Say City Captured
LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria's federal government is not final treatment on contract bids to companies who agree to hire at least half the personnel for the work on the contracts from poor people in areas of high unemployment.

The policy was announced by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz who said it is a follow-up to President Johnson's plan to encourage private industry to hire the hard core unemployed, particularly in poor city areas.

A Labor Department spokesman said the policy will in effect give the preferred company a peek at the lowest bid submitted and an opportunity to match it. Ordinarily all sealed bids are opened at the same time and the lowest bidder wins the contract.

Bid Preference
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government will give preferential treatment on contract bids to companies who agree to hire at least half the personnel for the work on the contracts from poor people in areas of high unemployment.

The policy was announced by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz who said it is a follow-up to President Johnson's plan to encourage private industry to hire the hard core unemployed, particularly in poor city areas.

Sheinwold on Bridge

TOURNAMENT PLAYERS DOUBLE VERY BOLLY
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If you have never played in a bridge tournament you might not believe some of the things that good players do. East's double in today's hand, for example, would make the average rubber bridge player rub his eyes incredulously.

Opening lead—Four of Hearts. At rubber bridge North might pass over one no trump or over three diamonds. If North did not get his side up to three spades, East would not double. When the hand was played in a tournament, East doubled because he thought that the hand belonged to his side and that he was being robbed of a part score. East was not deterred by the fact that South might make his doubled contract. He knew that he was doomed to get a bad match-point score anyway if the opponents could make exactly three spades and were clever enough to stop at that contract.

Result
The double didn't make East rich. He took the first two heart tricks and continued with a low heart. South had a high heart, and West ruffed with the seven of spades.

South would have gone down if he had overruled with dummy's king. Instead, he carefully discarded a low club from dummy.

West shifted clubs, and declarer won a finesse with dummy's queen. Then he led the queen of hearts to discard dummy's last heart. East eventually got a trick with his queen of spades, but nothing else. South made the contract.

Schools Seeking U.S. Grants

Of $13,000 for 2 Programs

The school system will apply for two governmental grants this month totaling about $13,000. The grants are for an expansion of the remedial reading program and of the guidance program.

The grants are being sought under the direction of Superintendent of Schools Robert Brantley and the grant committee consisting of assistant high school principal Joseph Casullo, reading director Vincent Lamo, and guidance director Andrew Whinn.

The committee is still investigating the possibilities of applying for a grant under the state financed 225 program for the installation of a video-tape system in the schools.

The town's application under the 525 state grant, seeks funds for a reading lab facility for Hicks Memorial School and similar facilities for Meadowbrook School. The equipment would be geared to the age level of the students in each school.

The facilities would expand the existing program at the high school, according to Brantley. The grant would amount to about $4,000 over a two-year period.

The second grant, which seeks about $4,000 under the Federal 80-10 program, comes under Wiman's guidance program.

The funds would be used to establish a program which would approach the learning process from "both verbal and non-verbal viewpoints for pupils best adapted to this approach," Brantley stated.

Full details of these programs will be available when they have been acted on by the State Department of Education, according to Brantley. A decision is expected within a month and sometime of the necessary equipment should be available by the first of the year, if approved, he explained yesterday.

Reading Lab Uses
The Reading and Study Skills program required of all ninth grade students is under way under the direction of Lamo. Special emphasis is being given to integrating these skills with all the student's subject areas.

The use of the reading lab is being expanded to other subject areas as well with Lamo's assistance.

The material drawn from texts and supplementary materials is transferred to specially designed tape cards, permitting the students to both see and hear the word as he puts it through the machine.

Aides Needed By Homemakers

There is an urgent need for homemaker-home health aides, says Mrs. Hyalie Hurwitz, director of the Manchester Homemaker Service, Inc., which serves Manchester and the surrounding towns.

Pointing out that there is opportunity for good pay and advancement in homemaker-home service, Mrs. Hurwitz said that there are no age restrictions and that although preference will be given to women over 45 years of age.

