Ike Seen Backing Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is quoted as having given qualified endorsement to a tax increase.
House Republicans who attended an off-the-record luncheon Tuesday at which Eisenhower was guest, said the former president told them he did not see how a tax boost could be avoided.
But, they added, he said an increase must be coupled with substantial reductions in government spending, a position taken last month by the House Ways and Means Committee when it postponed further consideration of the administration's tax hike request.
Eisenhower was in Washington for a physical checkup at Walter Reed Army hospital, and left there shortly before the unannounced luncheon.
The committee has called a meeting next week to take another look at the fiscal situation and hear administration spokesmen outline how and where they proposed to cut spending.
The meeting tentatively scheduled for Tuesday but likely to be postponed until Wednesday, will be open to the public.
The administration hopes, by a combination of higher taxes and reduced spending, to cut this year's prospective $23 billion deficit in half.
The deficit would be shrunk to roughly $11 billion—still one of the biggest splashes of red ink in U.S. history—by the fiscal package plan to be presented to the House Ways and Means Committee next Tuesday.
Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said Tuesday he and Budget Director Charles L. Schultz hope to convince the tax-writing committee "it is doubly important" in view of the international financial repercussions following Saturday's devaluation of the British pound, to "protect the dollar now, because the dollar is in the rough lines."
The tax hike is needed, Fowler said, "to reduce substantially the existing deficit, minimize the risks of inflation, avoid escalating interest rates, avoid a credit crunch and reduce our deficit financing to manageable proportions."
Fowler told a news conference the budget target is still the one set by President Johnson in his Aug. 8 tax message—to reduce the red ink to a range of $14 billion to $18 billion.
To approach the lower figure, it became clear, it would be necessary for Congress to make the 30 per cent surcharge on individual income and corporation taxes effective Oct. 1.
The retroactive date will be in the plan delivered to the closed Ways and Means Committee hearing, Fowler said. He acknowledged that retroactivity would involve "administrative problems and difficulties."
Actually, a retroactive personal income tax boost is most unlikely. Congress consistently has rejected such proposals but in some instances has enacted retroactive corporate tax hikes.
It seemed likely, however, that the administration hopes for an Oct. 1 effective date for business firms and Jan. 1 for individuals.
The White House has described its fiscal package—whose details still are under wraps—as providing expenditure cuts to match the anticipated $7 billion tax receipts dollar for dollar.
However, the cuts to be bagged over in the Nov. 28 meeting will add up to $4 billion. About

Fresh Troops Take Up Fight

SAIGON (AP)—The Dak To 246 Americans killed and 860 taken a bitter fighting ridge line, said the battle, costliest to date for U.S. forces in Vietnam, went through Riflemen, artillery and planes giving.

Dak To Battle Enters 20th Day

The tenacity of the North Vietnamese, who shot from log covered bunkers, suggested they were under orders to hold to the last man.
The U.S. Command listed 1,200 hand grenades killed in the Dak To sector since the outbreak of the battle Nov. 3.
The bloodiest previous encounter between American and North Vietnamese troops was in the Ia Drang Valley, like Dak To in the central highlands, Nov. 14-15, 1965. At that time the Americans—units of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division—routed a mixed North Vietnamese-Viet Cong division at a cost of 217 dead and 222 wounded. Communist dead were recorded as 1,280.
The Ia Drang Valley showdown followed a battle near Plei Me in which 154 Americans and 109 South Vietnamese and 458 of the enemy were killed. American wounded there totaled 328.
Two U.S. battalions appeared at noon today to be in nearly full control of Hill 875. But there was still a seaway effect in the struggle.
The paratroopers pulled back from part of the hillside to allow American jets to hammer the Communist positions.
Associated Press photographer Al Chang reported helicopters going in to deliver supplies and remove the wounded. However, a few feet off the ground at a hastily cut landing zone, they were shot Monday night as they came under enemy fire.
The Dak To fighting has become the longest sustained battle of the war, but U.S. officers believe the fighting is petering out. The 14th North Vietnamese regiment, in reserve to the northwest of Dak To, was committed to Hill 875 as a diversionary move so North Vietnam's 2nd and 6th regiments could slip away to the Cambodian border on the southwest and sanctuary from pursuing American troops.
"I have to give the enemy his due," said one senior U.S. officer. "Obviously he had outstanding morale and discipline. He stood his ground" on Hill 875.
State police today disclosed that she has been married to Alan Menard of Edward St. She is reported to be separated from him.
A total of 4995 is now said to have been taken in the robbery. Police said a new audit was made at the bank. Police had first announced that $1.17 million and later that $750 was missing.
Police found $100 in a rented car allegedly used in the hold-up. The car was recovered Monday night in a Hartford parking

