years of the museum may be arranged by organizations and for use by the local schools. A primary purpose of the exhibit is to bring the living history of the town to its children so they may see how their forefathers once lived.

Students in the fourth grade study Tolland history, making field trips to several local historical spots. Representatives of the fourth grade classes actively participated in Sunday's Opening Ceremony. The one-room museum is crammed full of fascinating examples of Tolland's past. Exhibits are limited to articles which have either been used in Tolland. Several special collections are presently on loan to the museum.

Definitely High Chair Greeting the visitor as he enters is an old fashioned doll sitting in an antique wood high chair with a caned seat left by the Tolland County clerk's desk, previously located in the second floor of the Tolland library, which originally housed the Hartford Daily News and

Fairfield Sets Fewer Years For Degree

FAIRFIELD (AP)—Fairfield University at Fairfield College Preparatory School announced today a program under which a student may earn his high school diploma and a college degree in six years rather than the customary eight.

The program will be launched next summer at the university and prep school. It aims at preparing the equipped pupil for earlier entrance to a professional position or graduate school, and therefore for earlier service to his fellowman.

Called CAPSULE, the program was announced by the Very Rev. William C. McInnes, president of the university, and the Rev. Alfred E. Morris, principal of Fairfield Prep. Six summer sessions and six regular academic years are planned to provide an open door to mature students with an adventurous spirit, adaptability and perseverance to pursue an unusually creative program, the announcement said.

The program will consist of three years at Fairfield Prep and three at Fairfield University in a course leading to a bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degree. It will be directed by Michael K. Wolfer, who devised the joint university-prep school program.

Back came a letter from Walters who said he had found the ring in a box of cookies she had forwarded. He enclosed the ring with this note: "I wish you had come along with the ring."

$156 Million Party

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — This one-time Spanish mission village that blew into the major population center, is throwing a $156-million birthday party next year and more than seven million guests are expected.

The "party" is HemiFair '68, an international exposition which will mark the Alamo City's 250th year.

HemiFair, which opens for six months on April 6, already dominates this city of 600,000. Reminders are everywhere from drawings on the cover of the nearest telephone book to the nearly completed 22-story Tower of the Americas that soars above all the other buildings in the city and can be seen from miles away.

The exposition site, two blocks from the Alamo in the heart of downtown, is set against a backdrop of steel, concrete, and brick. It is a city of steel, concrete, and brick. It is a city of steel, concrete, and brick.

Area hotels and motels, he said, can handle the expected average number of daily visitors. But should more than 20,000 visitors hit the city on one day, he said, some will have to stay in private homes or in tents in a park of several hundred acres which is being temporarily set aside as a housing area for the exposition.

The chamber has organized a housing bureau which is compiling a list of approved housing, including private homes offered for any overnight crowd.

As an official noted, many San Antonio housewives are pleased in the prospect. They will be able to balance the household budget for a change, he said, by spreading up the spare bedroom and becoming temporary in-laws.

Tickets went on sale July 1 and more than 1.1 million have already been sold. Some of the city's hotels took their first reservations for fair visitors months ago.

Twenty-three governments, including the United States and the states of Arkansas and Texas, have signed on as exhibitors. Texas is sinking $10 million into a permanent structure and the United States is paying out $6.7 million for a two-building exhibit.

Private or industrial exhibitors are also drawing up plans for HemiFair.

All exhibits will center on the fair's theme, "The Confluence of Civilizations." The concept will pay tribute to the many cultures that helped create America.

Theme structure of the fair is the Tower of the Americas, a concrete and steel spike with a restaurant and observation decks on top. The restaurant will revolve slowly, giving diners an estimated 75 miles of Texas countryside as they look at while they eat.

Construction on the tower has reached the 400-foot mark. The rest of its height will be added by the topsoil, now being constructed on the ground around the base of the tower. When completed, the 600-ton topsoil will be jacked up the tower in a 22-day haul.

The fair came to life originally as a "Fair of the Americas," with only North and South America participating. It went international to receive the certification of the Bureau of International Expositions—a recognition for U.S. participation.

Plans for the tower were left to the American Indian tribe, the Yakima Indian tribe, and the Yakima Indian tribe.

Strongheart, 70, also left all his collection of Indian artifacts and books to the library and bequeathed $10,000 to the tribal council for a scholarship fund. He died last Dec. 30.

The museum and library will be administered by the Yakima Indian National Tribal Council at Toppenish, Wash.

