Laurel Lake, NCRDD Topics for Board

The Board of Directors next Tuesday will continue its discussion of Laurel Lake and its proposed use as a refuse and garbage dump.

Last Tuesday night, at an informal meeting, Town Manager Robert Weiss was criticized for not keeping the board informed of the progress of the project.

The directors stressed the point that they were not in favor of the developments and because they were not asked to give their approval.

Weiss admitted that he had entered into a verbal agreement with the town to fill the 106-acre, 24-foot deep Laurel Lake with garbage and refuse...

The company has received permission from the State Water Resources Board to drain the lake...

Also, Augustus and Beta I. V. Sips of Richard Rd. and Karl S. Hemmerle of 97 Montauk Dr. all of Vernon...

In their heated discussion last Tuesday, most of the directors said that a zone change now is strictly academic...

Tuesday's session, a special session, will be held at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

Following the review will be a meeting with 8th District District Directors, for a briefing on the progress of the cooperative Northeast Sewer and Secondary Treatment Plant Project.

Simultaneously, AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the battle sector that North Vietnamese regiments, one of five Communist regiments followed operating in the area.

The action followed a rocket and mortar barrage Friday night on a U.S. 4th Infantry Division artillery support base only five miles west of strategic Hill 1384, captured Friday by American troops after two days of bloody fighting.

U.S. Headquarters in Saigon, Dak To fighting that began Friday, 3, said 764 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in the 15 days through mid-afternoon Friday.

U.S. casualties were put at 138 dead and 600 wounded for the same period.

In addition, headquarters said, American infantrymen have taken 12 prisoners and captured 158 individual weapons and 61 crew-served weapons.

Other heavy fighting was reported far to the south in the Mekong Delta.

American artillerymen lowered their howitzers to ground level and blasted point blank into 200 to 500 guerrillas who twice stormed across a canal within 20 yards of the U.S. gunpit and knocked out one 100mm howitzer.

First reports listed 102 Viet Cong killed but only five bodies were found on the battlefield after the Viet Cong withdrew.

"We're listing 70 probably killed," a field officer said, after the American gunners, watching by flare light, said they saw "groups and groups of the Viet Cong" on the battlefield.

"The rest of the bodies seen falling have been dragged away," a U.S. spokesman said. He said the Viet Cong had been killed and 38 wounded, after a U.S. security platoon of about 60 men was sought out in heavy raids around Hanoi and Halphong Friday.

Four F-105s Thundershirts, a Navy A4 Skyhawk and a Navy F4 Phantom jet were returning. The planes losses plus another previously undetected brought to 742 the number of American aircraft acknowledged lost over North Vietnam.

Air Force pilots reported dodging two Communist MIG interceptors, surface-to-air missiles and heavy anti-aircraft fire to pour the B-52s Midairfield near Hanoi. It was the first strike of the war on the airfield, which is not large enough to handle jet planes and was used largely for ferrying troops in and out of Hanoi.

Pilots reported destroying seven buildings and damaging an equal number in the field complex which includes a command post.

Fierce New Hill Fighting Erupts Near Dak To

The new fighting came as U.S. artillerymen repelled a Viet Cong charge on their positions in the Mekong Delta.

Good Action Of Stocks Lends Hope

By ED MORSE AP Staff Writer NEW YORK (AP)—A fairly steady performance by the stock market last week lent hope to those who have been waiting for a turnaround from the steep decline that began in late September.

It was the second straight week that the market rose or less held its own. Analysts say it is still groping for a bottom but a point of a worthwhile year-end rally. But there was no general conviction that the long slide had actually reached bottom.

Third Defendant Missing Jury Acquits Man, Woman In $1.5 Million Robbery

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Patricia Diaterio, 32, the mother of four, and John J. Keller, 30, acquitted today of charges of taking part in the biggest cash robbery in U.S. history, the theft of $1.5 million from a U.S. mail truck in Plymouth.

The defendants stood solemnly in a courtroom Friday night, more than an hour after the 11-man, 3-woman jury was given the case after 2 1/2 days of testimony.

Mrs. Diaterio, a Boston resident, wore into tears when jury foreman Louis Albert of Weston announced the acquittals, broke into a huge grin.

"You could say I was just a little bit delighted," he said when he walked out of the courtroom.

Mrs. Diaterio hugged her lawyer, Joseph J. Balliro, as they walked down the hall and said, "I think he's a doll."

"We knew all along what the jury would do," said her husband.

Chrysler Pact OK'd By Skilled

Detroit (AP)—Skilled tradesmen have ratified a labor contract with Chrysler Corp., ending fears they might block an agreement through their militant veto power in the United Auto Workers union.