Wilson Faces Censure Vote, Reports Big Weapons Slash

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson, facing a censure vote in the House of Commons, announced tonight big cuts in new weapons for Britain's armed forces, including cancellation of some phase orders from the United States.
Wilson's drive for economy cuts in the British army's order of equipment of the pound orders of a campaign to top $40 billion of the future of the $2.40 billion and government critics forecast more from a project to build a big staging base in conjunction with the United States on Alabama Island in the Indian Ocean.

Cites Two Big Disappointments

By FRANK COEMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—President Johnson, looking back on four years in the White House, cited two big disappointments: Failure to achieve peace in Vietnam and to improve relations with French President Charles de Gaulle.
Johnson, four years in office today, does not regard these as personal failures, however. He feels, for example, that the Vietnam situation was largely inherited and he simply—as he told a news conference last week—faced the 1968 decision to "put up or shut up." As for De Gaulle, he is mindful that much of the French leader's displeasure with the United States grew out of his unpleasant relations with President Franklin D. Roosevelt during World War II.

that he wants another term and has already launched his campaign, if unofficially.
Looking back, the President finds a great deal to be pleased about: His handling of explosive crises in Panama and the Dominican Republic, establishment of relative stability in the hemisphere, avoidance of a Greek-Turkish war over Cyprus, preservation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization despite obstacles thrown up by De Gaulle and agreements on a number of items with the Soviet Union.
Johnson still feels that his meetings last June with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin at Glassboro, N.J., were very productive. But he believes Kosygin has serious problems, in cutting public expenditure, including capital outlay, in the nationalized industries. These included the number of clude railways, steel, coal and electricity.

Wilson assured the House, however, that there will be no reduction in the building of housing schools and hospitals. This program, he said, will continue to expand in line with priorities already laid down. He also guaranteed no cuts in factory development in high unemployment regions in an effort to induce industry to move to them.
Wilson was denouncing his own austerity campaign in Parliament today.

Social Security Voted Big Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed today a massive Social Security bill carrying 15 to 59 per cent increases for present beneficiaries and larger boosts for persons retiring in the future.
The roll call vote was 78 to 6.
The dissenters were Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah; Carl F. Curtis, R-Nebr.; Spessard L. Holland, D-Ia.; John Stennis, D-Miss.; Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.; and John J. Williams, R-Dele.
The measure, which would make the biggest cost benefit and payroll tax increases in the 39-year-old history of the Social Security system, was sent to conference with the House.
The conference is expected to be a tough one, with major differences to be resolved over the cash benefit and tax provisions and over new restrictions on public welfare programs.
Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., called the final Senate procedure a landmark bill in the history of Social Security.
One of its most important results, he said, will be to move out of poverty more than two million elderly people. This would be accomplished chiefly through a new $70 a month minimum payment coupled with higher checks for all persons now getting slightly more than the present $44 minimum.
The benefit and tax levels in the Senate bill are largely those recommended by the administration.
Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee related those in the seven months he has been before his panel earlier this year. He is expected at least to insist on a compromise in the conference.
Williams, senior Republican on the Finance Committee, which handled the bill, announced in advance he would vote against it.
"This bill goes far beyond what I think the country can afford," he declared. "It would make staggering increases in the wage taxes on young families."
Bennett took the same view. "I was shocked," he said, "to see the Senate vote for more than $1 billion of additional benefits on the floor without adequate consideration of an unfunded when we are having so many troubles with our economy."
The Senate's action was considerably. This also is expected to be a sticky point in the conference.
The Senate stayed in session 15 hours Tuesday, its longest meeting of the year, to complete work on all amendments to the bill carrying 15 to 59 per cent increases for present beneficiaries and larger boosts for persons retiring in the future.
Long said the extra cost of the Bayh amendment would be $200 million in 1968.
The Senate bill would establish a new range of payments of from $70 to $160 beginning next April for individuals now getting checks compared with the present range of $44 to $142, but the new schedule in the bill would have even more far-reaching effect on those retiring in the future.
For example, a man who benefits 50 in 1968 could receive a maximum payment of $224 a month when he retires at 64-66 per cent more than he would get under the law now.
And the maximum payment possible under the bill for a man who worked most of his life under the new tax rates in the amount a retired person can earn in a year and not lose any Social Security benefits. The limit on the extra cost of the Bayh amendment would be $200 million in 1968.
The Senate bill would raise the taxable base for the payroll tax to $10,800 in 1972, from $10,000 in 1971.

