Egypt Fears Ship Revenge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israel's angry mood hardened in bitter official statements today and Egyptian officials said they expect an attack "anytime" to avenge Egypt's sinking of an Israeli destroyer in what may have been one of warfare's first sea-to-sea missile raids.

Israel Prime Minister Levi Eshkol called the sinking of the destroyer Elath Saturday "an act of war in open sea" and said "this despicable attack was launched without any cause." Egypt's Cabinet asserted the warship was in its territorial waters when missiles shattered it. The exchange came as Soviet Deputy Defense Minister Marshal Matvei Zakharov arrived in Cairo unannounced and President Gamal Abdel Nasser called his ministers together to discuss what the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram reported were "the eventualities of the situation."

The purpose of Zakharov's mission was not disclosed, but the commander of Israel's navy said he believed "Soviet missiles fired from Soviet ships supplied to the Egyptian navy" sank the Elath, killing 17 of her crew of 202, wounding 46 more and leaving 86 unaccounted for.

Third Trip, Matches

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — A gang of thieves apparently felt confident after stealing $64,400 worth of cigarettes from a Liverpool brewery in daylight Sunday a block from the central police station.

Many brewery employees saw the gang take the cigarettes and drive off with them in a company truck and nobody tried to stop them.

So the thieves stole a second truck and returned for another load. This time the brewers gave chase.

Murder Rule Reversed by U.S. Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court reversed today the murder conviction of Richard W. Kirk, a Bethel, Maine, laborer who was under death sentence in Wyoming in the 1964 slaying of a hitch-hiker.

Kirk gave a confession to police in Stonington, Conn., after he had been implicated by Mrs. Shirley Brearley, with whom he had been traveling.

In a brief unsigned opinion the court reversed Kirk's conviction, citing a 1964 decision that called on trial judges to determine before trial if a confession is indeed voluntary.

Top Chiefs of UAW Prepare For Balloting on Contract

There were smiles and handshakes all around after the United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. came to an agreement in which the UAW members won a guaranteed annual income. Chief negotiators in the wage talks were, from left: Sidney P. McKenna, director of labor affairs at Ford; Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations; UAW president Walter P. Reuther; and Ken Bannan, UAW director of the Ford department. (AP Photofax)

DETROIT (AP) — Top officials of the United Auto Workers today prepared for a ratification vote on a new contract with the Ford Motor Co. which could cost Ford close to a billion dollars in the next three years.

Ford executives made plans to get cars rolling off assembly lines if the strike, now in its 47th day and longest in the company's history, ends some time this week.

The union's Ford Council meets tonight and ratification votes by members are planned for Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ford plants in 25 states.

The council, made up of key officials in Ford locals, meets again at 8 p.m. Wednesday, to pass on the vote.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, said he expected his men to be returning to work by Thursday with more expected Friday. Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, said employees could be back on the job Wednesday "at the earliest."

Ford officials have said it will be several weeks after workers return to their jobs before production can resume.

Denise and Reuther headed the opposing bargaining teams in 13 days of intensive negotiations before the contract was agreed on early Sunday.

Reuther said the union's gains represent "our share of the increase in productivity and cannot possibly form the basis for increasing prices."

The nation's four major domestic automakers have all increased prices for 1968-model cars and have indicated the prices could be changed depending on the cost of new contracts with the UAW.

Denise declined to answer specifically when asked whether Ford would increase car prices, saying only, "One cannot ignore cost when pricing one's product."

Ford said the new contract will raise wages 4 1/2 to 9 1/2 cents an hour over its three-year span. The union estimates

Eight Others Hurt Mill Employee Slays Five Fellow Workers

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — Five fellow workers were killed today by a berserk paper mill employee who led police on a trail of bullets and blood before he was captured. Eight persons were wounded in the hail of lead.

Leo Held, 39-year-old lab technician for the Hammermill Paper Co., barricaded himself in his nearby Loganton home after his wild and apparently unconnected shootings. He engaged in a shootout with a dozen state and local police.

Bullets struck him in the arms and legs as he sprayed answering shots at the officers before they broke into the house and seized him. His condition at Lock Haven Hospital was not serious.

The shootings began without warning at the Hammermill plant located on the edge of this semi-industrial farm community in Central Pennsylvania.

Police said Held fired quickly, but very accurately, cutting down nine persons. He was pronounced dead at the hospital. Three others are in critical condition.