The 12,000 tradesmen Friday night accepted the agreement by a slim margin of about 80 per cent, the UAW reported.

Balloting by the tradesmen was "a bit and a UAW spokesman said. He said skilled workers at 24 UAW locals across the nation rejected the pact and eight locals rejected it with votes still to be counted in two remaining units.

"Outcomes of the ratification cannot be changed by the two locals whose members have not yet voted," said Douglas A. Fraser, chief UAW negotiator at Chrysler, in a statement announcing the ratification.

John D. Leary, Chrysler vice president for administrative services, said company officials were pleased with the ratification.

The tradesmen's veto power, gained earlier this year, is expected to be a questionable element again in negotiations with the auto industry giant, General Motors Corp.

GM is the next target of the UAW for a contract to replace the one which expired Sept. 6. The union has been working without a labor pact at GM since Sept. 14, 1967.

Romney Set To Talk on Candidacy

DETROIT (AP)—Standing on almost the exact spot where he launched his political career less than six years ago, Gov. George Romney today makes a subtle nod to his past when he is set to announce whether he will seek the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

Few doubt he will seek the prize.

Counting nine months before the GOP convention, an announcement to run would make his 60-year-old third-term governor the first major figure in either party to publicly declare an aspiration.

Some 600 party leaders and workers, mainly from Michigan, were invited to a breakfast and news conference at the Veterans Memorial Building in downtown Detroit Friday.

Hanoi in Middle Of Red Struggle

By WILLIAM L. BYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A carefully noted North Vietnamese report to Moscow this week hints that Hanoi is uncomfortably in the middle of a Soviet-Chinese struggle for influence.

The development could mean relatively little—let it alone mean a good deal. It, as some American analysts in thinking the Soviet political leadership is actively interested in creating a climate for negotiations in Vietnam, it could indicate that Hanoi plays an important role in the

In connection with the celebration of the Bolshevik Revolution's 50th anniversary, the Soviet Union's highest honor, the Order of Lenin, on Ho Chi Minh.

The decree said the award was in recognition, among other things, of President Ho's contribution to the unity and solidarity of the socialist camp and the international communist movement.

The Russians said the award "manifests our conviction that the parties and the people of our two countries will continue consolidating and developing our cooperation in the struggle against imperialism, as well as in peaceful creative labor."

The decree itself described Ho as a "staunch fighter for socialism and Soviet-Vietnamese friendship."

If Ho accepted the award on those terms, it could be considered tantamount to an endorsement of Soviet leadership in international communism and of the Soviet position that unity of the world Communist camp is, in these days, a matter requiring urgent attention.

Hanoi quickly announced that Ho sent a reply to the Soviet party's central committee, full of his "boundless emotion" on learning of the decree, but adding that in the circumstances of the Vietnam war "my mind would not be at all circled around it."

"For this reason," said the message, "I cannot accept the award with all my heart, my mind and my soul."

The Russians said the award "manifests our conviction that

INSURANCE MAN PLAYS IT SAFE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

As this appears in print, Willy Keith, one of the best-known insurance executives in the country, is looking about in bed at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, taking his easy. The last time I saw him, in Beverly Hills, he was writing the eyes of the experts in a friendly game of bridge.

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

West led the queen of hearts, Keith played low from the dummy, and East signaled with the ace. This was encouraging but denied the ten of hearts since if East held it he would trick at trump.

Copyright 1967 General Features Corp.

JACKSON, Miss.—Harry Goldwater received 96.6 per cent of the votes cast in Holmes County, Mississippi, during the 1964 presidential election, the highest winning margin in any U.S. county.

Since a heart contraction would give Keith a heart attack, West shifted to the queen of diamonds. Keith won with the king and had to play the trump to limit the loss to one trump trick.

There was no problem unless the trump was played in one hand. If East held them all, he could not be limited to one trick. If West held all of the missing trumps, however, the right play would bring in the bacon.

Keith made the right play by leading the jack of spades. West had to take the ace, and East's diamond discard told the story.

West led another diamond, and South won with the ace. When declarer led a spade, West put up the nine, and dummy won with the queen. South got to his hand with the ace of clubs to lead another spade, and West's ten was trapped by dummy's king-queen.

The rest was easy, since after drawing trumps South could discard a heart on the fourth round of clubs.

Daily Question

Farmer opens with 1-N-T (16 to 18 points), and the next play is passed. You hold: Spades: None; Hearts: A-8-3; Diamonds: 10-8-8-5-2; Clubs: 8-4-2.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two diamonds. Your hand should be worth about four tricks at diamonds.