The remainder of Strongheart's $200,000 estate was left to friends and his son, Daniel F. Strongheart, 48, of Acampo, Calif. in $12 million in urban renewal funds, used to rip out acres of slum housing to create a fair site. San Antonio voters approved bond issues of $30 million for a convention center and $15 million for the Towers of the Americas.

Investments by exhibitors will bring the total cost of the fair to an estimated $150 million.

Admission will be $2 at the gate—If tickets are bought in advance of the opening date, admission for children is $1. Once inside, officials say, the tourist will find most exhibits are free.

Studies claim there'll be dividends from the fair for the city, the state and the nation.

A Texas study anticipates that every half-second.

Hal Boyle Collections During Life Are Varied

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is a collector's game. Everybody has to play the game, whether he wants to or not. The problem is—what to collect? Shall it be stamps or dolls, wounds or portraits of old windmills, bridges or money?

There are hundreds of choices. So many, many things to collect. But there is one thing you can't go through this world without collecting—memories. And nothing else man collects is so precious to him.

Your own collection is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when...

There was more excitement in Hollywood than in Congress. It was more fashionable for women to wear silver fox furs than mink.

Joe Alukas had wooden runners instead of steel blades. Airplane hostesses had so little to do they kept most of their time sitting in the seats and talking to the passengers. A minister was more interested in getting the members of his congregation into heaven than in solving their problems on earth.

Laugh by remarking that one of the nice things about wearing white shoes was that they didn't show frost.

Conservatives were more fearful of Socialists than Communist because most of them after all, hadn't ever seen a real Communist.

The lot of childhood was the brawny neighborhood leeman, who drove a horse and wagon and always had a small chip of free ice for any kid—even the kid was too shy to ask for one. Only wealthy people belonged to country clubs.

It was taken for granted in most families that the boy's sons would grow up to be farmers and a blacksmith's sons would become blacksmiths. In every small town you could see a local character who wore a wooden leg he had whittled himself.

You knew you were in a poor neighborhood if you saw a dog of front porch in the evenings clad in nothing but work pants and long underwear and apert tobacco juice over the railing.

Children and Negroes were supposed to know their place and stay in it.

Any schoolmarx caught smoking in public could kiss her job goodbye.

If you "bit the sawdust trail" that meant you repeated of you said—a phrase that sprang from the custom relating to revivals had of spreading sawdust on the floors of their tents and tabernacles.

There were still so many Civil War veterans around that they looked down their noses at the Spanish-American war veterans as young upstarts.

When you told a youngster that "a penny saved is a penny earned," he knew what you meant.

One of the things circus fat ladies hated about their jobs was that four out of five towns was always straggling an appreciative cackle from the sidewalks and evidence by loudly quipping, "Well, m'm, I guess in your case travel really is broadening, isn't it?"

When the doctor made a home call, he was never so busy he couldn't pause for a cup of coffee in the kitchen, take the small children on his knee, and awe them by listening to their own heart beat through his stethoscope.

Come to think of it, almost everybody had more time to be courteous and kind and pleasant to one another than they weren't so addled by all kinds of urgencies.

Those were the days! Remember?

DROPS DELIVERIES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Harvard Student Agencies' linen service has dropped its door-to-door deliveries because students last year appropriated 8,000 towels, 1,000 pillowcases and 940 sheets valued at $5,000.

Starting this week, students who pay the $28 annual charge for the service must turn in their dirty linen at depots in each resident house instead of dumping their sheets and towels outside their rooms every week.

Stephen Roy, manager of the linen service, said students were using sheets to paint posters advertising parties. The janitor said he used 120 towels last fall to pad his living room carpet.

They Remember '46

BOSTON (AP)—Every baseball fan who was out of diapers at the time remembers the daring dash of Enoch Slaughter that enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to beat the Boston Red Sox in the 1946 World Series.

That, however, isn't the first thing recalled by Red Schoendienst and Bobby Doerr, the opposing second basemen in that Series who again are on different sides for the latest clash between St. Louis and Boston.

"We won it," said Schoendienst, the Cardinals manager, replying to the question, "What do you remember best about that Series?"

"Losing it," was the answer from Doerr, Red Sox coach who had just finished hitting grounders in the seventh game of their final workout for today's start of the 1967 Series.

Yankees catcher, also a right-hander, opposed him, gaining the distinction of being the first Puerto Rican ever to start a Series opener.

The situation this year is the exact opposite of what it was in 1946 when the Cardinals edged Boston four games to three, winning the seventh game in Enoch Slaughter's first home run from first to left-center field.

