The announced name 5 hours and 30 minutes after the doctor performed the first major surgery on a Roman Catholic pontiff since Pius II had an operation in 1503 for an unknown leg ailment.

The 70-year-old Pope had been suffering recurrent fever and urinary infection, caused by an enlarged prostate, for the past two months.

The pontiff's swift emergence from the anesthesia was just what his doctors had counted on. As soon as he awoke, he was "wheeled 30 feet down the hall to his apartment and returned to bed."

The operation lasted about 45 minutes and there were no complications, the Vatican newspaper said.

Wall Street Gaitch NEW YORK (AP) — Along with the bulls and bears on Wall Street there appeared Friday a goat, of the four-footed, bearded and horned variety.

Nicknamed Billy the Kid, the 16-pound ruminant scampered from a Lower East Side grocery store cellar where it was being fattened for a feast and headed for the wide-open spaces.

With startled motorists pulling away, Billy the Kid sped down streets and avenues, including the East River Drive, until he reached Wall Street. There, after a four-minute gambol, he just lay down, exhausted, near the New York Stock Exchange.

Patrolman Patrick O'Connor, 37, who managed to keep up with Billy, removed the goat from the emergency cop for four years, but the goat was still in the area when he chased a goat.

ACS Volunteers At Coffee Social

About 60 volunteers of the American Cancer Society at the Manchester Division of the ACS held a "Thank You" coffee social Thursday at Temple Beth Shalom.

Mrs. Alfred Werber, executive director of the Manchester branch, welcomed the guests and gave a short resume of services offered by the society and the aim of its goals. She mentioned that volunteers were needed in many capacities, and persons interested in giving a few hours of their time should call the office at 287 E. Center St.

Dr. Herbert Snyder spoke on the early detection of cancer and the strides made in detection and cure.

A film, "Investment in Life," starring Gregory Peck, was shown. Mrs. Werber also mentioned that several films and film strips are available to organizations for educational programs. She said, "One of the main goals of the American Cancer Society is to make people aware of what may be done for ourselves in the area of early cancer detection."

than the regular line-of-sight models. The signals can reflect off the chemical wake of launching spacecraft and rebound to U.S. receivers at the speed of light.

McNamara said the over-the-horizon net would provide a warning period of 18 minutes, both members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the development pointed to a new need for going forward with three-minute warning systems.

The new weapon is described as a fractional orbital bombardment system—"fractional because of the probability that the bomb would be commanded to drop toward the United States before completing a full circuit of the earth," McNamara said.

The outer space treaty bars the stationing of nuclear weapons in orbit but not the development of nuclear arms for space use.

Asked whether this would be a violation of the treaty, McNamara said:

"They have agreed not to place warheads in full orbit; that is why this is a fractional orbit, a full orbit, and therefore not a violation of that agreement."

The Russian move toward the space weapon, he said, would be clearly to circumvent SALT detection.

But he said U.S. over-the-horizon radars, developed the last few years, will be operational before the orbital bomb is ready.

These radars see much farther than regular line-of-sight models. The signals can reflect off the chemical wake of launching spacecraft and rebound to U.S. receivers at the speed of light.

$160,000 Suit Crash Result

A $150,000 civil suit, stemming from a Jan. 13, one-car accident in Vernon, has been brought by a Manchester teenager and his father.

James H. Ridyard, 17, and his father, Edgar L. Ridyard, both of 30 Northfield St., are suing Richard C. Rylander, also 17, and his father, Norman C. Rylander, both of 20 Dorothy Rd.

The plaintiffs, in papers filed in the town clerk's office, claim that the accident occurred on Old Town Rd., Vernon, where the Rylander car, being driven by Richard Rylander, went out of control, left the highway and struck a utility pole.

The writ states that James Ridyard, a passenger in the car, suffered serious head injuries, "which may be permanent."

The plaintiffs are charging negligence by the driver of the car and are seeking damages and reimbursement for hospital and medical costs. James Ridyard is seeking $150,000 in damages and his father is asking for $100,000.

The plaintiffs are being represented by the Manchester law firm of Sawyer and Felson. The action is returnable in Tolland County Superior Court in December.

337 Students Given Permits For Working

A total of 337 working permits have been issued to Manchester secondary school students since a placement office was established at Manchester High School in November 1966, according to Richard Cohen, occupational coordinator for the town schools.

In a report to the superintendent of schools, Cohen stated that approximately 60 per cent of MHS seniors and 48 per cent of the juniors hold after-school jobs, working between four and 40 hours a week.