Then he ran out to his parked station wagon and drove a mile to the Lock Haven Airport, where the Piper Aircraft Co. plant is located. There he fired once, striking a girl office worker as she started to open the Piper company door.

Police said Held drove off again, apparently heading straight for his Loganton home,

Poll Shows LBJ Unable To Top GOP

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson would be unable to defeat the leading three Republicans mentioned as presidential candidates if any election was held today, according to the latest Gallup Poll.

The poll, conducted between Oct. 6-11, found that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., would fare better than Johnson but would not be able to defeat former Vice President Richard M. Nixon or New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Pollsters asked the following question of 1,585 persons in 320 localities across the nation: "Suppose the presidential election were held today. If (candidate's name) were the Democratic candidate and (candidate's name) were the Republican candidate, which would you like to see win?"

A Nixon-Johnson race showed 49 per cent for Nixon, 45 per cent for the President and 6 per cent for the GOP.

Fresh U.S. Infantry Arrive Yard Hit Near Haiphong

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes struck at a naval yard outside Haiphong for the first time Sunday as the vanguard of 4,100 fresh American infantrymen began coming ashore to help hold down South Vietnam's unstable northern battle zone.

Elements of the 18th Light Infantry Brigade joined 30,000 other infantrymen and 77,000 Marines already in the five northernmost provinces. The area, known as 1st Corps, is one of deep Viet Cong penetration and high enemy operating efficiency.

The arrival of the full brigade over the next few days will push to total American strength in South Vietnam to approximately 468,000 men.

Shortly before the new troops swept out of landing craft at Chu Lai on the South China Sea, Navy jets took advantage of a break in bad weather to hit a new target, a naval yard seven miles outside Haiphong.

Fliers said they heavily damaged an oil depot and a drydock and destroyed a torpedo patrol boat. Other plots pounded railroad yards 1.7 miles from the center of Haiphong in continuing efforts to stop the flow of supplies out of the key North Vietnamese port.

A carrier-based Navy A4 Skyhawk was shot down by enemy ground fire in the Haiphong area, the U.S. Command reported, and the pilot was missing. It was the 50th announced U.S. warplane loss over the North. Hanoi had claimed downing two U.S. raiders.

Marine jets struck a railroad siding and bridge 20 miles south of Hanoi. Other Marine pilots reported destroying 35 enemy fortifications just above the demilitarized zone in North Vietnam.

Air Force fighter-bombers from Thailand struck targets above Hanoi, bombing a railroad bridge, rail lines and a missile site. Pilots told of cutting rail lines 39 miles northeast of Hanoi and hitting approaches to the Lang Lau railroad bridge 36 miles north of the capital.

No significant ground fighting was reported across the country Monday, a full apparently related to voting in South Vietnam for a new House of Representatives. About 72.9 per cent of the 5.8 million qualified voters were reported having turned out to choose among 1,200 candidates.

First returns showed candidates of various political colorations winning seats in the 137-member House. In Saigon, city officials and some military men were winners. Another victor was a professor of Trotskyist leanings whose neutralist attitude kept him out of the earlier Senate race.

There were relatively few Viet Cong terrorist incidents in comparison with the presidential voting a month ago, when 200 persons were killed. Six South Vietnamese soldiers and six civilians died in terrorist incidents this election day, official government figures showed.

In a delayed report on a ground action, U.S. headquarters said South Vietnamese irregulars and their U.S. Special Forces advisors killed 99 Viet Cong in a sharp clash Saturday 29 miles northeast of Saigon.

South Vietnamese casualties were termed light, while two American "Green Beret" advisers were reported to have been wounded.

The light infantry reinforcements, part of the newest brigade in the Army, bring three infantry battalions, an artillery battalion and support units totaling 4,100 men to the Americal Division operating in the southern part of 1st Corps.

Demonstrators Rally in Viet War Split

State Marchers Stage Support

Marchers from throughout the state Sunday staged Connecticut's strongest support gesture so far for U.S. military forces in Vietnam.

More than 3,000 paraders drew a crowd of about 5,000 spectators along a mile-long line of march in Waterbury. Parade officials had announced hopes to get 10,000 marchers.

Spectators included a handful of antiwar demonstrators returning from a massive demonstration at the Pentagon.

A parade official said the "counter pickets got so involved in the (Waterbury) parade, they just put down their (antiwar) signs and watched."