At Chicago Schools Over 60 Charged In Racial Riots

CHICAGO (AP)—More than 60 persons were arrested Tuesday night in racial disturbances at three Chicago high schools, spilled into violence on the city streets.
Twelve persons, including three policemen and a newsman, were injured.
Scores of windows were broken in a disturbance outside Englewood High School on the south side when an estimated 400 persons protested against the transfer of a Negro substitute teacher.
Tuesday night's violence mirrored from an earlier disturbance at Walter High School which later spread to Cooley. The schools are about 10 blocks apart.
Classes at Walter were dismissed in the early afternoon after a fight, started in the lunchroom, expanded into the corridors and the school grounds.
The initial disturbance stemmed from an unfounded rumor that white Walter students had pushed a Negro student onto transit elevated tracks Saturday night.
Michael Williamson, 17, was struck by a train and his left leg severed. Police who questioned Williamson at the hospital said they were unable to get a coherent story because of his condition.
Walter students roamed streets in the area Tuesday afternoon and made their way to Cooley, breaking windows and looting merchandise from display windows of some stores. At Day, they believed the one police said they saw Frederick Girovard of Manchester remained on the danger list today in Boston City Hospital.

Girovard, 24, who is accused of holding up a Wapping bank, was shot Monday night in a gunfight with FBI agents in Boston's South Station.
Girovard's companion, who was in jail today after her arrest yesterday before a U.S. Commissioner in Boston, also wanted in the hold-up, was taken into custody at South Station. She is accused of driving the getaway car.
State police today disclosed that she has been married to Alan Menard of Edward St. She is reported to be separated from him.

Book Review

THE PEREGRINE. By J. A. BAKER. Harper, $4.95.

The reading of this book is an unusual experience. Because it happens to be on a specialized subject, it presumably would appeal only to a limited audience. But it is so powerfully written that it has a sharp impact on anyone with even the slightest interest in nature.

If you don't know about this bird of prey, it doesn't matter. A brief section in the front of the book tells what they are like.

The author lives in the English county of Essex. Ten years ago he became fascinated, or "possessed," as he calls it, with this bird, and spent all his winters observing them. The main part of the book is an October-1964 diary of his adventures.

Tough Baker's focus was on the peregrine, his observations include scores upon scores of other varieties. Without formal training in ornithology, he nevertheless has the makings of an amazing familiarity with the whole subject.

His major goal was to establish a rapport with these fierce creatures, and he achieved it. He was more than a casual watcher. He finally came to "identify" with the peregrine. It is a killer, and that he felt the hungry rage of the hunter and the paralyzed fear of the hunted.

The publisher reports that this is the first book Baker has written. But this untrained writer has the articulate mastery of an experienced and gifted professional. His descriptive powers, his creation of vivid scenes, his sensitivity to every nuance of wild flight, remain in vivid and stirring memory.