She explained that interested applicants will be given a seven-day training course. A homemaker-home health aide's duties, she said, include caring for children and handicapped, ill or elderly persons, planning and preparing nutritious meals, and marketing, light housekeeping, etc.

Raise for Capt. Robb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Once Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb has been promoted to major, the government will start paying him $25 more each month.

The base pay for a captain with Robb's service is $91.10 a month. He also commands $40 a month subsistence allowance and $10 for quarters.

After he and Lydia Johnson marry Dec. 9, the quarters allowance will rise to $130 a month.

Virginia Moody Thrift has announced she will become the third of President Johnson's personal secretaries to wed since he assumed office. She will be married Nov. 11 to Air Force Brig. Gen. Buddy Rex Daugherty. The President is expected to attend the ceremony.

Women who work in Washington should make reservations as soon as possible for "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," which will be presented Nov. 2, 3 and 4 at Bailey Auditorium, Manchester High School.

Group sales on general admission tickets are available for a limited time only, according to Ann Ballantine and Ann Miller, co-chairmen of ticket sales. Reductions of 38 per cent will be given for groups of 20 or more for Thursday's performance, and 17 per cent for Friday and Saturday. The Zoning Board of Appeals granted a variance to the Risley-Macauli Realty firm to build a six-story addition to the Vernon Professional Building on the north side of Rt. 30 near the intersection of the Federal Street.

The addition will add 24,000 square feet to the present 9,000. There will be one story below the present building's first floor and two stories above the present one's third floor. An elevator will serve the whole building.

The variance had strings attached including approval of sanitary arrangements by the building inspector and drainage by the town engineer.

The ZBA denied on other appeal and approved four others.

The appeal of D.P.G. Enterprises Inc. of Manchester for four foundations on Mine Dr. with below road level elevation was denied. Drainage problems have developed in other sites with the same situation, board members said.

Columbia Nearly 200 Attend Hearing On Beckish Zoning Request

A capacity crowd, estimated at nearly 200, appeared at the Planning and Zoning Commission meeting last night to hear the application of Peter Beckish, owner of the Landmark, who seeks permission to expand his business to the full capacity of the building.

The crowd sometimes became unruly and at one point was asked to extend the same courtesy to those in opposition to the expansion as it had to those in favor.

Edward Carlson, board secretary, read the application which states in part that Beckish wishes to use the upstairs for offices for doctors, dentists and a beauty parlor, barber shop and other shops, and the basement for a delicatessen.

Others, speaking in favor of the expansion, brought out that the town is growing and needs more conveniences closer to home, that the Landmark "fills a need" and should be encouraged to grow.

Others said the town cannot live in the "hurry and hurry" days and must accept progress and cited the fact that the Landmark was now in better condition than when the Beckishes purchased it in 1962.

A real estate dealer stated in his opinion property values in the immediate area had not been affected nor would the increased use of the land depreciate values. The statement was later questioned by the persons living in the area.

A safety engineer said there is no traffic hazard in the area as it is presently laid out. He cited figures of the number of cars traveling in the area in a 24-hour period and said figures showed traffic to be light to moderate.

A resident stated that the point was that the park of the travel at the Landmark seemed to be when children were getting out of school.

It was brought out that a sign saying "No Right Turn" had been placed at the Rt. 67-gress of the store.

U.S., Egypt UN Talks Seen Aimed at Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Informal sources said today that talks at the United Nations between the United States and Egypt are partly aimed at re-establishing relations between the two governments as a step toward a Middle East settlement.

The informants stressed, however, that overtures for revival of diplomatic ties are coming from the Egyptians and that the United States is taking a "deadpan" approach.

The informants said the meeting Monday between U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Egyptian Ambassador Mahmoud Riad was designed primarily to set guidelines for a Middle East representative to be appointed by Secretary-General U Thant.

They said such action would be facilitated by renewal of relations broken by Egypt during the June war with the claim that the United States and other western powers were giving military aid to Israel.