Some 30 bands and units from veterans', military, civic and youth groups participated.

Organized by the Waterbury unit of the Marine Corps League and state coordinators from the National Committee for Responsible Patriotism, the parade was part of the nation-wide "Operation Gratitude" supporting U.S. military forces.

Operation Gratitude sponsors asked the nation's motorists to keep their car headlights on during the day Saturday and Sunday.

Responses varied. In New Haven a check showed about 1 car in 20 with lights on. In some

Marshals Rout Pentagon Pickets

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. marshals routed a last-stand group of Vietnam war protesters from Pentagon grounds early today, ending a sometimes-violent weekend rally and march on the troop-surrounded military nerve center of the nation.

Sponsors hailed the demonstration as the birth of a new peace movement.

Thousands participated. Hundreds were arrested. Dozens were injured. And a few got inside the huge five-sided building.

Dave Dellinger, chief organizer of the march, declared those who oppose the war now have shifted "from simple dissent to resistance."

On a plaza-like area just outside the Pentagon's main entrance a hard-core band of dissenters—some bearded, some shaggy haired, some wearing trinkets of the hippie cult, some rather normal college types resisted to the last.

At midnight Sunday, when their permit to stage a "non-violent" demonstration expired, marshals, armed with night sticks and pistols and aided by military police, carried the protesters to Army vans.

The Defense Department said at daybreak that since midnight

Capitol Hill Economy Likely to Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The current congressional economy wave is lapping at the doors of most federal agencies but shows little sign of threatening the island of prosperity Congress has created on Capitol Hill.

The House voted last week to clamp drastic restrictions on spending by executive department agencies. But the same day it crushed a move to trim 5 per cent from its own payroll—or, as Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., said, "to take the same medicine it wants to administer to other government agencies."

Sikes' amendment was aimed at a House payroll that has skyrocketed 84 per cent in the past six years and now is nearing $50 million annually. Upwards of 500 employees of House or Senate are paid $20,000 or more a year, a survey shows. Sikes' colleagues listened politely to his contention that the House cannot "in good grace exempt itself from the restrictions on spending that we proposed for others." Then it rejected his amendment 134 to 66.

A week earlier, the House shunted down a move by Rep. Edward J. Derwinski, R-Ill., to put "some restraint on runaway salaries" by exempting congressional employees from a 4.5 per cent federal pay raise. That same day, though, other House members used nearly the same argument to exclude federal anti-poverty workers from the pay raise bill.

Another area unlikely to suffer major cuts are public works projects, commonly called the "pork barrel." The bill sending federal funds into nearly every congressional district for reclamation, flood control, river and harbor projects is now in

Court Takes Bias Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department won the chance today in the Supreme Court to bring greater federal power to bear on violators of Negroes' rights.

The court also rejected a claim that Kansas' compulsory school attendance violates religious freedom, decided that several Danish nudist magazines were not obscene and agreed to decide if the FCC has power to regulate community antenna television systems.

In a case from Georgia, the court agreed to decide if an 1870 civil rights law can be used to criminally punish private individuals who interfere with—or physically harm—Negroes using restaurants and other public facilities.

The court said in a brief order that it would hear the department's appeal later this term.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, who held a Justice Department post as Solicitor General, will not participate in the hearing or the decision.

he was recommending, in actual policy, was that legal penalties for the possession of marijuana be abolished, leaving in effect only the penalties for sale or distribution of the drug.

We incline to think that such a legal treatment of the possession of marijuana is going to be part of any eventual successful dealing with the problem of marijuana, just as we have always doubted that legal prohibition of the possession of liquor could ever be the cure for alcoholism.

It seems quite probable that alcohol and marijuana may have certain parties and similarities, in that neither may be harmful of itself and in moderation, but that such powers to some individuals who have weaknesses of still undetermined physiological or psychological origin, the danger of creating more appetite than the individual can handle.

The problem with alcohol is not to banish it, but to produce such individuals in such a society that alcohol can be employed and enjoyed without tragic harm. Something of the same principle will have to be applied eventually, we would think, to the apparently infinite number of substances found in nature which, under certain usage, can be classified as drugs. There is, in reality, no more reason for instinctive horror of many so-called drugs than there is for instinctive horror of the alcoholic products of nature. There is in both fields, tremendous need for understanding of what makes human beings victim to either.