FLAME CUTTING

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft has developed a flame cutting technique for rough contouring heavy aluminum bar stock which reduces machining time from hours to minutes.

The new oxyacetylene technique is being employed on development parts for the company's T700 engine—the powerplant for the four-engine, 400-passenger Boeing 747 jetliner.

Edward H. Granville, chief of PWA's experimental construction department, said the cutting process has been in use for the past six months in the rough machining of a variety of development engine parts.

In one experimental run, PWA made a cut of 8 1/2 inches for a compressor section using the flame cutting process and reduced the time required for completion of the set by 34 per cent.

In another application, flame cutting is being used to make circumferential cuts five inches thick on titanium rings 16 inches in diameter. The oxyacetylene torch cuts the rings in about 15 minutes, including the contouring of a large boss. Removal of the same stock by conventional means would require about 90 hours.

trump again," one aide predicted.

Because of his new freedom of movement, Johnson seemed to many observers to be much more relaxed and, in fact, to be bringing into the nation's living rooms the Johnson who, in the past, had been seen only by a few in private conversations.

In one sense, the whole country got a new view of the "Johnson treatment."

"Many thought it likely that Johnson, in the 11-plus months remaining before the 1968 election, will be much more willing to let television-radio news conferences. Until Friday, he had held only three such all year."

Friday's conference produced almost nothing in the way of "hard news." But it did afford Johnson a very valuable opportunity to plead his case before the people, with Washington reporters acting as spear carriers.

Right after the conference, some White House aides said it was press secretary George Christian who persuaded the President to try out the new format.

A few hours later, after the President became convinced he had done the right thing, aides were saying the idea originated with Johnson himself.

WARD MUSIC MOVES

The Ward Music Co. recently moved to 80 Main St. from 64 Hartford Rd. The music store had to move to make way for relocation of St. E.

The Ward Music Co., owned by Ward Krause, a 31-year-old graduate of Manchester High School, Hartford, Conn., has been named chairman of the education committee of the Connecticut Association of Independent Insurance Agents in Cheshire.

Armed with a CPCU, of Hartford, Conn., and a degree in education from the University of Connecticut, Krause is planning to attend art college in the fall of 1968.

Dr. James T. Eaton, vice president for production for the company, said that the Manchester plant will supplement other Philadelphia plants and mean improved delivery and service in certain product areas.

NEW SERVICE

Touch-tone telephone service, the new method of push button calling, will be available starting Monday to Manchester residents whose phone numbers begin with 643, 646, or 647 and 649.

Lyman B. Hoops, local manager for the Southern New England Telephone Co. said, "Dad newly installed switching equipment at the telephone company's building at 22 E. Center St. permits the use of push-button phones."

On Touch-Tone telephones, the traditional dial is replaced by three rows of three buttons each plus an "Operator" button centered under the bottom row. As the caller tones are generated, directing calls electronically through the switching system to their destination.

According to Hoops, the chief advantages of Touch-Tone calling are that it is faster than dialing and there is less chance of reaching wrong numbers.

Personal Notices

In Memoriam In loving memory of my husband, Joseph Simon, who passed away Nov. 15, 1966. The flowers I lay upon his grave, May wither and decay, But my love for him who sleeps beneath, Will never fade away. Sadly missed by his wife and family.

Full House At 'Barefoot'

By EVE ANDERSON "Barefoot in the Park" opened with obvious success last night at the Whiton Auditorium. This sassy comedy, presented by the Manchester Community Players, was instantly acclaimed by the perpetual responses of laughter and applause from a packed house. From the opening scene, Neil Simon's play quickly moves through a variety of domestic problems that, despite their being familiar, never fail to evoke a roar of laughter on cue.

Although there are frequent allusions to the Bohemians downstairs and other never-to-be-seen persons and places, the whole affair takes place in a walk-up — six flights if you count the front stoop — cold-water flat on New York's East Forty-eighth Street. To Corie Bratter it is the ideal place to begin her sixth day of marriage. That is until the frivolous Corie has Mom and a too conservative husband to contend with. The simple plot is presented with surprising freshness, and is permitted to evolve by the effective performances of the entire cast. Similarly, the evolution of the set — an unfurnished apartment when the play begins, becoming quite cluttered and well traveled by the time it ends — accents the characters' moderation of behavior: Corie and Victor Velasco lessen their eccentricities, while Paul Bratter and Mrs. Banks (Corie's mother) become less conservative.