Murray was a photographer who worked for the city's fashionable magazines of his day, and his assignments took him wherever actors and actresses, from plays, musical comedies and the movies, are the biggest group to be found here, along with opera singers, composers (both serious and popular) — and the Twenties were rich in popular songs), and famous instrumentalists.

From the literary field there are novelists, humorists, editors and cartoonists. There is a sprinkling of famous sports figures, painters, sculptors and even Presidents and first ladies.

This is a pictorial presentation of the headlines of a remarkable era, and it makes a good companion volume for several of the books about the Twenties that have been published recently — particularly Corey Ford's "The Time of Laughter."

The portraits are presented in the alphabetical order of their subjects' names, and this makes for some unusual check-by-jowl juxtapositions, but with a shrewd coherence that may astonish readers of "Understanding Media."

Several conclusions emerge from this symposium: That in the spokesperson of McLuhan's prose lurk many insights as well as indigestible perversities; that McLuhan's deft for the technological environment is usually subtle and sometimes unobtrusive, and that he has a grand habit of brushing past facts as though they were somebody else's tawdry stage setting.

McLuhan on detail, on his history and anthropology. You can slash your way through his fields of corn, as Dwight McDougal and Christopher Riches do in this book with pardonable relief. You can dominate the balance of his arguments.

But still some bright intuitions march on. You can't dismiss them, nor can you dismiss the sweep of McLuhan's thought.

Meat Inspection Extended If Congress Accepts Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal inspection of meat consumed by Americans will be considerably extended if Congress accepts a bill unanimously endorsed by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The measure approved Tuesday by the committee gives states two years to meet federal standards for inspection of the 18 per cent of the nation's meat supply which, because it isn't sold in interstate commerce, now doesn't come under federal inspection.

Simple Service Marks Due to Kennedy Death

By TOM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Churchmen of three faiths hold a simple, one-hour observance today at Dealey Plaza, where President John F. Kennedy was shot.

A city park spokesman said he anticipated that more than the usual number of floral wreaths would be placed at the site by anonymous persons today.

Now, with the passage of time, fewer flowers are to be seen. Tuesday there were only

Small Hogs Prized

ST. PAUL, Minn. — U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers are developing a strain of white hog one-third the size of normal porkers.

Hogs get many of the same diseases as humans, have the same food requirements and circulate blood the same way. Thus they are ideal research animals, but smaller hogs are easier to handle and need smaller drug doses.

Trend to Cities Keeps Increasing

NEW YORK — Primers say present statistical trends indicate that by 2007 — 40 years from now — there will be 80 million cities in the United States, almost no farm population, a workweek of near zero, a gross national product of $9 trillion and as many women as men in the work force.

The planning experts note, however, that all these predictions are straight statistical projections of trends of the past decades, and that other factors probably will modify them.

Monkeys Harbor Fever

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad — Researchers in the Regional Virus Laboratory here have discovered that yellow fever is fundamentally a disease of forest monkeys in tropical regions.

The mosquito that infects humans with the virus usually carries it from a sick monkey

GOP Morton Predicts LBJ Will Be Difficult to Beat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Thurston B. Morton predicts that President Lyndon B. Johnson will be difficult to beat in 1968 despite possible challenges for the Democratic nomination and his current low ranking in the polls.

Morton, former GOP national chairman, said some Republicans appear overly optimistic about unseating Johnson if he seeks re-election next year as the Democratic nominee and by ticket in the general election.

President's Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee says it will restore its limitation on presidential power, the people of this country will be threatened with tyranny or disaster. The committee's comment was in a report on a resolution designed to limit a presidential power to commit the armed services to combat without congressional approval. The committee unanimously approved the resolution last week. The report, released Tuesday, said the last four presidents—Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson—have asserted unrestricted executive authority to commit the armed services without the consent of Congress. Eisenhower, the report said, asserted such authority only "a shade less than the others."