That year the Cardinals, under first baseman manager Eddie Dyer, had to beat Brooklyn in a playoff to win the National League pennant while the Red Sox coasted to the American League crown by 12 games.

This season it was the Red Sox under first-year manager Dick Williams, who had to win the last two games of the regular season to take the AL pennant while St. Louis bled by 10 1/2 games.

Schoendienst, 44, says at least one similarity between the Red Sox of 1946 and the Red Sox of 1967.

"They had one thing we knew about before the series," he said, "and that was a great hitter, Red Williams. Now they have another great hitter we know about, Carl Yastrzemski."

Doerr, now 49 with his hair turned gray, remembers how and it was to lose that Series.

"It was a terrific letdown," he recalled. "We thought we had the club to do it. Losing it was terribly disappointing. We just ran into a club that was red hot coming out of a playoff. Our club could be keyed up in the same way."

"The only thing is their pitching staff is rested good, and it could be that our staff will be a little tired."

Following Santiago to the mound for Boston will be Jim Lonborg, 23-8, in Thursday's game, and Steve Carlton, 14-9, Saturday, in the Saturday contest at St. Louis.

Schoendienst says he will use Dick Hughes, 16-6, Thursday against either Nelson Briles, 14-9, or Steve Carlton, 14-9, Saturday, depending on whether he needs Briles for relief in the first two games.

INLAND FISHING
The Connecticut River continues to provide good fishing, and it is white perch and white catfish; trout fishing is fair at Ball Pond, largely because of the damming at Pachaug, Hopewell and Glisco Ponds; paraffin catches are fair at the Connecticut River. Many waters are improving. But the general inland fishing picture is slow.

In order to encourage fishing in this season, the Board of Fisheries and Game has announced an early fall stocking in many larger lakes this year. Trout will be stocked to provide immediate fishing. Normally fall stocking is not done until after the first of October.

Waters to be stocked for fall fishing are: Candlewood Lake, Mt. Tom Pond, Highland Lake, Tyler Pond, West Pond, Middlefield, Cedar Lake, Higginson Reservoir, Quonipaug Lake, West Hill Pond, Crystal Lake, Gardner Lake, Rogers Lake, Union Lake, Shick Pond, Amos Lake, Long Pond, Mashapaug Lake, Wyanup Lake, and the Connecticut River at Woodstock. All of these will be stocked for Saturday, Sept. 23, except for Lake Quassapaug, to be stocked next week.

Registration Up For PPK Event

Registration for the annual Pass Punt & Kick contest is ahead of last year as 70 boys have applied with almost two weeks to go before the contest. This year's action will be held Saturday, Oct. 14 at West Farm.

The eight, nine and 10-year olds will report at 9 while the 11, 12 and 13-year-olds will report at 10:30.

The winners in each category will not only be awarded prizes but will also compete in zone competition Oct. 21 at Mt. Nebo. The Ford Motor Co. has chosen Manchester to be the site of the area winners this year.

Boys living in Bolton and South Windsor are eligible to register in Manchester.

Duffy Daugherty of Michigan and Steve Smith of the East have been named to the East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco.

Lefty Gomez was watching the St. Louis Cardinals attack the friendly left field wall at Fenway Park Tuesday afternoon when a sports writer asked him how the wall had affected him in his pitching days.

"The wall didn't bother me," quipped Lefty. "It was the hitters."

Coaches' Corner

"Disappointed but still optimistic." These are my initial reactions after evaluating this past Saturday's performance against Windsor H.S. Although the score 12-4, we did not easily swing the final score in our favor if we hadn't committed as many mistakes as we did both offensively and defensively.

Offensively we were hurt by our own fumbles, interceptions, missed assignments, I was extremely disappointed. I was fact that we were only able to put six points on the scoreboard. They came on Bill Platt's 74 yard punt return, Platt never mounted a serious threat. Offensively, Bryce Carpenter and Steve Hemenway were our big guns in the rushing department. Hemenway ran for 26-14 yards on 10 carries, while Bryce Carpenter had 24-100 yards on 10 carries.

In the first half of our game with Platt, we contained their running attack and stopped their passing. We controlled the ball and had possession of it most of the time. With the exception of a 74 yard punt return, Platt never mounted a serious threat. Offensively, Bryce Carpenter and Steve Hemenway were our big guns in the rushing department.