Goldberg and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Yastiy Y. Kuznetsov met separately Tuesday with Thant but announced no plans to see each other.

Goldberg told newsmen he hoped "that in the normal course" he would see Kuznetsov, considered one of the Soviet Union's most able negotiators. He has dealt with the Middle East in the past.

Western circles expressed hope that Kuznetsov's arrival in New York Monday indicated that the Soviet Union might be getting ready to adopt a more flexible approach to the Middle East stalemate.

The Russians have given strong support to the Arab stand that there can be no movement toward a settlement unless Israel withdraws its forces from the territory it captured from Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

A U.S. spokesman said Goldberg had nearly 12 hours of appointments on Tuesday. The talks were reported aimed at reaching an understanding among delegates directly concerned on basic principles for a settlement in the Middle East.

"Dog days" as a term for the warmest period of summer goes back to the time when the ancients studied the stars. They observed that Sirius, known as the Dog Star, rose with the sun just before midsummer and thus associated it with the driest, hottest time of the year.

Jordanian foreign minister, Abul Momen Rifai, in the afternoon told newsmen after seeing Goldberg that "things are moving. I hope they are moving in the right direction."

Goldberg acknowledged that he and Thant had discussed prospects for sending a special U.N. representative to the Middle East. But he said that no names had been mentioned since that would have been "premature."

Most delegations, including the less militant Arab representatives, have agreed that principles for a settlement should hinge on Israeli withdrawal from Arab soil seized last June in exchange for an end to the 20-year Arab state of belligerence against Israel.

The 10-con permanent members of the security council held a meeting Tuesday to determine whether they could work out some Middle East formula.

Columnist Roston, writing as if he somehow knew more about Rusk's real feelings than Rusk revealed in his own language, accused Rusk of having "revived the old emotional dread of the 'yellow peril'..."

This, it seems to us, is just as unfair a debating twist as anything in Mr. Rusk's own talented and full-blown repertoire—such as the way he distorted the issue of credibility before he answered it.

This is the way it sometimes goes, when stakes are greatest for a nation, and shining knights are tempted to reach for mud. There is answer enough to be had without trying to make a racist out of him.

From the first time man looked up into the first night sky he has been seeking the stars, and this quest has been a fine symbol of the aspiration of which the human being is capable. To look to the stars, to feel that cosmic urge to know them better, to climb to them, to sail past them—such possibilities have always been part of the dream of man.

And if, meanwhile, we remember to pay some small interim attention to more mundane problems here on earth. Our best knowledge of the universe, now progressing swiftly toward the moment when we may be able to receive suitably and analyze historically some of the very high energy which may have been loosed in the bombing of our own particular sector of the universe happens to depend upon the use of giant telescopes, like the 200-inch job on Mt. Palomar and the 100-inch mirror at Mt. Wilson, both in California.

"A Perfect Manhattan," ordered my luncheon companion. Then, in answer to my raised-eyebrow expression, he began to expound on the attributes of this his favorite cocktail. His explication led me to join him in the second round. This was my initiation into the ranks of the Perfect Manhattan drinkers.

At first, ordering a Perfect Manhattan seemed to create a new aura about that very few Americans have the right to lecture either the Governors or the Senators for their past compliances with seemingly harmless pronouncements which nevertheless paved our national way deeper into the quicksand perils of Vietnam. Too few of us ever asked where we were going; too few of us realized that the chief executive we had elected for one purpose was absolutely intent on actual policy in another direction; it may even be, in fact that that chief executive himself did not realize how he was going to find himself drawn and, in his mind, compelled toward a certain policy actually executing it.

This nation has awakened only after it is already three quarters of the way toward disaster; it takes its restoration seriously only after the habit of automatic resolutions has already done its damage; it wants to review and revise policy only after existing policy is perhaps irrevocably clamped into its own failure.

And even now, the effect of a national red patching are not very strong. As we read the news from the floating Governor's Conference, only one Democrat, Governor Hoff of Vermont, has so far dared consider the issue of Vietnam in its realities more important than an opportunity for one more gesture of routine political loyalty to his party's President.