Vernon Arab Refugee Aide Says Outlook Bleak

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — "I get a great deal of satisfaction out of squeezing the full value out of every dollar," Laurence Michelmore said in a rare interview. Michelmore, born in Philadelphia, shares the fears, and limited hopes of hundreds of thousands of Arab refugees scattered through half a hundred camps and dozens of cities and towns in four Middle Eastern countries.

As high commissioner of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine, Michelmore and his staff of 15,000 are responsible for nearly 1,400,000 refugees. UNRWA has been working for more than a million refugees for 19 years. The outlook is still very bleak. "It offers little hope for more. Except for our limited ability to offer education, UNRWA is conducting only a holding operation," Michelmore said. The monthly ration of four, rice, sugar, lentils, oil and fat distributed to about 800,000 men, women and children—a cost of four cents a day per person—provides 1,800 calories a day. "This is not adequate to sustain life," he says. Michelmore said efforts are made to provide extra rations for children, pregnant women and nursing mothers. "But his annual report noted that distribution of powdered milk to 10,000 elementary school children had to be stopped this year because there wasn't enough milk. The report also noted there are 70 million arabs over the age of one year. UNRWA is financed on a year-to-year basis solely by voluntary donations. Turning to the question of shelter, Michelmore said that UNRWA succeeded in eliminating the last tent camp in 1966. Then came the six-day war last June, displacing 300,000 persons, including 150,000 refugees. "We are now in a winter approach, with temperatures considerably below freezing," about 90,000 persons are now in new tent camps. "Life in a tent camp offers no protection against the weather. Life in a tent camp offers no protection against the weather. Life in a tent camp offers no protection against the weather."

A Proclamation. The first American tradition grew out of gratitude for survival. It began—long before independence was a dream—with families responding to an even deeper human impulse.

PILGRIM PRAYER MEETING: Wax Facsimile, Plimoth Plantation, Plymouth, Mass.

The Indomitable Intangible. It seems to us that this would be a poor Thanksgiving to try to be thankful for specific things. That might prove to be a recital of individual situation or problem.

We are in a time when it is the powerlessness of the individual which seems at its negative zenith. Instead of rejecting in our possession of this resultant power, and reflecting that, whatever else befalls or threatens, this we still possess.

From such a mood, we reach boldly for the profound assurance that such power is not distant, but that our own uncertainty about it is no finality, but merely a phase.

We human beings cannot for long act as if we were merely helpless footmen on a long road to a distant goal.

And if there may not be a single tangible fact to be exuberantly grateful for on this particular Thanksgiving, we should still feel purposefully thankful for this indomitable intangible.

Designer Of Habitat. We were pleased to read, in the New York Times the other day, a piece about Moshe Safdie. He is a young Israeli, all of 29 years old, who lives in Montreal and who, six years ago, when he was just getting out of architectural school at McGill University, found himself among the planners for Expo.

Before Habitat could start in Expo, he had to go before the Prime Minister and his Cabinet to argue that the concrete structure would not collapse as soon as it was completed.

Recognizing the trials we have endured and are enduring, I have turned to the Thanksgiving proclamation of President Abraham Lincoln in 1863.

He recommended to his fellow citizens that, "While offering up the sacrifice, let us remember the wrongs of our fellow men who are making their lives on Asian soil."

"Promises To Keep". We don't know if it snowed on December 11, 1620—but we can be sure things were pretty bleak.

They roasted turkeys, baked pumpkin pies—and counted their blessings. It was the first Thanksgiving.

But they had long ago discarded non-violence and social work along with conventional Western clothing. To symbolize their break with the white man's social conventions, all would be dressed in African shirts.

But they can be compared. Let us give thanks on November 23rd—but let us look forward, too. This Thanksgiving, let us renew our faith and the determination of our forefathers and vow to improve the land for all.

Many years later another American poet, Robert Frost, would say it another way. "I have promises to keep—and miles to go before I sleep."