Working papers are required for most, but not all, jobs held by youth between 16 and 18 years of age. Because the papers are not required for work in hospitals or municipal agencies, for baby sitters or mothers' helpers and the like, the issuance of working papers does not show a complete picture of the numbers of students entering part-time work, Cohen emphasized.

Approximately 10 per cent of the papers issued during the year were for jobs earning about five per cent went to students from Howell Cheney Tech and East Catholic High School, the director reported.

Despite the level of student employment, the office has on file names of "substantial numbers" looking for jobs, many of whom have typing ability, Cohen says.

"Employers may have students referred for job interviews by calling the placement office (Room A-20) weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m."

To obtain working papers, students must be between 16 and 18 and have a "Promise to Employ" on the regular State Department of Education form.

The student must bring the "Promise to Employ" and his birth certificate, baptismal certificate, passport or immigration papers in person to the placement office.

United Aircraft Corporation has assigned to its Hamilton Standard division the production and marketing of boron filament and composite materials for structural uses in the aerospace and industrial fields.

Hamilton Standard has established a composite materials operation staffed by engineering, marketing and production personnel. The new group is being moved into a new building at Windsor, where it is presently housed in the Broad Brook facility.

Vernon Hearing Set On Requests Of $235,000

A public hearing on two ordinances, asking for appropriations totaling $235,000, will be held Monday night at 7:30 at the Administration building. The regular meeting of the Board of Representatives will follow. The ordinances pertain to the purchase by the town of land for an industrial park in the residential area of single family homes, and they wanted to keep that way. The hearing lasted about an hour and a half.

A portion of the regular board meeting will be devoted to reports from Mayor John Grant on requests made by several members of the board.

Robert Houley has asked for a report on the Huntington Dr. open storm drain and one concerning the abandoned railroad tracks owned by the Connecticut Railway and Transport Commission. The Planning Commission had vetoed the proposal because it did not conform with the present or future requirements for the area.

Mayor John Kerevsky, who represents the applicants, said he hasn't had time to check with them yet about a possible appeal.

Representative Thomas Wolf has asked for reports on the procedures used in recruiting of new police officers for the department, on grants received from the state in connection with welfare expenditures and in connection with recognition of the former mayor and five members of the board who are no longer serving.

Other items on the agenda include: Letter of acceptance from John McAliment Jr., of the position of town planner; report from Rockville Water and Aqueduct regarding fine scale for extension of water service on Kelly Road and Route 83; report from the Planning Commission regarding the zoning regulations for both the Pine District section and Rockville.

The new regulations spell out the ratio of one-bedroom to two-bedroom apartments permitted. The ratio has been used for some time but has lacked the force of law.

The addition requires that two one-bedroom apartments be constructed for every two-bedroom apartment.

CAR HITS TREE

A wet pavement has been blamed for an accident on Park St. Thursday night.

Joseph R. Valder, 28, of 622 Phillips Rd. was driving into Park St. when his car, a 1966 Ford Mustang, struck a tree, according to police. The car was towed from the scene.

Vernon Application for Apartments On Regan St. Denied by VCZ

The Vernon Zoning Commission (VCZ) denied an application to construct a 12-unit apartment complex on the former Aberle turkey farm on Regan St. by a 3-2 vote Thursday night.

Approximately 60 residents of the area turned out at a public hearing, a week ago to oppose the application, citing it was a residential area of single family homes, and they wanted to keep it that way. The hearing lasted about an hour and a half.

The VCZ, in denying the application, said the apartment would be "detrimental to public health, safety and the welfare of the town". Other reasons cited in the decision were creation of a traffic hazard and the fact that the Regan St. area is zoned for residential use.

Pope Paul Fine After Operation

per L'Osservatore Romano said. It was before the anesthesia was administered, the pontiff told the doctors in Latin: "Procedamus in nomine Domini"—proceed in the name of the Lord.

It was not disclosed how long the operation lasted but it was believed to have taken about one hour.

The bells of St. Peter's in Vatican City and in the 500 churches of Rome were still to help provide maximum silence for the Pope as he slept under a sedative before the operation.

News of the success leaked out two hours ahead of the official medical bulletin when Vatican press service chief, Raimondo Manzini, told newsmen he had received a telephone call from the Pope's apartment that "the operation is finished and went very well."

Pope Paul had imposed a news blackout on the operation's outcome pending the release of the official medical bulletin.