Unfair To Rusk: Just at the moment when it should be very important to deal intelligently and convincingly with the sly debating techniques of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, two of his critics, James Reston of the New York Times, and Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, have done Mr. Rusk the entirely unnecessary favor of applying some of his own debating techniques to some of his own words.

In one passage in his extended press conference defense of administration Vietnam policies, Secretary Rusk said that "within the next decade or two, there will be a billion Chinese on the mainland, armed with nuclear weapons, and they will be looking at us."

New Highway Exit Discussed

The commuters' problems and good access to the Rockville Center development...

The three trustees members talked mainly about where that second exit should go to serve the area commuters...

The three, Andrew Tricario, public works director, Robert Duboué, attorney for the Vernon Redevelopment, and James Roche, chairman of the Economic Development Commission...

"We have got to let the state people know we are thinking about the road situation," Duboué said.

He also urged the committee learn the needs and opinions of the town agencies most affected by highway changes.

Barnforth Rd. Suggested: Duboué suggested the committee consider the road situation...

Roche backed the Barnforth idea when he said the town really would not have a good deal of the land on the south side of the highway there.

The town may be able to buy the land for less than the $175,000 spent by the state for the road.

Arrest Orders Issued For King in Contempt

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Contempt charges filed in 1963 against Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and seven other ministers are a step closer to enforcement with the call for issuance of arrest orders by a circuit judge.

Judge William Barber said Wednesday he received direct orders regarding the case from the Alabama and U.S. Supreme Courts before upholding the original contempt citation issued April 23, 1963.

King and others are accused of participating in parades and demonstrations in defiance of a court order prohibiting them. The charges were filed after King released statements at a news conference in Birmingham that he was not available for comment but one of his chief aides in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of Atlanta, also cited for contempt.

King said, "We will gladly surrender in Alabama. Our plans are not complete, but we have been waiting for this step. We have been together so far, and we will stay together."

Abernathy said King was out of town but he did not know where he was and he was thus unable to say when they would return to serve the sentence. King has said previously he would return to Alabama to serve the terms of the sentence.

Three of the ministers, the Rev. J.W. Hayes, John Thomas Porter and T.L. Fisher, live in Birmingham but were unavailable for comment.

Others included in the contempt charge are the Revs. Wyatt Tee Walker, now in New York; A.D. King, now in Louisville, Ky., and P.L. Shuttlesworth, now in Cincinnati, Ohio. The Kings are brothers.

The original contempt citation was issued by Judge William A. Jenkins Jr. who is no longer on the bench.

When arrested the eight will be required to serve a five-day

Coventry Resident Sues Zoning Board For Exception on Apartment

The Zoning Board of Appeals is being sued by Mrs. Louise Zunker of Rt. 31 because of an exception granted by the board allowing Mrs. Zunker's next door neighbor to convert their home to multi-family use.

The exception, granted in September to Albert J. and Rose Stevenson, stipulated that the Stevenson's could make use of an apartment which they claimed already existed in the Stevenson's system of requirements must be met.

The appeal claims that approval of Stevenson's application for exception "was based on information submitted to the zoning board of appeals subsequent to the hearing... with effect notice to the Plaintiff Mrs. Zunker, so depriving her of her right to produce relative evidence and to cross examine witnesses with respect to such information, or to be fairly apprised of facts upon which the zoning board of appeals was requested to act."

In addition, the Zoning Board of Appeals acted illegally because it "has not kept records showing the vote of each member" as required by state statute, and the decision was not voted upon affirmatively by at least four members of the board, also as required by state statute.

The appeal further states, on behalf of Mrs. Zunker, that the proposed multi-family use is not in harmony with the purpose and intent of the zoning regulations, nor in accordance with public interest and most appropriate use of lands in the neighborhood involved.

The case is scheduled to be heard Nov. 7 at the Court of Common Pleas in Rockville. Mrs. Zunker is being represented by Atty. Oliver S. Chappell.