Vernon Refuse District Gives Go-Ahead To Final Study on Incinerator

Members of the North Central Refuse District comprising Vernon and South Windsor gave the go-ahead last night for a final engineering study with the ultimate goal to construct an incinerator to serve the district.

Howard P. Pitts, a former member of the district and now mayor of South Windsor, said, "There is no doubt but that we feel this is necessary for South Windsor and we are ready to go ahead."

It was the consensus of the members that the matter of the incinerator had had preliminary study many times and the go-ahead should be given for the final engineering plans.

Construction Costs Hyland said in the application that the district would have to make an estimate of what the incinerator would cost for construction, not operation.

The engineer said, based on what he had learned of the problem, that the total population of the towns now involved is about 58,000 and with the projected figure for 1970 some 64,000.

Thanksgiving 1967

True thankfulness is a condition of the heart that is not dependent upon outward circumstances. This thought is strikingly illustrated in the expression of the blind Scottish girl of Drumtochty Parish.

We cannot be truly thankful unless we have learned the lesson of contentment. Complaining concerning our lot robs us of the richness of Thanksgiving.

He who thanks but with the lips Thanks but in part; The full, true Thanksgiving Comes from the heart.

Game Guards are employed throughout the country by the government to insure that animals are not shot, which stand on good reason. The natives are not allowed to own firearms or shoot any game. The Game Guards accompany all hunting parties to insure these laws are followed.

Dr. Guinan with prize possession, nine foot, 600-pound lion

A day and one-half flight from New York landed the party in Zambia only minutes away from the game. Zambia Safaris Ltd. has three concessions, Mumbwa, Sichilwa and Zambesi along the Zambesi River. Each has its own characteristics and various types of game found in abundance. A total of four weeks was spent hunting, an equal amount of time in each area.

The fee for the safari, open to the government and half to the company. All the meat required from the animals that are shot goes to the natives of the country. In one season, about 250 tons of meat, are shot from about 30 clients, goes to the natives of the country. For example, Dr. Guinan's elite meat for the national of four weeks was spent hunting, an equal amount of time in each area.

Trophy elephant weighing four to five tons carrying fifty-pound tusk

Dr. Guinan shot 30 to 35 different animals, getting about 20 trophy species. The biggest thrill of the safari was the lion and elephant hunt. Dr. Guinan bagged a four-and-one-half to five-ton elephant with 90 pound tusks. He shot from 25 yards and said, "You don't realize how big these things are until you get close enough to shoot one."

The lion shot by Dr. Guinan weighed about 400 pounds. "Hunting the lion" was the easiest as this is done from a blind and with bait. The bait is set out the night before and they arrive early each morning and await the sunrise from a Land Rover vehicle, the main travel source, parked about 75 to 100 yards from the blind.

Other game animals shot by the local doctor-hunter were reynard, sable, waterbuck, bushbuck, kudu, topi, and crocodile and hippo were also among the prize game. The weapons used were rifles of 270, 338, and 468 the largest being for the big game.

The land is mostly flat with grass three to four feet tall. This grass is burned off during the latter part of the season for better visibility. It is good one way but very dry in another. The time available for the safari is from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. with a stop only for lunch which is either carried on the safari or prepared at camp. Speaking of food, the only type of food that is fresh is the meat, but all other food is canned, and said, "You don't realize how big these things are until you get close enough to shoot one."

Slender Half-Size 8229 Theresa Bonney Fights On

By RODNEY ANGOVE... PARIS (AP) "Short of a miracle happened, she seemed to rise out of the ruins, half woman, half warrior..."

Not long ago she sat pouring over a file of citations... Gertrude Stein, I photographed her many times... Born in Syracuse, N.Y., and a 1916 graduate of the University of California, Miss Bonney came to France in 1918 to take her Ph.D. She planned to be a professor. She would have been a good one, too, except that she was drawn into more exciting things like frequenting the "ecole de Paris" artists, covering wars, going on OSS behind-the-scenes missions, and actually playing a role in postwar rehabilitation.