The operation on the spiritual head of the world's half billion Roman Catholics was performed by noted Italian surgeon Pietro Valdoni, 67, who directed a team of doctors, including three anesthesiologists.

Valdoni was regarded as the finest general surgeon the Vatican could find. His operating experience includes brain, heart, lung, kidney and spleen. He is chief of the surgery division of Rome's huge polyclinic hospital and the author of a standard work on surgery, "A Manual of Surgical Pathology."

Vatican sources said the Pope was to have a Mass celebrated in his apartment before being wheeled down the hall to the Vatican rooms that had been converted into an operating theater and anterooms.

Normally, recuperation from a prostate operation involves total confinement to bed for 10 to 15 days and another 15 days or so of largely restricted rest.

Surgery for removing the gland is not easy but medical statistics show that 96 per cent of prostate operations succeed.

The big danger in surgery, particularly for older patients, is hemorrhage and heart failure.

During the past week two machines were installed in the operating theater for use in case Pope Paul's heart reacted erratically. One, called the "pacemaker," is used to stimulate a flagging heart with electric shocks given through cathodes.

The other uses electric shocks in a reverse function: to regulate the heart should it begin to beat wildly. With Valdoni on the operating team were the pontiff's regular physician, Dr. Mario Fontana, the three anesthesiologists and Prof. Giulio Bolaffio, Valdoni's assistant.

Doctors say at least 40 per cent of all men 60 years or older suffer from prostate trouble of some kind. The operation to remove the prostate is fairly common and is not considered especially dangerous.

Prominent world figures who have undergone the operation include French President Charles de Gaulle and ex-British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan.

Normally this surgery lasts one to two hours. In the usual procedure in Italy the incision is made just below the navel and the surgeon goes through the bladder to reach the prostate, located just below the bladder.

Girl, 6, Hospitalized After Being Hit by Car

A 6-year-old girl was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital after she was hit by a car on Lakewood Circle S. yesterday at 5 p.m.

The girl, Ann Marie Bell of 128 Lakewood Circle S., was admitted to the hospital with a possible fractured leg. She was "doing well" this morning, a hospital official said.

Police say the girl was with a group of children on the street then darted across the street and in front of a car driven by George M. Danks, 21, of 12 Bruce Rd.

The girl told police she heard her mother call and that she ran out in front of the car without looking.

The Danks vehicle left 24 feet of skid marks, police say. Aristide J. Drouin, 27, of Mansfield Center was charged with following too closely after the car he was driving hit the girl.

Police say the Rosay car was stopped on E. Middle Tpk. near Main St., waiting for the traffic to move, when the Drouin car hit its rear.

The Rosay car had considerable damage, police say, but was drivable.

Drouin is scheduled for arraignment on Nov. 20.

Police Arrests

Ether Ristau of 398 Hartford Rd. was charged last night with intoxication. She was arrested at her home.

Charles W. Chambers Jr., 19, of 882 Tolland Tpk. was charged with making unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle, failure to carry license and failure to carry registration. He was arrested yesterday at 7:20 p.m. after police say he backed out of a parking stall on Main St. in such a way as to cause his tires to squeal.

The Ristau woman and Chambers are scheduled for court appearance on Nov. 20.

Superintendent Applications Acting Superintendent David McKenzie reported to the board that 10 requests for applications for the superintendentcy have been received, and four have been returned. Submission date for the applications will remain Dec. 1, but the advertising field for the position will be broadened.

The board discussed the possibility of extending the deadline for applications until Jan. 1, but decided that increased advertising might be just as effective in finding more interested applicants.

McKenzie, who was appointed acting superintendent following Frank Dunn's October resignation, has agreed to continue in that capacity until Jan. 5. He is business manager for the school system.

NEW YORK (AP)—After six straight weeks of falling prices, the question among Wall Streeters this weekend is: When will the market stage a comeback? The Dow Jones industrial average has fallen 88.46 points since it posted a high for the year of 943.08 on Sept. 28. Since then the trend has been steadily downward with only slight relief from temporary rallies.

These have been getting feebler as the weeks pass. Most analysts look for no meaningful recovery until at least after election day this Tuesday. Markets will be closed that day.

Meanwhile, some experts, like Newton D. Finkel of E. F. Hutton & Co., studying various technical indicators and theories say "the market may be close to completing its current decline."

In the week just ended the Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.9 to 308.3 for its worst decline since the week ended Aug. 29, 1966.

The week just ended was a series of uninterrupted declines. A brisk early rally on Thursday and a slight flutter to the upside on Friday came to nothing.