Complaint Filed Result of Crash

A complaint has been filed in U.S. District Court in Hartford by three Milton, Mass. women against motorists from Manchester and New York state as the result of a 1966 accident.

The plaintiff in the action is Dolores Paradiso of Milford, the driver, and the defendants are Edward Calan of 42 Hill St. and Don H. Fried of New York.

Two passengers in the Paradiso car, Lina Paradiso and Sandra Bracci, are claiming bodily injury and medical expenses.

Dolores Paradiso sues $10,000 each from the defendants, claiming bodily injury, conscious suffering, medical expenses, loss of earning capacity and auto damages.

In her complaint, Miss Paradiso says she was driving along Rts. 5 and 15 in Hartford in a southerly direction, and charges Calan, and Fried, driving in the same direction, negligently caused the collision to occur.

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The draft cards of 27 Yale Divinity School students are scheduled to be surrendered to the Justice Department today in Washington.

The students dropped their cards into a collection plate at the close of a half-hour liturgical service for peace Thursday night in the Divinity School's Marquand Chapel.

Rich UAW Contract Appears Locked Up

DETROIT (AP) — What could be one of the richest labor contracts in a manufacturing industry appeared all but locked up today as negotiators for Ford Motor Co. and the striking United Auto Workers remained cloistered in marathon bargaining for nearly 24 hours.

When I leave here today I expect it will be after an announcement, said a bargaining table source, caught in a brief post dawn recess.

Asked if he meant an announcement of settlement, the source said "Yes."

Whatever agreement is reached was expected, however, little was said about the terms of the tentative contract.

It was learned that top union officers in Detroit contacted local negotiators in Detroit on Tuesday to discuss progress of local bargaining and were told in some cases that company negotiators had appeared unwilling to move until the national pact is settled.

The UAW also faces the knotty problem this year of a veto power given to both workers who are pressing for a big wage boost over whatever is given by the industry.

Could Cripple Economy Strike on Railroad Threatens Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain was threatened today with a national railroad stoppage that could deal a crippling blow to the country's already shaky economy.

Brakemen at more than 40 depots were on strike, forcing the cancellation of hundreds of trains on routes between London and the North.

With vital exports already curtailed by a five-week-old dock strike in London and Liverpool, Prime Minister Harold Wilson cut short his fact-finding tour of the United States on his return to London.

Wilson's Labor government blames the upsurge of industrial unrest on Communist agitators who it says are trying to plunge the nation into "a winter of disruption."

Unions backing the brakemen's strike appeared on a collision course with the British Rail Board.

Seven Are Found Guilty In Civil Rights Killings

MEMPHIS, Miss. (AP) — Seven Mississippians were convicted and eight others acquitted by an all-white federal court jury Friday on a conspiracy charge stemming from the 1964 backwoods slaying of three young civil rights workers.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Harold Cox declared a mistrial in the case of three of the 18 on trial. The jury of seven women and five men, which deliberated more than 14 hours and at one point declared itself "hopelessly deadlocked," convicted Neeshoba County Deputy Sheriff Cecil R. Price, 29, and Sam Holloway Bowers, Jr., 42, identified by the FBI as the imperial wizard of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Others convicted were Alton Wayne Roberts, 28; Jimmy Arledge, 28; Billy Wayne Posey, 30; Jimmy Snowden, 35; and Horace Doyle Barnett, 35.

The jury found Neeshoba County Sheriff Lawrence A. Rainey, 44, innocent along with L. Burrage; Herman Tucker; Travis Marvin Burnett; James T. Harris; Frank J. Harris; Bernard L. Akin; and Richard A. Willis.

Judge Cox ordered Price and Roberts taken into custody immediately and held without bond. He accused the two of "loose talk" after he delivered a new charge Thursday when the jury told him it could not reach a verdict.

"If you think you can intimidate this court you are badly mistaken," Cox said to Rainey. "I'm not going to let any wild man loose on a civilized society."