This excellent comedy may — in its stereotypical sort of way — seem the recall of your second week of marriage. Corie (Diana Taylor) is so ecstatic over her new role of housewife that the deficiencies in the apartment are of no major concern. But the later-to-be-discovered hole in the skylight, the lack of steam in the radiator, and the mysterious absence of necessities provoke the other characters to respond with witticisms that expectantly by-pass the preoccupied Corie.

The arrival of the telephone man (Howard Becker) and the aged, certain to collapse, delivery man (Ernest Brown) provide media for subtle humor that seems to be naturally intentional. Then Paul Bratter, Corie's husband (Matt Dellomo), arrives to complicate Corie's plans for a blissful first evening at home. A budding lawyer, Paul has a sense of responsibility that is not compatible with Corie's intent on playing her nuptial role; the ensuing confrontations provoke an hilarious strain on the marital knot.

Every marriage has these aggravations, and their comic reincarnation is successfully achieved with the Bratters' disruption of post-honeymoon bliss. And then there is Mom. Mrs. Banks (Mary Bonham) has her problems of adjustment now that she must live alone in New Jersey. On a diet of pink pills and self-pity, she responds with typical motherly concern at the degenerate condition of her son. Victor can't pay the rent. With no inhibitions about his peevish state, Victor is host for a night on the town.

Despite his good intentions, the domestic scene is again made tipsy when Mom, after a bizarre night of Knight and Uau at an Albanian restaurant on Staten Island, returns to Corie's apartment wearing Victor's bathrobe and slippers. Although all happily ends, what that ending is remains doubtful; there persists the belief that the pandemonium has to begin again.

The success of last night's performance transcends the quality of Simon's creation. Diana Taylor, that comely leading lady in her first appearance, portrayed Corie with a freshness and vivacity that makes the antics in "Barefoot" seem real and familiar. Her lack of previous on-stage experience was never evident from the soliloquies to the marital spats.

Matt Dellomo's theatrical experience was evident in his portrayal of what could be the difficult role of conservative Paul Bratter. His adaptation added that necessary credence to the role and to the interrelated activities in the play.

Mary Bonham delighted the patrons with a virtuoso portrayal of a Mom provoking constant laughter when on stage, and applause when she exited. The role could have emerged too incredible to be true, but Mary Bonham went from line to line with a hilariously natural fulfillment of Mom. When she completes the six-flight ascent, for example, you know that the front stoop "climbs like a flight."

If Rick Gentileore had not developed the Hungarian accent, Victor would never have survived the first act. But Victor was still going strong, despite his ulcer, when he exited in the final act. An excellent performance by Howard Becker as the telephone man, and Ernest Brown as the delivery man earlier confirmed the arduousness of ascending to the top floor of the New York brownstone. Howard Becker made his presence a humorous preface to the mirth that followed, and Ernest Brown who never spoke, evoked constant responses from the audience during his brief appearance.

The humor is subtle, the activity is vociferous, and the characters have a habit of listening to what the others are saying. And the complications provoked by Victor shouldn't happen to a Hungarian gourmet. This humor may be familiar, but in "Barefoot" it seems to slip from the characters' mouths before they realize it. Nevertheless, the audience does, and reacts accordingly with laughter that often obscures a subsequent witticism. The presentation was a coup de theatre, and is a profitable expenditure of your entertainment dollar.

"Barefoot in the Park" will be presented again tonight at 8:30 at the Whiton Auditorium, 85 N. Main St. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Community Players, or at the door.

Chrysler Pact OK'd By Skilled

while negotiating first with Ford Motor Co., second largest automaker, and then with Chrysler. Many dissident leaders of the skilled tradesmen demanded wage hikes of up to $1 an hour, saying they were needed to keep pace with similar workers outside the auto industry. The skilled tradesmen include millwrights, electricians, plumbers, tool and die makers and the like.

The Chrysler settlement, similar to that at Ford, gave them pay hikes of 50 cents hourly for the first year, with 3 per cent increases in each of the next two years. Production workers won pay increases of 20 cents hourly for the first year, plus 3 per cent boosts in each of the next two years. Under the old contracts, the average industry worker was paid $3.61 an hour in straight-time wages.

The UAW struck Ford for 50 days to win its contract for 180,000 workers there. The Chrysler agreement narrowly averted a companywide strike, although local disputes shut some plants for awhile.

Turkish Planes Are Cited in Cyprus Violation

Cypriot newspaper Agon said Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios has demanded again that his government — not the high command in Greece — should control Cypriot armed forces. The newspaper said Makarios was angered by an order directly from Athens for the Cypriot national guard to withdraw from the two villages it had overrun.