Volume for the week was 52,798,890 shares compared with 50,927,452 the previous week. Of 1,830 issues traded this week on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,220 fell and 306 rose.

The market was still plagued by high interest rates and falling bond prices. U.S. Treasury bonds fell to record lows. This means an equivalent rise in their yields, affecting the interest rate structure, boosting it higher.

Confusion about the monetary situation, with the proposed income surtax now in abeyance, continued to be cited as a major factor in stock market weakness. The subject even came up during President Johnson's news conference.

U.S., Viet Engage in Heavy Fire

The Army in Washington said that from information in the Communist report the men are believed to be M. Sgt. Daniel L. Pitzer of Spring Lake, N.C., M. Sgt. Edward R. Johnson of Seaside, Calif.; and S. Sgt. James E. Jackson Jr. of Talcott, W. Va.

U.S. Navy jets returned to Halphong area in North Vietnam to hit railroad sidings Friday as weather cleared for the first time in three days. A Navy intruder jet went down from unknown causes in raids farther south Thursday, the Navy said, and two crewmen were reported missing. The plane was the 72nd announced U.S. combat loss over North Vietnam in the air war.

Marine jets swept in over North Vietnam's southern pariah area Friday and struck an army barracks 40 miles southeast of Hanoi in a night raid.

B-52 bombers moved to a rarely hit area of the South China Sea coast early today and bombed fortifications and military structures northwest of the provincial capital of Phan Thiet, about 100 miles east of Saigon.

Rybczyk Tells Disposition Of Depot Sq. Liquor Outlets

A progress report on the status of the six liquor outlets within two blocks of each other in the North End Renewal Area was given yesterday by Edward Rybczyk, executive director of the Manchester Redevelopment Agency (MRA).

The outlets were established before existing zoning laws were adopted and do not conform to regulations, which require a 1,000-foot separation between any two.

Planning suitable conforming relocations for at least five of the outlets has been threatening to hold up renewal progress.

Rybczyk reported that the Blue Moon Restaurant has been abandoned and its owners have transferred operations to the former Walnut Grill, at Walnut and Pine Sts.

The owner of the Silk City Package Store, Rybczyk said, has apparently received permission from the State Liquor Control Commission to move to a vacant store on Oakland St., next to Chorges Motors. That move is expected over this weekend, Rybczyk said.

The Club Chianti, at Depot Sq., was burned out a few months ago and closed down then.

The North End Pharmacy, in the same building, is still operating, with no immediate plans. The MRA has not yet acquired that building and may do so by negotiation or condemnation. If it is acquired by condemnation, the occupants will have 90 days to vacate or be evicted.

The property of the Depot Sq. Package Store, Rybczyk said, already has been acquired by the MRA and its owners until Dec. 1 to vacate or to be evicted. The owner, reportedly, is seeking a new location.

Rybczyk said that the building housing the North End Package Store is awaiting acquisition by the MRA. This liquor outlet may wind up being the only one of the six to remain in the North End Renewal Area.

White and African Troops Skirmish with Congolese

The Congo has repeatedly charged that the governments of Portugal, Spain and Belgium have been recruiting mercenaries and dispatching them to Africa.

Last July, the Security Council unanimously approved a resolution appealing to all countries to bar recruitment of mercenaries to be used against the Congolese government.

The resolution sponsored by Ethiopia, India, Mali and Nigeria, called for condemnation of any government that persisted in such practices.

Bomboko said his government had intercepted "several appeals by Maj. Schramme to Angola asking for armed intervention in behalf of the mercenaries."

The Congo minister charged that the facts provided "irrefutable proof of the collusion of Portugal with the mercenaries in order to overthrow the established order in the Congo."

A U.S. spokesman said earlier that the United States had

Gavin joined the American in 1926 as police and fire reporter following six years on the retiring staff of the Waterbury Democrat.

He began his newspaper career with the Waterbury Republican as an office boy while attending Crosby High School. His retirement was announced Friday.

The Start of Something New

By CYNTHIA LOWBY
 AP Television-Radio Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — "PBL" may look like the name of the secret ingredient in the product that makes clothes whiter or cars run smoother. It is, however, the name of a new series of 25 weekly broadcasts, frankly experimental and hopefully designed to add a new dimension to television's current-events coverage.