Back To The Sport Of Franchises

Half the good the 1967 Boston Red Sox did baseball has been cancelled out by the immediate spectacle of the owners of the franchise moving to Kansas City, where he can feast on territory which is partly virgin, partly the ruins of the domain of the San Francisco team in the National League.

As part of their vote, the American League owners have stipulated that the franchise which now has a team they are taking away from Kansas City must be provided with a new team in 1969. And, in order to give the League the best possible start, they have also stipulated that the franchise which is being taken away from Kansas City must be provided with a new team in 1969. And, in order to give the League the best possible start, they have also stipulated that the franchise which is being taken away from Kansas City must be provided with a new team in 1969.

Society Does Move

American experience has once again touched the recurrent theme that progress in the field of relationship between the races is a matter both of heart with mind and effort with law. We cannot arrive at our proper goal, of decent, equal living with another, until we have prepared ourselves for it in our own individual and collective instinct, thought, feeling, emotion. But we can and do speed the possibility of such change in the intangibles by persistent attempts to deal directly with legal tangibles.

It is by an interplay of both these necessary trends that American society has now arrived at the rather historic point where all white jury in the state of Mississippi has finally and for the first time endorsed the proposition that a crime is a crime even if it is committed on behalf of a creed of white supremacy.

Without the persistence of the federal assistance and eventual prosecution, without federal insistence that an effort to make the law real be pressed to a decision even though the chance of any meaningful decision seemed almost zero, nothing might have happened.

But, once this federal insistence was present, it became possible for something already inside the mind and conscience of white Mississippi to begin to unseal itself. Eventually this unsealing turned itself into a revolutionary firmness. Perhaps no one in Mississippi was more surprised in the end than the members of the jury who finally brought in the verdict of guilty, of conspiracy, against seven of the 18 white men believed responsible for the murder of three civil rights workers back in 1964. But what went on in these jury minds reflected something that was already elsewhere in the mind of white Mississippi, and what has now come out of that jury inevitably spreads new waves of conscience and altering conviction back through the mind of the state again.

Society does move, in response to activist zeal which finds inner conscience. The law summons the heart and the heart reinforces the law. We struggle forward, first by the movement of one side, then by that of the other, and the journey we are going to is going to be slow, but there is, after all, no one of nothingness, movement. No one can possibly know that it is enough, or in time, but it is movement.

Beauty And Lady Bird

One of the tests of a nation's level of thinking is the physical conditions which it permits to exist. It has been wisely said that to those who think grossly, dirt and disorder cause no uneasiness. Although for a nation, as for an individual, outward condition is less important than inward worth, nonetheless the former is an embarrassing clue to one's thinking.

For this reason we wish both to thank Lady Bird Johnson for her unremitting effort on behalf of a fairer America and to endorse her words over the weekend. Speaking at Williams College, where she received a well-earned honorary degree, the First Lady warned that the United States must answer "one of the most fateful questions of our time—whether the physical setting of American life will be pleasant or squalid."

Many disagree with President Johnson on his various aims. But we fail to see how anyone interested in a more livable America could disagree with the First Lady's efforts. They set a noble and much-needed example.

National beauty is not something which can be created either by government fiat or by government effort, however strict the former or great the latter. It can only come through an awakened sense of the individual who does nothing but the part of the average citizen. It is the motorist who loses beer cans by the roadside, the housewife who uproots flowers and plants the businessman who pollutes air and water, the tourist and one other offenders against beauty, taste and cleanliness who will determine whether America's physical face is grimy or shiny.

We are grateful to Mrs. Johnson for her sincere interest in a cause which is as intellectual and spiritual aspects as well as the merely physical. No one is in a better position to return that cause than she is. —CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

Goddard Speaks The Unspeakable

For complete safety for his remarks about marijuana, Dr. James L. Goddard, Commissioner of the Federal Food and Drug Administration, should first remove himself to some Moslem country.

But there, of course, he would immediately be in trouble for the other half of his daring equation the other day.

What he said the other day was that "whether or not marijuana is a more dangerous drug than alcohol is debatable—I don't know, but I think it is."

In this country, Dr. Stoddard is immediately the target of all kinds of howls for his resignation, as if he had committed the unspeakable.

In a Moslem society, he would be glorified not for his softness on marijuana, but for his inference that alcohol might not be any worse than the drug.