Dartmouth No. 1 in NE

NEW YORK (AP)—Dartmouth, ranked as New England's No. 1 football power in 1966 but relegated to second place last year, was back on top today in the Associated Press' first weekly poll for the 1967 season.

The Indians, 28-10 conquerors of a strong Massachusetts team in their opener last Saturday, were a solid pick in balloting by a committee of sports writers and sportscasters in the state region.

They gained eight first place votes and were picked second by all but one other selector, who named them third, to wind up with 160 points for a first place vote, 9 for a second, etc.

Harvard, the 1966 regional champion, was second with 135 points despite a 21-10 loss to powerful Army in the second game of their rugged season.

Other teams got a vote for second place, and Boston University was picked third, being so designated on two ballots.

The Terriers finished fifth in the overall balloting with 88 points, followed by Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Yale, Connecticut and Springfield.

The team receiving the most votes was Dartmouth, with 160 points. The team receiving the fewest votes was Boston University, with 29 points.

Expanded Schedule

MONTREAL (LAP)—The expanded National Hockey League today released its 44-game regular season schedule for 1967-68, the first five to be played on opening night, Oct. 1.

THE FIRST GAMES

The first games in the new 12-team, two division setup are Montreal at Pittsburgh, New York at Chicago, Detroit at Boston, Philadelphia at California and Minnesota at St. Louis.

Red Sox in Six Games

Odds-makers have clearly established the St. Louis Cardinals as heavy favorites to whip the Boston Red Sox in the World Series. Here's one guy that doesn't buy that. This crystal ball, borrowed from Major Hoople, sees Boston winning in six games.

Off the Cuff

Jose Santiago, who will draw the starting pitching assignment today for the Red Sox, was once a 220-pound hitting practice pitcher with a winter league team coached by Red Sox manager Bill Williams.

Short Stuff

Manager Bill Rigney of the California Angels rates a low mark for the season. He is still confident that he is one of the best pitchers in the league. He played in the final four games of the season. He is still confident that he is one of the best pitchers in the league.

Here's There

Red Sox manager Bill Williams receives a manager of the Red Sox. It's an educated guess that it's between $20,000 and $25,000. Before the regular season ended, owner Tom Yawkey called Williams and inquired if he had a new pact for next season but Williams refused.

End of the Line

Ray DelleFave of Manchester has been elected president of the Central Connecticut Golf Federation. He is a former ranking town tennis player who turned to the links for fun and recreation. He is a former manager of Manchester High athlete, is now playing with the University of Connecticut. NFL Player of Week Hart Turns Corner As Pro Quarterback

NEW YORK (AP)—Young Jim Hart, who turned the corner as a pro quarterback in the St. Louis Cardinals' 38-28 upset victory over Detroit last Sunday, has been selected as the National Football League's Offensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

Even the momentary task last month of replacing Army inductee Charlie Johnson as the Cardinals' offensive tailback for the first time this season as they vaulted into first place in the NFL's Century Division.

The second-year pro from Southern Illinois University connected on 19 of 27 passes for 313 yards on a pair of touchdown bombs, triggering a St. Louis comeback that sent the Cards to their second victory in three starts.

"His passes were perfect," said Billy Gambrell, who grabbed a 45-yard strike from Hart to score the Cards' last touchdown. "When he gets the time to throw he's deadly."

The 22-year-old signal-caller who had appeared in only one 1966 game, stepped into Jim Bakken's shoes in St. Louis' season opener against New York two weeks ago. He had four passes intercepted, with three of the thefts resulting in Giant touchdowns as the Cards bowed 37-20.

The following Sunday the Cards triumphed Pittsburgh 28-14 on seven field goals by Jim Bakken. Hart ran for a touchdown, but completed only eight of 25 pass attempts.

He went into the Detroit game reeling 16th among the league's passers—and promptly fell behind 14-0, the Lions turning an error interception into their second score. Then, with his back to the wall, he began to deliver, losing a 57-yard TD pass to tight end Jackie Smith.

The Cardinals rolled to four more touchdowns for their biggest offensive spurge at home since 1963. During the five TD drives, Hart hit 15 of 18 passes.

College Football Stick with the Winners

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you pick Notre Dame, Texas, Ohio State, Michigan and Duke to win their football games last weekend? So did this corner.

So let's all try again: Southern California over Stanford, Georgia Tech over Clemson, take orange juice. The Trojans had a void in their backfield and went out and got O. J. (Orange Juice) Simpson and now they are No. 1.