The series—whose initials stand for Public Broadcast Laboratory, an organization set up to produce the shows—will have its premier this Sunday evening, Nov. 5, live and where possible in color on a network of 119 educational and community stations from coast to coast, many of them on ultra high frequency bands. Operating under a $10-million grant from the Ford Foundation, "PBL" is designed to be "a practical demonstration of what public television could be," said Av Westin, executive director. The initial program will be two hours long—8:30-10:30 EST—although on occasions it may run on, if the material warrants and the budget permits.

Westin, 35, went to "PBL" from 20 years at CBS News, most recently a producer of "CBS Reports." At the commercial network he was associated closely with Fred W. Friendly, then president of the news division but now a Ford Foundation consultant and one of the principal architects of the new project.

Westin has surrounded himself with a small—by commercial TV standards—staff consisting mostly of young people. They have worked for months testing ideas and fresh approaches and rounding up people for various stories. Before the first program, they will have produced two full-length "dry runs."

"We've discovered a number of things that don't come off well and discarded them," Westin said. "We've had some interesting failures and we've had some very exciting moments when things came off better than we dared hope."

"We worked up one great piece—I think—on politics that came in from a new angle—showing how the image-makers are at work. Our West Coast man examined image-making working with Ronald Reagan. Not by putting a camera on an interview or press conference. Anyone can do that, but by examining and illustrating the techniques used, he said.

"We also showed how the press inevitably contributes to the making of a president. And we moved into a talk session with some professional politicians in the East discussing frankly the handling of campaigns and how to use television correctly. It was all so fascinating, it ran on for 20 minutes."

The series will sometimes cover many stories in one program and sometimes stick with one major theme. It will move into all sorts of area from culture to controversy, from the sober to the light.

The programs will concentrate on the perspective of current events instead of trying for actual coverage—"The commercial networks handle that sort of thing admirably and we couldn't compete and we couldn't afford it," Westin said. "PBL" will lean heavily on experts in the

He's Not Wishy-Washy

A Danny Thomas interview is a Danny Thomas performance and, like a Danny Thomas show, there are moments of humor, warmth and loud noises.

He was sitting behind his desk in his large, comfortably furnished office at the Desilu Studios, discussing his beliefs, his fears, his family and his NBC series. There's nothing wishy-washy or uninformed about Thomas, a man whose career has been built on a very solid audience acceptance. He's alternately tough and sensitive, shrewd businessman and adoring father.

Prominently displayed on his desk is a plaque which says "I am Third." You ask who is ahead. Danny snaps out, "God is first and you are second."

He considers "The Danny Thomas Hour" to be a series of specials.

"When you have Richard Todd and Olivia DeHavilland in one show, and Horst Buchholz, May Britt and Van Heflin in another, and Red Buttons in a complete change of pace, this is not something you see every week.

"The role Red plays could have been played by a big volatile actor. But my father was a little man. Red's size, and he had more courage than strength."

You remark that Danny obviously inherited both courage and strength and wonder if he fears anything.

"I fear the devil and nature. They are to be feared and guarded against."

Nature reminds Danny of a script planned for his series called "The Measure of a Man." He wants to play the lead in the story, a dramatic tale of an elderly man who has never learned to read or write. As death approaches, he decides he will become a full man and communicate with the world. "I want to play it. It has a lot to say."

He is also enthusiastic about his Christmas show, an animated "Cricket on the Hearth" with the voices of Danny, his daughter Mario, Ed Ames, Rod-

He's Not Wishy-Washy

(Continued from Page One) As Danny tells the story of the poor man who tries to make his blind daughter think they are rich but who learns Christmas is in the heart, the Thomas ability to switch from laughter to tears is displayed to its fullest. He makes the moment a moving one. Then he switches again, laughing proudly because his daughter Mario sings a song in the show.

"My other daughter, Terry, says Mario sings flat in the shower. Terry has a great voice. I'm trying to persuade her to sing but she's busy looking for Mr. Right. Maybe she'll do one show for me. But she wants babies. Every time she sees a baby food ad on TV, she oohs and ahhs. Terry is a female Joey Bishop and the attorney for the family. She represents my son Tony. I told him he couldn't drive at night until he is 17. But she got him off by hooking me on a technicality - he is 16, which means he is in his 17th year. So he got an O.K. for the week-ends.

"One time, when Terry and Mario were in school, they came to tell me about some problem they had. They were very sweet, asking how I felt and did I have time to talk. Then Mario started explaining this ridiculous, normal alteration they had had. Suddenly I noticed that as Mario was talking, Terry was removing every ornament off the desk. They expected me to blow and start throwing things. When Terry picked up a big lamp and took it away from a nearby table, I completely broke up."