As Dr. Goddard is now finding out, and as he himself probably realized quite fully when spoke, what may be esthetic truth in such matters is much less important than who the particular fetish of a particular society may be.

The Moslem is trained to shudder at alcohol. To us, the drug is the outlandish, generic evil.

Yet, as Dr. Goddard dared say, alcohol causes some 11,000 deaths a year, while we have no statistical record of deaths caused by marijuana. And, if fact of any kind can be of any service and comfort to Dr. Goddard, now that he has dared try to tamper with our national fetishism about drugs, it is fact that scientists in less responsible positions are indeed widely debating the question of just how dangerous marijuana, of itself, really is.

Finally, in fairness to Dr. Goddard, it must be pointed out that, although his words sound bold and revolutionary, all

A Thought For Today
 Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

God is not found in another's prescription. He is known through the other's aspiration. God is not limited by words, but only by the one who reads the words. God is not ignored only to be occasionally sought, but is encountered even in evasion and flight. God is not judge so much as teacher, and is not shepherd so much as transformer.

To be in God is to be His symbol, and to be with God is to be a part of the world — To respond to God is to share and to value.

10 Years Ago

A summary of reasons for having a junior high school system in Manchester is presented by Arthur H. Hiling, superintendent of schools and Raymond D. Stinchfield, assistant superintendent. The report favors a 6-3-3 system rather than the 6-2-4 presently in use.

A bond issue to finance town building projects including the $1.5 million North End Junior High School, an addition to the Mary Cheney Library, an addition to the Municipal Building, alterations to Barnard Junior High School, and a Highway Deed building, was discussed by the Board of Directors.

Jerusalem — No matter what they say publicly, the Israelis are performing exactly as though they plan not a temporary but a permanent occupation of the historic lands west of the Jordan River they captured in the six-day war last June.

Consider, for example, the small but growing settlement of the Syrian town of Qatana, now an Israeli-occupied town (now that small of death) was asked when the Syrians would come back to the Golan heights, whose seemingly impenetrable fortifications were demolished by the Jews.

He answered awfully with a single word: "Never."

To this must be added what the Israeli government is doing in the occupied territories of the West Bank. Everywhere Arab road crews, supported by heavy Israeli equipment, are widening and repaving the narrow roads of old Jordan. Everywhere, telephone crews are laying down modern lines of communication through the West Bank, and connecting them into a single central system with headquarters at Tel Aviv.

The cost of all this, together with strategically located military training camp, had been tied up and converted to a communal messhall. The Arab slogan, "For God, King and Country," was still dimly visible on the arched doorway to the messhall, but the words that caught the eye were Hebrew words painted in bright new colors: "Meat and Milk."

Beyond the simple archway was the dining room, set for Sabbath lunch as two long wooden boards with benches along the sides and gay flowers on top.