Houston over North Carolina State: A pair of unbeatens but that terrific offense of the Cougars, led by Warren McVea, gives them the edge.

UCLA over Penn State: Gary Behan of the Bruins will see to it that Penn State doesn't pull a Purdue over Northwestern.

Purdue over Northwestern: Purdue's offense is the best in the country and it's a computer do work.

Looking for tendencies in the offensive tactics of Trinity's opponents, the computer prints out a play-by-play report of the game with 19 separate pieces of information on each play in the game. It then runs through nine master programs to identify tendencies the Bruins will look for in future games.

Coach Terry Herr wouldn't say exactly what the top-secret programs were looking for, but he did say it took Trinity graduate Tom Ripley hundreds of hours to write them up. Ripley, a fifth-year engineering major, spent the summer working on the program which cut the time in making scouting reports in half.

Herr said that generally he was looking for the favorite plays of strong teams. Weaker teams he said tend to change their tactics more often. "That doesn't mean we're only prepared for those strong plays," he cautioned, "it just means we have an idea of what kind of defensive adjustments we make in certain cases."

Purdue's Mike Phipps College Back of Week

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Mike Phipps of Purdue, son of an Indiana state politician, is The Associated Press College Football Back of the Week.

He gave Notre Dame defense-men the icy stare of a man packing a pistol last Saturday and dropped the nation's No. 1 ranking team 38-21.

Max Andrews, Mike's high school coach at Columbus, Ind., sent the 18-year-old sophomore quarterback a telegram, expressing pride but saying, "keep your feet on the ground."

"I know he will, anyway," Andrews said. "He's a sound kid."

Phipps justified the opinion by coming off the honor, "I've only had two games experience. Maybe after two years of college ball this would be more appropriate but for the honor to come so soon I'm not sure I'm deserving of it."

He added quickly, "But I'm most appreciative."

Purdue's victory over the Irish was a superb team performance but it wouldn't have come off without the baby-faced novice quarterback. He completed 14 of 34 passes for 238 yards, two touchdowns and a two-point conversion. He also carried the ball 33 yards in nine rushes.

Phipps, who owns three shot-guns for his hobby of quail and rabbit hunting, is 6-foot-3 and weighs 208 pounds. He's quite a man even when he isn't playing a game.

Leroy Keyes, who played both offensive and defensive back for the Boilermakers in the big upset, and halfback O.J. Simpson of Southern California also were seriously considered for the AP Back of the Week.

UCLA holds four straight football victories over Stanford.

Labor Party Endorses Bid For Market

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP) — Britain's Labor Party today decisively endorsed the bid by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government to lead Britain into the European Common Market.

A move by some big unions to lay down new conditions for British entry into the European Community was voted down by the party's annual convention by a 2-1 margin.

In a series of four separate ballots it became clear that the Labor movement as a whole is ready and eager to meet the challenges posed by British entry into the European Economic Community.

Results of the four votes: A long statement by the party leadership detailing Britain's approach to EEC was approved 4,147,000 to 2,022,000.

A resolution sponsored by ex-British minister Frank Cousins' huge Transport and General Workers' union was opposed by party leaders and voted down by the convention.

Police Repel 1,500 Students As Teachers Picket at OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A riot of about 40 policemen in black riot jackets and helmets, carrying 30-inch riot clubs, marched in formation along the intersection of 15th and High Street in front of the campus.

A carnival-like atmosphere engulfed the campus area after nonteaching personnel at OSU set up picket lines at the main gate and began turning back traffic.

The crowd began gathering shortly after Local 138, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, called the strike.

One policeman was injured slightly by a thrown missile. Police arrested 15 of the students on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to carrying concealed weapons.

A shorter resolution submitted by another union was supported by the leadership and approved by the convention as a whole, 3,269,000 to 1,070,000.

Bolstered Police Halt Truck Strike Violence

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tri-city police and the FBI cracked down on violence erupting from a wildcat truckers strike by giving the nation's steel centers one of their most peaceful days in a month today.

Pennsylvania troopers on 16-hour shifts hustled men with a cartload of rocks off an overpass, swept up nails from a street in New Castle, and confiscated a small arsenal at a truck stop.

In Ohio a big rig was forced off U.S. 224 in Portage County. Police in a patrol car right behind arrested two men on charges of carrying a deadly weapon — a slingshot.

Police said four trucks were damaged by rocks on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and two were fired on but not hit. The tires were shot off a rig in Ohio.

The night was a sharp contrast to the stonings, shootings and beatings that have dogged the strike.