Question of Road Foreman Again Entangles Selectmen

The question of a permanent road foreman was raised again at this week's Board of Selectmen's meeting, the first time since the meeting following town elections last month.

Michael Pesce, newly-elected Democratic first selectman, was appointed temporary road foreman at that time, with the two republican selectmen, Richard Nicola and William Sleeper, voting for application to the State Personnel Department for a competitive examination for the post.

At Thursday night's selectmen's meeting, Sleeper read a letter from the state indicating that, since no vacancy for the post "apparently" exists, no exam is indicated. Sleeper questioned why the state would "be under this impression" and asked Pesce about it.

Pesce replied that he wrote a letter to the state saying that the Republican move to hire an outside foreman was "politically rather than in the best interests of the town." He told Sleeper that while the decision to go for an exam was a majority vote it was "by no means unanimous." He said he still feels "it isn't right" and that he had the right to express this opinion.

The rather unique make-up of the board contributes to the complications in the case, with Democrat Pesce having run on a platform that included a promise to serve as his own road foreman. The two Republicans, who control the board, advocated the competitive exam and hiring an outside foreman.

No action on the road foreman question was decided upon Thursday night, since Selectman Nicola was absent from the meeting. Sleeper asked that the item be the first order of business at the next meeting.

Town Meeting Set Selectmen announced that a town meeting has been scheduled for Nov. 28, to cover two items. The townspeople will be asked to approve an appropriate of $35,000 for road work in Eastview Acres, the development in which the developer had been called in default on his performance of road work. Sleeper pointed out that this action will be "just a formality," since the bonding company has already issued a check for $35,000 for the roads. The town meeting action will simply allow the funds to be put into a special account earmarked for this work.

The other item on the agenda was for approval of a $3,350 appropriation for a police cruiser, as recommended by the Board of Finance.

Some citizens attended the meeting Thursday night to ask that the selectmen consider increasing this amount so that it would include enough money to buy a second-hand cruiser plus the hiring of a full-time man for the police department.

Pesce pointed out that the call for the town meeting has already been made, and that the $3,350 figure cannot be increased now. He suggested that those interested appear before the Board of Finance to request additional funds for the police department.

With the recent town elections, two vacancies on the dump study committee have occurred, since Richard Gallant and Donald Smith no longer serve on the boards they represented as members of the study group. Michael Pesce was appointed to fill the vacancy created by Gallant, and Robert Gantner will replace Smith.

Pesce and Gantner represent the selectmen and the Planning and Zoning Commission respectively. Other members of this study group are Charles Bradley, recreation committee; Hugo Thomas, conservation commission and Nelson Bearce, board of finance.

The selectmen appointed Ramon Menzel of Mark Dr. as an alternate to the zoning board of Appeals. Menzel is a Republican replacing former alternate Mrs. Doris Delano, who was elected a regular member of the ZBA in October.

Search Spreads Nationwide For Wapping Bank Suspects

A search for a Manchester couple accused of holding up a Wapping bank Thursday has spread nationwide. The FBI yesterday issued warrants for the arrest of Frederick J. Girouard, 24, whose last known address was 118 Main St., and Mary B. Menard, 20, of 143 Chestnut St.

Circuit court warrants had already been issued, charging the couple with armed robbery, with violence. State police say a man in work clothes entered the Wapping branch of the South Windsor Bank and Trust Co. at gunpoint forced a teller to hand over $758. State police said at first announced that about $1,117 was taken.

He fled in a car driven by a young woman. Police charge the woman is Miss Menard, who has worked for the telephone company in the area and is formerly of Northampton, Mass. Police say they know little about her.

The police would not say what led them to seek warrants for the couple and add that a hidden camera at the bank was not the key. Police will not say what the film reveals. Police say Girouard is about six feet tall with dark hair and weighs about 170 pounds. Miss Menard is described as attractive, of medium height and brown hair.

Girouard had served 21 months in prison and was released in July. He was sentenced in October 1965 to a one to three year sentence after a number of breaks in the area.

Perhaps the most encouraging feature of the financial week was a new firmness in the bond market. The previous weakness in bonds has brought about a corresponding increase in their rate of yields, making stock yields look small in comparison. As in 1966, the interest rate situation has been the worst enemy of stock prices.

"This autumn's vocabulary of alarm is identified with last autumn's: earnings, bond yields, credit crunch, bear market signal—all words and phrases associated with selling in 1966 and again in 1967," said Trend & Value, an investment advisory letter.