The judge accused Roberts of saying, "He gave the jury the dynamite charge. Well, we've got the dynamite for him ourself." He said the statement was made in the hallway of the Meridian Post Office building where the courtroom is located.

"We're not going to have any anarchy while I'm sitting down here," Cox added in signing this anybody on earth who can frighten this court. It's unthinkable that he should have made those remarks. Nobody else need be afraid of his bluster."

The judge ordered that the three-judge panel that approved a $4 billion merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads months ago only to have the Supreme Court stay the consolidation—has one again told the roads to go ahead and merge.

However, the special federal tribunal that the roads opened Thursday for another round in the Supreme Court. It gave merger opponents 15 days to appeal there.

In a related action the tribunal ordered the Interstate Commerce Commission order for the Norfolk and Western Railway to merge three smaller roads into its system. They are the Erie, Lakawanna, the Delaware & Hudson and the Boston & Maine.

Chairman Stewart T. Sumner said the Pennsylvania and Erie lines are being merged into the Central, said in a joint statement following the court's decision. "We would hope to put the Penn-Central merger into effect very early date," he said.

Viet Typhoon Again Slows U.S. Air War Over North

SAIGON (AP) — Typhoon Carla ran out of steam today but its backlash of winds and rain apparently curtailed the U.S. air war against North Vietnam for the second day in a row.

Carla's center winds over the Gulf of Tonkin dwindled to a piffling 28 miles an hour, but the storm washed out all strikes Thursday by U.S. Navy planes from the three carriers in the Gulf.

All air strikes Thursday were flown by Air Force and Marine fighters-bombers from the carrier USS Intrepid (CV-19) and the USS Ticonderoga (CV-14).

U.S. Studies Agency For Communication

WASHINGTON (AP) — Formation of a new federal agency to deal with radio, television, satellite and other means of communication—possibly a Cabinet-level Department of Communications—is under top-level consideration.

A high administration source says several plans have been advanced tentatively for consolidation of some of the federal communication agencies now in the field.

The Budget Bureau, he indicated, will need a year to also be considered.

Under orders from President Johnson, the regulatory agency with developing the program in the field. One well-posted official suggested that no serious competing with FCC's regulatory and rate-making powers is likely.

The FCC presumably would continue to operate, he said, in the way that the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Reserve Bank operate.

The realization has dawned belatedly on the agencies concerned that the FCC is not prepared to take a major agency shakeup if the task force studies indicate this is a major new independent agency, he suggested.

Yale Group To Give Up Draft Cards

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The draft cards of 27 Yale Divinity School students are scheduled to be surrendered to the Justice Department today in Washington.

The students dropped their cards into a collection plate at the close of a half-hour liturgical service for peace Thursday night in the Divinity School's Marquand Chapel.

A Yale delegation including the Rev. William Sloane Coffin, university chaplain, has announced plans to deliver the cards to the Justice Department in conjunction with the National Mobilization Committee's weekly antiwar protest in Washington.

Violation of the Selective Service law could draw five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines. In addition to the 27 students who turned in their cards, 102 others pledged to commit some form of civil disobedience during the demonstration at the Pentagon this week.

And about 100 more have donated $100 apiece to be used for any necessary legal expenses, according to divinity student Harcourt Hesterfield.

An estimated 50 Yale College students have also turned in their cards for surrender to the Justice Department during what they call the "moral confrontation" today in Washington.

A divinity student, one of the participants, "has any illusions that this will have any great effect on the government, but he said he expected the act would 'either be ignored or the cards returned to us.'"

If the government prosecutes the students, it will "only fan the flames of protest," the student said. "If the government does not prosecute, 'people will see the absurdity of the law, and more people will turn in their cards.'"

After days of haggling with Federal authorities, leaders of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam accepted late Thursday a permit specifying ground rules for the demonstration.

But Dave Dinger, committee chairman, said his group intends "to engage in acts of civil disobedience beyond the scope of the permit."

He did not say what such acts would involve, but organizers of the protest have said in the past they would bring the Pentagon's operations to a halt.