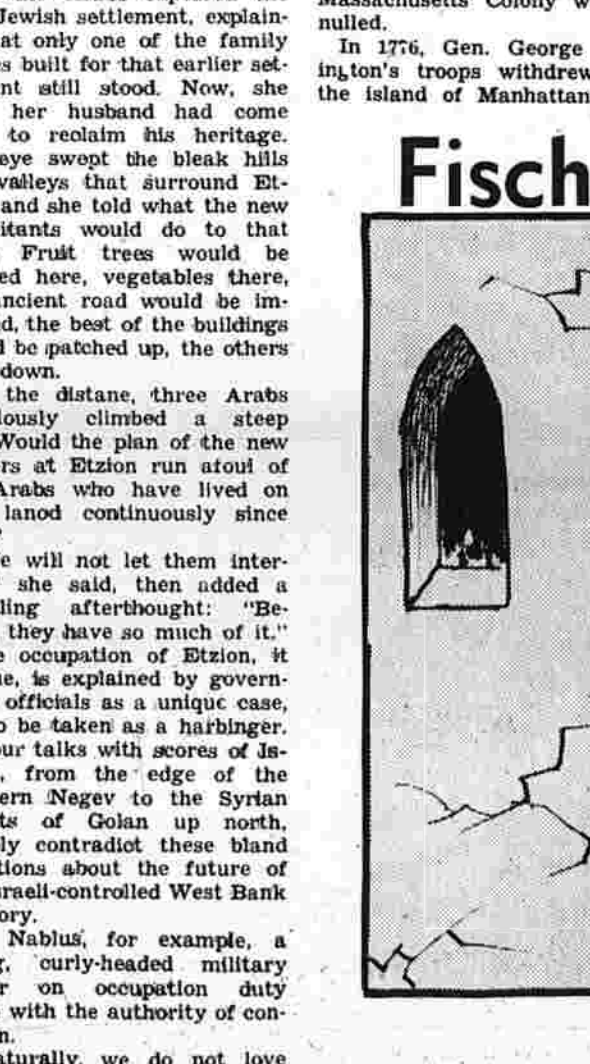

A pretty, dark-haired woman, whose husband's family had been killed in the 1948 war when the Arabs captured the then-Jewish settlement, explained that only one of the family houses built for that earlier settlement still stood. Now, she said, her husband had come back to reclaim his heritage. Her eye swept the bleak hills and valleys that surround Etzion, and she told what the new inhabitants would do to that land: "Fruit trees would be planted here, vegetables there, the ancient road would be improved, the best of the buildings would be gathered up, the others torn down."

In the distance, three Arabs laboriously climbed a steep hill. Would the plan of the new settlers at Etzion run riot on the Arabs who have lived on this land continuously since 1948?

"We will not let them interfere," she said, then added a revealing afterthought: "The occupation of Etzion, it is true to explain the government officials as a unique case, not to be taken as a harbinger. But our talks with scores of Israelis from the edge of the southern Negev to the Syrian heights of Golan up north, sharply contradict their blarney assertions about the future of the Israeli-controlled West Bank territory."

In Nabulus, for example, a young, curly-headed military officer on the occupation committee spoke with the authority of conviction. "Naturally, we do not love them," he told us. "But they

Mills Bill Unnoticed In Debate on Spending

By EDMOND LEBRETON
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — During all the recent congressional thunder about government spending and how it might be controlled, legislation with interesting possibilities—and important connections—has been slumbering unnoticed.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., introduced it June 9 after he expressed concern in a speech about government continuing to expand by adding new programs without studying all its undertakings to determine whether some might now be unproductive, outmoded or otherwise ripe for phasing out.

Proponents of the commission said it offered a way out of the apparently insoluble difficulties in when it tries to make choices to itself about programs to phase out or proposed new ones to encourage.

The interests involved rally around programs and the pressure to make choices is limited, especially in the parking areas adjacent to the school. Admitted parking will also be available in the students parking lot on the lower level of the high school grounds near Nevers.

the commission measure attracted comparatively little attention, but several numbers of the House and Sen. William E. Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, introduced identical or similar measures.

Proxmire has been a consistent opponent of the tax increase and advocates of reducing government outlays during the current fiscal stringency.

HARTFORD (AP) — Twenty-four students at the University of Hartford are enrolled in a journalism course begun this fall and taught by professional news executives from throughout the state.

Prof. Lee W. Young, chairman of the university's department of English, says the course has two major aims: to teach students the advantages of journalism careers and to teach news writing.

Instructors of the course, all members of the Connecticut professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic society, include:

Bob Eddy, editor of the Hartford Courant; N. Thomas Eaton, WTRF-radio-Television, Hartford; Carter H. White, Meriden Morning Record and afternoon Journal; Russell G. D'Oench, Jr., Middletown Press; Robert J. Leamy and Alvin V. Sizer, New Haven Register; Deane C. Avery, New London Day; James Devaney, Hartford Courant; and Frank C. Hepler, of Harper & Glibney Inc. New Haven, advertising consultants.

HALLOWEEN MARKS REAL

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two men and two women artists here estimate they may frighten at least a million people this Halloween. With their faces, they say, they can't fail.

The foursome, designers for Hallmark cards, created Halloween "right" masks by photographing their own faces. These are the first masks ever produced that reproduce the faces of actual people.

Officials representing the schools, the town and the state are scheduled speakers. The Nathan Hale Glee Club will sing, and the Rev. Ernest J. Coppa will give the invocation.

A memorial plaque will be presented by the school staff, and a check will be given by the PTA to buy books and library supplies.

Capitol Hill Economy Likely to Continue

Confidence committee, earlier attempts in the House and Senate to trim it 5 per cent were soundly defeated.

Rejection of the two attempts to cut back or hold the line on spending in Congress itself came as House members moved toward adoption of a directive that President Johnson cut expenditures an estimated $2 billion to $3 billion in the current fiscal year.