This parallel has been apparent right along. The question remained as to when interest rates would start falling, easing the pressure on investment grade stocks.

The week's trading began with two straight losses. On Wednesday came a substantial recovery. A weakening market on Thursday was sparked to a solid gain by a strong technical rally late in the day. The momentum of that rally carried through into the Friday session.

the war. He said Johnson engaged in overimposition which "create dissent rather than ally it."

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., a supporter of Johnson's policies, and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who has been critical of them, agreed with the President's appraisal that steady progress is being made in the war.

But McGovern said there has been no comparable progress in "the political problems of trying to build a (South Vietnamese) government that can win public confidence."

The President's renewed appeal for a 10 per cent surtax to combat inflation got quick support from House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

But Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, was silent about Johnson's assertion that Mills and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford "will live to rue the day" they did not support a tax boost.

Parishioners to Recreate Old New England Worship

Thanksgiving Sunday will be observed tomorrow at 9:15 and 11 a.m. at Center Congregational Church with family services patterned after traditional New England Worship Service as practiced by our Pilgrim forefathers, according to the Rev. Kenneth R. Steere, associate pastor. The services are open to the public.

The congregation will gather outside in front of the church, and a drummer, complete in Pilgrim costume, will "drum them" into the sanctuary through the front doors of the edifice. The doors have been in disuse as means of entry to the sanctuary for many years.

The usual entrance to the sanctuary is gained through doors at both sides of the building which are adjacent to parking areas.

The Rev. Mr. Steere will march down the aisle of the church also to the beat of drums, and "tithing men" will be armed with tithing rods "to keep drowsy parishioners alert." The rods are poles with a hard knob at one end and a squirrel's tail at the other.

Hymns, some of them in early English print, will be sung which were sung in pre-Revolutionary War days, and the customs of those times will be observed, and explained to the congregation during the services.

The paucity of the service, the Rev. Mr. Steere said, will "add a colorful note to our concept of Thanksgiving, and the spirit of the service should give us a new insight into the meaning of the day of thanks."

The responses, the meaning and the manner of the early services are very similar to the modern service, the Rev. Mr. Steere said, adding that although Congregational worship seems bare of symbols, even the bareness is a symbol of sorts. This replica of an early service is much more of the spoken word of the mind and is direct and to the point. Conventional worshippers may be surprised at the manner of hymn singing. They will recognize some portions of the Order of Worship, and they will participate in a service which suggestively puts them back 250 years.

the path" in their identifications of the defendants by postal inspectors who through "stupidity or intent" narrowed down the field of suspects during the investigation.

In brief closing statements, Bailey and Balirro said the strength of the government's case against their clients "warrants brief arguments." Bailey said prosecution of the case was a "shambles" with "wild and reckless" indictments against the defendants.

A third defendant, Thomas R. Richards, 41, of Weymouth, was scheduled to stand trial with Kelley and Mrs. Diaterio. He vanished about two weeks after leaving home to go to his job as an electrician.

A federal warrant was issued for his arrest when he failed to show up for trial.

Case Before Supreme Court Started with $1 Fine Here

The U.S. Supreme Court has been asked to review a case on the legality of routine spot checks of automobiles which originated in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, earlier this year.

The ruling was made here that police were within their right in stopping a University of Connecticut professor in Stafford and that his constitutional rights were not violated when they did stop him.

The professor, Joseph Smolen of Storrs, who is now represented by the American Civil Liberties Union, claims his rights under the fourth, fifth and fourteenth amendments were violated when he was stopped at the roadblock on Dec. 17, 1966. State police asked him to produce his license and registration, but he did not have his registration with him. When police asked him to move his car from the road where they had stopped him, he refused to do so.

In Circuit Court 12, Manchester, on Jan. 28, Judge John Daly heard the case. Fined Smolen $15 on a charge of failure to obey a police officer and $1 for failure to carry his registration.

Judge Daly imposed the $1 fine after learning that Smolen was going to appeal. He said he had considered suspending the imposition of sentence but that this would have blocked any attempt at appeal.

Atty. Karl Fleischman of Hartford, who represented Smolen, said that police, in asking a person to produce license and registration are, in effect, asking him to incriminate himself.

Atty. Fleischman told the court that this was unconstitutional. He also said that the whole concept of stopping cars on a routine check was an invasion of a person's "zone of privacy" and that police had no right to stop a car where they had no reason to believe the person had actually broken a law.

Girls Who Work When They Want

By JOAN CROSBY
NEW YORK (NEA)—The sunny face and glowing vocal chords of Dinah Shore need no introduction.

Soon the perky face and purring vocal chords of Lana Cantrell will need no introduction.

Besides vocal chords, Dinah and Lana, a fast-rising Australian singer, have something in common. They don't want to work all the time.

For Dinah, it's understandable. She has reached the stage in her life and her career when she can pick the spots where she wants to work. She has picked the Thanksgiving Eve telecast of The Kraft Music Hall, called "The Nashville Sound," to be seen on NBC Wednesday night.

"Life for me is free and un-scheduled," Dinah said. "And that's a real switch. All my life, from the time I was six and in school I have been on a schedule of 39 and 13. I spent 39 weeks in school and got 13 off. Then I went into radio, followed by TV and it was the same schedule. So a year and a half ago I said I wasn't going to do that any more. I think most of us are afraid that if we don't grab an offer when it's made, we won't get asked again. Maybe that will happen. But meanwhile, if someone says to me, 'Hey, do you want to go to Yugoslavia?' and I want to go, I'm free to do it."

Dinah did go to Yugoslavia, and she was talked into doing a television show there. It was supposed to be a 30-minute show, "but they have enough for an hour and a half."

Dinah's good nature allows her to be talked into things. After she "quit," she worked as much as she had when she had a weekly television show.

"I had promised Danny Kaye to be on his show. Then Ed Sullivan called and reminded me that I had said if I ever did a CBS show, it would be his. So I did both of them. Then Bob Hope reminded me I owed him a show, then Henry Jaffe called and said, 'I didn't know you were doing guest spots. How about the Bell Telephone Hour?' So I did that."

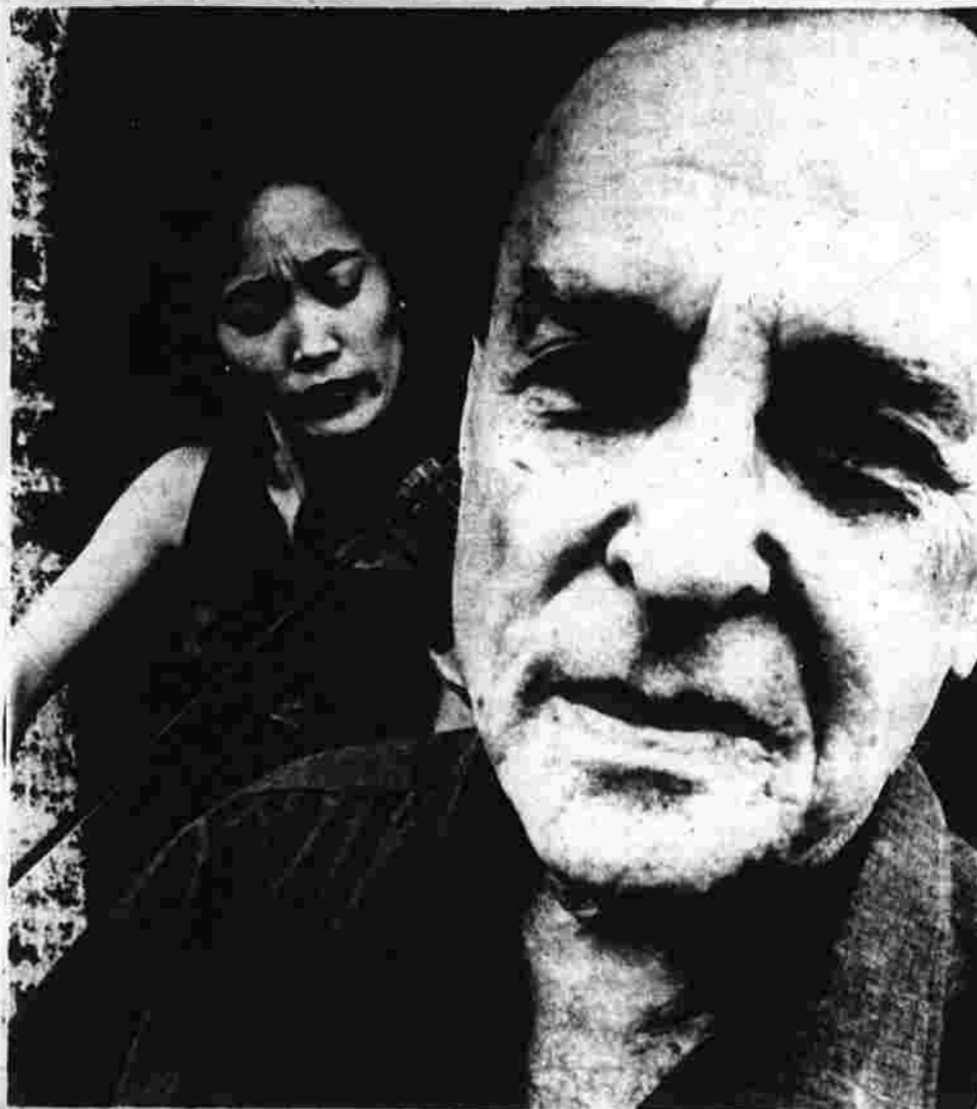

In Lana Cantrell's case, her career is at the stage where she has moved from supporting act in supper clubs to headliner. She has just made her second appearance of the season on "The Ed Sullivan Show," and she has at least two more dates lined up with him.

Her second record album, Another Shade of Lana, has just been released by RCA Victor. But she says, "My agent thinks I'm the weirdest person in the world. I tell him not to get me any more bookings because I want to rest."

It's going to be difficult for 23-year-old Lana to get much rest in the next several years, as she continues her climb to the top. A well-known singer in Australia, she came to the United States in 1965, and went to work on the Playboy Club cir-

Music—light and serious: At right, violinist and teacher Joseph Fuchs will show the fine points of preparing pupils, on NBC's "Bell Telephone Hour" Friday 10-11 p.m. Below, Kate Smith offers a medley of songs, on NBC's "The Dean Martin Show" Thursday 10-11 p.m.

After Replacing Richard Burton...

NEW YORK—Robert Burr, who has "replaced" more actors than he can remember, creates a major role in "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing," the new daytime series seen Mondays through Fridays from 2 to 2:30 p.m. on CBS. He portrays Tom Donnelly, a widowed police lieutenant with an eight-year-old son.

"Of course, I have created a lot of parts," Burr says, "but I have always seemed to make more news when I went on for somebody else."

Burr made the most news in 1964 when he replaced two actors in the space of a single week in the title role in "Hamlet." He went on for Richard Burton in the Broadway production of "Hamlet" one Wednesday at both the matinee and evening performances. The following Wednesday, he replaced Alfred Ryder, who had come down with laryngitis, in the New York Shakespeare Festival's production of the same tragedy, in Central Park.

"Last night, after three hours of rehearsal," The New York Times critic wrote the morning after Burr took over Ryder's role, "Robert Burr went on, and all is well again in Central Park. Mr. Burr, who is Richard Burton's standby in the Broadway production, is a pleasure to behold and to hear. Sturdy of build, not unlike Mr. Burton, and like that star full of vigor and virility, Mr. Burr charged the performance with a vitality and excitement that should long be remembered by those who saw him."

On two previous occasions, Burr replaced George C. Scott in the Broadway plays "The Wall" and "The Andersonville Trial." A season after his feat in the two "Hamlets," he assumed Christopher Plummer's role as Pizarro in "Royal Hunt of the Sun," and played the part in Los Angeles.

"Oh, I suppose a big fuss was only natural when I took over

In Tahiti

Paul Gauguin may have painted a view of paradise while in Tahiti but his life there was something less than paradise.

To armchair Tahiti-lovers, this was the depressing bit of news that arrived in a book last year. The book, "Gauguin in the South Seas," has been turned into a documentary that CBS will televise Tuesday night, but the premise is the same: Gauguin created on canvas what he failed to find in life.

The program, "Gauguin in Tahiti: The Search for Paradise," was filmed in France and Tahiti and will be shown from 10 to 11 p.m.

cut. It was not overly rewarding, but good training. "It's not an attentive audience. By the end of six months, it can become horrendous. You think you must really be bad because you can't do anything with them."

It's the only audience Lana has not been able to handle. A strong-willed girl who knows what's best for her, she went against all advice and rules of the game when she was preparing a night club act by opening with a soft song. "If you're quiet, you really get their attention," she grins.

She's completely non-show business in her attitudes. "In show business, everyone is so show business I can't stand it," she says, and her friends are mostly from other professions. They keep her feet on the ground and her outlook healthy.

"They call me Stella Superstar if I start to get uppity. They only have to say that once."

NBC Will Drop 'U.N.C.L.E.' Show

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC will drop "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." now in its fourth season, after the Jan. 22 show. The replacement will be a variety series starring the comedy team of Rowan and Martin. The canceled show's ratings have been very low this season and its departure was expected.

NBC also confirmed officially that "Maya" will be replaced by "The Saint," in early March. The British action series did well as a summer replacement. "Accidental Family," the first series to go on Jan. 12 will be replaced by an evening edition of the morning game show, "Hollywood Squares."
